TRADE WITH CANADA.

GOLDWIN SMITH BEFORE THE WASHINGTON COMMITTEE

A Despatch From the U.S. Capital States that Nothing is Likely to Be Accomplished Until After the Presidential Election, While a London Dispatch Speaks Differently.

LONDON, Feb. 1.—It is stated here that negotiations for a restricted reciprocity treaty between Canada and the United States are to be resumed in about a fortnight's time.

Newfoundland is urging upon the Colonial Office that it is very necessary that the treaty with the States should pass the United States Senate before March 4, but the Colonial Office still objects to divide the traditional unity of policy regarding the Atlantic fisheries. Some officials here still hope for a way out of the difficulty by a general reciprocity treaty between the United States and all British North America.

High Canadian authorities here, however, do not disguise their belief that the negotiations, if resumed now, are hardly likely to succeed. Meanwhile, such English journals as refer to Canada's trouble with Newfoundland say it is best for both to work together on a cordial basis.

TRADE WITH CANADA.

Views of Goldwin Smith on Commercial Union and Other Matters.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—At the informal conference between Prof. Goldwin Smith, Erastus Wiman and Mr. Springer and other members of the Committee on Ways and Means, enquiry was made of Prof. Smith as to his opinion of the treaty which is entertained in this country by some public men that political union between the United States and the Dominion might ultimately result, if the United States should pursue an aggressive course toward Canada and decline to make favorable commercial relations, withdraw the bonding privileges and the like.

Prof. Goldwin Smith replied that, as a Canadian citizen, he had nothing to say as to the probable effect of such a policy, so far as any political relations with the United States were concerned. But as a practical commercial matter he did suggest that if the United States should attempt such a policy, whatever might be the motives of this Government, the result would most probably be that the people of Canada would turn their eyes in an entirely different direction and that the party which now seeks to establish an imperial zollverein would be greatly strengthened and encouraged. As to the possibility that the United States could ever adopt such a policy as was suggested, with ultimate political union in view, Professor Goldwin Smith had a very decided opinion—that was that the United States would never adopt such a policy. Directly that such plan was contemplated, Professor Smith expressed the belief that the conflicting local interests in the United States would put a veto on it. These conflicting interests would always, in the opinion of Professor Smith, be actively at work in this country to prevent a complete execution of the policy of exclusion which had been suggested. It would not be possible for the United States under any circumstances ever likely to occur to completely carry out a policy of exclusion. For that reason the inquiry as to what the effect would be on a political union between the two countries is an idle and impracticable one.

It is evident to those who have closely studied the situation here that there is no prospect of any legislation or action on the part of the Government with respect to fairer relations in Canada until after the issues of the next Presidential election shall have been determined. Just now each party is afraid of the other. Whenever a proposition which might even remotely affect the domestic tariff is under consideration in the House they fear to bring forward trade relations as was considered by Professor Smith and Erastus Wiman yesterday, because it might be made the text of a general tariff debate, and there are elements at work in the Democratic party which do not desire to have a tariff debate. The politicians on both sides are fully occupied with the various plans which are under consideration relating to the presidential contest, and not until after this great contest shall have been concluded and the people of the United States shall have selected the administration by which they will be governed during the period commencing with March 4, 1893, will it be possible to determine what the attitude of the United States is to be toward the commercial relations with Canada.

The imperial castle of Schlosshof, at Pressburg, the former capital of Hungary, has been destroyed by fire.

It is estimated that the shareholders and depositors in the banks which failed at Zurich and Basle last December have lost 28,000,000 francs.

The Villa Janssen on the French Riviera at St. Raphael will be occupied by the Princess of Wales and Prince George during the month of February.

A despatch from Athens says that H.M.S Victoria is ashore in a dangerous position on the Greek coast. The Victoria is the flagship of the Mediterranean squadron.

Charles Perry, who was stopped in his carter by four masked men near New Grove, Ireland, on the 18th inst., was shot dead through the thigh, is dead. John Davis, a farmer, and Patrick Shinnors, a laborer, have been arrested on suspicion of having been concerned in the outrage.

Discount was firmer in London during the week, though there was no demand. The withdrawal of gold for Russia amounting to £1,000,000, part in sovereigns and part in Imperials, greatly changed the aspect of the money market. On the Stock Exchange during the week business was extremely slack. Prices were irregular. The closing of the speculative accounts of Hume Webster, the suicide, led to some sharp movements in prices.

His Leg Dropped Off.

MANCHESTER, N.H., Jan. 30.—A French-Canadian named Nelson Saulaville sustained an injury to his foot a short time ago, took cold in it and gangrene followed.

The family were unwilling to bear the expense of a physician and the sufferer had no attendance. Yesterday Saulaville's leg dropped off at the knee, having been eaten through the bone by gangrene, and he will doubtless die of blood poisoning.

Gave Him a Gold Watch.

BRANTFORD, Feb. 1.—Capt. Kerr, who has been transferred to London after 22 years in charge of the mechanical department of the G.T.R. here, was presented with a gold watch by the workmen Saturday.

SIX YEAR'S SUFFERING

DEAR SIRS,—I was troubled for six years with erysipelas, and two bottles of Burdock Blood Bitters entirely cured me. I keep B.B.B. constantly in the house and think it an effectual cure for all diseases caused by bad blood.

Dangerous Counterfeits.

Counterfeits are always dangerous, more so that they always closely IMITATE THE ORIGINAL IN APPEARANCE AND NAME. The remarkable success achieved by Nasal Balm as a positive cure for Catarrh and Cold in the head has induced unprincipled parties to imitate it. The public are cautioned not to be deceived by nostrums imitating Nasal Balm in name and appearance, bearing such names as Nasal Cream, Nasal Balsam, etc. Ask for Nasal Balm and do not take any imitation dealers may urge upon you. For sale by all druggists or sent post-paid on receipt of price (50c and $1.) by addressing The Scott & Co. Brockville Ont.

HAGYARD'S YELLOW OIL.

This great internal and external remedy always allays all pain. It is a specific for croup, and promptly cures coughs, cold, sore throat, sprains, bruises, burns, rheumatism, cuts, wounds, etc. Good for man or beast. Stands all test. Sold everywhere. Price 25 cents. Hagyard's Yellow Oil.

It is worse than madness to neglect a cough or cold which is easily subdued if taken in time, but becomes, when neglected, the forerunner of consumption and premature death. Inflammation, when it attacks the delicate tissue of the lungs and bronchial tubes, fills with perilous rapidity; then do not delay, get a bottle of Bickle's Anti Consumptive Syrup, the medicine that grasps the formidable foe from the human body, and drives it from the system. This medicine promotes a free and easy expectoration, subdues the cough, heals the diseased parts, and exerts a most wonderful influence in curing consumption, and other diseases of the throat and lungs. If parents wish to save the lives of their children, and themselves from much anxiety, trouble and expense, let them procure a bottle of Bickle's Anti Consumptive Syrup, and whenever a child has taken cold, by a cough or hoarseness, give the Syrup according to directions

He was manifested to take away our sins.

In his Vegetable Pills, Dr. Parmelee has given to the world the fruits of long scientific research in the whole realm of medical science, combined with new and valuable discoveries never before known to man. For Delicate and Debilitated Constitutions Parmelee's Pills act like a charm. Taken in small doses, the effect is both a tonic and a stimulant, mildly exciting the secretions of the body, giving tone and vigor.

Thomas Robinson, Farnham Centre, P. Q., writes:—"I have been afflicted with Rheumatism for the last ten years, and have tried many remedies without any relief. I got a bottle of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, and found it gave me instant relief, and since then have had no attack. I would not be without it."

No bad man ever makes himself any better by claiming to be a saint.

For Over Fifty Years
MRS WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP has been used for children teething. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, cures wind colic, and is the best remedy for Diarrhœa. Twenty-five cents a bottle. Sold by all druggists throughout the world.

"Captain Boots.

You'd better not call me Captain Boots!
I've grown too big for that.
It is time that I played with girls no more,
Asl I think I'll drop the cat.
Old hen, if you snap your spurs at me,
You will have to stand a fight with three,
A couple of boots and a man, do you see?
Ho! pretty good boots! Ho! high-top boots!
Ho! gentleman's boots for me!

Stand out of the way, I'm going to walk,
I'll treat on somebody else's toes.
Oh, how they do squeak! Hear how they both talk!
I think it's as good as a tune.
They tie themselves without any strings,
They match like a pair of eagle's wings.
New leather! I hope you smell the things!
Ho, pretty good boots! Ho, high-top boots!
Ho, gentleman's boots for me!

I wish it was Sunday, to go to church;
I wish it was Monday, to play;
I wish it was Tuesday, to ride my horse,
I wish it was every day.
I will wear them to bed, for uncle Jim
Might fill them with apples for me to bite,
As once I filled his boots for him,
Ho, pretty boots! Ho, high top boots!
Ho, gentleman's boots for me!

They are temperance boots, for I wore them first
To the Band of Hope last night,
And they squeaked so loud that the chairman said
That he thought they must be tight!
But they're temperance boots, and would just as soon
Think of walking on to the moon
As of walking into a drink saloon!
Ho, pretty good boots! Ho, high-top boots!

The little boy who recited our poem at a Band of Hope entertainment was very proud of his new boots that night I remember, and put so much emphasis on the closing lines of each verse that he was dubbed "Captain Boots" for a long time afterwards. Perhaps no present—at least of things one can wear—pleases a child more than new boots. We can all remember the many ways that the little folks in our homes try to make visitors look at their feet after mamma has been to the shoemaker. I hope the boys and girls who read this corner will all wear temperance boots as long as they live.

Now the New Year 1892 has arrived, and we are making new resolutions about how we shall behave in school and at home. We are laying new plans for work and play. We feel something like a great preacher did once when he said "I cannot bear to go to the new year just as I came out of the old year. I would fain believe each year to be a mother, and that I am born into the new year to begin again, for I do want to bring a better life to the One that loves me best."

(These are not the exact words out of the sermon but they contain the thought of the preacher.) Many a young man determines to shun the wine that he has failed to drink it, and some young lady, with a bright smile, may hand him a glass of wine when he calls to wish her a "Happy New Year." Oh, how we wish he had the brave enough to say "No, I cannot touch wine! I have made a new begtening with the New Year and never mean to taste it again." Boys and girls, be faithful over little things, and when you grow up it will be much easier for you.

UTILIZED A COUGH.

A French Marshal Conveyed an Order Under Its Cover in 1881.

The prevalence of coughs and colds at the present moment reminds me of the fact that it was a cough which was mainly responsible for the immense amount of bloodshed that attended the coup d'état whereby Napoleon III. obtained his throne, writes a correspondent of the New York Recorder.

That unscrupulous but brilliant adventurer, General and afterward Field Marshal de St. Arnaud, had charge of the military operations. But he was unwilling to assume the direct responsibility of ordering the troops to fire upon the people, being not altogether certain of the result of Napoleon's memorable enterprise.

When the moment for action arrived and the mob began to show signs of sweeping aside the troops, the brigadier generals under his orders sent an officer to him at headquarters to ask him what they were to do, whether they were to fire on the populace or give way.

Strangely enough, St. Arnaud was seized at that moment with a violent fit of coughing which lasted for several minutes. Finally when it ceased the general just managed to gasp the words, "Ma sacre toux!" (my cursed cough.)

The officer, having waited until the general had received his breath, repeated the question. Again St. Arnaud was seized with a violent fit of coughing, which terminated, as on the previous occasion, with the parting exclamation of "Ma sacre toux!"

The officer was no fool; he could take a hint as well as any one else, and saluting, he left St. Arnaud's presence. On returning to the brigadiers and colonels who had sent him for instructions he was asked what reply St. Arnaud had made.

"The general's only words and commands were 'massacre toux' (massacre everybody.)"

These commands were obeyed to the letter, and many thousand people were shot down and bayonetted in consequence.

Beauty Without Cosmetics.

Mrs. Anna Rappert, the authority on the arts preservative of woman's beauty, praises cold water to hot for bathing the face, and advocates the use of soap once in twenty-four hours at night. A good lather should be produced, and after it is well washed off the face should be rubbed briskly with a chamois leather. All of which most women will pronounce rank heresy.

A Simple Way to Detect Bad Drainage.

It is said that silverware furnishes one of the most reliable means of detecting defective drainage. If it is covered with a black coating of tarnish soon after being cleaned, and after a second or third cleaning again becomes blackened, one may be certain that there is something wrong with the drainage system of the house.

King of Medicines

A Cure "Almost Miraculous."

"When I was 14 years of age I had a severe attack of rheumatism, and after I recovered had to go on crutches. A year later, scrofula, in the form of white swellings, appeared on various parts of my body, and for 11 years I was an invalid, being confined to my bed 6 years. In that time ten or eleven sores appeared and broke, causing me great pain and suffering. I feared I never should get well.

"Early in 1886 I went to Chicago to visit a sister, but was confined to my bed most of the time I was there. In July I read a book, 'A Day with a Circus,' in which were statements of cures by Hood's Sarsaparilla. I was so impressed with the success of this medicine that I decided to try it. To my great gratification the sores soon decreased, and I began to feel better and in a short time I was up and out of doors. I continued to take Hood's Sarsaparilla for about a year, when, having used six bottles, I had become so fully released from the disease that I went to work for the Flint & Walling Mfg. Co., and since then on account of sickness. I believe the disease is expelled from my system, I always feel well, am in good spirits and have a good appetite. I am now 27 years of age and can walk as well as any one, except that one limb is a little shorter than the other, owing to the loss of bone, and the sores formerly on my right leg. To my friends my recovery seems almost miraculous, and I think Hood's Sarsaparilla is the king of medicines." WILLIAM A. LEHR, 9 N. Railroad St., Kendallville, Ind.

HAVE NOT LOST A SINGLE DAY

THE HORSE MARKET.

Mr. Getman of Utica, New York, who is at present buying horses here for the United States market, says there is no demand for common horses, but he is buying a few on speculation.

For good horses there is a steady demand. Two animals of fair quality were sold here last week for $155 each, and forwarded to New York.

TWO-ROWED BARLEY.

The Napanee Beaver remarks: "Mr. Stuart Paul, of the 2nd concession of Ernesttown, last year sowed 12½ bushels of two-rowed barley on 10 acres, and threshed therefrom 455 bushels, 45½ bushels to the acre, which he sold to Mr. C. E. Bartlett in Napanee for 55 cents. He sowed 36 bushels of six-rowed, which realized only 36 bushels to the acre, and brought 45c. per bushel. Will our Grit friends please state why it does not pay to raise two-rowed barley? The cry they made against it for the past two years has deterred many of our farmers from sowing it, and knocked them out of 10 cents a bushel on all the barley they raised."

THE EGG TRADE.

Hon. Mackenzie Bowell revealed some interesting facts regarding the egg trade in his able speech at St. Catharines the other night, remarks the Empire. The Minister stated that during the three months ending September 30, 1890—just before the McKinley tariff began to squeeze—Canada's export of eggs to Britain was 3,652 dozens, valued at $388; to the States, 5,487,794 dozen, valued at $817,008. In one year the position has entirely changed, because in the three months ending September 30, 1891, the export to Britain was 1,126,391 dozens, valued at $157,744, and to the States 1,260,581 dozens, valued at $41,240. Britain, therefore, is becoming gradually the market for our surplus eggs, as it is for nearly every product of the farm.

A GRAND SHOWING.

The trade returns of the Dominion for the past six months, which have just been issued, make a grand showing. The Empire remarks: Our exports amounted to $71,700,000, against $62,800,000 for the same period the previous year, a gain of $8,900,000—an indication of what our splendid harvest has done for us. Taking the exports for last month alone the showing is $8,600,000, against $5,700,000 in December, 1890, a gain of nearly $3,000,000. There are no signs here of Canadian surplus products unable to find a market. When we remember that the exports for a whole year, (the fiscal year 1891 for instance, when they were the largest on record,) are about $98,000,000, the total of $71,700,000 for only six months is seen to be remarkable. The howls of the pessimists are in proportion to the evidences of commercial prosperity—the better the showing, the louder the howls.

The public accounts for the past fiscal year have also been published, and are equally satisfactory. The revenue on account of consolidated fund was $38,579,310, the expenditure $36,343,567, showing a surplus of $2,235,743. The expenditure on capital account totalled $3,112,958.

The receipts from Dominion lands amounted during the year to $264,592; the amount invested for sinking funds was $1,938,078; the total amount held on 30th June last for sinking fund purposes was $25,555,614.50.

The debt redeemed, exclusive of savings bank withdrawals, amounted to $1,905,964. On the 30th June last the total amount at the credit of the depositors in the savings banks was $39,400,026, or a reduction of $1,612,438 as compared with the balance held at the end of the previous year. The interest allowed to depositors for the year amounted to $1,348,525, and if this amount is deducted from the balance at the credit of the depositors it will be found that the excess of withdrawals of cash over cash deposits was $2,960,963. The heavy withdrawals were caused by a reduction in the rate of interest, for which the Grits had clamored for years. Owing to the withdrawals from the savings banks, and to meet redemption of debt a further temporary loan of £1,200,000 was effected in England.

The net debt of the Dominion on the 30th June last was $237,808,030, an increase of $275,818 in the year.

The Deputy Minister, Mr. Courtney, points out that the "rate of interest paid on the gross debt averaged for the year $3.85 per cent., against $3.37 for the previous year. The net rate of interest paid on the debt fell from $2.99 to $2.93."

The average rate of interest on the funded debt payable in London is $3.85, as against $5.23 in the first year of the Grit regime, 1874, and $4.73 in 1878, the last year the dolorous Sir Richard was Finance Minister.

Patti at Toronto.

Patti, Ardito, Guilio, Del Puente, Navarro. What a galaxy of stars travelling so far to let their radiance beam for a few brief hours upon the grandest audience ever assembled in the old Horticultural Hall, Toronto. Every celebrity was there, unless he was gripped by this terrible influenza. Such opera cloaks, dresses of all shades and colors, headgear of wondrous charming designs and hues, the sweet girl graduates from the colleges, exquisite blondes and captivating brunettes, with health on every cheek and eyes that paled the electric lights. Is there anything that we ought to be more grateful to a kind Providence for than for the human eye? Take the eye away and what becomes of the expression of the face? It is dead. Well, "eyes looked love to eyes that spoke again, and all went merry as a marriage bell." I pity the miserable soul who sings that selfish ditty, "If she be not fair for me, what care I how fair she be?" Let our text be to love the beautiful everywhere; and although yon lovely girl is the bride of another her loveliness does not belong exclusively to the man who "ringed" the belle, any more than the flowers of a summer parterre belong to the man who has fenced them in. Their beauty and fragrance are shared by every passer-by, who utters a blessing upon the giver of so much joy. Patti, who threw her gold and loveliness at the feet of the Marquis de Caux for a title, and who, finding herself cast away upon a reef which threatened her frail bark, became a divorcee and married Nicolini for love. $5,000 for fine song. What strange feelings possess you when you see that trim, little figure, with its raven hair, large, lustrous eyes and expressive face; watch her quick step and agile movement, as with rapid and graceful motion she controls the satin trail; listen to the storm of applause that greets her entrance, and know that before you stands the "empress of song"; she who by nature and training has occupied for twenty years a throne, which has never been menaced by another. Row after row of large, lustrous diamonds encircled her neck, and gems of the rarest brilliancy flashed from her arms at each gesture. I have heard all the queens of song that have been before the world for a number of years, but none of them affects me like Patti. The three songs, Home, sweet Home, Last Rose of Summer, and Robin Adair are quite sufficient for me. Others may rave at her crescendo and diminuendo, &c.,—may dwell upon the startling purity of her voice; but no other voice can go down into your soul in those lovely home-like songs, and hold you enthralled, spell-bound. You do not stop to criticise, to think; all you know is that every sense seems steeped in ecstacy. The nearest approach to Patti was Nilssen, but after all, as the boys say, "she wasn't in it."

Arditi's orchestra, under the sway of the magic wand, was delightful. Such harmony, mellow softness, and entire absence of loud, boisterous tones, well balanced, such blending and shading. The old maestro secured another laurel for his venerable brow. Patti and Arditi seem inseparable. Wherever Patti has won her greatest success Arditi led the orchestra. In her Russian tour, where the white Czar and the ermined nobles bowed in homage to the little bird who warbled their hearts away, Arditi shared her honors. Soon she must bid her great world adieu. The voice that for a quarter of a century has withstood the ravages and assaults of time, the cold winds of Canada, the sultry sun of India and the fogs of London, must soon rest. As clear and flute like, with the same compass, purity and strength as it possessed when I heard her in 1866 in Traviata in Covent Garden, London, her voice seems to be unimpaired in any of its marvellous powers. Del Puente and Navarro I have heard before. I do not care for Del Puente's voice. He is too fond of the Italian tremolo. Tremolo is charming, but you can get too much of it. When the sentiment calls for it, it adds very greatly to the effect, but to have every note shaken to pieces, to my ear injures the performance. Navorro is smooth, even and pleasing; the contralto of Fabbri was grand; we shall hear more of this artiste in the near future. The artist who bore the palm next to the diva was the French tenor Guillo; he surpassed himself and every other tenor I have heard. The audience could not get enough of him. His range is wonderful, and his power and expression astonishing. I doubt if his superior can be found.

If it is any comfort to Belleville to enjoy a little morsel of revenge, I may say, that dull as Belleville is, Toronto seems to me to be more quiet. Such numbers of our citizens can be met at every turn, expatriated from their loved old city by the fiend of "hard times." Perhaps now they will return to their first love.

THE QUEBEC BOODLING

SAID TO HAVE BEEN DENOUNCED BY THE VATICAN.

Strong Language Used in Respect to Count Mercier — Instruction Given to the Clergy to Advise Their Congregations to Vote Against the Ex-Premier.

MONTREAL, Feb. 1.— Le Moniteur de Rome, the diplomatic organ of the Vatican, in its last issue publishes a leader of the highest importance bearing upon the political situation in Quebec. This journal is published in French and is accepted as the organ of the authorities of the church. Its expressions carry great weight, especially with the members of the clergy. The article in question may be taken as expressing the views of the church in the present crisis.

The article opens with general considerations on politics in Canada, and especially in Quebec, and claims that in the present crisis all the honest and disinterested portion of the population, including the clergy, will side with the Conservative party.

It then eulogizes the Canadian clergy, which does not as a rule take part in politics and remains aloof from "the political fray."

Speaking of the fallen Premier the journal says: "Mr. Mercier has the suppleness which makes for a time the bantering diplomat and the rash gambler. For a long time he has posed as the representative of popular rights and religious interests."

Then The Moniteur expresses its indignation that the Liberal press should have made political capital out of the favors received from Rome and make people believe that the Holy Father approves of all that the man who received them has done.

The Moniteur continues: "Certain newspapers have to compromise the cause of the church by associating it with the dismissed ministry. They say that it received its flattering approbation as if these acts were intended not for the cause, but for the men. When the originator of an idea falls, perhaps through fate, perhaps by his own fault, the idea still lives on invincible and immaculate. Thus it is with Canada and Mr. Mercier."

Proceeding The Moniteur gives the following hint to Mr. Mercier and his friends: "For this reason the wisest have asked themselves if the whole future of Canada should be imperilled as the stake in this murderous combat, if it was not better a thousand times to sacrifice the most compromised to save the country."

Further on the journal supplies the following advice to Mr. Mercier: "Sometimes, returning to the life of Mr. Mercier, wise people recall the memories of great disgraces of kings and of peoples. These ministers who fall or overreach themselves are buried in solitude."

Moniteur continues with the following sentence: "Mr. Mercier defends himself, but should he overcome fate he will not give calm and security to his country. It is said that in all the great trials which come to a nation politics always demands its victims marked by events."

What the Government Expects.

OTTAWA, Feb. 1.—Hon. John Haggart said to-day: I am sure that we will carry Prince Edward county, Lennox and East Hastings. The latter place the late W. Burdett carried on his own personal popularity, politics having little to do with it. Dr. Platt is a strong man as a Liberal, but Mr. Millon will, I am pretty sure, defeat him in Prince Edward. I feel confident that we will win more than three seats in Ontario, and as Sir John Thompson said three in the Maritime Provinces. All that we expect to do in Quebec is to hold our own.

Hon. John Thompson to Come West.

OTTAWA, Feb. 1.—The Minister of Justice received a telegram Saturday asking him to go west to take a hand in the political campaign. He will probably speak in Picton, Prince Edward, and in London, but as yet no arrangements have been perfected.

The dead body of the mate encased in a life-preserver has been found on the beach, but none of the other bodies are yet recovered. The vessel was coal laden and sailed from Newcastle, N.S.W., Nov. 6, for Portland, Oregon. Where the Ferndale went ashore is 70 miles north of the mouth of the Columbia River. The wreck occurred at daylight.

A Chatham Society Woman Arrested.

DETROIT, Mich., Feb. 1.—Miss Maggie Taylor, a handsome young woman from Chatham, Ontario, was arrested at a prominent drygoods store yesterday on a charge of shoplifting. Various articles, including silk scarfs, handkerchiefs, souvenir spoons, books and fancy goods were found in her possession and she confessed having stolen them from various retail houses in the city.

The woman said she was glad she had been arrested, as otherwise she would have gone on until she would have become a hopeless thief. There was no necessity for her stealing, but she had done so once or twice before and could not resist nor explain the desire that overcame her.

She was accompanied by her cousin, the wife of a highly respected physician of Chatham. The latter woman knew nothing of the thefts until the arrest was made.

"I think we will run trains on the Wisconsin Central by electrical power before the Columbian Exposition is over. The discoveries of the uses to which electricity can be put and its adaptability to moving trains are far ahead of what is generally supposed, and I think you will find that some one of the three great electrical companies, the Edison, the Westinghouse or the Thomson-Houston, will make public some surprising developments at an early day."

Smuggling Horses From Canada.

CHICAGO, Feb. 1.—Special Treasury Agent Soehngen has for some days been watching the sales of horses at the horse market at the stock yards in the expectation of capturing some smuggled animals from Canada. The high rates have led to a great deal of smuggling of horses from Canada, and reports have reached the treasury agents that fine animals in large numbers have been brought into the States from across the border without the formality of consulting the custom house.

Death in the Tunnel.

Conductor Hawthorne Suffocated, and His Companion Nearly So.

SARNIA, Jan. 31 —This morning at 4 o'clock Tunnel Conductor, George Hawthorne was taking a freight train through the tunnel from the American side, when half way through the tunnel the couplings of the train broke in several places. The engine went on through with the cars which had not broke loose. Conductor Hawthorne and Brakeman Joseph Whalen jumped off to couple the cars, and in a short time they felt themselves being suffocated with gas and started to run through. Hawthorne fell down exhausted on the track, and when Whalen found he could go no farther, he attempted to climb one of the side ladder so that he would not be run over when the engine returned, but fell overcome across the track. It was about an hour and a half before the men were got out. Medical aid was promptly on hand and Whalen was revived, but all efforts to save the life of Hawthorne were unavailing. Deceased was carried to his home in London this morning on the 9:55 train, where he leaves behind him a widow and two children. He was about 31 years of age.

The unfortunate man was a son of Mr. Hawthorne, proprietor of the St. George's restaurant in this city. This morning Mr. Hawthorne left for London, to attend the funeral.

A LOVER'S CRIME.

PARIS, Feb. 1.—A tragic affair is reported from Lucerne, Switzerland. A young Frenchwoman, whose beauty and good qualities attracted many suitors, accepted as husband an English naval officer. The husband, after a brief honeymoon, was summoned abroad and joined his vessel on a voyage to the East. He left his bride at Lucerne, promising a speedy return. Not long ago the young wife received a telegram telling her that her husband had died of cholera in India. The blow caused her brain to reel, and she poisoned herself with cyanide. She died and was buried at Lucerne.

The wife had been dead but a few days when her husband, hearty and well as when he left her, made his appearance and was told of his wife's death. He asserted that it was a former lover of his wife who sent the telegram, and threatened revenge.

Hon. Mr. Ouimet Elected.

MONTREAL, Jan. 31.—Hon. J. A. Ouimet, Minister of Public Works, is a happy man to day and for several reasons. In the first place Mr. Cyriac St. Amour, who was nominated at Ste. Rose on Saturday last, thought he had been duped long enough by those who brought about the senseless opposition to the new Minister and wisely withdrew the deposit from the hands of the returning officer and retired from the contest, allowing Hon. Mr. Ouimet to be returned without taking a poll.

Castoria.

"Castoria is an excellent medicine for children. Mothers have repeatedly told me of its good effect upon their children."
DR. G. C. OSGOOD, Lowell, Mass.

"Castoria is the best remedy for children of which I am acquainted. I hope the day is not far distant when mothers will consider the real interest of their children, and use Castoria instead of the various quack nostrums which are destroying their loved ones, by forcing opium, morphine, soothing syrup and other hurtful agents down their throats, thereby sending them to premature graves."
DR. J. F. KINCHELOE, Conway, Ark.

Castoria.

"Castoria is so well adapted to children that I recommend it as superior to any prescription known to me."
H. A. ARCHER, M. D., 111 So. Oxford St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Our physicians in the children's department have spoken highly of their experience in their outside practice with Castoria, and although we only have among our medical supplies what is known as regular products, yet we are free to confess that the merits of Castoria has won us to look with favor upon it."

Dr. A. D. Walker, formerly of Shannonville, having purchased the residence of the late Dr. B. S. Willson, is now residing in the city and practicing here.

Some tobaccos spurt up in the pipe while smoking, with little crackling explosions. This is caused by the addition of foreign matter to assist the combustion. When the purity of the tobacco is not tampered with and has been properly taken care of, this combustible foreign matter is wholly unnecessary. For in that case it burns at a lower temperature than almost anything else. Nothing of this kind is seen in smoking the "Myrtle Navy." It burns with steady combustion throughout.

Nothing Hunts Out Corns

Like tight boots. Corns are very small affairs, but apply to them a pair of tight boots and all other concerns of life sink into insignificance. Tight boots and Putnam's Corn Extractor (the great and only sure cure for corns) may go together, and comfort will be their partner ; but don't fail to use Putnam's Corn Extractor. Frauds, cheap, poisonous and dangerous substitutes, are in the market. Beware of them. Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor. Polson & Co., proprietors, Kingston.

Anniversary Sermons.

Rev. C. O. Johnston and Rev. Prof. Marshall at St Halloway Street Church.

Anniversary services were held yesterday at Holloway St. Methodist church. In the morning the Rev. C. O. Johnston, of Napanee, occupied the pulpit, and delivered an interesting and able discourse ; in the evening Rev. Prof. Marshall, of Albert College, preached, the sermon being a masterly one. The former spoke from the Scripture text found in 2 Kings, ii. 11 : "And it came to pass, as they still went on and talked, that behold there appeared a chariot of fire and horses of fire, and parted them asunder, and Elijah went up by a whirlwind into heaven."

Elijah was physically a strong man, or he could not have endured the hardships which he passed through. His strength, however, was dedicated to the work of God ; he was physically strong and mentally wise. In this respect God honors those who honor him. Elijah was loyal to the truth. He had one solid foundation upon which to stand, and from that foundation he could not be moved. Elijah knew well what he knew and hastened by it ; he demonstrated before the king that he was a hero of God. Christianity demands to-day heroism. We should be loyal to the truth ; it demands that we should not in any way countenance wrong, but always upholding that which is right and good. Elijah demonstrated to the king and his thousands of attendants on the mount that he was a true follower of God, and that God, through him, could perform a miracle, causing fire to come down from heaven and consume the alter which had been erected for a sacrifice. He could stand in a faith that could not waver. On another occasion Elijah went into a cave and prayed unceasingly for seven times for rain, which at last descended in torrents, and the parched grass and herbs sprung up afresh. His faith hung fast, it were, to the small cloud out which hung over the sea. God honored Elijah because he honored Him. He will do the same to day. He caused a chariot of fire to be brought from the livery of heaven, and it descended to earth and took Elijah up into the clouds and to the celestial city, away from all strife of life and persecutions. God has sent to us His son, and He says, "Lo I am with you always, even unto the end of the world." If we will take care of God's cause, He will take care of us. In conclusion, the rev. gentleman appealed to all to be true to the living God ; honor Him and He would honor them.

The Rev. Prof. Marshall in the evening gave a sermon on prayer, which was replete with instruction.

He reports the societies in a flourishing condition across the line. During this week he will visit the city Lodges, and return to Belleville at the end of the week. Mr. Worrell is but a young man, twenty-one years of age, and occupies the Worshipful Master's chair of Benjamin Loyal Orange Lodge, Belleville, of which the Hon. DAVOE—MCCOLL.

Wooler, Jan 27.—A pleasant time was spent at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas McColl in Murray this evening, the occasion being the marriage of her eldest daughter, Lillie E., to Mr. A. C. Davoe, of Foxboro. The ceremony, which took place precisely at six, was performed by Rev. R. W. Marsh, of Wooler. The bride was attired in light fawn serge, trimmed with fur. She was attended by Miss Lillie Purdy, of Colborne, who was dressed in dark fawn serge. Mr. B. R. Hamilton, of Foxboro, officiated in the capacity of groomsman. After partaking of a sumptuous repast the time was spent in conversation, music, &c. and in the admiration of the many costly and useful presents.

Sudden Death.

Mr. James Fuller Found Dead in his Cutter.

Mr. James Fuller, who resides on Bridge street east, died suddenly about noon today. The deceased left his home this morning with a horse and cutter and drove down to Front street and to other parts of the city. Near the hour of noon the horse was seen trotting towards Mr. Fuller's home, whilst the occupant of the rig was apparently asleep. The animal stopped at the house, and the parties who ran after the rig were alarmed on approaching to find Mr. Fuller dead, the cause being heart disease. He was about 65 years of age, and had resided for years in the township of Thurlow, but a few months removed into the city. He was for years a consistent member of the Methodist church, and was widely known and much respected. He leaves a widow and four children, who will receive the sympathy of the community in their sudden and sad bereavement.

The fire originated in a vacant building formerly used as a hotel, and spread rapidly. Carter's, Robinson's and St. Clair's general stores were burned. Incendiarism suspected. Loss unknown.

Prince Edward Election.

The meeting at Consecon Saturday night on behalf of Mr. Miller was the largest and most enthusiastic meeting held there in many years. Dr. Jacques, Mayor of Trenton, formerly of Consecon, occupied the chair, and although invitation was extended both by pub lo advertisement and from the chair to Dr. Platt or his representatives, no one would respond. The meeting was addressed by J. E. Hallwell, H. Corby, M.P., R. Weddell (Trenton), W. C. Mikel and W. B. Northrup. A number drove over from Trenton to attend the meeting. Rousing cheers for the Queen and Archie Miller, the meeting broke up.

MR. SPURGEON IS DEAD.

THE GREAT PREACHER PASSES AWAY AT MENTONE.

Tennyson's Ode to the Late Duke of Clarence—William O'Brien Meets With Rough Treatment—A Rejected Lover's Crime and Its Terrible Consequences.

Mentone, Feb. 1.—Mr. Spurgeon died shortly after 11 o'clock last night. He had been unconscious since the morning and had not recognized his wife and daughter. He refused all food and, although milk was forced down his throat, it was not retained. At 10 p.m. Mr. Spurgeon was seen to be sinking fast and all hope after that hour was abandoned.

Mr. Spurgeon's end was painless. He remained unconscious to the last. His wife, Dr. Fitzhenry and Miss Thorne were present when he died.

The morning papers contain long memories and obituary articles on Mr. Spurgeon. The Chronicle appears with a mourning border. It compares the dead pastor to Martin Luther.

The Telegraph characterizes him as a "great, fearless and faithful minister." It adds. "Albeit of homely genius and eloquence, all agree that he leaves a void that will be filled with difficulty."

Charles Haddon Spurgeon was born at Kelvedon, Essex, June 19, 1834. His father and grandfathers were preachers in the Independent denomination. At the age of 16 he became an usher at Newmarket and subsequently at Cambridge. Not long after going to Cambridge he connected himself with a lay preachers' association there, and before he was 18 became pastor of a small Baptist congregation at Waterbeach. In 1853 he was called to the New Park-street Baptist Chapel in Southwark, London, to which his preaching attracted such crowds that the congregation removed first to Exeter Hall and then to Surrey Music Hall. In 1861 a new chapel capable of seating between 6000 and 6500 persons was erected for his congregation in Newington Butts. Mr. Spurgeon has received more than 45,000 persons into his church, and has created 47 chapels in London, supplied with ministers trained in a college of his own founding. He has published numerous works.

TENNYSON'S LATEST.

Seventeen Lines Long and Anything But Complimentary.

London, Feb. 1.—The poem of Baron Tennyson, the Poet Laureate, upon the death of the Duke of Clarence and Avondale, author of his regency, is the subject of criticism. The poem is only 17 lines long. The poet speaks of the late Prince as being "tender, truthful, reverent and pure."

London, Jan. 31.—G. W. Smalley cables: There is but one opinion here of Lord Tennyson's lines on the death of the Duke of Clarence, which appear in The Nineteenth Century for February. They are not worthy of that poet's fame.

To Restore Serfdom.

Paris, Feb. 1.—According to advices from St. Petersburg the Czar intends to initiate measures for the restoration of serfdom among the peasants. It is proposed to allocate to the peasants vast tracts of land under conditions similar to those of serf tenure. One-third of the harvest is to be stored in the communal magazines for the support of the peasants ; one-third is to be sold by the Government for the payment of local debts to state, and one-third is to be retained for payment of Government taxes. The peasants will not be allowed to move from their communes, but will be bound to the soil and will be obliged to fulfil their contracts with the state. The system will be first applied in the provinces of Samara and Saratoff, and if successful will be extended all over the empire.

Rain, Rain, Beautiful Rain.

Brussels, Feb. 1.—The town of Chimay has been visited by a terrible conflagration which destroyed fully one-fourth of the entire number of its buildings. The fire originated in a church tower and spread with great rapidity. The firemen aided by a downpour of rain succeeded in saving the threatened residence of the Prince of Chimay.

The New Prefect of the Propaganda.

London, Feb. 1.—G. W. Smalley cables: The Pope's health has become a standing topic. He has been ill, but is better—well enough at any rate to startle the Catholic world by the appointment of Cardinal Lechodowski as Prefect of the Propaganda. The Italian Cardinals, who believe that the keys of heaven and of earth ought to be in Italian hands, are as angry as such holy men ever allow themselves to be. The close personal friendship between the Pope and Cardinal Lechodowski is probably sufficient to explain this promotion, which for various reasons is disliked in every European capital except London, where nobody cares.

Smalley on British Politics.

London, Feb. 1.—G. W. Smalley cables: The whips issued by Mr. Balfour and Mr. Gladstone for the first meeting of Parliament are both unusually urgent. Mr. Balfour tells his supporters that they will at once be invited to proceed to consideration of a number of highly important measures. Mr. Gladstone observes ominously that he hopes to learn at the opening of the session whether and in what manner the present majority of the House of Commons intends to grant local government to Ireland. It is a laudable curiosity ; but not less laudable than the curiosity of others to learn in what manner Mr. Gladstone himself intends to frame his next Home Rule bill, should the opportunity occur.

Tramps Seize a Train.

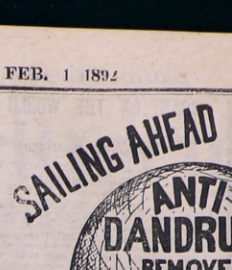

Celina, O., Feb. 1.—An extra freight train on Lake Erie and Western Road was boarded by a gang of tramps near Fort Recovery. The tramps seized every one of the brakemen and took possession of the train, one relieving the engineer at the throttle.

As the train dashed past Fort Recovery the conductor managed to throw out an envelope with a cry for help written thereon. A posse was formed and at Mackinaw Junction, when the train pulled up, the train was surrounded and six of the gang captured.

Perished in Alaska.

Port Townsend, Wash., Feb. 1.—The steamer from Alaska, which arrived last night, reports that Messrs. Orton and S. O. Wheelock of Juneau and eight other miners, who left Juneau on the schooner Charley for Litnya Bay, taking eight months' provisions, are supposed to have perished from exposure.

A STORY OF THE GREAT GLASGOW BANK ROBBERY.

'You are going to the Grange to-day, dear father,' she said in a low, sweet voice and blushing as she spoke.

'Yes, darling, Charles and I are going over. We have business, you know, with his lordship. Have you come to bid us good bye before we start?'

'What is it? You won't refuse it, will you, seeing it is the first I make to you?'

'Rather, if, love! How can you think so? I can refuse you no thing, though I own you have too good cause to think me a good hearted bear. Come, tell me what you want that I may grant it at once.'

'I want you to be generous to Lord Eaglehead,' she w s t ly rep ied.

He started and a frown came on his suddenly knitted br w.

'Anything but that, dear—anything but that,' he hastily rejoined. 'I can show no generosity to the man who has wronged me so.'

'Oh father,' she pleaded, 'what g od will revenge do you?

'Think, there—do not let us pursue the subject further. You do not know the cau e I have to h te my cousin, and render to him s well-merited retribution.'

'But I ask it more for the sake of those who have not injured you for the sake of Lady Eaglehearst and D ra. In ruining his lordship you ruin them.'

'That cannot be helped—it is their mis fortune.'

'But, dear father, it can be helped,' returned, Mary, earnestly. 'It all depends on you.'

'I shall act only according to justice,' he answered in a dogged, almost sullen tone.

'No, no,' she warmly cried. 'Not according to justice. If we were all treated according to justice, how would it fare with us? Be merciful, father, be true to yourself, and be magnanimous. I know the great wrong his lordship has done you. I know, too, how he galled and mortified you when poverty compelled you to bear his ill treatment, but be it yours to show a nobler spirit. Do not descend to his level, but keep upon the summit of your own high nature. If you will be just, be just to yourself, and do not for the sake of taking an unworthy revenge on him, inflict pain on those you love. Say, dear father, you will not refuse this my first request, but will have respect to the words of Him who says, 'Do good to those who despitefully use you and persecute you.' Promise, dear father—promise that you will.'

He stood long in deep silent reflection, during which his face worked through many changes. Sometimes it was all sternness and bitterness, but gradually a softer and more characteristic expression predominated. The struggle was severe, but the man —the real nature—conquered. The demon of passion, which had ov-ped him so long in this one direction, was banished for ever. He got a true glimpse of the feelings he had cherished and despised them, and from that moment his attitude towards Lord Eglehearst was altered.

'What would you have me to do?' he asked in a grave but calm and composed tone.

'Just what your gener-us nature tells you is proper. Do what is right, but do nothing vindictively.'

'I am glad you have given me such a judicial answer,' he approvingly returned. 'There are times when forgiveness is as mischievous as you have just shown my revenge to be. His lordship must be fought till he is disarmed, and made to yield Charles his rights. As to the Grange, which is mine, and which I could wrest from him, why, it will belong to you and Charles either way; and as you say, consideration must be shown for Lady Eaglehearst and Dora. In a word, darling, your request is granted, and you may trust me to deal with Lord Eaglehearst in a better way than he deserves.'

'Oh, I am so glad,' cried Mary; 'and so will mother.'

'Ah! is your mother who set you on to this, I know. Away to her then, and say that she and you have conquered.'

The gent-emen followed, and passing through the entrance hall, entered the carriage and drove away.'

Philip was for some time silent, leaning back in his carriage with his eyes shut. Suddenly he opened them, turning them full on Charles, and exclaimed—

'What a fool I have been.'

'In what respect?' was the simple question.

'In the insane hatred I have cherished against Eaglehearst. It was a poor, pitiable feeling after all, and just of a piece with his conduct. Those words of Mary let the truth in on me like a flash—'Don't descend to his level.' I have been on his level all along in my inner hatred. See what it led me to do to you and Mary. Eag'ehart himself could not have behaved worse.'

'With this difference,' returned Charles, with a smile, 'he would not have made the noble amends which you did. The fact is, Mr. Ravensworth, in reference to your cousin, and feelings you have had for him, your conduct and character have been exceptional altogether, but your true nature, as you constantly showing itself, and never more brilliantly than when we were reconciled to me and my marriage with Mary.'

'For God's sake do not speak of that,' exclaimed Ravensworth, with a look of agony. 'I felt it bad enough before I knew that Mary was our own poor lost darling, but now—oh! I can almost curse myself. See it will be better for me never to think of it. However, it all proceeded from the one cause—the passion I cherished in my heart towards his lordship, which, thank God, Mary has killed by her quiet, gentle words this morning. I shall now meet Eagleheart on very different ground. What a vision of vengeance and triumph I had up to the moment she came and laid her head on my bosom! Not only did I mean to turn him out of the Grange and exact compensation for all the years he has wrongfully possessed it, but I meant to hunt him with hounds of the law, and had sweet thoughts of seeing him a criminal at the bar, and a felon at the hulks, never thinking of the misery and anguish I would thereby inflict on the gentle Lady Eagleheart and the innocent Dora, not to speak of yourself, Charles, for is he not your father?'

'Then, sir, am I to consider that these intentions are changed?' asked Charles.

'Changed so far as mere revenge is concerned. Eagleheart's fraud must be charged against him, and he must be dealt with according as he himself acts. He may force us to use all your powerful influence, but my impression is his pride will save both us and him from such extremity. But here we are at his portals.'

'And yonder is Dora at the end of the lime-tree walk,' cried Charles, half starting from his seat, and gazing to the right, where at a distance of not many yards a girl's drooping form was seen, standing motionless, yet eagerly regarding them. It was Dora, sure enough, but how wan, and pale and wretched she looked, and how far removed from the bright blooming creature whom Charles had last beheld her! He was astonished and shocked at the change in her appearance, and Philip also was greatly struck by it.

The carriage was stopped, and they got out to join her. Charles eagerly advanced and she took a few steps forward to meet him.

Good heaven, Dora, how ill you look,' he cried in a tone of the utmost concern. 'What has occurred to work so sad a change!'

'Oh, Charles,' she answered, as she gave him the hand he sought. 'I am wretched and miserable beyond expression. There is a mystery hanging over us, a dreadful mystery which I cannot fathom, but which is inflicting on me the keenest anguish. Oh! that I could penetrate it—that I could know where my unhappy father is!—then to! Can you give me any information?'

'I-s my m——, I mean Lady Eagleheart not at the Grange?' asked Char'es much surprised.

'No. Papa took her away the morning after you were last here, and she has not returned—nor will he tell me where she is.

GOOD INDEED—DONE.

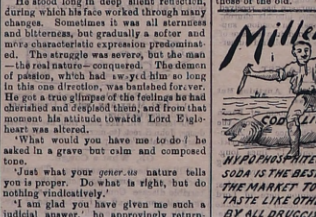

THE good deed done by that unequalled family liniment, Hagyard's Yellow Oil, during the thirty years it has been held in ever increasing esteem by the public, would fill volumes. We cannot here enumerate all its good qualities, but that it can be relied on as a cure for croup, coughs, colds, sore throat and all pains, goes without saying.

Parmele's Pills possesses the power of acting specifically upon the diseased organs, stimulating to action the dormant energies of the system, thereby removing disease. In fact, so great is the power of this medicine to cleanse and purify, that diseases of almost every name and nature are driven from the body. Mr. D. Cawsell, Cardwell E. C., Ont., writes: "I have tried Parmele's Pills and find them an excellent medicine, and one that will sell well."

Griefs are ever coming to us with the coming hours, and our little strength is only as the day.

Those of the gentle sex who have experienced the pain and annoyance caused by excoriated nipples and inflamed breasts, can well appreciate the value of a remedy which removes the trouble. This is precisely what Dr Thomas' Eclectric Oil does, besides curing when used internally, asthma, croup and other maladies.

COMING EVENTS.

Coming consumption is foreshadowed by a hacking cough, night sweats, pain in the chest, etc. Arrest its progress at once by taking Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam, which never fails to cure coughs, colds, bronchitis hoarseness, etc., and even in confirmed consumption affords great relief.

Mrs. Harry Pearson, Hawtrey, writes: For about three months I was troubled with fainting spells and dizziness, which was growing worse, and would attack me three or four times a day. At last my husband purchased a bottle of Northrop & Lyman's vegetable Discovery, from which I derived considerable benefit. I then procured another, and before it was used my all ction was completely gone, and I have not had an attack of it since.'

THEIR FUTURE RULER.

THE QUESTION OF THE SUCCESSION TO THE THRONE.

Fife is Unpopular, but Only With the Aristocracy, Who Dislike the Idea of a Subject Being so Near the Crown Personally or by Issue—The People Love the Queen.

LONDON, Feb. 2.—The profound sensation which was created by the death of the Duke of Clarence is, of course, subsiding, but the possible results of that event on the succession to the Crown still afford much food for reflection to those who look a little ahead.

Undoubtedly one of the immediate effects of the Duke's death has been to strengthen the hold of the Crown upon the country. Once more the domestic instincts of the people have been forcibly attracted to it. The Queen's letter has been read with sympathy in every home.

The Queen's Influence.

She understands the English people and how to stir their emotions. Her regard for family ties gives her more real power over the nation than any considerations of state. The same thing made George III. popular. To the last, in spite of all the mistakes he made, he never shocked the domestic proprieties. The public liked to hear of his sitting with the Queen reading to her while she worked or played on the harpsichord or mixed freely with visitors on the terrace at Windsor Castle. There he was, plain old "Farmer George," living chiefly on vegetables, and sometimes dining with the children in the middle of the day, and almost or quite losing his reason when any of them died or acted badly.

In the same way people now like the Queen, because in all domestic matters she is one of themselves. She may be said to have re-established the dynasty, which was nearly shaken by George IV., and not strengthened by his successor.

The Prince of Wales.

The Prince of Wales, too, has a firmer hold upon the country than ever before. People feel for him in his great sorrow, and have marked his devotion to his wife and children. If there ever was any harsh feeling before on account of the unfortunate baccarat case and other incidents, all is forgotten now. They were at worst but venial faults compared with those of George IV. The Prince of Wales' affliction has softened all hard thoughts and he stands secure in the loving place in the respect and affection of the nation.

Prince George's Future.

No doubt this seems a very inappropriate moment to talk of the marriage of the remaining son and heir presumptive to the Crown, but the circumstances are such as to make the subject one of great importance to the country. To speak frankly, the prospect of the succession of one of the children of the Duke of Fife gives anything but satisfaction.

To the people it may not be of much moment but the aristocracy is horrified at the thought of a comparatively new man being placed over them all as Prince Consort, or, failing that, of his children becoming kings and queens of England.

His Pedigree.

Of course the peerage books, with pedigrees made to order, trace the Duke of Fife to Macduff, but he comes of a junior stock altogether, and Macduff has little to do with the descent, as the Duke of Fife on his mother's side comes from one of the daughters of the famous actress, Mrs. Jordon, by William IV.

Perhaps some old-fashioned prejudice may still be felt on that score, but the general idea is that it is not good for a subject to be so near the succession to the throne and that some very awkward complications and difficulties might arise out of it.

These contingencies were never seriously regarded until the death of the Prince of Wales' elder son. Now they are, and the conviction spreads that it will not do to allow matters to remain too long in the present state. That is the reason for the popular wish that Prince George should marry as soon as possible after the period of mourning is over. Where the throne is concerned it is necessary to look to all the probabilities of the future.

The Queen's Excellent Health.

The Queen is in excellent health and will only be 73 next May. She has a fine constitution and lives under the healthiest of conditions. Hard work and a great deal of outdoor exercise suit her perfectly. She takes long drives every day in an open carriage.

Mr. Gladstone is an equally firm believer in the virtues of fresh air and constant occupation, and here he is junketing around at 82.

George III. reigned 60 years, and lived till he was 82. There is no physical reason why the Queen should not equal the record, though under much happier circumstances.

The Prince of Wales also is strong and hearty, though he has been terribly shaken by his recent bereavement. And then there is Prince George, upon whom all the rest turns. To see him fortunately married is now the desire of the nation.

Bond Head Devastated.

BRADFORD, Ont., Feb. 2.—The best part of the business portion of Bond Head was destroyed by fire this morning about 3 o'clock. The fire started in a vacant building formerly used as a hotel, and extended to Z. A. St. Clair's general store, containing postoffice, G.N.W. Telegraph offices and telephone offices, G. Robinson's boot and shoe store, and other vacant buildings and sheds. It is supposed that the old hotel was set on fire. Loss heavy.

The estimated loss is: E. J. Carter & Co., $7000, insured for $2500; N. A. St. Clair, about $4000, insured; G. R. Robinson, $2000; James Goodfellow, $1000; total loss about $17,000.

A Synagog Damaged.

HAMILTON, Feb. 2.—This morning fire occasioned $200 or $300 damage to the Jewish Synagog, corner Park and Hunter-streets.

A Hamilton Man's Death.

Parnell, Feb. 2.—A man supposed to be Charles Robinson of Hamilton was crossing the market square here and was struck and fell dead. On his person was found a policy on the A.O.U.W. for $2000, willed to his son, also an Orange certificate from Marseville, county of Dufferin Lodge, and a postcard from J. K. Leslie, Caledon, Ont.

SHE DIED OF FRIGHT.

The Sight of a Murder Killed Mrs. De Mora.

JERSEY CITY, N.J., Feb. 2.—The sight of a murder being committed and fear that she herself was to be shot caused the death of Mrs. De Mora, a French music teacher, living at No. 221 Griffith street. She was walking on the street Thursday when she saw Arthur Stacker kill his wife. Mrs. De Mora ran into a store, fainted, and the shock caused a hemorrhage to-day that resulted fatally.

Dangerous Counterfeits.

Counterfeits are always dangerous, more so that they always closely IMITATE THE ORIGINAL IN APPEARANCE AND NAME. The remarkable success achieved by Nasal Balm as a positive cure for Catarrh and Cold in the head has induced unprincipled parties to imitate it. The public are cautioned not to be deceived by nostrums imitating Nasal Balm in name and appearance, bearing such names as Nasal Cream, Nasal Balsamanite. Ask for Nasal Balm and do not take any imitation said to be "just as good" upon you. For sale by all druggists or sent post-paid on receipt of price (50c and $1.) by addressing Lyon & Co., Brockville, Ont.

HAGYARD'S YELLOW OIL.

This great internal and external remedy always allays all pain. It is a specific for croup, and promptly cures coughs, cold, sore throat, sprains, bruises, burns, rheumatism, cuts, wounds, etc. Good for man or beast. Stands all tests. Sold everywhere. Price 25 cents. Hagyard's Yellow Oil.

It is worse than madness to neglect a cough or cold which is easily subdued if taken in time, but becomes, when left to itself, the fore runner of consumption and premature death. Inflammation, when it attacks the throat, Pleurisy in the lungs and bronchial tubes, travels with perilous rapidity; then do not delay, get a bottle of Hobbs's Anti-Consumptive Syrup, the medicine that grasps this formidable foe from the human body, and drives it from the system. This medicine permits a free and easy expectoration, subdues the cough, heals the diseased parts, and exerts a most wonderful influence in curing consumption, and other diseases of the throat and lungs. If parents wish to save the lives of their children, and thereby save from much anxiety, trouble and expense, let them procure a bottle of Hobbs's Anti Consumptive Syrup, and whenever a child has taken cold, has a cough or hoarseness, give the Syrup according to directions.

He was manifested to take away our sins.

In his Vegetable Pills, Dr. Parmelee has given to the world the fruits of long research in years chiefly spent in the study of medicine, combined with new and valuable discoveries never before known to man. For Delicate and Debilitated Constitutions Parmelee's Pills act like a charm. Taken in small doses, the effect is both a tonic and a stimulant, mildly exciting the secretions of the body, giving tone and vigor.

Thomas Robinson, Farnham Centre, P. Q., writes:—"I have been afflicted with Rheumatism for the last ten years, and have tried many remedies without any relief. I got a bottle of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, and found it gave me instant relief, and since then I have had no attack. I would recommend it to all.

No bad man ever makes himself any better by claiming to be a saint.

For Over Fifty Years

MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP has been used for children teething. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, cures wind colic, and is the best remedy for Diarrhœa. Twenty-five cents a bottle. Sold by all druggists throughout the world.

DEAD, YET SPEAKETH.

CARDINAL MANNING LEFT A MESSAGE ON THE PHONOGRAPH.

Probability That it Will be Heard at the Chicago World's Fair—It Was Spoken at Easter, 1891, and Was Then Intended for Posthumous Use.

Cardinal Manning had promised to supply a paper on religion and one on labor to the Chicago Exhibition, but his death has made the realization of this promise impossible.

A MESSAGE TO POSTERITY.

It is not impossible, however, that the great churchman's voice may be heard at that celebration. An impressive message spoken by the living lips of Cardinal Manning with a view to its utterance to posterity is in existence. Last Easter Cardinal Manning heard for the first time the weird voice of the phonograph in the form of a message from Cardinal Gibbons between whom and himself has existed the warmest regard. His delight and wonder were remarkable.

This led to a suggestion that a message from him be delivered to the faithful custody of the phonograph. That his voice might be heard when it had passed away. Cardinal Manning was absolutely silent for several moments after the suggestion, which affected his mind with a force akin to awe. Then he declared that he would speak into the instrument words to be heard again only after his death. The phonograph was placed in position. Pausing for some moments to collect his thoughts, Cardinal Manning spoke a sentence so full of feeling as to be invested with much solemnity. Every one present was impressed with the majestic force which the Cardinal imparted to this utterance of not more than fifty words.

It was the first time anyone had spoken into Edison's wonderful machine something explicitly intended as a posthumous message to posterity. It is concisely to be said that the dominant sentiment of these words of the Cardinal was a religious one. The language was most beautiful and seemed to tremble with the depth of feeling with which it was pronounced. It was a living voice deliberately turning itself into a voice from the grave. Every one who assisted at this action was moved by the gravity which the occasion assumed.

The silvered tone of the waxed surface of which were traced the vibrations of Cardinal Manning's clear, rich, sharply articulated tones, was consigned to document to be encased so as to preserve intact the faintest impression upon its surface. A plate-glass frame ten inches square has been sacredly guarded at the Archbishop's house ever since, and some time it will be heard as the deceased Cardinal wished it should be.—New York World.

The Obedient Tots and the Beans.

A little tot of five summers went into a grocery store with a pint cup in her hand, and laid down a penny.

"Please give me some beans," she lisped.

"What do you want of beans, little one?" asked the grocer, as he did them up for the child.

"Why, mamma's gone away, and she telled us to be good children and not put any beans up our noses," said the small investigator, "and we ain't got any in the house."—Detroit Free Press.

Dyspepsia

Few people have suffered more severely from dyspepsia than Mr. K. A. McMahon, a well known grocer of Staunton, Va. He says: "Before 1878 I was in excellent health, weighing over 200 pounds. In that year an ailment developed into acute dyspepsia, and soon I was reduced to 162 pounds, suffering burning sensation in the stomach, palpitation of the heart, nausea, and indigestion I could not sleep, but lay awake all night, had fits of melancholia, and for days at a time I would have welcomed death. I became morose, solitude I liked, and for eight years life was a burden. I tried many physicians and many remedies. One day a workman employed by me suggested that I take Hood's Sarsaparilla. It had Suffering pills, as dyspepsia. I did so, and before taking the whole of a bottle I began to feel like a new man. The terrible pains to which I had been subjected, ceased, the palpitation of the heart subsided, my stomach became easier, nausea disappeared, and my entire system began to tone up. With returning strength came activity of mind and body. Before the fifth bottle was taken I had regained my former weight and natural condition. I am today well and I ascribe it to taking Hood's Sarsaparilla."

THE GRIT POLICIES.

THE OLD AND THE NEW—HON. GEORGE BROWN'S AND EDWARD BLAKE'S OPINIONS.

THE OLD.	THE NEW.
They say we must have reciprocity, and we make involves this, it is cannot live without it. It is a Dominion. I take exception to that statement. While reciprocity is desirable, we are not in such a state of subjection to the United States that we cannot live without it. We have men and ships, and will carry the war into Africa. We will find new markets for ourselves and cut them out. There is nothing better calculated to prevent the bringing about of reciprocity than to tell the Americans we cannot live without them. It would induce them to believe that they had the power to drive us to their own terms.—Sir Rich'd Cartwright, 1876.	The proposition which we make involves this, it involves the position that we would offer to the American people that which is denied to the rest of the world.—Hon. Wilfrid Laurier at Boston, Nov. 17, 1891. The interests of Canada demand that we should have unrestricted reciprocity with the States. We can only get it by taxing the goods of every country on the face of the earth except those of the United States. That is unquestionably part of our policy.—Sir Richard Cartwright at Oshawa, Feb. 5, 1891.

HON. GEORGE BROWN'S OPINION.

"In short, the Zollverein only points to the absorption of Canada by the United States. Its immediate results would be to cut off our revenues from duties levied upon British manufactures by practically prohibiting their importation, and at the same time impoverish our consumers by forcing them to buy at fancy prices from American monopolists."

"The fact is that it is a piece of sheer absurdity and impertinence for parties on either side of the lines to urge the matter before settling another question which is obviously involved in it, viz: Is the connection between Britain and Canada to continue or not? When that question is answered in the negative it will be time enough to consider the matter of the Zollverein. * * *

Whoever in the whole history of the past heard of an instance of part of a kingdom or an empire entering into a commercial arrangement with its great commercial and political rivals for the purpose, avowedly, of putting excessive differential taxes on the produce of the rest of their kingdom or empire?"—Globe, March 25, 1870.

HON. EDWARD BLAKE'S OPINION.

1. "Any practicable plan involves differential duties against the United Kingdom and the rest of the world."

2. "It involves the substantial assimilation in their leading features of the tariffs of the two countries. * * * Unrestricted Reciprocity without any agreed assimilation of duties is an unsubstantial dream."

3. "Of the financial problem presented by Unrestricted Reciprocity I have seen no solution which would leave us without a great deficit."

4. "I see no plan for combining the two elements of the permanency of the treaty and variability of the tariff which does not involve practical control of the latter by the States."

5. The tendency in Canada of Unrestricted Free Trade with the States, high duties being maintained against the United Kingdom, WOULD BE TOWARDS POLITICAL UNION; and the more successful the plan the stronger the tendency. * * * Our hopes and our fears would alike draw one way. WE WOULD THEN INDEED BE LOOKING TO WASHINGTON."

The policy of the Grit party in 1878, as to reciprocity, is above stated by Sir Richard Cartwright—then Minister of Finance—was the same as that of the Conservative party then and now.

The policy which they now proclaim was condemned by the Hon. George Brown up to the time of his death. It has driven from public life the Hon. Edward Blake, whose denunciation of it as disloyal is above given.

Will the honest Reformers of East Hastings prefer the counsel of Messrs. Brown and Blake—the ablest men of whom the Reform party could boast during the present generation—or that of Mr. Laurier and the political renegade Cartwright, whose utterances of 1878 form the strongest condemnation of his present attitude?

MANY JACK TAR HEROES

THRILLING SCENES OFF NEWFOUNDLAND COAST.

Fifty Vessels Driven Ashore and the Lives of the Crews Saved Only by Great Daring.

HALIFAX, N.S., Feb. 2.—During the terrific northerly gale at Black River, N.F., on Monday night, over 50 vessels at that place were driven on shore, and all more or less damaged. A number of the vessels were American.

While the gale was at its worst the schooner S. M. Lake was capsized and the crew thrown into the sea. The captain's little son, who was in the forecastle at the time, was unable to make his escape.

His father, after reaching the shore, and finding that his son was still on board the upturned schooner, plunged into the sea again, and, after several attempts managed to rescue the little fellow, who was more dead than alive.

The crew owe their lives to the prompt and heroic action of the American fishermen in port.

Advices from St. John's, N.F., state that the schooner Avenger, from Boston, which was wrecked at Petty Harbor on the 21st, struck at 6.30 a.m., during a terrific gale and snow storm. Previously she had had her sails all blown away, decks swept and her only boat smashed.

The vessel became unmanageable, and the crew gave up hope of ever getting to land. Fortunately, however, they were driven on the shore alive, and were only saved by the heroic conduct of one of the men, who put a line about himself, jumped into the sea and swam at the risk of his life through the surf to a high rock, where he made the line fast, and by this means all managed to reach land, but saved nothing.

BEHRING SEA.

The Arbitrators Meet at Washington—Discuss Matters of Importance.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—Sir Julian Pauncefote, the British Minister, called at the State Department in company with the British Behring Sea Commissioners, Sir Baden-Powell and Dr. Dawson, who have just arrived in Washington from Canada. They had a conference with Mr. Blaine and arranged preliminaries of the joint commission to be held between the United States and British commissioners; who visited Behring Sea last summer for the special purpose of investigating the seal industry. The United States commissioners are Prof. Marshall of the Coast and Geodetic Survey and Prof. Merriam of the Agricultural Department. Each commissioner has arrived at certain conclusions, and the object of the conference between them is to bring these results together in a joint report, consisting of the findings of the facts to be submitted to the arbitration. The report will probably form the basis for the enquiry to be considered by the arbitrators and from each side will advance its case.

The commissioners dealt with the present and future issues involved, such as the jurisdiction over the Behring Sea, which of course is the question to be determined. The facts furnished by the commission as to the numbers and habits of the seals, the extent of the industry and the probability of the extermination of the species by indiscriminate sealing will, however, form an especial basis. It being practically conceded that the arbitration cannot be concluded to be effective during the coming season, steps will be taken at once to secure the renewal of the modus vivendi of last year, which compact will expire May 1 next.

Prompt action on this question is necessary in order that sealing fleets may be advised in advance of preparing for their usual spring cruise to the seal waters.

According to the terms of the agreement reached between Lord Salisbury and Secretary Blaine the tribunal is to be composed of seven arbitrators, three of whom shall be citizens of a neutral country, one from the United States, and two representing the British interests, one being a Canadian and the other an Englishman. None of these have yet been appointed.

WHAT LA PRESSE SAYS.

A Straight Allegation that the Proceeds of the Langlois Scandal Were Used for Federal Elections.

MONTREAL, Feb. 2.—La Presse to-day makes the statement that the $25,000 deposited in Mercier's name, product of the forged letter of credit, was withdrawn from the Jacques Cartier Bank on Feb. 25, 1891, and held by Mr. Geoffrion for political purposes.

La Presse further states that on the same day Mercier, Geoffrion and Laurier dined together at a restaurant in Montreal.

The amount referred to as half the proceeds of the letter of credit which was telegraphed to Montreal in Premier Mercier's name and withdrawn by A. A. Mercier and remitted to Geoffrion, who was treasurer of the Liberal election fund in this city.

Ex-Premier Mercier has made an affidavit that he knew nothing whatever of this money, while Mr. Laurier has neither made a declaration himself nor said whether he did or did not know anything about the matter.

The statement of La Presse is primarily intended to prove that both Mercier, in spite of his denial, and Laurier, in spite of the assertions of his friends to the contrary, knew that Geoffrion was in possession of the money.

It is announced that Dr. Cameron, representative of Huntington County in the Quebec House, has regarded Mercier, whom he has followed for some years.

A SON'S DISCOVERY.

His Father and Mother Both Die of the Grip.

OTTAWA, Feb. 2.—Victor Belanger, a young ax man of Gatineau Point, came down from the woods to see his aged father and mother on Friday. He found the home locked up and after waiting some time concluded that the parents were in and forced an entrance. He found his mother dead in bed and his father lying unconscious on the sofa. Securing assistance he set to work to restore his father to consciousness and learned that both the old folks had been seized with la grippe and unable to get assistance. The mother died on Thursday and the old man only lived a few hours after telling the story.

He put his foot in the spokes of the wheel and in attempting the spectators were horrified to see the boy's leg, from the knee, fall to the ground on one side of the wheel while the boy fell on the other. He never uttered a cry. Medical assistance was called and he may recover.

THROW THEM INTO THE SEA.

A Mob Fiercely Attacks a Salvation Army Corps.

LONDON, Feb. 2.—There was rioting in Eastbourne at the Salvation Army celebration of the founding of the corps.

After the usual morning service the Salvationists marched through the streets under police protection, but were only disturbed by running comments and chaff from the crowds on the sidewalks.

In the afternoon a mob rapidly collected at the Army citadel, and as the "soldiers" filed out, singing their processional hymn, they were subjected to more chaff, accompanied by the singing of a ribald parody yelling and hooting. Several hundred well-dressed men formed a corps 20 abreast, and, surging up, followed the Army to the beach, where it was proposed to hold a meeting.

Along the whole route windows, balconies and even carriages in the streets were filled with gazing visitors watching the scene.

A huge mob awaited the Army at the seafront, and with howls drowned the voices of the Army lasses. The police had great difficulty in clearing a way for the "soldiers," who had to cling tenaciously to their instruments and toys, without daring to even attempt to play a note. Directly the service began the mob broke down upon the Army, shouting, "Throw them into the sea!"

The forces of the police were augmented and, without rush or after rush, although nearly overpowered by numbers.

The Salvationists were pelted with pebbles by the mob throughout the half hour they remained on the beach. Then their service was seemingly ended, although not a word of it had been heard, the members of the Army commenced their return march.

They climbed to the parade with the utmost difficulty, their assailants making frequent rushes, but failing to capture the Salvationist flag. Despite hand-to-hand encounters with policemen were continued. A few clergymen and soldiers were present, but held aloof.

When the struggling crowd had reached a point opposite the Burlington Hotel, the police having become exhausted, another rally was made and proved successful.

The flag was seized from its stalwart bearer and torn to shreds. Caps were snatched from Salvationists' heads and tossed in the air or kicked into the roadway amid execrations. Some fainting lasses who swooned from pain and fright were nearly trampled upon.

The scene of violence was continued till the Army retreated into the Citadel, and even then the mob was loth to disperse, and still came into collision with the police.

Several of the Salvationists were badly injured, and the uniforms of all were spoiled.

Ran on the Rocks.

LONDON, Feb. 2.—The steamer Eider, New York for Bremen, ashore on the Atterfield rocks, Isle of Wight, yesterday.

In the afternoon, however, the Eider's engines were started and an attempt was made to get her afloat with her own power. There is now no prospect of floating the Eider until the next high tide, however. It is believed there is not the slightest danger of loss of life. Every precaution has been taken to land all the passengers safely should occasion arise.

A despatch at 10 p.m. says all the passengers and the rest of the mails have been safely landed. The crew remain aboard preparing for the attempt to tow the steamer off. The attempt will be made at 1 o'clock in the morning. The last boatload of passengers was landed amid the rejoicing of a large crowd on the beach. The rescuing crews received an ovation. The steamer remains aboard the ship. The captain thinks the vessel will come to no harm during the night. The weather is finer than during the day, the night being clear and starlight.

The Eider left New York Jan. 23, carrying 19 first-class passengers and 176 steerage passengers for Bremen. She also carried a large quantity of mail matter and a valuable assorted cargo.

Hospitals At Odessa Crowded With Fever Patients Suffering From Hunger.

LONDON, Feb. 2.—The Odessa correspondent of The Daily News says: Hunger typhus is spreading alarmingly. In large towns in this region all the hospitals are filled and private buildings are being converted into hospitals. This is the state of affairs in Moskoosks and Vlodomeril.

A correspondent writing from Rissan declares that the more fanatical and superstitious portion of the peasantry believes that Count Tolstoi is Anti-Christ and decline to accept his bounty for fear that they will thus commit their souls to perdition.

Wales' Old Doctor Dead.

LONDON, Feb. 2.—By the death of Sir Oscar Clayton, the surgeon-in-ordinary to the Prince of Wales has lost one of his oldest friends. Clayton was the first of the doctors summoned when the Prince was ill, as in 1871, to diagnose the case of typohid fever, and he has always had the credit of saving the Prince's life. Sir Oscar was a rich bachelor and nearly 70 years old when he died, but he never cared to be reminded that he had grown old. He always dyed his hair and enjoyed life immensely.

At Rest From Toil.

MENTONE, Feb. 2.—The remains of the Rev. Charles H. Spurgeon are lying on the bed on which he died. The bed around the body is almost hidden from sight by the number of floral wreaths that have been sent by relatives, friends and admirers of the deceased. The features of the dead minister show not the slightest evidence of death agony. He looks as though he had simply fallen asleep, and his face bears the placid expression of one at rest from toil. The body will be removed to-morrow to the mortuary chapel in the cemetery.

Stealing Door Handles to Procure Food.

LONDON, Feb. 2.—Russian advices show that large numbers of starving peasants are daily arriving at Samara, a city of about 75,000 inhabitants. They are unable to find work or procure food and many of them are being made desperate by the pangs of hunger. The robbery of shops, houses, etc., is becoming frequent. The suffering poor steal anything that they can lay their hands on that will bring them money, even brass plates are taken from the doors of houses and door handles. Many of the streets are strewn with corpses, those attacked by typhus fever and they are dying in large numbers.

All Quiet in Samoa.

AUCKLAND, New Zealand, Feb. 2.—Advices have been received from Samoa to the effect that Mataafa's followers have abandoned their cause and the danger of civil war is now over. Baron Pilsach has withdrawn his resignation of the presidency of the Apia council.

Some tobaccos spurt up in the pipe while smoking, with little crackling explosions. This is caused by the addition of foreign matter to assist the combustion. When the purity of the tobacco is not tampered with and it has been properly taken care of, this combustible foreign matter is wholly unnecessary. For in that case it burns at a lower temperature than almost anything else. Nothing of this kind is seen in smoking the "Myrtle Navy." It burns with steady combustion throughout.

Nothing Hunts Out Corns

Like tight boots. Corns are very small affairs, but apply to them a pair of tight boots and all other concerns of life sink into insignificance. Tight boots and Putnam's Corn Extractor (the great and only sure cure for corns) may go together, and comfort will be their partner; but don't fail to use Putnam's Corn Extractor. Frauds, cheap, poisonous and dangerous substitutes, are in the market. Beware of them. Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor. Polson & Co., proprietors, Kingston.

An Important Matter.

The following resolution, which was passed at the annual meeting of the West Hastings Agricultural Society, was last evening presented at the Council meeting. The subject will no doubt be discussed at a subsequent meeting and some action taken thereon:

Moved by J. M. Farley, seconded by J. Johnston, That in view of the present position of the West Hastings Agricultural Society, the mortgagees having taken possession of the grounds and buildings and the Society being unable to redeem them, the City of Belleville be requested through its Council and Board of Trade to furnish the Society with public exhibition grounds in the city, for the use of which the Society would pay a fair annual rental and would hold an annual exhibition in Belleville; and that attention be earnestly called to the fact that unless grounds are furnished in Belleville the annual Government grant will be permanently diverted to other places, and the Bay of Quinte District Exhibition will no longer be held in the city of Belleville, which has now a possible opportunity of acquiring as a reasonable figure fully equipped exhibition grounds and park; and that copies of this resolution be forwarded to the Clerk of the City Council, President of the Board of Trade and the press.

Hospital Notes.

The largest number of patients admitted in any month since the Hospital was opened, was during January of the present year, when 25 were received for treatment. The number at present is 20. One death occurred during the month.

The staff of nurses has been increased, thus enabling the Hospital Board to supply in some measure the demand for trained nurses in private families. From this new source of revenue there has been derived, during the months of December and January, $106. The nurses trained in the Hospital have given satisfaction in all the cases they have attended, thus reflecting great credit on Miss Gordon's ability in fitting them so well for their important work.

Prince Edward Campaign.

There was another rousing meeting in the interest of Mr. Millar held last evening at Redneraville. The hall was packed to the doors with a large number of farmers from the Township of Ameliasburg, and a large number of ladies were also present. Strong addresses were given by H. Corby, M.P., W. C. Mikel, W. B. Northrup, Robert Read and Wm. Anderson, during which the inconsistencies of the reform fad were ably discussed. From all over the county most encouraging reports are given, and there is every prospect that Mr. Millar will be returned again to represent the banner county with a largely increased majority.

THE CITY FATHERS.

A Lively Meeting of the Council Last Evening.

Ald. Hanley Tenders His Resignation—Lengthy Discussion on Committee Work.

A regular session of the City Council was held last evening.

Present—Mayor Bogart, Ald. Sherlib, Clarke, Foster, Hay, Fenton, Fowell, Luscombe, Skinner, Hopkins, Wallbridge, Anderson, Graham, Slaser, Starling, Taylor, Walmsley, La Roche, Lingham and Doyle.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and confirmed.

COMMUNICATIONS.

A petition was presented from a number of ratepayers of Murney Ward, asking for a chemical fire engine for use in the ward in case of fire.

From R. J. Graham, asking for exemption from taxation on building which he erected last spring and others in contemplation for the use of his evaporating works.

A resolution was read from the West Hastings Agricultural Society relative to providing grounds for holding an exhibition.

From Ald. Walmsley, asking to be relieved from the position of chairman of the Court of Revision Committee.

From Ald. Hanley, tendering his resignation as a representative from Murney Ward.

A number of accounts were presented.

REPORTS.

Reports were presented from the Executive, recommending payment of a few accts.

The Mayor stated that at a meeting of the Police Commissioners, it was decided that the Chief of Police be the sanitary inspector, together with his staff as his assistants, for this year.

Council went into committee of the whole on reports, Ald. Taylor in the chair.

An account of $10 for work performed by Mr. H. Carre was objected to.

Ald. Clarke objected to the account being paid. He, as a member of the Executive Committee, had not been notified of the meeting of the committee.

Ald. Walmsley and Starling objected to the account, as being illegal. Ald. Walmsley moved that the account be laid over for further consideration.

The account was passed, as were also the others mentioned in the report.

The resignation of Ald. Hanley was next taken up.

Ald. Skinner moved, seconded by Ald. Anderson, that the resignation be laid over for two weeks.

Ald. Walmsley moved in amendment that the resignation be accepted. Murney Ward should not be kept out of a representative.

Ald. Anderson thought that the acceptance of the resignation should be deferred. It should not be accepted so unceremoniously.

Ald. Skinner was of the opinion that it would be courteous to Ald. Hanley to defer its acceptance.

Ald. Fenton wished the resignation deferred for the present.

Ald. Doyle said he was in favor of accepting the resignation of Ald. Hanley. Ald. Hanley would not send in his resignation if he was not in earnest.

Ald. Starling was in favor of Ald. Hanley remaining in Council and continuing as chairman of the Public Works Committee, as there was a deficit of $3 000 from his last year's management to provide for.

Ald. Walmsley said that the position of Ald. Hanley was an important one and should be filled.

Ald. Fowell thought that Ald. Hanley's resignation should be laid over for the time being.

The motion of Ald. Skinner was carried.

Ald. Walmsley's resignation was considered. Ald. Anderson was in favor of having it deferred. It was not necessary for a lawyer to preside at the Court of Revision.

Ald. Doyle was in favor of the resignation being accepted. Ald. Walmsley was a faithful member and he was sorry to have him leave that committee.

Ald. Walmsley said he resigned because he would be absent from the city two months. He was willing to do all he could for the interest of the city, but could not fill the position, and asked to be excused.

The motion for its non-acceptance was carried.

The committee rose and reported. The report was received. On motion that it be adopted, Ald. Walmsley moved, seconded by Ald. Taylor, That it be not now adopted, but referred back and his resignation be accepted.

Ald. Skinner said if Ald. Walmsley had been appointed as chairman of the Executive he would not resign on account of his going away. It did not require a lawyer to fill the position of chairman of the Court of Revision.

Ald. Walmsley said he had received a letter from California dated Jan. 26th, which would compel him to leave for about two months. He would have to go if he had been elected to the position of chairman of the Executive Committee.

Ald. Anderson wished Ald. Walmsley to reconsider his resignation. He appealed to him to take his share of the burden of the committee and retain the position he had been appointed to.

Ald. Walmsley asked Ald. Anderson if he would act in his place during his absence. Ald. Anderson said he would.

Ald. Starling thought that the resignation should be accepted, it having been given in good faith.

The amendment was lost and the motion to adopt the report was carried.

Ald. Fowell introduced a by-law to extend Avon street.

Ald. Clarke introduced a by-law to limit the number of tavern licenses, and also to increase the duties to be imposed. The by-law provides that the number of taverns shall be reduced 20, that the license for ordinary taverns shall be fixed at $200, beer and wine shops $100, and wholesale $150.

Council went into committee of the whole on By laws, Ald. Hay in the chair.

The by-law to extend Ann St. was given its first reading, as was also the by-law to reduce the number of licenses. These were referred to the By law committee.

The report of the committee was received and adopted.

MOTION.

Ald. Starling moved, seconded by Ald. Doyle, that the name of Ald. Skinner or Anderson be struck off the Executive committee, and Ald. Walmsley's name be substituted. The mover said that the by-law should be carried out. The committee should be legal. There should not be two representatives from Ketcheson Ward and not one from Murney Ward.

Ald. Doyle stated that Murney Ward was the largest Ward in the city, and should be represented upon such an important committee. Ald. Walmsley was a faithful member of the Executive Committee last year, and he would like to see him upon the committee this year. For some reason he was left off this year, which he did not think was just. If a wrong was done, it should be rectified.

Ald. Skinner stated that last year Ketcheson Ward had two representatives and Bleecker Ward had no representative upon the Executive Committee.

Ald. Doyle stated that if a wrong was done last year it should be remedied this year.

Ald. Walmsley said he would insist that a fair representation from Murney Ward be made on that committee.

Ald. Anderson raised a point of order, that no notice had been given of the motion. It was a notice to rescind a motion of the Council. The notice should set out what the motion was.

The Mayor ruled that the motion was not in accord with the notice given at the last meeting of the Council and was therefore out of order.

Ald. Walmsley asked if the committee, as constituted, was legal.

The query was not answered.

Ald. Lingham suggested that other names be added to the Executive Committee, and thus the difficulty would be avoided.

Ald. Starling moved, seconded by Ald. Walmsley, that the report of the Special Committee be referred back for consideration.

Ald. Clarke, moved in amendment, seconded by Ald. Foster, that the following words be added: That Ald. Anderson's name be struck out of the Executive Committee and that of Ald. Walmsley substituted.—Ruled out of order.

Ald. Fenton had no objection of the report being referred back. It was worthy of consideration. Nothing was asked in the motion which he could not support. The committee, he felt, would deal fairly with the matter.

Ald. Starling said something had been done which was illegal and the report should be rescinded.

Ald. Anderson was prepared to step off the committee if the Council saw fit and allow Ald. Walmsley's name to be placed thereon.

Ald. Walmsley wanted the ward he represented to have a representative on the Executive Committee.

The motion of Ald. Starling was defeated.

NOTICE OF MOTIONS.

Ald. Walmsley gave notice that any business transacted by the Executive Committee, as at present constituted, would be illegal and the members would be held responsible.

Ald. Fowell gave notice of a motion, authorizing the Street Surveyor to trim the trees upon the streets.

Ald. Starling gave notice of a motion to strike his name off the Water and Gas Committee and substitute Ald. Skinner's name, and to strike his name off the Court of Revision Committee and substitute Ald. Anderson's name.

Ald. Anderson gave notice of motion to amend clause 56 in the procedure by law, regulating the number upon the committees.

The 9th order of business was referred back to and the pay sheet passed, after which the Council adjourned.

Correspondence.

Whilst correspondents will be accorded space for the expression of their ideas on topics of public interest, it must be in all cases understood that the views so expressed are simply those of the correspondents themselves.

DEAR SIR,—Having carefully read ing Mr. Flint's letters respecting ghosts, and I am at a loss as to what is to be derived from such writings. Can it be possible that Mr. Flint is asking the people of this age to believe that the material can see the immaterial? He quotes Elias and Moses. The good book distinctly tells us that the appearance of the apparition was a vision which was employed for a certain purpose. I think I can account for all those ghosts that have been seen. It is the outcome of a weak mind. Some people are so weak minded that a man sometimes becomes a ghost. The fact of their saying they saw it is no proof of the reality. For instance, some years ago a minister was returning home from preaching one Sunday evening (in the States), when he saw a man in front of him, and thinking that he would have company tried to overtake him, but failed. He came to the conclusion that it was supernatural, and strange to say the apperition followed him into his home and remained with him. He sent for a doctor and asked him to bleed him. This was done, and as the blood was taken away so the ghost disappeared. So it would be, I believe, with Mr. Flint's ghosts. The question may be asked, whither are we drifting? Does Mr. Flint want to take us back to the dark days in England and Ireland, when people were held in terror by such stories? Surely a man of such learning and abilities can find something more edifying to give us than ghost stories.

Yours truly,
JOHN HARRIS.

District Intelligence.

Mrs. John Youngs, who lives a few miles from Mount Moriah, died suddenly on Tuesday. She had been ill only a few hours.

Mrs. Hailstone, who was shot last fall by her husband, John Hailstone, who afterwards shot and killed himself, is dying from blood poisoning caused by the wound received at that time.

We are informed that a requisition signed by 51 rate payers, propoaing a Prohibitory Bylaw, was presented to the municipal Council of the Township of Dungannon, at their first meeting on the 18th inst., and a poll demanded to determine whether it shall be adopted by the electors or not. —Review

18 Pounds of Blood

Is about the quantity nature allows to an adult person. It is of the utmost importance that the blood should be kept as pure as possible. By its remarkable cures of scrofula, salt rheum, etc, Hood's Sarsaparilla has proven its claim to be the best blood purifier.

For a general family cathartic we confidently recommend Hood's Pills. They should be in every home medicine chest.

Not on the Bench.

"You say this man had been drinking," said his Honor. "Drinking what?"

"Whiskey, I suppose," answered Officer Motobike.

"You suppose! Don't you know whiskey? Aren't you a judge?"

"No, your Honor. Only a policeman."

He Swore Off.

"Your husband swore off from smoking at the beginning of the year, I believe?"

"Yes; it was awfully good of him. And I had just bought him a box of cigars as a present, too."

"Indeed!"

"Yes; and he only smoked one and then swore off."

Good Reason for Stopping.

Mrs. Grassevenor—"Why not? Haven't I qualified myself by getting a divorce?"

Miss Footlights—"But you got your divorce by declaring your husband's intemperance your opinion on 'tights' is now on record."

Another Plot

The Czar—"A horrible thought strikes me!"

The Lord High Executioner—"What is that your Majesty?"

The Czar—"If that dentist was a Nihilist he may have filled my teeth with dynamite. Then the first time I bite hard I shall blow the top of my head off."

TERROR IN LONDON.

STRANGLERS AND BODY-SNATCHERS REAPING HARVESTS.

Manning's Body Watched—Forty People Mysteriously Disappear—Is Burkism Revived?—Cemeteries Robbed—Scotland Yard Puzzled.

LONDON, Feb. 2.—Mysterious disappearances are alarming Londoners just now. They have made a scare almost equal to that of Jack the Ripper.

About forty people now missing. Police are mystified. Men of means who have gone upon visits have vanished as completely as though, like Elijah, they were carried up into the clouds. Women who went shopping have not returned to their homes.

Strange to say all the people sought after lived in neighborhoods tapped by underground railroads.

Scotland Yard has a theory. It always has. Its theory is horrifying. In substance it is this:

A series of murders by imitators of the notorious Scotch body-snatchers—or rather strangler—Messrs. Burke and Hare, whose little ugly figures in wax formerly adorned the Thousand Chamber of Horrors.

The murderers attack and kill their victims in dark passages and lonely streets and sell their bodies to doctors. Or, the police say further, the assassins may boil the bodies in oil to obtain perfect skeletons to satisfy the doctors who are anxious to discover the bacillus of influenza.

There was a similar condition of affairs when Burke and Hare began their awful work in Edinburgh. Their plan was to watch for pedestrians in lonely places, leap on them from behind, strangle them to death and put their bodies into sacks. They were then taken to a sort of central agency for medical colleges and sold at the rate of about $15 per cadaver.

In this way the precious pair of scamps secured and sold upwards of 70 "subjects." Their work was very rapid, too, and they knew that as soon as a "hue and cry" were raised their occupation would be gone.

While the police of Edinburgh were at their "wit's end" a servant girl gave them a clue. She was preceding a neighbor in a by-path north west of the city one Saturday afternoon. Suddenly she heard a scream and then saw a thick-set men hurrying into a thicket with what appeared to be a big bag.

She proceeded to the neighbor's house and gave her friends an account of the incident. The neighbor never returned. One afternoon subsequently the woman who had seen the men in the thicket met them on a public street. She notified the authorities, who finally arrested and convicted the villainous pair — one being hanged and the other dying before the day of execution arrived. Their nefarious operations gave rise to the word "burking."

London is then, according to the detectives, about to awaken to a condition of things such as Edinburgh knew of. Of course medical men deny there is any necessity for murders in order to secure subjects. They claim that the workhouses and the morgues furnish an ample and legitimate supply. The police, however, are convinced that the stranglers' are abroad, and they will doubtless soon make arrests based on their convictions.

EH! ABOLISH FOOTLIGHTS!

Mr. Herkomer's Suggestion to Do Away With the Dearest Tradition of the Theatre.

LONDON, Feb. 2.—On Thursday afternoon Mr. Hubert Herkomer, the well known artist, delivered a lecture at the Avenue Theatre to a professional audience. Many well-known members of the dramatic profession were present, including Mr. Bancroft, Mr. Charles Wyndham, manager of the Criterion Theatre; Mr. Beerbohm Tree, manager of the Haymarket Theatre, and Mrs. Langtry. The subject of Mr. Herkomer's lecture was "Scenic Anomalies of the Modern Stage." He referred in a humorous manner to square cornered firmaments, perpendicularly rising moons and wobbling scenery of that kind.

He advocated the abolishment of footlights in favor of groups of lights on a level with the faces of the actors. These lights, he said, should be placed on each side of the auditorium, about 10 feet from the proscenium. He maintained that a contracting and expanding proscenium worked by one man, could easily be fitted in all theatres, for that hovels of the magnitude of a palace would no longer offend the eye. The conductor of the orchestra and the orchestra itself should be below the line of sight, as was the case in Wagner's Theatre at Bayreuth, which Mr. Herkomer declared, was his ideal of what a playhouse should be. Mr. Henry Irving, he said, deserved the thanks of his community for the matchless staging of his productions.

BERLIN, Feb. 2.—A man named Erbe and his paramour, a woman named Rustrock, have been arrested at Magdeburg on a charge of murdering a young woman named Klages, daughter of the steward of an estate near that town.

It is alleged that Erbe and his accomplice lured the girl to Hanover on the pretence that she was to accompany the family of that city on a trip to Italy. At Hanover, where the girl was a total stranger, it was comparatively easy to rob her and put her out of the way without leaving a clue to the murderers.

This is what the police expect to prove was done. They also claim to have evidence that the first victim of the couple was a woman named Kastner, who, during the absence of the two were not the only ones robbed and murdered, all the victims being serving-women.

Lord Lorne's Sinecure.

LONDON, Feb. 2.—There is no end of scandal because the Marquis of Lorne has received a practical token of the Queen's interest, and has been made Governor of Windsor Castle, where he has absolutely nothing to do except to sign the receipt for his annual salary of over $7000.

Lorne has had more kicks than kisses from his royal relatives by marriage. Since ascribed the Queen's illness last fall to the fact of his wife, the Princess Louise, being the only one of Her Majesty's children who has not supplied her with grandchildren.

A Scarcity of Mutton.

PARIS, Feb. 2.—Temps in an article published to-day says that a scarcity of mutton is probably due to the importation of foreign sheep into France cessing under the new tariff law.

Six Thousand Engineers Strike.

LONDON, Feb. 2.—Six thousand engineers employed in works on the Rivers Wear, Tyne and Tees have struck in consequence of a dispute regarding payment for overtime.

Man and Wife Murdered by Burglars.

PARIS, Feb. 2.—Burglars entered the house of a man named Bourgues, near Compeigne, and after murdering him and his wife plundered and set fire to the house.

Fretted Himself to Death.

CAST ON THE WORLD!
OR,
The Border Marriage.
A STORY OF THE GREAT GLASGOW BANK ROBBERY.

'But surely you and Mr. Ravensworth can throw light upon the matter, for I infer that mamma's departure was connected with your visit.'

Charles turned towards Philip with a look of alarm and consternation, and saw that his friend's face was no less grave and anxious.

'This is more serious than we thought,' observed Ravensworth.

'Oh, do you know about it,' Philip?' exclaimed Dora. 'I have ridden over to the Hall every day in the hope of seeing you, but found you always absent. For heaven's sake tell me the meaning of this dreadful mystery, and relieve my oppressed heart.'

'He has never left it since he returned without mamma,' she answered. 'He spends most of his time alone in the library and he is so stern and irritable. When I venture to ask about mamma he gets angry at once, and orders me to be silent.'

'Is he in the library now?'

'To most likely, he seldom quits it.'

'Charles,' added Philip, turning to the young man, 'it may be as well that I alone should have the interview with Lord Eaglehurst. And while I go to find him, you cannot do better than talk with Dora; you have much to tell her.'

'Alas! alas! what ill tidings am I to hear,' faltered the fair girl, her wan, pale, face turning whiter still.

'No ill tidings—quite the opposite,' replied Philip. 'This sad mystery, which has troubled you so much, my poor girl, is at an end. Charles can dispel it, and he will do so immediately. He has some wonderful —very wonderful things to tell you. But don't look scared; the revelations will give you unbounded delight. I envy him the opportunity of imparting so much joy and happiness.'

'Of Lady Eaglehurst's condition we know nothing; but rest assured that the mystery regarding her is also at an end. Wait my return at the far end of the lime-tree walk. When my interview with his lordship terminates I will seek you there.'

He waved his hand with a cheerful smile, and walked away towards the mansion, leaving Dora and Charles standing alone—the former gazing at the latter with eager, breathless expectation.

'Charles, what—oh, what have you to tell me!' she gasped.

A great throb of brotherly emotion came into his heart, and he yearned to fold her to his breast—give her a fond, fraternal kiss and call her sister. But the impulse was subordinated to prudence, and conscious that the information he had to give must first be communicated, he gently drew her away into the shady walk.

'This is too public a place for the nature of my communications,' he observed. 'The seclusion of the summer house at the end of the walk is more desirable. Let us go thither.'

She silently took the arm he offered, and walked on by his side, hurrying, her steps in her impatient anxiety to hear his tidings.

'I am truly distressed, dear Dora, to see you so worn with grief,' he remarked, as they went along. 'I little imagined while we were so happy in the north how greatly you were suffering here.'

'I heard of your marriage,' she rejoined. 'I would congratulate you, and ask for Mary, but pardon me if I cannot—cannot speak or think of anything till this mystery is cleared up and my mind relieved.'

'Well, you heard Mr. Ravensworth say that I was able to do it in the wonderful and joyful revelations I have to make. Believe that this is true, and that your pain and anxiety are at an end. In one respect only will my tidings give you pain, and that is as they have respect to the conduct of Lord Eaglehurst. But there I have the same cause for sadness as you.'

'I am already half prepared to hear something not good of papa,' returned Dora. 'You know how cruel, unjust, and tyrannical he has been of late. Not that the old tyranny was not bad enough, but that is to be regretted,' she added with a blush.

'You mean the breaking off of our proposed marriage?' said Charles with a laugh.

'Or rather your marriage with Mary Woodford,' said Dora. 'There was at least one happy event which came from papa's bad conduct.'

'Yes, we are not a bit pained, then, at my marriage with Dora.'

'No, indeed,' she answered, in a sincere and honest tone.

'Not even at the haste which we manifested?'

'Was there not a good reason for that?' she inquired.

'We thought so,' he returned, with a smile.

'I am so glad that the estrangement has ceased—at least, I judge it has, from Mr. and Mrs. Ravensworth having been down with you in Scotland.'

'You heard then of his opposition and our quarrel?'

'I did, and was grieved by it, for where could you find a better wife than Mary Woodford?'

'Mr. Ravensworth has come to be of the same opinion now, said Charles with another smile, 'and we shall learn bye and bye. But here we are at the summer house, and other matters of even more pressing interest demand our attention.'

The lime-walk terminated at the brow of a deep romantic ravine, and at the top of the slope a circular little building had been erected, open in front and seated within so that from it a fine view of the dell could be obtained. It was a very secluded spot. Behind was the shady, far stretching lime-walk, and in front the gorge, with its dark wood of firs beyond—a place of perfect privacy and silence.

Charles led Dora into the summer house, and sat down beside her. The eager look and breathless attitude returned to her and in this way she waited for his communication.

'You remember when and where these troubles began?' he said, as he laid his arm on the little rustic table, and bestowed on her an earnest loving look.

'Yes,' she readily replied. 'They had their origin in the discovery of your birth, which was made in Dick Morris's cottage when we sought shelter from the rain.'

'The discovery that I was the son of Huffey White!' said Charles with a peculiar smile.

'Yes! from that moment the conduct of mamma and papa has been inexplicable. You remember how dreadfully shocked mamma was at the time. Then papa broke off the marriage on account of—'

'And his ostensible reason,' resumed Charles, 'was that I was the son of such a wretch.'

'That was the reason,' rejoined Dora, 'and a most unworthy one it was, I fear, Charles, had we been really in love with each other, we should not have paid much heed to it, but taken our own way in defiance of his command.'

'Perhaps so,' said Charles, gravely. 'But the kind and degree of our affection was providentially directed, as you will speedily understand. For I have now to tell you, Dora, that his lordship did not break off the marriage because I was the son of Huffey White.'

'Charles—what mean you!' she cried, in wonder.

'Lord Eaglehurst,' went on the youth and speaking now with marked gravity, 'Lord Eaglehurst knew that I was not the son of that man.'

'Not the son of Huffey White!' exclaimed Dora.

'No.'

'Merciful providence! Then whose son are you?'

'Dora, I am the son of Lord and Lady Eaglehurst.'

'The son of Lord and Lady Eaglehurst! Impossible.'

'It is true. I discovered it by an extraordinary accident in Edinburgh; at least I heard there a story which made me strongly suspect the fact and my last visit to the Grange was paid to learn the truth. His lordship would have denied it, but a mother's feelings were too strong for Lady Eaglehurst, and with a great cry of affection, she proclaimed me to be her son, threw herself into my arms and went in a swoon.'

CULLODEN CULLINGS.

GENTLEMEN,—In 1888 I was severely afflicted with gravel of the kidneys, from which I suffered great pain. I was recommended to take Burdock Blood Bitters, which I did, finding great relief, and after taking 4 bottles can truly say I am cured and have not since been troubled. I highly recommend it.

GOOD FEED'S DONE.

THE good deeds done by that unequalled family liniment, Dayard's Yellow Oil, during the thirty years it has been held in over increasing esteem by the public, would fill volumes. We cannot here enumerate all its good qualities, but that it can be relied on as a cure for croup, coughs, colds, sore throat and all pains, goes without saying.

Parmelee's Pills possesses the power of acting specifically upon the diseased organs, stimulating to action the dormant energies of the system, thereby removing disease. In fact, so great is the power of this medicine to cleanse and purify, that diseases of almost every name and nature are driven from the body. Mr D. Caswell, Caswell P. O., Ont., writes: "I have tried Parmelee's Pills and find them an excellent medicine, and one that will sell well."

Griefs are over coming to us with the coming hours, and our little strength is only as the day.

Those of the gentle sex who have experienced the pain and annoyance caused by excoriated nipples and inflamed breasts can well appreciate the value of a remedy which removes the trouble. This is precisely what Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil does, besides curing when used internally, asthma, croup and other maladies.

COMING EVENTS.

Coming consumption is foreshadowed by a hacking cough, night sweats, pain in the chest, etc. Arrest its progress at once by taking Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam, which never fails to cure coughs, colds, bronchitis hoarseness, etc., and even in confirmed consumption affords great relief.

Mrs. Harry Pearson, Hawtrey, writes: For about three months I was troubled with fainting spells and dizziness which was growing worse, and would attack me three or four times a day. At last my husband purchased a bottle of Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery, from which I derived considerable benefit. I then procured another, and before it was used my affliction was completely gone, and I have not had an attack of it since.

GOSSIP OF THE OLD WORLD

EMPEROR OF GERMANY WITH HIS ARM IN A SLING.

The Death of the Mother of the Empress of Austria—The Grand Duke Constantine Was a Noted Man in Early Days—Trouble Over the Big Guns—A Gift for Bismarck.

NEW YORK, Feb. 3.—Emanuel Yates cables to The Tribune: The Princess of Wales will go to Paris at the end of this week accompanied by Prince George and Princess Victoria and Maud, and after a brief stay at the Hotel Bristol will proceed south to St. Raphael where she will reside several weeks at Villa Nevada. The Princess will visit the Duke and Duchess of Cumberland at Gmunden before she returns to England, and possibly will go also to Copenhagen.

His Arm in a Sling.

Emperor William met with a rather serious accident during a recent shooting excursion which has been kept very quiet indeed. The Emperor, while engaged in a wild boar hunt, slipped and fell heavily on his right arm, which was so severely bruised and sprained that it had to be kept in a sling for two days and His Majesty was advised to rest it for a longer period. This accident might have had grave results, for the Emperor's left arm is absolutely useless.

Both Emperor and Empress of Austria were too unwell to go to the funeral of the Empress Dowager, who died last week at the age of 86, having survived her husband nearly four years. The Empress is now in Algiers, and her medical attendants are very anxious as to the possible effects of her mother's death on her mind and health. The Empress Louise Wilhelmina was a woman of strong character and great energy; she inherited none of the peculiarities of the Bavarian Royal Family and always exercised a salutary influence on her daughter whose eccentricities she often checked at important moments. She spent nearly her whole life in Munich, where she was born, during all the troubles occasioned by invasions of Napoleon I. In consequence of numerous deaths in the Imperial family of Austria it was proposed to give up this year, for the first time, the carnival festivities in Vienna. The Emperor refused to sanction the proposal on account of the injury it would do the trade of the Austrian capital, where the winter season has been the worst ever remembered.

The Empress of Russia will probably go to Algiers for a few weeks towards the end of this month, to join her second son, the Grand Duke George, who is in a most precarious state of health. The Grand Duke is passing the winter at El Biar villa, a few miles from Algiers.

The Late Duke Constantine.

The Grand Duke Constantine Nicolaitvitch was one of the most remarkable of the imperial family, although he had elected of late years to hide his light under a bushel. He owed his early education, and possibly the liberality of his opinions, to his tutor, Count Lukc. He was, as a young man, an ardent advocate of the abolition of serfdom, and once shut himself up for several weeks so as to thoroughly master the Polish language. Although the attempt was afterwards made to assassinate him he resolutely declined to adopt any cruel measure of repression. Alexander II. had a strong belief in the great administrative powers of his favorite brother and gave him in succession all the highest offices of trust. When Alexander II. was murdered he threw up all his appointments and retired to Castle Orianda in the Crimea, where he led the life of a private gentleman to the day of his death. His nephew frequently endeavored to induce him to return to public life, but the ex-admiral-in-chief resolutely declined to leave his peaceful home, although much attached to the Empress, who feels his death most acutely.

The Queen's Favorite.

Helena Vacaresco, the favorite lady-in-waiting of the Queen of Roumania, whose engagement to Prince Ferdinand of Hohenzollern Sigmaringen, Crown Prince of Roumania, caused much commotion a few months ago, is the daughter of a wealthy member of the well-known Cartacovenne family. Now that the destiny of this young lady has been comfortably settled we may specially expect to hear of the Crown Prince's betrothal to Princess Marie of Edinburgh, unless, indeed, the Emperor of Russia succeeds in preventing the marriage, in which he will not be the more reconciled from the fact that the German Empeaor is much in favor of it.

Gladstone's Sympathy.

Mr. Gladstone not only manifested his sympathy, by writing both to the Queen and Prince of Wales, but telegraphed to express his deep regret that it was impossible for him to return to England to attend the funeral of the Duke of Clarence, and expressed the wish that he might be permitted to send Herbert Gladstone as his representative. This proposal, however, could not be accepted as only royal personages are represented on such occasions, and it would have created a most inconvenient precedent.

The Big Guns.

It would seem that nothing can be done with the 111 ton guns without blundering. A Malta correspondent says the other day the flag ship Victoria was taken under the 160 ton crane to have one of the big guns, which had been fired, shifted in order to bring it around five-sixteenths of an inch. It had been known all along that the gun had been inaccurately placed in position, but the dockyard people said the ship's officers could soon get it to rights. This view of matters was not taken by the ship's officers, but they did their best without avail. Consequently a large sum of money was expended on a second operation which with ordinary foresight ought not to have been necessary.

Bismarck's Present.

Prince Bismarck has just received a valuable present from the German colony in Burmah. It consists of a centre piece of solid silver, two feet long and three feet high. The pedestal is entirely covered with beautifully worked figures and at each corner are artistically executed elephants, each of which carries a large ivory tusk, which is hollowed out and decorated with Burmese carving. This gift, which is pronounced by experts to be the finest piece of master-piece of Burmese finniatry which ever reached Europe, has taken 18 months to complete.

A Babe in the Bush.

STRATHROY, Feb. 3.—James Milligan found a raisin box on the 12th sideroad, between the 9th and 10th concessions of Adelaide, and in it was the body of a female child. An inquest is in progress, and meantime a couple of arrests have been made.

The First White Settler in California.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 3.—Jacob Leese, the first white settler in California, died here yesterday, aged 82 years. He came to California in 1833 and built the first house in San Francisco in 1838.

MORTAR-SPOTTED SKIN

Covered with Scales. Awful Spectacle. Cured In Six Weeks by the Cuticura Remedies.

About the 1st of April last I noticed some red pimples like coming out all over my body, but thought nothing of it until some time later on, when it began to look like spots of mortar spotted on, and which came off in layers accompanied with itching. I would scratch every night until I was raw, then the scales would collect on the sheets during the night; meanwhile were scratched, off again. In vain did I consult all the doctors in the county, but without aid. After giving up all hopes of recovery, I happened to see an advertisement in the papers about your CUTICURA REMEDIES, and purchased them from my druggist, and obtained almost immediate relief. I began to notice that the scaly eruptions gradually dropped off and disappeared one by one, and in short been fully cured. I had the disease thirteen months before I began taking the REMEDIES, and in four or five weeks was entirely cured. My disease was eczema and psoriasis. I know of a great many who have taken the REMEDIES, and thank me for the knowledge of them, especially mothers who have babies with scaly eruptions on their heads and bodies. I cannot express my thanks to you. My body was covered with scales, and I was an awful spectacle to behold. Now my skin is as clear as a baby's.

Dangerous Counterfeits.

Counterfeits are always dangerous, more so that they always closely IMITATE THE ORIGINAL IN APPEARANCE AND NAME. The remarkable success achieved by Nasal Balm as a positive cure for Catarrh and Cold in the head has induced unprincipled parties to imitate it. The public are cautioned not to be deceived by nostrums imitating Nasal Balm in name and appearance, hearing such names as Nasal Cream, Nasal Balsam, etc. Ask for Nasal Balm and do not take any imitation dealers may urge upon you. For sale by all druggists or sent post-paid on receipt of price (50c and $1.) by addressing Hor & Co. Brockville, Ont.

HAGYARD'S YELLOW OIL.

This great internal and external remedy always allays all pain. It is a specific for croup, and promptly cures coughs, cold, sore throat, sprains, bruises, burns, rheumatism, cuts, wounds, ear and toothache or bees. Stands all tests. Sold everywhere. Price 25 cents. Hagyard's Yellow Oil.

It is worse than madness to neglect a cough or cold which is easily subdued if taken in time, but beware when left to itself, the fore runner of consumption and premature death. Inflammation, when it attacks the delicate tissues of the lungs and bronchial tubes, travels with perilous rapidity; then do not delay, get a bottle of Rickle's Anti Consumptive Syrup, the medicine that grasps this formidable foe from the human body, and drives it from the system. This medicine promptes a free and easy expectoration, subdues the cough, heals the disease's parts, and exerts a most wonderful influence in curing consumption, bronchitis, coughs, colds and lungs If parents wish to save the lives of their children, and themselves from much anxiety, trouble and expense, let them procure a bottle of Rickle's Anti Consumptive Syrup, and whenever a child has taken cold, has a cough or hoarseness, give the Syrup according to directions

He was manifested to take away our sins.

In his Vegetable Pills, Dr. Parmelee has given to the world the fruits of long scientific research in the whole realm of medical science, combine1 with new and valuable discoveries never before known to man. For Delicate and Debilitated Constitutions Parmelee's Pills act like a charm. Taken in small doses, the effect is both a tonic and a stimulant, mildly exciting the secretions of the body, giving tone and vigor.

Mrs. L. Squire, Ontario Steam Dye Works, Toronto, says: "For about 30 years I have doctored for Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia without getting any cure. I then tried Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable discovery, and the benefits I have received from this medicine are such that I cannot withhold this expression of my gratitude. It sets immediately on the liver. As a Dyspepsia remedy I think it can be be equalled."

What man is will always depend upon what he believes God to be.

Thomas Robinson, Farnham Centre, P. O., writes:—"I have been afflicted with Rheumatism for the last ten years, and have tried many remedies without any relief. I got a bott e of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, and found it gave me instant relief, and since then have had no attack. I would recommend it to all.

Railroad Workmen Made Prisoners.

BUFFALO, Mont., Feb. 3.—Twenty-five hundred union workmen yesterday attacked the railroad camp of Foley Bros. & Guthrie of St. Paul, and took prisoners 100 railroad workmen from St. Paul. The road is a branch of the Great Northern, and the contractors are only paying $2 a day, while the union wages in Butte are $3 for that kind of work. The trouble has been pending a week, but the contractors would not consent to raise wages to the union scale. By a preconcerted plan union men from all over the city moved to the railroad camp yesterday and took all the men prisoners without a blow being struck or any property being destroyed. The men were taken to the city and given rooms at a house, and were required to join the Butte Workingmen's Union. It is likely that the leaders of the movement will be arrested.

Mercier v. Whelan.

QUEBEC, Feb. 3.—The investigation into the celebrated libel suit instituted during the month of December last by Hon. Honore Mercier against Mr. J. F. Whelan, contractor, was continued this morning, Mr. Justice Murray presiding.

Mr. Whelan was not present owing to illness.

Mr. R. B. White, M.P. for Cardwell and editor of The Montreal Gazette, was the first witness examined, and in his evidence did not in any way connect Mr. Whelan's name with the information furnished The Gazette that led to the article which is the cause of the libel.

The judge reserved his decision.

MONTREAL, Feb. 3.—So far as Montreal and its environs are concerned it does not look as if Mercier would receive support at the forthcoming elections. It is stated that not more than three or four priests are in favor of his returning to power. They feel that if they advise their flock to support him they will lose the respect and confidence of the best of their congregations. But above all they feel that as a matter of conscience they cannot support him any longer after the scandals that have come to light against him. This practically settles it, for though Mercier is very popular with some classes, if he does not get the support of the Catholic clergy this time, as he did last, he will not get in.

The Royal Commission have sent their first report to the Provincial Government. It simply consists of the evidence taken and the exhibits filed and abstains from expression of opinion. The commission will resume its sittings next week.

Ald. G. W. Stephens of this city, who has been asked to contest Huntingdon County in the Conservative interest, leaves to-morrow to confer with the leaders of the party there. The alderman, who has previously sat in the Quebec Legislature, has hitherto been a strong Liberal, but he is now strongly anti-Mercierite and declares the Mercier Government to have been the most infamous we ever had. There is little doubt but that he will accept the candidature.

Opera Managers Sued.

MONTREAL, Feb. 3.—Suits were entered here to-day against C. A. E. Harris and Henry Thomas, who contracted with Messrs. Abbey & Gran to give three nights of opera here. Madame Albani and Madame Scalchi were advertised to appear, and tickets were sold on this understanding. Madame Scalchi never came to Montreal. Her managers alleged indisposition, but the following night she sang in Boston. Mr. Harris throws the blame upon Messrs. Abbey & Gran, and has placed all the contracts and correspondence at the disposal of the public.

The Nicaragua Canal.

The Panama Star and Herald says the indications are that the Panama Canal enterprise will fall into the hands of the United States Government, and "judging from past experiences that would probably be the best thing that could happen for the enterprise, failing the support of the French Government. The Panama people have never believed very much in the Nicaragua Canal for various reasons, among them a natural objection to a rival scheme. But they are using the prospect of the isthmus as they have believed that the Nicaragua enterprise is merely a bluff game intended to depreciate the value of the Panama ditch and force it into the hands of Americans. The isthmus papers have published paragraphs detailing the non-success of this canal.

To Granulate Butter.

John Gould tells a story of Hoard's Dairyman how to granulate butter so that it will be in fine shot stage when washed. He says, "Add some water, say two quarts, at sixty-two degrees to the cream when the churn starts, a spoonful of salt will do no harm dissolved in the water. As soon as the cream shows sign of breaking up, add a little strong cold brine, and a little later on when the buttermilk shows nicely add at least two gallons of cold brine to the churn and revolve the churn slowly a few moments before proceeding with the washing."

How He Could Help.

BELLEVILLE, WEDNESDAY FEB. 3

UNANIMOUSLY NOMINATED.

At the East Hastings Conservative convention to-day, Mr. W. B. Northrup, of this city, received the unanimous nomination for the Commons.

THE WRIT ISSUED.

The writ for the election in East Hastings has been issued. Nomination takes place on the 13th inst. and polling on the 20th.

THE GRIT NOMINEE.

Mr. W. R. Aylsworth, Reeve of Deseronto and ex-Warden, has been chosen by Grits as their nominee in East Hastings. Mr. Aylsworth is a good citizen and an able municipal legislator, but his gifts are not those of a prominent parliamentary representative.

As a municipal man and as a private citizen we have a high respect for Mr. Aylsworth, but as the advocate of a policy which means destruction to our nationality through tariff discrimination against Great Britain, severance of British connection and annexation to the United States, he will have our most earnest opposition.

Of his defeat, on such a platform, we entertain not the slightest doubt.

THE GRITS CANNOT WIN.

Ten by election have now been determined, remarks the Montreal Gazette, without affecting the position of the Government. In North Lanark, Halton, Richmond, Glengarry and Cumberland the Ministerial candidates have won by increased majorities, as compared with last March; in Victoria, Nova Scotia and Kingston, the normal Conservative majorities have been maintained; in Lincoln the Liberals have improved their position; and in Richelieu, the second seat held by Sir Hector Langevin last session, local difficulties brought about an Opposition victory. Thirty-four seats are still vacant, the political representation of which after the general elections was as follows:

Liberal.	Conservative.
East Bruce,	East Elgin.
West Northumberland	East Middlesex,
East Simcoe,	Prince Edward,
South Perth,	South Victoria,
Welland,	Brome,
North Victoria,	Bagot,
Montmorency,	Halifax (2),
Houvrie,	Quebec West,
Digby,	Montcalm,
King's, N.S.,	Two Mountains,
Queen's, N.S.,	Total 11.
West Huron,
Prescott,
Queen's, N.B.,
Lennox,
Soulanges,
South Ontario,
Vaudreuil,
Monck,
Peel,
London,
Muskinonge,
East Hastings,
Montmagny,
Total 24.

At the very worst, therefore, the position of the Government is impregnable; that is to say, if every Conservative seat was lost, and not one Liberal seat gained, there would remain a Government majority of a dozen in the Commons. But, of course, no such eventuality is within the bounds of human probability; on the contrary, there is reason to believe that in addition to holding all the constituencies carried by Conservatives last March, and now vacant, the Government candidates will capture eight or ten of those represented by Liberals last session, and that the Ministerial majority will not fall below 40 when Parliament assembles on February 25th.

OUR "NATURAL MARKET."

HOW MUCH WOULD BE GAINED BY SELLING FARM PRODUCE ACROSS THE LINE?

The following are a few facts as to the prices to be had at home and for the same products in what the Grit orators call "the Canadian farmer's natural market." The prices of the several articles named are given as they were sold in the markets of Ogdensburg and Belleville last week. They speak for themselves.

In Ogdensburg, butter, prints and rolls, 18 to 20c; in Belleville, 20 to 25c.

In Ogdensburg, muttop, 8c; in Belleville, 6 to 8c per lb, per quarter.

In Ogdensburg, hides per lb., 3½ to 4c; in Belleville, 4 to 4½c

In Ogdensburg, potatoes per bush., 30 to 35c; in Belleville, 45c per bag.

In Ogdensburg, onions per bush., 60 to 65c; in Belleville, 54 to 67c.

In Ogdensburg, hay, per ton, $14; in Belleville, $10 to $13.

The same prices will be observed in the Watertown markets, only in some respects they are even lower than the Ogdensburg. Now, if the United States is the Canadian farmer's "natural market" these prices will prove it. They prove on the contrary that the home market affords the best price by long odds, when the cost of transportation is added. And how long would the prices of farm produce remain at their present rates, if unrestricted reciprocity were obtained or obtainable? Our own home market for farm products would be destroyed by our manufacturers being unable to compete with their American rivals. They would have to close and the workman be compelled to emigrate.

DECLINE OF FARM VALUES.

When Sir Richard Cartwright points to the decline in farm land values in Ontario as an evidence that the N. P. has been a failure, he conveniently closes his eyes, remarks the London Free Press, to two important facts:—First, that there has been a depreciation in the prices for farm products, and second, that Ontario has not felt the effect so much as any of the States across the line. The reason why the boom prices of land in 1880 have not been everywhere maintained is found in a lowered value of what the land will produce. It is a fact, nevertheless, that with one or two exceptions everything a farmer has to sell will not bring as much in the market as it did in 1878; but in the interim there have been serious declines in the values of leading staples. Just now the tendency is upward. Coincident with the market depreciation there came the opening up of Manitoba and the North-west, the immediate effect of which was to minimize the demand for improved lands in the older Provinces. Sir Richard Cartwright based his calculations on the prices obtained for land at forced sales, which was hardly a fair test. Three or four years ago, when the values of farm products reached low water mark in the great controlling markets of the world, it was but natural that the effect should be prejudicial upon expensive property in a Province like Ontario.

What, however, has been the effect upon farm lands across the line? Ex-Senator Whiting, one of the best authorities in the United States, has calculated the decline in Illinois at $2,000,000,000 within ten years. The widest estimates in relation to Ontario never came near these figures. In New York, New Jersey, Indiana and Ohio, there has not only been an appalling drop in the saleable prices of farm lands—in the latter state over one hundred millions of dollars during the past two years—but mortgages have multiplied in an even greater ratio. The State of New Jersey may be taken as a fair case for comparison. It is one of the smaller states. In some respects, its position is exceptionally favorable. It lies adjacent to the great markets of New York and Philadelphia. Part of the state is highly cultivated and very productive of grains, fruits and vegetables, so much so that it has been called "a vast market garden. If any farmers in the United States should be prosperous, that ought to be the condition of those residents in New Jersey. Let us look at the testimony borne on this point by the recently published report of the New Jersey bureau of labor and industries for 1890.

On page 326, it is stated that farm values in New Jersey have declined during the past ten years from 10 to 50 per cent., to nearly every part of the State. There are also statistics of population, which show a falling off in 92 townships of New Jersey.

The official report of the same bureau for 1889 shows on page 336, that there were then 27,000 farm mortgages in the State—that over 80 per cent. of the farms were mortgaged—that the total mortgage indebtedness on the farm lands in New Jersey was about $30,000,000, or a yearly interest burden of $1,800,000; and that there had been an average depreciation of 40 per cent. in farm values in ten years.

Again let us quote from the official assessors, State of New York:

"Everywhere we are confronted with the statement that farm lands are depreciating, that sales are unfrequent and the industry continually growing less profitable. In many instances mortgage liens upon farms represent their full value, and unencumbered farms are unusual and exceptional."

Again, hear what the New York State Agent says at page 46 of his report:

"There are large numbers of farms that were purchased ten years ago and mortgaged which would not now sell for the face of the mortgages, owing to the depreciation of the farm lands, which on an average is 33 per cent.

The farm mortgages in Indiana alone were last year nearly three times the sum of our public debt. Every fair-minded man must see, therefore, that while there has been depreciation as the result of world-wide causes, we have suffered less than our neighbors. That being true, the case presents itself in a wholly different aspect from that which Sir Richard gave it, and commercial union with the United States stands out as a thing that would aggravate rather than modify the disabilities our farmers may feel from temporary stagnation of land values.

DEATH'S BIG HARVEST.

GIGANTIC RECORD OF MORTALITY IN TORONTO.

Five Hundred Deaths in the Plague-Stricken City During January. The Cemetery Records Reveal What the Loyal Press Has Sedulously Ingored.

TORONTO, Feb. 3.—The mortality returns for January show unequivocally how severe an epidemic of sickness Toronto has passed through in the first month of this year.

There were no fewer than 427 interments in the city cemeteries, and including those who died in Toronto and who were buried elsewhere the death roll totals 500.

This is far higher than in the closing month of last year, when the Toronto deaths registered were only 300, and more than one-half of these were infants.

Now, if the United States is the Canadian farmer's "natural market" these prices will prove it. They prove on the contrary that the home market affords the best price by long odds, when the cost of transportation is added. And how long would the prices of farm produce remain at their present rates, if unrestricted reciprocity were obtained or obtainable? Our own home market for farm products would be destroyed by our manufacturers being unable to compete with their American rivals. They would have to close and the workman be compelled to emigrate.

Subjoined are the returns from each of the cemeteries compared with January, 1891:

	Jan., '92.	Jan., '91.
Mount Pleasant	190	54
The Necropolis	67	56
St. James	52	52
St. Michael's	80	62
Prospect	17	8

This shows more than double the number of deaths compared with the first month of last year, in fact an increase of 215 deaths.

Clydesdale Breeders Meet.

TORONTO, Feb. 3.—The sixth annual meeting of Clydesdale Horse Association of Canada was held in the Queen's Hotel yesterday afternoon.

The secretary's report showed that there had been a decrease in the number of horses registered last year, but the record was not thought bad considering the difficulty that had been experienced in making sales.

The list of transfers showed that 41 stallions and 11 mares had been exported to the United States; 12 stallions and 11 mares to the Northwest, and two stallions to British Columbia. This number includes only those who have been transferred in the books. An equal number has been sent out of the province without being transferred.

The meeting then proceeded to elect officers for 1892. William Smith was re-elected president and the following gentlemen from the different provinces were chosen as vice-presidents:

Ontario—Robert Davies.
Quebec—Robert Ness, Howick, Que.
Nova Scotia—A. C. Bell, New Glasgow.
New Brunswick—Hon. David McLelland, St. John.
Prince Edward Island—Hon. James Clow, Murray Harbor.
Manitoba—Adam E. Smith, Brandon.
Northwest Territories—D. M. Radcliffe, Cochrane.
British Columbia—H. D. Benson, Ladner's Landing.

A discussion arose as to the advisability of having more than one judge for each class of Clydesdales at the different shows. Some thought that there should be two judges and a referee, and others that there should be three judges. They argued that one judge might overlook a flaw in a horse that another one would see. The majority, however, were in favor of having only one judge, and a resolution to that effect was carried. It has been found in the past that when there are two or more judges, and an unfair decision is given, no single man can be called to account. Each man blames it on the others, and the whole three generally escape condemnation.

A motion asking for a third-class for Clydesdales bred in Canada, from imported dams, caused a good deal of discussion. Many were of the opinion that there were already enough classes, and said that there was no need for the establishment of any more. When it came to a vote, however, the motion was carried.

The provincial spring stallion show which will be held in the Drill shed here on March 9 and 10, promises to eclipse all previous exhibitions. It is under the auspices of the Agriculture and Arts Association of Ontario, the Clydesdale Horse Association of Canada and the Shire Horse Association. Premiums are offered for thoroughbreds, coach or carriage, standard bred roadsters, hackneys, Suffolk Punch, Shire and Clydesdale entire horses.

Mr. Nicholas Awrey, M.L.A., president of the Institute, spoke on matters of agriculture. The institutes of Ontario have a membership of 15,000. Numerous letters had been received lately from Manitoba and British Columbia asking for forms of constitution to enable the writers to establish institutes in those provinces.

The president of the manufacturers' convention had gone to much trouble to collect statistics to convince the farmers of Ontario that they were well off. He had mentioned the miles of railway constructed, the tons of shipping, the letters passing through the postoffice, the amount of money in the banks, and the increase in the export of cattle. This last was the only item that had any bearing on the prosperity of Ontario farmers.

He trusted that Canada would cultivate closer trade relations with England. He exhorted the farmers to unite in making the Canadian exhibit at the Columbian Exposition in Chicago the best on the continent.

The credential committee reported 123 delegates present.

The following officers were elected for the coming year: Mr. Nicholas Awrey, President; Mr. Lloyd Jones, vice-president; Mr. A. Hamilton Peith, secretary-treasurer; Messrs. John Clarkson, Thomas Kills, Murray Pettit, D. E. Smith, J. B. Ewing, T. J. Raynor and W. J. McNeichen, executive committee; and Messrs. R. W. Gregory and Dr. Cowan auditors.

In the evening Mr. P. Whelihan of St. Mary's read a paper on the taxation of farm land lying within cities, towns and incorporated villages. Mr. Robert C. Tye, seconded by Thomas Kells, moved that the committee be requested to use their influence at the next session of the Legislature in order to secure such legislation.

Mr. Lloyd Jones followed in the discussion. Mr. Awrey said he had introduced such a bill into the Legislature and it had been defeated by the votes because he had refused to strike out the word "cities." He considered that cities ought not to be treated differently. The evil was the same in every case.

Mr. Gifford of Seaforth said it was not fair that a merchant with a $30,000 stock should pay a tax on $1000, while a farmer was taxed for the full value of his farm.

Then Mr. Tye's motion was put and carried.

Hon. A. S. Hardy, Commissioner of Crown Lands, and Hon. Richard Harcourt, Provincial Treasurer, are expected to address the convention.

Mr. T. G. Raynor read a paper on the advisability of asking the Legislature to impose a tax on all mad animals kept by their owners for service. This led to a lengthy controversy, in which Messrs. Ollingworth, Ewing, Mowbray, McNab, Cowan, Pringle, Yule and Rogers took a prominent part. The vote showed that the convention was in favor of such a tax.

The convention continues to-day and to-morrow.

Bowell, Costigan and Haggart will address political gatherings in North and South Victoria. Hon. Mr. Foster will speak at Napanee on Wednesday, at Brampton on Thursday and St. Thomas on Friday.

All Were Killed.

NEWARK, N.J., Feb. 3.—By the explosion of an alcohol condenser last evening in Rummel & Co.'s hat shop Oscar Lenrick, Albert Anderson and Daniel Keefe, all plumbers, were killed. The men were repairing the condenser. The building was damaged to the extent of $10,000.

A SOLDIER'S LIFE.

Inhuman Treatment of German Soldiers by Petty Officers.

BERLIN, Feb. 3.—The Vorwartz article "in regard to inhuman treatment in the army mentions some cases where soldiers were kept at the armor knee till they had performed the movement nearly 2000 times or till they had failed. In one instance a recruit who had become bathed in sweat in consequence of the exertion was unable to continue. A sergeant thereupon poured a jug of cold water over him and then thrashed him till the whip broke. The recruit's legs were covered with welts and as the result of the treatment received, he had to be placed in a hospital where he lay in a high fever. Sergeant Lehl fractured a man's collar bone through beating him with a rifle. He afterwards tried to commit suicide, fearing he would be found out. In addition to his other cruelties, Sergeant Pflug compelled several of his men to chew dirty socks and forced recruits who failed to stretch their knees properly at drill time to lie across two chairs in a certain position. He would then sit upon their unsupported heads till they screamed from the pain, when he would have them gagged. He would also slap their faces and other indignities reported to have been inflicted by him are too horrible to be mentioned.

NEWBURG, N.Y., Feb. 3.—Deputy United States Marshal C. W. Mehrens has arrested a green goods swindler here as he was in the act of plucking his victim, a young man named Samuel Price of Toronto.

On Jan. 1 Price registered at the Merchants' Hotel, which is kept by Deputy Marshal Mehrens, as William J. Cooper of Albany. He received a telegram addressed to William J. Cook. This, it turns out, was to make an appointment for him to meet a man known to him as F. Eaton at No. 1986 Third-avenue, New York. Price went to that address and gave the supposed Eaton $200 in good money, for which he was to receive at some future period $1000 in counterfeits.

Price returned to Toronto, but came back to Newburg so as to meet "Eaton," bringing with him $100 additional, which the latter had demanded. He again registered as Cooper, but Mr. Mehrens, having an inkling of what was going on, went up to Price's room and found there a stranger, who had registered as John Miller. Eaton and Miller are one and the same person.

Miller and Price fled and were purchasing tickets for New York at the West Shore station when arrested. Miller was committed for a hearing to-morrow and his victim has been detained as a witness.

Price says that he and his brother-in-law went into the scheme to obtain counterfeit money in partnership, and hoped by means of it to become speedily rich.

Winnipeg Board of Trade.

WINNIPEG, Feb. 3.—The annual meeting of the Winnipeg Board of Trade was held yesterday. The reports of the president and council were lengthy and dealt with numerous important matters. In dealing with the question of immigration reference was made to the large influx of settlers from Dakata and other states, most of whom were Canadians, who had become dissatisfied with their lot in that country. The reports also congratulated members on the general prosperity of the country and a brighter outlook for the future. Election of officers for 1892 resulted as follows: President, James K. Steen; vice-president, Andrew Strang; treasurer, George J. Maulson.

The Sensational New York Poisoning

NEW YORK, Feb. 3.—Carlyle W. Harris, the young student charged with having poisoned his wife, Helen Potts, was yesterday found guilty of murder in the first degree by the jury. It has been one of the most sensational cases in recent history, and has attracted a widespread interest. About two weeks ago the case came to trial and has been progressing ever since.

The jury retired about 6.30 and at 10.45 returned a verdict of murder in the first degree. The verdict was very unexpected to the accused and he broke down completely when it was announced. His mother, who has been constantly at his side during the trial, was very much affected and created a scene. She fell back in her chair shrieking madly, "It's a lie! It's a lie!"

Took a Dose of Arnica.

HAMILTON, Feb. 3.—Mary Carter, aged 15, employed as a servant by Mrs. Somerville, Hannah-street, was taxen to the hospital to-day suffering from the effects of a dose of two ounces of arnica and a bottle of camphor liniment. It is not likely that the dose will prove fatal. She did not say why she took the poison. Her father, Henry Carter, an engineer, lives in Mauley-street.

MURDERS IN PENNSYLVANIA.

Discovery of Horrid Murders and Butcheries.

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., Feb. 3.—A series of mysterious murders have occurred recently within 12 miles of this place. On Dec. 6 the body of a well dressed man was found in the woods near Gallitzin with a bullet hole in his head. Later the body of another man was found 12 miles distant with a hole through his head. The body was identified as that of George Myers, a prosperous citizen of Frugality. He was murdered for his money. Less than a week ago the decomposed body of another man was found in the woods near Bethel. The clothes were of good quality, but nothing could be discovered to establish his identity. The horrible butchery of old man Kring and his wife, and the cremation of their bodies four nights ago, is attributed to the same mysterious murderers, who are evidently hiding in the mountains ready to pounce upon any victim who is supposed to have money.

Ironworkers' Strike.

TORONTO, Feb. 3.—The employes of the Ontario Rolling Mills at Swansea, in the western suburbs of Toronto, are out on strike against a reduction of wages.

The mills have been shut down since Dec. 15, the management at that time giving as a reason for closing that they had no orders.

On Saturday last they were notified to return to work, at the same time being told that wages would be reduced in the following percentage:

Shinglers	37.23 per cent.
Rollers	15.25 per cent.
Scrap heaters	16.45 per cent.

The men asked for time to consider the offer, and came to the decision that the nature of the reduction was such as to show it had not come from necessity, but was aimed rather to cut down the earnings of skilled workmen. Hence the men decided not to accept the reduction and notified the managers to that effect, saying they are perfectly willing to return at the scale paid in the mills at Hamilton, which are owned by the same company. They claim also that the Toronto wages are 20 per cent. lower than the rate in Montreal.

Some tobaccos spurt up in the pipe while smoking, with little crackling explosions. This is caused by the addition of foreign matter to assist the combustion. When the purity of the tobacco is not tampered with and it has been properly taken care of, this combustible foreign matter is wholly unnecessary. OTTAWA, Feb. 2.—There is a rumor current to-night that some of the Ministers will proceed to Washington early next week to discuss, by appointment with the United States authorities, the question of reciprocity between Canada and the United States. Mr. Foster.

Estate of the Late S. B. Burdett.

It is reported that the late S. B. Burdett, Q.C., M.P., left $80,000, the whole of which is devised to his sister, Miss Burdett. The interest upon one half of that amount is to be divided into two parts, and one-half goes to his daughter, Miss Mabel. If she, however, endeavors to break the will she will receive nothing.

Another rumor is that Miss Burdett is to receive the interest on $20,000 for fifteen years, and at the expiration of that time one half of her father's estate.

SIR,—Permit me to convey my thanks to Mr. John Harris for his able solution of the "ghost" theory. It is so pleasant to discover that all ghosts are the outcome of "weak minds," such as Wesley, Whitfield, and Bunyan, and that this settles forever this vexed question. We shall all sleep comfortably in future. And if any one thinks he sees a ghost, let him lose an ounce or two of blood, and thus dissolve the supernatural visitant into the circumambient air.

Yours, &c., J. J. B. FLINT.

SIR,—I wish to give some of my views and incentives, through your paper, relative to the standing and claims of the old veterans of '37 and '38 to the different governments and the people of this Dominion. We find that, according to the act of 1791, the House of Assembly had no control of the revenue du ies derived from the sale of crown lands in this colony. The expenses then came out of the home government, thus the expenses of the rebellion of '37 and '38 would come out of the Imperial Government. Again, we hold that it is the duty of the Dominion Government and local Governments to fairly investigate the claims of the old veterans of '37 and '38 and lay them before the high commissioners of the crown to carry it to the Imperial government for final adjustment. Every volunteer was promised £2 sterling per month, and officers pay according to rank by the Governor, whose authority came from the crown head. This amount we claim, and our land, and think it is high time we had it with its interest. We are proud to know we belong to a nation that is able and willing to pay all just demands against her. Had we given up our claims to disaffected men and American rabble, they might have paid us off for the sake of getting control of our colony, and to day, if we had, it would have been an American state ; but old veterans were not to be brow beaten ; we held our post like men who fear no foe when we are in the right. Now, old veterans, our claims are just and we have a right to urge our claims for the position we took in defending our country and the crown to which we belong. No surrender, veterans. We will have our rights ; be up and doing. Surrender does not belong to us. Stand fast. Our men who served in the American Rebellion of 1861-5 are getting their pay, and widows of the veterans who are gone are getting a life pension. It is rather humiliating to me to have this to do in the case, and we left without one dollar and some widows of veterans left without anything and very destitute. Veterans, we know that we belong to a nation that is not second to any nation on this globe in means to pay all demands against her. She is proud of men that stand up for national honor like valiant men, and they paid th m off. If we have been left behind, don't be discouraged. We are not far from the prizes. Our men whom we have honored by making them our law makers are going at the next session of Parliament to do us justice. They will soon want us and our sons and friends to place them in the position they now hold. N w, veterans of all classes, let us be up and doing. Wake up ; don't think some other person is going to do for us what we can do for ourselves. The House will meet on the 25th of February next. Let us meet them by making one of them our delegate. Don't let us forget our friend George Morrill, Esq , of Belleville, Anglo American Hotel, who has stepped forward and so ably defended our case. I remain your obedient servant,

He attended school at Belleville, and subsequently studied at the University at Toronto. He took up the study of law, and was called to the bar in 1867, and was for a time in partnership with Mr. Justice Ferguson, when the latter was practising at the bar. MADOC.

MADOC, Feb. 2.

On Monday evening a large number of friends entertained Warden elect Cross to a supper at Mrs. Moon's hotel. The chair was ably filled by Mr. A. F. Wood, M.P.P., and the vice chair by Mr. Wm. Macintosh, P.S.I. for West Hastings. Toasts —"The Queen," "The Army and Navy," Capt. Orr and Capt. Volume. A song by Mr. Frank O'Flynn. "Our Guest," responded to by Mr. Cross, who spoke at length. "Our Educational Interests," Messrs. Macintosh and Watson. "Our Common Cause," Messrs. Whytock, Wilson and Orr. "Our Manufacturing Industry," James White. "The Learned Professions," Messrs. McDonald and O'Flynn. "The Ladies," Mr. Muldrew. The company broke up with three cheers and a "tiger."

There is much sickness in the village and township. In the shanties, some of them broke up, owing to so much sickness. In one camp there were four deaths.

The annual meeting of Central Hastings County Orange Lodge was the largest gathering in years, and the Lodge never was in such a flourishing condition. The officers elected for the ensuing year are: W. Thompson, W.M.; James Gay, D.M.; A. Hovey, Chap.; J. R. Orr, Rec. Sec.; W. S. Martin, Treas.; D. A. Caswell, D. of O.; T. B. R y-nolds, Lecturer.

They Do not Fear It.

Mr. G. H. Burrows, the president of the Brockville carriage company, is not afraid of unrestric ed reciprocity. In a recent address in that town he stated his belief that the production was not a bad thing in the case of infant industry, but he emphasized the f ct that he did not believe that they should always be pampered as infants, but as any other infant, ought to be weaned and made stand alone. He gave utterance to a truism, frequently lost sight of these days, namely, that protection is simply a policy and not a principle. All this very generally understood the "infant" industries that threaten to walk all over you with their number twelve boots if you stop rocking the cradle of protection, would soon be made to look out for themselves, to the great advantage of the consumer and the country generally. Mr. Burrows' statement that if free trade between Canada and the United States comes, the Brockville carriage company will be prepared for it, was self-reliant and shows a spirit that never fails to achieve success. His views on free trade is that if the manufacturers of the United States capture customers among our five millions of population, the manufacturers of Canada ought to be more than able to make up for it in the market of 65,000,000 which would thus be thrown open to them.—Brantford Expositor.

What a perfectly fearless man Mr. Burrows must be ! But there is a very good reason why this nervy gentleman should not be afraid of unrestricted reciprocity. "Mr. G. H. Burrows, president of the Brockville carriage company," is a resident of Cincinnati, in the United States, where his principal factory is located. The Brockville concern and another branch at Gananoque are only offshoots of the business, forced into Canada by the National Policy. With unrestricted reciprocity, fearless Mr. Burrows would close his Canadian branches quicker than wink and supply the Canadian market from his Cincinnati factory. Ohmo, Burrows is not afraid of unrestricted reciprocity. Neither is any other Yankee manufacturer.—Hamilton Spectator.

Sir Richard Cartwright tries hard to pose as the English leader of the Liberal party in Canada, but finds Mr. Blake's hat a bit too large for his head.

Blake saw the consequences that Commercial Union of Unrestricted Reciprocity would bring about between Canada and the United States, and promptly retired from the Liberal camp.

Sir Richard has no fears and has already accepted the appointment at the hands of President Long as Minister from Ontario in the neighboring Republic.

Sir Richard is a politician of easy virtue. An ardent supporter of Confederation once, he has become a believer in the views of Goldwin Smith and denies the existence of unity of interest in British North America.

An advocate of the commercial independence of Canada at one time, he is now an enthusiast in the doctrine of dependence of Canada on the United States.

Confederation was espoused by him as "the only hope of escape from absorption into the great Republic."

At Almonte the other day he avowed that he was loyal to the Empire since he sought the destruction of the Anglo-Saxon race, but when referring to the union of that race on this continent he observed in the old Parliament of Canada "in the long run the establishment of a power so gigantic could not fail to be fraught with the greatest misfortunes to those who might live under it, if not to the whole human race."

Subsequently he moved a resolution in the Commons in which he remarked that Canada was lying conterminous for several thousand miles with a very powerful State, many of whose inhabitants are notoriously actuated by sentiments of bitter hostility to the British Empire."

Again, standing in Parliament, he exclaimed that Confederation was the only escape from annexation.

To day he endeavors to prove that Confederation is a failure. He is attempting almost frantically to scuttle the ship, and his first mate is Farrer !—Empire.

THE EIDER IS DOOMED.

THE BIG STEAMER ALMOST ABANDONED TO HER FATE

All the Passengers and Crew Saved—The Mails Also Landed—The Seas Are Now Fast Breaking the Vessel to Pieces.

LONDON, Feb. 3.—The pumps of the Eider were kept working at their full capacity all night, but through the lack of water poured through the scuppers the sea kept slowly but surely gaining on her. The forward pumps were rendered of little use when the steamer began to settle by the stern, and consequently the after pumps were not able to keep the water down. At daylight signals were shown that the steamer wanted help. A life-boat was immediately launched through the heavy surf and started for the steamer. In the meantime a portion of the crew had entered the life-boats alongside of the stranded steamer and started for shore. The sea was running very high and a tremendous surf was rolling up the beach. Much difficulty was experienced in shooting the boats through the surf, but finally everybody was landed in safety.

Abandoned to Her Fate.

The fresh breeze which sprang up this morning gradually freshened and assumed in a gale of wind, which caused heavy seas to sweep over the Eider. Experts who have examined her position express the opinion that her back is broken and that there is absolutely no hope of saving her, and it is taken for granted that the Eider and her cargo, the latter composed of about 1800 tons of general merchandise, have been cast upon the rocks never to be removed except by the wreckers. At a rough estimate the cargo is valued at about $80,000, not including the specie which she had aboard. The Eider herself is valued at about $700,000. Both the steamer and her cargo are fully insured. The passengers destined for Bremen will be transferred to the German Lloyd steamer Havel, which sailed from New York Jan. 26.

All Safe.

At 7 o'clock this evening the lifeboats, after an exceedingly perilous voyage, succeeded in bringing the remainder of the crew from the ship to the shore in safety. As the tide went down the storm increased in violence. The captain left the ship was the last person to leave the vessel. It was with evident reluctance that he was finally induced to quit the steamer and he only did so when he saw that it was useless to remain on board any longer and that each moment added to the danger of the torn and battered vessel suddenly going to pieces.

COMBINES

It is true there are somecombines formed in Canada in connection with the manufacture of dry goods. There is the cotton combine and the colored goods combine, which make shirtings, cottonades, etc. We are opposed to this combine business, as it tends to enrich the rich at the expense of the poor. However, in spite of it, we have just received some cottons which are good value, especially a line at 6c. and another at 8c.

INTENSE SUFFERING!

Mr. William Buchanan, 24 years engineer in the Cunard Steamship Company's service, 8 St. John's Road, Kirkdale, Liverpool, Eng., writes: "I suffered two years of agony from an affection in the head which six physicians pronounced incurable.

They were divided in opinion as to whether it was acute neuralgia of the head or rheumatic affection of the brain, but all agreed that I could never recover. In my paroxysms of pain it needed two and sometimes three men to hold me down in bed. When at death's door, was applied to my head. It acted like magic. It saved my life. I am well and hearty, and have had no return of the trouble."

ST. JACOBS OIL

"ALL RIGHT! ST. JACOBS OIL DID IT."

CAST ON THE WORLD!
OR,
The Border Marriage.
A STORY OF THE GREAT GLASGOW BANK ROBBERY.

Dora pressed her hand over her eyes in utter bewilderment. She seemed unable at the moment to realize the import of the astounding revelation, and could only stand gazing at the youth like one whose powers were paralyzed.

'After that confession his lordship could deny it no longer, but he was careful to remove her ladyship before her sensibility returned, and as carefully did he afterward keep us separate. He had a purpose in this—a base, foul, horrible purpose—that he might defame her by pronouncing me illegitimate.

'What!' cried Dora, starting up as if a reptile had stung her. 'Who dare breathe a word against the fair name of Lady Eaglehearst, of my mother! The man who does so lies—and the man who believes it has lost all sense of manliness and honor.'

'I repudiated the slander with all the scorn I had words to command,' rejoined Charles, 'and knowing the triumphant test to which I was about to put my faith, I told him I would believe it only from her own lips. He appointed me to come to the Grange on the following evening and bring Mr. Ravensworth with me, when he undertook that Lady Eaglehearst would substantiate his statement.

'But she did not,' cried Dora, with flashing eyes. 'No, Charles, that she buried back the falsehood on her husband's life.'

'The meeting never took place. He doubtless found that he could not persuade her to endorse such a wicked falsehood and conveyed her away out of our reach.'

'Ha! ha! that, then, is the explanation of mamma's absence,' cried Dora, with the violent start of one on whom light had suddenly broke.

'I have no doubt of it. His lordship, persisting in the terrible course of wrong he has so long taken, has adopted this cruel plan to avert the consequences which he knew must follow the discovery of the truth.'

'It will end soon,' said Charles, in a gentle tone. 'And I expect this very day—'

'And mamma will return!'

'I cannot doubt it, for her absence will no longer be necessary for its present purpose. We come to day armed with the register of their private marriage prior to my birth.'

'I knew it,' cried Dora, with proud exultation. 'Then, Charles, you are—are—'

'Dora I am your brother,' he answered, with great emotion.

'My brother,' she cried with a wild exclamation of joy. 'Are you indeed my brother? Yes, I know it—I feel it. This explains—this reconciles everything. You have mamma's eyes, as I have. You have papa's form as much as Edgar. Our instinctive feelings all along have been those of brother and sister. Oh Charles, Charles, you have indeed given me tidings of joy.'

Impulsively and impetuously she threw herself into the brotherly arms which were as impulsively thrown wide to embrace her and there did these two hearts feel for the first time that closeness to each other which a false position had hitherto prevented.

A true and warm affection had really existed between them always, but of a kind which could not express itself in connection with their former relation, and this had caused them to maintain a constrained and apparently cold bearing towards each other. But the ground and basis of their feelings had now been reached, and having at last freedom to flow forth holy and spontaneously, they realized their depth and ardor in those first moments of their full outflow.

Dora's sensibilities were most violently awakened into manifestation. Poor girl, hitherto she had had but her mother to love and to be loved by. Her feelings as a sister had never yet been drawn forth for her brother. Edgar had a cold, selfish nature which could neither inspire nor bestow affection, and the wild capacity of fervent love which resided in Dora's bosom had as yet lain dormant there—much to the saddening and languishing of her spirit. But this sounding rod had struck and had given her a brother, whom she already knew as good and noble, unsealed the rich fountain and the waters gushed forth with tumultuous vehemence.

The expression of feeling she displayed was for a little time almost alarming, so vehement and uncontrollable was it. She clung to him, she caressed him, she wildly strained him to her heart, and all the while sobbed hysterically. The great force of her emotion was intensified by the suffering of the last few weeks which had rendered her weak and nervous.

By voice and by act, by gentle tone and soothing caress, Charles strove to calm her, and succeeded. The first resistless wave of the pent up waters soon rolled over her soul, and a stiller and quieter flow followed.

Her sobs gradually ceased, and she lay calmly on his breast, a smile of gladness breaking upon her fair face, and beaming glances of happiness shining through the tears which still lay, like gems on her beautiful eyes.

'Oh,' she murmured, 'I never knew till now what it was to have a brother. But Charles, let me think—why you must be older than Edgar. You—you are the heir to the title.'

'Well, yes,' he replied, 'the rights of a first-born son are naturally mine; but you know how easily I have been deprived of them hitherto.'

'Oh, I have been able to think of nothing. The delicious knowledge that you are my brother has so filled my soul as to leave room for nothing else. But why was your birth concealed? why were you abandoned, as you must have been? why did papa seek so eagerly to conceal your true parentage, and call you the son of that bad man White?'

'All, Dora, that he might defraud his cousin Philip Ravensworth, and obtain possession of this estate of the Grange, which according to their uncle's will, was to go to Ravensworth if Lord Eaglehearst was married at the time of the old man's death. When the provision of the will came to be known Lord and Lady Eaglehearst were already united by a secret Border marriage, which fact really put the estate past his lordship, and gave it to his cousin.'

'Merciful heaven! then it was concealed.'

'It was—and this was what rendered my birth so inconvenient. Measures were, however, taken to have that event concealed also. Lady Eaglehearst was taken by her husband to Edinburgh, and was there privately confined. By that event I came into the world and you have a notion what was done with me.'

'You were forsaken and abandoned,' said Dora, with a shudder. 'But—but—mamma did—she—'

'No,' said Charles, with great emphasis. 'A thousand times no. Lady Eaglehearst knew nothing of the foul deed. She was made to believe that I was dead. And now you understand the meaning of her strange behavior when Dick Morris told his facts concerning Huffey White and the infant he received from him.'

'She divined the dreadful truth,' cried Dora. 'She knew, alas, that she had been deceived, that her child had not died; that White had carried it away, and that you were her son. Poor, poor mamma, what agony and wretchedness must have been! This, then, was the cause of her illness, and of that melancholy and wretchedness for which I could not account.'

'It is this that accounts for everything,' returned Charles, 'and among the rest for the breaking off of the marriage. That proposal was not abandoned because I was the son of Huffey White, but because I was your brother.'

'Oh, papa, papa!' wailed Dora. 'What misery and suffering has your great sin brought upon us all!'

'Yes,' said Charles, a stern shadow coming for a moment upon his face. 'Lord Eaglehearst is the author of all the evil, the gravity and the wrong. But his fraud is now being charged to his face by Mr. Ravensworth, and with full proof in his hand.

CULLOD'S CUBLINGS.

GOOD INDEED DONE.

THE good deeds done by that unequaled family liniment, Hagyard's Yellow Oil, during the Thirty years it has been before the public, would fill volumes. We cannot here enumerate all its good qualities, but that it can be relied on as a cure for croup, coughs, colds, sore throat and all pains, goes without saying.

Parmelee's Pills possesses the power of acting specifically upon the diseased organs, stimulating to action the dormant energies of the system, thereby removing disease. In fact, to great is the power of this medicine to cleanse and purify, that the seed of almost every name and nature are driven from the body. Mr. D. Caswell, Caswell P. O., Ont., writes: "I have tried Parmelee's Pills and find them an excellent medicine, and one that will sell well."

Griefs are over coming to us with the coming hours, and our little strength is only as the day.

Those of the gentle sex who have experienced the pain and annoyance caused by excoriated nipples and inflamed breasts, can well appreciate the value of a remedy which removes the trouble. This is precisely what Dr Thomas' Eclectric Oil does, besides curing when used internally, asthma, croup and other maladies.

COMING EVENTS.

Coming consumption is foreshadowed by a hacking cough, night sweats, pain in the chest, etc. Arrest its progress at once by taking Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam, which never fails to cure coughs, colds, bronchitis, hoarseness, etc., and even in confirmed consumption affords great relief.

Mrs. Harry Pearson, Hawtrey, writes: For about three months I was troubled with fainting spells and dizziness which was growing worse, and would attack me three or four times a day. At last my husband purchased a bottle of Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery, from which I derived considerable benefit. I then procured another, and before it was used my affliction was completely gone, and I have not had an attack of it since.

It is the brightness, not the darkness, that we see when we look back.

SIR MORELL IS DEAD.

THE FAMOUS DR. MACKENZEIE NO MORE.

Prospects of Immigration to Canada—More Demands for Passage Rates Than for Years—Gladstone's Latest Manifesto The Socialists and the Chelsea Demonstration.

LONDON, Feb. 4.—Sir Morell Mackenzie, the eminent physician, died unexpectedly at 10 o'clock last night.

Sir Morell Mackenzie had suffered from bronchitis and asthma following his recent attack of influenza. His illness, however, it was considered, had taken a favorable course. He was attended by his brother. His death was quite sudden. Only his wife was present when it occurred.

Sir Morell Mackenzie was born in Leytonstone, Essex, in 1837, and was educated at the London Hospital Medical College and in Paris and Vienna. He was the author of numerous publications on Laryngological subjects, and in particular of a systematic treatise in two volumes on "Diseases of the Throat and Nose," which is acknowledged to be a standard work.

Dr. Mackenzie was also the author of "Monographs on Diphtheria and Hay Fever," and of an article on "Specialism in Medicine," which appeared in The Fortnightly Review in 1885, and which excited considerable attention.

Dr. Mackenzie was in attendance on Frederick III. during the latter's reign, but the latter's last illness and was knighted in 1887. He published in 1888 "The Fatal Illness of Frederick the Noble." At the close of that year he resigned his connection with the College of Physicians. In 1890 he contributed to The Contemporary Review some essays entitled "The Voice in Singing and Speaking."

PROSPECTS OF IMMIGRATION.

More Demands For Passage Rates Than for Years.

LONDON, Feb. 4.—Special enquiries show that emigration prospects this season are excellent. The Canadian farmers' delegates' reports of the bountiful Northwest harvest and the generally hopeful reports from Canada caused the agents to receive more demands for passage rates and literature than for years past. The hope is expressed that the Dominion Government even now will take advantage of the unusual opportunity to devise a thorough scheme to encourage the emigration of the right classes by co-operation with local municipalities or otherwise. The settlement of the bonus system is helpful, but a mere drop in the bucket.

Plimsoll and the Cattle Trade.

Mr. Samuel Plimsoll is giving some sensational evidence before the labor commission in connection with the cattle trade. It is arousing a strong tide of public opinion against the practice of deck loading, and in regard to the bad food alleged to be furnished to the cattle on board ship. In reference to inland navigation, Mr. Plimsoll related some terrible hardships suffered by the crews of Canadian wood boat schooners, which he said were on the authority of some Toronto ship owners. The feeling here is that while the Canadians must legislate for themselves, when their vessels come to Great Britian they must conform to the British laws.

Mr. Plimsoll strongly abused the quarters and the food of the seamen on board of the ordinary or "tramp" steamers. He demands more efficient inspection. Mr. Plimsoll says to-day that he hopes the agitation will result in the prohibition of the deck loading and that no timber laden vessels will be allowed to leave a port till the captain receives an official certificate that he carries no deck cargo.

Mr. Plimsoll got very excited when he was asked how he would deal with Canada's timber trade on the practice of deck loading, and declared that, so far as British ports were concerned, the Canadian ships would have to observe the British law.

Sir Alf. Hickson and other prominent men, as well as some of the Ministers, are following the agitation carefully. It is generally agreed that, despite Mr. Plimsoll's too evident exaggerations, there is a need of legislation regarding the cases in point both here and in Canada.

CHELSEA SOCIALISTS.

LONDON, Feb. 4.—Sir Charles Russell, in the House of Queen's Bench yesterday moved that an order be granted to remove the Chelsea socialist cases from the County Court to the High Court of Justice and that they be tried before a special jury.

Sir Charles, during the course of his argument, said that for years past socialists and others have been accustomed to hold open air meetings at the World's Endsquare, Chelsea, and that they have not been interfered with so long as they behaved in an orderly manner. Recently the police seemed to have thought themselves bound to interfere with all such meetings and nearly every Sunday for months past have been arresting people for alleged violations of law regarding the holding of such meetings.

A great question, Sir Charles continued, was involved in these arrests and the matter must be sifted to the utmost, as there was no doubt in his mind that the rights of the community had been gravely interfered with. The order was granted.

To Run in West Huron.

GODERICH, Feb. 4.—The Conservatives of West Huron met at Smith's Hill yesterday, over 200 delegates being present. Hon. J. C. Patterson, Secretary of State, was unanimously nominated as a candidate to oppose Mr. Cameron. The executive was instructed to communicate with Mr. Patterson at once.

Dr. Duggan of Haldimand was present and delivered a stirring address, in which he promised his own assistance to the end of the campaign.

Mayor Goldie of Guelph Dead.

GUELPH, Feb. 4.—Thomas Goldie, Mayor of Guelph died last night of pneumonia, supervening la grippe. His age was 42.

Mr. Goldie was president of the Ontario Millers' Association and president of the Ontario Cricketers' Association and was one of the most prominent men in the province.

Inventor of Fire Proof Brick.

NEW YORK, Feb. 4.—John J. Schillinger, 60 years old died here last night of a complication of diseases. He was the inventor of the artificial cement sidewalk and fireproof brick.

Dr. Hannah Dead.

BELFAST, Feb. 4.—Rev. Hugh Hannah, D.D., pastor of St. Enoch's Church, Belfast, died here to-day. He was one of the leaders of the Irish Presbyterians.

Mr. Thomas McGreevy a Candidate.

QUEBEC, Feb. 4.—The Hon. John Hearn is now regularly in the field as the Ottawa Government's candidate for Quebec West. The Hon. Thomas McGreevy will oppose him as an Independent. The Liberals may possibly bring forward no candidate under the circumstances.

SIX YEARS SUFFERING

DEAR SIRS.—I was troubled for six years with erysipelas, and two bottles of Burdock Blood Bitters entirely cured me. I keep B.B.B. constantly in the house and think it an effectual cure for all diseases caused by bad blood.

Dangerous Counterfeits.

Counterfeits are always dangerous, more so that they always closely IMITATE THE ORIGINAL IN APPEARANCE AND NAME. The remarkable success achieved by Nasal Balm as a positive cure for Catarrh and Cold in the head has induced unprincipled parties to imitate it. The public are cautioned not to be deceived by nostrums imitating Nasal Balm in name and appearance, bearing such names as Nasal Cream, Nasal Balsam, etc. Ask for Nasal Balm and do not take any imitation dealers may urge upon you. For sale by all druggists or sent post-paid on receipt of price (60c and $1.) by addressing Hor & Co. Brockville, Ont.

HAGYARD'S YELLOW OIL.

This great internal and external remedy is always ready at hand. It is a specific for croup, and promptly cures coughs, colds, sore throat, sprains, bruises, burns, rheumatism, cuts, wounds, etc. Good for man or beast. Stands all tests. Sold everywhere. Price 25 cents. Hagyard's Yellow Oil.

It is worse than madness to neglect a cough or cold which is easily subdued if taken in time, but becoming, if left to itself, the first symptom of consumption and premature death. Inflammation, when it attacks the delicate tissue of the lungs and throat tubes, travels with perilous rapidity; then do not delay, get a bottle of Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup, the medicine that grapples this formidable foe from the human body, and drives it from the system. This medicine proved a free and a quick pacification, subdues the cough, heals the diseased parts, and exerts a most wonderful influence in curing consumption, and other diseases of the throat and lungs. If parents wish to save the lives of their children, and themselves from much anxiety, trouble and expense, let them procure a bottle of Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup, and whenever a child has taken cold, has a cough or hoarseness, give the Syrup according to directions.

He was manifested to take away our sins.

In his Vegetable Pills, Dr. Parmelee has given to the world the fruits of long scientific research in the realm of medicine, and has created a medicine with new and valuable discoveries never before known to man. For Bi-leous and Debilitated Constitutions Parmelee's Pills act like a charm. Taken in small doses, the effect is both a tonic and a stimulant, mildly exciting the secretions of the body, giving tone and vigor.

Mrs. L. Squire, Ontario Steam Dye Works, Toronto, says: "For about 30 years I have doctored for Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia without getting any cure. I then tried Northrup & Lyman's Vegetable discovery, and the benefits I have received from the medicine are such that I cannot withhold this expression of my gratitude. It acts immediately on the liver. As a Dyspepsia remedy I don't think it can be equalled."

What man is will always depend upon what he believes God to be.

Thomas Robinson, Farnham Centre, P. Q., writes:—"I have been afflicted with Rheumatism for the last ten years, and have had many remedies without any relief. I got a bottle of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, and found it gave me instant relief, and since then have had no attack. I would recommend it to all.

No bad man ever makes himself any better by claiming to be a saint.

For Over Fifty Years

MRS WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP has been used for children teething. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, cures wind colic, and is the best remedy for Diarrhœa. Twenty-five cents a bottle. Sold by all druggists throughout the world.

MR. EGAN'S GOODNESS.

HOW HE SAVED THE LIVES OF SEVERAL PEOPLE.

Uncle Sam's Chilian Minister Gets a Good Dose of Taffy, Which Most People Will Take With Salt—Egan's House of Refuge—He Wants Investigation.

NEW YORK, Feb. 4.—A Herald special from Valparaiso says: The resolution in the House of Representatives at Washington requesting President Harrison to recall Minister Egan was read with interest by Valparaiso and Santiago. Surprise was expressed in many quarters that such a resolution should have been presented to Congress. There has been an entire change in public feeling toward Minister Egan in this country since the settlement of the diplomatic tangles that have been disturbing the relations of this country and the United States. His attitude seems now to be better understood, and his services in protecting many prominent members of the congressional party from the vengeance of the late dictator, and in granting an asylum to the refugees who sought the American Legation after the downfall of Balmaceda, are now generally recognized as having been both humane and proper. For the past 12 months Minister Egan's house has been filled with refugees. During Balmaceda's dictatorship he shielded many of the leaders of the Congressional party, and, after the fall of Valparaiso, many of those whose desire for vengeance he had thwarted sought his protection from those who had formerly asked his aid. All the time during the past year from 20 to 30 refugees, representing one or the other faction of this country, have been quartered in the American legation. They have been entertained and fed entirely at the expense of Minister Egan, who has expended nearly as much as one year's salary in behalf of the refugees, when he has kept in the legation. The public of Chili appear to be getting better acquainted with his acts, and this accounts for the general reversal of feeling in regard to Minister Egan's recall. Edwards Matta, who is a prominent member of the chamber of deputies, and many others whose lives were saved by Minister Egan during Balmaceda's dictatorship, favor his retention here as the American minister. Senor Pereira, minister of foreign affairs, who instructed Minister Montt at Washington to ask for Mr. Egan's recall, now appears very friendly to him and so does Senor Blanco Vial, the intendente at Valparaiso. Augustin Edwards, whose life and property were saved through Egan's influence, is the only prominent member of the old congressional party who now seems anxious to have Egan called home. Mr. Egan was asked yesterday what he thought of the resolution introduced at Washington requesting his recall. "I court a full investigation of all my acts," said Mr. Egan. "I have no fear that anything detrimental to my reputation would be discovered. My actions throughout the difficulties have been approved by Secretary Blaine and the Administration at Washington."

The importance of keeping the blood in a pure condition is universally known, and yet there are very few people who perfectly purify their blood. The taint of scrofula, salt rheum, or other foul humor is hereditary and transmitted for generations, causing untold suffering, not we also accumulate poison and germs of disease from the air we breathe, the food we eat, or the water we drink. The best way to purify conclusively proven than the positive power of Hood's Sarsaparilla to cure all diseases of the blood. This medicine, when fairly tried, does expel every trace of scrofula or salt rheum, the taint removes, which causes catarrh, neutralizes the acidity and cures rheumatism, drives out the germs of malaria, blood poisoning, etc. It also vitalizes and enriches the blood, thus overcoming that tired feeling, and building up the whole system. In its preparation, its medicinal merit, and the wonderful cures it accomplishes Hood's Sarsaparilla is Peculiar to Itself. These facts testify to its success, and the best advertising Hood's Sarsaparilla receives is the hearty endorsement of its army of friends. NORTHRUP FOR EAST HASTINGS.

The Conservatives of East Hastings in, for the second time, selecting Mr. W. B. Northrup as their candidate for the Commons, have convincingly demonstrated their appreciation of his abilities and evidenced their estimate of his fitness to be their representative in Parliament. We warmly endorse their choice, and predict that they will redeem the constituency by a substantial majority. A cultured, fluent and convincing speaker—a young man of a high order of ability—Mr. Northrup has all the gifts which fit him for a distinguished career as a representative of the people. He was unsuccessful in his candidature last year, it is true, but only by the small majority of 54. Having no longer to contend against the great personal influence of the late member, and with a much more favorable voters' list and a marked change of public opinion in his favor, Mr. Northrup's prospects of a victory in the coming contest are very bright.

In declining to seek a nomination, Mr. John White, the veteran who had held the seat for seventeen years for the Conservative party, viewed a unanimity which will add to his host of friends in the riding and in the County.

It now remains for the party to close up their ranks and restore East Hastings to her old allegiance, and that they will do their whole duty we have no doubt. Everything is in their favor—a truly Canadian policy, a strong and honest Administration firmly seated in power, and a popular candidate who will be a power in Parliament, there is every incentive for them to poll their full strength for W. B. Northrup.

A GOOD EXAMPLE.

According to a telegram from Montreal, Dr. Cameron, of Montreal, M.P.P. for Huntingdon, who was the only English-speaking member of the Legislature who supported Mr. Mercier, and who expects to be again the Liberal candidate in his county, has come out strongly against Mr. Mercier, declaring that in the face of the revelations of corruption which have been made, he finds it impossible to give the ex-Premier his support.

The contrast between the action of Dr. Cameron and that of his fellow Liberal Wilfrid Laurier, is too marked to escape notice.

Mr. Laurier does not follow the example of Dr. Cameron because he, as leader of the Opposition in the Commons, is indebted to Mr. Mercier for a majority of supporters from Quebec, whose seats were purchased with the money stolen from the Quebec treasury by the rascals who are now on trial before the people of that Province.

What can the honest electors think of a party which is led by a man who desires the return of Mr. Mercier to power, and who stands pledged to add $400,000 per year to the burdens of the Dominion, by increasing the annual subsidy to Quebec by that amount?

POISONED BY AKEES.

KINGSTON, Jamaica, Feb. 4.—Mrs. Brandy, wife of Mr. C. H. Brandy of the Public Works Department; Arnold Brandy, their child; Miss Harper, Mrs. Brandy's sister; William Pitkin and another person have died here after partaking of salt fish and akees.

The akees had been taken from a tree in the yard on the previous day, but unfortunately were plucked from a branch which had been broken about three or four days previously, and it is presumed that the fruit had had time to develop its poisonous qualities.

The akee is a quince-shaped, pulpy, yellowish fruit, the centre of which is of a bright-red color and poisonous. This portion of unripe akees are careful to remove ere partaking of the fruit. It is eaten fried in oil or boiled with salt codfish. If kept too long after being picked without the centre being removed, a fermentation occurs, which causes the poison to permeate the fruit.

Hicks-Beach Also Speaks.

LONDON, Feb. 4.—Sir Michael Hicks-Beach, President of the Board of Trade, delivered a speech at Bristol this evening. He stated that the Government meant to have a working session of Parliament. If would punish the Opposition, he said, to give any real reason why in the best interests of the country there ought not to be a working session. Some cried for immediate dissolution, but for what reason? The result of the Rossendale election was a serious defeat for the Government, but it did not necessarily imply defeat in the general elections. He trusted to address his hearers again about the same time next year and still as a member of the Ministry.

Tennyson's Tribute.

The following is Tennyson a new poem on the death of the Duke of Clarence in the Nineteenth Century:

The bridal garland falls upon the bier,
The shadow of a crown clings over him
Has vanish'd in the shadow cast by Death;
So princely, tender, truthful, reverent, pure,
Mourn! That a world-wide Empire mourns with you,
That all the thrones are clouded by your loss,
Were slender solace. Yet be comforted;
For if this earth be ruled by Perfect Love,
Then, after His brief range of blameless days,
The toll of funeral in an Angel ear
Sounds happier than the merriest marriage bell.
The face of Death is toward the Sun of Life,
His shadow darkens earth; his truer name
Is "Onward," in obedience to the roll,
And march of that Eternal Harmony
Wherein the worlds beat time, tho' faintly heard—
Until the great Hereafter mourn in hope.

Curious Grafting.

A writer in the Santa Clara Valley, according to Vick's Monthly gives an account of roses budded on peach trees. He says, "I have seen a three and four-year-old peach tree bloom as nature would have it on some branches, early in April; then from May to August hang thick with branches of white, pink and yellow roses, a perfect wonder to passers-by." These trees are stated to have been first seen in the garden of Judge Amos R. Johnson, of Mississippi.

SALISBURY'S REASONS

FOR THE DEFEATS IN MOLTON AND ROSSENDALE.

A Crowning Calamity and Disgrace to be Avoided—Enthusiastic Cheers Greet the Speaker, Who Thinks That Luke Warmness Did It.

LONDON, Feb. 4.—In his speech at Exeter Lord Salisbury ascribed the results of the recent South Molton and Rossendale elections solely to the loss of personal influence, adding that if the Unionist vote increased everywhere as there a Unionist majority might be secured. Possibly the manifest lukewarmness on the Home Rule question was due to Radicals fostering the notion that its advocates only used the Irish vote as a tool to secure office without intending to grant Home Rule. The speaker said his auditors should observe, however, that the Irish quarreled among themselves, and vied with each other to obtain the most extreme concessions from Mr. Gladstone.

"The first step in concession," declared Lord Salisbury, "will soon lead to others and eventually place protectionists in impecunious Ireland in the hands of the priests, who, in all our quarrels with Spain, America and France, invariably fight against us. What would the world think of us if we displayed such weakness? If we fall in this hour of our trial the flowers will be plucked one by one from our diadem of the empire, and we will slowly recede from the great position handed down to us by our fathers. I appeal to you to make every effort to avert such a crowning calamity and disgrace."

In responding to a vote of thanks which was passed immediately after the conclusion of his speech, Lord Salisbury renewed his earnest appeal to the Conservatives. He said if he was still able to influence them to devote their whole energies to the burning question of the integrity of the empire, he would leave other matters upon which there was a divergence of views until a more fitting occasion.

LONDON, Feb. —The long expected manifesto by Mr. Gladstone to his adherents will appear on Friday next in The Star. The document makes a leaded column of The Star.

Summed up briefly, the manifesto may be said to be a rehash of parts of the distinguished statesman's former speeches upon various subjects of interest to the voters of Great Britain and Ireland.

Mr. Gladstone does not advocate any particular policy, but simply makes some good points upon which to hang the elements of the Liberal policy.

He deals particularly with the history and conditions of rural population from the time of the severe oppression down to the present time. He considers that the conditions of the agricultural classes have slowly improved, but, he adds, the improvement is not yet sufficient and additional legislation for the agricultural population and the passage of further measures to enable them to acquire land are needed.

Public Meetings of the People.

During the course of his remarks, Mr. Gladstone refers to the distressing incidents which happened at Manchester in 1819, when 100,000 workmen held a reform meeting and while so doing were charged upon by cavalry, who rode the defenceless people down beneath their horses' hoofs, killing 11 of them and wounding 600.

The veteran statesman contrasts that event with the present rights of the people to hold public meetings, which right he insists ought not to be hampered in the slightest by unnecessary local regulations or other restrictions.

Trades Unionism.

Mr. Gladstone then deals with the question of the repeal of the combination laws and the effects they have had upon the immense growth of trade unionism, which, he explains, has been a great benefit to laborers of all kinds and conditions.

The liberation of the press according to Mr. Gladstone one of the greatest Liberal measures of the century, and has, in his opinion, been productive of an immense amount of good.

In former years, within the recollection of many, Mr. Gladstone also says, the highest wages an agricultural laborer received in England was nine shillings ($2.25) per week; while now the same class of workmen average 15 shillings ($3.75) per week, and there are but few cases where agricultural laborers are only able to earn 9 shillings per week. In Oxfordshire Mr. Gladstone believes rural laborers may only be able to earn the latter amount, but these are exceptions to the general rule.

Referring to the commissary law, settlement by which a pauper is returned to the parish where he was born, Mr. Gladstone says that he believes that it would be better to make them chargeable to the poor-house in the district in which they reside. The present poor laws are not sufficiently elastic to cope with the amount of pauperism existing. The present land laws and the large holdings made possible by them are the cause of much of the pauperism referred to.

The Landlord, the Preacher and the Farmer.

In other portions of his manifesto Mr. Gladstone prays that the rural workers may be delivered from the landlord, the clergyman and the farmer, who, he says, are holding themselves aloof from the laborers and setting themselves upon a high plane, where they are unknown and do not care for the laborers. The Liberals, by the county franchise, gave the agricultural laborers the greatest boon possible at the hands of a political party, and experience showed that the Liberals were justified in adopting this course.

Wedded to Parish Councils.

In conclusion Mr. Gladstone reviews the work done and the resolutions presented by the recent meeting in London of the Liberal delegates from the agricultural districts, and previous to his departure for the Continent, and he again advocates the establishment of parish councils as being an indispensable complement to local government and advises, vaguely, that various economic remedies should be adopted which would bring social salvation to the tillers of the soil.

The formation of reading clubs for agricultural laborers is one of the suggestions made by Mr. Gladstone with the view of improving their social and moral condition.

BEHRING SEA.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4.—At a Cabinet meeting yesterday most of the session was occupied with the Behring Sea matter. It is claimed that an arrangement to extend the modus vivendi will be made within a few days.

A change in the method of proceeding in the matter of reaching a final determination of the whole subject was discussed. According to the terms of the agreement to arbitrate the question arrived at between Secretary Blaine and Lord Salisbury there were to be seven arbitrators; three of whom shall be from a neutral country. It is now proposed, it is understood, to limit the board of arbitrators to three, who shall take the evidence furnished by their commissioners.

This change will be suggested to the proper authorities and will probably be adopted. The names of the three arbitrators said to have been agreed upon by the parties interested.

The Soulanges Election.

MONTREAL, Feb. 4.—The election for the House of Commons yesterday resulted in the return of Mr. Bain, the Conservative candidate, by a majority of 118. In March last the Reform candidate, Mr. Monsseau, had a majority of 39 over Mr. Bain, the former member. In 1887 Mr. Bain's majority was 171.

FITZSIMMONS CAUGHT.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Feb. 4.—Frederick Fitzsimmons, formerly of Brockville, Ont., who shot Detective David Gilkinson and almost killed Detective Murray, sawed his way out of jail just before he was to have been tried, and for five months has eluded diligent pursuit, has been captured at a cigar stand in New Orleans. Detective Murray left last night to fetch him back.

Fitzsimmons mailed a letter to the newspapers the first thing after he broke jail and has frequently written to counsel and others. A letter to Holmes Anderson, a fellow prisoner, led to his recapture. In it Fitzsimmons made an appointment with Anderson to meet him in New Orleans some days ago.

Detectives Finney and Lang of this city have been in the vicinity of the Crescent City for weeks, shadowing their man. They were aided by the brand of cigarets he was known to smoke, and which it was found he got at the stand. Three officers pounced on him there soon after midnight and put him in irons before he could shoot.

SHORTHORN BREEDERS.

Satisfactory Statements at the Annual Meeting Yesterday.

TORONTO, Feb. 4.—The seventh annual meeting of the Dominion Shorthorn Breeders' Association opened yesterday morning in Shaftesbury Hall, Mr. Richard Gibson, president, in the chair. Those present were: Hon. John Dryden, James Hunter, Alma; F. R. Shore, White Oak; D. D. Wilson, Seaforth; F. Green, Innerkip; William Liseton, Aurora; Arthur Johnston, Greenwood; F. D. Patton, St. George; James Russell, Richmond Hill; C. M. Simmons, Ivan; David Rea, Fergus; James Tolton, Walkerton; David Hill, Dublin; William Dawson, Victoria Road; David Orme, Shakespeare; J. C. Hanley, Reid; William Redmond, Millbrook; D. W. Greig, Ottawa; A. W. Smith, Maple Lodge; O. Chadwick, Toronto; John Racey, Markham; J. Idington, Stratford, Robert Miller, Markham; John Hope, Bow Park; W. J. McCutcheon, Lancaster; R. R. Sangster, Lancaster; J. Biggers, Clinton; F. Green, Innerkip; J. E. Cowan, Corbetton; B. Bristow, Rich Roy; Richard Gibson, Delaware, and Samuel Allen, Bowmanville.

The Executive Committee presented the sixth annual report, which stated that during the year 1891 they had paid for 3162 registrations, 2880 certificates and 378 changes of ownership. Of these had been rejected 27 registrations, 16 certificates and 2 changes of ownership, returning the fee, leaving 3135 registrations, 2873 certificates and 376 transfers, against in 1890, 3166 registrations, 2889 certificates and 348 transfers, and against it in 1889, 2729 registrations, 8522 certificates and 367 transfers, showing hardly any change in numbers which is reassuring, as the shorthorn industry has not appeared satisfactory lately. The report further stated that Volume III. of the herd book had been piloted and contained all the pedegrees up to the end of 1891. To meet the large expense of reprinting so many old pedigrees, as mentioned last year, the Agriculture and Arts Association had been again solicited and had consented to contribute another $1000 for 1892. The eight volumes which are now complete have recorded the pedigrees of 36,583 animals. The report shows that the association was formed in 1882 with a membership of 164, while there are 397 paid-up members on the roll to-day. The fees from registration increased from $2568 in 1889, $3047 in 1890 to $3152 in 1891. The committee called attention to the new rule requiring all calves born after Jan. 1, 1889, to be recorded before they are 18 months old. A double fee will be charged after that date. The financial statement showed that the receipts for the past year had been $8491 and the disbursements $8331, leaving a credit balance of $160. The assets were shown to amount to $5194, while the liabilities sum up but $500.

A large amount of formal business was transacted.

Who Will Secure the Twins?

TORONTO, Feb. 4.—An interesting dispute over the custody of two children came up at Osgoode Hall yesterday morning before Justice Rose. Ghahy, it seems, has some years ago Charles S. Ellis married Mabel Hardy, daughter of George Hardy of Rosedayne. The children of the marriage were the twin brothers. Matthew C. Ellis and Charles Q. H. Ellis, now bright and promising lads of eight years of age. In 1890 Mrs. Mabel Ellis obtained a divorce from her husband and the court allowed her the custody of the children. On the 24th ult. Mrs. Ellis died after bequeathing the custody of the children to her father, George Hardy of 50 Rose-avenue. The father, Mr. Charles S. Ellis, is now anxious to have the children handed over to him, and yesterday morning the boys were produced at Osgoode Hall in response to a writ of habeas corpus. This case will come up again at Osgoode Hall next Wednesday.

Riot at Lisbon.

LISBON, Feb. 4.—A crowd of workmen out of employment pillaged a number of baker shops in this city yesterday. Many were arrested.

Express Messengers Discharged.

CHICAGO, Feb. 4.—Twenty express messengers in the employ of the Adams Express Company, it is stated here, have been discharged within two days. Most of the messengers are veterans, including Drouch, who fought a gang of robbers at Seymour, Ind., in 1872 and successfully defended $60,000 of express money. No reason was assigned for the action of the company making the discharges. The men claim it is the result of a determination by the company's officials to exterminate the brotherhood of express messengers.

ONTARIO'S FARMERS

In Favor of Free Trade With England—What Mr. McKay and Others Hope.

TORONTO, Feb. 4.—At yesterday's meeting of the Central Farmers Institute Professor Robertson, Dominion Dairy Commissioner, spoke of the possibilities of selling Canadian products at a profit in the English markets. A resolution favoring free trade was passed by a majority of 84 to 26.

Mr. Henry Brown of Chesley read a paper on the position of the Ontario farmer, looking at it from a very unfavorable standpoint.

Mr. Wolverton called attention to an article in an English fruitgrowers' paper. The Horticultural Times, which contained a long article lately on the danger of arsenic poisoning from Canadian apples asserted that the arsenic could be rubbed off the fruit with the hand. It was the arsenic in the fruit that gave it the many beautiful tints with which the English growers could not compete. The convention resolved to furnish Sir Charles Tupper such scientific information as would enable him to refute all such libelous statements.

To-day will be the last day of the convention.

Warm Weather Down East.

ST. JOHN, N.B., Feb. 4.—The weather record here for January was remarkable. The snowfall was only 14 inches, the smallest for many years and very little more than half the average, while the rainfall was over seven inches, or three times the average amount for January. It was about the warmest January on record, the average temperature being 24, or six degrees warmer than the average in January for 30 years.

Newspaper Office Damaged.

OSHAWA, Feb. 4.—The explosion of a boiler this afternoon caused a fire in The Vindicator office, Simcoe-street. The firemen responded to the call very promptly, but the fire had gained considerable headway. Three thousand dollars damage was done to stock and machinery, covered by insurance.

Some tobaccos spurt up in the pipe while smoking, with little crackling explosions. This is caused by the addition of foreign matter to assist the combustion. When the purity of the tobacco is not tampered with and it has been properly taken care of, this combustible foreign matter is wholly unnecessary. A Successful Meeting.

The first open meeting of the B L A. was held in the commercial hall at the B B. College last evening. A large number of friends were present. It was not expected that the gathering would be so large or ample accommodation would have been provided. Some additions are being made in order to accomodate the visitants, and which will afford more room at such meetings. The programme was varied and interesting and consisted of readings, recitations, solos, etc. A prominent feature of the evening was the speech by Mr. J. Harry, who was selected as one of the critics. He gave some good advice to the students in reference to extemporaneous speaking. We have no hesitation in stating that the B.L. Assembly will be a success and attain the same reputation the B.B.C. already has.

Medical Partnership.

We learn with pleasure that a partnership has been formed between Dr. Gibson and Dr. McColl. Both gentlemen were university graduates in Arts before entering on their professional studies and bring to the new partnership a larger proportion of general acquirements and literary training than has hitherto been usual in the medical profession. Dr. McColl, after a brilliant university course, held the mathematical mastership in Belleville High School, and is kindly and favorably known for a man of industry, talent and courtesy. He has had a growing practice in the city, and Dr. Gibson could not have selected a safer or more genial and skilful helpmate in his constantly increasing professional work.

From the London (Eng.) Daily News we learn of the payment by the Standard Life Assurance Company of a policy of £100,000 (nearly $500,000), and that the bonus additions thereto. The person upon whose life the policy was effected, is the late Mr. Charles Henry Crompton Roberts, of Worcestershire, England, whose death occurred on the 5th Nov'r 1891. The personal estate only of the deceased was proven at the sum of £274,147 7s. 6d. By his will, the proceeds of the Standing Policy were to be applied in the purchase of lands, to be settled upon his eldest son in entail. Mr. T. C. Lazier, of this city, is the general agent of the "Standard" in this district.

The "Iolanthe."

In view of the holding of a regatta here this year in connection with the Lake Yacht Racing Association, the yachting spirit is reviving in Belleville. EAST HASTINGS.

LARGE AND ENTHUSIASTIC MEETING.

Mr. W. B. Northrup the Unanimous Choice as Seconded by the Candidate and Others.

A mass meeting of the Liberal Conservatives of East Hastings was held on the 3rd inst. in Roslin village and was largely attended by the yeoman of that riding. The large hall was filled to the doors and a great number were unable to gain admittance. The enthusiasm was unbounded and the party are united in support of the popular candidate, Mr. W. B. Northrup. The prominent men of the party were present, among whom were the following:

DESERONTO—Dr. Newton, A. A. Richardson, R. H. Baker, J. Gault, G. Parham, A. E. Gracey, P. Jack, W. J. Malley, J. Anderson, A. Solmes, E. Frickett, P. N. Irwin, Geo. Stewart, J. Barber, E. Freeman, W. Mark, F. Beasley, F. Clement, R. Cement, W. H. Mellow.

TYENDINAGA—M. Hill, R. Hill, I. Ray, S. Gilder, C. Collins, S. Mount, W. E. Gillespie, R. Duffin, T. Creeper, S. Emerson, J. Robinson.

THURLOW—W. P. Hudson, M.P.P., A. R. Daly, Henry Deapre, J. G. Latta, A. Latta, W. Clarke, Thos. Clarke, Thos. Kelly, W. Howe, C. Weese, J. Ham, P. Mather, E. N. Gould, W. H. Milburn, G. W. Palmer.

HUNGERFORD.—Geo. Martin, S. Turkington, K. Gordon, Wm. White, A. McGowan, R. Robinson, W. Elliott, John A. Gordon.

In addition to the names above there were some 200 others. The unanimous opinion prevailed that the convention was the largest which had been held in the riding for years.

Mr. F. R. Daly, President of the Association, occupied the chair and called the meeting to order.

The Secretary of the Association, Mr. C. Hudson, read the minutes of the last meeting, which were read and confirmed.

The chairman stated that they were present to select a candidate to contest the riding. Death had removed Mr. S. B. Burdett, the late member. Although opposed politically to Mr. Burdett, he would be missed and regretted by both political parties. They all sympathized with his friends. Since they last met our great leader, Sir John Macdonald, had also gone over to the great majority. His place could never be fully filled. His long life was spent in the interest of the country. His policy was in the interest of the country, and it was loyal to the Queen and pr gress. We all felt deeply his death. He left us with a majority in the House of Commons, gentlemen who he was certain would carry on his policy successfully. The farmers were as well off in this country as any other farmers in the world were. Under the fostering care of Great Britain, the destiny of Canada would be onward.

Mr. Gordon, of Deseronto, moved the following resolution, after referring to the late chieftain in eulogistic terms:

Moved by Dr. Newton, seconded by Dr. A. Parker, That the Liberal Conservative Association of the East Riding of Hastings at this their first meeting since the lamented death of the Right Hon. Sir John A. Macdonald, G.C.B., our distinguished chieftain, feel it a befitting opportunity to express our admiration and esteem of him as a leader, recognising our great loss. In his death we deeply sympathize with his beloved widow and family.

We also extend to the Hon. J. J. C. Abbott, Premier of the Dominion, and his colleagues in office, our unbounded confidence and support in the able administration of the affairs of the Dominion of Canada, and further pledge our loyalty to our Sovereign Queen Victoria.

The resolution was passed unanimously.

The chairman stated that the time for nominations had arrived. Before, however, he called for nominations he read the following letter:

ROSLIN, Feb. 3rd, 1892.

P. R. Daly, Esq., President Conservative Association of East Hastings:

MY DEAR MR. DALY.—Have the kindness to say to the officers and members assembled of the association that I regret, that owing to other duties, I am not able to present with you, and that my business engagements are such that if the nomination was offered to me I could not accept it at the present time. I could not give time to the canvass nor attend to my Parliamentary duties if I should be elected. I hope you will succeed in selecting and electing some gentleman from amongst you to day, and whoever he may be I will give him all the assistance in my power to be elected. I return to you and all parties present to day (and I would ask them to convey to my absent friends) my sincere and heartfelt thanks for the many times they have stood so true to me and assisted me so long to represent them in the House of Commons, and I sincerely hope He who rules all things well may be their guide and protector. I remain your friend and well-wisher

JOHN WHITE.

The letter was received with loud applause.

Dr. Newton nominated Mr. W. B. Northrup as the candidate for the Commons. The speaker stated that during the last year Mr. Northrup had paid great attention to the riding and he should again be entrusted with the candidacy.

Mr. W. Latta, of Plainfield, seconded the nomination, which was carried unanimously.

Mr. Northrup on coming forward was received with loud applause. He thanked them for the confidence which had again been reposed in him. A year ago he was a candidate, and that time was a matter of opinion, but at the present time all was right. The voters' list of the riding was also in a bad condition, but during the past year it had been looked after. Now we were united and determined to win. (Hear hear.) In the present campaign the seat was to be wrested from the Opposition. Mr. John White's letter was a manly one, and he (the speaker) regretted that he was ill. He had fought well and won many a victory for this riding. Our opponents had brought out a strong man, they proclaimed, would carry the riding, but he (the speaker) had confidence in the electors of East Hastings, and he was certain that the Conservatives would be victorious. He thanked them most heartily for the confidence reposed in him, and he appealed to every worker to work energetically until election day and the old flag and the old policy would be sustained. On resuming his seat he was loudly applauded.

Mr. Corby, M.P., was heartily received. He said it afforded him great pleasure to be present. He regretted that Mr. White was ill. He, the speaker, would have done all he could to elect Mr. White had he been the candidate. He was prepared to do all in his power to elect Mr. Northrup. He was a candidate to be proud of. He would request every man to do his duty. They were not voting for Mr. Northrup alone, but for the great Conservative party. He was pleased to see all united in support of Mr. Northrup. He would do all he could to elect him.

Mr. Robert Gordon, ex-Reeve of Hungerford, said the longer he lived the firmer was he convinced that it would be wrong to have Mr. Laurier and Mr. Cartwright as leaders of the Government. He respected Mr. Ayiworth, but he differed from him politically. He was pleased that the nomination was unanimous. Hungerford was all right and would in the approaching election do its duty.

Mr. A. A. Richardson of Deseronto, said that this was an important occasion. The Conservatives of Deseronto would not be disorganized. It would remain true to the departed chief and Mr. Northrup's majority would be increased. The watchword of the party at present should be organization and he had no doubt of the result.

Mr. John Loft, of the Mohawk Reserve, stated that he was gratified to see such a unanimous meeting. The Indians were ready to do their duty and would give Mr. Northrup a larger majority than he received before.

Mr. Wm. White, of Tweed, urged upon every voter the necessity of working from now until election day, and the old flag would be victorious. The Conservatives should remain true to their principles and victory would be the result.

Mr. W. P. Hudson, M.P.P., said he was ready for the election and prepared to do his duty. He was pleased to see such a large and representative gathering. East Hastings would, he was certain, return Mr. Northrup to represent it in the Commons. If the Conservative party would go to work determinedly they would be victorious. The Conservative party was a progressive party. It was the party which had built up this country. The Conservatives stood by him (the speaker) nobly and he appealed to them to support the candidate and he was certain he would be their representative. It devolved upon every man to do his duty.

Short addresses were also delivered by Dr. Newton, Dr. A. D. Walker, J. F. Wills, Peter Mather and W. C. Mikel, all of whom impressed upon the minds of those present the necessity of organizing and working to secure a victory at the polls.

The meeting was then brought to a close after a vote of thanks had been tendered to the Chairman and cheers given for the Queen and the candidate.

As Others See Us.

Bridge Street Methodist Church and Sunday School, Belleville.

("E. B." in Methodist Onward.)

More than thirty years ago the writer was accustomed to preach occasionally in Pinnacle street church, which was the mother of the Methodist churches in Belleville. The old church has been converted into the headquarters of a railway company.

Bridge street church superseded Pinnacle street, and was a large and commodious structure, but, after a few years it was destroyed by fire. Happily after paying the expenses of a new organ, which is kept open daily except Sundays from 8 a.m. to 10 p.m., and is in charge of an energetic young lady. There is also a library which is well patronized.

The Sunday school is a model, with Mr. Wm. Johnson at its head, aided by a noble band of men and women, who cheerfully obey his every behest. Either the superintendent or one of his aides bids every one welcome as they enter. We do not remember ever seeing so many smiles and so much handshaking. It was no wonder to see such a crowd of little folks in attendance. As for grown-up persons of both sexes, we do not remember ever seeing so many at one school before. The rooms were crowded. If memory does not fail, there were eight senior Bible classes.

There is a large choir of young persons. The singing, of which there was a good deal, was superb. The Apostles' Creed was repeated by the whole school. Our pleasure was still further enhanced by the information given that the Quarterly Board provides for the running expenses of the school and that the entire collection made every Sabbath goes to the mission cause. God bless this excellent school.

Reciprocity Negotiations.

It is definitely understood that Hon. Mackenzie Bowell, Acting Minister of Customs, Sir John Thompson, Minister of Justice, and Hon. G. E. Meanwhile the Ministers will devote the remainder of the week in Ontario constituencies.

Nothing Hurts Out Corns

Like tight boots. Corns are very small affairs, but apply to them a pair of tight boots and all other concerns of life sink into insignificance. Tight boots and Putnam's Corn Extractor (the great and only sure cure for corns) may go together, and comfort will be their partner; but don't fail to use Putnam's Corn Extractor. Frauds, cheap, poisonous and dangerous substitutes, are in the market. Beware of them. Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor. Polson & Co., proprietors, Kingston.

DEAR SIR,—I am very much pleased to think that I have been of some service to Mr. Flint in solving the problem of ghosts, but I think Mr. Flint's thanks is a little sarcasm in them. Did it ever strike Mr. Flint that every great mind has a weakness somewhere? Not that I would for a moment infer that those divines mentioned by Mr. Flint were possessed of weak minds absolutely, but if we go back to those days of darkness and superstition we think for a moment that these divines were cradled, nay that they grew up in, the midst of such superstitions as that it became a second nature to them, is it any wonder that they saw apparitions? It is an optical delusion, the outcome of early training, which shows the extent of the mind in giving way to the exuberance of the moment. But, alas! that we should find in this enlightened age men of learning and abilities writing stories which are amusing fit for a dime novel. This surely shows a weakness somewhere, and if this remedy found by me and so highly spoken of prevents a like repetition in the future, why the sooner the application is made the better.

Yours truly,
JOHN HARRIS.

Ghosts and Haunted Houses.

For the Intelligencer.

The house in which we lived at the farm seven miles back of Brockville as the road then ran, but only five and one half miles by the gravel road. This house, after my father moved to Brockville in 1815, was occupied by a family who worked it. This house became haunted, and a ghost was often seen by sons members of the family, the nightly noise being unbearable. They moved out to another house a few rods away, and the ghost and haunted house became the talk of the country people far and near. One evening my father sent me out to kill a sheep at the farm, in order to have fresh meat, there being no butcher stalls in town.

One evening, I persuaded the youngest son to go and sleep at the haunted house, there being a bed left in the room where I neared the people with the noises mentioned in a former letter. I went with the son; we took no light; after being in bed a short time, a noise began like the tramping of many feet on the floor directly above and at the back part of the large room. I got up and went to one of the doors and opened it; the noise ceased. I went to the other bedroom, all was quiet there. I left both doors open and went back to bed. Just as I was going to sleep the noise commenced again. I got up, went quietly to the bedroom door and looked in, and saw by the light out I saw several ghosts dressed in white who, on seeing me, ran away. I got Lse up, and we went out and drove the sheep into the barn yard, and shut the gate—went back and had a good night's rest—got up early, killed one of the "ghosts," dressed, quartered it and put in two bags across the saddle, and with a sack of grain, rode to town, and had some of the matter for breakfast. So much for that ghost story. The people moved back into the haunted house.

There was about 5 miles below the town a large two story stone house with storm cellars underneath, used for a tavern during the war of 1812 and 15. There were no refined names of hotel and saloons in those days. Whisky was the drink. There was a foul murder committed in this house, and the family moved away and soon this house became haunted, and often a ghost was seen creeping out of the front door. This was not only seen by those living in s'ght but by persons passing to and fro. A pretty general belief was that the murdered man was the ghost, and people were afraid to go to the house, and one evening in the summer of 1820 I was returning to Prescott from Brockville on foot. It was a bright moonlight night, and I concluded I would try and find out the ghost. I left the road and went to the cellar door, opened it and explored that part, the upstairs and on through every room in the house—saw no ghost; yet I saw enough to convince me that it was at times used by some one. I left and went home; told what I had done and seen. A watch was set by the customs officers and in a few days the ghosts were caught smuggling in goods from the States, and so ended this ghost story. Shortly after a man by the name of Mandige moved in with his wife and two daughters and lived there for years. I think the house caught fire and was burned down.

One more ghost and a haunted block-smith shop built one and one half miles from Brockville and I will finish for the present. Mr. Eikanah Billings lived one and one-half miles out on the main road, leading to Brockville, which was traveled by people on foot, as it saved half a mile in going to Brockville. Noises were often heard in the shop, but upon opening the door they ceased, but no one being in and no fire on the forge. At once the news spread that the shop was haunted. In the spring of 1810 the remains of a man was found not far from the road and house, the skull broken in. This caused an enquiry, when it was found that it must have been that of a pedlar who was seen last at a house on the next farm late in the fall, but no other trace of his pack could be found. The coroner's jury gave a verdict of wilful murder, and the remains of a man was found near the house at the shop was accounted for, and the man's ghost was often seen there.

In crossing that way one day, I heard a noise in the shop; but on opening the door the noise ceased, and nothing was to be seen but the shop tools—no fire in the forge; on getting home, I reported to my father and neighbors. Several went with me, and we managed to separate and come on all sides of the house and shop, but no noise was heard. On the next day, search was made; a trap-door was found, and below it a room, which at once explained the mystery—all the appliances of a small shop for making, as also counterfeiting Dollars &c., for coining bogus silver, as also bank notes in blank, to be filled up, on various American banks; these were all taken out and destroyed by Brockville and Elizabethtown authorities, and I will not trouble you with any more ghost stories, but if you wish to have my opinion in another form, on things said to be supernatural. Yours, &c.,

BILLA FLINT.

INTENSE SUFFERING!

Mr. William Buchanan, 24 years engineer in the Cunard Steamship Company's service, 8 St. John's Road, Kirkdale, Liverpool, Eng., writes: "I suffered two years of agony from an affection in the head which six physicians pronounced incurable. They were divided in opinion as to whether it was acute neuralgia of the head or rheumatic affection of the brain, but all agreed that I could never recover. In my paroxysms of pain it needed two and sometimes three men to hold me down in bed. When at death's door, was applied to my head. It acted like magic. It saved my life. I am well and hearty, and have had no return of the trouble."

ST. JACOBS OIL

At last my husband purchased a bottle of Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery, from which I derived considerable benefit. CAST ON THE WORLD!
OR,
The Border Marriage.

'And he will visit him with full retribution,' murmured Dora, with a look of dismay. 'I have often noticed there was a great enmity between Mr. Ravensworth and papa. Now he will show him no mercy.'

'Yes, he will,' answered Charles grimly. 'Till to-day he was implacable in his vindictive intentions, but this morning an influence was brought to bear on him which he could not resist—a gentle, potent, merciful influence, which softened his heart, and brought his better nature into ascendancy. He will now treat Lord Eagleheart generously, and all public exposure will, I think, be spared.'

'I know whose influence it was that wrought the change,' said Dora. It was that of good, kind Mrs Ravensworth.'

'There you are wrong. She had tried her power of love and failed. 'It was an influence more powerful still—the influence of his daughter.'

'His daughter!' echoed Dora.

'Yes, Dora, they have found their daughter, whom, as a child, they lost long ago. Providence has been strangely at work here too, bringing about a wonderful and blessed discovery.'

'They have found her!' cried Dora, breathlessly. 'How—where—where?'

'You know her already, Dora. It is Mary Woodford.'

We shall not dwell on the amazement produced in Dora by this second astounding communication. We shall leave brother and sister to continue their absorbing conversation in the summer house, and proceed to the mansion to depict a still more exciting scene which was taking place there between Lord Eagleheart and Philip Ravensworth.

CHAPTER XL.
LORD EAGLEHEART MEETS DISCOVERY AT LAST — A DESPERATE INTENTION FRUSTRATED.

On entering the mansion, Philip Ravensworth went straight to the library, where he had been informed Lord Eagleheart was to be found. The door was covered all over with thick baize, and opened noiselessly, so that the entrance of Ravensworth was neither heard nor perceived by the inmate of the chamber, who sat at a table with an open folio before him, which, however, he was not reading, for his eyes were directed in an abstracted gaze toward a marble bust of Shakespeare, which crowned one of the rows of shelving.

Philip stood near the door for some moments intently regarding him. He could study his lordship's countenance now through a better knowledge of his character—of his action—of his cruel, hearthard and even criminal conduct. His lordship's face was gloomy and troubled. There was nothing like repose or contentment in it—it was an anxious, irritable face, very hard and haughty still, but most thoroughly ill at ease, moody, and anxious.

The sight of it would, a day earlier, have called up from the heart of Philip all his fierce bitterness against him—the memory of the former degradation and galling dependency which he had endured at his cousin's hands—and, with vindictive triumph and exultation, he would have used all his power against him, to humiliate, crush and ruin him.

It was otherwise now. A change, a wonderful, but a blessed change had been effected in Ravensworth's mind by Mary's words to him that morning. Through the shining of a better light he saw the unworthiness of his former passionate hatred and desire for vengeance, and a nobler, but at the same time a sadder feeling lay upon his spirit. Nevertheless, he well knew that, in the first place, for the sake of others, he must deal sternly and indignantly with the evil doer before him.

With folded arms, he advanced slowly over the thick matting which covered the floor, still unseen and unheard, till a board creaked beneath his feet, and caused Lord Eagleheart to turn his head.

He started to his feet and gazed like one appalled at a most angry and betraying himself by such evident perturbation, he furiously exclaimed—

'What means this intrusion? How dare you steal in upon my privacy in this fashion?'

'My lord, why should you feel so annoyed and nonplussed at seeing me?' asked Philip, in a quiet tone, yet equity the other very steadily. 'Are we not cousins?'

'Why do you come in upon me by stealth?'

'I have not come upon you by stealth. I entered in the usual way.'

'I am not to be disturbed—not to be intruded on by you,' exclaimed his lordship, his anger still more abating.

'And why do you deem my presence an intrusion?'

Lord Eaglehearth now got himself thoroughly under command, and was cool, haughty, watchful, as he knew he needed to be with the man before him.

'Because of the terms on which we stand to each other,' he replied, 'the circumstances in which we parted when last we met.'

'Circumstances have changed since then,' remarked Ravensworth. 'Important discoveries have been made.'

'Nothing which affects you, I presume,' said his lordship haughtily.

'And yet, some time ago, you invited me to confer with Charles, to receive assurance of a certain fact from the lips of Lady Eaglehearth. We came, my lord, at the hour you appointed, but found that you and Lady Eaglehearth were both absent.'

'Yes,' rejoined the other. 'On reflection I resolved not to have a meeting which in its very nature cast a doubt upon my honor. If he and you did not choose to believe my word, I would not condescend to humble myself and insult my wife by asking her to be a witness to my veracity.'

'Silence, sir! I will not brook to have my actions construed by you. Be good enough to come at once to the purpose of your visit, if, indeed, you have a purpose. If you have come in the hope of seeing her ladyship, I tell you at once that you shall not see her.'

'And do you suppose that such an answer will suffice in a matter of this kind?' replied Philip. 'You are well aware of what importance it is to me to know whether or not you were married privately before our uncle's death. If you were, then this estate should never have been yours, but mine. You fraudulently possessed yourself of it, and have fraudulently held it all these years. Think you when I have such a stake as that in question I will not compel you to give me access to Lady Eaglehearth, in order to be fully assured that I have not been deprived of my rights? I have to remind you that I am not a child, nor a simpleton, neither am I your poor helpless dependent as I once was. I am able to meet you, my lord, and to fight you on equal terms.'

'This was what I expected,' said his lordship, white with rage and agitation. 'From my knowledge of the malignity of your nature, I looked for such suspicions being produced by your mind by the discoveries which had been made.'

'Say, rather, the expectation arose from the knowledge of your own guilt,' said Philip, sternly and significantly.

His look was so terribly meaning that his lordship quailed, and grew visibly agitated, but in very desperation he grew wrathfully defiant.

'This to me!' he shouted. 'Do you dare—'

'Hold, my lord, I will spare you the necessity of further trying to brave out and conceal your perfidy. Well did I know the meaning of the agitation which my unexpected appearance caused you. Me you have to dread more than any man on earth, for in you and you know how you have wronged me, and you also know the little room you have to look for mercy or forbearance from me. It was your conscience that made a coward of you, my lord—as well it might. No need for further fencing between us. I have discovered your Border Marriage!

GENTLEMEN,—In 1886 I was severely afflicted with a severe attack of the kidneys, from which I suffered great pain. GOOD DEEDS DONE.

THE good deeds done by that unequalled family Medicine, Hagyard's Yellow Oil, during the thirty years it has been held in ever increasing esteem by the public, would fill volumes. We cannot here enumerate all its good qualities, but that it can be relied on as a cure for croup, coughs, colds, sore throat and all pains, goes without saying.

Parmelee's Pills possesses the power of acting specifically upon the diseased organs, stimulating to action the dormant energies of the system, thereby removing disease. In fact, so great is the power of this medicine to cleanse and purify, that diseases of almost every name and nature are driven from the body. Mr D. Caswell, Carswell P. O., Ont., writes: "I have tried Parmelee's Pills and find them an excellent medicine, and one that will sell well."

Griefs are over coming to us with the coming hours, and our little strength is only as the day.

Those of the gentle sex who have experienced the pain and annoyance caused by excoriated nipples and inflamed breasts, can well appreciate the value of a remedy which removes the trouble. This is precisely what Dr Thomas' Eclectric Oil does, besides curing when used internally asthma, croup and other maladies.

I AM A MAN

"I have been treated by doctors, who had long lists of so-called cured patients, but they could not reach my case, and hope had been murdered in me by their promises, but on first application of your magical appliance, hope and confidence came flocking in stronger than the combined powers of the four winds. I knew then that you would cure me, and now that I am a man and well again, I cannot thank you sufficiently for the cure." So again I say, use my name as reference whenever you wish. You nor any one else cannot use words too strong to express my sentiments in favor of so wonderful a treatment as that given by you."

SCHOOL BOY KIDNAPPED

SEIZED WHILE ON HIS WAY TO AT TEND SCHOOL

A Note Received by His Father Demanding $6000 Ransom—He Failed to Return from School on Monday and Enquiry Showed That He Had Not Been There.

NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—Officers from Long Ridge, Conn., reported at the Westchester County Sheriff's office yesterday the kidnapping on Monday of a boy named Ward Waterbury, 8 years old, the son of a well-to-do farmer named Charles P. Waterbury of the town of Poundridge, Westchester County. The object of the kidnappers, it is said, is to obtain money from the lad's father, from whom a demand for $6000 was made, although some of Mr. Waterbury's neighbors are of the opinion that an ex-convict, who was sent to the State Prison some years ago for stealing a horse from Mr. Waterbury, can throw some light on the child's disappearance.

The lad, who is described as of a sickly build, with light hair and brown eyes, left his home for the public school in District No. 1, Poundridge, shortly before 9 o'clock on Monday morning. The school-teacher, a Miss Sarah E. Bedford, in Westchester County, says he did not reach the school building. His luncheon basket was found during the day under a tree near the school-house by Miss Stead. When last seen the boy was in the company of three men at the village of Middle Patent, near the Connecticut line. The men were in a wagon, and were driving in the direction of Danbury, Conn.

According to Mr. Sarle's statement the men must have been acquainted with the neighborhood and the family connections of the boy, for about 1 o'clock on Monday afternoon Charles Waterbury, jr., a young man 17 years old, son of Jared Waterbury, brother of the kidnapped lad's father, was met on the highway near the schoolhouse by two men. One was riding in a buggy and the other was walking. The man in the buggy threw Charles a note, with instructions to deliver it to Charles P. Waterbury, the kidnapped boy's father. The young man did so, little suspecting its contents. The note informed Mr. Waterbury of his child's abduction, and the further fact that if he would meet the writer at Miller's Bridge, near Long Ridge, Conn., at midnight on Tuesday, and deliver over $6000, his child would be returned.

CHEATED THE GALLOWS.

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 5.—Frederick C. Fitzsimmons, of Brockville, Ontario, who was arrested here Tuesday charged with murder in Pittsburg, Pa., cut his throat with a penknife at 11 o'clock this morning in a cell at the parish prison. He will die. Fitzsimmons left a long letter, in which he says:

"I have pursued crime with its fatal consequences, my liberty is again jeopardized and as liberty or death is paramount in my mind I prefer the latter. My imprisonment is disgrace, slow death and dragging further in the mire the good name of honorable and respected relatives."

Fitzsimmons, after writing the letter this morning, jumped into bed, threw a blanket over his head and apparently went to sleep. Half an hour later one of the attendants in the jail heard him groaning, and on going to the bed found Fitzsimmons had slashed his throat three times while under the blanket and was weak from the loss of blood.

Normal School Drawing Book Copyright.

OTTAWA, Feb. 5.—A misunderstanding has arisen between T. H. McCourt of the Normal School, Ottawa, and J. H. McPhail, M. D., of the Normal School, Toronto, and the Education Department of Ontario, over the appropriation of drawing book designs, 75 per cent. of which Mr. McPhail claims to be his, but which are all published in book form as the original designs of Mr. McPhail. Mr. Henderson, of Belcourt, McCracken & Henderson, compositors, met with the Education Department and got the reply that the Department had nothing to do with inserting the name of Mr. McPhail as the author in the copyright.

Gored to Death by a Bull.

WOODBRIDGE, Ont., Feb. 5.—Robert Kerr, age 16, was taking a bull belonging to his employer, William Barnes, to water yesterday, when the animal turned upon him, goring him so badly that he died.

Soulanges Canal Contracts.

OTTAWA, Feb. 5.—It is understood that the contract for the Soulanges canal for construction will all go west. The contract for section II has gone to Messrs. Manning & Macdonald of Toronto. Those for 12 and 15 will all go west, unless Mr. Goodwin accepts No. 13.

Lord Mount Stephen's Mother Dead.

MONTREAL, Feb 5.—The news was cabled to Lord Mount Stephen of the death of his mother, Mrs. Elspeth Smith, widow of the late Mr. William Stephen. Mrs. Stephen died at her residence, 901 Dorchester street, this morning after an illness of about a month of pneumonia and paralysis. She deceased lady was born in Morayshire, Scotland, nearly 90 years ago. She married the late Mr. William Stephen in Banff and settled in Dufton. She came to Canada with her husband in 1847 and resided here ever since.

OTTAWA, Feb. 4.—Notice of the appeal of the Rykert case, Lincoln, Centre Burrell v. City of Winnipeg, to the Privy Council, has been given to the Department of Justice.

The Late Mayor's Goldie's Funeral.

GUELPH, Feb. 2.—At a special meeting of the city council to-day a committee was appointed to wait on the family of the late Mayor Goldie and arrange to have a public funeral. It was decided that the council should take full charge of the funeral and that Wednesday, 3 p.m. be fixed as the council chamber Saturday morning at 11 o'clock, and lie in state until 3 p.m.

Retire from Business.

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 5.—John A. Morris, the principal owner and director of the Louisiana Lottery Company, will give notice in the newspapers to-morrow that he intends to withdraw his proposition for the re-charter of the company and that the concern will wind up its affairs and retire from the field when its charter expires in 1894.

This action is the result of the decision of the Supreme Court of the United States declaring the anti-lottery law constitutional.

Death of a Well-known Haligonian.

HALIFAX, N. S., Feb. 5.—Otto S. Weeks, a well-known lawyer, died yesterday after a short illness. He was Attorney-General of Nova Scotia for a few years and a member of the Provincial Legislature.

SIX YEARS' SUFFERING

DEAR SIRS,—I was troubled for six years with erysipelas, and two bottles of Burdock Blood Bitters entirely cured me. I keep B.B.B. constantly in the house and think it an effectual cure for all diseases caused by bad blood.

Mrs. M. DOWSETT, Portland, Ont.

Dangerous Counterfeits.

Counterfeits are always dangerous, more so that they always closely IMITATE THE ORIGINAL IN APPEARANCE AND NAME. The remarkable success achieved by Nasal Balm as a positive cure for Catarrh and Cold in the head has induced unprincipled parties to imitate it. The public are cautioned not to be deceived by nostrums imitating Nasal Balm in name and appearance, bearing such names as Nasal Cream, Nasal Balsam, etc. Ask for Nasal Balm and decline any imitation dealers may urge upon you. For sale all druggists or sent post-paid on receipt of price (50c and $1.) by addressing Hor & Co. Brockville, Ont.

HAGYARD'S YELLOW OIL.

This great internal and external remedy always allays all pain. It is a specific for croup, and promptly cures coughs, cold, sore throat, sprains, bruises, burns, rheumatism, cuts, wounds, etc. Good for man or beast. Stands all tests. Sold everywhere. Price 25 cents. Hagyard's Yellow Oil.

It is worse than madness to neglect a cough or cold which is easily subdued if taken in time, but becomes, when left to itself, the fore runner of consumption and premature death. Inflammation, when it attacks the delicate tissue of the lungs and bronchial tubes, travels with perilous rapidity; then do not delay, but get a bottle of Dr. Bickle's Anti Consumptive Syrup, and whenever a child has taken cold, has a cough or hoarseness, give the Syrup according to directions.

He was manifested to take away our sins.

In his Vegetable Pills, Dr. Parmelee has given to the world the fruits of long research in the whole realm of medical science, a medicine with new and valuable properties not before known to man. For Detesia and Debilitated Constitutions Parmelee's Pills act like a charm. Taken in small doses, the pill is both a tonic and a stimulant, mildly exciting the secretions of the body, giving tone and vigor.

Mrs. L. Squire, Ontario Steam Dye Works, Toronto, says: "For about 30 years I have devoted for Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia without getting any cure. I then tried Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and the benefits I have received from this medicine are such that I cannot withhold this expression of my gratitude. It acts immediately on the liver. As a Dyspepsia remedy I don't think it can be equalled."

The best man is will always depend upon what he believes God to be.

to the pronunciation of some aristocratic English names.

Shall I ever forget her—that noble-born belle
I mean, first of all, in the street of Pall-Mall?
Her name matched her face so proud though so comely,
'Twas Gwendalyne Ethel Constantia May Cholmondeley.

A Justice—the criminal's terror—m'lord Ker;
A cousin, whose pride was the graceful cotillion,
A capital dancer was Captain Claude Dillwyn.

Another who fished every day from a punt
I remember his name—it was Algernon Brunt;
Her mother's birth name, I am told, was Colquhoun.
She ate, as the cook said, huge luncheons so soon!

Her grandma, who rudely at me used to stare,
Could boast of the blood of the noble Beauclere;
A lover I said I was sure would deceive her;
His name—let me think—oh! Augustus Browne-Beauvoir.

Another, precocious, a scholar at Eton,
Old Blueberry boy they called Billy Bruton;
Another, about town, particularly "fly,"
The Honorable Reginald Horace B. Bligh.

Their mutter some cousins she counted by dozens,
With uncles and aunts, and brothers and sisters.
Whose names on any man's tongue would raise blisters.

I asked her to wed. She replied with a stare;
"Just spell me the name of Sir Waldegrave Eyre;
And if from that task you come out with eclat,
I shall ask you to write me down Funny Du Pat;
You have wealth, I believe, but how sir, can I
Present you to my friends! Why sir I should die.
You would murder their names; but if you pronounce them,
Well, then, Mr. Smith, I will wed you, and bounce them."

I accepted the test, feeling awfully proud,
But she very near grassed me with Eva M'Leod.
The next made me feel like the butcher's own cousin,
When the knife is produced—it was Archibald Gluanis!
And when she attacked me with Sir Frederick Knollys,
I longed for the ice of the North and South poles.

I pulled through, and luckily thought of the Coles.
When she wrote down the name of Clarinda Menzies
And I fancied I'd vanquished the worst of the ills
When, with scarcely a falter, I read Mary Milroy.
The next was a "teaser," but think of an easy one
When anyone asks you to read Percy St. John
Through that with eclat, but she gave me a turn
With the very next name, which was Septimus Bourne.

The next—well—there was really no reason
So simple a task as Lord Benjamin Rousse;
But I fancy the very much we twain would be parters,
When shelling in my face that lordly Tom Cheriton.

Still, I plucked up and said, "Don't think I'm a jaguar,
But I looked easily around for a very deep crater
To drown myself in when it came to Duchesne;
And I feared I would lose the maid and her lands,
When she wrote down the name of Col. F. Sandys.

We left her pa's mansion, and out on the lawn
She proceeded a poser—Adolphus Fitz Strachan;
But I fancy she thought I, at least, had some merit,
When I uttered correctly the name of Frank Tyrwhitt.

"Have you any more poser?" I cried "If so,
"Oh, yes, many more. Now spell me Lord Beauchamp."
I did it, but feared I would go to all smash,
When she gave me the card of Ethel Tolemache!

And I said: "Oh, pray, don't play such harsh pranks;"
When she smilingly asked me to write her Marjoribanks;
"Of course the proud peers are the State's strongest pillars,"
I said, when she thought she had posed me with Villiers;

But, alas! she exclaimed; "Go! wed with some cook?"
When I failed to pronounce Villebois as Vealbrook!
And now the fair maid I oft see in my dreams
Has promised to marry a fellow named We-myss!

LENVOI.

Never more—never more 'neath that test will I writhe;
I have made up my mind to change Smith into Smythe;
A simple alibus, and two small additions,
Will place me on par with the proudest patricians.

Makes the Weak Strong

The marked benefit which people in run down or overworked state of health derive from Hood's Sarsaparilla, conclusively proves the claim that this medicine "makes the weak strong." It does not act like a stimulant, imparting factitious strength from which there must follow a reaction of greater weakness than before, but in the most natural way Hood's Sarsaparilla overcomes creates an appetite, purifies the blood, and, in short, gives great tonic, mental and digestive strength.

"I derived very much benefit from Hood's Sarsaparilla, when I took it for general debility. It built me right up, and gave me an excellent appetite." ED. JENKINS, Mt. Savage, Md.

Fagged Out

"Last spring I was completely fagged out. My strength left me and I felt sick and miserable all the time, so that I could hardly attend to my business. I took one bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and it cured me. There is nothing like it." R. C. BEGOLE, Editor Enterprise, Belleville, Mich.

Worn Out

"Hood's Sarsaparilla restored me to good health. Indeed, I might say truthfully it saved my life. To one feeling tired and worn out I would earnestly recommend a trial of Hood's Sarsaparilla." MRS. THERESE MOSHER, 20 Brooks Street, East Boston, Mass.

DID NOT STAY.

Mr. W. T. R. Preston visited Soulanges, but did not stay to the jubilee. With Pat O'Brien, he visited Prince Edward, but did not stay to the jubilee.

The same pair did what the Grit papers would call good yeoman work in Lennox, but they both forgot to stay to the jubilee.

They will both up again in East Hastings, but will forget to remain to the jubilee when the election is over.

ANOTHER RAID.

Mr. W. T. R. Preston, agent of the Mowat Government, is circling around in this neighborhood. Ontario Government appointees can expect another raid on their salaries. They will have the satisfaction of knowing that, as the Ontario says, it will be made in the most gentlemanly manner.

ANOTHER GOVERNMENT GAIN.

In the Queen's County, N.B., election case the Fredericton Supreme Court has decided that Mr. George F. Baird, Conservative, was entitled to the seat.

This is another Government gain, as at the general election G. G. King, Grit, was declared elected by 29 majority.

TWO GREAT VICTORIES.

Yesterday was a day of triumph for the Conservative policy. Tested, for the second time, in the two greatest barley-growing counties of the province, it was triumphantly endorsed by the people.

In the loyal old county of Prince Edward, the disloyalist Platt was buried beneath an adverse majority of 216—the largest that has been given in that constituency in many years. The grin was general throughout the county, but Amelisburg carried off the palm with an addition of no less than 80 to the grand majority which the township gave last year in favor of Mr. Miller. Mr. Corby, M.P., Mr. W. B. Northrup and the other gentlemen from Belleville who addressed the metings in this municipality did splendid service for the Conservative cause.

In Lennox, the Grit majority of 57 given last year for D. W. Allison, of Yankee proclivities, was converted into a majority of 31 for the former able representative, Mr. U. E. Wilson. Here, too, the Conservative gain was spread over the greater part of the county.

Now let every opponent of commercial annexation work to redeem East Hastings, and to send a solid delegation from this county to support the Government.

DON'T HANG TOGETHER.

The Ottawa Correspondent of the Globe writes on the 3rd inst.:

Yesterday morning the Speaker of the House of Commons did not even know officially that East Hastings had been vacant a week or so. The Government had decided, however, to run the election and Mr. Bowell and Sir John Thomp on notified the Speaker in the legal way that a vacancy had occurred. The Speaker then issued his warrant to the clerk of the Crown in Chancery and immediately an order came to Major Chapleau from the Privy Council requesting him to fix the writ and give him the dates, and before dark the writ was out and the whole thing was out. Nominations will be on the 18th and polling on the 20th. John Newson, of Deseronto, is returning officer. There is good authority for saying that Mr. Aylsworth, the Liberal nominee, is invincible in East Hastings and will carry it by a majority up in the hundreds. Here is a case where the writ followed the Speaker's warrant the same day. In the case of East Simcoe, the Speaker issued his warrant January 7th and the writ is still withheld by the Government.

The statements that Mr. Aylsworth is invincible in East Hastings and that the Government are rushing on the election, whilst being impelled by fear of the result to delay the writ for East Simcoe, do not hang together. The assertions are, however, as logical as those which usually emanate from Grit sources.

When the returns reach Ottawa on the night of the 20th, the Globe's very confident Grit scribbler will have food for reflection as to Mr. Aylsworth's "invincibility" in East Hastings.

Music Signaling.

(From the Youth's Companion.)

It is a theory which seems to have been confirmed by practical experiment that a pure tone of voice, such as that used in singing, penetrates to a much greater distance than mere noise. This idea has given rise to a new system of marine signaling.

A limited number of combinations of notes can be made to carry on all the conversation necessary between approaching vessels to avoid collision or between light houses and dangerous points of the coast in order to prevent wrecks.

Four notes, for example, serve to ask, "Which way are you heading?" and two others mean, "I am steering southeast."

The system can be employed on a large scale by means of machinery consisting of a key board, on which the operator would play, and "speaking apparatus." It is expected that by such apparatus communication may be established at a distance of two miles. The invention can be adapted to the Morse code of signals when it becomes necessary to spell out names or words.

A Suicidal Tariff.

(Buffalo Commercial.)

It must be admitted that events have verified the predictions of the opponents of this absurdly high duty on Canadian barley. It has injured the malting interests of Western New York grievously, without raising the price of state barley. The price of Canadian barley has remained nearly stationary, while the price of state barley is less than it was a year ago. The malt houses of Buffalo alone have a capacity of 5,000,000 bushels a year, and of this amount only about one third is now in use. Under a low duty the barley trade in western New York is profitable; under a 30 cent duty that keeps out two thirds of the Canadian barley formerly imported, it is badly crippled and ruined. The Commercial believes in the protection, and not in the crippling of American industries.

FARMERS FOREGATHER.

SEVERAL IMPORTANT MEETINGS IN THE QUEEN CITY.

TORONTO, Feb. 5.—At the morning sitting of the Central Farmers' Institute yesterday Prof. Mills read a paper on the advantages of a course of study at the Ontario Agricultural College. They have a farm of 550 acres, 80 of which is wooded. They have nine different breeds of cattle, eight of sheep and three of pigs.

There are five heads in their course of study—agriculture, live stock and dairying, natural science, English literature and political economy, mathematics and bookkeeping.

The constitution of the council was amended so that in future the president will be elected on the second day, and the members of the Executive Committee will be elected by the majority of the delegates of their respective districts.

The Torrens system of land transfer was ably discussed before the meeting by Mr. J. Herbert Mason, who enumerated the several systems and explained in which points the Torrens system is superior. After the discussion of several minor farming matters the convention broke up.

Ayrshire Breeders.

The sixth annual meeting of the Dominion Ayrshire Breeders' Association was opened yesterday morning in Shaftesbury Hall, the president, Mr. Yuille of Carleton Place, presided. The morning was taken up in discussing the difficulties that have arisen out of the late revision of the herd book.

At the afternoon session Mr. Thomas Guy of Oshawa read a paper on "The progress of the Ayrshire in Canada in 1891." Mr. James McCormack of Rockton followed with a paper on "Premature Breeding." A resolution of condolence with the family of Mr. George Morton, Rosciewan, was passed. Deceased was a prominent Ayrshire breeder.

Officers for 1892 were elected as follows: President, Thomas Guy, Oshawa; vice-presidents, one from each province, M. Ballantyne (Ontario), W. C. Edwards, M.P. (Quebec), George Steele (Manitoba), C. H. Manners (Northwest Territories), C. C. Gardiner (N.B.).

Auditors—Messrs. Bass and Brown.

The following members were appointed as delegates to the different fairs: Industrial, Messrs. Guy and McCormack; Western, Messrs. Ballantyne and Kain; Ottawa, Messrs. Yuille and Campbell Smith; Central Farmers' Institute, Mr. Yuille; Kingston, Messrs. Bass and Eyre; delegates to World's Fair Committee, Messrs. Guy and McCormack.

The following gentlemen were recommended as judges for the different fairs: M. Ballantyne, J. M. Jones, C. Smith, H. G. Clarke, W. Crawford, D. Nicholl, A. Kain, James McCormack, Thomas Guy and William Stewart.

The Dominion Sheep Breeders' Association's Annual Meeting.

The annual meeting of the Dominion Sheep Breeders' Association was held yesterday afternoon in Shaftesbury Hall.

Officers for 1892 were elected as follows: President, James Russell; vice-president, John Jackson; secretary, F. W. Hodson; treasurer, J. E. Shore. In choosing the executive, it is the custom to select men, each a prominent breeder of different breeds of sheep. Those elected were: R. Gibson, Delaware, Ont.; John Kelly, Shakespeare; J. C. Snell, Edmonton; William Smith, Fairfield; Hector, Springfield; James Tolton, Walkerton; John Oliver, Avonbank; John I. Hobson, Moorboro; Auditors, John S. Pearse, London, and R. Gibson Delaware, Ont.

In the secretary's report it was noted with pleasure that the influence of the association was gradually increasing. The membership had also increased remarkably fast. In 1889 there were 38 names on the roll. Now, there were 94 paid members, and the prospects for a large increase during the coming year were very bright. Men who had never taken an interest in the association were now becoming members. Hon. John Dryden, Minister of Agriculture, had consented to print and distribute the annual report, which would allow the association to use their grant to forward the shipping instructions in other directions.

The report pointed out as desirable that an annual meeting be held and that the spring and fall meetings be discontinued. This would enable the association to get up a good annual report. It was proposed that the meeting be held in December and that the association should join with Guelph Fat Stock Club, or some other association, in order to have a good fat stock show. The present financial standing of the association would warrant it in saying that $400 could be given in December next, without any increase in the grant. By taking an interest in this show it was pointed out that the members of the association would lay the foundation of what might in the future be Canada's great winter exhibition.

Cotswolds: John Thompson, J. C. Snell, Joseph Wade, William Thompson, Thomas Colley, Mr. Laidlaw, Heber Rawlings, Thomas Weaver, Arthur Johnston, Hugh Crawford, Thomas Teasdale, William Fetch.

Horned Dorsets: John Jewell, W. G. Hawkins, James Smith, John Jackson.

Shropshires: R. Wilson, F. R. Shore, T. M. Whiteside, D. Hanmer, W. H. Batte, J. Campbell, W. S. Hawkshaw, John Cousworth, Alfred Brown, W. D. Resor, R. Miller, J. McFarlane, James Cousworth, Daniel Brims.

Oxfords and Downs: Henry Arkell, F. R. Shore, James Rowand, M. P., J. Russell, William Dickison, James Tolton, Peter Arkell, James Harcourt, Robert Miller, Henry Arkell, Smith Evans, and Mr. Storey of the Ontario Agricultural College.

Leicesters and Lincolns: George Weeks, Hilton Suary, W. Gowan, John Allan, John Miller, William McKay, Joseph Pearson, J. C. Snell, W. E. Swain, Robert Miller, Andrew Telfer and John Mason.

Expert Judges for Southdowns: Arthur Simonton, George Baker, Edwin Cresswell, Simon Lemon, Thomas Wilkinson, John Davidson.

Hon. John Dryden, who was present at the meeting, read a very instructive paper on "The Future of Sheep Husbandry in Canada." One paragraph gave some particularly good advice to Canadian farmers. It was as follows:

"There are some—and their number is too great—who, when the market drops, begin at once to lose interest in the quality of their animals and who forthwith say that nothing will do, there is nothing in it anyway. Across they should double their energies if possible in the opposite direction. They should say, 'Now that unless reigns it must take greater pains in my selection and management than before, and thus as far as can be produce such quality as will induce a demand.'"

After finishing the paper Mr. Dryden spoke a few words, saying that the Ontario Government were anxious to make the Canadian exhibit of sheep at the World's Fair the very best one possible, and would cheerfully do anything that would tend to make it such.

The association intends to have a grand exhibit at the World's Fair. Space had been asked for 150 animals; but as it is ere will be seven or eight different breeds to be shown it was decided to ask for space for 100 additional sheep.

The meeting was continued in the evening. Papers were read by several members and discussed in a desultory manner.

An Old Newspaper Man Dead.

KINGSTON, Feb. 5.—Edward Taylor Darthell, who died here yesterday, was an old newspaper man, being at one time proprietor of The Kingston Standard and also a writer on The London Times. Subsequently he was manager of the Provincial Insurance Company of Toronto. For the past few years he has lived a retired life in this city.

RECIPROCITY.

What an Associated Press Message from Washington states.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5.—It is said at the Department of State that no formal arrangement has been made with Canadian authorities for the conference on the subject of increased trade relations between the United States and Canada, but that if the latter country sends a commission to Washington to open negotiations to that end the matter will receive the consideration it deserves.

WILL MR. FRASER RESIGN?

William Harty Nominated by Kingston Reformers for the Local House.

KINGSTON, Feb. 5.—To-night William Harty was nominated as Reform candidate for Kingston for the vacancy in the Ontario Legislature caused by the resignation of J. H. Metcalfe, M.P. Mr. Harty accepted the nomination and said he was bound to win. The Ontario Cabinet approve his selection, and it is said that if successful he will be successor to Hon. C. F. Fraser, Commissioner of Public Works, whose retirement, because of ill-health, is early expected.

Hugh Smith Dying.

KINGSTON, Feb. 5.—Little hope of recovery is held out for Mr. Hugh Smith, M. L. A. for Frontenac, who was injured some time ago while working on his farm.

MURDER REVIVED.

By a Petition to Release Macmahon From Penitentiary.

CHATHAM, Feb. 4.—A petition to His Excellency the Governor-General is being circulated in this district for the release of Benjamin Macmahon. It will be remembered that Macmahon was sentenced to be hung at the Kent Fall Assizes in 1888 for complicity in the murder of Willis Holton of Tilbury Centre.

The murder of Holton took place on the night of Jan. 16, 1888, in the old man's home near Tilbury Centre. Macmahon was immediately arrested, but his accomplices, Duff and Todd Quick, escaped. After a number of months Quick was found and both himself and Macmahon confessed their trial. Quick was acquitted and Macmahon sentenced to death, the sentence afterwards being commuted to imprisonment for life. Proof was, however, afterwards brought to show that Duff, who cannot be found, was the actual murderer of Holton and that the others were only his companions on the occasion.

Now the friends of Macmahon, more especially the Orangemen, to which Order he belonged, have taken the matter up and on the plea that purely circumstantial evidence of the most untrustworthy character was produced and very grave doubts being entertained as to his guilt, urge the Governor-General to pardon him altogether, having taken into consideration that he has already served three years.

W. Dewdney's Suicide.

VICTORIA, B.C., Feb. 4.—The funeral of W. Dewdney, Government agent, who committed suicide at Victoria the other day, took place yesterday. Dewdney made his wife a few hours before the shooting and also left a note to the constable stating that he was getting softening of the brain and that it would be unwise for him to die now instead of in an asylum.

Dewdney came to British Columbia in 1858, and was with the sappers and miners until 1862. The deceased was about 70 years of age and a native of England. He was a brother of Hon. Edgar Dewdney, Minister of the Interior.

MRS. OSBORNE ARRESTED.

LONDON, Feb. 5.—Mrs. Osborne who figured in the Hargrave jewelry theft case was yesterday arrested in this city on her return from Gosport. Mrs. Osborne was taken to the Cloak Lane police station and was there formally charged with obtaining money by false pretences. She remains in custody bail being inadmissable in her case. It is expected that she will be charged before the Lord Mayor to-morrow.

Captain Osborne says that his wife is full of courage and will not flinch or murmur at the punishment meted out to her. If she escapes with a year's imprisonment he will be content. If her sentence should be made less than a year he would regard it as a great mercy. It is stated that defence will be that prisoner was suffering from hysteria and mental weakness when she yielded to temptation and allowed a moment for confession to pass. Then she resolved to brave everything sooner than shatter the confidence which her husband and her friends reposed in her innocence. It is h ped by Mrs. Osborne's friends that the consideration of these matters and the state of the woman's health will incline her prosecutors towards clemency.

Panic on the Paris Bourse.

LONDON, Feb. 5.—The Times' Paris correspondent says a panic was created on the Bourse yesterday. It originated by the suspension of the negotiations of the Ottoman Bank with a Swiss banking syndicate for the creation of an eastern stocks trust. Then came the rumor of the arrest of a banker, an affair which turned out to be merely a matter of deficit in an industrial enterprise guaranteed by the family of the inculpated manager. The Bourse is extremely susceptible, owing to the difficult and often uncertain position of one of its most enterprising financiers, who has been struggling for years and whose eventual collapse is expected.

Some tobaccos spurt up in the pipe while smoking, with little crackling explosions. This is caused by the addition of foreign matter to assist the combustion. When the purity of the tobacco is not tampered with and it has been properly taken care of, this combustible foreign matter is wholly unnecessary. SPORTING NEWS

Hockey Match.

Last night was the occasion of the first hockey match ever played here. The Trenton Hockey Club and our local club measured sticks, and, although our boys met with a defeat, some good playing was shown, and with more practice the may expect to hold their own against almost any club in the province. A large crowd was present, and judging from the interest manifested by the spectators, many of whom witnessed the game for the first time, hockey will be well patronized. The game, though at times fast, was in no way rough, both teams playing a very gentlemanly game.

The playing of Mr. J. D. Campbell for Trenton was much admired. Finer individual play it has never been our privilege to witness. Time and again would he bring the puck from one end to the other, and by a masterly shot score a goal. He was at times well checked by Brophy. For Trenton, Richardson, A. J. Campbell and Booth played well.

Strengthening the Hands of the Annexationists

"I may as well say frankly that the objections which can be raised to commercial union are neither few nor small. There is no doubt in my mind that before we can obtain such a measure of unrestricted reciprocity as the advocates of this system desire it will be necessary to discriminate against the manufactures of other countries, against even those of Great Britain. There is no doubt whatever in my mind also that we cannot overlook the risk that does undoubtedly exist that the increased commercial intercourse with the United States may strengthen the hands of those who desire to see our political system assimilated therein." Sir Richard Cartwright at Ingersoll, Oct. 1887.

A Visit From Burglars.

Four of the Fraternity Pass a Night in Campbellford.

The Campbellford Herald of this week has the following in reference to Thos. Geary, who escaped from the County constables at this place:

On Thursday night the now notorious Geary, who is charged with having committed a series of robberies, was a guest at the Dominion hotel on the corner of Bridge and Rear streets. Soon after his arrival in the evening, we are informed he was recognized by a man who is now residing in Campbellford, and the two went to the bar and drank together; and it is said that during the conversation which took place between them, Geary remarked that he would yet go down to the penitentiary for life, but no one man would take him. His friend did not make the remark the burglar knows, as he should have done, and Geary was allowed to quietly depart, which he did on Friday morning, going in the direction of Havelock. That same night the residence of Mr. Lemon, at Havelock, was entered and a gold watch and a sum of money was taken. Three other strangers were in company with Geary at Campbellford and represented themselves as being engaged in the sale of furniture polish. They had not, however, been in the village long when they were "potted" and closely watched. They put up for the night at the Queen's Hotel and left early Sunday morning. They were tall men, one being recognized as a young man who at one time resided in Peterborough.

On Monday last the three men referred to where they were in the city, and disposed of a quantity of the polish. The police were upon their track and they left the city the same evening, going in an easterly direction.

Literary Notes.

BOURINOT'S PARLIAMENTARY PROCEDURE.

We are indebted to Messrs. Dawson Bros., of Montreal, for a copy of the above famous work, recently issued by them. It is a fine large volume of 930 pages, and contains, in addition to Parliamentary practice and procedure, a review of the Parliamentary institutions in Canada, an appendix containing the British North America Act of 1867 and amending acts, Governor General's commission and instructions, rules of procedure in the Senate and House of Commons, etc. This is beyond doubt the best and most complete work of its kind. Its author Dr. John Bourinot, C.M.G., LL.D., D.C.L., Clerk of the Canadian House of Commons, is the foremost authority in the world on the subject of which he treats. The present issue of his work is timely, and will be welcomed by a large circle of readers.

"THE HISTORY OF DAVID GRIEVE."

Mrs. Humphry Ward's latest novel, so titled as above, has been issued by the Copp Clark Company of Toronto. It is clever, but by no means so interesting as some of her former works, and is not the kind of reading for young people. It is for sale at the book stores, or will be sent postpaid by the publishers, the Copp Clark Pub. Co., Toronto.

THE LADIES' HOME JOURNAL.

A most unique magazine is the February Ladies' Home Journal, entirely made up, as it is, in prose, verse and fiction by daughters of famous parentage, some of the "daughters" being famet themselves. Thirty daughters are represented, each by an article, story or poem, and a more curious and successful innovation in magazine literature has not been made for years. The idea is a good one in respect to variety, and is a powerful argument in behalf of hereditary genius. None of the Journal's departments are omitted, the "famous daughters" occupying the fore part of the magazine, while Dr. Talmage, "Bob" Burdette, Margaret Bottome and all the other Journal editors from the rear guard. Such an issue is worth five times its market price of ten cents. Published, at one dollar per year, by The Curtis Publishing Company of Philadelphia.

WIT AND HUMOR

CUT OUT.

"Well, I would have been engaged now if it were not for my chaperon."

"Did she interfere?"

"Yes; she became engaged to him herself."

LEAVINGS.

Kingley—I understand that burglars went through your house last night. Did they take everything?

Bingo (sadly)—Everything but my wife.

PROBABLY CORRECT.

New Clerk—What do the jobbers mean by putting "o-o-d" on all the packages they send us?

Jeweller—I guess they think we're a little fishy.

COMPARATIVE LOVE.

He—So you love me?
She—I think so.
"How much?"
"A little more than cream soda, but less than ice cream."
"That'll do."

A SUSPICIOUS CIRCUMSTANCE

Father—What's that noise in the next room?

Mother—It's Bobby singing "I want to be an angel," dear little fellow.

Father—Well, you better go and see what he is up to.

A NICE, PLEASANT SURPRISE.

Wife—I've got a little New Year's surprise for you, my dear.

Husband—Is that so! Pray what is it?

Wife—I've made you a present of a beautiful sealskin cloak. See how nicely it fits me.

ON THE BOWERY.

Guest—Waiter, bring me some rice pudding.

"What's the matter with it?"

"Nuffin' 'cept dar ain't none."

Nothing Hurts Our Corns

Like tight boots. Corns are very small affairs, but apply to them a pair of tight boots and all other concerns of life sink into insignificance. Tight boots and Putnam's Corn Extractor (the great and only sure cure for corns) may go together, and comfort will be their partner; but don't fail to use Putnam's Corn Extractor. Frauds, cheap, poisonous and dangerous substitutes, are to the market. Beware of them. Put nam's Painless Corn Extractor. Polson & Co., proprietors, Kingston.

The Barley Question.

A popular device of Liberal speakers when addressing an agricultural audience in Ontario has been to quote the price of Canadian barley in Buffalo, and to promise that under unrestricted reciprocity the Canadian farmer will obtain the quotations of that market for this particular cereal. The fallacy of this reasoning, whether tested by practical experience, or by the principles applied to articles bearing an import duty when brought into this country, does not appear to have struck these orators; at any rate, they are bold enough to ignore the absurdity of their argument. If the duty exalts the price of an article, as free traders contend, it is obvious that the removal of the duty will produce a corresponding decline in the market value, and so unrestricted reciprocity, or, for that matter, any kind of reciprocity by which our barley would obtain free entry into the United States, would simply lower Buffalo quotations to about the prices ruling in Canada. In other words, the American maltster would no longer be obliged to add the duty to the price he pays for the Ontario product, a process which accounts for the difference of 30 cents a bushel between the Buffalo and Toronto values at the present time. The whole question can readily be put to a practical test in the case of American corn. That cereal is taxed 7½ cents a bushel when imported into Canada, and as a consequence the price in this country is always that much higher than in Chicago, plus the cost of transportation. Now, according to the Liberal argument in the matter of barley, if free trade was established between the two countries, the price of American corn would be raised to the level of the Canadian quotations, a ridiculous proposition, since every intelligent farmer understands that the result of removing the duty would be to lower the price of corn in Canada 7½ cents a bushel.

The maltsters of Buffalo and Oswego may be presumed to possess some practical knowledge on the subject of the barley duties, since they have been for many years past the principal purchasers of Canada's surplus supply, and these men are unanimous in the opinion that the increased duty under the McKinley tariff has fallen, not upon the Canadian producer, but upon the American consumer. That duty is described by them as practically prohibitive, and certainly it has caused a very large decrease in the importation of Canadian barley, so much so that the commercial interests of Buffalo and Oswego have received to impress on Congress the desirability of restoring the old rate of duty, not for the benefit of the Canadian farmer, but for the benefit of the American brewer. If these American merchants could listen to the speeches of our Liberal politicians, they might, perhaps, be brought to believe that it is the Ontario barley grower alone who suffers from the McKinley duty, but, viewing the question as they do entirely from the standpoint of practical experience, they have come to the conclusion that the boot is on the other foot.—Montreal Gazette.

CHILI.

Social Life and Mortuary Festivities in Its Capital.

The "wake" is as common in Chili as in New Orleans or the smaller towns of Ireland. But in Chili the custom is gayer than in any other country. It amounts almost to a festival. If the dead be a child it is dressed beautifully, enshrined in flowers and vines, encircled with burning tapers and sympathizing friends bring gifts to the bereaved parents. At night the house, no matter how humble or how gorgeous, is filled as if at a reception. Quiet games are played, flirting is indulged with to a greater extent than on other occasions and even dancing takes place after enough wine has been drank. The native wines of Chili are of such poor brands are too expensive for any but the rich, but cheaper ones are imported from London and the Mediterranean and wine is as common with the Chilians as water with us, indeed in some parts more so, for water is difficult to get in many regions. Bull fights have not wholly passed away in Chili. Indian games are common; especially a sort of Indian polo, which the Araucanians, who take so large a share in the public affairs of the country, practice with extraordinary skill.

Social life in Santiago is complex and varied as in any old European capital. The fashions arrive a year later from Paris, but are abjectly followed. Dress is as much ratified as in any American frontier town, but one extreme is of course richer. Only in church is there a dead level. No woman enters a church in Chili except in a black gown and manta, which is at once veil or hood and mantle or shawl. No matter how rich or how poor, this is court dress for church, and police would eject any woman who dared violate the code. At 4 o'clock every day business is over; gentlemen go home and find the ladies ready to drive. At 6 or 7 dinner is served with as much ceremony as in the oldest palaces, and after dinner gayety, at Spanish, proceeds until midnight. Early closing of business places leaves the aristocracy—for, although Dictator Bernardo O'Higgins abolished titles of nobility, there is no snobbier town in Europe than Santiago—free to drive and dine. It affords the most contented social classes time for chat, smoking, and drinking, and it is between 5 o'clock and midnight that the business, as it were, of this Andean Paris dictate politics and disseminate gossip.

A Pleasant Herb Drink.

The best cure we know of for Constipation and Headache is the pleasant herb drink called Lane's Family Medicine. It is said to be Oregon grape root, combined with simple herbs, and is made for use by pouring boiling water into the dried roots and herbs. It is remarkable efficacious in all blood disorders, and is now the sovereign remedy with ladies for clearing up the complexion. Druggists sell the packages at 50c and $1.

Nominations Yesterday.

LINDSAY, Feb. 5.—At the nomination to-day for candidates to contest the election for the House of Commons in the South riding of Victoria the Liberals nominated Thomas Walters and the Conservatives Charles Fairbairn.

Peel.

BRAMPTON, Feb. 5.—Nominations were made here yesterday of candidates in the bye-election in Peel county. Dr. Sleigh Barrington, the unseated member, was re-nominated by the Liberals. The Conservatives nominated James Jackson. Both gentlemen are farmers residing in Toronto township, within six miles of each other. A joint meeting was held in the Concert Hall during the afternoon. The largest audience ever gathered within its walls listened to speeches by the candidates, Sir Richard Cartwright and Hon. George Foster. Sir Richard spoke for an hour and was followed by the Finance Minister for 1¼ hours. Sir Richard replied in a 15 minute speech, but his opponent waived his privilege. It cannot be said that anything like the interest is shown in this election that characterized the campaign of 1891. The party which works the hardest on Feb. 11 will be the winner. During the past week Mr. Montague, Clarke Wallace and David Henderson, Halton, for the Conservatives, and Thomas Bain, Wentworth, and James McMullen, Wellington, Liberals, have addressed meetings in the county.

North Victoria

FENELON FALLS, Feb. 5.—At the nomination here yesterday for North Victoria Sessional seat, Mr. Clarke Wallace, Halton (Lib.), were nominated. The speakers on the Conservative side were Hon. M. Bowell, E. Cochrane, M.P., Clarke Wallace and Samuel Hughes, and for the Reformers John A. Barron and Mr. McLaughin of Lindsay.

HALIFAX, N.S., Feb. 5.—Jones and Farrell (Liberals), and Kenny and Stairs (Conservative), were nominated yesterday to contest Halifax for the Commons.

FROM QUEBEC.

MONTREAL, Feb. 5.—George W. Stephens, in an interview yesterday, says he will accept the Huntingdon nomination offered by the Liberals, but will feel bound to support the Ins Roucherville Cabinet. His opponent DeCameron is looked upon as a mugwump Conservative and is not getting much support from the party.

Vicar-General Castongeay, rector of Ste. Cunegonde Roman Catholic parish, in an address to his congregation says: Vote according to the dictates of your conscience, vote for the honest men and thus defeat the dishonest men. Do not mind the cry: Vote as I say. Cast these thoughts aside and remember that the country demands an honest vote.

The greatest excitement prevails in Roman Catholic French circles over Mercier's action in dragging the name of the Pope into his infamous deliverances. The priests, particularly, are shocked, and next Sunday will see a blast from the pulpit of the province which, it is expected, will go far towards disposing of him.

Judge Baby's illness continues to keep back the work of the royal commission. It is not expected that the commission will resume until next week.

ANENT DECK LOADS.

OTTAWA, Feb. 5.—Deputy Minister of Marine Smith was yesterday shown the cablegram from London with respect to the sensational evidence given before the Labor Commission by Mr. Samuel Plimsoll, the sailor's friend. He said Mr. Plimsoll must have overlooked the fact that at the very last session of Parliament Canada had passed a most stringent law to cover the abuses complained of by Mr. Plimsoll in his famous pamphlet attacking the Canadian mercantile marine. That law only went into force on Nov. 16 and had not had a fair trial, as the navigation season closed three weeks later. Enough had been shown, however, to prove that it would remedy most of the evils complained of, and he expected that when its operation was resumed in May next it would prove most beneficial. In reference to Mr. Plimsoll's crusade against deck loads on timber ships, the Deputy Minister stated that that subject was now under consideration by the Canadian Government.

CAST ON THE WORLD!

OR,

The Border Marriage.

A STORY OF THE GREAT GLASGOW BANK ROBBERY.

This climax Lord Eagleheart was in a measure prepared for. Ravensworth's language had been so significant and pointed that his hearer could not doubt that he had somehow or other gained a knowledge of the truth, and when he plainly declared he had, his heart grew cold and heavy as a stone, but by a tremendous effort he suppressed all outward signs of his dismay. His first thought was that they had discovered Lady Eagleheart's place of sequestration, and had received the information from her.

'Oh! he returned, in a tone of unnatural calmness, 'so you have put faith in the raging of a mad woman.'

'A mad woman! what mean you by that! Is it—Lady Eaglehear!——'

'Mad!—yes, and in the wildness of her frenzy her turned brain is conjured by the baseless notion of this Border Marriage.'

Ravensworth recoiled in horror. 'Oh, heaven! he murmured, 'base and cruel to his selfishness to the last. It wasn't enough for him to sacrifice his child—he is ready to sacrifice his wife too! But,' he added turning vehemently towards him, 'by all that's heaven, your power of evil is terminated. The information of which we have become possessed we did not receive from Lady Eaglehear. We have been at Lauderton Toll—the place where you were married. We have seen the fisherman who in passing along the road that moonlight night, was taken in to be a witness. We have seen the man who married you, and last of all, we obtained the register of marriage from his book, with your signature attached. Now, my lord, you must see that further concealment is hopeless.'

Rigid as a stone Lord Eaglehear! stood as he received the intelligence which crushed him. There was a visible tightening of the muscles of his face, and a hardening of his frame, and his countenance settled into a terribly stony expression, which a human countenance seldom exhibits, but beyond this he gave no expression to the feelings within. He did not speak for some moments after Ravensworth was done, but stood gazing at him with fixed eyes, in which was a dull, filmy light. Then his firmly compressed lips parted for a moment and he uttered, in a voice strangely altered from his usual tone, the one word—

'Wait.'

And as he said it, he walked with slow steps to a narrow side door, opened it, and went through.

Ravensworth, from his knowledge of the mansion, knew that it led by a narrow stair to a small private room to which there was no other access, and he concluded that his lordship had retired thither to recover himself, out of the sight of his cousin, from the full effects of the terrible blow he had received, and that presently he would return and continue the interview.

Minutes passed, however, and as he still not reappear, Philip grew uneasy, and his uneasiness increased to alarm as he thought of the singular expression of his cousin's face. It struck him now that as indicated the formation of a desperate purpose—the resolution to some dreadful deed, and as this idea flashed through his brain, he darted to the narrow door, opened it, and sped up the carpeted stair.

The door of the private chamber was closed, and he stood close to it listening tently. In the unbroken silence he heard the rasping sound of a pen passing quickly over paper, and he knew by this that his lordship was writing. He was hesitating whether or not to descend to the library, when the sound of writing ceased, and a deep groan sounded from the chamber. This startled and arrested him, and he bent his ear still closer to the door to listen. There was a slight rustle within, then some heavy and elastic click, like a pistol. Instantly Philip burst open the door, and saw Lord Eaglehear! standing at a table with a pistol in his hand, pointed at his heart.

The noise of Ravensworth's sudden entrance startled him, and made his hand swerve, and ere he had time to steady it to take fatal aim, Philip had sprung forward and dashed up his arm. The pistol went off at the moment, and the bullet lodged in the ceiling.

'My God, Charles, what would you do?' cried Ravensworth, as the two men grazed at each other through the stifling smoke.

'Away! leave me!' shouted Eaglehear!. 'I love you, and in this fit state of mind I fear I may shall not. What dreadful folly is this you would commit? Rash, miserable man, but for my coming you would have been in the other world.'

'I know it—I mean it, and why do you presume to interfere with my intentions? Think you I will survive the hour that brings me utter disgrace and public ruin? Things are all like to see your villainy and be humiliated by your vindictive revenge? No. Months ago I resolved on this should discovery come, Lady Eaglehear! Never to survive, and this alone deterred her from proclaiming the truth, and openly owning and recognising Charles as our son. Go—leave me! You have triumphed against me so far, but I can save myself from further degradation, and will—No, by heaven, you will not hinder me. I am as strong a man as you—I am nerved by a fateful resolve which doubles my strength, and I swear that if you refuse to go I will hurl you to the bottom of that stair.'

'Hear me, Eagleheart,' cried Philip, 'Why contaminate the last by such a tragedy! You mistake my present feelings towards you. I have no desire for triumph. I have no intention of dealing with you in a spirit of exaction. 'Tis true I have a little forbearance, but I have to understand that to return evil for evil would be a poor way of speaking satisfaction for past wrong. Justice to others, and consideration for others, is the extent of my exaction—the pledge of my generosity. For the sake of Lady Eaglehear!, for the sake of Charles, who is my daughter's husband, I am as anxious as you can be to avoid public exposure, and all can be arranged privately and satisfactorily.'

The smoke had now floated slowly to the roof of the chamber, and in the clearer atmosphere his lordship, who had attentively listened to Philip's hurriedly spoken words silently laid the pistol on the table.

'What are your terms?' he asked in a low passionless voice.

'They are easily named. The acknowledgment of Charles as your lawful son and heir to the title. This being made—as indeed it must be made, for Charles is in a position to force it—you will not be disturbed in your possession of the Grange, since, if I insisted on taking it, it would only be for my daughter, who is already the wife of Charles, and to whom it will in any case revert.

'What then is to become of Edgar?' inquired his lordship, 'for of course the primary property goes with the title.'

'I would suggest a commission in the army, and a second son's portion,' replied Ravensworth.

'One word more,' added his lordship. 'You have twice stated that Charles is the husband of your daughter. What am I to understand by that?'

Ravensworth answered by narrating the discovery which had been made regarding Mary Woodford.

'Ravensworth,' said Lord Eaglehear! at length, 'You have behaved with generosity which I did not expect—which I certainly had no right to expect. I scorn to talk of a renewal and repentance, but on the understanding that what you have proposed shall be done, I promise that the act which your entrance prevented shall not be repeated. I am really resolved to die rather than meet expected disgrace, but as you insure me against that, I have no other quarrel in life. There is what I had written to be found when I was no more. Read it, then destroy it, and act as you will on the clue which it gives you to the place where Lady Eaglehear! is confined.'

He pointed to a sheet of writing paper which lay unfolded on the table, and which Philip at once took up and perused, and which, the moment he had done so, he tore into fragments, and threw into the grate.

'The very first thing to do is to release her ladyship from this terrible confinement,' he said.

'Yes,' was his lordship's simple utterance of assent.

CULLODEN CULLINGS.

GENTLEMEN,—In 1888 I was severely afflicted with gravel of the kidneys, from which I suffered great pain. I was recommended to take Burdock Blood Bitters, which I did, finding great relief, and after taking a bottle or two truly say I am cured and have not since been troubled. I highly recommend it.

GOOD DEED DONE

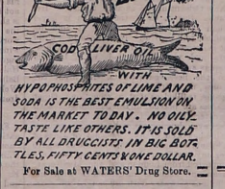

THE good deeds done by that unequaled family liniment, Hagyard's Yellow Oil, during the thirty years it has been held in ever increasing esteem by the public, would fill volumes. We cannot here enumerate all its good qualities, but that it can be relied on as a cure for croup, coughs, colds, sore throat and all pains, goes without saying.

Parmelee's Pills possesses the power of acting specifically upon the diseased organs, stimulating to action the dormant energies of the system, thereby removing disease. In fact, so great is the power of this medicine to cleanse purify, that disease almost every name and nature are driven from the body. Mr. D. Caswell, Caswell P. O., Ont., writes: "I have tried Parmelee's Pills and find them an excellent medicine, and one that will sell well."

Griefs are over coming to us with the coming hours, and our little strength is only as the day.

Those of the gentle sex who have experienced the pain and annoyance caused by excoriated nipples and inflamed breasts, can well appreciate the value of a remedy which removes the trouble. This is precisely what Dr Thomas' Eclectric Oil does, beside a cure when used internally asthma, croup and other maladies.

KNIGHTS OF LABOR.

The Knights of Labor aim to protect their members against financial difficulties, etc., Hagyard's Yellow Oil protects all who use it from the effects of cold and exposure, such as rheumatism, neuralgia, lumbago, sore throat, and all inflammatory pain. Nothing compares with it as a handy pain cure for man and beast.

For coughs, colds, bronchitis and all lung and throat troubles, there is no preparation of medicine can compare with Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup. It never fails to afford prompt and permanent relief. It removes all soreness, and heals the diseased parts. It immediately soothes the most troublesome cough, and by promoting expectoration, removes the mucus which stops up the air tubes which cause difficulty in breathing thereby giving rest to the sufferer. Public speakers and singers will find Bickle's Anti Consumptive Syrup of inestimable value, as it speedily and effectually allays all irritation, and hoarseness in the throat and bronchial tubes, and gives power to the vocal cords, rendering the voice clear and sonorous. If parents wish to save the lives of their children, and themselves from much anxiety trouble and expense let them procure a bottle of Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup, and whenever a child has taken cold, has a cough, or hoarseness, give the Syrup according to directions.

Our heaviest burdens are those we borrow.

Do pay as fast as though your friends had all deserted you, business calamities overwhelmed you, your body refusing to perform its duties, and even the sun in a dark sky refuse to behold a cloud? Then use Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery, and hope will return and despondency disappear. Mr. H. Baker, Inge da by, writes: "I am completely cured of Dyspepsia that caused me great suffering for three years. Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery is the medicine that effected the cure after trying many other medicines."

Much eulogy is not so important as well doing.

Fever and Ague and bilious derangements are positively cured by the use of Parmelee's Pills. They act on the stomach, liver and bowels, cleansing them to pour copious effusions from the blood into the bowels, after which the corrupted mass is thrown out by the natural passages of the body. They are used as a general family medicine with the best results.

The man who doesn't believe in God lives that way.

A. M. Hamilton, Workworth, writes,—"For weeks I was troubled with a swelled ankle, which caused me much pain and annoyance. Mr. Mayhew, of this place, recommended Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil for it. I tried it, and before one bottle was used I was cured. It is an article of great value."

30 MINUTES IN HEAVEN.

REV. DR. TALMAGE CHOOSES A VERY CURIOUS TEXT.

Rev. viii. 1: "There was Silence in Heaven About the Space of Half an Hour."

A Description Worth Reading—The Busiest Place in the Universe.

BROOKLYN, N.Y., January 31, 1892.—Dr. Talmage has of late been preaching on texts of Scripture that seem to have been neglected, and here is a sermon on a beautiful text which probably was never before selected for a discourse, Revelations 8: 1: "There was silence in Heaven about the space of half an hour."

The busiest place in the universe is Heaven. It is the centre from which all good influences start; it is the goal to which all good results arrive. The Bible represents it as active with wheels and wings and orchestras and processions mounted or unmounted. But my text describes a space when the wheels ceased to roll and the trumpets to sound and the voices to chant. The ridges on the white horses reined in their chargers. The doxologies were hushed and the processions halted. The hand of arrest was put upon all the splendors. "Stop Heaven!" cried an omnipotent voice, and it stopped. For thirty minutes everything celestial stood still. "There was silence in Heaven for the space of half an hour."

From all we can learn it is the only time heaven ever stopped. It does not stop as other cities for the night, for there is no night there. It does not stop for a plague, for the inhabitants never say, "I am sick." It does not stop for bankruptcies, for its inhabitants never fail. It does not stop for famine, for there are no more dearths or fallen snows or sweeping freshets. What, then, stop it for thirty minutes? Groups and theologians think it was at the time of the destruction of Jerusalem. Mr. Lord thinks it was in the year 311, between the close of the Diocletian persecution and the beginning of the wars by which Constantine gained the throne. But that was all a guess, though a learned and brilliant guess. I do not know when it was and I do not care when it was, but of the fact that such an interruption of sound took place I feel certain. "There was silence in heaven for the space of half an hour."

And, first of all, we may learn that God and all heaven then honored silence. The longest and widest dominion that ever existed on the face of the earth was Queen Victoria's. For an eternity there had not been a sound. World-making was a later day occupation. For unimaginable ages it was a mute universe. God was the only Being, and, as there was no one to speak to, there was no utterance. But since the Almighty has framed all these worlds, and it has become a noisy universe. Worlds in upheaval, worlds in congelation, worlds in fire, worlds in revolution. worlds in evolution. If geologists are right (and I believe they are) there has not been a moment of silence since this world began in its travels, and the crashings and the splittings and the uproar and the hubbub are ever in progress. But when among the cherubim and seraphim a voice cried "Hush!" and for half an hour heaven was still, silence many of us have yet to learn. We are told that when Christ was arraigned before Pilate and misrepresented, the mightiest thing to say is to say nothing, and the mightiest thing to do is to do nothing. Those people who are always rushing into print to get themselves set right accomplish nothing but their own chagrin. Silence! Do right and leave the results with God. Among the grandest lessons the world has ever learned are the lessons of patience taught by those who endured uncomplainingly personal or domestic or social or political injustice. Stronger than any battle-cry of protest or revenge did answer was the patient silence. My friends, the tossing sea of Galilee seemed most to offend Christ by the amount of noise it made, for one day he said to it, "Be still!" Heaven has been crowning kings and queens unto God for many centuries, yet heaven never stopped for a moment for any such ceremony, but it stopped thirty minutes for the coronation of Silence. "There was silence in heaven for the space of half an hour."

Learn also from my text that heaven must be an eventful and active place, from the fact that it could afford to lose thirty minutes of recess. There have been events on earth and in heaven that seemed to demand a whole day or whole week or whole year for celebration. The victory of Grotius was right and this silence occurred at the time of the destruction of Jerusalem, that time was a awful one, so prolonged that the inhabitants of heaven could not have done justice to it in many weeks. After the terrible besiegement of two forty cessos of Jerusalem — Antonio and Hippicus — had been going on for 40 long days, a Roman soldier, mounted on the shoulder of another soldier, hurled into the window of the Temple a firebrand, and the Temple was all aflame, and for over forty many sacrifices to the holiness of God, the building itself, became a sacrifice to the wrath of God. Two forty cessos of Jerusalem — Antonio and Hippicus — had been going on for 40 long days, a Roman soldier, mounted on the shoulder of another soldier, hurled into the window of the Temple a firebrand, and the Temple was all aflame, and for over forty many sacrifices to the holiness of God, the building itself, became a sacrifice to the wrath of God. The lunge of the people in that city during the besiegement was so great that as some outside were passing a doorway and inhaled the odors of food, they burst open the door, threatening the mother of the house, hold with death unless she gave them some food, and she took them aside and showed them that it was her own child she was cooking for the ghastly repast. Six hundred pilgrims were destroyed on Mount Zion because the temple being gone there was nothing for them to do. Six thousand people in one cloister were murdered. There were one million one hundred thousand dead according to Josephus. Grotius's estimate is that there was the same silence in heaven for half an hour. If Mr. Lord was right and this silence was during the Diocletian persecutions, by which eight hundred and forty-four thousand Christians suffered death from sword and fire, and banishment and exposure, why did not Heaven listen throughout at least one of those awful years? No. Thirty minutes! The fact is that the celestial programme is so crowded with spectacle that it can afford only one recess in alternate years that for a brief space. While there are great choruses in which all Heaven can join, each soul there has a story of its own to merge peculiar to itself, and it must be a solo. How can Heaven get through with short recitatives, with all its fantasia with all its grand marches, with all its victories? Eternity is too short to utter all the praise. In my text Heaven opened its mouth but minutes, but it will never again spare one minute. In worship in earthly churches, when there are many to take part, there is counsel brevity, but how will heaven get on rapidly enough to let the one hundred and forty-four thousand get through each with his own story, and then the one hundred and forty-four million, and then the one hundred and forty-four billion, and then the one hundred and forty-four trillion.

Besides, heaven is full of children. They are in the vast majority. Are child on earth amounts to anything can be kept quiet half an hour, and how are you going to keep five hundred million of them quiet half an hour. You know heaven is much more of a place than it was when that recess of thirty minutes occurred. Its population has quadrupled, sextupled, centuplied. Heaven has more on hand, more of rapture, more of knowledge, more of intercommunication, more of worship. The most thrilling place we have ever been in is stupid compared with that, and, if we know we have no time to spare, we will then have no eternity to spare. Silence in heaven only half an hour.

My subject also impresses me with the immortality of half an hour. That half hour mentioned in my text is more widely known than any other period in the calendar of heaven. Some of the whole hours of heaven are measured off, none of the years, none of the centuries. Of the millions of ages past, and the millions of ages to come, not one is especially measured off in the Bible. The half hour of my text is made immortal. The whole year of eternity is not was ever measured by earthly timepiece was measured by the minute hand of my text. One-half hours! They decide everything. I am not asking what you will do with the years or months or days of your life, but with the half hours. Tell me the history of your half hours, and I will tell you the story of your whole life on earth, and the story of your whole life in eternity. The right or wrong things you can think in thirty minutes, the right or wrong things you can do in thirty minutes are glorious or baleful, inspiring or interpretable. Only the fragments of time. They are pieces of eternity. It was the half hours between sleeping horses that made Arthur Borritt the learned blacksmith, the half hours between professional calls as a physician that made Abercrombie and Corvisart philosopher, the half hours between his duties as schoolmaster that made Salmon P. Chase chief justice, the half hours between snoozes that made Henry Wilson Vice President of the United States, the half hours between coat boats that made James A. Garfield President. The half hour a day for good books or bad books, the half hour a day for prayer or indolence, the half hour a day for helping others or blasting others, the half hour before you go to business, and the half hour after you return from business, that makes the difference between the scholar and the ignoramus, between the Christian and the infidel, between the saint and the demon, between triumph and catastrophe, between Heaven and hell. The most tremendous things of your life are not ages, are not even half hours, but half-hour when in the parsonage of a country minister I resolved to become a preacher of the gospel; the half-hour when I decided to become a preacher of the Gospel; the half-hour when I first realized that my son was dead; the half-hour when I stood on the top of my house in Oxford street and saw our church burn; the half-hour in which I entered Jerusalem; the half-hour in which I ascended Mount Calvary; the half-hour in which I stood on Mars Hill; the half-hour in which the dedicatory prayer of this Temple was made; and about ten or fifteen other half-hours, are the chief times of my life. You may forget all the rest of the exact years or most of the important events of your existence, but those half-hours, like the half-hour of my text, will be immortal.

Again, we may suggest a way of studying Heaven so that we can understand it. The word "eternity" that we so easily use is a most unreasonable word. Knowing that we could not understand that word, the Bible uses it only once. We say, "For ever and ever!" The Bible long is "For ever and ever?" I am glad that my text puts under our eye Heaven in short minutes. And when you would see a great picture, you put a sheet of paper into a scroll and look through it, or join your forefinger to your thumb and look through the circle, and the picture becomes more intense, so this masterpiece of Heaven by St. John is more impressive when you take only thirty minutes of it at a time. Now, we have something that we can come nearer to grasping, and it is a quick Heaven, now we discourse about the multitudes of heaven, it must be almost a nervous shock to those who have all their lives been crowded by many people, to walk a quiet Heaven.

But how will you spend the first half hour of your heavenly citizenship after you have got into the city? After your prostration before the throne in worship of Him who made it possible for you to get there at all, will you not spend the first half hour in heaven will be passed in receiving your reward if you have been faithful. I have a straight beautiful book containing the pictures of the medals struck by the English Government in honor of great battles; these medals pinned over the heart of the ruffled bosoms of the army, on great occasions, the Royal family present, and the Royal bands playing; the Cross and the Legion of Honor, the Victoria Cross, the Waterloo medal. In your first half hour in heaven in some way you will be honored for the earthly struggles in which you won the day. Stand up before all the Royal House of Heaven and receive the insignia while you are announced as Victor over the droughts and freshets of the farm field. Victor over the temptations of the steel mill! Victor over personal allurements, Victor over domestic infelicities, Victor over mechanic's shop, Victor over the store-house, Victor over home worriments, Victor over Physical distresses, Victor over hereditary depressions, Victor over sin and death and hell. Take that, all ye powers! Victories that were stories through our Lord Jesus Christ. Take it in the presence of all the galleries, saintly angelic and archangelic! Then all Heaven chants: "These are they who came out of great tribulation and had their robes washed and made white in the blood of the Lamb."

Thy saints in all this glorious war,
Shall conquer though they die;
They see the triumph from afar
And seize it with their eye.

A Frozen Toe and Death.

ALMONTE, Feb. 6.—Richard Tennant died in Pakenham yesterday from a frozen toe. Three years ago his big toe was frozen. It never gave him much trouble until about three weeks since, when it began to turn black and pain him. The pain increased in violence every day. Drs. Preston and Brown consulted together and advised amputation, but Dick was unwilling, as he thought he was doomed anyway.

Death Has No Terrors For Him.

NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—Carlyle W. Harris, the young medical student convicted of poisoning his wife, applied for a new trial. When the verdict sending him to the chair of fire was pronounced by the jury Harris was nonchalant and indifferent. No one in the court room was as callous or careless as he. The frightful testimony to his heartlessness brought no drop of blood to his cheeks. Dr. Fowler's recital of the conversation held in the room where the body of his wife lay did not move him in the least. When the jury retired he quietly lighted a cigar to mitigate ennui; when the jury returned with their verdict he laid the cigar on the window sill and listened to that fateful word "Guilty" as though he had no personal interest in the affair, and when his doom was sealed he took up his cigar, relighted it and puffed away as though nothing of importance had happened.

MOZART'S SHORT LIFE.

THE PRINCE OF HARMONY BURIED IN A PAUPER'S GRAVE.

The Events of a Hundred Years Ago Recalled—His Early Career and His Father's Estimate of His Boy—A Very Sad Burial Scene.

The attention of the world, or that portion of it which calls itself musical, is turned just now towards one great name in music, whose universality of genius is not less marvellous than his extraordinary industry and influence. It is the one hundredth anniversary of the birth of Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart (1757-1791). Just a hundred years ago the earth closed for ever over the grave of the immortal son of art, whose music was destined to reach all lands—albeit the tragically sad end, the scanty death-chamber and the later stage in the cemetery of St. Marx outside Vienna, betokened little of fame or world-worship. There has been a greater contrast between the life and the apparent neglect of Mozart. He has bewitched mankind with his melodies, and every heart and soul is better for his glorious harmonies.

Mozart's short and sad career abounds in interest, and a few words dealing with the lives of great men, much about which the ordinary mind is skeptical has gathered around the master musician. Thus the story of the child's ear being so delicate that he could detect and remember until the next day a difference of an eighth of a tone, with another story that the sudden blare of a trumpet caused him to faint away —such tales, while they serve to acquaint us with what Mozart was in his infancy, can hardly be otherwise regarded than as the twaddle of a diseased biographical mind. As well credit the child Mozart with to have been proof against toothache and toys!

The birthplace was Salzburg, a venerable city with many associations of a past history, lying quietly in a valley in Central Europe, and unsurpassed for its picturesqueness and for its sweet surroundings of land and foliage. A remnant of its once greatness was the cathedral pile, hard by which Mozart was baptized, and where the bearse pulled up amid the slush of the cemetery gate, a grim colloquy ensued between the driver and grave-digger upon the prospect of burying there. During the poverty of musicians in general, and their ill-luck in particular, they seized the coffin and hurried it into a common grave over the sheils of two paupers who had been buried the same day. Thus, without a note of music, forsaken by all he held dear, the remains of this Prince of Harmony were committed to the earth, not even in a grave of their own, but in the common fosse affected to the indiscriminate appulture of homeless mendicants and nameless waifs." From this obscurity Mozart's bones were never rescued, and the exact spot of the grave which once held his distinguished mind, have long since mingled with the remains of less exalted sons of earth.

MORTAR-SPOTTED SKIN

About the 1st of April last I noticed some red pimples like coming out all over my body, but thought nothing of it until some time later on, when it began to look like spots of mortar spotted on, and which came off in layers accompanied with itching. I would scratch every night until I was raw, then the next night the scales had formed and meanwhile were scratched off. In vain did I consult all the doctors in the country, but without aid. After giving up all hopes of recovery, I happened to see an advertisement in the local paper about your CUTICURA REMEDIES, and procured the same from my druggist, and obtained almost immediate relief. I began to notice that the scaly eruptions gradually decreased, and appeared one by one, until I had been fully cured. I had the discase thirteen months before I began taking the CUTICURA, and in four or five weeks was cured. My disease was eczema and psoriasis. I know of a great many who have taken the RESOLVENT, and purchased the same with ready cash, especially mothers who have babes with scaly eruptions on their heads and faces. I cannot express my thanks to you. My body was covered with scales, and I was an awful spectacle to behold. Now my skin is as clear as a new dime.

A Cure "Almost Miraculous."

"When I was 14 years of age I had a severe attack of rheumatism, and after I recovered had to go on crutches. A year later, aroused in the form of white swellings, appeared on various parts of my body, and for 11 years I was an invalid, being confined to my bed 4 years. In that time ten or eleven sores appeared and broke, causing me great pain and suffering. I feared I never should get well.

"Early in 1887 I went to Chicago to visit a sister, but was confined to my bed most of the time I was there. In July I read a book, 'A Day with a Circus,' in which were statements of cures by Hood's Sarsaparilla. I was so impressed with the success of this medicine that I decided to try it. To my great gratification the sores soon decreased, and I began to feel better and in a short time I was up and out of doors. I continued to take Hood's Sarsaparilla for about a year, when, having used six bottles, I had become so fully released from the disease that I went to work for the Flint & Walling Mfg. Co., and since then on account of sickness. I believe the disease is expelled from my system, I always feel well, am in good spirits and have a good appetite. I am now 27 years of age and can walk as well as any one, except that one limb is a little shorter than the other, owing to the loss of bone, and the sores formerly on my right leg. To my friends my recovery seems almost miraculous, and I think Hood's Sarsaparilla is the king of medicines." WILLIAM A. LEER, 9 N. Railroad St., Kendallville, Ind.

BELLEVILLE, SATURDAY FEB. 6

THE GRAND TRUNK IS NEUTRAL.

Mr. Seargeant, general manager of the Grand Trunk railway, has issued a circular in which he says it is his desire that no employe of the Grand Trunk will take any other part than that of voting as he may think fit in the parliamentary elections.

BLIGHTED HOPES.

It was scarcely expected that the Government would carry either of these constituencies. They are essentially conservative counties and by-elections, in which the unrestricted reciprocity idea was supposed to have taken a firm hold.

Another case of blighted hopes.

"SAME OLD TACTICS."

The Ontario pursues its old characteristic course with reference to the disastrous defeats sustained by its party in Prince Edward and Lennox. Its abuses leading Conservatives, who engaged in the contest, alleges bribery by wholesale, and makes a painful exhibition of itself generally.

Better for the local organ had it adopted the same course as the big organ in Toronto and candidly confessed defeat. Allegations of bribery from a party 26 of whose members have been unseated by the courts for corruption at the elections of last year can only serve to cause a smile.

NOW FOR EAST HASTINGS.

Prince Edward has buried the Grit annexationists who long misrepresented her, owing to divisions in the Conservative party. Lennox has thrown off the Grit yoke and rejected the pro-Yankee who won the seat at the general election.

The people have had time to think, and this is the result of their mature consideration of the trade issue, as presented by the two great parties.

Will the electors of East Hastings, in considering the issues presented, arrive at conclusion different to that reached by their neighbors of Prince Edward and Lennox?

It is impossible to believe that they will.

A thorough organization to enable the supporters of the Government policy, as worthily upheld by Mr. W. B. Northrup, to poll their full strength, is alone needed, and we have no fear that anything will be lacking in this regard.

THE "NON-RESIDENT" CRY.

In order to be consistent it should object to Mr. Aylsworth on the same ground, for that gentleman is a resident of Lennox county. Thus, Mr. Northrup is a resident of the county, whilst Mr. Aylsworth is not.

Possibly it forgets that the late Mr. Burdett was a resident of Belleville, and it did not object to him on that ground.

Mr. Mowat does not reside in North Oxford, nor does Mr. Laurier in Quebec, or Sir Richard Cartwright in South Oxford, or Mr. Somerville in North Brant, or Mr. Mills in Bothwell, or Mr. Barron in North Victoria, or Hon. A. Mackenzie in East York, or Mr. Mulock in North York; and yet the Ontario never objects to those or a dozen other Grits in Parliament and the Legislature who reside outside of their constituencies, as non-residents.

Too thin! The humbug is too transparent.

"A REFUGEE."

Under the above heading the Globe has the following remarks on the result of the elections in Prince Edward and Lennox:

The Liberals were defeated in both the by-elections held yesterday. Lennox, which in March elected a Liberal by a small majority, yesterday gave a small majority for the Conservative candidate. In Prince Edward the small majority given for the Conservative candidate last March, was largely increased. It is useless to deny that these results are exceedingly disappointing to the Liberals. It is true that in bye elections in Canada, there is an advantage in favor of the Government out of the day; but in Lennox and Prince Edward the Liberals had reason to believe that this advantage would not prevail. Both are border counties; in both the effects of restriction were severely felt, the census showing that the population had declined in the last decade. Both would be benefitted by reciprocity, and we have no reason to believe that in either was there a failure to explain to the people the advantages of that policy. Liberals had better acknowledge the defeat frankly without seeking excuses for it, and go into the remaining contests with the courageous energy and determination.

Our contemporary's comments are more manly than its readers are accustomed to under such circumstances, but the heading under which it placed them does not truly represent the facts of the case. It was no more repulse which they sustained in the rabid Hamilton Times remarks:

It is disheartening to see counties like Lennox and Prince Edward elect Tory representatives to Parliament, after all they have suffered by reason of the N.P., and in spite of the exposures of corruption at Ottawa.

The self opinionated theorist of the Times cannot understand that the people are better judges than he of the effect of the N.P. upon their condition, that they distrust the Grit fad, and that, whilst they are satisfied with the conduct of the Government in dealing with the boodlers at Ottawa, they are equally dissatisfied with the conduct of the Liberal leader as to the rascality of his party in Quebec. Yet so they have declared by their votes.

The ever faithful Grit Witness of Montreal is also disheartened. It says:

It is probable that the withdrawal of the influence of the Grand Trunk Railway, which in the general election was in favor of the Liberal party had a good deal of effect in yesterday's elections and will have a like effect in some pending elections. The Liberals are not fighting very vigorously. The corruption in the local party in this province has apparently taken all the heart out of the Liberals in the other provinces, and, moreover, the Ontario Liberals are not cordially united over the reciprocity policy of the party. They are probably satisfied that there is no chance of overturning the Government at present and seem inclined, anyway to allow things to go on as they are for a time until protection has made itself even more unpopular than it is to-day.

Weakened, disunited, without prospect of success, steadily losing strength, the Grit party are in a very bad way indeed. Their policy of unrestricted reciprocity, now that it is thoroughly understood, as meaning annexation, is proving their ruin.

Catarrh is not a local but a constitutional disease, and requires a constitutional remedy like Hood's Sarsaparilla to effect a cure.

REVOLT IN MANCHURIA.

ATROCITIES BY BANDITS OUTSIDE THE GREAT WALL.

Massacres By Wholesale—Men Imprisoned and Burned to Death—The Terrible Revenge of the Victorious Chinese Army—A Blood Stained Annexation.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 5.—Eye-witnesses of the suppression of the recent revolt in Manchuria have reached Shanghai, and the steamer China brings them, giving a vivid picture of horrors such as have never been known since the Mahdi captured Khartoum. During spring, the bandits were roam over the country just outside the great wall of China, joined forces and entered upon a regular campaign of plunder. They were armed with repeating rifles, and being mainly composed of prescribed Chinese criminals, fought desperately and defeated all local troops sent against them. Some of the large bands were led by Buddhist priests. One of the most famous of these pretcily marauders was Han Chan Chung, lately killed in an engagement with the Viceroy's forces at Mo Wei Cho Kun, about 200 miles northeast of Jehol.

It was he, in company with another member of the church militant, who led the attack on the large city of Cho Yang when it was captured in November. On that occasion, which was the most important incident in the rebellion, the rebels mustered a force of some 3000 men. Twenty or 30 ordinary bands joined together for the occasion. Horrible atrocities were perpetrated by these desperadoes, who showed unusual daring and ferocity. Eye-witnesses tell of the massacre of almost entire villages, the burning alive of children, the brutal treatment of women, and the carrying off of everything from the houses of the wretched people.

In a large Manchu village in the Jehol district 300 marauders swooped down in the night, captured all whom they did not kill outright, carried off all the women, and then put the men in a corn storehouse, securely fastening the doors, after which they set the building on fire, while the terrified children and the few women who had escaped into the surrounding hills could hear the shrieks of the fathers, husbands and brothers as they were being burned alive. This village was Kutulan, in the Jehol prefecture. It is only one of a dozen such incidents.

The rebels are not particular whether they destroy Christian or heathen villages so long as they get plunder. They generally indulge in peculiar and revolting devilry when their wretched victims are known to be friends of the religion of the Foreign Devils, and they have gone great distances to wreak their vengeance upon professors of the western faith. At a place called Taljow, which has been Christian for two centuries, they massacred nine Christian sisters, or nuns, and burned an orphanage with its 60 little inmates. Such amusements as piercing the bodies of victims with heated bayonets and spears, gouging out eyes, disemboweling or burying alive can be heard of wherever these outlaws have passed.

One band is said to be led by an Amazon who rides astride like a man and is reputed to drink blood to maintain her courage. Li Hung Chang takes the credit for promptly suppressing the revolt, but it was really the extreme cold which settled the rebellion. The robbers couldn't endure campaigning in wintry weather and they retired to their fastnesses in the hills. Their power is broken, however, and spring will not see them on the warpath again.

The imperial troops showed no mercy to the conquered rebels. Many prisoners were taken, and the punishment meted out to the rebels was of a most revolting character, and executions were conducted on a wholesale scale. Men were beheaded in hundreds and entire towns and villages were utilized as blocks along which the prisoners were ranged in lines, and their executioners simply mowed off their heads when the signal was given. Generally in China condemned persons are ranged in small knots kneeling before the executioner, but here the wretched miscreants were too numerous for the usual rules to be observed, and they were seized by the queues by soldiers from the other side of the improvised blocks and their heads lopped off. They were not even tied. The heads were hung in long rows on poles as a warning to others, and in a very short time the intense cold froze the bodies stiff, but not before the camp followers had stripped them of clothing.

HARCOURT'S SPEECH.

And Violently Attacks Lord Salisbury's Speech.

SOUTHAMPTON, Feb. 6.—Sir William Vernon Harcourt spoke here yesterday. In the course of his address he took occasion to denounce in vehement terms what he characterized as Lord Salisbury's "unjust references to the Catholic Irish" in his speech at Exeter on Tuesday last.

He pronounced the Premier's remarks under that head as "disgraceful and worthy a violent drunken Orangeman," adding that "such an appeal to the wicked passion of of national hatred was not only shameful but mischievous on the part of a statesman in Lord Salisbury's position."

Sir William declared that if the Premier had indulged in such remarks with regard to Canada or Australia those dependencies of the Empire would not remain 24 hours in allegiance to the Queen unless British claims on their fealty were supported by cannon and bayonet.

Shire Horse Breeders.

The Shire Horse Association of Canada held it fourth annual meeting in the office of the Agriculture and Arts Association, with President John Gardhouse of Highfield in the chair.

The secretary reported that the registrations during the year 1891 numbered only 33, 20 of these being stallions and 13 mares. In all 319 shires were registered on the books of the association. Eleven new members had been added during the year. At the spring stallion show held last March, a few shire horses were shown, but the space was not all filled. No doubt it had been found in having shires recorded in the report pass through the American customs. At the suggestion of the treasurer it was decided to offer a sweepstake prize of $20 for shire stallions.

Read What Mr. T. C. Patteson Says to Our Breeders—The Great Possibilities.

Mr. T. C. Patteson writes: "I am glad to see any leading newspaper take up the subject of horse-breeding in Canada. It is, and always has been, a marvel to me that so little public encouragement is given to the improvement of a business fraught with such immense possibilities. The cheese interest has been greatly aided by the lesson of its manufacture inculcated till it figures for an enormous annual sum in the national wealth of Canada. There are periodatic philosophers teaching farmers the way to make butter, and pointing out the unlimited foreign market open to the good article. The enormous export of beef cattle is a thing of yesterday, and has already added millions to the right side of the public account. There is as much or more in rational horse-breeding. The interviews, which you publish, with Messrs. Grand and Tomlin are all in the right direction, but I do submit the fact is brought out with sufficient distinctness, that in the past year, 1891, more high-priced horses were sold to the Americans than ever before left this province in double the period. I could give names and figures to substantiate the statement, but it will not be disputed. And this was in spite of the McKinley bill. Our horses have fetched more money in New York than would have been given for them in London, because the lesson in the States, among whom is the chief demand for saddle horses, is increasing so fast in this generation that there are not horses enough to meet the requirements of the trade. Hence, I saw a Canadian horse, whose intrinsic value was about $400, sold at New York for $1 400, because two or three rich men wanted it and didn't know where else to procure that sort of animal. Mr. Grand is right in saying that the lesson which the farmers have to learn is, "Use the thoroughbred sire." Nearly all the expensive horses sold last year to Americans were, or were said to be, by blood sires; and if the Empire helps to circulate this truth, it will do much to help the struggling agriculturist, who is looking for some means to add to his income. There are only two reasons why Canadian horses are preferred to American. One is that more of them show descent from the blood sire, and the other is, that they last longer and are sounder in the feet and legs. This is partly due to the fact that they are brought up on oats and not on Indian corn, a feverish substitute.—Empire.

Some tobaccos spurt up in the pipe while smoking, with little crackling explosions. This is caused by the addition of foreign matter to assist the combustion. When the purity of the tobacco is not tampered with and it has been properly taken care of, this combustible foreign matter is wholly unnecessary. For in that case it burns at a lower temperature than almost anything else. Nothing of this kind is seen in smoking the "Myrtle Navy." It burns with steady combustion throughout.

POLITICAL POINTS

Now that Soulanges, Lennox and Prince Edward have repudiated the discrimination-annexation project, the United States may treat on fair terms for reciprocity.

The Liberal cry was that after Sir John Macdonald would come the deluge. Sir John is gone and the deluge is upon them.

The Liberals ask the Government to be supported by corruption. Twenty six of the members that voted with the party in the House of Commons last session have since lost their seats because they were bought with money, much of it stolen from the treasury of Quebec, by an organization of Liberal thieves. They are unrepentant, and in Quebec are giving their moral and material support to the worst set of public robbers that ever disgraced a British province. The Conservatives have corrupt men in their ranks too; but the chief Conservative boodlers are lying under indictments for robbery on prosecutions instituted by the Conservative Government. The people see and judge.—Montreal Gazette.

Dr. J. H. Wilson, Liberal, and Mr. A. B. Ingram, Conservative, were nominated for the Commons in Elgin yesterday.

The Liberals in Montreal are very much disheartened over the result of Thursday's elections, and now concede that there is little hope of winning in the other centres. Mr. Mercier is regarded as the Jonah who is wrecking the prospects of the party.

Hon. J. C. Patterson was given a grand demonstration at Goderich last night on the occasion of his return to accept the nomination for West Huron.

An influential meeting of the supporters of Mr. W. B. Northrup for East Hastings, was held this afternoon in the committee room, and organized for the campaign.

FISHING IN THE WATERS OF THE GREAT NORTHWEST.

A Remarkable Industry in British Columbia—The Salmon Hatchery on the Fraser River—The Products of the Waters—A Graphic Sketch.

Already the value of the fish caught in the British Columbian waters is estimated at five million dollars a year, and yet the industry is rather at its birth than in its infancy. All the waters in and near the province fairly swarm with fish. The rivers teem with them, the straits and fiords and gulfs abound with them, the ocean beyond is freighted with an incalculable weight of living food, which must soon be distributed among the homes of the civilized world.

The principal varieties of fish are the salmon, cod, shad, whitefish, bass, flounder, skate, sole, halibut, sturgeon, oolachan, herring, trout, haddock, smelt, anchovies, dog-fish, perch, sardines, oysters, crayfish, shrimps, crabs, and mussels. Of other dainties there are the seal, the sea otter, and seal prove rich prey for those who search for them.

The main salmon rivers are the Fraser, Skeena, and Nasse rivers, but the fish also swarm in the inlets into which smaller streams empty. The Nimkish, on Vancouver Island, is also a salmon stream. Setting aside the stories of water so thick with salmon that a man might walk upon their backs, as well as that tale of the stage-coach which was upset by salmon leaping from the water, the fact is that crossing a fording-place, there still exist absolutely trustworthy accounts of swarms which at their height cause the largest rivers to seem alive with these fish. In such cases the ripple of their back fins frets the entire surface of the stream. There are specs photographs that show the fish in incredible numbers, side by side, like logs in a raft, and I have the word of a responsible man for the statement that he has gotten all the salmon needed for a small camp, day after day, by walking to the edge of a river and jerking the fish out with a common pole.

There are about sixteen canneries on the Fraser, six on the Skeena, three on the Nasse, and three scattered in other waters—Rivers Inlet and Alert Bay. The total canning in 1889 was 414,264 cases, each of 48 one-pound tins. The fish are sold in Europe, Australia, and eastern Canada. The American canner takes the Columbian farmer salmon. A round million of dollars is invested in the vessels, nets, trawls, canneries, oil factories, and freezing and salting stations used in this industry in British Columbia, and about 5,500 men are employed. There is no difficulty in catching the fish," says a local historian, "for in some streams they are so crowded that they can readily be dipped out of the water by hand." However, gill-nets are found to be preferable, and the fish are caught in these, which are stretched across the streams, and hardly any men in flat-bottomed boats. The fish are loaded into scows and transported to the canneries, usually frame structures built upon piles close to the shores of the rivers. In the canneries the tins are made, and, as a rule, saw-mills near by produce the wood for the shooks or sides of the packing-cases. The fish are cleaned, rid of their heads and tails, and then chopped up and loaded into the tins by Chinaman and Indian women. The tins are then boiled, soldered, tested, packed, and shipped away. The industry is rapidly extending, and fresh salmon are now being shipped, frozen, to the markets of eastern America and England. My figures for 1889 obtained from the Victoria Colonist are in all likelihood under the mark for the season of 1890. The coast is made rugged by inlets, and the rivers run over such a watercourse as empties. All the larger streams are the haven of salmon in the spawning season, and in time the principal ones will be the home of salmon-breeding.

The Dominion government has founded a salmon hatchery on the Fraser, above Yale, under the charge of Mr. Shaw, son of Thomas Shaw, Inspector of Fisheries, and millions of small fry are now annually turned out into the great river. Whether the unexampled run of 1889 was in any part due to this process cannot be said, but certainly the canneries would injure the "roes" of the fish, but it is now believed that there is a profit to be derived from treating the refuse for oil and guano, so that it is more likely to be saved than thrown back into the streams in the near future.

The oolachan, or candle-fish, is a valuable product of these waters, chiefly of the Fraser and Nasse rivers. They are said to be delicious when fresh, smoked, or salted, and I have it on the authority of the little pamphlet "British Columbia," handed me by a government official, that "their oil is considered superior to cod-liver oil, or any other fish oil known." It is said that this oil is whitish, and of the consistency of thin lard. It is used as food by the natives, and is an article of barter between the coast Indians and the tribes of the interior. There is so much of it in a candle-fish of ordinary size that when one of them is dried, it will burn like a candle. It is the custom of the natives on the coast to catch the fish in immense numbers in purse-nets. They then put them in iron-bottomed boats, steaming the product in willow baskets, and running the oil into cedar-bores holding fifteen gallons each. The Nasse River candle-fish are the best. They begin running in March, and continue to come by the million for a period of several weeks.

Cod fish are supposed to be very plentiful, and to frequent extensive banks at sea, but these shoals have not been explored or charted by the government, and private enterprise will not attempt the work. Similar banks off the Alaska coast are already the resorts of California fishermen, who drive a prosperous trade in salting large catches there. The skil, or black cod, formerly known as the "coal-fish," is a splendid deep water product. These cod weigh from eight to twenty pounds, and used to be caught by hook and line with ease. Of late years the white men are driving the Indians out by superior methods. Trawls of three hundred hooks are used, and the fish are found to be plentiful, especially off the west coast of the Queen Charlotte Islands.—Julian Ralph, in Harper's Magazine for January.

WINDSOR, Feb. 5.—The Page Woven Wire Company, of Adrian, Mich., has begun the establishment of a Canadian branch for the manufacture of their wares in Walkerville. It will begin operations not later than Monday next. The firm carries on a large trade in Michigan, but the business is only being introduced into Ontario. Mr. Page is of opinion that a good field exists in Canada for the goods he manufactures, and thinks that ultimately a lucrative trade can be built up.

Farmers' Loss of Markets.

As the Reform party is still very active in assuring the country that it would be an unmixed gain to our farmers to throw down all trade barriers between Canada and the States, it is well that both sides of that question should be understood—for the question has certainly two sides to it. The Canadian farmer may as well know that if he gains access to the States' home markets the States' farmers will also gain access to his, and that the advantages would not, therefore, be all on one side. Matters have changed greatly in the States since the days of the old Eight treaty.

Now the American farmer has a surplus of nearly everything he raises to export after his own country is supplied, and many protected reciprocity, such as the Reform party would give, if possible, Canada would not only become a slaughter market for surplus manufactures, but for surplus agricultural products, too.

The following facts in reference to the gains and losses to the Canadian farmer of an exchange of products with the States we have taken the pains to glean from the Dominion Trade Returns of 1890, the last yet published. They are well worthy of some careful study by the farmers of this country. It will be seen that there was a good deal of give and take about the trade, and the advantages were very frequently against Canada. We had the advantage in barley, in horses and in eggs, but there the advantages began to end. In many other lines of farming products the balance was entirely the other way.

In corn and its products Canada exported $2,291 worth to the States and the States exported $1,657,612 worth to Canada. In oats Canada sent $8,527 worth to the States and the States sent $98,525 worth to Canada. In wheat and flour Canada sent $38,644 worth was sold in the States and the States sold $762,721 in Canada. In the matter of these three farm staples the Canadian farmer "found a natural market" in the States for $50,102 of grain, while the States farmer found a natural market in Canada for $2,518,858. The balance against Canada was no less $2,468,756. Had it not been there was a duty against every one of these grains coming into this country the disproportion would have been still greater.

Even in the matter of apples the balance was again against Canada. We found a market for $154,105 worth in the States, and they found a market for $266,624 worth in Canada. Balance again on the wrong side $96,409. When all kinds of fruit, even in their green state, is taken into account, the balance was vastly larger than that.

Of dairy products, the Canadian farmers were still on the losing side of the trade. Canada sold to the States $6,425 worth of cheese, and $5,059 worth of butter. The States sold to Canada $22,597 worth of cheese and $62 212 worth of butter. Balance against us $73,325.

In the matter of cattle and beef, Canada once can again far behind. We found a "natural market" in the States for $104,623 worth of cattle and $1,843 worth of beef, or $106,466 in all. The States farmers found a natural market in Canada for $101,020 worth of cattle and $279,639 worth of beef. Balance against us $273,193.

In hogs and their products, matters are still worse. Canada exported to the States $1,776 worth of hogs, $301 worth of pork and $1 worth of lard; the States exported to Canada $106,237 worth of hogs, $1,172,100 worth of pork and $301,286 worth of lard. Balance on the wrong side $1,557,545.

In smoked and dried meats our trade showed similar results. We sold to our "natural market," $129 worth, and bought back again from there, for home consumption, $144,891; balance, $144,762.

In sheep the results were better, but the balance small. We found sale for $761; 565 worth of sheep and $2,261 worth of mutton, and made purchase of $137,674 worth of sheep, and $17,798 of mutton. Balance against us $607,554.

Even in poultry there was a considerable loss of home market in obtaining a natural market away from home. We sold $49,233 worth and imported for home consumption, $16,286 worth.

We have now only space for these other significant figures in regard to the "natural market" question, though many more might be produced. The total export trade in 1890 of live stock, meats, grains, vegetables, seeds and such like agricultural products from Canada to Great Britain amounted to $21,060,812. During the same year our export to the States of the same class of articles amounted to $12,772,588, or but little over half as much.

The figures, it will be observed, are for the year ending July 1st, 1890, or before the McKinley tariff came into force, and at a time when our duties amounted to about the same as the American. Surely it is as well to consider this question in all its phases before the people decide to offer to give up everything for a very questionable advantage.—Kingston News.

The Mission to Washington.

Mr. W. G. Parmalee assistant commissioner of customs, and Mr. Douglas Stewart, jr., confidential clerk to the Minister of Justice, will accompany the three Ministers to Washington on Monday next. Nothing definite as to the precise nature of the visit can be ascertained, but it is thought that as Behring sea matters are coming rapidly to a head Mr. Blaine considers the time opportune to discuss the numerous other questions, including the trade issue now pending between the two countries.

SUICIDE ENDS A SUIT.

Disgraced for Speculating With a $5000 Trust Fund—He Prefers Death to Prison.

EASTON, Pa., Feb. 5.—A suicidal shot which rang through the Court House corridors this morning startled Easton and put a stop to a most sensational lawsuit by removing the defendant therein, Preston M. Gernet, one of Northampton county's most prominent young lawyers.

Mr. Gernet, who was about 35 years of age and had been so successful in his practice as to have law offices both here and in Bethlehem, was defendant in a suit wherein he was charged with misappropriating $5000 belonging to the estate of Samuel J. Kauffman, deceased, and the trial was in progress when he fired the fatal shot.

Could Not Face Disgrace.

Many spectators were gathered in the courtroom to hear the concluding testimony of the embarrassing testimony into which he, as defendant, was led yesterday. The bell which rang its summons to the trial meant that Gernet must again take the witness stand and explain, under a hot cross-examination, his admission of yesterday that he had speculated in mining stocks with the funds of the deceased Odenwelder, executor, had given him to deposit as attorney for the Kauffman estate.

Gernet had alleged that the money was given him to invest, and that he did so; but the investments, of which the executor might greed, turned out bad, and the money was lost.

It was yesterday that the trial of the suit to recover the $5000 began and Gernet made his damaging admissions as to mining stocks. This morning he went to the Court House, and, meeting Sheriff Detrick, office spoke pleasantly, but did not refer to his case. He seemed downcast, and when the Court House bell rang he asked the recorder for the key to a private toilet room, and entered. Those in the Recorder's office soon heard a pistol shot which filled the court, Knauss has been after me these two weeks past, although I only borrowed the money from him. I would prefer to go to jail for fifteen years in prison without ability to support you in any way. Forgive me, for I do it to save you the shame of being a husband in prison. My mother! Tell her to forgive me. I save her the shame of having a son in jail. Tell her I wish her you again. Good-by, forgive, forgive, good-by. Your own ROB."

Mr. Gernet, who was one of the most promising and popular graduates of Muhlenburg College, was prominent in local Masonic circles. The suicide of no other citizen of Easton could have created a greater sensation.

TRADE PROSPECTS.

Bradstreet's Reports for the Week May Be Considered as Satisfactory.

NEW YORK, Feb. 6.—Special telegrams to Bradstreet's on the whole are more favorable as to the course of general trade than in any preceding week this year. Nearly every despatch records some improvement.

General trade is only moderately active in the Province of Ontario. Feb. 4 was settling day and payments were fairly well met. In the Province of Quebec the reverse was true, renewals being quite conspicuous.

Business failures in the Dominion of Canada this week equal 34, against 44 last week and 58 one year ago.

The bank clearings total this week for Montreal, Toronto, Halifax and Hamilton is a little less than that of a week ago.

Dynamite and Death.

OTTAWA, Feb. 6.—A fatal explosion took place on the Gatineau Valley line about one mile north of North Wakefield, Que., this afternoon, by which Joseph Louden was instantly killed and two others seriously injured. A party were drilling a hole in the rock a few inches from where a charge of dynamite had been placed and failed to exude. The drilling started the explosion with fatal results.

A Lawyer's Awful Crime.

SHELBURNE, Ont., Feb. 6.—James Fletcher, aged 45, a lawyer who has of late been living in Orbia, has been committed for trial on a charge of having indecently assaulted a girl under 12 years of age named McLeod, daughter of John McLeod, in his (the lawyer's) office.

IMPERIAL PARLIAMENT.

WHAT HER MAJESTY'S SPEECH WILL CONTAIN.

Legislation Foreshadowed—Everything in Readiness for the Opening of Parliament on Tuesday—No Amendment to be Moved by Liberals.

LONDON, Feb. 6.—The Cabinet sat for nearly three hours yesterday shaping the Speech from the Throne, with which Parliament will be opened on Tuesday. No reference will be made to the coming session as bringing the present Parliament toward the close of its career.

The speech opens with a reference to the sympathy of the nation for the royal family over its bereavement, alludes to the death of the Khedive as not altering British relations with Egypt, refers to the continued prosperity of the country and says there is no reason to fear that England will be ultimately affected by foreign tariff legislation, and congratulates the country upon the prospect of an early settlement of the Behring Sea dispute and upon the pacific aspect of foreign affairs generally.

The speech mentions the Irish local government and education bills as adding completeness to a series of measures for securing order in and the welfare of Ireland.

Other measures announced are a small holdings bill, a district councils bill and bills to reform the India Council and Scottish privvate legislation.

This last measure has importance beyond its application to Scotland as affirming and extending the principle of local government. It proposes to remove Scotch private bills from the consideration of House of Commons committees to certain districts in Scotland.

The Archbishop of Canterbury has a clergy discipline bill which the government will support. This constitutes the business of the session.

No Amendment to be Moved.

The leaders of the Opposition do not intend to move any amendment to the address.

Mr. Gladstone will not appear in the House of Commons in the first week of the session. He has delegated to Sir William Vernon Harcourt the task of questioning the Government of its intentions in regard to the dissolution of Parliament. If the reply is indefinite Mr. Gladstone will make the question the subject of a great party fight.

A meeting of the dissidents will be held at Devonshire House on Monday, at which Mr. Chamberlain will be formally accepted as leader in the House of Commons. In the evening the Duke of Devonshire will give a dinner to a few adherents.

The Pearl Case.

LONDON, Feb. 6.—Mrs. Florence Osborne, who was arrested yesterday charged with stealing the Hargreaves jewels and with obtaining £550 upon them, was arraigned in the Guildhall court this morning. The Lord Mayor presided. Mrs. Osborne, who was deadly pale and in a fainting condition, was escorted to a seat at the solicitor's table.

An official from the treasury appeared at Guildhall and, to the astonishment of all present, announced that the treasury did not intend to offer any evidence against Mrs. Osborne. The Lord Mayor discharged the prisoner.

Mrs. Osborne was re-arrested shortly after leaving the Guildhall and taken to Bow-street police station, where she was formally charged with perjury. The prisoner was crying bitterly when placed in the dock. She was remanded for a week without bail.

Captain Osborne was given the privilege to remain with his wife in the Halloway jail until after the prison doctor certified that she was sick and fit for the infirmary. Then he was obliged to leave her. She was terribly prostrated, requiring constant medical attention. The official of the prison promised to inform her friends if a state of danger arose during the night. The strain of her position has told most on her since her arrest. She appears to have borne well the life of a fugitive tracked by detectives. Friends state that she was shadowed from Amiens to Rouen, thence to Eureux and thence to Gisors, where she rested a week under the name of Ogilvy. The officers, supposing that she was secreted in a convent, invaded and searched the institution at midnight, alarming the whole town. The fugitive resumed her flight in the morning, going to Bordeaux, where she awaited her husband, with the intention of starting for Buenos Ayres.

Captain Osborne, who was also watched, warned her to make her way to Cadiz. On crossing the frontier she became ill at Irun and, tiring of pursuit, decided to surrender. No plea of mental infirmity put forth in her defence is likely to lessen her sentence under two years, in view of her perjury and her blackening the reputation of intimate friends.

Dr. Mackenzie's Knighthood.

LONDON, Feb. 6.—The house occupied by the late Sir Morell Mackenzie contains a large number of gifts from celebrated people whom he had attended in sickness. A framed letter from the late Emperor Frederick hangs over the mantel, besides a letter from Queen Victoria to Emperor Frederick. The Queen's letter reads:

DEAR FRITZ,—I shall take much pleasure in conferring knighthood on the physician who has rendered you and us such great services, for Dr. Mackenzie has indeed treated you with great skill. (Signed),

VICTORIA R. I.

Sir Morell was a man of wealth and of striking individuality. He had long been the physician and friend of all singers and actors and he leaves a son who has already made a name as a comedian.

Viscount Chelsea Engaged.

LONDON, Feb. 6.—Viscount Chelsea, son of Earl Cadogan, who was for some time a suitor for the hand of Princess Maud of Wales, has become engaged to Mildred, daughter of Lord Alington. This marriage will unite the families of the two greatest ground landlords in London, whose wealth is enormous.

GREEN INDEED.

His Experience With "Green Goods" Men Has Cost Him $310.

NEW YORK, Feb. 6.—In the Yorkville Police Court yesterday morning an alleged "green goods" swindler, who gave his name as James Miller, was arraigned on the complaint of Samuel Price, a blacksmith of Dixey, Canada.

Price does not look like one who could be fleeced so easily. He went to Newburg, N.Y., on Jan. 21, in response to letters and circulars purporting to come from Miller, who offered to sell him $1000 in "green goods" for $100.

Price said that, on arriving here, they walked a few blocks, not far from the Grand Central Station, and there negotiated for the purchase of $3000 in "green goods," for which was demanded $475. As he had only brought $200, he paid $170 on account, and took Miller's receipt for the money. He also returned subsequently and paid Miller another $140. The "green goods" were to be supplied after the balance was paid. Miller was remanded.

WILL BE CREMATED.

A Woman Dies in Washington Who Has Three Sisters in Toronto.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6.—The will of Mrs. E. A. Townsend, better known as Ollie Astor, proprietress of a resort in Thirteenth-street, was offered for probate yesterday. The will directs that the estate be equally divided between three sisters who live in Toronto, Canada. The estate consists of the furniture in the house, cash in a safe deposit company, carriages and horses, jewelry, and several deeds to valuable real estate in this city. Miss Astor's will contained a clause providing for the cremation of her remains. Yesterday her remains were embalmed and removed to Harvey's undertaking establishment, to be held until her relatives are heard from.

Nothing Hunts Out Corns

Like tight boots. Corns are very small affairs, but apply to them a pair of tight boots and all other concerns of life sink into insignificance. Tight boots and Putnam's Corn Extractor (the great and only sure cure for corns) may go together, and comfort will be their partner; but don't fail to use Putnam's Corn Extractor. Frauds, cheap, poisonous and dangerous substitutes, are in the market. Beware of them. Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor. Polson & Co., proprietors, Kingston.

ATTACKED BY AN ENEMY.

DEAR SIRS,—About a year ago I had a very bad attack of dyspepsia. For nearly four months I never ate a meal without suffering pain after. I had got so weak I could scarcely walk, when one day I saw an advertisement for B.B.B., and thought I would try a bottle. Four bottles cured me completely, and I am now strong and healthy.

BAD, WORSE, WORST.

Cold, cough, consumption, to cure the first and second and prevent the third, use Hagyard's Pectoral balsam, the never failing family medicine for all diseases of the throat, lungs and chest. A marvel of healing in pulmonary complaints.

Fagged Out.—None but those who have become fagged out know what a depressed, miserable feeling it is. All strength is gone, and despondency has taken hold of the sufferers. They feel as though there is nothing to live for. There, however, is a cure—one box of Parmelee's Vegetable Pills will do wonders in restoring health and strength.

A neglected cough brings on consumption—the most fatal and prevalent of all physical ills that flesh is heir to. To check the malady in its early stage before the deadly tubercles develop themselves in the lung cure Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, which also cures bronchitis, asthma, catarrh, piles, kidney troubles, and soreness of the muscles and joints.

Live as long as you may, the first twenty years are the largest half of your life.

BRITISH AND FOREIGN.

MRS. OSBORNE WAS TERRIBLY PERSECUTED.

Parliament to be Asked Some Pertinent Questions Concerning the Action of the Treasury Department in the Matter—The Prince of Wales Said to be Anxious to Adopt Princess May.

LONDON, Feb. 8.—Much disgust and indignation are being expressed at the shameful and cruel mismanagement of the Government prosecution of Mrs. Florence Ethel Osborne.

In the first place, at the Lord Mayor's Court, the wretched woman was kept waiting over an hour before any one representing the Treasury condescended to put in an appearance at all. Then a Treasury solicitor, knowing that the charge would not hold good, coolly asked that the warrant for false pretences be withdrawn, and by way of exhibiting some zeal, applied for another warrant on the charge of perjury. Upon this Mrs. Osborne will have to stand trial. She was hauled from one court to another, half mad with distress and fainting from exhaustion.

This guilty but most unhappy and afflicted woman has been cast into prison on refusal simply because the Treasury grossly mismanaged the case.

Nobody demands this prosecution. Full reparation has been made to all the injured persons, and the Crown is not obliged to interfere, but if it has interfered in the name of justice let it pursue the paths of justice and not indict tortures upon a broken-hearted woman such as Judge Jeffries himself might well have been ashamed of. I believe the subject will be brought up in Parliament next week.

Mrs. Osborne a Heroine.

LONDON, Feb. 8.—G. W. Smalley cables: Mrs. Osborne has suddenly become a sort of heroine. Her surrender is understood to have been at her own wish, and her treatment by the Treasury officials is deemed unhandsome. Hence the curious outburst of feeling in her favor. She expected to take her trial for obtaining money on false pretences, and has now to face a charge of perjury, on which she is remanded without bail.

The Anti-Parnellite Chairmanship.

DUBLIN, Feb. 8.—The Independent (Parnellite) says the re-election Saturday of Justin McCarthy as chairman of the section of the Irish parliamentary party, opposed to the policy of the Parnellites, was due to a compromise arrived at in order to avoid offending the numerous aspirants for the chairmanship, which honor could command a majority, but whose defeat would have split the McCarthyites into several factions.

The Freeman's Journal (McCarthyite) admits that other anti-Parnellites were better qualified than McCarthy for the chairmanship, but in the present organization of the party their services are best given from the ranks.

Salisbury's Strong Sentences.

LONDON, Feb. 8.—The portion of Lord Salisbury's Exeter speech which called forth the sorrowful sigh of Sir Vernon Harcourt's reply is contained in these sentences: "England is the Protestant nation of the world. England more than any other country, has resisted the denomination of the clerical profession. Yet now you are going to create an ultra-clerical state under the government of Archbishops Croke and Walsh. Ireland consists of a majority and a minority. You are going to give to that majority, which contains all that is backward, all that is unprogressive, all that is contrary to civilization and enlightenment, power over all that is enlightened, civilized and progressive."

Sir Morell Never a Strong Man.

LONDON, Feb. 8.—G. W. Smalley cables: Extraordinary as was his power of work, Sir Morell Mackenzie never was a strong man. He lived on his nerves. Work with him always meant overwork. His devotion to his profession and his patients knew no bounds. No self-denial, no self-sacrifice, no attraction might say of him, he stood admittedly at the head of his profession. He was not only at the head, he had no rival, either in England or the Continent.

Wales Wishes to Adopt Princess May.

LONDON, Feb. 8.—An intimate friend of the Prince of Wales states that His Royal Highness desires to adopt the Princess May as his daughter. Prince George is very attentive to May, and is often in her company. Prince George is said to be a deal with insomnia. Princess May surprised him the other day by giving him a pillow of hemlock, which she had thoughtfully obtained in America. The cover was embroidered by her own hands. The possibility of George and May being married continues to be discussed.

Another Parisian Murder.

PARIS, Feb. 8.—An old woman living in Rue Rambuteau, was found yesterday by her paramour, a man named Guichon, lying dead on the floor of her house. The body was terribly gashed and an investigation showed that robbery was the motive for the murder, but only 25 sous were obtained.

The man Guichon, who yesterday reported the murder of his paramour, has been arrested on suspicion.

He is a Swindler.

LONDON, Feb. 8.—In consequence of the many letters lately received from the United States in regard to the standing of William Lord Moore, as an agent in London to prosecute claims to property in England, the United States legation in this city, with the aid of the police, has investigated and established the fact that Moore is a swindler with a New York connection.

His Name Was a Flag.

LONDON, Feb. 8.—G. W. Smalley on Spurgeon: The whole Nonconformists world looked to him as its chief. He was the one man among them who had a hold on the people and on the popular imagination. He was their one great preacher. His name was a flag.

Baccarat Burglary.

LONDON, Feb. 8.—Burglars attempted Saturday night to enter the house of Tranby Croft, the home of Arthur Wilson, of baccarat scandal fame, but being discovered by servants they fled before the police could be notified.

Dangerous Counterfeits.

Counterfeits are always dangerous, more so that they always closely IMITATE THE ORIGINAL IN APPEARANCE AND NAME. The remarkable success achieved by Nasal Balm as a positive cure for Catarrh and Cold in the head has induced unprincipled parties to imitate it. The public are cautioned not to be deceived by nostrums imitating Nasal Balm in name and appearance, bearing such names as Nasal Cream, Nasal Balsam, etc. Ask for Nasal Balm and do not take any imitation dealers may urge upon you. For sale by all druggists or sent post-paid on receipt of price (60c and $1.) by addressing Lyon & Co. Brockville, Ont.

KNIGHTS OF LABOR.

The Knights of Labor aim to protect their members against financial difficulties, etc., Hagyard's Yellow Oil protects all who use it from the effects of cold and exposure, such as rheumatism, neuralgia, lumbago, sore throat, and all inflammatory pain. Nothing compares with it as a handy pain cure for man and beast.

For coughs, colds, bronchitis and all lung and throat troubles, there is no preparation of medicine can compare with Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup. It never fails to afford prompt and permanent relief. It relieves all soreness, and heals the diseased parts. It immediately soothes the most troublesome cough, and by promoting expectoration, removes the mucus which stops up the air tubes which causes difficulty in breathing, thereby giving relief to that depressive tightness experience in the chest. Public speakers and singers will find Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup of inestimable value, as it speedily and effectually allays all irritation, and hoarseness in the throat and bronchial tubes, and gives power to the vocal cords, rendering the voice clear and sonorous. If parents wish to save the lives of their children, and themselves from much anxiety trouble and expense let them procure a bottle of Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup, and whenever a child has taken cold, has a cough or hoarseness, give the Syrup according to directions.

Our heaviest burdens are those we borrow.

Do you feel as though your friends had all deserted you, business calamities overwhelmed you, your body refusing to perform its duties, and even the sun had taken refuge behind a cloud? Then use Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery, and hope will return and despondency disappear. Mr. R. H. Baker, Ingoldsby, writes: "I am completely cured of Dyspepsia that caused me great suffering for three years. Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery is the medicine that effected the cure after trying many other medicines."

Much doing is not so important as well doing.

Fever and Ague and bilious derangements are positively cured by the use of Parmelee's Pills They not only cleanse the stomach and bowels, from all bilious matter, but they open the excretory glands, and cause them to throw off the effusions from the blood into the bowels, after which the corrupted mass is thrown out by the natural channels of the body. They are used as a general family medicine with the best results.

The man who doesn't believe in God lives that way.

A. M. Evanston, Warkworth, writes,—"For weeks I was troubled with a swelled ankle, which caused me much pain and annoyance. Mr. May's—— of this town recommended Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil for it. I tried it, and before one bottle was used I was cured. It is an article of great value."

Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator is pleasant to take, sure and effectual in destroying worms. Many have tried it with best results.

Influenza or La Grippe and Alcohol

Opinion of the "Lancet."

The theory that whiskey is necessary in the treatment of pneumonia has received a blow from Dr. Bull, of New York City, who discovers that in the New York Hospitals sixty five per cent of the pneumonia patients die with alcoholic treatment, while in London, at the Object Lesson Temperance Hospital, only five per cent die.

In three days no less than fifteen hundred people were taken up for drunkenness, in the streets of Paris, of whom twelve hundred said they were simply following the treatment prescribed by the physicians in that city for influenza, viz., warm alcoholic drinks. The Lancet comments upon this as "a very questionable prescription," and urges instead that "the great point to observe, both for preventing the disease and passing through it favorably, are to live naturally, soberly and sensibly, to inhale fresh air, taking wholesome and simple food, and a sufficiency of sleep."

A Temperance Worker Removed.

In the death of Cardinal Manning, the temperance cause has lost a true friend and energetic worker. His works of counsel and warning from the pulpit, and through the press, to all classes and conditions of men will not soon be forgotten.

Railways and Temperance.

The railways of the United States employ 689,912 persons, not counting those who mine the coal and iron, make the rails or locomotives, or build the cars and carriages used by the roads. The freight and passenger traffic of the country is practically controlled by 600 of these corporations, and of these 600 no less than 375 prohibit the use of intoxicating liquors by their employee's, among the number being most of the largest companies. The Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers uses its influence in the same direction. "Whenever a member of the order is knowing to be dissipated," says Mr. Arthur, long the head of the organization, "we not only expel or suspend him, but notify his employers," and during the last year, 375 members were expelled for this cause. This is only one illustration of the way in which practical business considerations are operating to promote the spread of temperance. It is purely a matter of business with the railway companies. They simply cannot afford to employ a man who is liable any day to get drunk and precipitate some terrible disaster. In like manner, other employers find that it pays them much better to hire a man who is not in the habit of drinking than one who may be intoxicated when his services are most needed, and between two applicants they give the preference to the one upon whom they can depend.—Express Gazette.

Dyspepsia

Few people have suffered more severely from dyspepsia than Mr. E. A. McMahon, a well known grocer of Stanchell, Ont. He says "before 1888 I was in excellent health, weighing over 200 pounds. In that year an ailment developed into acute dyspepsia, and soon I was reduced to 162 pounds, suffering burning sensations in the stomach, palpitation of the heart, nausea, and indigestion. I could not sleep, lost all heart in my work, had fits of melancholia, and for days at a time I would have welcomed death. I became morose, sullen and irritable, and for eight years life was a burden. I tried many physicians and many remedies. One day a workman employed by me suggested that I take Hood's Sarsaparilla, as it had cured his wife of dyspepsia. I did so, and before taking the whole of a bottle I began to feel like a new man. The terrible pains to which I had been subjected, ceased, the palpitation of the heart subsided, my stomach became easier, nausea disappeared, and my entire system began to tone up. With returning health and strength came activity of mind and body. Before the fifth bottle was taken I had regained my former weight and natural condition. I am today well and I ascribe it to taking Hood's Sarsaparilla."

BELLEVILLE, MONDAY, FEB 8

NUMBER TWENTY-SEVEN.

Mr. Gauthier, Liberal M.P. for L'Assomption, Que., has been unseated.

He is the twenty seventh of the Grit phalanx who were elected in March last, to be unseated for corruption. His majority was only 78, and the Conservatives stand a good chance of winning the seat, now that the Mercier gang have lost their pull on the treasury of Quebec.

THE FARMER'S FRIEND.

It is wonderful how, upon the eve of an election, the Grit politician arrays himself as the "farmer's friend." "Hard times" stands the party in all cases, in the stead of a policy.

At the nomination of Mr. Aylsworth, as reported in the Ontario, not a word was said in favor of our beautiful country.

Mr. Aylsworth regretted the depreciation in the price of farm lands. This every one must deplore, but has farm land depreciated more here than in free trade England or in the United States, to which that party would attach us? We think no one will deny that the depreciation is fully as great, if not greater, in New York State than in Canada. And for the sake of our County, which Grit writers are decrying, we will say that no County of its size in the United States can show such roads, such farm buildings, fences, and such a general air of prosperity.

Mr. N. Vermilyea was on hand, and of course wanted money; his great hobby is the revised list. His pet list went to pieces badly when he ran for the Legislature, and we predict that when the vote is counted after the coming election, he will think this last list of his was stricken by a cyclone.

Mr. J. M. Farley, Reeve of Sidney, was present and regretted that he had not a vote in East Hastings, of which fact Mr. Vermilyea should take note. Mr. Farley is a farmer, but is a politician as well, and a true sample of the Grit politician, as he would accept the License Inspectorship, Registrarship, or any other position vacant, and the party can rely upon his faithfulness to the cause until he is shelved. It was he who said at the last election that one-tenths of the farms in Sidney would not be worked next year. The only policy of the party is depreciation of their own home and country.

Mr. boodler Preston was present and knew of terrible misdeeds in the Dominion Government. He did not tell his own. Pat O'Brien and Preston will explain to the faithful in Toronto how the riding will be won. They were at Napanee together and at Picton, hence they should by this time know that boodle will not win the election. Other minor lights were present and appeared to resolve themselves into a committee of the whole on mourning. In the end they gave three cheers for the candidate. This was as little as they could do, as they had already given three cheers for Will et Farley, whom they had thoroughly scalded at the last municipal election, and who was thus honored upon his return to the fold.

Bad Day for Liberals.

What with losing Lennox at the polls, Queen's county, N. B., in the courts, and having its candidate utterly overwhelmed in Prince Edward, yesterday was full of gloom for the Liberals.

As a party they are utterly undone. Their leaders are leaping now, what Independent observers have known all along, that unrestricted reciprocity he no hold at all up on the country. A policy that had any strength would have at least held Lennox, and reduced the Conservative majority in Prince Edward.

MANY SCORE OF VICTIMS.

ANOTHER NEW YORK HOTEL HOLOCAUST.

Many Charred Bodies Taken From the Ruins and it is Believed That There Are Still a Number of Others There —Heartrending Scenes.

NEW YORK, Feb. 8.—An appalling catastrophe paralleling in horror and perhaps exceeding in loss of life the Park Place disaster of last summer, occurred in the city at an early hour yesterday morning. The Hotel Royal at 6th avenue and 40th street, opposite Bryant Park, was completely destroyed by fire and a large number of people were burned and suffocated in the ruins.

The Hotel Royal was built more than 25 years ago. The house was the home of many persons in the theatrical profession and was patronized chiefly by transients for the night that class which keeps late hours in the upper part of the tenderloin district.

All Means of Escape Cut Off.

The fire broke out shortly after three o'clock this morning and spread with fearful rapidity, the flames soon enveloping the entire building and cutting off all means of escape for the guests rooming in the upper stories of the building.

The origin of the fire is unknown. It started in the basement near the elevator shaft, which was located in the middle of the building.

The fire department arrived within a few minutes after the alarm was given by an engineer on the elevated railroad, but meanwhile the most heartrending and harrowing scenes were being enacted.

The horror-stricken crowd that had quickly gathered in the streets about the doomed building, saw men and women clad only in their night clothes, jump from the upper stories and fall upon the stone flagging of the sidewalks crushed to death or seriously injured.

Eye witnesses tell of the appearance at the upper windows of terror-stricken men and women who, unable to find escape, fell back overcome by the smoke and flames. Every window of the building seemed filled with men, women and children, crying out piteously for those below to save them. Many of those were certainly burned to death.

The fire escapes in the rear of the building afforded a means of escape to some, whilst the fire ropes provided in all the rooms were utilized by many male guests in reaching the street.

According to the most reliable reports there were about 150 people all told, sleeping in the hotel last night. How many of these were lost may not be ascertained for several days.

Every Room Was Occupied.

Nearly every room of the 104 rooms which the hotel had on its five floors was occupied last night by guests both permanent and transient, in fact all rooms save four had been taken at 1 o'clock in the morning when Richard Mears, the proprietor, went to bed.

At 3:05 o'clock Mears and his wife, who occupied a room on the third floor 40 feet from the staircase, were aroused and found the staircase in flames. Mears groped his way to a window through blinding smoke and escaped, and his wife was subsequently rescued by firemen in an unconscious condition.

Many Leap to Death.

Just as she reached the ground the body of an unknown man, who had jumped from a third-story window, struck the pavement and his brains were dashed out.

A moment later another man leaped from a window on the 40th street side and was instantaneously killed. Shortly afterward two women jumped from windows on the 6th avenue side and were dead when picked up.

The Walls Tumble.

Suddenly the walls fell. At the time people could be observed at several windows on the top floor, crying for help, but they fell back and were soon burned in the ruins.

The fire burned, crushed and disfigured bodies, two women and three men, were removed to the morgue.

It is feared, however, that a search of the vast smoking pile of debris in the cellar of the hotel will reveal many ghastly finds. It was reported at a late hour to-night that no less than 100 people are still unaccounted for.

COASTING DISASTER.

GODERICH, Feb. 8.—Saturday night a party of young people were coasting on the harbor hill, when the steering gear broke. The sleigh dashed against the corner of the Ocean House with tremendous force. Richard Cottle had one leg broken and the smaller bones of the other leg fractured and injured in the face; a young lad named Alvin Wallace, son of P. B. Wallace, commercial traveler, had one of his thighs broken. Miss Straiton, daughter of A. Straiton, G.T.R. agent, was knocked senseless by the concussion and slightly injured.

THE ACCIDENT RECORD.

COBOURG, Feb. 8.—Michael Greer, aged 90, left Jubilee Point, a summer resort on Rice Lake, on Wednesday evening for Harwood on the opposite shore, for some medicine for his son, who was ill with la grippe. GUELPH'S PAGEANTRY OF WOE.

Imposing Funeral Services at Guelph—The Body Lay in State at the City Hall. 10,000 Persons Present.

GUELPH, Feb. 8.—The funeral of the late Mayor of Guelph, Thomas Goldie, took place Saturday afternoon and was the most imposing ever witnessed in the city, fully 10,000 persons, including representatives of many cities in Ontario, attending the obsequies. At 10.15 the council assembled at the City Hall and drove to Rosebrae. Just before they reached the residence the employes of Goldie's mill, about 50 in number, were drawn up in line to allow them to pass, after which they followed into the house to hear the funeral services. There were present almost all the prominent residents and officials of the city. The house was filled with mourners, many women being present. The services were solemn and impressive. The Rev. R. B. Williams, pastor of the Congregational Church, read selections of scripture. Rev. R. J. Beattie, deceased's pastor, offered up a solemn and sympathetic prayer.

The coffin was borne by the following pall-bearers: Dr. Lett, Henry Hortop, J. B. Powell, Joseph Hefferman, Robert Harvey, W. Wilson, Toronto; Colonel Macdonald, W. A. McLean.

The procession then formed and took its way to the city. At the Branous bridge the council and officials of the city and county left the carriages and preceded the company on foot to the City hall.

Both railways made special arrangements to carry from Toronto to this city any friends or acquaintances of the late mayor who desired to attend the funeral and over a hundred took advantage of the privilege, including the members of the Board of Trade, the Albany Club and the Ontario Cricket Association and other friends of the deceased.

The Toronto contingent arrived at 2.15 and at once proceeded to the City Hall, where the order of procession was formed as follows:

Guelph Fire Company.
Sons of Scotland.
Ancient Order United Workmen.
The clergy.
Hearse.
Chief mourners.
Mr. Goldie's employes.
City Council.
Officials and guests.
School Boards.
Conservative Association.
Reform Association.
Board of Trade.
Government and county officials.
Citizens.

It was estimated that fully 5000 persons walked to the cemetery, the streets being lined with as many more.

Notes.

The floral tributes were numerous and beautiful, and of them perhaps the most appropriate was that of the employees of the mill, "The broken wheel," with five spokes, representing the five brothers, one spoke and the fire broken, emblematic of the great break in the family. An anchor, sent by the employees in the cooperage, was also very beautiful. Among other offerings were: A pillow from the Conservative Association, North Waterloo, with the card, "The Conservative Association of North Waterloo mourns the loss of a loyal friend." Wreath from the Ontario Cricket Association; Anchor, Railway Friends, Toronto; City Council, Pillow, and the words "Our Mayor;" Managers Knox Church, Wreath; Guelph A.O.U.W., Anchor and Wreath with the motto C.E.P.

Owing to the illness of Mr. James Goldie, he was unable to be present at the service.

It is a matter worthy of note that the meeting of the Conservative Association of this riding was held just eight months ago to pass resolutions respecting the death of and appoint a deputation to attend the funeral of, the late Sir John A. Macdonald. At that meeting there were present, and were appointed on the deputation, three gentlemen who have since followed their political leader into the Silent Land. They were the late Judge Drew, Mr. F. J. Chadwick and Mr. Thomas Goldie.

Captain Kennedy of the Germanic.

NEW YORK, Feb. 8.—Captain Charles William Kennedy of the famous Germanic of the White Star Line has fallen upon a serious affliction and his services to the company have become a reminiscence. A cataract formed on one eye and he was forced to resign his command. The most skilled oculists were consulted, but science shook its head and the old sea dog is now nearly blind. He is left without the wherewithal to support himself or his family, and The New York Herald is taking up a subscription in his behalf.

BLAINE NOT A CANDIDATE.

His Name will Not Go Before the Republican Convention.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8.—The following letter explains itself:

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6, 1892.

Hon. J. S. Clarkson, Chairman of the Republican National Committee:

MY DEAR SIR,—I am not a candidate for the presidency, and my name will not go before the Republican National Convention for the nomination. I make this announcement in due season to those who have tendered me their confidence. They will, I am sure, make earnest effort in the approaching contest, which is rendered specially important by reason of the industrial and financial policies of the Government being at stake. The popular decision of these issues is of great moment and will be of far-reaching consequence. Very sincerely yours,

A RADICAL ON ROYALTY.

REMARKABLE ARTICLE BY "LABBY" IN OCTOBER FORUM.

The Truth About the Debts of the Prince of Wales—The Royal Incomes in England—The Wealth of Her Majesty the Queen—She Can Now Make a Will.

THE PRINCE OF WALES' DEBTS.

The exact financial condition of the Prince of Wales is not known. There have been rumors that he is greatly in debt, but it is questionable how much reliance is to be placed upon their correctness. When the prince came of age he became possessed of the accumulations realized during his minority from the Duchy of Cornwall. A portion of them was expended in the purchase of the Sandringham estate, and the remainder became his. With this nest-egg, with an income of £110,000 per annum, one of £10,000 for his wife, a separate provision for his children, and with Marlborough House kept up for him at the public cost, there seems no reason why his expenditure should outrun his means. His pecuniary affairs are not greater than those of the French President, who, with less than half his income, does not get into debt.

ROYAL INCOMES IN EUROPE.

The amount of the Queen's civil list (£385,000) in no way represents the cost of royalty to the nation. The maintenance of palaces is a very costly item, for it includes not only the palaces inhabited by the sovereign, but also a number of houses in which she lodges her relatives and friends. One of these houses has actually been given to the Duc de Nemours, a son of Louis Philippe, and one of the wealthiest of the Orleans family. Besides this, there is the building and keeping in repair of royal yachts, and various other such costly items. Incomes, too, are voted to the sons and daughters of the sovereign and to other of her relatives. In addition to the revenues of the Duchy of Cornwall, amounting to about £60,000 per annum, an income of £50,000 per annum has been voted to the Prince of Wales, and of £10,000 to the Princess of Wales. The younger sons of the Queen have been voted incomes of £25,000 per annum, a portion of which devolves upon their wives if they survive them. The daughters of Her Majesty have each an income of £6,000 per annum, and, in addition to this, the Empress Frederick of Germany received a sum of £100,000 on her marriage. The Duke of Cambridge, as a cousin of the Queen, has £12,000 per annum, and his two sisters have severally an income of £5,000 and £5,000 per annum.

THE WEALTH OF QUEEN VICTORIA.

An act was recently passed enabling the Queen to make a will, as she was not before this supposed to be the possessor of any property, and the impression prevails that she has effected large savings. This is not the case. Although she has for many years lived in retirement, her expenditure has not materially decreased, for the mise on scene of royal pageantry is still kept up. She has expended considerable sums upon the purchase of the estates of Osborne and Balmoral, and their maintenance falls on her. She has, too, made considerable monetary presents to her daughters on their marriages; so that, although she inherited £250,000 from a silly person who left her his amount, her private fortune is comparatively small. Two years ago Lord Salisbury's Government submitted to Parliament a proposal to endow her grandchildren. A committee of the House of Commons was appointed to consider this demand, when it was decided that provision ought to be made for the children of the Prince of Wales. The committee was informed, under a pledge of secrecy, of the total value of the Queen's private investments. As I was a member of the committee, I cannot, of course, violate this pledge; but I do not think that I am breaking confidence in saying that the amount was surprisingly small.

THE TACT OF THE PRINCE OF WALES.

Nature has endowed the Prince of Wales, as it did Charles II., with great tact. Like that monarch, in his relations with the all sorts and conditions of men and women with whom he is brought in contact, he always says the right thing, and says it in a hearty and cheery way, as though its utterance were a pleasure. He presides over charity dinners, lays foundation-stones, sits through scientific oratory, opens bazaars, and dances at balls with unflagging zeal. He is eclectic in his surroundings. A few years ago he devoted himself greatly to American girls, as their exotic independence and freedom from conventionality pleased him. They have now been put aside, and he has developed a curious taste for vulgar and ostentatious parvenues of doubtful antecedents and nondescript nationality. This has caused great heart-burnings among those who deem that they ought by right of birth to be his associates; but it is a matter of absolute indifference to others. A few months ago he figured in a court of law as a sacarat player whose cheating had been suspected; and when it came out that he himself had provided the counters with which the game was played, he was lectured and prayed for by the "once gude," although I confess that I failed to see the difference between playing at baccarat and keeping race-horses. The general feeling was that it might be well for him to so arrange his engagements as to manage to keep out of the law courts; but his popularity has not permanently suffered from this episode.

ENGLISH ROYALTY ON ITS GOOD BEHAVIOR.

The monarchy is accepted by the vast majority of Englishmen without any strong enthusiasm for it, but without any desire to put an end to it. The onward march of democracy will sweep away the House of Lords and the Established Church; it will concentrate power even more than is now the case in the House of Commons; while, by the payment of the members of that House, it will convert it from an assembly of plutocrats into one more directly in harmony with the people. But the monarchy is likely to survive these changes. Its abolition is not within the area of practical politics, nor will it be so long as those who have a theoretic substance, are wise in their generation. The democracy are devoted adherents among the upper classes on account of its social aspect; the middle classes like it because they have a notion that it is respectable; the artisans and the agriculturals laborers have grievances that touch them more closely, and a change from a monarchy to a republic would not secure their benefit them as the removal of these grievances. As Radical gatherings, which I have never observed any ardent desire to sing "God Save the Queen," I have never heard any desire expressed to substitute a republic for our present system. Were a parliamentary candidate to address an electoral meeting on the advantages of a republic, he would be deemed a tilter at a windmill, and he would be requested to favor his hearers with his views upon more practical and more immediate issues.

DISTINGUISHED RELATIVES.

BROCKVILLE, Ont., Feb. 8.—Since Wednesday last the sole topic of conversation in this town has been the capture in New Orleans and subsequent suicide of Frederick C. Fitzsimmons, the young Brockvillian who escaped from Pittsburg Jail while awaiting trial for the murder of Detective Gilkinson. The fact that the murderer was a well-known Brockville boy, and a member of one of our best known and most respected families, naturally served to excite more interest here than perhaps at any other point in the country. The news of the arrest was soon made by large crowds.

Of course it is impossible to say just at present what disposition will be made of the body. One member of the family said he thought likely that the remains would be brought here. He will likely go to Pittsburg at once to identify the remains, but no definite decision has as yet been made with reference to their final resting place.

The little girl, whose photograph was found in the hand of the dying suicide, was brought here a couple of months ago by her mother, and is now residing with relatives of the deceased. She is a most interesting, winsome little body, full of childish vivacity, and has found a happy home.

Fitzsimmons told his lawyer his life history. He is a Canadian by birth, the second youngest of a large number of brothers and sisters, his father having married twice and four times. His father and mother are both dead, and the balance of his family are residing at Brockville, Canada. His father was a successful merchant, mayor of the city and school trustee for a number of years. His uncle, William Fitzsimmons, was a member of Parliament for years for the constituency of Leeds and Grenville, Ontario, and is at the present time Past. Master of the Masonic fraternity. He was always well supplied with money. At the death of his father he fell heir to $19,000. He is now the owner of a valuable piece of property at Homestead, Pa.

Fitzsimmons says he followed the avocation of peddling "fake" jewelry for a number of years through the country parishes of Louisiana, and realized a good income from it. About three years ago he went to Pittsburg and secured a country house for himself, his wife and child. There he secured employment in a large mercantile house and finally started in business for himself, selling goods on the installment plan.

Fell Through Business Reverses.

This business proved unsuccessful and he went into the brokerage business, which was also a failure, and he lost considerable money. He became disheartened with his misfortunes, fell from the path of rectitude and became a thief and a burglar. The murder of Detective Gilkinson while attempting to arrest him for a burglary, being the natural end of his career.

He was asked if his wife was a native of Louisiana. He said she was the daughter of an old-time planter, who had died since the war, but whose name he refused to divulge, as he thought it would implicate him in a just now. She was a distant relative of Andrew Jackson.

Mrs. Fitzsimmons is now in Pittsburg jail serving a term for complicity in Gilkinson's murder. The fact of his suicide was communicated to her shortly after her arrest in case. She is in a good physical condition and it is feared an epileptic fit may end her life.

By looking at the quotations of the Virginia tobacco markets it will be found that the highest price paid for "fillers"—which is the tobacco which forms the body of the plug—very closely corresponds with the invoiced price of tobacco leaf imported into Ontario. As over four-fifths of all the leaf imported into the Province is for "Myrtle Navy" stock, this fact is official proof of the claim that the "Myrtle Navy" is made of the finest Virginia leaf.

Serious Fire in the Purdy Block, Front St.

From our own Correspondent.

TRENTON, Feb. 6, 1892.—Fire broke out about two o'clock this morning in the new Purdy Block, Front Street, which caused considerable damage. The fire brigade turned out and stopped what might have been a big fire. As a result, Wm. Rundle's barber shop and billiard parlor, and L.U.C. Titus' law office were gutted, and several of the surrounding merchants' shops were smoked and sprinkled. Loss yet unknown. The fire is supposed to have caught from the electric wires over the doorway of the barber shop. It is said all are insured.

The Mayor has received several communications from parties in reference to establishing canning factories in town.

The Voters in the City Organize for the Campaign.

The interest which is being taken in the East Hastings election by the Conservatives of Belleville was manifested on Saturday night, when the Conservative room on Front street was filled to the door. In the city there are a great many who have votes in the riding, and an organization was perfected in order to bring out this vote. Mr. A. R. Dougall, Q.C., was called to the chair and stated the object of the meeting. Short addresses were delivered by Mr. H. Corby, M.P., W. B. Northrup, Mayor Bogart, Ald. La Roche, Ald. Hay, Ald. Doyle, ex-Ald. Collins, Messrs. N. B. Palmer, R. C. Hulme, John Taylor, J. Quinlan, A. McGinnis, P. Acton and J. F. Wills. After the addresses it was decided to form a central committee and ward committees. Mr. Geo. H. Pope was elected chairman of the Central Committee and Messrs. R. P. Hamilton, A. R. Walker and J. F. Wills secretaries. A number of prominent workers were also chosen for each ward. The meeting was an enthusiastic one and augurs well for the success of Mr. W. B. Northrup.

Meetings in the Conservative interest will be held to-morrow evening in the school house on Kingston Road, near Ald. Lingham's brickyard, on Wednesday night at Canifton, and on Thursday night at Plainfield.

Mrs. Catherine Sharp, of Philadelphia, celebrated her 114th birthday on Saturday.

Rev. Mr. Lindsay and Hunter are holding revival services in Calgary, N.W.T.

Postmaster Shannon, of Kingston, is very ill

The Queen is suffering from a more acute form of rheumatism than usual, and much uneasiness is felt in Court circles.

Hon. Alexander Mackenzie is in a critical condition. No hope is entertained for his recovery. His physicians say he does not suffer pain.

The Robe Case.

Amadee Paquet was this morning brought before County Judge Lasler charge with having, on the night of January 15th, stolen two robes and a pair of gaiter lets from Ald Ponton's cutter. The accused pleaded not guilty. Mr. M. Wright conducted the prosecution in the absence of the County Attorney, who is ill. The case was concluded this afternoon and judgment reserved.

At 2:30 the afternoon Paquet was further charged with stealing a fur coat from the City Hotel at Kingston, the property of Mr. Sloan. The accused brought the coat to the city and disposed of it to a gentleman named Moreau, who resides near the village of Tweed.

Judgment in both cases was reserved until Wednesday at 10:30 a.m.

Halifax Tweed Suits.

Every person knows what Halifax Tweed is, and all know that such a thing as a bad piece has never been known. It takes seven yards to make a man's suit, your trimmings, cutting and cost of making would run it up to $10, as the very least and to $12 if ordered in the regular way. At the Oak Hall they have just received one hundred of these suits, and bought them below regular price. They are well made and well trimmed and we guarantee you a good fit. The price is $6.00 per suit. Boys' sizes, $5.00

Barn Burned.

Mr. Caleb Garrison's barn, in the 7th concession of Thurlow, was destroyed by fire on Monday the 1st inst. The fire was caused by the children leaving a lighted lantern on the barn floor while he was attending to his chores, and a calf getting into the barn, upset the lamp and broke it. The loss amounts to the necessity of farmers having a place to hang up their lanterns while working around their barns. Insured in the Agricultural for $650 on barn and contents.

Get Rid of Neuralgia.

There is no use in fooling with neuralgia. It is a disease that gives way only to the most powerful remedies. No remedy yet discovered has given the grand results that invariably attend the employment of Polson's Nerviline. Nerviline is a positive specific for all nerve pains, and ought to be kept on hand in every family. Sold everywhere, 25 cents a bottle.

Commendable.

All claims not consistent with the high character of Syrup of Figs are purposely avoided by the Cal. Fig Syrup Company. It acts gently on the kidneys, liver and bowels, cleansing the system effectually, but it is not a cure all and makes no pretensions that every bottle will not substantiate.

Y. P. C. A. Bridge St. Church.

Canada's Trade in 1891.

(From the Empire.)

A dip into the Trade and Navigation returns for 1891, which have just been made up and have not hitherto been published in detail, furnishes food for thought and instruction both to the man of business and the political student. Our foreign commerce is one of the indexes of the national prosperity, and forms a very interesting indication of the country's external commercial relations, and our progress in struggling for the trade of the world. It is, therefore, satisfactory to know that in 1891 the aggregate trade of Canada was $218,384,934, one of the highest totals touched since Confederation, and about equal to 1890, and that the exports were $98,447,286, or the greatest in the history of Canada, save those of 1882. The fine showing made by the exports eclipses in interest and importance other features of last year's returns, and some examination of the details will be exceptionally useful now that a large number of elections are voting principally to decide what part Canada shall pursue with reference to a market for her surplus products.

In most, if not all, of the great food staples of the country the outside demand has increased. The cattle trade has now reached the colossal figure of eight and three-quarter millions. Despite the enormous value which our cheese trade has reached, it shows little or no diminution, and though tabular statements of figures are not always the most interesting things to read, it is safe to say that the following will be carefully scanned by every farmer and shipper of produce in the country :

Cattle.....	$ 8,952,185	$ 8,774,769
Cheese.....	10,523,946	10,434,240
Butter.....	626,654	624,440
Eggs.....	1,795,913	1,160,339
Apples.....	994,134	1,300,436
Oats.....	1,884,912	2,032,625
Wheat (all).....	2,394,130	4,102,734
Flour (all).....	661,072	1,466,864

There is not much room for despondency in such a statement, which indicates that the expansions in many of the principal lines of exportable products have been large and profitable. Apparently the farmer, who is primarily concerned, has had plenty to sell and no difficulty in finding a customer.

It is significant that the exports to Great Britain in 1891 exceeded those sent to any other single country by $8,000,000, and were also the largest ever absorbed by the Mother Country since it first began to deal with this country. The value of the British market is thus plainly expressing itself in the strongest figures. Great Britain in 1891 increased her consumption of Canadian cheese from $9,349,731 to $9,481,378 ; of Canadian butter from $184,145 to $440,060 ; of Canadian apples from $835,545 to $1,265,257 ; of Canadian cattle from $6,565,315 to $8,425,396 ; of peas from $1,286,045 to $1,485,348 ; of wheat from $379,893 to $969,134. These are all very satisfactory results. We get a glimpse, also, in these returns of the first beginnings of that transference of trade from the States to Britain which is now in full process of development. As the returns only go down to June, 1891, and take no account of the immense exports to Britain last summer and autumn, the tendency is only in preliminary stages. But it is there. In the fiscal year of 1891 the exports of Canadian horses to Britain grew to $156,254 from $17,926 the year before ; the value of eggs from $63,889 ; the value of barley from $12 017 to $75,225. A lively trade in canned meats is springing up with the same market. The value of these goods sent in 1880 was $107,817 ; in 1891, $227,203. The export of poultry increased from $1,623 to $5,828. Even hay, an article which should not be exported at all, goes to the extent of $159,291, instead of $109,634 in 1890.

In almost every department of Canadian produce we seem to have done a thriving business with the Old Country last year. Except in lumber, the trade in which has been exceeding inactive for a year or more back, but is now recovering, the following compact statement shows increases, and satisfactory ones all around :

EXPORTED TO BRITAIN.

Product of the mine....	$ 636 815 8	815,794
Product of the fisheries..	2 707,422	2 747,882
Product of the forest....	14 098,865	11,148 282
Products of animals.....	18 578,772	19,691,146
Agricult ral products...	3 661,826	5 254,028
Manufactures.....	1,816 147	2,252,293
Miscellaneous.....	5,372	850

There is a world of instruction in this return.

The year seems to have been a good one, also, in mining. The exports of coal rose from $2,467,226 in 1890 to $2,916,465 ; asbestos increased from $444,159 to $513,909 ; copper ore, from $135,010 to $233,888 ; phosphates from $401,327 to $422,200, and silver ore from $291,615 to $238,367. In the returns of 1890 there is no record of any nickel exported, but the value of this famous and valuable ore sent abroad last year was $2,400,000. The value of all the products of the mine exported was $5,977,736, against $5,126,131 in 1890. There is also a notable expansion in the exports of manufactured goods, which were valued at $6,-983,461, as compared with $6,387,064 in 1890, showing a steady increase in this comparatively new department of Canadian products, and evidencing in some liner a very satisfactory development. For instance, the export of organs was $348,522, compared with $291,215 in 1890 ; the export of cottons rose from $308 822 to $459,150 ; that of leather from $727,087 to $868,-802 ; pianos from $38,023 to $52,178, a tendency that indicates excellence in methods of manufacture, and a widening market, extending all over the world.

For the first time in these returns we have the figures so classified that one can at a glance the trade which Canada does with the Empire, and what is done with foreign countries. This new departure is highly to be commended. In these days, when a commercial policy is proposed which would erect a discriminating tariff fence around Canada and cut her off not alone from the rest of the world, but especially from the Empire to which she belongs and which consumes the larger part of her surplus products, it is time to know what the commercial relations are with the English speaking countries that own the sway of our good Queen. It appears, then, that Canada's exports to other parts of the British Empire in 1891 were valued at $53,-357,860, and the exports to foreign countries only reached in value $44,198,-010. As to imports, Canada imported $44,-483,088 worth from the Empire and $68,-862,696 worth from foreign countries. Clearly the best market for Canadian products is the British Empire, from which, however, it is actually proposed by some to separate her by discriminating duties instead of moving in the direction of closer union. The subject is important enough to justify another tabular statement exhibiting the exports from the chief provinces of the Dominion to the British Empire and to foreign countries. It is necessary to take the two central provinces together, because the custom houses of one record much of the other's business :

	To British Empire.	To Foreign Countries.
Ontario and Quebec..	$41,964,706	$26,481,232
Nova Scotia.....	4,467,744	5,207,519
New Brunswick.....	3,320,193	3,943,538

These figures are specially commended to those who prate of "the continent to which we belong."

Finally, turning to the imports for a moment, we may just note in passing that the demand for raw material in 1891 continued to increase, thus indicating activity with our manufactures and work for our artisans. The imports of cotton wool for the factories rose from $3,529,249 to $3,603,185 ; gutta percha for the rubber establishments, from $536,386 to $741,647 ; tin in pigs, from $266,462 to $275,343 ; hemp, from $774,-557 to $864,597 ; tobacco leaf, from $1,-424,231 to $1,617,709 ; hides, from $1,-703,691 to $2,004,449 ; and jute cloth, from $779,380 to $930,981. This year was good for railway construction, because the import of steel rails rose from $2,204,-085 to $3,197,683.

There is nothing in the whole return, which will shortly be laid before Parliament, to warrant the wails of the pessimist or the lamentation of the calamity howler.

Literary Note.

This valuable serial completed, on the 28th of December, 1891 its fifty second half-yearly volume, which meant an existence of 26 years devoted to the promotion and encouragement of all honest mining and manufacturing enterprises, and the exposure and denunciation of every dishonest and crooked transaction. In addition to this, every new invention in machinery, every improvement in already existing machines has been fully described and, where of sufficient importance, illustrated in its pages. The remainder of its contents comprises mining, metallurgical and manufacturing statistics and news, mineralogical and geological descriptions, the properties, proportions and uses of alloys, correspondence from many of the most distinguished metallurgists, engineers and inventors of this continent and of the "Old World," and in short every thing interesting to the miner and the manufacturer, to whom the very advertising sheets are worth many times the cost of the paper.

Love and Marriage in Japan.

Sir Edwin Arnold, who has been enjoying an interesting trip through the United States, has made a careful study of the conditions which govern the family in Japan and embodies his ideas in the paper called "Love and Marriage in Japan" in the February number of the Cosmopolitan. The article is illustrated by the quaintest possible Japanese sketches running down the sides and across the bottom of each page. An excellent photograph of W. D. Howells serves as a frontispiece, and his work as a writer of fiction is reviewed in the same number by H. H. Boyesen. The President of Johns Hopkins University, gives a most practical paper for parents on "Boys and Their Money." Illustrated by cartoons of the famous Attwood. Murat Halstead turns back lovingly to his early farm days, and tells of the "Pets and Sports of a Farmer Boy." The petroleum industry fully illustrated ; An Afghan Story by Archibald Forbes ; The Story of the Brazilian Republic by Adams, late Minister to that country ; and The Leading Amateurs of the United States in photography, are other leading articles of the month.

POLITICAL POINTS

In less than five years, Count Mercier and his court have added more than $12,-000,000 to the permanent debt of the province of Quebec.

The United States has been a falling market for twenty years, whereas Great Britain, within that period, has increased her purchases of farm products from Canada seven fold ! It is the realization of this great truth by Canadian farmers which lies at the bottom of the Liberal defeat all along the line.

Our egg exports to Great Britain jumped last year from 18,000 dozen to 2,269,757 dozen.

BARTRAM'S KNIFE BLADE

IT WAS SUPPLIED TO HIM BY A YOUNG BIGAMIST.

The Governor of Brantford Jail Explains How It Came About That the Alleged Heslop Murderer Had a Knife Hidden to His Boot—Was He Preparing to Commit Suicide?

Brantford, Feb. 8.—Governor Kitchen of Brant Jail, asked what he thought of the item in the papers regarding the piece of knife blade found in Jack Bartram's shoe when he was taken to Hamilton by Detective Greer said :

When Herbert Smith, alias La Murtes, the young bigamist, was arrested we had to put him in the same corridor as Bartram, owing to a lack of room in the jail. Smith's relatives brought his meals to him. They brought a knife and fork. One day when they were going out we discovered that the knife had not been brought out. A search was immediately instituted, and the missing knife found. Always after two and a half inches of the blade was missing, and could not be found. It was a common table knife, and I have it now.

The knife was produced and it was easily seen that it had been broken off. There were marks on the blade showing that it had been used for cutting tobacco.

I do not think Bartram had concealed it with the intention of taking his life. If Bartram wanted to take his life he could find plenty of ways to do so.

T. C. Watkins went to the Central Prison to-day to bring Herbert J. Smith back to this city, where he will have to stand a trial on a charge of embezzlement from the Bell Telephone Company. After his apprehension it was found that there was a deficiency of something like $60.

RAILWAY WRECK.

Kansas City, Feb. 8.—The limited passenger train No. 52 from Chicago bound for Kansas City left Centralia at 6 o'clock yesterday behind time. Before reaching Larabee, five miles west of Centralia, the train had attained a speed of 45 miles an hour. At Larabee the switch of a siding had been left open and the passenger train dashed through it and into a stock train that was standing on the siding. The presence of mind of the engineer doubtless saved the lives of many passengers. When the train passed the switch he put on the air brake and before the engine crashed into the stock train the speed of the passenger train had been materially reduced. The two engines came together with such force that they wedged tightly together. The mail and baggage cars were derailed, but were not wrecked. Two of the stock cars loaded with cattle were demolished and many of the cattle killed. The fireman and engineer of the stock train were instantly killed, and the fireman of the passenger train so severely injured that he died within an hour. The baggage man of the passenger train had his arm broken and the engineer of the passenger train had a leg broken. Not a passenger received so much as a scratch.

A GENERAL OVERCOME

DEAR SIRS,—I suffered from general weakness and debility and my system was completely run down and I found B.B.B. the best medicine I ever tried. I would not be without it for a great deal.

MISS NELLIE ARMSTRONG,
Dublane, P.O., Ont.

EASILY CAUGHT.

Croup, colds, sore throat and many painful ailments are easily caught in this changeable climate. The never-failing remedy is just as easily obtained in Hagyard's Yellow Oil, which is undoubtedly the best of all the many remedies offered for the cure of colds or pains.

Mr. Henry Graham, Wingham, writes us: "For fifteen years I have suffered with Indigestion, and during that time I got nothing to give me relief, although I tried a great many different kinds of medicine recommended for that complaint. I now feel like a new man, and this wonderful change has been accomplished by the use of four bottles of Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery. To me it has been a valuable medicine"

Love never has to be watched to see that it does a full day's work.

Why so limping and whining about your corns, when a 25cent bottle of Holloway's Corn Cure will remove them? Give it a trial, and you will not regret it.

The man who loves most is not the one who tries to keep the most.

The Border Marriage.

A STORY OF THE GREAT GLASGOW BANK ROBBERY.

"Write a line authorizing this man Jason to relinquish her to us," said Philip, "and I will depart for the place instantly."

Lord Eaglehearst wrote the line of authorization suggested, and no sooner had Philip received it than he has eased away to join Charles and Dora at the end of the Lime Walk.

He had reached almost to the spot when he heard loud angry voices proceeding from the neighborhood of the summer house, and on coming to within sight of the front of it, he was astonished to behold Charles and Edgar Eaglehearst struggling violently with each other, and Dora frantically trying to separate them from each other's grip.

This scene of violence needs explanation, and we must show how it came to pass.

CHAPTER XLI.

White Charles and Dora sat together in affectionate communion in the summer house—he with his arm tenderly around her, and she with her head leaning on his shoulder, listening with breathless interest to the wonderful story he had to tell her concerning the discovery which proved Mary Woodford to be the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ravensworth—neither of them perceived the form of a youth, clad in a hunting dress, who came up the slope of the ravine, and was standing gazing at them in astonishment and indignation.

This was Edgar Eaglehearst, a young man whose nature it was to comport himself according to his notions of what became the heir of the Eaglehearst title—that is to say, he comported himself imperiously, haughtily and insolently. He was, in the most offensive sense, an aristocrat—selfish, supercilious, insufferably conceited, possessed of no real manliness, and one who considered himself infinitely superior to "vulgar herd" of his fellow mortals.

In this 'herd,' he had always counted Charles Ravensworth, or, as he styled him, "the base born fellow who had got bestowed on him the name of Charles Ravensworth." He had never been able to get over the amazement produced by the astounding fact that Lord Eaglehearst had consented to the insane proposition of Philip Ravensworth that Dora should become the wife of Charles. This was an arrangement which he could not overturn, but he took no pains to conceal his disgust, and when he came in contact with Charles, never failed to treat him with sovereign contempt. This enmity and spite began long years ago, on the memorable morning when Charles, in the form of a clumbing boy, had descended the chimney of the nursery in London, and Edgar recanted it as the highest disgrace that a low, vulgar wretch of his stamp should have been adopted by Ravensworth,—but above all, that it should be related that he was to be the husband of his sister. His satisfaction was unbounded when the discovery was made that Charles was the son of Huffey Whyte, and that, in consequence, the gulf pured marriage—so hateful and monstrous—was summarily annulled by Lord Eaglehearst. And how his lordly lip curled with disdain when he learned—as somehow he did—that Charles had gone and married the poor schoolmistress, Mary Woodford.

Conceive, then, his state of amazement and rage when on coming to the brow of the slope his eye lighted on Charles and Dora seated so familiarly and affectionately together in the summer-house. At first he could not believe that what he saw was real, but as he stood and gazed, the horrible fact was placed beyond a doubt. Charles and Dora it was, seated there alone in the most familiar attitude, and engaged in a conversation of apparently absorbing delight.

He was paralyzed. A rush of indignation nearly choked him, and, dashing the butt of his gun with force upon the gravel, he gave vent to a vehement oath.

They heard the sound and looked up, as they looked up he strode forward to the entrance of the summer house.

Charles smiled and Dora laughed at the sight of his flaming wrathful face. They knew how in his ignorance he must interpret the nature of the interview, and as they never had any sympathy with his high toned notions, they rather enjoyed his present mystification.

The smile and laugh roused his fury to the utmost, and as Charles rose and emerged from the summer house to meet him, Edgar, thinking he meant to despise him, himself before him.

"Stop!" he shouted. 'You don't leave here. You must answer to me for this.'

'I have no intention of leaving,' returned Charles, with the utmost composure, 'and I hope to be able satisfactorily to answer all that you demand.'

'Answer me satisfactorily?' roared Edgar. 'You well know that is what you can't do. But think not you will escape me. I will defend and save my mother's honor.'

'Edgar, Edgar, talk not so,' cried Dora. 'Charles is in all respects a gentleman—and I am proud to say in thought and feeling more a gentleman than you.'

'Peace, shameless girl!' roared the irate youth. 'I have had sufficient evidence of the extent of his fit honor over me. But if you have forgotten the family honor, it shall be my care to maintain it.'

'The family honor is as safe as safe in my keeping as in yours,' retorted Dora, stung into momentary anger by the vile situation.

'You lie!' hissed Edgar. 'I have seen enough to show me that you have infamously disgraced it.'

'Hold,' cried Charles sternly. 'I cannot allow such words to be addressed to a lady—least of all to this lady.'

'You cannot allow it! And who are you?—the son of a thief, a robber, a convicted and sentenced felon. You, a poor destitute beggar, who was got in your proper place, the gutter, and brought up on charity.'

'Ah!' answered Charles stern and bitterly, 'there is some truth in what you say. I was deserted and abandoned, and I have not forgot that on the day I was rescued from my misery you did your best to murder it. Spiteful even then, you wished me given back to the man who had doomed me to so great a fate.'

'I did!' roared Edgar. 'And nothing do I more regret at this moment than that you were not returned to your proper sphere—the sphere suited to your low and vulgar birth. As a mountebank or a chimney sweep you were in a suitable position, but the pampering you have had from the Ravensworths has made you fancy yourself presumptuous. This crowning act of your audacity, however, shall receive the chastisement it deserves.'

Besides the gun in his left hand, Edgar had a dog-whip in his right, and laying down the gun, he brandished the latter in a manner which indicated his intention to lay it on.

Dora called out loudly to him to forbear and a flash in the eye of Charles warned him to desist.

'Take care,' said the latter. 'If you persist in that sort of thing you will compel me to do what I have no wish to do. For your notions of birth and breeding I have little more than contempt, but I have now to tell you that my birth is not inferior to your own, while my position may turn out to be somewhat better.'

'You cursed, impudent liar,' shouted Edgar, 'take that for your——'

He raised his whip, but ere it could descend Charles had seized his arm in his vise-like grasp.

Dora uttered a wildly agitated scream and rushing towards them, clung to the arm of both.

'Edgar, Edgar,' she cried. 'You do not know what you are doing. If you knew who Charles is, you would understand everything. Be calm and patient and he will explain all.

'If Dora speaks truly,' said Charles, 'I am——'

'A villain, a vagabond,' foamed Edgar, with glaring eyes.

'I tell you, Edgar Eaglehearst, I am as well born as you are.'

'You!—the son of a wretch whom the hangman choked like a dog.'

'No, no,' exclaimed Dora, with passionate vehemence. 'What we have all believed is not the truth. Only be calm and hear it and you will be sorry for this.'

(To be Continued.)

DEAR SIRS,—About a year ago I had a very bad attack of dyspepsia. For nearly four months I never ate a meal without suffering pain after. I had got so weak I could scarcely walk, when one day I saw an advertisement for B.B.B., and thought I would try it. Four bottles cured me completely, and I am now strong and healthy.

BAD, WORSE, WORST.

Cold, cough, consumption, to cure the first and second and prevent the third, use Hagyard's Pectoral balsam, the never-failing family medicine for all diseases of the throat, lungs and chest. A marvel of healing in pulmonary complaints.

Fagged Out.—None but those who have become fagged out know what a depressed miserable feeling it is. All strength gone, and despondency that takes hold of the sufferer. They feel as though there is nothing to live for. There, however, is a cure—one box of Parmelees Vegetable Pills will do wonders in restoring health and strength.

A neglected cough brings on consumption—the most fatal and prevalent of all physical ills that flesh is heir to. To check the malady in its early stage before the seed of tubercles develop themselves in the lung use Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, which also relieves bronchitis, asthma, catarrh, piles, kidney troubles, and soreness of the muscles and joints.

Live as long as you may, the first twenty years are the largest half of your life.

THE EVE OF THE OPENING OF PARLIAMENT.

LONDON, Feb. 9.—A meeting was held at Devonshire House yesterday to elect a successor to Lord Hartington, now Duke of Devonshire, as Liberal Unionist leader in the House of Commons. Mr. Joseph Chamberlain, M.P. for Birmingham, who has long been talked of as the successor of Lord Hartington as parliamentary leader, was formally elected to the position.

Mr. Chamberlain, in a speech, said the Duke of Devonshire would still direct the policy of the party. He maintained his position was that of a Liberal. All the opinions he had expressed throughout the fight for the maintenance of the union he still firmly adhered to.

LONDON, Feb. 8.—Lord Salisbury and Mr. Balfour gave a dinner to their prominent supporters this evening as is customary on the eve of the opening of Parliament.

The Queen's speech, which is exactly as outlined in Friday's despatches, was read to the guests.

Lord Derby and the Duke of Devonshire gave dinners to the dissident leaders and Sir William Harcourt entertained the principal Liberals.

The Era of Reorganization Past.

"The stillness of the Irish political atmosphere just at present indicates, we have reason to believe, the coming, or at least a belief in the coming of a reunion of the factions. The Irish are a little tired and also a little ashamed of continuing a struggle the cause for which no longer lodges in insulæ and calumnies. There is a suspicion that this is due to pressure brought upon the mouthpieces of the faction by their own supporters.

"Whether there is to be permanent peace or not it is too early to state with confidence, but there is at present something in the nature of a truce. And we are rejoiced to believe that the era of bitter personal recriminations is past."

Referring to the recent caucus meeting of the McCarthyites, Mr. O'Connor says:

"We cannot say a gathering more serious, more under control. The speeches were listened to with unbroken attention, and debatable questions were talked over with quiet unanimity and good will. We asked several members the reason for this unanimity, and received from all the same answer—that there was present something in the nature of a truce. And we are rejoiced to believe that the era of bitter personal recriminations is past."

Scotland Yard Detectives Break Up a Spurious Legacy Agency.

LONDON, Feb. 9.—Scotland Yard detectives have succeeded in breaking up the business of one of the most important of the spurious "Claim Agencies" that do business with silly Americans and colonials, who believe these large fortunes have been left them in England, or that they are legitimate heirs of valuable estates now in possession of Englishmen. E. Ross and William Lord Moore are the names under which the head of the concern did business. An enormous number of letters from the dupes of this "agency" were found at the place in Ingersoll-road, which is a small ordinary dwelling house. The modus operandi of its business is interesting.

The dupe first gets a circular informing him that search is being made for a person of his name who died in the waste in Great Britain, or to a fortune in chancery, or to a deposit unclaimed in the Bank of England, and requesting him to communicate with "the European Claims Agency" in New York. If he does so, he gets a response, stating that he is entitled to $1715 and asking that $25 be sent for "Ambassadman who will prosecute the claim. If the $25 is sent that is the end of it.

SAFE FOR A TIME.

The Ill-Timed Comments of the Proprietor of The London Financial Observer.

LONDON, Feb. 9.—W. Perryman, proprietor of The Financial Observer and Mining Herald, who accused Messrs. Bonnard, Deakin and Pulbrook with bribing The Financial News, a rival paper, to support dishonest schemes, and with obtaining $58,000 as "promotion plunder" in connection with schemes for the purchase of properties in Baltimore and elsewhere, was to-day sentenced by Judge North to two months' imprisonment.

AN ELEPHANT'S VICTIM.

Mrs. Major Anson Killed in a Jungle Hunt in India.

LONDON, Feb. 9.—A party were out elephant catching at Garhwal under the charge of Major Anson, superintendent of the Bulrampur State, India, who with his wife was riding a tame elephant, which was attacked by one of the wild elephants and overthrown. Major Anson escaped unhurt, but his wife received injuries which a few hours later proved fatal.

Heavy Costs in Mrs. Parnell's Case.

LONDON, Feb. 9.—The costs in Mrs. Parnell's will suit, which will be tried early in March and involves a sum of £200,000, are heavy. The Attorney-General and Sir Charles Russell receive each 800 guineas as a fee and 200 guineas for reading the manuscript of the opinion in the case. The Solicitor-General has 600 guineas fee and 200 guineas for reading the papers, and fees of a similar character will be given to the other counsel.

London's New Underground Railway.

LONDON, Feb. 9.—The bill has been deposited in the House of Commons authorizing the construction of a new underground electric railroad from Waterloo station under the River Thames to the Baker-street station. The total length is three miles six chains, and the line will cost £900,000, of which the tunneling will swallow up £498,450.

Dangerous Counterfeits.

Counterfeits are always dangerous, more so that they always closely IMITATE THE ORIGINAL IN APPEARANCE AND NAME. The remarkable success achieved by Nasal Balm as a positive cure for Catarrh and Cold in the head has induced unprincipled parties to imitate it. The public are cautioned not to be deceived by nostrums imitating Nasal Balm in name and appearance, bearing such names as Nasal Cream, Nasal Balsam, etc. Ask for Nasal Balm and do not take any imitation dealers may urge upon you. KNIGHTS OF LABOR.

The Knights of Labor aim to protect their members against financial difficulties, etc., Hagyard's Yellow Oil protects all who use it from the effects of cold and exposure, such as rheumatism, neuralgia, lumbago, sore throat, and all inflammatory pain. Nothing compares with it as a handy pain cure for man and beast.

For coughs, colds, bronchitis and all lung and throat troubles, there is no preparation of medicine can compare with Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup. It never fails to afford prompt and permanent relief. It removes all soreness, and heals the diseased parts. It immediately soothes the most troublesome cough, and by promoting expectoration, removes the mucus which stops up the air tubes which cause difficulty in breathing; thereby gives relief to that oppressive tightness experience in the chest. Public speakers and singers will find Bickle's Anti Consumptive Syrup of inestimable value, as it speedily and effectually allays all irritation, and has kisses in the throat and bronchial tubes, and gives power to the vocal cords, rendering the voice clear and sonorous. If parents wish to save the lives of their children, and themselves from much anxiety trouble and expense let them procure a bottle of Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup, and whenever a child has taken cold, has a cough or hoarseness, give the Syrup according to directions.

"LET HER GO!"

Were the Last Words of Murderer McElvaine Before His Electrocution.

SING SING, N.Y., Feb. 9.—Charles McElvaine was electrocuted at 11.26 yesterday. Just as the first current was about to be applied, McElvaine shouted "Let her go!" At that moment the current was turned on and all the sound ceased.

There was a quick convulsive jump of the subject following the application of the current. A livid shadow crept into the hollows of the dying man's face at the sides of the nose, the lips became purple, the wrists were ashen first and then welts of purple color showed around the edges of the straps. Meanwhile the current, alternating 1,200 times each second, was beating at the nerve cells and exhausting the oxygen from the blood corpuscles. There was no movement in any part of the entire frame.

"Close!" commanded Dr. McDonald, and the small lever at the switchboard was pushed back to its place and the current was cut off. The hour was 11.12 49 a.m. The power of 1800 volts of electromotive force had been busy 49 seconds with the life centres of the silent, motionless figure.

Not Dead at the First Contact.

Dr. Ward reached down into the cell on the right side of the chair and was feeling for pulse beats, when from the livid lips of the subject there showed an exudation of mucus and almost at the same instant there came from the throat a broken exhalation of air from the lungs, which had thus expelled the last inhalation of air taken in at the last moment as the condemned man nerved himself for the death stroke.

Then came a shorter gasp, which was cut short in a gurgle by the reapplication of the current, which at the moment was flowing at 1,000 volts and 10 amperes. Quickly there came to the ears of those nearest the chair the sound of a gentle hiss—steam simultaneously curled up from the electrode on the calf of the bared leg. There was no smell of burnt surface, though a few minutes later and after all was over there hung in the air a suggestion of smoke from burning flesh, probably the result of blistering under the heated sponge in the electrode.

"Stop!" again ordered Dr. McDonald and the little lever again cut off the current from the subject.

Dr. Wood again advanced and tested the wrists for possible pulse beats. There were none, showing beyond doubt that the man was dead. There came no more tremor of action anywhere, and when the mask on the purple face was loosened the neck released and the entire frame sank down a senseless substance.

The Body Burned.

When the body was laid upon a table for the autopsy it was observed that there were slight blisters from the heated water in the electrode at the temples; the hands, which had remained completely immersed, were in a degree disfigured on the surface, but the wrists had each a slight blistered ring about them where they had been wet upon immersion, but these had been withdrawn at the convulsion attending the first contact. At the calf of the leg, where the second contact had been made instead of at the hands, there had been something more than blistering, the rigid tightening of the muscles having pressed the sponge dry and heat resulting to singe the surface. The first period of contact was 90 seconds; period of second contact, 36 seconds.

The autopsy demonstrated that McElvaine was thoroughly sane, the substance and the tissues of the brain being entirely normal.

Immediately after the execution Dr. McDonald said that the experiment demonstrated that contacts with the leg and the forehead are the best.

Harris to Die.

NEW YORK, Feb. 9.—Carlisle W. Harris, the medical student convicted of murdering his young wife by morphine poisoning, was to-day sentenced to death by Recorder Smyth. His counsel gave notice of appeal.

Crime in Toronto.

TORONTO, Feb. 9.—Chief Constable Grasett has handed the Police Commissioners his annual report for 1891. The total number of persons apprehended or summoned in the city was 11,196 in 1891 and 11,905 in 1890, a decrease of 1310. A comparison of the tabulated statements for the past two years show that crime of a serious nature declined, and the minor offences also fewer in number.

BELLEVILLE, TUESDAY, FEB. 9

THE BYE-ELECTIONS.

The result of the election contests since the general election, in 1891, show the following:

Won by Lib. Conser's.	Won by Grits.
North Lanark,	Richelieu,
Glengarry,	Lincoln—2.
Richmond, N. S.
Victoria, N. S.
Kingston,
Halton,
Cumberland,
Laval,
Soulanges,
Prin e Edward,
Lennox,
Queens, N.B.—12.

These Counties printed in Italics show gains by the two parties. Richelieu was lost to the Conservative party by a combination of the McGreevy-Connolly and Grit-Rouge influence. This will be the more readily understood when our readers learn that Sorel, in the County of Richelieu, is the head quarters of the Richelieu Steam boat Company, of which McGreevy is the President, and the Connollys large stockholders, employing some 300 men in that town during the winter months. Well, they are welcome to such victories, which the Grits expect to duplicate in Quebec West, by championing McGreevy (vide the Globe of the 6th inst.)

There appears no depth of degradation to which the Grit party will not descend, if they can but win a seat Let East Hastings fall into line with the other Bay Quinte counties, so as to present a solid front against the Laurier-Mercier-Cartwright gang of boodlers. If the honest electors do their duty, there is no fear of the result.

A REPENTANT SINNER.

The Globe is now posing as a moralist of a pronounced stamp and states that it will expose boodling from whatever source it emanates. It is true that "the vilest sinner may return," and we are pleased to have the Globe make some professions of purity, but it will require more than professions to prove its sincerity. It is making the most possible of the fact that it does not exonerate the Mercier Government, but there are evils at home upon which it is as dumb as an oyster.

When Anglin was Speaker of the House, under the Mackenzie Government, his seat was declared vacant on account of corrupt dealings with the Government, yet when he was re-elected he was again made Speaker of the House and subsequently Editor of the Globe, and has been rewarded with a lucrative office under the Ontario Government. Yet the Globe has condoned his misdeeds and still would pose as a moralist.

Later the ballots cast at the last Ontario election for East Hastings were found to have been tampered with, when that pure and undefiled Grit luminary, D. R. Leweas, was returning officer, and when the charge was made on the floor of the House, and a committee asked to investigate, it was refused, and this great purist, the Globe, had nothing to say on the subject. Later on the agent of the Ontario Government, W. T. Preston, went through the length and breadth of Ontario, assessing the appointees of the Government, in order to make a gigantic boodle fund—and in this city with the distinct understanding that what was paid here was to debauch the electors of East Hastings. Yet that purist, the Globe, has nothing to say on the subject.

If it is wrong for a contractor to contribute to an election fund, the sum of the evil can be counted in dollars and cents; but when an employee is compelled to contribute and thus makes a slave of a Government, any mal-administration of his duties has to be winked at, and an evil created that cannot be covered by dollars and cents. But the Globe, in its efforts in the cause of "purity," has winked at this reptile fund, and by its silence gives consent and acquiescence

Ladies appreciate Anti-Dandruff from the fact, that it not only thoroughly removes Dandruff with three applications, but stops falling of the hair, restores fading hair to its original color, and makes it soft and pliable without leaving any indication of a dressing; hair grows—clear as crystal, clean to use, it is a valuable toilet preparation.

A SENSATION EXPLODED,

With the double object, doubtless, of influencing the pending by-elections in Ontario and at the same time helping its friend Mercier in Quebec, the Globe on Saturday threw what it imagined to be a bomb shell at the Conservative camp, but it proved to be only a boomerang, which has flown backward and injured the unskilful thrower and its protegee J. Israel Tarte, Owen Murphy and Robert McGreevy.

The allegations, which the Globe hoped would drive Sir A. P. Caron from public life, were said by the organ to have emanated from the bank director who lives in Montreal, but were probably the work of annexationist Farrer, who has been visiting that city lately and who doubtless obtained his information from Thomas McGreevy, who alone could furnish the documents which are re-produced in fac-simile in the Globe, and who, in consideration therefor, received a thick coat of whitewash from the organ.

Editor Farrer of the Globe has made periodical trips to Montreal during the past fortnight, and the result of his peregrinations is the publication in his journal, Saturday, of 13 columns of sensational letter press and engravings, purporting to be an expose of a gigantic scheme of "boodling on a strictly business-like plan," to which it apparently attaches extreme importance. The author of the expose and the man who furnished the fac-similie letters which accompany it, is described as "a director of one of the leading monetary institutions of the country," but is generally understood to be no other than Uncle Thomas McGreevy.

The digest of the article can be given in a few paragraphs. Thomas McGreevy is referred to as a man who always has enjoyed and continues to enjoy, in spite of what has happened, the confidence and respect of business men. Captain Larkin and the Connollys are also eulogized, but Owen E. Murphy, Robert McGreevy and Israel Tarte are handled without gloves.

DEAR MR. MCGREEVY.—Please give Mr. Tarte $500. ADOLPHE P. CARON.

This bears in the corner Mr Tarte's receipt in the following words:

Received the amount. J. I. TARTE.

MY DEAR MR. MCGREEVY—Give to Mr. Demers the money for Charlevoix. Place the $700 in an envelope and give the $50 to Mr. Demers, Yours, J. ISRAEL TARTE.

Other letters bear the endorsation of Tarte to the receipt of $800 and $800 on Feb. 2; 1887, and the receipt of $40 for Gabriel West, Que., Organization Committee on Feb. 18, 1887.

WHERE CARON IS SAID TO COME IN.

These epistles from Sir Adolphe Caron, then the Minister of Militia, and now Postmaster-General, are among the fac similes furnished by the Globe:

QUEBEC, To the Hon T. M. McGreevy:

Please give bearer under cover, to P. Landry, Esq, one thousand dollars for legal expenses in election of Montmagny,

Quebec, 15th Feb., 87. ADOLPHE P. CARON.

A fac simile of H. Hebert's receipt for the above is published, together with fac similes of requests from Sir Adolphe to McGreevy to pay Hebert $1000 for legal expenses in county of Montmagny; $300 to Tarte for legal expenses in the county of Charlevoix, and $150 to Tarte on February 15, 1887. The receipt of Hebert and Tarte, showing that they received the sums mentioned from Thomas McGreevy, who claims to have been simply the political treasurer of the party, are also published.

An interview with Sir A. P. Caron was all that was necessary to explode this attempt at a sensation and to show how silly the Globe had been in taking "Uncle Thomas" to its bosom and impairing the usefulness of its friend Tarte. Interviewed at Montreal, Sir Adolphe said:

"Yes. I have read in the Gl be the letter from Montreal, which copies of orders given by me on Mr. McGreevy during the election contest of 1887. Those orders were signed by me, and I take full responsibility of giving these amounts to the gentleman named. As stated in the orders they were for legal, or rather, legitimate expenses.

"They were given under the following circumstances: Friends of mine and myself contributed towards the election fund to defray expenses of candidates running in the interest of the Conservative party. These funds I placed in Mr. McGreevy's hands, as I was often away addressing meetings and conducting the campaign throughout the Quebec district, and I have in my possession Mr. McGreevy's receipts for sums larger than the amounts of the orders I gave upon him, so that these orders were not for any money given to Mr. McGreevy from any other source except through me. Several of the candidates were young men who could not be expected to bear the legitimate and necessary expenses incidental to an election contest. I did not know what other funds Mr. McGreevy had, nor the sources from which they came. I had charge of the elections in the district of Quebec. If the examination is made, it will be found that the amount of the orders I gave to pay money to the several candidates were only fair and reasonable. No amount was given unless previously agreed to by the committee who had charge of the said sources. So far as I know this is the plain and unvarnished truth relating to this matter."

Mr. Tarte was also interviewed and said:

"I was sent by Sir Hector Langevin and Sir A. P. Caron, as I suppose a score of other friends were sent, and time of us—I must say that for my Conservative friends as well as for myself—knew at that time that Mr. McGreevy had any connection with the Connollys. When, therefore, the Globe tries to make the whole Conservative party of that time responsible for McGreevy's actions, it is on the wrong track altogether. I am not acting to-day with the Conservative party, but I will not be unfair to them, because, as I say, none of us knew at that time that Mr. McGreevy was perpetrating frauds, for, had I known it, I would not have gone to them at all. The Globe is trying to make people believe that the Conservative party at that time knew that McGreevy and the Connollys were defrauding the public and that we were accomplices with them, that is not true."

The Globe has sold itself very cheaply to Thomas McGreevy. The editor of the organ has nothing now to console himself with but the reflection that he is not the first nor the only one whom that foxy old boodler has deceived.

DEEPENING THE CANALS

IMPORTANT RESOLUTION INTRODUCED IN CONGRESS.

Proposed Opening of Negotiations With the Canadian Government to Deepen the Welland and St. Lawrence Canals —Tributaries to the Commerce of the Great Lakes.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—An interesting report was yesterday submitted to the House to accompany a resolution reported by instruction of the Committee on Foreign and Inter-State Commerce, requesting the President to negotiate with Canada to secure the speedy improvement of the Welland and St. Lawrence Canals so as to make them conform in depth to the standard adopted by the United States for its improvements within the great lakes.

The report says that the great lakes furnish a highway for the interchange of productions that has no parallel in any other country.

No Pent-Up Utica.

Thus far the traffic upon them has been confined almost wholly to the trade with Canada and the internal commerce between the States. The recent development of the untold resources of the great Northwest has, however, made the productions of that region not only a vital part of our internal commerce, but the leading factor of our foreign trade. To facilitate the internal commerce Congress has not hesitated to vote appropriations by millions. Its action in this behalf has met the country's approval. The committee believe that it is equally important to take the proper steps to secure a deep-water outlet for the foreign commerce originating in states tributary to the great lakes. The impracticability of deepening or improving of the Erie Canal so as to admit the passage of ocean-going crafts, the report says, seems to be admitted on all sides. It is hoped that the claims that it is feasible, however, to construct a deep-water canal from Oswego to the Hudson are well founded, but this, the report says, would require many years for its execution and cost from $40,000,000 to $100,000,000.

Pending this the committee think the great interest involved should be served by other means if available.

Available to the Commerce of the World.

Nature has provided an outlet by way of the St. Lawrence River which needs but comparatively little improvement to make the great lakes as available to the commerce of the world as they now are to the internal commerce of the United States and of Canada, and in support of this statement the report quotes from a letter of Col. O. M. Poe of the engineer corps: "This natural outlet Canada has already improved by the construction of the Welland Canal and the series of shorter canals along the St. Lawrence. These canals cover the entire distance where canals are required between Lake Erie and the sea. Their aggregate length is only 70 miles, while the Erie Canal is 363 miles long. The Welland has been deepened 14 feet and in three years the other canals should be deepened if appropriations are kept up.

A Proof of Practicability.

The trip of the "whaleback" Wetmore carrying 80,000 bushels of wheat from Duluth to Liverpool is cited as showing the importance of the work already done. This trip, though experimental, proved remunerative. It demonstrates that with the completion of the improvements now in progress steamers of the size and capacity of the Wetmore can be despatched from the great lakes to any port in the world provided we can use the canals in common with the Canadians. If the canals were further deepened so as to correspond with the new "Soo" Canal Duluth, Milwaukee, Chicago, Cleveland and Buffalo would enjoy all the advantages of seaboard cities with reference to foreign trade.

Using Them Only Through Sufferance.

The report concludes: While we are now enjoying the use of these Canadian canals as the Canadians are ours, we should not lose sight of the fact that such enjoyment is not based on permanent treaty rights, and that the right to such enjoyment may be terminated on two years' notice. President Cleveland's administration claimed that notice of abrogation has already been abrogated, so that we are now using those canals by sufferance only. For these reasons it is deemed important by this committee that appropriate action should be taken by this Government to secure by a fair arrangement with the Canadians the permanent right to use these canals for our commerce in common with and on the same terms as the citizens of that country.

The Time is Opportune.

It also appears to your committee that the present time is exceedingly opportune for urging such action in behalf of the commerce of the great lakes. It is reported that representatives of the Canadian Government will shortly arrive in this city to negotiate with our Government for closer trade relations between the two countries.

OFF TO WASHINGTON.

The Canadian Ministers Go to Interview Blaine on Trade Matters.

OTTAWA, Feb. 9.—At 2 o'clock yesterday Sir John Thompson, Minister of Justice; Hon. M. Bowell, Acting Minister of Customs; Hon. George E. Foster, Finance Minister, accompanied by Mr. Parmalee, Assistant Commissioner of Customs, and Mr. Douglas Stewart, private secretary to the Minister of Justice, who will act as secretary to the delegation, left to-day for Washington by special car by the Canada Atlantic Railway, West Shore and Pennsylvania Railway. A meeting of the Cabinet was held this forenoon to complete the arrangement for the trip, as Mr. Foster did not arrive in time on Saturday to attend the meeting. They met President Harrison and Secretary Blaine on the 10th inst.

The Meetings to be Secret.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—The Behring Sea Joint Commission, consisting of Sir Baden-Powell and Dr. Dawson of Great Britain and Professors Mendenhall and Merrian of the United States, met for the first time to-day at the Arlington Hotel and made preliminary arrangements for a series of sessions on the general subject of the seal hunting industry. These meetings will be held at the State Department, beginning to-morrow, and will be secret.

These meetings are for the purpose of considering the results of the investigations made by the Commissioners independently last summer, with a view to the formulation of a joint report which may be accepted by the board of arbitrators, when appointed, as final on all questions touching the character and extent of the sealing industry.

Meanwhile arrangements are being made for settlement of the question of jurisdiction over Behring Sea by arbitration, and it is expected that a treaty to the effect between Great Britain and the United States will be in shape for submission to the Senate for ratification next week.

Stole the Township Taxes.

PETROLIA, Ont., Feb. 9.—A satchel containing $800, proceeds of tax collections in Petrolea, was stolen from Tax Collector Thomas Steadman on a G.T.R. car Saturday night by an unknown man. The satchel had been left on the floor at the feet of Steadman's daughter, who accompanied him, and was purloined by the thief while she was looking out of a car window.

Death of Grandma Thompson—Aged 105.

WOODSTOCK, Feb. 9.—An interesting character passed away Saturday at Maple Lodge, West Oxford, in the person of Sarah, relict of the late William Thompson, in the 105th year of her age. The death of this centenarian was of course not unexpected, but up to a few days ago Grandma Thompson, as she was familiarly called, was as healthy and active as a woman of 60.

THE NEW YORK FIRE.

NEW YORK, Feb. 9.—The gruesome work of searching for the blackened corpses of the victims of the fire at the Hotel Royal Sunday was kept up unremittingly to-day, and up to midnight the bodies of six victims had been recovered, making the total death list to date eleven.

All the bodies were taken to the Morgue, together with numerous articles that may assist in the identification of the victims.

So far few of the corpses have been recognized. Charles Blake of Stamford, Conn., identified the remains of his sister Sarah, aged 49. A stylishly-dressed woman of dissipated appearance identified one of the bodies as that of an inmate of her establishment, who had left the house in company with Mr. Levy, whose body was found in the ruins. Samuel Sherley, the bell boy at the Hotel Royal, recognized one body as that of Mrs. Lewis, the bookkeeper's wife, and thinks the woman in bed was the one of her husband. The body of Housekeeper Begley was recognized by her teeth.

A steam derrick has been put to work on the ruins and the search will be prosecuted all night by the aid of electric lights.

During the night the trunk of a woman was found near the Fortieth-street entrance to the hotel. It was marked "Body No. 12." The legs and arms were gone and nothing was found near it by which it could be identified. Shortly afterwards the laborers found the foot of a human being wedged in under a piano.

There was found in the ruins a black alligator hand-satchel containing a 100 mile ticket on the Long Island Railroad made out in the name of J. H. May. The name of May is not on the hotel register, but it is thought he may have been one of those who registered under a false name.

Mrs. Hattie VanWorden, wife of H. J. VanWorden, manager of the Royal Worcester Corset Co., was undoubtedly among those who perished. Her husband says she had jewels worth $30,000 in her possession.

Another Hotel Burned.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Feb. 9.—At 9.30 last night the building No. 230 Main-street, occupied by the Brune Saxe Hat Co., was destroyed by fire, which communicated to Leubman's Hotel, probably the finest south of the Ohio River, which was destroyed.

The "Ruby" saloon and a large harness factory and another building were also burned. It is thought no lives were lost in the Leubman Hotel as guests had ample opportunity of escaping before the fire communicated to the hotel.

The loss will foot up in the hundreds of thousands, as the burned portion was the finest building site in town.

Leaped Back Into the Flames.

BERLIN, Feb. 9.—A young lady, her mother-in-law and her three boys perished in a tenement house fire at Baranghassen. The house was occupied by four families.

The mother had a ladder to save herself without the children, but threw herself back into the flames when she saw them burning.

The mother-in-law tried to carry one of the children out in her arms, but was suffocated by the smoke and perished with the rest of the family.

BUCHAREST, Feb. 9.—A first-class carriage attached to an express train bound for Braila was burned last night, and 18 passengers who were asleep when the fire broke out perished in the flames, the doors of the carriage being locked.

Escaped in Their Nightclothes.

GANANOQUE, Ont., Feb. 9.—Fire yesterday morning caused these losses: Grocery store occupied by Robert Fair, loss $1000, fully insured; Robert Leaky's harness shop, loss $1200; building owned by G. Stunden, loss $1700, insurance $1200, and the millinery store and dwelling owned by M. K. Baker, loss $6000, insured for $4100. The inmates barely escaped with their lives in their nightclothes.

Blown Up with the Engine.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 9.—By the explosion of an engine on the Reading Railroad here last night the firemen of the engine, George Reardon, and two unknown boys who were stealing a ride, were killed and five other men injured, one fatally. The cause of the explosion is unknown.

The Baby Burned to Death.

WINNIPEG, Feb. 9.—At Edmonton the residence of J. H. Hamilton was burned to the ground during his absence and his infant children, which he had left there, fatally burned.

A St. John Steamer Lost.

BOSTON, Mass., Feb. 9.—The capsized schooner Patriot has been towed in here. The fate of the crew is unknown, but it is presumed that they were all lost. The Patriot carried about 20 men, including the captain. The vessel sailed from St. John, N.B., Jan. 25, for New York, lumber aden.

By looking at the quotations of the Virginia tobacco markets it will be found that the highest price paid for "fillers"—which is the tobacco which forms the body of the plug—very closely corresponds with the invoiced price of tobacco leaf imported into Ontario. POLITICAL POINTS

A meeting in the interest of Mr. W. B. Northrup, the Conservative candidate for East Hastings, will be held this evening at the school-house on the Kingston road, near Ald. Lingham's brick yard.

Voting takes place in Queen's county, N.S., to-day.

The nomination for the Local House takes place in North Renfrew on the 16th inst. and polling on the 23rd.

It is said that two reports of the Baie des Chaleurs Commission have been handed to the Lieut.-Governor, one signed by Judges Davidson and Baby, very sweeping in its condemnation of the Government and Mr. Mercier, and the other by Judge Jette, exonerating Mr. Mercier personally from all blame in connection with the transaction.

Working for Annexation.

"I believe the time is soon coming when the Liberal party in Canada, which has always wished us well—the party in whose members there is no antagonism to joining us—will represent the country and then overtures can be made, and they will be received—I mean overtures for union. And by union I mean not merely in trade, but political unity—that which will make us one in the heartbeats of our bosoms and the aspirations of our hope." (Applause.)

—W. H. Murray at Boston.

Mr. Wiman briefly replied to the arguments used by Mr. Murray. The speaker urged that if it was desired to loosen the power of England, that end could not be accomplished better than by Canada trading with the United States and ceasing to trade with Great Britain. To very end Mr. Murray wants to accomplish, said Mr. Wiman, will be better accomplished by the plan I propose than by the plan he proposes. (Laughter and applause.)

Theodore Gunyon Meets his Death Whilst En Route to the Shanty.

On Friday last, Theodore Gunyon, of Trenton, a laborer, left that town for the shanties in the vicinity of Gilmour station. On Saturday his body was found near Gilmour, he having been frozen to death. It is thought that he became exhausted, having walked a long distance, and lying down near some bushes, fell asleep, and in this manner came to his death. He was a married man, leaving a wife and 5 children.

The Lingham Gold Mine.

Highly Encouraging Reports of the First Thorough Test.

The first thorough test of the Lingham gold mine, in Belmont, and of the new apparatus for the reduction of the gold-bearing rock taken from it has been made, and the result, as we learn on unquestionable authority, is in the highest degree satisfactory.

The test was the reduction of 110 tons of ore, from which 80 ounces of gold, valued at $1,100, was yesterday shipped to Philadelphia. This gives a yield of $10 to the ton, but there is still a quantity of gold in the mercury and some concentrates that are no doubt very rich. The total yield may safely be placed at about $15 per ton.

The separating process is by far the most successful that has yet been tried on the refractory ores of this region, as but a very small per centage of the precious metal remains in the tailings. Its effect upon the gold mining interests of the district must be highly important.

It is the intention of the proprietors of the mine—as well are they satisfied with the result of the test they have made—to largely increase their plant and prosecute the work on an extensive scale.

Statesmanship Vindicated.

The year 1892 was the period originally fixed for the completion of the Canadian Pacific Railway, but as is well known in that marvellous enterprise, consequent upon the foresight and public spirit of the late Sir John Macdonald, the late Hon. John Henry Pope, Sir Charles Tupper, Sir Leonard Tilley, and other colleagues, was finished in 1886, and since then has surpassed even the hopes and expectations of the most sanguine. Had Parliament refused the loan of $30,000,000 during a grave crisis in the history of the railway, not only the monetary but many other institutions throughout the Dominion, would have collapsed. Happily, the crash was averted, and what followed fully vindicated the policy of the able statesmen of that day. Not only has the Canadian Pacific Railway been in active running order for over five years and a half, but the past year, 1891 promises to yield a gross revenue exceeding $20,000,000, which will enable the company to not only meet all liabilities, but also vouchsafe a dividend on the capital stock! And yet we are told that the Dominion is not progressing!—Citizen.

An article published in the Hamilton evening Times of January 25th, entitled "Knock out that word Steam," has a pertinent significance for every Canadian citizen. The article appeared to be a compilation extracted from the Niagara Falls Gazette of January 16th. "Is dame rumor right?" The most important question to be asked and considered and the one that should interest every Canadian is this vital one, "Is our beautiful park in danger of desecration and destruction?" The bare idea of such a sacrilege as the one mention ed in the article referred to should cause every citizen of this country to protest against such a supposition or possibility. One of the greatest, if not the greatest, charm that Canada possesses is the Queen Victoria Niagara Falls Park. Well may she be proud of this park and the thunder of waters, the sight and sound of which can only be appreciated in this beautiful domain. Do the people consider carefully the purpose for which these grounds were appropriated? Do they consider and realize that $600,000 were expended for the purchase of land and the beautifying of the same for a specific object? Do they appreciate its appellation? Named after the sovereign whose beautiful character is inscribed and engraved in the hearts of her subjects, should not this beautiful park be retained in its present beauty as a synonyme of that character? The Niagara Falls Gazette intimates that an agreement was signed on December 4th between the Commissioners of the Queen Victoria Niagara Falls Park and certain gentlemen representing the right of way in the park. Do the people suppose that these commissioners have the legal right to make such an agreement? A quotation from the Hamilton Times is quite apropos. "Was there not a sacred compact between the Government and the people to preserve this beautiful domain for the purpose originally intended? Are the people of Ontario willing to acknowledge that after taking the initiative in the conception of this grand reservation for the benefit of mankind, that they cannot afford to maintain it without subletting portions of it to railroads and other destroyers of its beauty? Ontario is prosperous and rich, and can well afford to allow her materialism to succumb to the wish of those who desire to maintain this park intact and forever."

This unseemly project arises against its destruction and misuse. That this piece of ground may always remain for public recreation and amusement is the sincere wish, hope, I am sure, of the people of Canada.

A LOVER OF THE PARK.

Eighty-Seven Years Old.

For the Intelligencer.

How time flies; eighty-seven years past and gone. To look back it seems but a short time. When young we look forward to reach our majority in order that we may be free from parental control, yes, even then, we look back and no a how short the time seems, but a child. What a change has come over our Canada in the years of my past life—then almost a wilderness, now teeming with life and activity; then no turnpike or gravel roads, no steamboats, a few schooners, and the St. Lawrence traversed by rafts or small batteaux, no railways. Now, what a change. Batteaux have given place to Durham boats, they in turn to schooners, steamers and railroads, telegraph, telephone, etc.; then, one mail per week from Montreal; now, two mails per day; from England, once in three weeks, now, two or three times per week, besides the ocean telegraph almost hourly. And, yet, some people argue that Canada is going to the dogs.

Who would believe, even fifty years ago, of the steady advances of Canada! Look at her splendid lakes and rivers, her fine canals and railroads, her present commerce as compared with the close of the American war with England and Canada in 1812-15. Canada's rise and progress has been slow, but it is better to be "slow and sure."

Permit me to go back to the days of my boyhood; my recollection is still good from 3 years old. My sister Elsie, who was over a year older than I, was sick. I used to sit by her little bed and amuse her. She did not live long. I had two brothers, Timothy and Shuter—both died young; I also had two sisters, Phoebe and Cynthia; both grew up and were married, but for many years have passed away. I went to school the season I was 3 years old, and continued to go most of the time until January 1815. At present my mind is as strong and memory as good as ever. My eyesight has failed a good deal at times I had the grippe, and here I am at present at the round age of 87,—I trust with a thankful heart to my heavenly Father for all his mercies. Yours, &c.,

BILLA FLINT.

The Timely Invocation of a Parrot Captures a Burglar.

A maiden lady, who lives alone except for her servants, owned a fine parrot which her nephew brought back from a visit to South America, records the Youth's Companion.

The bird was sent to a professional trainer to be taught to speak, but when it was returned it obstinately refused to utter a word, and it was decided that the coaching had been a failure. Polly's cage hung in a dressing room which adjoined its mistress' chamber, and at night the door between the two rooms was left open.

One night a burglar got into the house, and after packing up the silver below stairs, crept stealthily up to the chamber of this lady, whom he suspected to gather together her jewelry. He had got most of her valuables into a handbag without awakening her, when suddenlyan unearthly voice from the parrot's cage cried out loud enough to arouse the seven sleepers:

"God bless our home! God bless our home!"

The burglar was so startled that he dropped his dark lantern, and then, in trying to recover it, stumbled over a chair and pitched headlong into a bureau.

The lady, suddenly awakened, screamed at the top of her voice, and the thief, now thoroughly demoralized, took a flying leap for the stairway outside the door of the chamber. He slipped, fell and broke his leg, so that he was easily captured by the butler and coachman, who had come to the rescue of their mistress.

"God bless our home! God bless our home!"

Polly evidently felt that the time for talking had come, and under the circumstances her mistress could well spare it, out of patience with her, although she screamed this one sentence for the rest of the night. Having begun to talk, indeed, she continued to chatter for the rest of her life, and was looked upon as a remarkably accomplished parrot.

The Globe's Great Blunder.

(From the Empire.)

The charge itself is not the striking and important feature of the Globe's article, but the fact that, in order to make it—such as it is—the Globe, the accredited chief organ of the Opposition, comes out with a lengthy, elaborate and explicit defence of Hon. Thomas McGreevy and the Connollys, a complete vindication of their characters, a generous tribute to their virtues, and a favorable view of their acts and methods.

Surely such a declaration from the Globe is par excellence THE political sensation of the day, as calculated to strike terror into the hearts of all the Grit purists who are now in a state of resentful and scrupulous horror, where is their case? The public are now assured in explicit terms what a pair of unjustly accused are Robert McGreevy and Owen Murphy. Says the Globe authority:

"Of Murphy and Robert McGreevy it is not necessary to speak. They are fugitives from justice—blackmailers and perjurers by their own confession. Yet it is the testimony of these two precious blackguards which forms the basis of the prosecution of Thomas McGreevy and Nicholas Connolly."

Why, it was the testimony of these two precious blackguards which formed the basis of the whole Opposition case last winter, but the Empire was blamed for saying so, and the virtuous indignation of the Grit organs and hatchet-boys because we said these men were utterly unworthy of credence now receives a slap across the face, for it appears that they were even as we said they were—a band of rascals who would have been as much at home in the penitentiary as they were in the bosom of the Opposition. The Empire was then denounced by these purists because, knowing the character of the witnesses accusing them, we refused to join the chorus condemning the accused before the whole evidence was taken, but the whole Grit press and party would have gone wild had we ventured to give such a character to Hon. Thomas McGreevy and the Connollys as the Globe has now given.

EXIT, FRED. FITZSIMMONS

THE BROCKVILLE MURDERER BURIED AT NEW ORLEANS.

The Money in His Pockets Paid For the Funeral, Although Mrs. Fitzsimmons and His Canadian Relatives Telegraphed Their Willingness to Bear the Expense.

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 9.—In No. 307, second tier of the public vaults of St. Vincent de Paul Cemetery, parish of Orleans, lies all that remains of Frederick C. Fitzsimmons. There were no mourners at the funeral, no minister, no flowers, no music but the clinking of the undertaker's trowel. So was illustrated these words from the memorandum book of the murderer and suicide:

Where the Knife Was Concealed.

The instrument with which Fitzsimmons killed himself is what is known by surgeons as a tenotomi. It is very small, but very sharp, and is capable of cutting any of the whole human body without any difficulty. Dr. W. H. Robin, who was the first physician called in to see Fitzsimmons, noticed that the knife had been concealed by Fitzsimmons in his rectum, so that all the usual prison searches in the world would not have revealed its presence. He said that before he left Fitzsimmons he had made an examination in which had convinced him of this beyond doubt.

His Unique Funeral.

As Fitzsimmons' murder of Gilkinson was cold-blooded, his escape from jail bold, his hiding for over four months remarkable, and his suicide nervy and mysterious, so was his funeral unique. Captain Guarneros of the New Orleans police let drop the information that there was $70 cash belonging to Fitzsimmons' prison charges. It was decided to place the remains in a vault, subject to the orders of Fitzsimmons' relatives, there to remain unless they are ordered elsewhere for one year, and then buried.

In this city it is not possible to dig down more than three feet without striking water, and there are few spots hereabouts where even this is possible. The dead are therefore deposited in the vaults of marble or brick above the ground, which are sealed, numbered and suitably inscribed. The cemetery of St. Vincent de Paul is a Catholic institution owned by Mrs. Manuel Suraez. It contains the bodies of many thousands. Fitzsimmons was deposited in the commonest kind of a vault, such as rents for a year at $20. At the end of that time the bones of the deceased are removed, placed in a box and buried in a shallow grave in another part of the cemetery enclosure.

The Last Chapter.

It was 3.30 o'clock when the funeral procession left the doors of the prison. The body had been sewed together, the gashes in the neck closed, and the remains dressed in a neat silk faced shroud, with collar, tie and cuffs of the most approved funeral style. The coffin was of imitation cherry, with imitation silver mountings. Upon the lid was the customary "Rest in Peace," and upon the head a large cross. Four vagrants bore the remains from the hospital ward through the long corridors and down the winding steps of the prison to the hearse, pushed it into place, slammed the door to and then trotted back within the prison walls to finish their 90 days each. The hearse was of the first, tastefully dressed with crepe. The undertaker started off on the two mile drive to the cemetery at a lively pace.

Upon arrival at the cemetery a bricklayer quickly pulled out the loose bricks with which the opening to the vault had been closed, while a dodgcart started away for the mortar box for a barrow of mortar. There was two minutes' delay waiting for this, and then, without a word, a prayer, hymn or benediction, the coffin containing the dead desperado was thrust into the vault. In two minutes more the vault door had been bricked in and the bricks faced with a coating of cement. Somebody remarked that at last Fitzsimmons was in a prison from which no saw could save him and no knife release him, and the funeral was over.

From His Wife and Home.

Just about that time Chief of Police Gaster received the following message from Chief of Police Rose of Brockville, Ont.:

Are you sure it's Fitzsimmons? If so, hold the body and answer me immediately. You will hear from me soon as I get reply. Any expense incurred will be paid by me.

Chief Gaster replied that the body had already been buried properly, but that the relatives could have it if they desired. Later a telegram stating that Mrs. Fitzsimmons would authorize the expenditure of $150 to secure a proper burial was received.

Fraud and Sentiment.

Coroner Lemonnier made an examination of Fitzsimmons' effects this afternoon. Among other things he found circulars of Alice and what is known as a "spiel" dollar. The latter is a bogus silver dollar with a false head side to it, into which the dollar proper fits. An expert in crooked devices like Fitzsimmons could so manipulate the thing when "heads" were described as to win on every throw he made.

The lock of little Lucy Fitzsimmons' hair, wrapped in chamois skin, was opened. About it was a bit of paper, upon which was the following writing by Fitzsimmons:

The world may lose its motion,
Bright heaven may cease to be;
The stars may ruin their ocean,
But I'll never prove false to thee.

The little book also contained many miscellaneous clippings and conclusions on all manner of themes, including Robert G. Ingersoll's eulogy at the burial of his brother. On a boy itself was this in Fitzsimmons' handwriting:

"Is hard to venture where our betters fail,
Or lead fresh interest to a world so stale."

Fake Jewelry and Weapons.

In the valise which the police had found was a lot of jewelry purchased by Fitzsimmons in Chicago and St. Louis. There were two dozen watches, rings, chains, three dozen watch fobs, settings and a great bundle of collar buttons, studs, rings, etc. It was all of the fake gold variety. It was Fitzsimmons' scheme to sell the stuff among the negroes in the Bycu Teche country near here. The bills for the goods showed that they had cost about $150. There were two big Colt's revolvers and the most murderous-looking clasp knife imaginable. This weapon had a blade of fully five inches long, which sprang open at the touch of a spring, and was ground to a razor edge.

The Lawyer Opens the Will.

Fitzsimmons' lawyer, Richardson, opened Fitzsimmons' will, which had been sealed and directed to William and H. Fitzsimmons and David H. Jones, Brockville, as executors. It merely bequeathed his estate to his wife during her lifetime.

Castoria.

"Castoria is an excellent medicine for children. Mothers have repeatedly told me of its good effect upon their children."
DR. G. C. OSGOOD,
Lowell, Mass.

"Castoria is the best remedy for children of which I am acquainted. I hope the day is not far distant when mothers will consider the real interest of their children, and use Castoria instead of the various quack nostrums which are destroying their loved ones, by forcing opium, morphine, soothing syrup and other hurtful agents down their throats, thereby sending them to premature graves."
DR. J. F. KINCHELOE,
Conway, Ar.

Castoria.

"Castoria is so well adapted to children that I recommend it as superior to any prescription known to me."
H. A. ARCHER, M. D.,
111 So. Oxford St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Our physicians in the children's department have spoken highly of their experience in their outside practice with Castoria, and although we only have control over our medical supplies what is known as regular products, yet we are free to confess that the merits of Castoria has won us to look with favor upon it."

CAST ON THE WORLD!

OR,

The Border Marriage.

A STORY OF THE GREAT GLASGOW BANK ROBBERY.

'This lie cannot deceive me. You tell it but to save him from the chastisement I——'

'Yonder comes one, then, who will tell you who I am,' said Charles, pointing to where Philip Ravensworth had just made his appearance at the end of the lime-tree walk.'

Edgar looked around, and seeing Philip so near, let fall the raised arm which held the whip, and Charles relinquishing his hold at the same moment, the young man stood silent, awaiting Ravensworth's approach; Dora inwardly uttering a fervent thanksgiving for his opportune arrival.

'What does this mean?' asked Philip, as soon as he reached the spot.

'It means,' shouted Edgar, 'that I have caught this fellow in terms of familiarity with my sister, and I was about to bestow on him a well merited chastisement. This comes, sir, of your taking him from the gutter, and introducing him to our society. The honor of the family is irreparably injured, and you are the cause of it.'

Philip looked at Charles and Dora and understood the state of matters at a glance. Then his eye reverted with stern gravity to the face of Edgar.

'Young man,' he said, 'you stand sorely in need of a severe lesson, and you are about to receive it. Charles is your brother,—your elder brother, and heir to that title and estate which you have hitherto fancied would be your inheritance.'

Edgar stood for some moments motionless and dumb, then a smile of scornful incredulity came upon his face, and he instantly rejoined——

'This joke might pass with a child or a fool, sir, but I am neither, and I call it what it is—an impudent and unpardonable falsehood, which the respect you owe to your family should have kept you from uttering.'

'The respect I owe to your family,' replied Ravensworth, with a bitter mocking tone. 'But knowing the utter ignorance in which you speak I can pardon your folly. Your insolence and senseless pride, however, belong to yourself, and for these a meet punishment is preparing. I repeat it, Charles is your brother, and heir to all you fancied yours, and if you are presumptuous enough to doubt my word, go to Lord Eagleheart, and receive from him assurance of the truth of what I say. You will find him in the library, in such a mood as may itself convince you.'

Again was Edgar struck motionless and dumb, and could only stare at the speaker in ghastly helplessness.

'This is indeed the truth, Edgar and you will find it so,' said Charles, speaking to him in a kind tone. 'I bear no ill-feeling towards you for what is past, and be sure you will always find me ready to act towards you the part of a brother.'

The wretched youth, beginning now to have a wild dread of the possible truth of what he had been told, cast a bewildered look on the three faces which were bent on him, then started off at a rapid pace along the lime-tree walk towards the mansion.

In less than an hour Philp, Charles and Dora had started in a carriage on the journey to release Lady Eagleheart from the Asylum in which her husband had placed her. Dora insisted on accompanying them and they had not the heart to refuse her. Previous to their setting out, Charles wrote a letter and despatched it by a groom to Singleton Hall, apprising Lydia and Mary of their departure and its object, giving also an outline of their visit to the Grange and relieving their hearts of anxiety by assuring them that a harmonious arrangement of all those matters, which had been so fearfully disjointed, might confidently be looked for.

Ere this letter reached the hands of those to whom it was written, the carriage containing the travellers was several miles from the Grange, and proceeding at a pace dictated by the impatience of its inmates to reach the place of their destination. The thought of the poor sufferer so cruelly immured made them sad and anxious, and minutes seemed hours till they knew her state, and brought her the joy of deliverance.

Dora shuddered, and a sob escaped her at sight of the melancholy place, and terribly anxious were the hearts of all three as they drove up the avenue to the massive door of the building.

At their summons the porter opened the door and from behind him, Jason, the proprietor of the place, advanced so meet them.

'How is Lady Eagleheart?' demanded Charles quickly.

The man started, hesitated, and looked inquiringly. As his eyes lighted on Dora, he noticed the resemblance, and knew she must be her ladyship's daughter.

'For God's sake tell us how she is,' repeated Charles. 'We have come to take her away.'

'Ahem—this—this is very irregular,' returned Jason.

'Not more irregular than the way in which you received her,' said Ravensworth sternly. 'I trust for your sake she is well, for in that case she will go with us, and no further inquiry will be made, but if otherwise the matter will be brought at once before the Home Secretary.'

'I—I acted under his lordship's authority,' replied Jason, in a humble tone.

'This is sufficient,' he remarked.

'Yes, I should think it is sufficient,' said Charles, sternly. 'Now will you answer our question. How is our dear Lady Eagleheart?'

'Well in health,' he answered, 'though not perhaps in the most excellent spirits. I can assure you gentlemen, we have been kind to her, and my wife has done her utmost to make her comfortable.'

'Of that we will presently receive information from herself,' said Charles, as he leapt from the carriage, and helped Dora to alight.

'I will send my wife to prepare her ladyship to receive you.'

'You will do nothing of the kind, sir. Be good enough to show us to her ladyship's apartments at once.'

'Really sir, consider for yourself if that would not be injudicious. As she cannot possibly expect you, your sudden appearance might——'

'I understand. Then this lady alone will first see her.'

To this proposal Jason made no objection. They ascended the stair together, but Philip and Charles remained in the wide corridor on the landing, while Dora followed the keeper to a locked door at the end of the passage.

Selecting one from the bunch of keys he held in his hand, the man opened the door and, standing aside, silently pointed to her to enter.

Dora obeyed, and with a throbbing heart stood within the room.

The light was dim, for the window was high and narrow, but she saw a thin form reclining listlessly on a couch, and tremblingly she approached it.

'Mamma.'

'Dora, oh, heaven, Dora.'

With a great cry of joy mother and daughter were locked together in a speechless embrace.

As pen cannot adequately depict such scenes of holy joy and sacred happiness—as the imagination of the reader can best realize and understand them, we shall not mar the effect by further words of ours. Little by little Dora—whose love prompted the judicious course—communicated her transporting intelligence till her ladyship knew all, and lay at last, with a joy too great for utterance, on the bosom of her first-born son.

That very hour they carried her forth, from her gloomy prison house, where in reality she left behind her the sad suffering experiences of her life, to enter on a freedom and a bliss of love which was aptly symbolished by the light, the radiance and the fragrance of that June day, which filled her grateful senses, and thrilled her whole being with delight.

In due time they reached Singleton Hall, where her ladyship received a warm and tender welcome from other loving hearts, and there ministered to by the deep affection which surrounded her, she speedily recovered from the effects of her incarceration, and experienced a calmness of heart and mind which in the long years of the past she had never known.

DEAR SIRS,—About a year ago I had a very bad attack of dyspepsia. For nearly four months I never ate a meal without suffering pain after. I had got so weak I could scarcely walk, when one day I saw an advertisement for B.B.B, and thought I would try a bottle. Four bottles cured me completely, and I am now strong and healthy.

BAD, WORSE, WORST.

Cold, cough, consumption, to cure the first and second and prevent the third, use Hagyard's Pectoral balsam, the never failing family medicine for all diseases of the throat, lungs and chest. A marvel of healing in pulmonary complaints.

Fagged Out.—None but those who have become fagged out know what a depressed miserable feeling it is. All strength is gone, and despondency has taken hold of the sufferers. They feel as though there is nothing to live for. There, however, is a cure—one box of Parmelees Vegetable Pills will do wonders in restoring health and strength.

A neglected cough brings on consumption—the most fatal and prevalent of all physical ills that flesh is heir to. To check the malady in its early stage before the deadly tubercles develop themselves in the lung, use Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, which also annihilates bronchitis, asthma, catarrh, piles, kidney troubles, and soreness of the muscles and joints.

EASILY CAUGHT.

Croup, colds, sore throat and many painful ailments are easily caught in this changeable climate. The never-failing remedy is just as easily obtained in Hagyard's Yellow Oil, which is undoubtedly the best of all the many remedies offered for the cure of colds or pains.

Mr. Henry Graham, Wingham, writes us: "For fifteen years I have suffered with Indigestion, and during that time I got nothing to give me relief, although I tried a great many different kinds of medicine recommended for that complaint. I now feel like a new man, and this wonderful change has been accomplished by the use of four bottles of Northrup & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery. To me it has been a valuable medicine."

Love never has to be watched to see that it does a full day's work.

Why go limping and whining about your corns, when a 25cent bottle of Holloway's Corn Cure will remove them? Give it a trial, and you will not regret it.

TWO CANADIAN VICTIMS.

A LONDON MAN AND A TORONTO WAYWARD WOMAN

Perish in the Flames of the Hotel Royal, New York—Escaping Out Unrecognizable Bodies—The Bulk of the Bodies Not Yet Discovered—Terrible Scenes.

NEW YORK, Feb. 10.—Tuesday morning Archibald Jacobs of 1215 Broadway visited the morgue and identified body No. 1, taken from the ruins of the Hotel Royal fire, as that of Mrs. J. Cohen of Toronto, Canada, and body No. 4 as that of Louis Levy of London, Ont. Mr. Levy and Mrs Cohen came to this city together from Canada.

Mrs. Cohen, who perished in the fire, was the wife of Mr. J. Cohen, the leading jeweler of 97 Queen-street west. Two years ago last August she eloped with Louis Levy of London, Ont., another victim of the fire. For some time they lived in Chicago, but recently moved to New York, where they met their doom together in the fatal hotel. The family of Mrs. Cohen lives in New York and as soon as her body was recognized her brother sent a message to the deserted husband. Mr. Cohen in response left for New York.

Louis Levy is well known in Toronto as an accomplished ventriloquist and juker player. Last spring he attended the Jockey Club meeting and played the races. Shortly afterwards he went to New York.

Caused by Carelessness.

NEW YORK, Feb. 10.—Fire Marshal Mitchell from investigations thus far made is of opinion that the Hotel Royal fire resulted from the careless use of matches or lighters in and about the elevator.

Quite a number of additional bodies were found to-day. Up to 2 o'clock this afternoon 17 bodies in all had been found. The last three were those of women. In several cases the arms and legs were gone or burned to a crisp, while the heads and faces of others were burned to a crisp.

MRS. OSBORNE'S JOURNEY.

LONDON, Feb. 10.—Dwarf, a society paper, prints an interview with Captain Osborne on the prison boat, and gives the movements of Mrs. Osborne after the celebrated case came to an untimely end.

According to this story Captain Osborne soon discovered the terrible denouement to his wife's case. At the conference held by counsel on the following Saturday morning he directed the proceedings to be abandoned on the same night. Despite the vehement entreaties of his wife that he should let her stay and prove herself up to justice he allowed her, knowing her precarious condition of health, rushed her across the Channel.

They stayed in Paris three days and three nights, where they learned that a warrant had been issued. Captain Osborne therupon lost no time in taking his wife across the Pyrenees. They settled down at a small place not far from Irun.

Had the detectives been fortunate enough to trace them they would have met with some difficulty in their endeavor to capture their prey, for Captain Osborne and his wife were blessed with staunch and powerful friends in the neighborhood of their haven of rest and attempt to execute a warrant in the lady's deplorable state of health would have been resisted by sturdy peasants to the number of over one thousand.

When the return journey with his wife was undertaken Captain Osborne anticipated that he would not be able to complete his painful task, as Mrs. Osborne broke down again in health on more than one occasion, and a premature accouchement, which he feared from the first, appeared imminent.

Mrs. Osborne is now in Holloway Jail. The child is expected in May, and if she is sentenced and committed for perjury it will probably be born in prison.

JACOBITES STILL FLOURISH.

LONDON, Feb. 10.—Yesterday being the anniversary of the death of Mary, Queen of Scots, the remnant of the Royalists made their way to Westminster Abbey. A body of constables met the Jacobites at the entrance to the north channel and announced that admission to the royal chapels would be refused.

It was then decided to form in procession and march to the large iron gates leading to the royal chapel. A lineal descendant of Robbie Anderson, who led the forces of Prince Charlie at Prestonpans, headed the band.

The Marquis de Ruvigny placed a floral tribute on the spikes of the gate leading to the royal tomb, with this inscription:

"In memory of the martyrdom of Mary of England, Scotland, Ireland and France, Queen, from a league of Jacobite Legitimists."

GLADSTONE ON MANNING.

LONDON, Feb. 10.—Mr. Gladstone, in a letter on the late Cardinal Manning, says:

"My relations with Manning were very peculiar. At first they were those of a mere acquaintance between two undergraduates, and lay wholly on the surface. Then came a close and intimate friendship of 15 years, founded chiefly upon interests in religion and the church.

"Then came his change, simultaneous with that of my dear friend, Hope Scott, which was altogether the severest blow that ever befel me. In a late letter to me the Cardinal termed it a quarrel. My reply said it was not a quarrel, but a death. That was truth.

"There had since been vicissitudes, but I am quite certain that to the last his personal feeling never changed, and that he kept his promise, made in 1851, to remember me before God at the most solemn moments."

Quite a Nap.

BERLIN, Feb. 10.—A lance named Latus, living at Mydowitz, Russian Silesia, has just awakened from a sleep that had lasted for four months and a half. During this period his limbs were rigid, but now he appears to have completely recovered and his cataleptic rigidity has vanished.

The Elder May Be Saved.

LONDON, Feb. 10.—Capt Leister, inspector of the North German Lloyds Steamship Company, yesterday said he was hopeful of saving the stranded steamer Elder.

Praying for Pardon.

Several workmen's unions have sent a petition to the Queen Regent to pardon the condemned Xerxes Anarchists.

Two of the condemned men have confessed to a priest and expressed remorse for their deeds.

BAD ECZEMA ON BABY

Our little boy broke out on his head with a bad form of eczema, when he was four months old. We tried three doctors, but they did not help him. We then used your three CUTICURA REMEDIES, and after using them eleven weeks exactly according to directions, he began to steadily improve, and after the use of them for seven months his head was entirely well. When we began using this head was a solid sore from the crown to his eyebrows. It was also all over his cheeks, most of his face, and small places on different parts of his body. There were sixteen weeks that we had to keep his hands tied to the cradle and hold them when he was taken up, and for the keep mittens tied on his hands to keep his fingernails out of the sores, as he would scratch if he could in any way get his hands loose. We know your CUTICURA REMEDIES cured him. We feel safe in recommending them to others.

Dangerous Counterfeits.

Counterfeits are always dangerous, more so that they always closely IMITATE THE ORIGINAL IN APPEARANCE AND NAME. The remarkable success achieved by Nasal Balm as a positive cure for Catarrh and Cold in the head has induced unprincipled parties to imitate it. The public are cautioned not to be deceived by nostrums imitating Nasal Balm in name and appearance, bearing such names as Nasal Cream, Nasal Balsam, etc. Ask for Nasal Balm and do not take any imitation dealers may urge upon you. For sal , all druggists or sent post-paid on receipt of price (50c and $1.) by addressing Hor & Co. Brockville, Ont.

KNIGHTS OF LABOR.

The Knights of Labor aim to protect their members against financial difficulties, etc., Hagyard's Yellow Oil protects all who use it from the effects of cold and exposure, such as rheumatism, neuralgia, lumbago, sore throat, and all inflammatory pain. Nothing compares with it as a handy pain cure for man and beast.

For coughs, colds, bronchitis and all lung and throat troubles, there is no preparation of medicine can compare with Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup. It never fails to afford prompt and permanent relief. It relieves all soreness, and heals the diseased parts. It immediately soothes the most troublesome cough, and by promoting expectoration, removes the mucus which stops up the air tubes which cause difficulty in breathing, thereby gives relief to that oppressive tightness experience in the chest. Public speakers and singers will find Bickle's Anti Consumptive Syrup of inestimable value, as it speedily and effectually allays all irritation, and hoarseness in the throat and bronchial tubes, and gives power to the vocal cords, rendering the voice clear and sonorous. If parents wish to save the lives of their children, and themselves from much anxiety trouble and expense let them procure a bottle of Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup, and whenever a child has taken cold, has a cough or hoarseness, give the Syrup according to directions.

Our heaviest burdens are those we borrow.

Do you feel as though your friends had all deserted you, business calamities overwhelmed you, your body refusing to perform its duties, and even the sun had taken refuge behind a cloud? Then use Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery, and you will return and declare with thousands more, Mr. R. H. Baker, Ingolds, by, writes: "I am completely cured of Dyspepsia that caused me great suffering for three years. Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery is the medicine that effected the cure after trying many other medicines."

Much doing is not so important as well doing.

Fever and Ague and bilious derangements are positively cured by the use of Parmelee's Pills. They not only cleanse the stomach and bowels, from all bilious matter, but they open the secretory vessels, causing them to pour copious effusions from the blood into the bowels, after which the corrupted blood is thrown out by the natural passage of the body. They are used as a general family medicine with the best results.

The man who doesn't believe in God lives that way.

A. M. Hamilton, Warkworth, writes,—"For weeks I was troubled with a swelled ankle, which caused me much pain and annoyance. Mr. Mayhee, of this place, recommended Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil for it. I tried it, and before one bottle was used I was cured. It is an article of great value."

Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator is pleasant to take, sure and effectual in destroying worms. Many have tried it with best results.

SAVED BY THE SNOW.

Snow Makes it Easier to Convey Food to the Distressed Russians.

ST. PETERSBURG, Feb. 10.—Little is now heard here of the famine. Heavy snows have fallen, a strong crust has formed and goods and grain may be conveyed in sledges to any part of the Empire. Much grain has already reached the famine-stricken provinces, and according to the reports received here the condition of the sufferers has much improved.

It is the general opinion here that the distressed provinces will now be enabled to hold out until spring.

SPURGEON'S REMAINS.

The Crowd Break Up the Wooden Case of the Coffin for Relics.

LONDON, Feb. 10.—From 7 o'clock yesterday the body of the late Rev. Charles H. Spurgeon has been lying in state in the Metropolitan Tabernacle. An enormous crowd was waiting for the doors to open and as soon as they were permitted the throng began to move past the coffin. Thirteen thousand persons had viewed the body before 11 o'clock. The coffin is covered with palm branches.

The coffin was originally inclosed in a wooden case, and when it was taken to the train that was to convey it to London this case was taken off. It was broken to pieces, and the crowd eagerly seized upon the bits of wood and carried them off as relics.

Mrs. Frank Carew Divorced.

LONDON, Feb. 10.—Miss Edith Chester, the actress, to-day obtained a divorce from Frank Carew, with the custody of her children. Carew treated her badly, and on one occasion struck her. He was, moreover, found guilty of infidelity.

Miss Edith Chester is known here as a former member of Rosina Vokes' Comedy Company, when she went under the name of Miss Leslie Chester.

HESLOP MURDER.

BRANTFORD, Feb. 10.—Thomas Young and his wife, who are witnesses in the Heslop murder case, have both been very ill with la grippe.

The Heslop residence remains as it was on the night of the murder. The basket upon which Mr. Heslop's head rested when his wife and daughter reached him, after his life had been taken, is still in the same spot, and nothing will be touched until after the trial is concluded.

The Lottridge family feel confident that John Lottridge will be released on the day of the trial. Mr. Thomas Lottridge, father of the accused, is a very respectable man and feels the position of his son very keenly.

Whatever the defence proposes to set up they are doing it in a manner that the prosecution cannot gain any information about it.

An Iron Pole Pierced His Body Through.

CHICAGO, Feb. 10.—In the delirium of fever Joseph Polacek sprang from his bed yesterday and leaped through the window. He fell upon an iron fence, some of the poles of which pierced his body through, entering the right side just above the hip. People passing in the street released him, but after writhing in agony ten minutes he died.

Purify The importance of keeping the blood in a pure condition is universally known, and yet there are very few people who have perfectly pure blood. The taint of scrofula, salt rheum, or other foul humor is heredited and transmitted for generations, causing untold suffering, and we also accumulate poison and germs of disease from the air we breathe, the food we eat, or the water we drink. There is nothing more conclusively proven than the positive power of Hood's Sarsaparilla over all diseases of the blood. This medicine, when fairly tried, does expel every trace of scrofula or salt rheum, removes the taint Your which causes catarrh, neutralizes the acidity and cures rheumatism, drives out the germs of malaria, blood poisoning, etc. It also vitalizes and enriches the blood, thus overcoming that tired feeling, and building up the whole system. In its preparation, its medicinal merit, and the wonderful cures it accomplishes Hood's Sarsaparilla is Peculiar to Itself. Thousands testify to its success, and the best advertising Hood's Sarsaparilla receives Blood is the hearty endorsement of its army of friends. Every testimonial we publish, and every statement we make on behalf of Hood's Sarsaparilla may be relied upon as strictly true in every respect.

If you need a good blood purifier or building up medicine, be sure to take Hood's Sarsaparilla. Further information and statements of cures sent free to all who address us as below.

MR. BLAKE'S CONDEMNATION.

Our local contemporary has quoted the Hon. Edward Blake in condemnation of the N.P. Well, if Mr. Blake is good authority against the N.P. he must be at least equally good as an authority in opposition to the policy which his party is now advocating, his disgust with which caused his retirement from public life.

In his letter to the members of West Durham convention, dated Feb. 6th, 1881, Mr. Blake pointedly condemned unrestricted reciprocity in these words:—

"The tendency in Canada of unrestricted free trade with the States, high duties being maintained against the United Kingdom, would be towards political union; and the more successful the plan, the stronger the tendency, both by reason of the community of interests, the intermingling of populations, the more intimate business and social connections and the trade and fiscal relations amounting to dependency, which it would create with the States; and the greater isolation and divergency against Britain which it would produce; and also, and especially, through inconveniences experienced in the maintenance and apprehensions entertained as to the termination of the treaty.

"Our hopes and our fears alike would draw one way. We would then, indeed, be looking to Washington.

"Assuming that absolute free trade with the States, best described as commercial union, may and ought to come, I believe that it can and should come only as an incident, or at any rate as a well understood precursor of political union, for which, indeed, we should be able to make better terms before than after the surrender of our commercial independence.

"Then, so believing—believing that the decision of the trade question involves that of the constitutional issue, for which you are unprepared, and with which you do not even conceive yourselves to be dealing—how can I properly recommend you now to decide on commercial union?

"Do not suppose that these are, with me, questions of yesterday.

"Long ago, while leader of the Liberal party, it became my duty to examine into a similar design, submitted by a political architect of some reputation.

"I thought the foundations insecure, the lines defective and the estimates of cost inadequate.

"It seems to me that the proposed structure could only be erected on that different foundation, those other lines and that largest cost which has been described.

"For this it was conceded that the people were not then prepared.

"And I was unable to propose the design for adoption as a party plan.

"My views remain unchanged to-day."

ASSUMING A VIRTUE.

The local Grit organ assumes the virtue of detecting and denouncing electoral corruption. In its issue of Monday, it declares that the burial of disloyalist Platt was brought about by the most corrupt means. Here is an extract from its tirade:

How then was the contest in Prince Edward won? By the lavish use of money and whiskey. It is known that liquor was dispensed at the Point in limitless quantities. It is known that it was distributed all through the county, and more especially in Ameliasburgh, where I X L flowed like water. In the city of Belleville right adjoining the market square, there was a whiskey den where whiskey and beer was kept, and from which, after the election, a load of kegs and bottles were carted away. This was kept especially for the benefit of the Prince Edward electors, kept up by the Tories of Belleville, who went out from this infamous den to go upon the platform to preach political purity, to denounce the corrupt acts of Mercier, to shout about loyalty, which is disgraced by its advocates, to wave the old flag, which is soiled and contaminated by their touch, to cry "God save the Queen," from mouths unfit to utter her name; using the symbols of purity, using the unsullied flag of England to cover their nefarious acts, and trying to divert attention from their infamous tactics by hiding behind our pure and noble Queen.

But these bombastic praters of loyalty—strictly for revenue only of course—did not depend on whiskey only. They spent money with an unsparing hand and boasted that they had $12,000 for that constituency.

"Unsullied flag of England" is good, and the words are the only true ones in the article; for there were no thanks due to Platt and his heelers that it had not been hauled down, preparatory to being replaced by the stars and stripes. There was no whiskey den in Belleville, no flow of I.X.L. in Ameliasburg, no spending of $12,000 or boasting of spending that sum or any other amount for corrupt purposes in Prince Edward.

Following this characteristic introduction, our virtuous contemporary proceeds:

Now the means that were employed in Prince Edward will also be attempted in East Hastings. The Tories of Belleville openly boast that they have $10,000 for that riding and do not scruple to state on the streets that they intend to buy the victory for Mr. Northrup, and money and whiskey will be passed around there as freely as in Prince Edward. The advice has been given electors to take the money and then vote as they choose. But the Tory manipulators are up to all the tricks of the trade and propose to obviate that difficulty. They state they will not buy men to vote for the Tory candidate; they will simply bribe them to stay at home and not vote at all. They can then see that they earn their money and they will tell them that if they offer to vote they will be sworn.

It waxes eloquent over the imaginary $10,000 bribery fund, harangues the electors on their duty in the premises, and concludes with the following turgid rubbish, which is really too amusing to be allowed to escape the notice of our readers:

This "brawling brood of bribers" will assuredly infect the riding between now and election day and will put forth their efforts to buy you like sheep in the shambles. Can they do so? We have enough faith in the intelligence, the patriotism, the manly principles of the sturdy farmers of East Hastings to believe they will repel all such attempts, and will meet the insulting approaches of the would-be ravishers of honest citizenhood and moral principle with a warmth of stout boot and supple whalebone that will send them howling back again to their dens.

How the men of the white horse expedition, the bribers of last year, who are now being forced to pay their notes, the ballot markers, the ballot box stuffers and other Grit rascals who have in the past operated in East Hastings and are preparing to operate again in the pending contest will smile to themselves at this virtuous outburst from their organ. They thoroughly understand that its denunciation of bribery is not intended to apply to others than Tories, and that it is simply an attempt to find an excuse for pending defeat.

Talk of corruption from such a source is the rankest of hypocrisy. If our contemporary wishes to get credit for sincerity, it must first denounce the rascals in the party which it supports, including those above referred to in East Hastings; Preston and his aides in West Hastings; the employers of the dark lantern brigade, the mysterious stranger, the sheep buyer, the cattle buyer, and the men who left money on the lumber piles in Lennox; the bribers in Prince Edward, who were convicted and imprisoned, and their sympathizers who honored them at an oyster supper on their release from gaol; the come-along-John men in London; the ballot box stuffers in Jacques Cartier and the other scoundrels who have assisted in making the following record in the election courts for the "party of purity", as compared "with the Tory corruptionists":

	Grits.	Cons.
Members unseated 1874-87..	54	34
" " 1891 ..	28	14
	82	48

The record of personal corruption by candidates is:

	Grits.	Cons.
Members disqualified........	8	1

Such is the record of the courts. And yet Grits prate of their purity and Tory corruption!

"It leads them all," is the general reply of druggists when asked about the merit of sales of Hood's Sarsaparilla.

Our Trade in Brief.

The Hon. George A. Kirkpatrick, M.P., has prepared a brief and convenient sketch of our trade during the last six months of 1889, the year before the enactment of the McKinley Bill; for the same period during 1890, the year during which the measure passed; and for a similar time last year, which we have pleasure in reproducing from the Kingston News. It also includes a capital statement showing the exports of agricultural products and animals and their products during the same dates.

Statements of the exports confined to produce of Canada:

July 1 to December 31, 1889—Total exports, $55,843,594; imports $57,475,923. Exports agricultural produce, $6,854,726; animals and their products, $17,756,831.

July 1 to December 31, 1890—Total exports, $55,843,594; imports, $57,475,923. Exports agricultural produce, $7,951,158; animals and their products, $19,272,954.

July 1 to December 31, 1891—Total exports, $62,332,726; imports, $54,643,298. Exports agricultural produce, $13,425,868; animals and their products, $20,393,475.

It is thus evident that the country as a whole has not suffered from the effects of McKinleyism and that no reason exists for the pessimism of an unpatriotic Opposition.

IMPERIAL PARLIAMENT

OPENED WITH THE CUSTOMARY FORMALITIES.

The Speech From the Throne—The Death of the Young Prince—Local Government for Ireland of the English Local Government Pattern—A Land Bill.

LONDON, Feb. 10.—Everything was in readiness for the opening of Parliament when day dawned. The House of Commons had been swept and garnished, sulphur burned to drive out influenza microbes, Guy Fawkes searched for in the cellar and wigs, gowns and court suits had been brushed up for their last appearance in the Parliament which is on its last legs.

Not a single one of the leaders who filled the public eye last session is present to-day. Parnell and Smith are in their graves, Hartington has gone to the House of Lords and Gladstone will appear a little later.

Many a member whose face was familiar has disappeared during the last six months. One is in jail, and another is to be expelled almost as soon as the House meets.

There is something ghastly about Parliament in its sixth year. All the fire and spirit have gone out of it. We seem to be walking over the ashes and the spirit of the dead. It reminds one of the blood-curdling song which they say the British regiment on the Gold Coast used during the ravages of yellow fever, when men dropped out of the ranks of the living every day. It had for chorus, "Three cheers for the dead already and one for the next who dies!"

One by one this very winter Mr. Gladstone has seen his contemporaries swept away by the Dark River. He is like one of the last of the small group of survivors at the Waterloo banquets which the old Duke of Wellington gave until the vacant places at the table became so numerous that it was a heartbreaking affair to see the anniversary come around. The spectres at the feast scared away the handful of guests.

The interest of the aristocrats, especially the largest portion of this class, was centered in the House of Lords where the Earl of Dudley, noted for his skill as a gentleman rider, was selected to make his maiden Parliamentary effort by moving the address in reply to the Queen's speech.

The Queen's Speech.

There was a general buzz of conversation in the Commons until Black Rod called the Commoners to the bar of the House of Lords to hear Her Majesty's speech read. The Lord Chancellor read the speech as follows:

MY LORDS AND GENTLEMEN,—I am persuaded that you have deeply participated in the terrible sorrow which has afflicted me and my family in the loss at a moment when the prospects of his life appeared happiest of my dearly beloved grandson, Prince Albert Victor, Duke of Clarence and Avondale. It has been a solace to us in our grief to have received from all classes and conditions of my subjects, from all parts of the Empire, as well as from foreign countries, most touching assurances of deep sympathy under our grievous affliction and the expression of their affectionate regard and appreciation for the dear young Prince, whom they have lost by this great calamity.

My relations with other powers continue friendly. I have lost in the Viceroy of Egypt a loyal ally whose wise government had, in the space of a few years, largely contributed to restore prosperity and peace to his country. I have entire confidence that the same sagacious policy will be followed by his son, who has been named his successor in accordance with previous firmans by His Imperial Majesty the Sultan.

An agreement has been concluded with the United States defining the mode in which the dispute as to the sea fisheries in the Behring Sea shall be referred to arbitration.

Zanzibar has been established as a free port by the Sultan with my concurrence. I trust this measure will conduce both to the development of the Sultan's dominion and to the promotion of British commerce on the East African coast.

GENTLEMEN OF THE HOUSE OF COMMONS,—The estimates for the public service of the ensuing year will be laid before you. They have been prepared with due regard to financial economy.

MY LORDS AND GENTLEMEN,—Proposals will be laid before you for applying to Ireland the general principles affecting local government which have already been adopted in Great Britain. I trust it may be possible to consider provisions as to English local government which, for want of time, it was necessary to omit from the bill.

Measures for increasing the number of small holdings of land in agricultural districts in Great Britain will be submitted for approval.

You will be asked to consider a bill for extending the advantages of assisted education to Ireland for other purposes connected with elementary education in that country.

A scheme for modifying the existing system of procedure on private bills, so far as it affects Scotland and Ireland, will be brought before you.

A bill will be laid before you for relieving public elementary schools in England from the present pressure of local rates.

Proposals for improving the discipline of the Established Church in regard to moral offences, for enabling accused persons to be examined on their trial, for revising the existing agreements between the Government and the Bank of England and for amending the law with respect to the liability of employers for injuries incurred in their employment will also be commended to your attention.

I pray that Almighty God may guide you in the performance of your weighty functions.

Many Ladies Present.

A large number of ladies filled the three back benches in the House of Lords and the strangers' gallery in that chamber was also crowded with ladies who desired to see the formal opening of the session. All the ladies were attired in mourning out of respect to the late Duke of Clarence and Avondale.

After the Queen's speech had been read in the House of Lords and the House of Commons they adjourned until 4 o'clock.

When the House of Lords re-assembled Lord Salisbury, the Prime Minister, presented to the peers the new Duke of Devonshire, Lord Hartington, who then took the oath as a member of the House of Lords.

The chief interest after the reassembling of Parliament was centered in the House of Commons, where the popular members as they entered and took their seats were welcomed with hearty cheers. The Rt. Hon. Arthur J. Balfour, the successor to the late Rt. Hon. William Henry Smith, Government leader, received a prolonged ovation from his supporters and friends.

W. L. Jackson, the newly-appointed Chief Secretary for Ireland, was loudly cheered as he took his seat.

John Henry Maden, the Gladstonian who was elected to succeed Lord Hartington (Liberal-Unionist) as member for the Rossendale division of Lancashire, was cheered by the Opposition when he entered.

George Lambert (Gladstonian), who in the South Molton division of Devonshire turned a Liberal-Unionist majority of 1600 into a minority of 1200, came into the House for the first time as a member for that constituency. He received an enthusiastic welcome from the Opposition benches.

Mr. Balfour gave notice that he would introduce the Irish local government bill and that he would move on Thursday next that Edward DeCobain, member for East Belfast, who is a fugitive from the country, be requested to attend the House on Tuesday, Feb. 23. The notice of Mr. Balfour leads to the inference that steps are to be taken shortly to expel DeCobain, who is charged with a heinous crime, unless he returns to England.

The Newfoundland Troubles.

When the House of Lords met subsequently to adjourn, the Earl of Kimberley (Liberal), formerly Secretary of State for the Colonies, expressed surprise that the Queen's speech made no reference to the dispute between Great Britain and France in regard to the claims of the latter country in Newfoundland. Parliament, he declared, ought to obtain an explicit and early statement of the position of affairs. The Earl said he concurred in the tones of the speech in its references to the loss sustained by Her Majesty and the nation in the death of the Duke of Clarence and Avondale.

Salisbury on Ireland.

Lord Salisbury said that the absence of special reference in the Queen's speech to the order and prosperity prevailing in Ireland showed the confidence of the Government in the country's fitness for local self-government. The fact that an Irish Local Government Bill was proposed implied that conditions now prevailed in Ireland which justified the Government in giving that country extended powers of local control.

With regard to Egypt Lord Salisbury said that after the sacrifices Great Britain had made in connection with that country he believed that England would never surrender its supremacy there to another power.

Replying to the criticism of the Earl of Kimberley regarding the absence of any reference to Newfoundland in the Queen's speech, Lord Salisbury said that the present settlement of the question was not due to the action of the Government, but to the people of Newfoundland themselves.

The address in reply to the speech was then passed by the House of Lords.

Harcourt in the Commons.

In the House of Commons Mr. Hodge moved the adoption of the address in reply to the Queen's speech.

Sir William Vernon Harcourt said it was his first duty to express the sympathy of the Opposition for the Royal Family in the loss sustained in the death of the Duke of Clarence and Avondale. Next he said the Opposition recognized the merits of Mr. Balfour as the new Government leader in the House, and added, he believed that Mr. Balfour would always sustain the honor and privileges of the House of Commons.

Balfour Replies.

Responding to Sir William Vernon Harcourt, Mr. Balfour made reference to the death of the Right Hon. William Henry Smith and said he desired to walk in the footsteps of that admirable leader of the House. Sir William, Mr. Balfour stated, had distorted the meaning of Lord Salisbury's remarks in his Exeter speech. The proposals of the Ministers granting an extension of local government, as well as an education measure to Ireland, would show that the Government had confidence in a Catholic majority. He hoped that Sir William's silence on the other topics in the Queen's speech indicated that the debate on the address in reply would not be prolonged.

By looking at the quotations of the Virginia tobacco markets it will be found that the highest price paid for "Hilers"—which is the tobacco which forms the body of the plug—very closely corresponds with the invoiced price of tobacco leaf imported into Ontario. As over four-fifths of all the leaf imported into the Provinces is for "Myrtle Navy" stock, this fact is official proof of the claim that the "Myrtle Navy" is made of the finest Virginia leaf.

AMELISBURG, Feb. 10.—While a crowd was assembled in the Methodist church last night, attending a tea meeting, fire was discovered issuing from the house of Samuel Simonds. The meeting broke up in confusion, and the crowd started to the scene of the disaster, but too late to save anything, excepting a piano containing several notes. The entire contents were consumed. Rev. J. B Stratton and wife, who had put up there for the night, lost an overcoat and two satchels, with their contents, valued at $50; Mr. Simonds' loss $1 200 Ipsurance not known. Cause of fire unknown.

A Lively Runaway.

Dr. Gibson's Team Plunge Into the River—One of the Animals Injured.

A runaway occurred on Church street this morning which might have resulted in a fatal accident, but fortunately no one was injured. Dr. Gibson and his boy were driving down the hill on Church street just below the Public school when the horses became unmanageable and ran away. The occupants of the vehicle were thrown out but were uninjured. The team continued on in their wild career, in the direction of the river at the foot of the street. Although a fence is up on the bank of the stream, the horses did not mind this, but smashed through it and were precipitated to the river, a distance of eight or ten feet. One of the animals, a valuable one, had the misfortune to break its neck in one of its hind legs. The other was slightly cut. The injured animal was taken to the stables of T. N. Foster, veterinary surgeon, and the fractured limb was bound up and an effort will be made to save it. The vehicle and harness were not damaged.

On motion, the Board went into committee of the whole on reports, Mr. Tennant in the chair.

The report of the finance committee was passed, and the sum of $400 was added, to be placed to the credit of the printing and supplies committee for the purchase of wood.

Painful Accident.

Ex Ald. J. G. Vanduzen was yesterday afternoon the victim of an accident which will confine him to the house for some time. He was in the vicinity of the G.T.R. station and jumped upon a sleigh for the purpose of riding down to his office on Front street. Shortly after getting on the sleigh it slewed to one side and Mr. Vanduzen, in order to save himself from being thrown off, seized a barrel which was aboard. He pulled it off and fell to the ground, the barrel falling upon his right leg, breaking it near the hip. He was conveyed to his home and Drs. Farley and Nash reduced the fracture, which was a serious one. Being an elderly person, it will be time before Mr. Vanduzen will be able to be around again.

Three ladies were knocked down but were fortunate enough to escape injury. The figures done to the animals and sleigh were slight.

Rev. H. B. Patton, B.A., spent last week in Prescott.

Councillor Geddes spent last week in Hillier.

Several new machines are being placed in the terra cotta works, and two larger boilers are being put into the cedar mill.

Both political parties are organizing for the contest on the 20th. Last night the Conservative committee rooms were packed. W. B. Northrup and a large number of the principal men of the town were present. Upon Mr. Northrup's departure about 200 citizens accompanied him to the depot. It is quite apparent that Mr. Northrup's majority will be largely increased over that of last March. Unrestricted reciprocity is very much alive here.

The First Shot Fired.

A Large and Enthusiastic Meeting Held on Kingston Road.

The first meeting of the campaign in East Hastings was held last evening in the interest of the popular Conservative candidate, Mr. W. B. Northrup. The school house on Kingston road, near Ald. Lingham's brick yard, was filled, a large number being compelled to stand up. Ald. Lingham was in the chair, and in addressing the position, explained the object of the meeting. Mr. H. Corby, M.P., was the first speaker and gave an address which was replete with information, showing that Canada has prospered under the National Policy. At intervals the speaker was loudly applauded. An able address was also delivered by Ald. Mikel. An invitation was given to any person who wished to speak on behalf of Mr. Aylsworth, the Reform candidate, but it was not accepted. The last speaker was Mr. Northrup, who upon ascending the platform was loudly applauded. He spoke for one hour, explaining in a clear manner the policy which he was supporting, and which policy he proved conclusively was in the interest of this young and prosperous country. He spoke encouragingly of the campaign and appealed to his friends to work until the 20th inst., and victory was assured.

At the close a vote of thanks was tendered to the chairman and cheers given for the Queen and Mr. Northrup.

POLITICAL POINTS

A meeting in the interest of Mr. W. B. Northrup, will be held this evening at Canifton.

A Handy Reference.

The Perpetual Ready Reference Guide to the Inland Revenue Laws of Canada, compiled by F. K. Bisch, of the Inland Revenue Department, just issued, is meeting with much success. The work contains the titles of chapters of the Revised Statutes of 1886, and all subsequent, amending, repealing, cognate and new Acts, with a column of references to all previous Acts from which the Revised Statutes are consolidated. It is neatly bound in linen, is compact and is calculated to do away with much tedious hunting over volume after volume for amending and repealing Acts. It has been highly recommended by leading lawyers, members of Parliaments and judges, and will, no doubt, fill a long felt want among all who have anything to do with the Statutes of Canada. A similar guide to the Statutes of Ontario, now in course of preparation will be ready by the 1st of March. The price of the "Guide" is $1. It is the intention of the compiler to issue an annual slip containing the Act of each successive session, arranged as in this book (to be pasted in) which may be had by enclosing a ten cent piece to the above address.

Cartwright and Discrimination.

Opposition speakers have the curious audacity to claim at times that free trade with the States can be obtained without discrimination against the Mother Country. Apart from the gross folly of this attempt to play upon that electoral gullibility which exists to some extent in Canada as well as elsewhere, we have the clearest statements from the party leaders that such action is essential to the policy.

Upon the public platform they are afraid to speak plainly, but Mr. Laurier, before the merchants of Boston, and Sir Richard Cartwright, in the House of Commons, when speaking to clear headed men who understood the real issue at stake, made no attempt to disguise the fact. Witness Sir Richard Cartwright's deliberate statement (Hansard Report, page 155, March 14, 1889):—

"It has been made a grave ground, it has been attempted to be set up as an insuperable ground of objection that when you propose to enter into a treaty for unrestricted trade with the United States you must thereby, of necessity, discriminate against English manufactures and the manufactures of all other countries except the United States. * * I admit frankly that when a semi-independent state proposes in one breath to tax the goods of the parent state and admit the goods of a foreign state free, while at the same time the parent state admits our goods and the goods of other countries free, and the foreign state taxes the goods of the parent state very heavily, it is a very unusual thing indeed. I grant that it is clean against all formulas. * * *

"Let me say what is obvious to everyone who has given the subject a second thought, that in our peculiar geographical position towards the United States it is perfectly apparent that we cannot hope to gain free and unrestricted reciprocity except with them without discriminating against the goods of other countries, unless and until the United States are prepared to go in for free trade with all the world, in which case our proposition would not be necessary. The thing, I grant, is of the essence of the bargain. I am not, in the least, desirous of concealing the fact."

Here, then, we have it from Sir Richard Cartwright's own lips, in the course of delivery of a carefully prepared speech in the House of Commons, that discrimination against the country that is at this moment defending us against the aggression of the United States, discrimination against that section of the United States, is not only involved in the policy advocated by Sir Richard Cartwright, but "is of the essence of the bargain" he proposes to negotiate.

Will loyal Reformers continue to support such a policy? Mr. Blake says no; Mr. Mowat says British connection is the first issue; and the overwhelming majority of Canadians believe in a United Empire, and not in the United States. What will the loyal element in the Opposition do?—Empire.

American Mortgage Statistics.

The United States Census office has issued extra census bulletins containing results of the investigation of the real estate mortgage indebtedness in Alabama, Kansas, Illinois, Iowa and Tennessee. During the ten years 1880 to 1889, the mortgage business transacted to incumber the real estate in these five States is represented by 1,974 050 mortgages to secure a debt of $2,000,602,077 on 137,398,161 acres and 1,550,857 lots.

According to real estate mortgage debts of $906,660,526 has been found bearing interest rates varying from an average State rate of 6 per cent. in Tennessee to 8.64 per cent. in Kansas, and subject to an interest charge for one year amounting to $67,505,629. In the seventeen counties in which the objects of indebtedness were ascertained, from 34.81 to 91.32 per cent. of the debt was incurred to secure purchase money, and to pay for improvements, invest in business, and to buy various articles of personal property, when not combined with the above objects.

The Superintendent of the census considers that in a country whose resources are becoming utilized as rapidly as those of the United States it is no surprising that mortgage debt is increasing. An attempt has been made in the bulletin to compare this increase, or a decrease where found, with the increase of population, and to establish the ratio of incumbrance to the estimated true value of real estate. A decline of nearly 1 per cent. appears in the average rate of interest paid on the mortgages made during the ten years covered by the investigation.

In Iowa and Kansas, we observe, some progress has been made towards a reduction of the aggregate of mortgage indebtedness. The number in force in Iowa was reduced between 1886 and 1890, by some 8,000, viz. from 260,000 to 252,000, and the total amount remained nearly stationary during these five years, fluctuating between $191,000,000 and $199 000,000. Kansas, beginning in '86 with 193 000 mortgages amounting to $134,000,000, had increased them by 1889 to 333,900, covering $260,000,000. But in 1890 these figures show a sensible diminution, being reduced to 298,800, covering $243,000,000.

Illinois also exhibits in 1882 a climax of average amount of debt incurred to each individual of total population. There was a decline from 1882 to 1884, and then a constant increase to 1890. In 1885 and subsequently the average of 1882 was exceeded. Iowa had a climax in 1883, the average of which year was not equalled by that of any other. From that year the decline was constant to 1886, after which year there was an increase, on the whole, to 1889.

Unlike the other three States, Kansas' debt, in relation to its population, shows a constant and strong tendency to increase to 1887, and then to decline to 1889.

The Cattle Market.

The Montreal Stock Yards company report the trade for the week as follows:—

There is little if any improvement in the cattle market, the supply being far too much for the demand, more particularly of medium class and inferior cattle, a number of which remain unsold. There was a good demand for sheep and lambs, best prices being 4c. for sheep and 4½c for lambs. Live hogs were ½c higher, small choice lots reaching 5c. Fair supply of calves. We quote the following as being fair values:

—Cattle, butchers' good, 3½@4c; do. medium, 3c@3½; do. culls, 2½@2½c. Sheep, 3½@4c. Hogs, $4 80@5. Calves, $3@$7.

A RACY CASE REPORTED FROM ST. CATHARINES.

Swore on His Wedding Day and Objected to His Wife Singing at Church Concerts. Another Fatal Coasting Accident—Mother and Baby Burned to Death.

ST. CATHARINES, Feb. 10.—Before Judge Senkler yesterday the suit of Samuel of Muir v. Muir, an action brought by Mrs. Alberta Muir, wife of Mr. John A. Muir of Port Dalhousie, for the recovery of her daughter, Gladys, a child of about 2 years of age, now in the possession of its father.

Before any evidence was taken Mr. Osler asked if all charges were withdrawn and hygiènes treated as such would Mrs. Muir return to her husband.

Mrs. Muir emphatically said no, adding that she was afraid of him; further, that she did not care for him at all.

Mrs. Muir was then sworn and gave her evidence at great length. They were married in 1883 and the child was born in 1889.

The trouble originated in the first place about church matters, the husband being a Presbyterian and the wife an Episcopalian.

Kicked Her Out of Bed.

Witness then stated that his abuse consisted in twisting her arm, pulling her hair, threatening to strike her, which he did with a soap dish, and also kicked her out of bed. She did not constantly refuse to submit to him, but wished not to have any more children. She locked herself in her bedroom alone and kept the window open so she could escape if he broke the door. He once slapped her face.

Objected to Her Little Pleasures.

She had a good voice and was fond of singing. When married she was a member and industrious. She was a very domestic man—and appears to be an affectionate father, but he objects to her little pleasures, such as singing in church.

She was horrified to hear him curse the day upon which he was married. He tried to force her to go to his church and used terrible words. Gladys was born. On another occasion, in presence of Miss Crane, he threw a goblet of black currant jelice in her face and threatened to hit her with a jug.

Wanted to Go to Singing School.

Mr. W. Muir, father of the defendant, was examined by Mr. Bykert and gave some general evidence, showing the first difficulty arose between them over church matters. He was in a hearing about their domestic troubles and had not visited their house in two years. He was not aware that Gladys was an ill-tempered man, but like all other men he would not be nagged at or provoked without reason. She always complained that he did not give her money or take her into town often. Soon after her marriage even wanted her husband to send her to a Boston music school.

The case was enlarged for a week.

Whether Wilfully or Accidentally a Coroner's Jury Will Determine.

Coasting Accident.

A lad named Harris yesterday afternoon was coasting on Meyers' hill when he met with an accident which may cripple him for life. He was going down the hill with others on a pair of bobs when he fell off and the sleigh ran over the left foot, causing a compound fracture to the ankle. Drs. Walker, Gibson and McColl attended the young sufferer. The fracture is a bad one, the ankle bone being splintered.

EASILY CAUGHT.

Croup, colds, sore throat and many painful ailments are easily caught in this changeable climate. The never-failing remedy is just as easily obtained in Hagyard's Yellow Oil, which is undoubtedly the best of all the many remedies offered for the cure of colds or pains.

Mr. Henry Graham, Wingham, writes us: "For fifteen years I have suffered with Indigestion, and during that time I got nothing to give me relief, although I tried a great many different kinds of medicine recommended for that complaint. I now feel like a new man, and this wonderful change has been accomplished by the use of four bottles of Northrup & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery. To me it has been a valuable medicine"

CAST ON THE WORLD!

OR,

The Border Marriage.

A STORY OF THE GREAT GLASGOW BANK ROBBERY.

CHAPTER XLII.

CONCLUSION.

Thus ends our story of the Border Marriage—ends not wholly in peace and joy, but surely in harmony with the mortal conditions of this mortal life. End in perfect and unclouded happiness it could not, for, not to bear in mind the fact that its personages are, on the close, life beneath the sky which overhangs the vale of tears, we have to consider the elements of character and features of conduct which brought about the incidents we have narrated. These were, many of them, of a kind which must in the nature of things leave traces of pain and sorrow behind them. They sprang from the vicious indulgence of depraved wishes and desires; they had their outcome in such terrible wrong doing, and though wrongs may in time come to what we call righted, their effects cannot entirely be blotted out, but must remain as residuum of suffering still, and remembrances of past departures from rectitude which no effort and no regret can annihilate.

Therefore, our story at its completion leaves its characters not unscathed by the fierce fires through which they have passed. Yet are the happiness and peace to which they have come of large measure and great sweetness. And very wonderful are they as results when we think of the manifold evils out of which they have issued—evils beyond which we had no right to look for a happy deliverance, and from which such an amount of good would never have flowed if a good providence did not rule over the doings of men, making their very wrath to praise Him, and saving as He sees best the victims of oppression from the evils of the lot to which wicked men have wickedly doomed them.

We seldom in the course of our story writing stop to moralize as we go along. We rather wish the reader to feel the good and the great, the right and the true, the pure and the holy, than to see that we are laboring to inculcate them. It is not amiss, however, at the conclusion, when we can see the beginning from the end—through all the intervening events—to take note of certain leading truths which conspicuously show themselves.

Wonderful is the dependence of events! Out of one act what a host of other acts flow! See how this Border Marriage with all the train of occurrences which follow sprang from the deed of one man—a deed which was an interference with the ordinations of Heaven, and therefore sure to entail dire effects. The uncle of Philip Ravensworth and Lord Eaglehart had an antipathy to matrimony, and carried his opposition to it so far as to desire that his nephews should in this matter be like himself. He even sought to force them to be so by bribery on the one hand, and a threat of punishment on the other. He left a will which led Lord Eaglehart into temptation; therefore he is justly to be considered the primary author of all the evil which followed. But this does not justify Lord Eaglehart. His conduct was most foul, unnatural, and iniquitous.

Nor was Lady Eaglehart blameless. Her error lay in consenting to the concealment of the Border Marriage, and here defrauding Philip Ravensworth of the estates. At all hazards she should have braved her husband's opposition and declared the truth. She weakly yielded to the pressure he put upon her, but in view of the result, we cannot find it in our hearts to be very hard upon her. Dearly—oh, very dearly!—did she pay for her complicity with his lordship's sin. Dreadful was the suffering which it brought upon her. If a human heart could expiate its errors, surely Lady Eaglehart made expiation for this one she committed.

And now do our readers wish any further information concerning those whose actions and fortunes have been for some time interesting them? After the return of Lady Eaglehart to the current of their lives ran as smoothly and pleasantly as it possibly could do after such occurrences. The happiest of them all was probably the cheery, warm-hearted James Woodford, who will be better remembered as Tobby Sprat. He lived with his friends at Singleton Hall till a good old age, and attended the children of Charles and Mary with as much love and devotion as he had shown to their parents when, as the helpless little things called Charlie and Myra, he was their sole guardian and protector. He was upright, kind, hopeful and cheerful to the last, and he strove to imitate his Divine Master in acts of Christian charity and mercy.

Charles is now Lord Eaglehart, his father having departed this life a few yr re after that last memorable interview with Philip Ravensworth at the Grange. We wish we could say that he repented and became a changed man, but the cold mortification made him gloomy and morrose, and thus he continued to the end.

Of Edgar Eaglehart a better report can be given. A commission having been purchased for him, he entered the army, and there finding his level, his heart grew wider and more generous, and he lived to deserve and win the esteem and affection of his family and his friends.

Of the rest we shall say nothing further than that Charles and Mary, as Lord and Lady Eaglehart, did not, in their prosperity and elevation, forget the lessons of patience and humility which they had learned by the hardships of their youth. As they had been true and upright in the midst of their trials, so they were able, through the same Divine strength, to carry their full cup up even, and to discharge with fidelity the duties of the high station to which they had been elevated.

Of Philip and Lydia, of Lady Eaglehart and Dora, we have nothing particular to report except this, that they fully shared in the happiness which was shed with such radiance over the Grange and Singleton Hall.

We must not lay down our pen forget ting that this is also a story of the great Glasgow Bank robbery, the perpetrators of which were so strangely untied up with the experience of our hero. We have, therefore, in conclusion, to mention the fate of Jim Mackouli.

Immediately after the civil trial the verdict of which was given against him, he was indicted to stand his trial before the High Court of Justiciary, for the robbery of the bank, and of this capital offence he was convicted, and condemned to be executed. The sentence, however, was not carried into effect. He was reprieved, first for a month, then during his majesty's pleasure, for what reason it would be rather difficult to say. We have also no means of knowing whether it was intended that the sentence should ultimately be carried out, for the authorities were saved all practical decision on the matter by the death of Mackouli, which took place in the prison by the close of the year. Few men better deserved the gallows. He was, there is every reason to believe, the murderer of Begbie, the bank porter, whose foul and unexplained assassination made such a profound sensation in Edinburgh in 1805, and besides the gigantic robbery of the Glasgow Bank, he was principal and accomplice in many other burglaries, both in England and Ireland.

Mrs. Reynolds clung to him to the last, visiting him as frequently as she was allowed, and defraying at long h the expenses of his funeral. Some time after his death, a parcel was mysteriously transmitted to the authorities of the Bank, which when opened was found to contain the entire residue of the stolen notes which had not been recovered. No evidence was afforded of the author of this unexpected restitution, but it was generally conjectured that it was Mrs. Reynolds, the only name by which she was known to the outside world.

Poor, lost, wayward, wilful and abandoned creature, she was not without a kind of faithfulness in her nature; but oh! what a woefully misspent life was hers. Of her end no one knew. She retired into the murky gloom of her dismal London life, and was lost to earthly view forever.

Very true are the words of the Wise Man "The wicked worketh a deceitful work, but to him that soweth righteousness shall be a sure reward."

THE END.

ATTACKED BY AN ENEMY.

DEAR SIRS,—About a year ago I had a very bad attack of dyspepsia. For nearly four months I never ate a meal without suffering pain after. I had got so weak I could scarcely walk, when one day I saw an advertisement for B.B.B., and thought I would try a bottle. Four bottles cured me completely, and I am now strong and healthy.

MISS JANET STUART,

BAD, WORSE, WORSTS.

Cold, cough, consumption, to cure the first and second and prevent the third, use Hagyard's Pectoral balsam, the never failing family medicine for all diseases of the throat, lungs and chest. A marvel of healing in pulmonary complaints.

Fogged Out.—None but those who have become fogged out know what a depressed, miserable feeling it is. All strength is gone, and despondency has taken hold of the sufferers. They feel as though there is nothing to live for. There, however, is a cure—one box of Parmelees Vegetable Pills will do wonders in restoring health and strength.

A neglected cough brings on consumption—the most fatal and prevalent of all physical ills that flesh is heir to. To check the malady in its early stage before the dead y tubercles develop themselves in the lung, use Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, which alone annihilates bronchitis, asthma, catarrh, pain, kidney trouble, and soreness of the muscles and joints.

Live as long as you may, the first twenty years are the largest half of your life.

COLONIAL FREE TRADE

INTRODUCED IN THE BRITISH COMMONS.

The Government Declines to Terminate the Treaties Hindering a Preferential Inter-Imperial Trade—Negatived Without Amendment.

LONDON, Feb. 11.—In the House of Commons last night Mr. Lowther offered a motion in favor of renouncing the 5 treaty of nation clause in treaties with Belgium and zollverein countries in order to enable the establishment of preferential commercial relations with the colonies.

Sir Michael Hicks-Beach, President of the Board of Trade, replied that the Government was disposed to go a great way to establish a real zollverein with the colonies, but the proposal was impossible without sacrificing portions of treaties highly beneficial to Great Britain. The motion was negatived.

A Disappointment to Colonists.

The debate on Mr. Lowther's motion to terminate the treaties hindering a preferential inter-imperial trade was very disappointing to the friends of the Colonial free trade movement.

Sir Michael Hicks Beach was led by the avowed protectionist nature of the speeches of Mr. Lowther and Howard Vincent (who adopted an openly hostile attitude on behalf of the Government. He said he would go a long way to secure a commercial tariff for the whole empire, but this miserable substitute would injure Britain without doing the colonies any good. The Dominion Parliament proposed no definite scheme to the British Government. The advocacy of the idea was based upon the unguarded expressions of public meetings, "overflowing with sentiments which we cordially share," viz., affection between England and her colonies. With all respect to Canada England is a better judge of the requirements of the commercial relation of this country even than the Canadian Parliament. This was not the time to move for a revision of treaties.

The debate then soon collapsed. Mr. Lowther declined to withdraw his amendment, but the Liberals would not permit it and it was then negatived without division amid cheers and laughter.

LONDON, Feb. 11.—Sir Charles Tupper says he has seen the arbitration clauses in the fisheries sea agreement with the States, and that they are perfectly satisfactory to Canada, and the British Government has expressed the confident hope that the sealers of British Columbia will receive at no distant day ample satisfaction for injuries received.

The Arbitrators Named.

In the House of Commons this afternoon James Lowther, Parliamentary Secretary of the Foreign Office, said that Great Britain and the United States had agreed that France, Italy and Sweden should act as arbitrators of the Behring Sea dispute.

Mr. Lowther added, however, that Canada would be consulted before the award had been agreed upon they had not as yet been asked to appoint the arbitrators. Great Britain and the United States, he said, would each have two representatives before the Arbitration Commission.

In reply to an interpellation regarding the dispute with France concerning Newfoundland, Mr. Lowther said he was afraid that the bill passed by the Newfoundland Legislature owing to the absence of the delegates who had come to England in connection with the negotiations with France regarding Newfoundland. The French Government, he added, had not yet presented the agreement to the Chambers for ratification.

Confirmed at Washington.

WASHINGTON, D.C., Feb. 11.—The Department of State yesterday confirmed the report from London that Great Britain and the United States had agreed to invite the Governments of France, Sweden and Italy each to designate a person to serve as a member of the tribunal to be established for arbitrating the Behring Sea controversy. This tribunal will have seven members, two representing the United States and two Great Britain and three representing neutral governments.

Have Proven of Immense Benefit.

LONDON, Feb. 11.—The British Board of Agriculture has scheduled Denmark on account of cattle disease, almost closing London cattle markets for fear of the contagion. Experts say that had the Canadian Government yielded as they nearly did to repeated solicitation for relaxations against States cattle entering Canada Canada's position would now be much less secure. Mr. Jacob Wilson, who controls the Board of Agriculture, is keenly protectionist and loses no chance for using the cattle regulations to exclude the live stock interests coming in the British markets. Even The Times says the incident suggests whether the prohibition of all live foreign animals should not be absolute as in Canada. Seeing this, the friends of Canada are asking whether the Government should not insist upon a strict enforcement of the quarantine against States cattle in British Columbia. It is said to be unsafe to leave even this door for disease open.

Anglo-Canadian Trade.

LONDON, Feb. 11.—British exports to Canada decreased 25 per cent. in January, imports from Canada increased 35 per cent. Wheat, fish and wood imports have largely increased.

A Startling Leprosy Rumor.

QUEBEC, Feb. 11.—L'Evenement makes the alarming statement that there is a suspected case of leprosy in Montcalm Ward, the sufferer being a man who has led a very hard life, and whose flesh first turned black and then fell off and is now dropping off in pieces. The health officer is unable to find any trace of such a case and believes the report to be a canard.

Will Lose all His Limbs.

GEORGETOWN, Ont., Feb. 11.—John Allen of the Scotch Block got his hands and feet badly frozen. His physician found it necessary to amputate both hands. It is probable that the feet will have to be amputated also.

To Prevent Cramping.

LONDON, Feb. 11.—The British Chamber of Shipping has adopted a resolution in favor of Great Britain negotiating a convention with the United States to prevent "cramping" and destruction of British sailors in American ports.

The Power of the Press.

OTTAWA, Feb. 11.—Hon. J. A. Ouimet has granted the Press Committee room of the House of Commons for the approaching meeting of the Canadian Press Association.

Australian Ministry Resigns.

MELBOURNE, Feb. 11.—The ministry resigned to-day. Hon. William Shiels, formerly Attorney-General and Minister of Railways, is forming a new cabinet.

Dangerous Counterfeits.

Counterfeits are always dangerous, more so that they always closely IMITATE THE ORIGINAL IN APPEARANCE AND NAME. The remarkable success achieved by Nasal Balm as a positive cure for Catarrh and Cold in the head has induced unprincipled parties to imitate it. The public are cautioned not to be deceived by fraudulent imitating Nasal Balm in name and appearance, bearing such names as Nasal Cream, Nasal Balsam, etc. Ask for Nasal Balm and do not take any substitute. Many others may urge upon you. For sale by all druggists or sent post-paid on receipt of price (50c and $1), by addressing HAY & CO., Brockville, Ont.

KNIGHTS OF LABOR.

The Knights of Labor aim to protect their members against financial difficulties, etc., Hayyard's Yellow Oil protects all who use it from the effects of cold and exposure, such as rheumatism, neuralgia, lumbago, sore throat, and all inflammatory pain. Nothing compares with it as a handy pain cure for man and beast.

For coughs, colds, bronchitis and all lung and throat troubles, there is no preparation of medicine can compare with Hickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup. It never fails to afford prompt and permanent relief. It removes all soreness, and heals the diseased parts. It immediately soothes the throat troublesome cough, and by promoting expectoration, removes the cause which stops up the air tubes which cause difficulty in breathing thereby gives relief to that oppressive tightness experience in the chest. Public speakers and singers will find Hickle's Anti Consumptive Syrup of inestimable value, as it speedily and effectually allays all irritation, and lubricates the throat and bronchial tubes, and gives power to the vocal cords, rendering the voice clear and sonorous. If parents wish to save the lives of their children, and themselves from much anxiety trouble and expense let them procure a bottle of Hickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup, and whenever a child has taken cold, has a cough or hoarseness, give the Syrup according to directions.

PORT AND STARBOARD.

Two Nautical Phrases Give Way to Less Puzzling Words.

Since July 1, 1891, the old words of command for altering the helm, viz.: "starboard" or "port," have been given up on board the ships of the North German Lloyds and the Hamburg-American line, and the order "right" or "left" substituted.

It is difficult to break with old customs, and seamen in especial are conservative; it is therefore not a matter of wonder that many old sailors look with great disfavor upon this latest innovation. On board the steamships of the two great lines mentioned above, however, the change has been made obligatory, and, according to a report forwarded to the directors by one of their oldest captains, who was himself opposed to the idea, has been attended with the happiest results.

Punctuality.

Some wiseacre defines punctuality as "fifteen minutes beforehand." All very well for those who can afford to waste minutes so extravagantly; and very well, too, if the party of the second part is not a quarter of an hour behindhand.

Women are stigmatized as the greatest sinners against punctuality—an accusation so unjust that it must be met with the scornful silence which it deserves. A beautiful legend is frequently alluded to in this connection, as showing how the unpunctual habits of one woman led her husband to utilize the fragments of time, which would otherwise have been wasted, in the composition of a learned and valuable treatise. That poor much-maligned woman did perhaps fail sometimes in her wifely duty to be the head of her table at the stroke of one hour of dinner. But when she happened to be on time, and found that her lord and master was engaged, and was further pluming himself on taking advantage of her tardiness, she made a point of giving him daily the most precious moments. For her husband's gratification, she became punctually late, and thus, with the self-effacement of her sex, allowed herself to go down to later ages as a warning example.—Harper's Bazar.

Makes the Weak Strong

The marked benefit which people in run down or weakened state of health derive from Hood's Sarsaparilla, conclusively proves the claim that this medicine "makes the weak strong." It does not act like a stimulant, imparting fictitious strength from which there must follow a reaction of greater weakness than before, but in the most natural way Hood's Sarsaparilla overcomes creates an appetite, purifies the blood, and, in short, gives great bodily, nerve, mental and digestive strength.

That Tired Feeling

"I derived very much benefit from Hood's Sarsaparilla, which I took for general debility. It built me right up, and gave me an excellent appetite." ED. JENKINS, Mt. Savage, Md.

Fagged Out

"Last spring I was completely fagged out. My strength left me and I felt sick and miserable all the time, so that I could hardly attend to my business. I took one bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and it cured me. There is nothing like it." R. C. BEGOLE, Editor Enterprise, Belleville, Mich.

Worn Out

"Hood's Sarsaparilla restored me to good health. Indeed, I might say truthfully it saved my life. To one feeling tired and worn out I would earnestly recommend a trial of Hood's Sarsaparilla." MRS. PIERRE MOSHER, 60 Brooks Street, East Boston, Mass.

A CHEERING PROSPECT.

Reports from all parts of the East Riding assure us that the redemption of the constituency is certain. The candidature of Mr. Northrup, the able and eloquent young standard-bearer of the Conservative party, has been received on all hands with enthusiastic approval, and his supporters are working energetically in his behalf.

The principal object of the Grits in going outside of the county for a candidate in the person of Mr. W. R. Aylsworth, of Richmond township, county of Lennox, was to split the Conservative vote in the town of Deseronto, of which Mr. Aylsworth has been for many years Reeve. In this expectation they will be disappointed. Mr. Aylsworth is no doubt appreciated as a municipal representative; but the present contest is one of a purely political character, in which issues of the gravest importance are involved, and in which the views of Reeve Aylsworth are dissented from by four-fifths of the people of the town, which owes much of its prosperity to the National Policy. True, Mr. Aylsworth had a majority of 74 in Deseronto when he was a candidate for Parliament in 1878, but that was before the N.P. had come into existence. Experience of its advantages has converted Deseronto, as it has done many other places, to its support. Shorn of his local strength by the withdrawal of the powerful support of the Rathbun Company, from the service of which he has been obliged to retire, he will be left in a greater minority in Deseronto than was the late Mr. Burdett in last year's contest. Of this we are advised by our well informed correspondent at Deseronto, and advices from other sources are to the same effect.

Large accessions of strength to the Conservative cause are being made in the other municipalities, and there seems no room to doubt that a great victory will be won in East Hastings for the Abbott Administration on the 20th inst.

The prospect is such as to encourage the supporters of Mr. Northrup to work energetically and systematically up to the close of the polls on the day of election.

HIDING THE TRUTH.

Mr. Nicholas Awrey, M.P.P. for South Wentworth and an aspirant for a position in Mr. Mowat's Administration, is a Grit first, last and all the time.

The recent meeting of the Central Farmers' Institute of Ontario, of which he is President, was converted by this red-hot partizan into a Grit political gathering, despite the protests of the Conservative minority, and the objects of the organization were thereby completely frustrated. Mr. Awrey won a temporary triumph, it is true; but if such tactics are repeated in the future the organization, which has in it the possibilities of great public advantage, will be short-lived. Party politics are wholly out of place in such an association, and Conservatives will not submit to having the decision of a little body of 100 members sent forth to the world as the opinion of the farmers of this great province on any question of a political character.

In his political harangue in support of the Grit policy Mr. Awrey was as disingenuous as Grit orators usually are on that subject. He said:

There are many articles that we produce that the people of the United States want, and the United States are not our competitors. They are willing to purchase from us, and it is only an insurmountable tariff wall that prevents their buyers from invading our markets in search of what we desire to sell. I will prove from the trade and navigation returns of the Dominion for 1891 that the United States is our best and in many cases; our only profitable market for much we have to sell, and I will further prove to you that until this tariff war between the two countries, many articles of our home production were not sold in the English market at all, but that the United States consumed in some lines the entire amount of our output. I will give you a comparative statement of amounts purchased by Great Britain and the United States during the year for which the return is given:

Sheep	486,299	764,217
Poultry	......	49,233
Barley	12,017	4,582,575
Beans	1,292	250,769
Hay	109,634	922,727
Malt	......	149,551
Potatoes	......	308,915
Eggs	820	1 793,803
Hides	28,082	477,680
Wool	......	248,801
Flax	......	175,563
Rye	53 413	113,320
Hemp	......	26,568
Tobacco leaf	......	50,076
Canned fruit	6,612	24,022
Total	$716 094	$11,897,562

In plain language, the United States purchased over sixteen times as many dollars' worth of the articles enumerated before the increase in the tariff, as did Great Britain.

It is not to be denied that the United States would afford a good market for certain of our products, but it was their rulers, not ours, who closed that market against us, and the efforts of successive Governments of Canada—Conservative and Liberal—to remove the barriers erected by the United States against our trade have been ineffectual. It is also true, however, that the latest attempt of our neighbors to—as Farrer phrases it—"grind the face of the Canadian farmer," by a heavy increase in their tariff on such articles as we had previously supplied to them, has resulted in diverting a large portion of our trade to other and not less profitable markets, chiefly to Great Britain. Take the article of eggs, for instance, as to which Mr. Bowell stated in a speech at St. Catherines a few days ago, that during the three months ending September 30, 1890—just just before the McKinley tariff began to squeeze—Canada's export of eggs to Britain was 3,652 dozens, valued at $388; to the States, 5,487,794 dozens, valued at $817,008. In one year the position has entirely changed, because in the three months ending September 30, 1891, the export to Britain was 1,126,391 dozens, valued at $157,744, and to the States, 1,260,581 dozens, valued at $41,240. Britain, therefore, is becoming gradually the market for our surplus eggs, as it is for nearly every product of the farm, including barley.

Mr. Awrey tried to leave the impression that the United States is the best market for our farm products by suppressing the fact, stated in the report from which he quoted, that our export of such articles to the United States was $12,772,558, and to Great Britain $21,060,812. The principal articles omitted by Mr. Awrey from his partial statement of our exports of the products of the farm were (we quote from the same return which he did):

	Great Britain.	U. States
Horned cattle	$ 6,565,315	$107.391
Butter	3?3,503	5,083
Cheese	10,485,935	22,829
Lard	6,061	458
Bacon	621,360	81
Hams	22,364	25
Meats, canned	107,817	794
Bran	68,822	14,103
Apples	834,545	149,479
Oats	1?6,879	11,758
Peas, whole	1,190,836	371,332
Peas, split	95,029	74 215
Rye	53,413	113 320
Wheat	2,362,318	6,625
Wheat flour	450,483	34,470
Oatmeal	250,657	47,581
Meals, all other	68,719	9,500
Seeds	142,628	35,001

With these figures to guide, and bearing in mind the revolution in our trade in barley and eggs, the reader can come to a conclusion as to the comparative value of the British and United States markets to the Canadian farmer.

For scrofula in every form Hood's Sarsaparilla is a radical, reliable remedy. It has an unequalled record of cures.

THE POLITICAL COLUMN

M. C. CAMERON RETURNS FROM FLORIDA.

Judgment by the Supreme Court in the West Northumberland, Prescott and North Perth Appeals—Several Bye-Elections To-Day.

OTTAWA, Feb. 11.—The argument in the appeals in the preliminary objections in the Supreme Court in the West Northumberland, Prescott and North Perth elections was concluded at 1 o'clock to-day. It was contended by the appellants that the deposit of security was placed in the wrong court, that is, that it was deposited in the court where the cases originated and not in the court of trial. The four judges held that in regard to the deposit the statute was literally complied with and therefore they dismissed all the cases with costs. All three constituencies are Liberal. Justice Taschereau took no part in the judgment. The cases had nothing to do with the merits and the appeals have yet to be heard.

M. C. CAMERON IS BACK.

And Says He Will Defeat the Secretary of State by 500 Majority.

WINDSOR, Feb. 11.—Mr. M. C. Cameron stopped at Windsor yesterday on his return from Florida, where he has been for his health. He says he will certainly defeat J. C. Patterson at the coming election by at least 500 majority. Mr. Cameron is looking unusually healthy and says his sojourn in Florida has been of great benefit to him.

The Church And Bribery.

QUEBEC, Feb. 11.—A mandement signed by all the bishops of the Province will be read on Sunday in all the Catholic Churches of the Province. The document is aimed at bribery which is so prevalent during elections. In the case of a penitent having accepted a bribe for his vote, no absolution will be given at confession, but the matter will have to be submitted to higher ecclesiastical authority for investigation. This is called a "reserve case," and is a ticklish question to the Catholic conscience, as in case of death, the Church, which is rigorously severe on this point of discipline, does not allow its ministers to grant absolution, except through the regular channel.

Wandering Willie's Autobiography.

OTTAWA, Feb. 11.—Hon. William Macdougall, who spent the greater part of his life in active public life in Canada, is preparing an autobiography. These constituencies are: East Bruce, Halifax (2), Peel, North Victoria, South Victoria and East Middlesex. Of these seven seats, four, viz., Halifax (2), South Victoria and East Middlesex, were represented by Conservatives last session and the other three by Liberals, two of them, Peel and East Bruce, being gains at the last election.

Cincinnati's Destructive Fire.

Ottawa Bank President Dead.

BUCKINGHAM, Que., Feb. 11.—Mr. James McLaren, a prominent lumber merchant and president of the Bank of Ottawa, died to-day.

Deceased leaves two brothers, Rev. Alexander McLaren of the Presbyterian Church and Rev. Dr. McLaren, professor of theology in Knox College, Toronto.

Mr. McLaren took a great interest in the formation of the Bank of Ottawa, and was its first and only president, much of its success being due to his energies. He was a member of the firm of W. McClymont & Co. of New Edinburgh, the Canada Lumber Co. of Carleton Place, vice president from its commencement of the Shepperd Morse Lumber Co., formerly of Burlington, but now of Boston; president of the McLaren, Ross Lumber Co. of New Westminster, B.C.; president of the North Pacific Lumber Co. of Port Moody, B.C., and was largely interested in mining operations in Ottawa and Hastings Counties, and also held interests in sugar, salt and silver industries in western Ontario. In the Commons.

LONDON, Feb. 11.—In the House of Commons yesterday Thomas Sexton, member for West Belfast, gave notice that he would move an amendment to the address in reply to the Queen's speech, declaring that a majority of the Irish people and their representatives in the House of Commons are convinced of the inability of the Imperial Parliament to legislate for Ireland in a manner required by the distinctive interests of that country. This conviction has been intensified by the manifest failure of the Land Purchase Act to afford a basis for an extension of the class of occupying tenants.

LONDON, Feb. 11.—The members of the Parnellite party met here yesterday, and appointed their Parliamentary whips and secretaries. It was resolved to leave the chair vacant as a mark of respect to the memory of their late leader, Charles Stewart Parnell.

In Honor of Spurgeon.

LONDON, Feb. 11.—The first of the three services to be held over the remains of Rev. Mr. Spurgeon to-day opened in the Tabernacle. The edifice was crowded. The children from the Stockwell Orphan Asylum, in which institution Mr. Spurgeon was deeply interested, were present, dressed in mourning and sang hymns.

NEW YORK, Feb. 11.—Edmund Yates cables: "I understand that one result of the visit of the Prince and Princess of Wales to Osborne is that the Queen consented to allow the coffin of the Duke of Clarence to be removed to Sandringham, where it will be buried in the churchyard in a grave adjoining that of the infant Prince Alexander who died in 1871. The coffin is to remain in the Albert Memorial Chapel, Windsor, until after the return of the Court to the castle, as the Queen wishes to see it and Her Majesty will attend the service in the chapel, which will be conducted by the Bishop of Rochester and Canon Bulton. The Queen did not wish the coffin to be placed in the royal vault, but desired to have it buried in a crypt of the Prince Consort's Mausoleum at Frogmore. The removal to Sandringham and interment there will be conducted privately."

Killed On a Steamship.

GLASGOW, Feb. 11.—A fatal accident happened yesterday to a number of workmen who were engaged in making some repairs to the hull of the British steamer Peruvian from Boston, which arrived at Glasgow on Saturday last. The steamer was on the ways in the Govan Graving Dock at the time. The men were working on a scaffold suspended over the side of the vessel when the frame suddenly collapsed and they were precipitated to the bottom of the dock. One man was instantly killed and four others fatally hurt.

A Frontier Battle.

BERLIN, Feb. 11.—A despatch from Landsberg, close to the frontier, states that a conflict has occurred between a body of Russian gendarmes and a band of emigrants. Revolution in Servia.

LONDON, Feb. 11.—The Vienna correspondent of The Chronicle says rumors are current in Vienna that a revolution has broken out in Servia. All telegrams from Servia are subjected to censorship.

Prove an Alibi and Conspiracy.

BRANTFORD, Feb. 11.—The trial of John Bartram and John Lottridge for the murder of John Heslop of Ancaster will come off before Mr. Justice Rose at Hamilton on March 9. The defence will be an alibi and conspiracy between the Indians to condemn the prisoners and secure the reward. An effort will be made to show that the witnesses are of the most unreliable class and that Douglas, notwithstanding his confession, was not in the vicinity of Ancaster on the night of the murder. Several Indians will swear that they were with him in Lewiston, N.Y., on the date of the murder, and that Douglas' own statement to the contrary he could not possibly have been there. The characters of the two confessed accomplices will be fully exposed and their general untruthfulness proved.

It is said Bartram can easily prove the alibi in his case and that, too, by witnesses whose word would be accepted by any jury in Ontario. His representatives deny the statement that he had made damaging admissions to Warden Blayberry, who had charge of him for six weeks. The crown, however, say they have such admissions, and that they will be used as corroborative evidence against Bartram.

From Fitzsimmons' Spirit.

PITTSBURG, Feb. 11.—Annie Eva Fay, the spiritualistic medium, last night gave a seance in the Auditorium in Penn-avenue. The medium, as usual, was tied in a cabinet where bells and musical instruments played. Then the spirits cut the knots. Among others a letter was received from Fitzsimmons, the Brockville murderer. It was much like the one written by him and found in the jail on Sunday.

Sensational rumors are current to the effect that the Greek steamer Embiricos, which was recently wrecked off the Scilly Islands, foundered during a mutiny of the crew. The statements of the survivors are conflicting, but it is evident that the Greeks, forming a majority of the saved, used violence to prevent the access of others to the boats. An investigation will take place.

To a well-assorted stock, a choice selection of colorings and designs, an appreciative public and a liberal use of printer's ink, we can announce a great scarcity of last year's papers in stock. The people came, saw and bought our papers the year round, and we have scarcely anything but new goods in stock.

What few of last year's goods we have we will say nothing about, relying upon them to sell to those who are not so particular to keep up with the fashion when they can get an A 1 article at wholesale cost, because it is not THIS YEAR'S GOODS.

By looking at the quotations of the Virginia tobacco markets it will be found that the highest price paid for "fillers"—which is the tobacco which forms the body of the plug—very closely corresponds with the invoiced price of tobacco leaf imported into Ontario. As over four-fifths of all the leaf imported into the Province is for "Myrtle Navy" stock, this fact is official proof of the claim that the "Myrtle Navy" is made of the finest Virginia leaf.

POLITICAL POINTS

Mr. Northrup will hold a meeting this evening in the A.O.U.W. hall at Plainfield.

The majority of Mr. Kerbee, Liberal, in Queen's N.B., on Thursday was 78.

Sir Adolphe Caron makes public four receipts altogether from Thomas McGreevy for money which he gave McGreevy for election disbursements. The dates and amounts are: February 4, 1887, $10 000; February 23, $5,000; February 18, $4,000, and February 20, $5,000.

The local organ of the Grits has run out of ammunition. Last night it fired off the old falsehood that The INTELLIGENCER is opposed to reciprocity in natural products, which this journal has supported for forty years, at least.

Election in East Elgin to-morrow.

It would not be amiss, remarks the Ottawa Citizen, were Mr. C. W. Weldon, counsel for Mr. King in the Queens, N. B., election case, to post the Globe and other Reform organs, privately if necessary, as to the causes which led him to advise his client to admit illegal election. It was that admission, and no act of the petitioner or the judges, that deprived him of his seat. Mr. King's majority was twenty-nine. He admitted that thirty votes were illegally obtained, and agreed that they should be struck off his total number of votes. This agreement was made subject to a decision of the Supreme Court as to whether the law provided for such striking off in cases where votes were proved to have been illegally obtained. The law does so provide, and that settles the case.

They Harbor a Hoodoo.

Good fortune attends the Conservative party with the same regularity that ill luck waits upon the Grits. The very elements appeared to conspire against the Mackenzie Government in 1878, and from that time down those who have fought under the Liberal banner have seemingly had more than mortal foes to contend against.

The latest misfortune of a most unfortunate party is the altogether unexpected turn which has been given to events connected with the Washington mission. The sudden cropping up of that canal question could not possibly have been foreseen by Premier Abbot's colleagues, but it came up just at the proper time to give a hopeful turn to negotiations which previously seemed foredoomed to failure, and incidentally to still further aid the Government in the by-elections.

There must be a hoodoo in the Reform ranks somewhere, otherwise this run of ill-luck could not have continued so long.—Toronto News.

Meeting at Canifton.

A meeting in the interest of Mr. W. B. Northrup was held last evening in the town hall at Canifton. The building was filled to the door, a large number having to stand up. Mr. Frank Brenton was chairman. Addresses were delivered by Messrs. H. Corby, M.P., Ald. Mikel and W. B. Northrup on behalf of the Government candidate, whilst Messrs. W. R. Aylsworth, R. J. Graham, J. B. Aylsworth, of Newburg, and R. C. Clute spoke from the Opposition stand point. The speech of the evening was given by Mr. Northrup, who upon coming forward was received with loud cheers and applause and at times during his remarks was also applauded. The meeting was an enthusiastic one. At the close a vote of thanks was tendered to the chairman and cheers given for the Queen and Mr. Northrup. The campaign is being prosecuted with vigor, and the Government candidate is meeting with great success in his canvass throughout the riding.

AMUSEMENTS

It Will be Good.

The cast is the very best ever gathered together in the city, and this is saying considerable. The military tableaux will present over 60 people on the stage.

We Educate the Grits.

Time comes to the assistance of the Conservative party in a remarkable manner and compels the Grits themselves to bear emphatic testimony to the wisdom and soundness of Conservative government. Ten years ago Mr. Blake was denouncing the reckless extravagance of Sir John Macdonald in building the Canada Pacific. Now there is no Grit so dull as to withhold his praise and admiration from that wonderful monument of political genius and enterprise, and Mr. Blake's great speech of the session of 1880 is a forgotten document.

From 1879 onward the Grits went about showing that the National Policy was impoverishing us all, raising the cost of living and cutting off our external trade. Yet in 1887 their leader threw up the case, and gave in his practical adhesion to the Conservative policy in a speech at Malvern, during he course of which he said: "No fair man, I care not how convinced an advocate of free trade he may be, has yet suggested—no man, I believe, can suggest—a practicable plan whereby our great revenue needs can be met in other duties than by the present imposition of very high duties upon goods similar to those we make, or can make within our bounds, or on the raw materials. I invite the most ardent free-trader in public life to present a plausible solution of this problem; and I contend that he is bound to do so before he talks of free trade as practicable in Canada." This passage contains a fair description of the National Policy, and in it Mr. Blake throws up the whole case against that policy.

Again, Sir Richard Cartwright and his pessimistic reflectors echo the groans of the Globe and assure us that the country is going to the dogs. The statistics of our trade and commerce, national revenue and expenditure, savings bank deposits, circulating currency, etc., refute their lymeds. But, what is more to the present purpose, Mr. Mowat, a Grit leader, comes out publicly and knocks the wind out of these calamity-mongers by declaring in the Globe of 15th December last that "our farmers as a class, our mechanics as a class, and our laborers as a class, whatever the reasons may be, are not less comfortable than the farmers, mechanics of the United States." Well, if this is so, what are the Grits crying about, and what do they want to sell their country for?

Finally, the Conservative party has pointed out steadily during the past four years that the Opposition policy means annexation. The Grit leaders deny this; but once again the facts of the case are too strong for our opponents, and our argument is triumphantly proven out of the lips of the greatest man who ever held a place in their ranks. Edward Blake, in his celebrated letter to his constituents in March last, declared that "the tendency in Canada of unrestricted free trade with the States, high duties being maintained against the United Kingdom, would be towards political union (with the United States).

We are educating the Grit party as well as the country. Their ablest and best men invariably come around to the Conservative view of any given question in a few short years.—Kingston News.

Great Britain's Army.

Great Britain's army, according to the recently published report for 1890, is 209,221 strong. There are 7,527 officers, 829 warrant officers, and 200,865 non-commissioned officers and privates. The cavalry numbers 18,866; the artillery, 35,378; the infantry, train, ambulance corps, etc., 147,788. In England there are stationed 105,668; in Scotland, 3,649; in Ireland, 26,566; in India, 72,098; in Egypt and the colonies 30,855. In the last twenty years the strength of the British Army has varied considerably. In 1871 it was 192,666; in 1876 184,403; in 1883, 143,079; in 1888, 211,105. The infantry has 70 regiments and one chasseur brigade containing together 148 battalions; the cavalry 31 regiments; the artillery, 110 batteries, as well as 72 companies of fortress artillery; the engineers corps, 45 companies as well as nine depot companies, one pontoon battalion, telegraph battalions, and one balloon division; the train, 37 companies.

The Population of France.

The stagnation of the population of France receives startling illustration in the corrected returns of the census. With a population of close upon 38½ millions, the increase in the past five years is only 124,289. Upon such an enormous mass of people that amount is almost nil. For all practical purposes the population may be considered at a standstill. Of the actual increase Paris and suburbs claim 110,000, but that is due to misclassification. It is due, moreover, to immigration rather than to growth. Such natural growth of population as there is, is in only 32 departments; in other 55 there is a decrease. Another notable circumstance is that, while towns of 30,000 inhabitants and upwards claim an increase of 124,000, the villages and small towns show an almost identical decrease.

Reform Pretences Exposed.

In what way did the Reform Government give prosperity to Canada during its five years of power? Sir Richard quoted largely from the Government Trade Returns, but here are figures that were right under his thumb in that book of which, of course, he made no mention. In 1873, the year he and his party came into office, the aggregate trade of Canada amounted to $217,801,203 and in 1878, when they were dropped from office, the same trade had dropped to $172,402 454. There was thus a falling off of nearly fifty nine and a half million dollars in that unfortunate five years! And, yet, the hero of such a tremendous deficit in trade talks of "business stagnation" under the N.P.!

On the other hand the aggregate trade of Canada has increased from $153,455,683 in 1879, the first year of the N.P., to $218,007,390 in 1890, or an increase of over sixty-five million dollars! Does a falling off of nearly fifty millions of trade in five years mean "prosperity" under Reform rule, and an increase of sixty millions in twelve years mean stagnation under the N.P.? Is that one which will the people choose? Turn to page VII of the Trade Returns of 1890 and the above figures are all there.

Did the Reform party even get us a larger trade with the States during the unfortunate five years of its rule? Here are the plain facts: In 1873, the total aggregate trade between Canada and the U. States amounted to $89,808,204, and in 1878 it had fallen off to $73,876,457, or to the extent of about sixteen million dollars!

Then, Sir Richard and the smaller fry who are now perambulating the country, make it one of their strong points that the States are the "best" and "the natural market" for Canadians—that if all barriers are once thrown down, Canada would soon grow rich trading with the States. Turn again to the Trade returns, which they quote—whenever it suits their ends to do so: In 1890 Canada exported to the States to the extent of $40,522,810 worth; and during the same year the States exported to Canada just $52,291,963 worth. Canada was, therefore, during the year nearly twelve million dollars out of pocket in its trade with the States, "our best market" according to these teachers.

On the other hand we are told that our trade with England is less than with the States, there is this important difference, however: It is a trade that leaves nearly five millions to the profit of Canada instead of twelve millions as loss. Here are the figures: In 1890 Canada sold to England $48,353,694 worth and England sold to us $43 390 941 worth, leaving the balance of $4 963,453 in our favor. Now which is our best and most profitable market?

Sir Richard, too, wants support from the farmers, because the Reform party, if once in power, will decrease the duties and consequently the cost "of the necessities of life" "to the farmers, the laborers, the fishermen," and everybody else who have votes. See how they acted when they had the chance. In 1878, when the same Reform party were in power, the duties imposed and collected on teas, an article of necessity to every farmer's family, amounted to no less than $646,675, which added that much to the cost of living. Under the N.P. there are no duties on teas at all.—Napanee Beaver.

A Chinaman as Mail Matter.

A handsome, maroon-colored box waggon now carries the royal mail between Windsor and Detroit. It is open only at the rear end, and the doors which close that end are kept securely locked. Besides two postmasters only the customs officials on each end have a key to those doors.

A few weeks ago William Henry Offat, the dignified and garrulous colored official who sweeps the Windsor Post-office and makes up the mails, was performing the latter duty. It was evening, and of course it was dark. William Henry Offat is naturally timid when, as in this case, he is alone in the big post office at night. His nervousness was increased when the back door began to creak, and slowly open.

'Ahh goodness,' chattered William Henry, 'two-'ot' de meanin' of dat! M must be a warnin' ob trib'lation sho'.'

Imagine William Henry Offat's relief and surprise when, instead of some ghostly visitor, the yellow face of a Chinaman appeared

'G'way fum dah, you fool yaller man, g'way,' shouted William Henry, who had become once more brave.

'Oh, goodee blackee man, me goodee. Mo wantee askee you. Mo wantee sleep in shed. Allee lighteo.'

'Ya as, guess you kin sleep in de shald, if you don't 'sturb nobin'.

'Goodee blackee man, me coo'd. Me wantee blag. Mo givee blag back to mol low.'

'Well, ah guess you kin have de bag, yal ler face.'

The generous Henry handed out a small bag, and the Mongol curled himself up in the rear of the office and went to sleep—apparently.

The next day, when the driver of the mail cart was going through Woodbridge street, Detroit, he heard a noise in the waggon.

He turned just in time to see a Chinaman, who much resembled the one who had interviewed William Henry the previous evening, jump from the waggon and disappear.

The cunning heathen had come over in side the mail bag, and had thus escaped the vigilance of the United States Customs Officers.

The Canadian post office authorities were notified. They determined that no more contraband humanity should get into Uncle Sam's territory this way. Hence the brandnew locked waggon.—Detroit Journal.

CANADIAN MINISTERS.

CONFERRING WITH BLAINE AT WASHINGTON.

The Preliminary Interchange of Views Results in the Arrangement of Ground for a Conference, Which is Expected to Last Several Days.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11.—The negotiations between the United States and Canada in regard to reciprocal trade relations were opened formally at a conference held at the State Department of the representatives of each government.

The Secretary of State and General John W. Foster represented the United States, while Canada was represented by a commission consisting of Sir John Thompson, Minister of Justice; Hon. Mackenzie Bowell, Minister of Militia; Hon. George E. Foster, Minister of Finance; Mr. Parmalee, Deputy Commissioner of Customs, and Mr. Stewart, Private Secretary. The commission really consists of the three first-named officials, the others accompanying them as attaches.

This morning Secretary Blaine spent half an hour with the commissioners at the White House, going over the ground to be taken by the United States in the coming conference. He then left for the office next to the State Department and met Gen. Foster in the diplomatic reception room.

In a few minutes Sir Julian Pauncefote, the British Minister, appeared and notified the Secretary that the Canadian delegates were ready to enter upon the conference, and it was arranged that they should proceed to the State Department.

They arrived about noon and there was a preliminary session of an hour, during which the conferees talked "across the board," as the diplomatic phrase goes, and arranged the ground for the coming conferences, which will last several days.

This secret session was followed by the Canadian authorities as a preliminary interchange of views for the purpose of ascertaining what each would be willing to discuss and what form the discussion shall take. The results that may be reached will not therefore be final.

"These Be Strong Words."

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11.—Secretary Blaine was yesterday shown a published statement that he was about to retire from the Cabinet. He read it slowly and then said with deliberation: "It is entirely false. There is not a word of truth in it. This statement is an infernal lie."

Keeley Cured, He Lost His Mind.

NEW YORK, Feb. 11.—Walter B. Earle died at the Poughkeepsie Insane Asylum on Friday. His wife deserted him four years ago and went to England. He took to drink. He entered the Keeley Institute at White Plains on Dec. 20 last and remained there until the end of January. He was apparently cured.

Sunday, five weeks ago, he became suddenly insane, though up to that day he was perfectly rational and had not touched a drop of liquor since his discharge from the institute.

Earle became so violent that he was removed to the insane asylum at Poughkeepsie, and on Friday died, his last words being, "Josie! Josie! Come home to your husband and children!"

His death and the scenes which have occurred recently at the institute may lead to the State Board of Health, and the State Medical Society also, taking a hand in an investigation on their own account, and it is one of the probabilities that a legislative investigation may be ordered by the Senate and the Keeley people be forced to make public their secret, which apparently not only cures but kills also.

Restoring Mind to An Idiot.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11.—If a novel surgical operation which was performed yesterday is successful there will be one idiot less in the world. Ex-Surgeon General William A. Hammond, assisted by three surgeons, performed a trifle of an imbecile, removed a large amount of bone, closed the skull, and expects that the patient will not only recover but will be a level headed man. This is the first operation of the kind ever performed upon an adult.

The patient is a young man in Canada, 24 years of age, and was brought to this city four or five days ago. Up to four years ago he possessed more than average intelligence, had a common education and was recognized as a man destined to make a bright record in the world.

Won His Bet and Died.

VINELAND, N.J., Feb. 11.—James Donnelly, a lad of 16, who lives at Lockport, made a wager of $2 last Saturday that he could eat 24 raw eggs within 15 minutes and drink 20 glasses of beer. He succeeded in his attempt and won the $2 but two hours later was taken with convulsions and died.

"My Poor Heart is Broken."

KINGSTON, Feb. 11.—Maurice Nagle, Bathurst, Ont., died in the shanties from cold. He was being driven to the doctors, 40 miles away, but his pain was so severe that all thought make was some 20 miles the first day, and had to seek lodgings in a house on the road. The next morning they started and got within four miles of the end of their journey, when he turned to his companion and said, "I am dying; my poor heart is broken," and died soon after.

Prisoners from New Brunswick.

KINGSTON, Feb. 11.—Keeper Ralston and Guard LaBlanc of the Dorchester, N.B., penitentiary, arrived in the city yesterday with three female prisoners. Maud Lindsay, a woman of bad repute, for shooting a man dead about four weeks ago, to serve a life sentence; Jennie Mack, sentenced to two years for larceny, and Margaret McKeen, for the same offence, three years. The prisoners behaved creditably on the journey.

BUFFALO, Feb. 11.—Constable Armstrong, T. Reutier and George Duriel, Grand Trunk Railway employes, who live in Stratford, Ont., but work in the city, were compelled to give up their employment by Inspector DeBarry. This afternoon the inspector sent the men back to Canada and told them they could not return unless they brought their families and intended to become residents.

The Sad Fate of Little Howard Wharton.

PETTAWANNO, Feb. 11.—Howard, 3-year-old son of John Wharton, died yesterday from injuries received by fire on the previous day. The child was in the habit of on his nightclothes on Sunday morning and in some way his clothes caught fire. This celebrated case has been before the courts for years. The complainant alleged that his neck was broken by being knocked from a car by a bridge near Joliet about nine years ago, and he now wears his head in an iron frame-work for support.

DR. G. C. OSGOOD,
Lowell, Mass.

"Castoria is the best remedy for children of which I am acquainted. I hope the day is not far distant when mothers will consider the real interest of their children, and use Castoria instead of the various quack nostrums which are destroying their loved ones, by forcing opium, morphine, soothing syrup and other hurtful agents down their throats, thereby sending them to premature graves."

H. A. ARCHER, M. D.,
111 So. Oxford St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Playing With Diamonds.

How the African Fields Were Discovered by Children.

The discovery of diamonds in South Africa was brought about by two Dutch children who tossed a diamond in the air and caught it, thinking it was a pebble.

They were playing their childish game one day in 1867, when John O'Reilly, an Interior trader, stopped at their father's farm in Griqualand West, near the Vaal river, to trade for skins, and he was attracted by the peculiar clearness and transparency of the pebble.

He asked one of the children to show it to him, and after he had examined it he was satisfied that it was a stone of some value. The father, Van Niekirk by name, laughed when O'Reilly offered to buy the stone, and said that plenty of them could be found in the river. O'Reilly accepted the stone as a gift and promised if the succeeded in selling it he would give half of the proceeds to Van Niekirk toward the expenses of educating the girl, which was the Dutch farmer's greatest desire.

At Hope Town the stone was examined by many traders, but nobody supported O'Reilly in the belief that it was valuable, its size being too large. O'Reilly kept it carefully until he had time to send it to Dr. Atherstone, a capable authority in Grahamstown, who said that it was a diamond of about 22 carats. Sometime afterward Sir Philip Wodehouse, then governor of the Cape, bought the diamond for £2000. On his return to the Vaal O'Reilly gave $1250 to the little girl and asked her if she had any more pebbles. If the stone came from the river, as Van Niekirk had said, more must be there, O'Reilly argued, and he hired natives to collect for him all the transparent stones they could collect on the river banks. Seckful after seckful were examined, but O'Reilly found only one more diamond—a 4 carat stone.

Something Big in Rubber.

The biggest "biscuit" of rubber ever seen in North America is on exhibition in a store in Warren street. It came from the upper Amazon, weighs a trifle over a thousand pounds, and contains owners $1,010. Around its largest circumference it measures 10 ft., being composed of successive layers that form a practically solid mass throughout. There is enough rubber in the lump to make 5,000,000 "election" bands, or, if made into a single string, there is enough to make a line which would reach 150 miles.

Although the biscuit is now perfectly black, it was pure white, like the juice of the milk weed, when taken from the tree. The native who made the lump first drove two crotched stakes in the ground at a distance of 10 feet apart, and in the crotches he rested a smooth pole. Then he built a fire midway between the posts in such a position as to concentrate the heat at the centre of the crosspiece. The rubber, in its fluid consistency, was poured on the hottest surface of the stringer, and as it felt the warmth of the fire it congealed. By turning the pole slowly around the layer of rubber took its present shape, which is that of a big, overgrown biscuit.

It is slow work turning the stick and congealing the rubber, and a whole day is consumed in making a single layer. It took days to complete the biscuit in question, for, besides hardening it, it had to be cured and smoked by processes very similar to those used in curing and smoking hams. The Amazon natives use a peculiar bark to effect the curing process, which is burned in the fire, and which imparts certain properties that prepare the rubber for proper vation. The rubber which is here described smells so much like the ordinary cigar-cured ham that one could not tell the difference if blindfolded. In this respect the rubber from the Amazon possesses a distinct superiority over that from Africa. In the latter country the natives seem to know nothing whatever of the curing and smoking process, and the result is that their rubber has an indescribably vile odor.

In preparing this big lump for commercial use, it will be first put into the grinder or mill, where it will undergo a treatment very like that of manufacturing. This makes it pliable. It will then be put into a calender, where it will be flattened and drawn out into the required size and shape, after which it will be cut up in the shapes used in commerce.—N. Y. Herald.

The Rattler's Habits.

Taylor county, Texas, is the natural home of the prairie dog, and for consequence, of the rattlesnake also. The rattlesnake and the ground owl are found wherever the prairie dog lives, and there is a legend to the effect that the three dwell peacefully together in the same burrow. This I believe to be a myth so far as the rattlesnake is concerned. When he takes possession the others go out, if they can get out, leaving the housekeeping unimpeded. The owl and the prairie dog probably do occupy the same hole. As cool weather came on in the fall, the numbers of rattlesnakes encountered in localities where the prairie dog had furnished a home for them was so great that I refrain from mentioning it for fear of lying under the imputation of telling snake stories. I content myself by saying that it was a poor day for snakes when one did not see at least half a dozen in a day's journey. But in spite of the large number of rattlesnakes I not only never saw a human being who had been bitten by one, but I cannot now remember ever meeting any person who, on close questioning, could truthfully say he saw such a case. The habit of the snake of first trying to get away, and when he finds himself too closely pressed, of coiling and sounding the warning rattle, is probably the reason why so few are bitten. Five feet in length is a large rattler, and one-half his length is the limit of striking. I presume I have come as close as most men and either tantalized them with a flag pole myself or witnessed it by members of my party, at least a hundred times, and with one exception the snake was willing enough to retreat if allowed to. The exception was a large rattler in the Sand Hills, who, as we came upon him, was just preparing to make a dinner of a kangaroo rat. He not only defended his dinner, but advanced toward the enemy, viciously coiling and striking. It seems to me that an angry rattler comes nearer jumping the lineamate article of viciousness than any other object in nature.—G. W. Rafter, C. E., in Engineering Magazine.

Didn't Lose Much.

The recent death of Mr. C——, a well-known publisher, recalls the following incident. One day a gentleman named Fleming called on Mr. C——, and both being members of the same society, the conversation drifted in that direction.

"You were not at the last meeting,' said Mr. C—— to Fleming.

'No,' replied the latter, 'I was unavoidably absent. I have lost my wife.'

Now Mr. C——, who was somewhat deaf, failed to hear the last remark, and said emphatically, 'Well, you didn't lose much!' referring, of course, to the meeting of the society.

When Miss C——, who was present, explained the situation, her father was overwhelmed with shame, and made most humble apologies. Fleming understood at once, and had no thought of being offended, as Mr. C—— was known to be scrupulously polite and tenderly considerate.—From the Editor's Drawer, in Harper's Magazine for November.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria

A Story of Napoleon III.

Napoleon III, who had no fewer poor relatives to help on than any other sovereign, was trying one day to convince a cousin, whom he had already generously aided, that it was impossible for him to increase her allowance. The princess took the refusal angrily, and as she was leaving, said in a taunting manner—

"Doubtless you have nothing of the great Emperor, our uncle."

Get Rid of Neuralgia.

There is no use in fooling with neuralgia. It is a disease that in no way owes its origin to the most powerful remedies. Nerviline is a positive specific for all nerve pains, and ought to be kept on hand in every family. Sold everywhere, 25 cents a bottle.

ATTACKED BY AN ENEMY.

DEAR SIRS,—About a year ago I had a very bad attack of dyspepsia. For nearly four months I never ate a meal without suffering pain after. EASILY CAUGHT.

Croup, colds, sore throat and many painful ailments are easily caught in this changeable climate. The never-failing remedy is just as easily obtained in Hagyard's Yellow Oil, which is undoubtedly the best of all the many remedies offered for the cure of colds or pains.

Mr. Henry Graham, Wingham, writes us: "For fifteen years I have suffered with Indigestion, and during that time I got nothing to give me relief, although I tried a great many different kinds of medicine recommended for that complaint. I now feel like a new man, and this wonderful change has been accomplished by the use of four bottles of Northrup & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery. To me it has been a valuable medicine."

OVER THE ATLANTIC.

THE CANADIAN LIVE STOCK TRADE THREATENED.

British Ports May Be Closed to Canadian Cattle—Suicide of a German Officer—The Spanish Anarchists Still Causing Trouble—General Foreign.

LONDON, Feb. 12.—The agitation against live cattle imports is gaining dangerous strength. Following The Times The Morning Post, which hitherto has been most friendly to Canada, says: "In the presence of the grave danger of a spread of the disease to British herds the most obvious dictates of common sense may close the ports of England. We are spending millions of pounds to suppress the disease among home animals, yet with inexplicable fatuity we leave the doors open at the ports. The closure of the ports to live animals would make no difference to the imports of dead meat nor raise the price."

Bell's Weekly Messenger, another general friend of Canada, indicates the seriousness of the present outbreak and urges the public to support Mr. Chaplin, if necessary, to stop all imports of live cattle. The situation is one of grave peril to the Canadian trade, and the Canadian Government may perhaps strengthen the position by promptly announcing a rigid quarantine against United States cattle entering British Columbia, as well as the rest of Canada.

A Cedar of Lebanon Has Fallen.

LONDON, Feb. 12.—The last memorial service over the remains of the Rev. Mr. Spurgeon was held last night. The funeral service this morning opened at 11 o'clock.

The Rev. Mr. Pierson, the American minister who filled Mr. Spurgeon's pulpit during the latter's illness, made a most eloquent address. He dwelt at length upon Mr. Spurgeon's powerful influence. "A cedar of Lebanon has fallen," he said, "and the crash of its downfall has shocked the whole land. No such vast vacancy has before been left in the church in a century."

The coffin containing the remains was then taken from the catafalque upon which it had been placed since Monday night and conveyed to the hearse and thence to Norwood Cemetery.

Arrest of a Spy.

BERLIN, Feb. 12.—A sensation was caused in military circles here yesterday by the receipt of a despatch from Augsburg, Bavaria, announcing the arrest of a spy, said to be an officer of a foreign army. The stranger, when seized, had in his possession a bomb successful in stealing one of the new and most improved rifles of the German army. This bomb contained important parts of the weapon were found sewn in the clothes worn by the prisoner.

Volcanic Phenomena in New Zealand.

WELLINGTON, N.Z., Feb. 12.—North Island has been shaken by severe earthquakes, which are supposed to be connected with the eruption of Mount Tarawera. The flames from the volcano reach a great height, presenting a grand spectacle at night.

Foreign Gossip.

Berlin police have discovered and frustrated a widespread Anarchist plot.

Official notice has been given that a famine prevails in Bombay presidency.

The secretary of the German Admiralty has asked the Reichstag for an appropriation to increase the naval force.

The Russian Government has granted the sum of 500,000 roubles to be expended for the relief of the sufferers in the famine districts.

Mr. Gladstone has sent a letter to Sir William Vernon Harcourt, in which he pays a high tribute to the character and worth of the late Duke of Clarence and Avondale.

The Russian General VonHaford shot himself through the head with a revolver yesterday at Berlin. He was 72 years of age and was suffering from disease of the larynx.

A petroleum well belonging to the Assam Railway Company, near Calcutta, India, has been struck, to a depth of 650 feet, at which point a vein was struck which is flowing at a rate of 700 barrels daily. This is the largest well yet struck there is a rich supply of oil in the district.

A report comes here from China by way of Singapore that General Tchen Kitong has been executed at Tien Tsin for treason in having pledged himself to support French influence, in having become a Christian and in having sought an audience with the Pope to facilitate the work of Catholic missions in China.

Shot Himself Six Hours After His Wedding.

MANCHESTER, Feb. 12.—Last night Mr. Arnold Warden, an artist of this city, shot himself under sensational circumstances.

He was married at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon to Miss Alice Heywood, daughter of Mr. Charles Heywood. The newly married couple, with their friends, went to Mr. Heywood's house to spend the evening. About 10 o'clock the deceased bade one of his friends good-night, went into the drawing room, and immediately afterward a shot was heard.

Mr. Heywood, going into the room, found the deceased lying on the floor with a revolver near him, and this morning he died.

His Tongue Swelled Until it Caused Death.

NEW YORK, Feb. 12.—William Hanley, 25 years old, a newsdealer at Sackett and Hicks-street, died in the City Hospital, Brooklyn, yesterday morning of glossitis, or inflammation of the tongue, after an illness of four days. The disease is an extremely rare one. Hanley was attacked with the grip on Friday morning, and in the evening his tongue began to swell. By Sunday night the tongue and surrounding glands were swollen to such an extent as to force his jaws apart, and he was unable to speak or swallow. He continued in this condition until his death.

An autopsy on the body was made yesterday afternoon in the presence of the entire medical staff of the institution. The conclusion reached by most of the doctors was that the disease was formed through a diphtheretic inflammation.

Rolly Must Stay in Quod.

KINGSTON, Feb. 12.—Sir John Thompson, Minister of Justice, considered the large petition forwarded to him asking that W. R. Moffat's term in prison be shortened. Sir John says that the matter is beyond his interference.

Dangerous Counterfeits.

Counterfeits are always dangerous, more so that they always closely IMITATE THE ORIGINAL IN APPEARANCE AND NAME. The remarkable success achieved by Nasal Balm as a positive cure for Catarrh and Cold in the head has induced unprincipled parties to imitate it. The public are cautioned not to be deceived by nostrums imitating Nasal Balm in name, appearance, bearing such names as Nasal Cream, Nasal Balsam, etc. Ask for Nasal Balm and do not take any imitation. If dealers may urge upon you. For sale by all druggists or sent post-paid on receipt of price (50c and $1.) by addressing Hor & Co. Brockville. Ont.

KNIGHTS OF LABOR.

The Knights of Labor aim to protect their members against financial difficulties, etc., Hoppard's Yellow Oil protects all who use it from the effects of cold and exposure, such as rheumatism, neuralgia, lumbago, sore throat, and all inflammatory pain. Nothing compares with it as a handy pain cure for man and beast.

For coughs, colds, bronchitis and all lung and throat troubles, there is no preparation of medicine can compare with Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup. It never fails to afford prompt and permanent relief. It relieves all soreness, and heals the diseased parts. It immediately soothes the most troublesome cough, and by promoting expectoration, removes the mucus which stops up the air tubes which causes difficulty in breathing thereby gives relief to that oppressive tightness experience in the chest. Public speakers and singers will find Bickle's Anti Consumptive Syrup of inestimable value, as it speedily and effectually allays all irritation, and hoarseness in the throat and bronchial tubes, and gives power to the vocal cords, rendering the voice clear and sonorous. If parents will but save the lives of their children, and themselves from much anxiety trouble and expense let them procure a bottle of Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup, and whenever a child has taken cold, has a cough or hoarseness, give the Syrup according to directions.

Our heaviest burdens are those we borrow.

Do y'u feel as though your friends had all deserted you, business calamities overwhelmed you, your body refusing to perform its duties, and even the sun had taken refuge behind a cloud? Then use Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery, and hope will return and despondency disappear. Mr. R. H. Baker, Ingoldsby, writes: "I am completely cured of Dyspepsia that caused me great suffering for three years. Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery is the medicine that effected the cure after trying many other medicines."

Much doing is not so important as well doing.

Fever and Ague and bilious derangements are positive'y cured by the use of Parmelee's Pills They purify the blood, remove such and bowels, from all bilious matter, but they open the excretory vessels, causing them to pour copious supplies from the blood of the bowels, after which the corrupted mass is thrown out by the natural passages of the body. They are used as a general family medicine with the best results.

The man who doesn't believe in God lives that way.

A. M. Hamilton., Warkworth, writes.—"For weeks I was troubled with a swollen ankle, which caused me much pain and annoyance Mr. Moyle, of this place, recommended Dr Thomas' Eclectric Oil for it. I tried it, and before one bottle was used I was cured. It is an article of great value."

Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator is pleasant to take, sure and effectual in destroying worms. Many have tried with best results.

But His Body, Unlike That of John Brown, Still Goes Marching On.

SAULT STE. MARIE, Feb. 12.—Coulter, the self-confessed murderer of his father, was arraigned on a charge of perjury in the Circuit Court this morning. He pleaded guilty. King of Medicines

A Cure "Almost Miraculous."

"When I was 14 years of age I had a severe attack of pneumonia and after I recovered had to go on crutches. A year later, scrofula, in the form of white swellings, appeared on various parts of my body, and for 11 years I was an invalid, being confined to my bed 6 years. In that time six or eleven sores appeared and broke, causing me great pain and suffering. I feared I never should get well.

"Early in 1886 I went to Chicago to visit a sister, but was confined to my bed most of the time I was there. In July I read a book, 'A Day with a Circus,' in which were statements of cures by Hood's Sarsaparilla. I was so impressed with the success of this medicine that I decided to try it. To my great gratification the sores soon decreased, and I began to feel better and in a short time I was up and out of doors. I continued to take Hood's Sarsaparilla for about a year, when, having used six bottles, I had become so fully released from this disease that I went to work for the Flint & Walling Mfg. Co., and since then on account of sickness. I believe the disease is expelled from my system. I always feel well, am in good spirits and have a good appetite. I am now 27 years of age and can walk as well as any one, except that one limb is a little shorter than the other, owing to the loss of bone, and the sores formerly on my right leg. To my friends my recovery seems almost miraculous, and I think Hood's Sarsaparilla is the king of medicines." WILLIAM A. LEHR, 9 N. Railroad St., Kendallville, Ind.

BELLEVILLE, FRIDAY, FEB. 12

THE TIDAL WAVE.

The tidal wave of loyalty and Conservatism continues to roll on over the country, overwhelming in its course the policy of the Grit party which the Hon. Edward Blake, the former idolized leader of that party, denounced as annexation under another name.

Six elections to Parliament were held on the 11th inst., of which five were in Ontario and one in Nova Scotia.

In this great banner province of Ontario the Government carried four of the five constituencies, namely, North Victoria, East Bruce, South Victoria, and East Middlesex—the first two of which were gained from the Opposition, who carried them in 1891 by 202 and 114 respectively. Halifax remained true to the National Policy, the majority being of the most satisfactory dimensions.

The gains and losses in the bye-elections thus far have been:

Con. Gains.	Grit Gain.
Soulanges,	Richelieu.
Lennox.
East Bruce,
North Victoria.

And the seat for Queen's, N.B., has been awarded by the court to the Conservative candidate. The Conservative gains thus foot up to 5, or 10 on a division, and the Grit gain is but 1 on a division, as Richelieu was one of two seats held by Sir Hector Langevin—a net Conservative gain of 9 on a division, or 38 majority in the Commons up to date.

That further gains will follow there cannot be any doubt, as 19 seats held by Grits last year are vacant and 9 protests against Grits are yet to be heard, whilst only 6 Conservative seats are vacant, and but 3 supporters of the Government have yet to face the courts. If, then, every Conservative seat vacant or that may be vacated by the courts were won by the Opposition, and if the Grits made no further losses, the Government would still have a majority of 20 in Parliament. The probability is, however, that the Government majority at the coming session will not fall much short of 50, and may not unlikely exceed that number.

AS TO RECIPROCITY.

The Winnipeg Free Press, which, although a pronounced opponent of the Government, is usually one of the most candid of their critics, says in its issue of the 6th inst.:

Neither party in Canada is of course directly responsible for the McKinley act, although the Conservatives have been blamed, and not without reason, for the continuance of a policy that made its application to this country possible, if it did not invite it. For thirteen years we have kept up a sort of tariff war with our neighbors, in willing submission to the sentiment expressed by the late Premier during the election campaign of 1878—reciprocity of trade or reciprocity of tariffs. As no attempt has since been made to get reciprocity of trade, it is naturally concluded that the victory of that year was intended to be used in bringing about reciprocity of tariffs.

Our contemporary is not, in this instance, so fair or so accurate as usual in its comments and statements. In opposition to its assertion, we herewith place that of Mr. S. J. Ritchie, of Akron, Ohio. Mr. Ritchie, who has large business interests in Ontario, is no lover of the present Government of Canada nor of British rule on this continent, therefore he cannot be prejudiced against his own country or its present rulers with whom he is politically in accord. In an open letter on the subject of reciprocity which he recently published, Mr. Ritchie said:

From the date that this treaty was terminated up to the present time, Canada has made constant efforts to have it renewed, either in whole or in part, and indeed has offered to greatly multiply the advantages which would accrue to the United States.

In fact, she has gone so far that when she adopted her present tariff system, which is alike operative to all countries, England not excepted, she carefully placed upon her statute book a law providing that whenever the United States admitted any of the articles formerly embraced in the schedule of the abrogated treaty, and many others not so embraced, being the products of Canada, into the United States free of duty, the Dominion of Canada would admit like articles or their equivalents, being the products of the United States, into Canada free of duty.

Thus for twenty-one years Canada has been asking us to renew our former friendly and reciprocal trade relations with her. To all this we have turned a deaf ear, and in none of the provisions now before Congress, providing for extended and free reciprocal trade relations with all other countries on this hemisphere, is there a single provision for those of Canada.

This is a fair, but not full, statement of the case, as for several years Canada admitted American grain, flour, &c., free of duty, without obtaining any corresponding advantage from our neighbors, whilst to-day our duties on their products are very much lower than those which they levy on ours.

As to no attempt having been made since 1878 to obtain reciprocity, the Free Press must have forgotten the "standing offer," Sir Charles Tupper's proposal in 1888 in the Fisheries commission and the visit of Canadian Ministers to Washington last year for the purpose of entering upon a preliminary conference, and the rejoicings of the Grit press over the misunderstanding which caused its postponement. The fact that the negotiations have been renewed and that Canada's representatives are now in Washington may cause the Free Press to correct the misstatement of which it has been guilty.

The best medical authorities say that the proper way to treat catarrh is to take a constitutional remedy, like Hood's Sarsaparilla.

An Amusing Exposure.

During the budget debate of last session, when Sir Richard Cartwright was depicting in graphic terms the ruin and despair that he alleged had overtaken the Canadian farmer, he was asked to locate where the ruin exists. With a sweep of his arm Sir Richard replied in thunder tones: "everywhere!"

Dr. Montague in reply made a palpable hit by quoting the reports in Sir Richard's organs of the speeches delivered by him during his campaign tour through Ontario, showing that in no place was this blue ruin located where his hearers would have personal knowledge of the facts.

Speaking at Renfrew, he talked of stagnation and ruin as usual, but he added by way of explanation: "I do not mean to "say it is in this part of the country."

In Guelph he addressed the farmers in the same strain, but to relieve their doubts as to his veracity he added; "I do not "say you are so affected here, but you are "very exceptionally situated."

In Oxford, the constituency represented by Sir Richard in parliament, he was not prepared to take full responsibility for his reference to the deplorable condition of the farmers, and attempted to save his personal reputation by saying: "You are so "situated as to feel it less than almost any "other part of our people."

At Oakwood, in South Victoria, one of the representative agricultural districts of Ontario, Sir Richard said, "He would not "presume to speak of the condition of the "farmers there, but pointed elsewhere."

Having brought ridicule upon Sir Richard's blue ruin tirade by showing that in no constituency did he find evidences of the despondency and distress of which he so frequently speaks, but which exist only in Sir Richard's fertile imagination, Dr. Montague quoted the author, who says:

"He is a wise prophet who places the date of the fulfilment of his prophecy at a time sufficiently distant that he may not live to see his own confusion;" and so, he added, "He is a wise preacher of despair who places the situation, the locality of that despair and of that ruin at a distance sufficiently great that the evidence may not be confronting him in the audience, or in the newspapers of the section, of the falsity of these statements which he makes."

HALIFAX.

Partials Returns Indicate the Return of the Conservative Candidates.

HALIFAX, N.S., Feb. 12.—Stairs and Kenny, the Conservative candidates, have 500 majority in Halifax and Dartmouth. Only portions of the county have been heard from as yet, but full returns will not likely change the result materially. The vote polled was away below that of March last, when Kenny had 1100 majority an I Stairs 939.

Full returns are not looked for till tomorrow night as a heavy blizzard is raging and the roads are all blocked.

CARLING IS ILL.

Carling Too Ill to Take Any Part in the Contest.

For the same reason Mr. Carling will not be able to do any canvassing in this campaign. His physician absolutely prohibits any outdoor work or public speaking. So that he will suffer that disadvantage as against his opponent.

NEW BRUNSWICK FINANCES.

They Are in a Very Bad Shape—A Business Tax Suggested.

ST. JOHN, N.B., Feb. 12.—Premier Blair addressed a public meeting at Sussex last night on the provincial finances. He admitted a deficit for the past year of between $60,000 and $70,000. He now proposes to make the revenue meet the expenditure by levying a tax on banks, insurance, telegraph and telephone companies and kindred organizations. This announcement is possibly put out as a feeler. It has created considerable excitement in business circles. The provincial finances are in a bad way. Mr. Blair frankly says last night that the interest on the debt of New Brunswick had increased from $45,000 in 1892 to $103,000 at the present time. Mr. Blair flatly contradicted the reports that he intended to dissolve the House and forsake provincial politics for the Dominion arena.

Fifteen cases were discovered in the building occupied by the United Hebrew Charity Association in East Twelfth street. The victims are men, women and children. The places were fumigated and the people removed to North Brother Island. This is the same as the hunger typhus fever of Russia. It is said to be the worst of all fevers.

"Small Business."

Patriot Newberry, of Chicago, has introduced a bill in the United States congress to compel all pensioners of the United States government to live in that country or forfeit their pensions. This because he has discovered that there are 1,316 United States pensioners living in Canada. During the war, when the great American Newberrys were skipping to Canada or mutilating themselves to escape the draft, or were paying big wads of inflated greenbacks to send substitutes to the front—in those days, when 50,000 gallant Canadians took up arms and fought against slavery and for the preservation of the union, Uncle Sam wasn't at all particular about where his soldiers lived when at home.—Spectator.

Meeting at Plainfield.

The campaign in East Hastings on behalf of Mr. Northrup, the Government candidate, is being conducted with vigor. Last evening, a large and enthusiastic meeting in his interest was held at Plainfield. Mr. E. N. Gould was chosen chairman. Mr. H. Corby, M.P., was the first speaker, and for half an hour dwelt on the policy of the Government of which he is a supporter, demonstrating that the country was in a prosperous condition under the N.P. Mr. W. R. Aylsworth also spoke briefly, but did not touch upon the political questions of the day. Mr. J. B. Aylsworth, of Newburg, spoke also in the interest of the Reform candidate. Ald. Ellis gave an admirable address on behalf of Mr. Northrup. The last speaker of the evening was the popular Conservative candidate, who spoke for an hour, and in a clear and convincing manner placed before the electors the policy which he was supporting. He was frequently applauded, and at the close was loudly cheered. Before the proceedings terminated, a vote of thanks was tendered the chairman, and cheers were given for the Queen, and for Mr. Northrup.

A Narrow Escape.

About two weeks ago Mr. John Lafferty, of Rawdon, who was working in one of Gilmour's shanties in North Hastings, met with what came near proving a fatal accident. He was crossing a stream with a heavy load of logs, when one, sleighs and all went through the ice, the water at that place being about 12 feet deep. Mr. Lafferty dived down, pulling the chain bolt, released the team, which by the assistance of another team which happened to be near by, was thus got out of the water, and Mr. Lafferty mounting one of the horses went as speedily as possible to the shanties, some three miles, his clothes being frozen stiff long before he reached there. He has felt none the worse, how ever, for his cold bath. The sleighs were afterwards recovered.—News Argus.

Miss Minna Jones and Miss Mary Yeomans, the clever and very success ful teachers of the class, were presented with a vote of heartiest thanks for all their services to the class.

An enquiry from Belgium for Canadian eggs was made some days ago, and the letter was sent to a Montreal dealer for reply as to further trading. This, he presumed, was the cause of enquiry.

Ladies appreciate Anti-Dandruff from the fact, that it not only thoroughly removes Dandruff with three applications, but stops falling of the hair, restores fading hair to its original color, and makes it soft and pliable without leaving any indication of a dressing being used—clear as crystal, clean to use, it is a valuable toilet preparation.

Drowning Accident.

An Operator at Iroquois Meets a Watery Grave.

IROQUOIS, Ont., Feb. 12.—A sad drowning accident took place about nine o'clock this morning. A young man named Arthur Locke, an operator at the station, went out on the ice for water. The drifting snow, it appears, extended beyond and obscured the edge of the ice so that he went too near it, and slipped in. He was seen by several parties, but before assistance could reach him he sank, and never rose again. His father, J. E. Locke, of Edmeston C.-more, and his brother, J. A. Locke, Queen's University, Kingston, were at once notified. Boats are out dragging the river, but the body has not yet been recovered.

POLITICAL POINTS

The candidates in East Elgin to-day are A. B. Ingram, Conservative, who redeemed the constituency last year by 46, and Dr. Wilson, Grit, who was the defeated candidate in March last.

There will be elections to-morrow in King's and Digby, Nova Scotia. Both counties returned Grits at the last election, by 161 and 73 respectively.

This evening, a meeting in Mr. Northrup's interest will be held in the village of Shannonville.

The political contests are becoming very warm in Montreal. Strong efforts will be made in the Central division to defeat Mayor McShane.

Sir A. P. Caron was announced to speak last night on behalf of Mr. Northrup in East Hastings, but the Postmaster General was suffering from a severe cold, consequently had to cancel the engagement.

The Grits can no longer boast of a majority in the provinces of Ontario and Quebec, taken jointly.

		Majority.
Digby, N.S.	February 13	73
Kings, N.S.	" 13	161
East Hastings	" 20	54
South Ontario	" 20	34
West Huron	" 22	379
London	" 25	183
Quebec West	" 26	53
Two Mountains	" 27	287

Conservatives in Roman, Grits in italics. Bro. Sam Hughes, editor of the Lindsay Warder, won the greatest victory of the campaign yesterday in North Victoria, where he defeated the unsavory Barron and converted a Grit majority of 202 last year, to a Conservative majority of about 150. Well done, Major!

Trade With the West Indies.

The Government continues to receive the most gratifying information of the growth of Canadian trade with the West Indian islands. During the past few months the steamers Alpha, Duart Castle and Taymouth Castle have taken out, via the ports of Halifax, N. S., and St. John, N. B., a very considerable quantity of merchandise and produce, but what is especially gratifying is that flour, in the export of which to the West Indies Canada did prac tically nothing before Mr. Adam Brown's visit to Jamaica, is now going out in large quantities to all the islands. Already shipments have been made to the following islands: Jamaica, Antigua, St. Kitts, Guadaloupe, Barbadoes, St. Thomas, Martinique, Demarara, Bermuda, Turke's Island, Montserrat, St. Lucia and Trinidad. Ontario millers can ship flour via the St. John and Halifax routes from points as far west as Paris, at rates as low as by New York. It is also learned that large quantities of split peas are being purchased. The Gananoque Carriage Co. y are doing a very large business in their line, and considerable quantities of general merchandise such as ready-made clothing, boots and shoes, &c., are being sent to these islands.

Nothing to Expect.

The Montreal Herald wants to know how long it would be, in case Canada were independent, before the United States would take advantage of "some trifling dispute over our fisheries, our shipping, border smuggling, railway through traffic, or some such question," to treat this country as Chili has been treated. The probability is that the time would not be long, and nobody will entertain a doubt as to the result. Canada independent would be Canada absolutely at the mercy of a powerful, wealthy, ambitious, avaricious and absolutely unscrupulous neighbor. Yet the party which the Montreal Herald belongs has repeated pilgrimages to Washington. The policy of the party is dictated from Washington. And all the efforts of the party have been directed to sever our connection with the mother country and move toward a union with the republic. When the Herald points out that Canada would have little mercy to expect from her neighbor were she not sheltered by the flag of England it condemns its leaders and the policy of its party.—Spectator.

The American Farmer is Wide Awake.

The Liberal trade policy is based upon the assumption that free trade with the United States would give the Canadian farmer a market for his produce that would speedily make him rich. The Americans are pictured as eager to buy his wares, having either none themselves or a very inferior article; and he is taught that the removal of the tariff barrier would send the price of farm produce up to a charming figure. This prospect may not fascinate the mechanic, but the Liberals angle for him with other baits. All this reasoning is carried on without reference to the American farmer, who is neither a millionaire, a fool nor an idler. If the Ontario farmer would be enriched by his province commercially entering the Republic, why is it that the Michigan farmer is not a bloated capitalist; and if the Quebecer could then till the soil so as to reap a crop of gold, how is it that farming is not a paying industry in Vermont and Massachusetts? The truth is that the bonanza farms of the Western States have cut the prices in agricultural produce, and that were our farmers to enter freely into the American market, they would find the competition there exceedingly keen.

—The year ending June 30 h, 1860, was the last full pre-McKinley year when there was no especial tariff against Canadian farm products. Then we taxed each other's goods somewhat alike, and the farmers will be interested to note that in many things they not only did not capture the American market, but were unable to keep our own. In that year, for example, the grains. We sold the Americans $2,931 worth of corn, but they sold us $1,657,612 worth. This is one of their staples, but it is grown on soil very like ours. They sent us, too, $98,325 in oats, while we sent them only $8,527. In wheat and fl ur, the figures stood $38,644 exported to the States and $762,721 imported from the States. It is true that much of this import was afterwards reshipped to Great Britain, but that does not weaken the argument that the American farmer came right through our tariff wall and sold in our market. If we had a great bursting superabundance only waiting a chance to flood the American market, it would effectually keep the farmer who lives right in the midst of that market from carrying his coals to Newcastle.

But if the farmers have given up growing grains, leaving that to the prairies, both Canadian and American, they have not given up making cheese and butter. Yet the figures show that we sold the Americans $6 425 worth of cheese and they sold us $2,597 worth; we marketed their butter to the value of $5,059 and they retorted by selling under our noses butter totalling $62,212. We distanced them in cheese and soon will in butter in the "far distant" market of Britain, but we are beaten hopelessly not only in our "natural market" across the border, but in our own "restricted, over-loaded market" at home. Canadians think they can grow apples, but the Americans sold us $250,000 worth of that unrivalled fruit, while we sold them only about $150,000. They beat us, too, in beef, in pork, and in dried meats, in each case selling more to us than we sold to them. The balance was in our favor in barley, in horses, in eggs, in lambs, and in poultry; but even in some of these articles we bought large quantities from our neighbors.

The farmer who imagines that the American yeoman has gone out of business and that he will fatten in a community where many of our manufacturers and merchants are fearful of failing, has more credulity than sense.

An Interesting Case.

Ladies' big hats, worn at theatres, are at last the basis of a lawsuit. Henry Hilbert, of Berwick, Pa., has just brought such an action against the management of the Berwick opera house. Mr. Hilbert alleges that the manager received from him an admission fee upon the false and fraudulent pretext that the plaintiff should see the show, or at least the stage. An usher seated Mr. Hilbert directly behind Misses Laura Gorton Greissman and Libbie Greissman, her sister. Each of these ladies wore a hat of twenty-one and one-half inches diameter across the brim. These combined brims measured forty three inches across. The hats were slightly tilted, in keeping with a prevalent style, to the back of their wearers' heads, so as completely to shut out the complainant's view of the stage. In the petition complaint Mr. Hilbert alleges that he politely asked the ladies thus obstructing his view to remove their hats. They not only refused to do so, but one of them giggled at him. He then appealed to the usher to have the obstruction removed. That functionary demurred, saying they were "nice ladies, visiting the best people in town," and it would be too bad to offend them by urging a matter of such delicacy.

ONTARIO LEGISLATURE.

OPENED YESTERDAY BY CHIEF JUSTICE HAGARTY.

Who Officiated on Account of the Illness of the Lieutenant-Governor—A Speech from the Throne—Measures Which Will Engage the Attention of the Government.

TORONTO, Feb. 12.—If there is any desire abroad to popularize the meetings of the Ontario Legislature it must have occurred to many in attendance at the opening yesterday that the scene presented contained fruitful suggestion to say the least of it. The faces of Mr. Mowat, Mr. Meredith, Mr. H. E. Clarke, Mr. Hardy, Mr. E. F. Clarke and other leading men were absent from their accustomed chairs, but in their stead appeared the blooming faces of fair young girls, or the more matured but still attractive charms of handsomely dressed matrons. Certainly to the male portion of the sight-seers present this was a decidedly acceptable change, for, however much we may pretend to admire ability and intellectual prominence, there is no pretence whatever about our admiration of the other sex. The usual occupants of the chairs stood about playing gallant to the ladies who came down to see that the comfort of the fair ones was properly attended to. The dressing of the ladies was on the whole subdued, the bonnets and cloaks of the street being retained. In this respect it is quite different from the similar event which will take place in Ottawa in a couple of weeks, when the ladies of the Capital and surrounding country will deserted on the Senate chamber and, rivalling the flowers, see to it that all due formalities are observed. Not only display of graceful necks, silver shoulders and plump arms, which are such a much a feature of the Ottawa show, were totally wanting in the meeting of yesterday. Consequently as a spectacle it was lacking in color and vivacity to its great prototype.

To Business, Gentlemen.

Speaker Ballantyne took the chair according to the custom that has prevailed in recent years some time before His Excellency, or rather his representative arrived, and some formal announcements such as resignations of members and elections held since last session were made.

They Came in Pomp.

At 3 o'clock sharp a gleam of color was seen at the western door and Commander Law, the Major Gray of the occasion, marched in followed by a simple dignified gentleman who was none other than Chief Justice Hagarty, the commissioner who was to act for the Lieutenant-Governor. He took his seat and at once plunged into the midst of business, or in other words started to explain that acting as the deputy of the Lieutenant-Governor he was unable to allow them the reasons for calling the House together. He then read the Speech from the Throne, which follows, very much in the same way he would read a judgment on a point of law that needed but slight elucidation:

From the Queen's Speech.

The lamented death a few weeks ago of the Duke of Clarence and Avondale caused profound sorrow throughout the British Empire. On behalf of the people of Ontario the Lieutenant-Governor communicated by cable their deep sympathy with Her Majesty and the Royal Highnesses the Prince and Princess of Wales in their great affliction. His Royal Highness was pleased to acknowledge the message very graciously.

I am pleased to be able to congratulate you on the bountiful harvest of the past year.

The demand for the publications of the Department of Agriculture and for the enlargement of the scope of the Bureau of Industries evinces a growing desire for fuller information with respect to all matters affecting the interests of the husbandman. The large attendance at Farmers' Institutes and at meetings of other associations connected with agriculture, and the practical character of the work which is now being done, are further signs of agricultural progress. The work of instruction carried on during the past year by the Dairymen's Association, and by means of the Traveling Dairy, was very satisfactory. The demand for the Traveling Dairy were far greater than could be met.

Notwithstanding the decreased output of timber and saw logs last winter, the revenue from woods and forests for the year 1891 was in excess of the estimate. The receipts on account of Crown lands sales were also larger than anticipated.

Saving the Revenue Producer.

Owing to the exceptional drought in the spring and early part of the summer of last year, forest fires were unusually numerous and extensive. By means of the system of fire ranging adopted some years ago, these fires were in some instances entirely extinguished at an early stage, and in others confined to limited areas. The prompt information conveyed to the Crown Lands Department through this service greatly facilitated the work of the department in dealing with the applications for the cutting of hundred million feet of pine in unlicensed territory through which fires had passed were, during the latter part of the year, disposed of at good prices.

A commission has been appointed to report upon the desirability of establishing a forest reservation and park in part of the Nipissing district south of the River Sturgeon and upon the methods and expense of maintaining and managing the same.

The returns of the mining industries of Great Britain and the United States from the failure of several large mining companies during the last year had an injurious effect upon existing and projected enterprises in Ontario also. A steady demand for asbestos, has been kept up for our mineral lands, the leasing provisions in the Mining Act being regarded with special favor. A bill to consolidate and amend the mining laws will be laid before you.

Will Fit After This Session.

I am pleased to be able to state that the new Parliament buildings are so near completion that the departmental offices will be removed thereto during the summer and that the next session of the Legislature will probably be held in the new buildings.

I am glad to inform you also that the Provincial University buildings, so seriously damaged by the fire two years ago, will be fully restored within the next few months. The improved interior arrangements and the erection of a library apart from the main building will add greatly to the efficiency of the work of the University, and will enable also to perceive the progress made with the buildings by Victoria College, recently federated with the provincial institution.

The completion of the new buildings erected for the use of the Law Society of Ontario marks an epoch in the history of one of the oldest educational institutions of the province. So great has been the demand for admission to the college that the increased accommodation is still inadequate to meet our public wants. A full report by the trustees of the college will be submitted.

Bills have been prepared and will be laid before you immediately consolidating the municipal laws, the assessment laws and the election laws respectively as these now stand. Bills amending these laws will also be submitted for your consideration, having the view of such amendments as you approve of being introduced into the consolidated acts before the passing thereof.

"Suide" Insurance Tabooed.

A bill will be submitted to extend some of the provisions of the laws heretofore made in respect of insurance to certain classes of insurance not included in the present enactments. Also a measure to correct the acts which have arisen from the difficulty under existing laws of distinguishing licensed insurance companies and legitimate and bona fide benefit societies from organizations which are unauthorized and illusory.

The report of the Commission on the Fish and Game of the province will be laid before you, and if possible, measures will be submitted during the session having in view the more effective protection of these important sources of food supply.

Amongst other bills which are in preparation is a bill for the assessment of collateral or remote inheritances in certain cases; a bill adopting in substance the recent modifications by the British Parliament of the laws relating to Mortmain and a measure respecting the emoluments of certain of the county officers who are paid by fees.

The public accounts for the past year will be laid before you at an early day. You will be pleased to learn that the expenditure has been kept within the appropriation, and that the revenue has exceeded the amount anticipated.

The estimates for the current year will be presented for your approval. They will be found to be framed with due regard to economy, and to the necessities of the public service.

A Little Business Done

After the reading of the speech the Chief since leaving Ottawa, and departed by the carriage that had conveyed him to the door. In front of the building a company, School of Infantry, under command of Capt. McDougall and Lieut. Lemir, were drawn up.

There was a general movement of the ladies and gentlemen when Her Majesty's representative had retired, and a buzzing of conversation filled the chamber. There was much shaking of hands as acquaintances who had not met since last session descried each other.

After the ladies had resumed their places the legislators the Speaker again took the chair, and Mr. Mowat introduced James Aikwood, the new member for East Wellington.

On motion of Mr. Mowat it was agreed that the consideration of the Speech from the Throne will be proceeded with on Monday, and the Attorney-General announced that the financial statement will be given almost immediately.

EASILY CAUGHT.

CROUP, colds, sore throat and many painful ailments are easily caught in this changeable climate. The never-failing remedy is just as easily obtained in Hagyard's Yellow Oil, which is undoubtedly the best of all the many remedies offered for the cure of colds or pains.

Mr. Henry Graham, Wingham, writes us: "For fifteen years I have suffered with Indigestion, and during that time I got nothing to give me relief, although I tried a great many different kinds of medicine recommended for that complaint. I now feel like a new man, and this wonderful change has been accomplished by the use of four bottles of Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery. To me it has been a valuable medicine"

SOME FAMOUS FAMINES.

REMINISCENCES OF THE PAST INDUCED BY THE RUSSIAN HORROR.

The Thirty Years' War Furnished the Worst Spectacle of Starvation—A Wholesale Exodus from Palestine to Escape Death from Famine—India and China.

With famines in Russia, in India, in Burmah and here and there in China, the world is for the moment sufficiently afflicted. It appears to be in the scheme of Divine Providence that the human race shall always have its full quota of misery, and if it is not war some other plague is unchained that the weak creature, man, may not be lifted up by pride and vanity. With the primeval man the food supply was always intermittent. With this unhappy individual it was always either a feast or a famine.

Living by the chase alone he gorged himself with his prey when he caught it, like the anaconda after a dormant period, starved till chance supplied him with the next meal. When the nomadic life gradually merged into a more stable existence, when the fields began to be cultivated, and the pastoral life led to the collection of large flocks and herds, the food supply became more regular, but owing to wars, pestilence, drought, floods or other causes famines reappeared from time to time, causing widespread desolation.

It is probable they will never entirely disappear, though, owing to the greater variety of crops cultivated and the speedier means of communication, it is gratifying to observe that they are becoming much less frequent in the civilized part of the globe and far less disastrous. The statisticians record nearly 400 famines in the history of the world that have been of considerable importance, but the list is only relatively correct, those of minor consequence not being mentioned.

In India, owing directly to drought, and in China for a variety of reasons, these periods of scarcity have been endemic from time immemorial, and there is no means of knowing how many have occurred. In China local famines would be of annual occurrence except for the forethought of the Government in supplying rice, while those that succeed the frequent inundations of the Yellow River are appalling. "And there was a famine in the land" is the scriptural manner of denoting one of these scourges.

In Palestine, the Canaan of the Israelites, the land flowing with milk and honey, the population existed in a state of constant suffering for want of food. In patriarchal times all the Hebrews migrated to Egypt to avoid perishing by pure starvation. Food appears to have been abundant in the valley of the Nile at this epoch, though before the people had learned how to divert the water of the river into their fields and to use it in the most economical manner, famines had been as common in this region as elsewhere.

We are not aware that the ancient Greeks suffered severely for want of food, for if their own seas, forests and fields did not produce enough they could draw supplies of grain from the countries about the Mediterranean. The Phœnicians, who had colonized the south of France and Spain, drew their supplies from the granaries of Africa, but all the tribes inhabiting the northern forests of Europe, among which may be numbered our Anglo-Saxon ancestors, subsisting, as they did in a great measure by the chase, were decimated by famine at least one year in three.

Famine was unknown among the ancient Romans in the early period of their history, that is, as long as their manners continued simple and austere. Luxury came among them with foreign conquest. The rich became very rich, the poor very poor. The former bought great estates in the country, and a great part of the arable land was turned into parks and gardens, driving the peasants to Rome, where they augmented the destitute classes and had to be fed by the Government. It was a curious state of things in the imperial city caused by the necessity of feeding at least half the population to prevent rebellion.

It required a whole fleet of grain ships to bring supplies from Africa or Syria, and if they were accidentally delayed by a storm the Emperor fairly trembled on his throne from fear of the people. The most notable famine in Roman annals was in the reign of Titus, seventy-nine years after Christ, when the starving cohorts rebelled and pillaged the convoys of provisions on the way to Rome to their insatiable populace. Josephus gives frightful details of the famine at Jerusalem during the siege by this Emperor, though the Roman Empire was rotten to the core it would probably have existed some time longer if hunger had not driven the hordes of Attila from their forests to the fertile and supposed abundance in Southern and Western Europe.

During the Dark and the Middle Ages the population of Northern Europe, and of France especially, lived in an atmosphere of war, famine and pestilence. In the year 541 not a drop of rain fell in Europe and scarcely more in Asia, and the natural result was a three years' famine, and during it the whole of a part of the people of Europe were supplied by the ships of the little Italian republics, just beginning to have a precarious existence, which brought grain from Africa.

Not long afterward France was so desolated by a failure of the crops that the public treasury was exhausted to feed the people, and King Clovis was obliged to strip the silver from the royal tombs in the cathedral of St. Denis. There were two remarkable famines during the reign of Charlemagne in the eighth century, and several in the ninth century as severe that the famished peasants made bread of earth. During the two or three succeeding centuries they recurred with distressing regularity, having as their principal causes wars among feudal lords and the crusades.

Whole regions were depopulated, the misery being increased by the ravages of the plague. Cannibalism was of daily occurrence. Parents fed upon their children, and children devoured their parents. Rats, mice, reptiles and every imaginable vegetation served to give variety to these foul feasts. In the short space of fifty years there were forty-eight years of famine out of sixty-three. There were thirty-three years of famine in the twelfth century, caused by wars among the nobility.

Paris often suffered from famine during long sieges, and in one of which one-third of its population perished. This was in 1438. During the siege of the city by Henry IV., 1,500 persons were found dead every morning in the streets. Sieges of cities during the Middle Ages, whether in the Netherlands, France, Ireland or Italy, offer the same frightful peculiarities.

Famines followed necessarily in France on the protracted wars of Louis XIV., with a repetition of all the horrors already detailed. The King ondeavored, having caused the miseries of his subjects, to alleviate them to the best of his ability by edicts to prevent the hoarding of food supplies, and by importing grain at the public expense.

During the reign of Louis XV., his successor, there was a continual scarcity of food, and the misery of the people was increased by what was called the famine League, an association of courtiers and other nobles to buy up grain and sell it at double rates. After this and a host of other infamies it was only natural that the deluge should come in the shape of the revolution to sweep away the feudal iniquities that had accumulated until they had become absolutely insupportable to a long-suffering people.

Since Genghis Khan and Tamerlane, the thirty years' war furnished the most pertinent illustration of the horrors of that particular scorge of mankind. In Lorraine 600 cities and villages were depopulated and became mere piles of wood and stone that only sheltered wolves and other wild animals. The armies took away the draught animals. Dogs took their places. The dogs were taken away and replaced by the men. The men were levied into the armies and the women took to wandering through the forests like wild beasts.

Now population gradually disappeared through famine and exposure till of 1,200,000 human beings only 50,000 remained. Human flesh became a common article of diet. Families fed upon one another. A woman was caught salting the limbs of her child, 8 years old. The armies were equally destitute of food. A surgeon called upon to amputate a wounded wrist was asked by the patient what he should give him for his services. "Your wrist," replied the surgeon. It was given, and he devoured it on the spot. The tale told of Dante by Ugolino and his children is not more horrible.

Only three or four periods of scarcity of food that can be called famine have occurred in Europe during the present century. These were in 1812, 1817, 1847, and 1853. In 1847 315,000 starving poor had to be fed in Paris. In 1853 the crops failed in France, Germany, England, and Piedmont, and Louis Napoleon, to prevent a rise in the price of grain, caused the supplies of the army to be purchased abroad. It is to be noted that the destitution that prevailed in England in 1847 was one of the causes that led to the abrogation of the corn laws.

Droughts are of late years the most frequent cause of famine, which usually occurs among people who depend on a single crop, as on rice in the east Indies and China or on wheat in Russia, and we may add in Nebraska. In Ireland the potato crop fails from an excess of moisture rather than from the want of it. Famines sometimes occur among fishermen from the failure of fish to visit their coasts in sufficient numbers.—Chicago Chronicle.

It is said that Canada is the only country in the world in which the military force is armed with the old Snider rifle. Military men in the Dominion are urging the adoption of a more modern arm.

ATTACKED BY AN ENEMY.

DEAR SIRS,—About a year ago I had a very bad attack of dyspepsia. For nearly four months I never ate a meal without suffering pain after. I had got so weak I could scarcely walk, when one day I saw an advertisement for B.B.B., and thought I would try a bottle. Four bottles cured me completely, and I am now strong and healthy.

BAD, WORSE, WORST.

Cold, cough, consumption, to cure the first and second and prevent the third, use Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam, the never failing family medicine for all diseases of the throat, lungs and chest. A marvel of healing in pulmonary complaints.

Fogged Out.—None but those who have become fagged out know what a depressed miserable feeling it is. All dire ills revolve, and despondency has taken hold of the sufferers. They feel as though there is nothing to live for. There, however, is a cure—one box of Parmelee's Vegetable Pills will do wonders in restoring health and strength.

A neglected cough brings on consumption—the most fatal and prevalent of all physical ills that flesh is heir to. To check the malady in its early stage before the deadly tubercles develop themselves in the lungs use Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, which allays bronchitis, asthma, catarrh, piles, kidney trouble, and soreness of the muscles and joints.

Live as long as you may, the first twenty years are the largest half of your life.

KNIGHTS OF LABOR.

The Knights of Labor aim to protect their members against financial difficulties, etc., Hagyard's Yellow Oil protects all who use it from the effects of cold and exposure, such as rheumatism, neuralgia, lumbago, sore throat, and all inflammatory pain. Nothing compares with it as a handy pain cure for man and beast.

For coughs, colds, bronchitis and all lung and throat troubles, there is no preparation of medicine can compare with Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup. It never fails to afford prompt and permanent relief. It removes all soreness, and heals the diseased parts. It immediately soothes the most troublesome cough, and by promoting expectoration, removes the mucus which stops up the air tubes which cause difficulty in breathing thereby gives relief to that depressing tightness experience in the chest. Public speakers and singers will find Bickle's Anti Consumptive Syrup of inestimable value, as it speedily and effectually allays all irritation, and huskiness in the throat and bronchial tubes, and gives power to the vocal cords, rendering the voice clear and sonorous. If parents wish to save the lives of their children, and themselves from much anxiety trouble and expense let them procure a bottle of Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup, and whenever a child has taken cold, has a cough or hoarseness, give the Syrup according to directions.

Our heaviest burdens are those we borrow.

Do you feel as though your friends had all deserted you, business calamities overwhelmed you, your body refusing to perform its duties, and even the sun had taken refuge behind a cloud? Then use Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery, and hope will return and despondency disappear. Mr R. H. Baker, Ingoldsby, writes: "I am completely cured of Dyspepsia that caused me great suffering for three years. Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery is the medicine that effected the cure after trying many other medicines."

Much doing is not so important as well doing.

Fever and Ague and bilious derangements are positively cured by the use of Parmelee's Pills. They not only cleanse the stomach and bowels, from all bilious matter, but they open the excretory vessels, causing them to pour copious effusions from the blood into the bowels, after which the corrupted mass is thrown out by the natural passage of the body. They are used as a general family medicine with the best results.

The man who doesn't believe in God lives that way.

A. M. Hamilton, Warkworth, writes,—"For weeks I was troubled with a swelled ankle, which caused me much pain and annoyance. Mr. Mayhee, of this place, recommended Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil for it. I tried it, and before one bottle was used I was cured. It is an article of great value."

AT THE TABERNACLE.

DR. TALMAGE ON THE BESTIAL PROPENSITIES OF A SINFUL NATURE.

Science and Archæology Have Given Up New Light on the Story of Nebuchadnezzar and Shown Its Agreement With History and Natural Law.

BROOKLYN, Feb. 7.—With a mighty acclaim the long meter doxology rose at the beginning of the service. The inestimable value of Christianity as an elevating and ennobling influence on the nature of man formed the subject of Dr. Talmage's sermon this morning. The brilliant and original preacher chose as his text the humiliation of the Babylonish king, who, being destitute of religion, sank to the level of the brute. Daniel iv, 28, "All this came upon the King Nebuchadnezzar."

Colonel Rawlinson, the oriental traveler, says that the exhumed bricks, not only of Babylon, but of a hundred towns in an area of one hundred miles in length and thirty in breadth, are inscribed with the name of Nebuchadnezzar. He was a great warrior, and at the glance of his sword nations prostrated themselves. He was a great king and built a city reservoir ninety miles in circumference and one hundred and twenty feet deep, and constructed a hanging garden four hundred feet square and seventy-five feet high, some say to please Amuhia, his wife, who had been born among the hills, and others say to get a pleasure ground free from mosquitoes which afflict the levels.

I think, from his character, the latter reason may have impelled him as much as the former. When he conquered King Zedekiah, so as to have no more trouble with him, he put his eyes out—a most barbarous way of incapacitating an enemy. But Babylon was a great place, the houses surrounded by gardens and the housetops were connected with each other by bridges, and one day Nebuchadnezzar walked out on those suspension bridges and showed, perhaps to a royal visitor, the vastness of his realm as the sun kindles the domes with glistenings almost insufferable, and the great streets thunder up their pomp into the ear of the monarch, and armed towers stand around adorned with spoils of conquered empires.

Nebuchadnezzar waves his hand above the stupendous scene and exclaims, "Is not this great Babylon that I have built for the house of the kingdom by the might of my power and for the honor of my majesty?" In other words: "What a great man I am. Babylon was not anything until I adorned it. See these water works, see those gardens, see those forts. I did all this. I shall never be forgotten. Why my name is on every brick in all those walls. Just look at me. I am more than a man."

But in an instant all that splendor is gone from his vision, for a voice falls from the heavens, saying, "O King Nebuchadnezzar, to thee it is spoken, the kingdom is departed from thee, and they shall drive thee from men and thy dwelling shall be with the beasts of the field, they shall make thee to eat grass as oxen, and seven times shall pass over thee, until though know that the Most High ruleth in the kingdom of men and giveth it to whomsoever he will." One hour from the time he made the boast he is on his way to the fields a maniac, and rushing into the forests he becomes as one of the beasts and is after awhile covered with eagles' feathers for protection from the cold, and his nails grow to look like birds' claws, in order that he may dig the earth for roots and climb the trees for nuts.

NEBUCHADNEZZAR A LYCANTHROPE.

The mental disaster that seized him was what the Greeks call lycanthropy, by which a man imagines himself a beast and prefers to go out and mingle with brutes. He who had been eating pomegranates and apricots off of plates of gold inlaid with amethyst and diamond, and drinking the richest wines from the royal vats, now browsing on grass and struck by the horn of the ox as he contends for a better tuft of the pasturage, and instead of an orchestra on benches of ivory playing the national airs, now listening to the moan and bellow and grunt of the beasts. This is not hard for me to believe, for the forms of dementia are innumerable.

A few years ago, arriving in a city on a summer afternoon, while waiting for my engagement in the evening, I sauntered forth into what seemed to be a park in front of a large public building, the use of which I knew not. I met a gentleman with whom I fell into delightful conversation, and he seemed intelligent on all subjects. After a while I said, "Let us sit down on this bench and rest awhile and enjoy the scene of verdure and fountains." "No," said he. "You sit down, but I cannot. I am made of glass, and if I should sit down I would break to pieces."

Then I saw that he was insane and belonged to the large building just behind us. After such an interview as that I can easily believe this account of my text. Here is Nebuchadnezzar on all fours. He once prided himself of being more than a man, and now he turns out less than a man. The courtiers look out of the windows upon him as he moves among the royal herds and cry, "A beast!" Seven years pass, when suddenly his reason returns and he comes back to Babylon a humble worshipper of the God in heaven.

What must have been the excitement in the royal court as this restored maniac emperor walks into the palace. What a time they had in cutting his nails and his hair, which had grown for seven years without being interfered with by any shears. What a scrubbing down must have taken place in the imperial baths. What a transformation necessary in order that he who had been herding with camels and goats and swine may be made fit to associate with princes. What a change from sty to throne room.

While walking from this Babylonian palace down to the pasture field and from the pasture field back to the palace the first thing that impresses me is what an incongruous thing it is for a king to be eating grass. It is good for cattle, but not fit for man. And then for one to prefer it to a royal table toward whose bounty the orchards and paddocks and streams and vineyards in all the earth might contribute—what an amazement! And yet the scene is as common as the daylight.

HOW HUMANITY IS DEGRADED.

When I see a man of regal nature made to rule in realms of thought, capable of all moral elevation, besotting his faculties, attempting out of low sensualities to satisfy his immoral energies, coming down off his throne of power into brutalities, sacrificing his higher nature to his lower nature, stooping and stooping, coming down and coming down until all his influence for good is gone, I cry out, "There is a king eating grass like an ox!" And there are tens of thousands of such Nebuchadnezzars.

So there are queens who dedicate themselves to the same humiliation. What power for good God gave that woman. Magnetism of personal presence. Influence more than imperial. By her intelligence, by her tenderness, by her charm of smile and manner, capable of soothing so much sorrow, and reforming so much waywardness, and wielding so much elevated power, yet at the call of worldliness, coming out of the throne room of good influence, where God would have her reign, coming down over the ivory stairs of moral power, coming down and coming down until she has no more soul than the dead bird transfixed in her millinery or the chinchilla that was slain to afford her warmth, or the kid that furnished her the glove, and finding her only delight in flatteries of brainless men and midnight schottische and debauched novelettes.

I say, "There is one who might have been a queen unto God forever, yet eating straw like an ox." I look over the pasture fields of folly and sin and find many groveling who ought to be erect. O men and women, go back to your thrones. A young man ran away from home and broke his widowed mother's heart. Fourteen years passed and he returned, and came to the window at which his old mother was sitting.

She looked up and immediately recognized him and said, "Oh, Robert, Robert, come in!" "No," said he, "mother, I shall never come in till I hear you say you forgive me." Her answer was, "Robert I have forgiven you long ago. There is nothing to forgive now except that you staid away."

The defeats and sorrows of life have sometimes been the greatest advantage. It was because Dante failed as a statesman that he gave up politics and wrote his immortal "Divina Commedia." It was a violent thunderstorm that first set Martin Luther seriously thinking, and the thunder of this world's disaster has started many a reformation. James Y. Simpson went from a surgeon's operating table to experiment and see if he could not find something that would alleviate human pain, and he kept on until he had discovered chloroform as an anæsthetic, and the story of distress has almost always been followed by the story of rescue.

Again, learn from my subject that connected with the most distressing judgments of God there are displays of divine mercy. God might justly have left Nebuchadnezzar in the field, but infinite compassion brought him back to the palace. No sooner was Eden blasted than a blessing followed on the heels of the curse promising the coming of one who would destroy sin and make the whole world a paradise. The deluge descends, but not until Noah had invited the people into the ark. The destroying angel comes upon Egypt for the smiting of the first born, but left unmolested every house whose door was sprinkled with the blood of the sacrifice.

Fiery tempests bear down upon Sodom, but not until two angels have warned Lot and his family to flee from the destruction. Jerusalem was utterly destroyed, but not until Jeremiah had sounded an alarm bidding them turn from their abominations. On the darkest cloud of wrath there is a rainbow of mercy. Zechariah in his prophetic vision behind four chariots, symbolical of God's government.

The first chariot was drawn by red horses. They indicated the wars that were coming. The second chariot was drawn by black horses. They indicated the coming of a famine and pestilence. The third chariot was drawn by white horses. They indicated the spotless purity of his conquests. But mark well that the fourth chariot was drawn by horses "grisled and bay," denoting that mercy was mixed with all the desolating judgments of God. Sinai cannot thunder so loud as to drown the invitations of Calvary. The Lord utters the admonition, "The wages of sin is death," but exhaustless mercy responds, "Deliver him from going down to the pit for I have found a ransom."

Hide thee quick in the rock, Christ Jesus. Let not this insignificant "now" absorb thee more than the great hereafter. The path leading to this side of the grave is only a few furlongs, but the path which commences at the other side of it is without end. The powers of darkness gather about your soul and the temptations of an evil heart and the allurement of the world I know are trying to drown the voice of the preacher; but, taking hold of the silver trumpet of the Gospel which made Felix tremble, and at the Pentecost brought three thousand souls out of their sepulcher, I would blow one long, loud blast, crying, "Whosoever will, let him come."

Take this goodly religion which has done so much for me that I can commend it to all. Without it I should have gone the whole downward career. Stolid and phlegmatic natures going astray do not go so far, but natures like mine, sanguine, intense, emotional, optimistic, social to the last degree, and echoing to all the heights and depths of mirth, if they get off track, they go with one wild leap to hell. As to the restraining power of this religion upon a mercurial temperament, I testify. This is not abstraction or something gotten from books. I speak of what I know. Go out and ask all who have tried this religion and ask them how it works.

Three young men in the factory came out on the Lord's side, but two of them, overcome by the jeers of their comrades, went back and joined the scoffers. The one held on to his Christian hope, and one day when they pressed him hard, and were telling how much infidelity had done for the world, and that Christianity had done nothing, the persecuted Christian turned upon them, and pointing to Henry and George, who had for a little while followed Christ and then turned back, he said:

"You have tried your principles on them and know what they have done for them. When they tried to serve Christ they were civil, good tempered, kind husbands and fathers. They were cheerful, industrious, and ready to oblige. What have you made them? Look and see. They are cast down and cross; their mouths are full of cursing and filthiness; they are drunk every week; their children half clothed, their wives broken hearted, their home wretched. That is what your principles have done. Now I have tried Christ and his religion, and what has it done for me. You know well what I used to be. There was none of you that could drink so much, swear so desperately and fight so masterly. I had no money and nobody would trust me. My wife was ill used, I was ill humored, hateful and hated. What has religion done for me? Thank God I am not afraid to put it to you. Am I not a happier man than I was? Am I not a better workman and a kinder companion. Would I once have put up with what I now bear from you? I could beat any of you as easily now as ever. Why don't I? Do you ever hear a foul word from my mouth? Do you catch me at a public house? Has anybody a score against me? Go and ask my neighbors if I am not altered for the better. Go and ask my wife. Let my house bear witness. God be praised, here is what Christianity has done for me, there is what infidelity has done for Henry and George."

Come up and join those on the way to a palace. What an absurd thing for a king to be eating grass. Instead of living on the poor fodder that the world affords, come up and sit among the princes of God at the royal banquet and hear the bands play: "Eat, O friends! Drink, O beloved!" Here is a crown, wear it. Here is a scepter, sway it. Here is a throne, mount it. This is your hour, improve it.

WED TO A CHINAMAN.

The Sad Story of a Pretty Cambridge Girl Only 22 Years Old.

NEW YORK, Feb. 13.—In a pretty thoroughfare in Cambridge, Mass., was born, a little over 22 years ago, a baby of wonderous beauty.

A dark day came to the previously happy home soon after the advent of Lizzie Tale. A deadly disease seized the mother and carried her off.

Kind neighbors took charge of little Lizzie, though, and for ten years she was cared for, clothed and sent to school.

Soon the child, pretty, fragile and extremely sensitive by nature, began to hear the current gossip among the neighbors of her queer birth and dependence.

The rest is soon told. Lizzie went the long way where many another unguarded girl has gone. She drifted about the city from post to pillar.

From a number of Chinamen, whose acquaintance she formed, she soon learned to smoke the soul-destroying opium. But even this was not strong enough for her, and she finally drifted to this city, having been sent here by a Chinaman in Boston.

Upon her arrival here, now three years ago, Lizzie's pretty face and still pleasant ways soon gained her an abode in crime-laden, sickening, sin-infested Mulberry Bend. For two years past, at almost any hour, on a clear night, wanderers through this byway might have seen Lizzie standing on a street corner with one of the groups of Chinamen.

About two years ago it became a fad of the Chinamen to have American wives. She had many suitors. Wrong Lee, Yank Lin, Lee Hing and many other Celestials each besought her to marry them.

Lizzie finally with a desparate laugh, selected Lee Hing. Lee was a large, fairly good-looking Chinaman, had several nice "lay-outs" and some money stored away. She was in great luck, the other Chinamen's wives said. She could smoke to her heart's content, and she could have a glass of white wine whenever she liked, in fact she was in great luck.

Thus Lizzie lived until last Saturday, when her brain gave way momentarily, and in a fit of rage she hurled several dishes and stove lids at her spouse, which so frightened the Mongolian that he ran, yelling murder, to the street.

A reporter visited him late last night at his residence in Mott-street. Hing is a Chinaman of the worst possible type, with a marvelous talent for lying, discounting by far any art Ananias ever illustrated. His rooms are well furnished, and the reporter thought he saw indications of Lizzie's handiwork in the ornamentation about the Chinese home.

A dozen pipes and all the necessary accompaniments plainly showed what the business of the place was. Hing declined to say anything further than to acknowledge that his wife had tried to kill him with a stove lid.

The ambulance took Lizzie to Bellevue Hospital. Her wild recklessness and odd mannerisms induced the surgeon to put her in the insane pavilion. She was transferred to the alcoholic ward, where the reporter found her and gleaned the history recounted above.

EAST ELGIN ELECTION.

The Conservatives Retain the Seat By An Increased Majority.

ST. THOMAS, Feb. 13.—The election in East Elgin yesterday resulted in a signal triumph for the unseated Conservative candidate Andy Ingram, whose majority of 46 of last March was swelled to 494. His opponent yesterday was Dr. J. H. Wilson, whom he defeated in March last and in whose behalf Hon. Edward Blake wrote his pronunciamento a few days ago. East Elgin was carried by the Conservative party in 1878, when Thomas Arkell defeated the previous Liberal member, Colin Macdougall, Q. C. At the general elections of 1882 Dr. Wilson, who had sat in the Ontario Legislative Assembly for the same constituency from 1871 until 1879, defeated Mr. Arkell and was again elected at the general election of 1886 by a majority of 116 over the present Judge Ermatinger. In March last the Conservatives nominated Andrew Ingram, who had previously represented West Elgin in the Legislative Assembly, and he defeated Dr. Wilson by 46 of a majority, but was unseated.

Mr. Ingram is a railway employe and is the only man who ever secured a majority against Wilson in the city of St. Thomas, which is the pivot upon which the result turns. The majorities:

TRADE PROSPECTS.

Bradstreet's Weekly Review of the Business Situation in Canada.

NEW YORK, Feb. 13.—There is no improvement over last week as to the volume of staples moving from jobbers' to retailers' hands, special telegrams to Bradstreet's from most of the chief distributing centres agreeing that general trade on the whole is only fairly active, with a moderately satisfactory outlook for the near future.

The movement of staples is of moderate proportions in Ontario and Quebec, the feature in the former province being some activity in drygoods, with fair payments on mercantile accounts. A similar report comes from Quebec, where cotton goods mills are said to have done a fair business for the season.

Four cities in the Dominion report total clearings of $18,932,007, a gain of about 12 per cent. on the week.

There were 68 business failures in Canada this week against 34 last week and 38 in this week last year.

BAD ECZEMA ON BABY

Our little boy broke out on his head with a bad form of eczema, when he was four months old. We tried three doctors, but they did not help him. We then used your three CUTICURA REMEDIES, and after using them eleven weeks exactly according to directions, he began to steadily improve, and after the use of them for seven months his head was entirely well. When we began using it his head was a solid sore from the crown to his eyebrows. It was also all over his ears, most of his face, and small places on different parts of his body. There were sixteen weeks that we had to keep his hands tied to the cradle and hold them when he was taken up; and had to keep mittens tied on his hands to keep his finger-nails out of the sores, as he would scratch if he could in any way get his hands loose. We know your CUTICURA REMEDIES cured him. We feel safe in recommending them to others.

OVERWHELMED.

Dr. Wilson, of East Elgin, although the Hon. Edward Blake was induced to give him a certificate of character, was yesterday overwhelmed in the tidal wave of Conservatism. Mr. A. B. Ingram, his Conservative opponent, had 46 majority last year, when he redeemed the riding, and about 500 yesterday.

MR. AYLSWORTH CONFIRMS IT.

Mr. W. R. Aylsworth, the candidate of the Grit party in East Hastings, virtually confirms, in his public addresses, the statements furnished us as to the weakness of his candidature in Deseronto, and foreshadows his impending defeat. In the course of his remarks at Canifton on Wednesday evening, and also at Plainfield on Thursday night, he stated that in the contest between Mr. Northrup and himself, personally, there would, in his opinion, be no fear of the result. But he not only had to fight Mr. Northrup but the popular member for West Hastings, who had much influence in the riding, also the Government at Ottawa, a large manufacturing concern in another portion of the riding (meaning the Rathbun Co. at Deseronto), and also capitalists.

Mr. Aylsworth's statement is candid, but is not complete. The policy described by the Hon. Edward Blake as having annexation as its inevitable result is one of the most potent factors against him in the contest.

QUESTIONS FOR CARTWRIGHT.

Sir Richard Cartwright, whom the Yankees designated as U. S. Senator from Ontario, in case he should succeed in his project of annexing Canada to the United States—a project which has, by the votes of our people within the past two weeks been rendered impossible of execution—is announced to speak at Tweed and at Canifton on Tuesday and Wednesday evenings of next week, on behalf of his follower, Mr. Aylsworth.

As Sir Richard has never taken the public into his confidence with regard to certain vital points in connection with the "policy" of which he is the chief advocate, some elector ought to ask for explanation on these points:

1. How much revenue does he estimate would be lost annually by unrestricted reciprocity?

2. How would he provide for that loss, which Hon. Geo. E. Foster, Minister of Finance, places at $18,000,000 per year?

3. How would he provide for the increase of $1,487,586 per year in the subsidies to provinces, as arranged by Mr. Mercier's provincial conference of 1887, and to which Mr. Laurier, Sir Richard and their party are bound by agreement with Mercier?

These are questions which must be satisfactorily answered before the Grit policy can be deemed worthy of consideration.

CANTING HYPOCRITES.

Many of the adherents of annexationist Platt in Prince Edward are trying to account for the second defeat of their idol by asserting that the great majority of 200 against him was purchased with a liberal expenditure of money and whiskey, the resort to which "human devices," to use a phrase of their own, they denounce in the most violent terms.

This regard for purity of election is highly creditable to the Grits of Prince Edward, but past events show that their denunciation of bribery is only intended to apply to the purchase of votes when practiced by their opponents—that, indeed, they are ready and willing not only to excuse bribery by their own friends, but to glorify the bribers.

Witness those facts: The election of Dr. Platt in 1887 was protested; he was unseated for bribery by agents, some of whom were prosecuted and imprisoned. There was no denunciation of corruption by the Grits of Prince Edward at that time. On the contrary, they regarded the convicted briber as martyrs in a noble cause, and, when their term of imprisonment expired, met them at the door of the gaol with a splendid rig drawn by a team of white horses—emblematical of the purity of all concerned, no doubt—formed a triumphal procession and escorted them to Milford, where they were regaled with an oyster supper, and where, amid the flow of the public's denunciation but private's rejoicing whiskey, speeches in the choicest were made by Dr. Platt, Sheriff Gilkerson and other eminent party.

Such is the way in which the Grits of Prince Edward "put down bribery and corruption" in their own party.

Could there be a more disgusting lot of canting hypocrites?

The Public Debt.

(Montreal Gazette.)

There is, perhaps, no one feature of administration that receives more adverse criticism on the part of the Opposition than the increase in the public debt of Canada. Yet none less deserving of it, as we propose to demonstrate by the official returns. Taking, in the first place, the results under Liberal and Conservative rule, these remarkable contrasts are presented:—Between 1873 and 1878 the net public debt of Canada rose from $99,848,461 to $140,362,069, a gross increase of $40,513,603, and an average annual addition of $8,102,000. Since the return to power of the Conservative party, the net debt of Canada has been carried up to $227,809,039, at which it stood at the close of last June, an increment of $87 446 961 in thirteen years, or an average annual increase of $7,495,920. Before proceeding, taking money the face of the figures without examination of the causes contributing to the debt increase, it appears that during the Liberal regime the liabilities mounted up yearly more rapidly than has been the case under thirteen years of consecutive Conservative administration, a fact which in itself ought to end the stupid charge of extravagance on the part of the present Government. But that is not all. During five years of Liberal rule the capital expenditure upon works of public utility,—canals, railways, buildings, etc.,—reached $38,511,400, or, in other words, fell short of the increase in the debt by $2,000,000; while the capital expenditure upon similar works since 1878 has exceeded the increase in debt by $16,151,000. To put the case in another way; the Liberals borrowed $40,513,000, and invested only $38,511,400 of that amount in permanent public works contributive to the development of national resources and the cheapening of transportation; whereas, the Conservative, while borrowing only $97,445,000 id thirteen years, have invested $113,598,000 in such public works. The difference between the two cases is just the difference between provident and improvident management.

The people, however are concerned probably more about the cost of carrying the debt, than about the volume of that liability. The incidence of taxation arising out of the public debt, that is to say the interest charge, is the aspect of practical importance, in relation to which a few figures may be cited from official resources:

	Interest paid.	Per cent
1873	$1 209,205	4 01
1878	7,048,883	4 02
1890	9,656,481	3 37
1891	9,584,136	3 35

The significance of these figures cannot well be exaggerated. They show that in five years of Liberal rule the cost of carrying the debt mounted up $1,889,678, or at the rate of $368,000 per year; whereas, in the last thirteen years the cost of carrying the debt has grown $2,535,253, or at a rate of only $195,019 annually. This decrease has been due in large part to the decline in the rate of interest upon loans made in Canada, the average rate paid on the gross debt having fallen from 4.02 to 3.35 per cent. since 1878, and the effects cited is found the most conclusive answer to the charge sometimes brought that the character of capital expenditures in late years has impaired the credit of the country.

In the last three years the Canadian Pacific Railway has been built, and the contributions to the work from public funds have amounted to no less than $61,770,000. The value of such an investment from a national point of view needs not to be argued at this day, but it is worth while pointing out that, apart from the subsidies to the Pacific railway, the net debt of Canada on June 30th last amounted to only $176 039,000, or $36.40 per head of the population, while in 1880 the net debt was $85.90 per head, showing practically no increase in the public debt, exclusive of the item of the Canadian Pacific railway, as to the wisdom of which both political parties are now agreed. There is a yet more striking way of putting the case, namely, by measuring the annual interest charge on the public debt on the basis of the per capita imposts. Here are the figures:

Population	4,250,000	4,903,000
Net interest	$8,939,076	$8,506,908
Net interest per head	$1.63	$1.73

So, that, as these official figures make clear, the great public works of Canada constructed during the last twelve years, including the Canadian Pacific railway, are costing the people in the way of taxation exactly ten cents yearly, and it is about this infinitesimal charge the Liberal party is making so much ado.

It will be satisfactory to learn that the improvement in the condition of the national finances effected by the Conservative Government has been sustained down to the present time. Indeed, in the last fiscal year, the net debt was increased by the trifling sum of only $276,800; and there is every reason to expect the fulfilment of the prediction made by the Finance Minister, Mr. Foster, as long ago as in 1889, namely, that all the public services would be performed up to June 30th, 1892, without any increase in the net debt.

WASHINGTON AFFAIRS.

RECIPROCITY AND BEHRING SEA COMMISSIONERS.

The Duty on Canadian Barley Will Be Reduced From Thirty to Ten Cents per Bushel in Response to the Demands of the Buffalo and Oswego Brewers.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13.—There is practical unanimity among the Democratic members of the Ways and Means Committee in favor of the bill of Representative Fitch of New York reducing the duty on barley and hops and there is little doubt this measure will be favorably reported to the House.

At to-day's meeting of the Democratic members of the committee Representatives Lockwood and Fitch made an extended argument in favor of the bill and maintained that the malting interests of the country are being seriously impaired by the operations of the McKinley bill. These gentlemen contended that it was shown by figures and acknowledged by the interests affected throughout the country that the present duty is so excessive that it practically prohibits the importation of Canadian barley into this country. Instead of the 12,000,000 bushels that was imported prior to the passage of the McKinley bill there has been imported during the past year less than 3,000,000 bushels. The bill, they say, had worked the destruction of the malting interests all over the state of New York and throughout the country generally.

The same kind of malt, it was said, cannot be made out of American barley as can be made out of Canadian barley, the former being of an inferior grade, taking more barley when brought to this country was mixed with the best grades of American barley and thus created a greater demand for American barley than has been found to exist since the importation of Canadian barley has been stopped. The price of American barley, the speaker stated, instead of advancing, as prophesied by the advocates of the McKinley bill, has constantly gone down since that law went into effect.

The price of Canadian barley, on the other hand, has remained substantially the same.

These gentlemen also contended that there are no interests in the country that would be adversely affected by the placing the duty the same as it stood before the passage of the McKinley law. The interests affected now are important and various, for according to the argument of the New York Congressmen the present duty affects not only the importers of barley, but also the malsters and brewers. It also tends to produce an inferior quality of beer and further affects the elevator and transportation interests of the country adversely instead of beneficially.

So far as the Democratic members are concerned there appeared no opposition to Mr. Fitch's bill, and the New York congressmen hope to have it reported favorably at an early day.

The bill introduced by Mr. Fitch amends the McKinley law so as to make the duty on barley 10 cents per bushel of 48 pounds, on barley malt 20 cents per bushel of 34 pounds and on hops 8 cents per pound.

The Behring Sea joint commission has adjourned until to-morrow, when it is expected that the reports prepared by the representatives of Great Britain and the United States will be submitted for consideration.

It is expected that Lord Salisbury will act on the arbitration treaty next week and that the matter will then be submitted to the senate without delay. It is thought the modus vivendi of last year will be renewed in time to anticipate the departure of the sealing fleet. The arbitrators will not be appointed until the treaty shall have been ratified. Hon. E. J. Phelps, ex-minister to England, has been selected as leading counsel for the United States before the proposed tribunal. He will have two or three assistants.

The Canadian reciprocity commissioners had another conference with Secretary Blaine and Gen. Foster to-day. Sir Julian Pauncefote, the British minister, attended to-day's conference.

Acting Secretary, Spalding has issued a circular to customs officers calling for a more stringent enforcement of the McKinley Tariff Act in the marking of imported merchandise.

The Democratic members of the Ways and Means Committee held another conference to-day on the Springer Wool bill, but it ended without an agreement being reached.

The Senate Committee on Agriculture today agreed to report a bill authorizing the committee to make a general investigation of the present condition of agriculture in the United States, the present prices of agricultural products and if there be any of which the prices are depressed, the causes of such depression and the remedies therefor.

PRETTY BUT NAUGHTY.

A Toronto Young Woman Charged With Altering Dominion Bank Bills.

TORONTO, Feb. 13.—A pretty young woman named Katharine Rhodes, appeared in the Police Court yesterday charged with altering and uttering Dominion Bank bills. As bank experts had been shown the altered bills coming into them from three-eighths to half-an-inch shorter than an ordinary bill it was supposed to be an accident until there appeared to be some system in the affair and investigation showed that pieces had been skillfully cut out of the different bills and used to manufacture new ones. Katharine Rhodes is a daughter of a laborer on Wardell-street. She was remanded by the Police Magistrate.

The Ice Locomotive Sank.

POUGHKEEPSIE, Feb. 13.—The ice locomotive invented by a New York boiler inspector was shipped from here to New Hamburg and put on the ice there Tuesday. It got away from the man in charge and started for the shore. Men ran after it but could not catch it, and coming to a weak spot it broke through the ice and sank. The trials so far have been very unsatisfactory owing to the soft condition of the ice, but the machine will be raised and other trials made.

A HUSBAND'S MISSION.

J. Cohen Sees His Faithless Partner For the Last Time.

NEW YORK, Feb. 13.—The sensational episode of the day at the morgue yesterday was the appearance of J. Cohen of Toronto, Ont., who came to claim the body of his faithless wife. Mrs. Cohen was living with Louis Levi, a bookmaker, at the Hotel Royal, where they were registered under the assumed name of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis. Both met death in the fire. Mrs. Cohen jumped from a window and fractured her skull. Levi died from suffocation.

Mr. Cohen looked upon his wife's face with tears in his eyes, but kept silent. He passed to the pine box in which lay the body of the man who had destroyed his home and gazed at the features but a moment.

"I recognize him as Louis Levi," he said, and left the room.

Buried at Hamilton.

HAMILTON, Feb. 13.—The body of Louis Levy, the London man who was burned to death in the terrible fire at the Hotel Royal in New York on Sunday morning, was brought here for burial this morning. The funeral took place from Chapman's undertaking establishment this afternoon.

The Message a London Girl Left Before Suiciding.

LONDON, Ont., Feb. 13.—Sadie Renshaw, aged 16, an inmate of the Salvation Army Rescue Home, is believed to have committed suicide. Two months since she came to this city from near Collingwood, having left her a child and husband, and the Army people sheltered the unfortunate girl. She continued despondent, however, and frequently threatened suicide. Tuesday Sadie left the Home, and from that hour a diligent search has failed to reveal her whereabouts. "You will never see me again," were the words she wrote upon a slip of paper which she left in her room directed to another inmate. She left all her clothes behind.

TO BRING BACK HIS ASHES.

Cremation For Fitzsimmons, the Brockville Murderer.

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 13.—Charles H. Fitzsimmons, brother of the dead Pittsburg robber, arrived here late to-night from his home in Brockville, Canada. He drove at once to Chief Gaster's office and had a long interview with him. He was deeply affected by the story of his brother's misdeeds. He said he had seen very little of him for many years. He left home when 18 years old and returned in 1891 to receive his portion of the estate of his deceased father, and he went away with enough money to support him handsomely as long as he lived. He proposes to remain here for several days and will visit the haunts of his dead brother. In case he will obtain a permit from the Board of Health for the removal of the body. He will send it to Cincinnati to be cremated and thence remove the ashes to Brockville for final interment.

SAVED BY A CONDUCTOR.

Attempted Murder on a Pullman Car on the Canadian Pacific.

ST. JOHN, N.B. Feb. 13.—A conductor named James Millican saved the life of Arthur G. Young, a Boston commercial traveler, on the westbound C.P.R. express, near Petitcodiac Station last night by striking down a loaded revolver that Patrick J. Rafferty of New York had just pointed at his head. The bullet passed through the floor of the car. Millican handcuffed Rafferty and on the arrival of the train in St. John handed him over to the police. En route, Rafferty repeatedly said, "I'll have Young's life yet."

The prisoner told Chief Clarke that he was a Fenian prisoner, and had landed in Halifax from Europe last week. "On the voyage" he said, "grounds have been following me and suckers trying to play me, and that is why I shot Young, pointing to Young. A Smith & Wesson revolver and a cruel looking bowie knife were taken from him. He has plenty of money, is rather tall, well built, and about 28 years old.

Amendments to the Berlin Treaty Desired.

SYDNEY, N.S.W., Feb. 13.—Advice received here from Samoa state that a meeting of citizens has been held at Apia, at which a committee was appointed to suggest changes in the Berlin treaty of 1889. The Samoan Times declares the government cannot be carried on under the terms of the Berlin treaty. The paper advocates a simpler and more effective parliament under a foreign president, to be selected by the treaty powers—Germany, Great Britain and the United States.

VERY STRINGENT.

Chinamen Will Have a Hard Time Getting Into the U. S. Now.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13.—The Chinese emigration bill agreed upon by the committee and reported to Congress is that introduced in the House by Mr. Stump, the chairman of the committee with some modifications. The provisions of Mr. Stump's bill have been published. Its provisions are very stringent, making it exceedingly difficult for a Chinese to get into the country and providing adequate and efficient means for his deportation if found here unlawfully. A prominent feature of the bill provides for the registration of all Chinese persons now in the country by the commissioner of internal revenue and requires them to obtain a certificate from him entitling them to remain here. Chairman Stump reported the bill to the House in the afternoon. In the report the committee refers to the urgent necessity for prompt legislation on the subject of Chinese emigration.

Cut in Two by a Locomotive.

WHEELING, W.Va., Feb. 13.—A terrible accident occurred at Cameron, near this city, last night, by which two beautiful young girls, daughters of William Criswell, a wealthy citizen, lost their lives, one of them while heroically attempting to save the other. Essie and Georgina Criswell, aged 14 and 16 respectively, were walking along the Baltimore and Ohio tracks, and while attempting to cross in front of a westbound train, Essie fell when the engine was almost upon her. Georgina, seeing her sister's danger, and ignoring the fact that the attempt was almost certain death, rushed to her rescue. She, too, stumbled, and was struck by the locomotive and killed. Essie was cut in two by the wheels.

Attempted Wholesale Jail-breaking.

MONTREAL, Feb. 13.—A desperate attempt was to have been made here last night by six prisoners to escape from jail. Thomas Litzelberg, for whom extradition papers are granted in Ottawa yesterday, was the ringleader. He is wanted in Chicago for jail breaking, shooting with intent to kill and burglary and has been in jail here for the past two weeks awaiting extradition. Another prisoner gave the plot away, and on searching the cells a knife which was to have been used on the guards was found.

By looking at the quotations of the Virginia tobacco market it will be found that the highest price paid for "fillers"—which is the tobacco which forms the body of the plug—very closely corresponds with the invoiced price of tobacco leaf imported into Ontario. As over four-fifths of all the leaf imported into the Province is for "Myrtle Navy" stock, this fact is official proof of the claim that the "Myrtle Navy" is made of the finest Virginia leaf.

East Hastings Election.

A rousing meeting was held at the Council House on the Indian Reserve yesterday afternoon in the interest of Mr. Northrup, at which addresses were delivered by H. Corby, M.P., U. E. SHANNONVILLE IS SOLID.

The Masonic hall at Shannonville was last evening filled with enthusiastic supporters of Mr. Northrup. Dr. A. McFarlane presided. Able addresses were delivered by Messrs. H. Corby, M.P., Ald. Mikel and W. B. Northrup, the latter being received with great enthusiasm. Mr. J. B. Aylsworth, of Newburg, was also present and delivered a speech in favor of the Reform candidate. This gentleman, who is at one of Mr. Northrup's former meetings a few evenings ago almost wept because his loyalty was even suspected, was compelled to admit that he was in favor of political union with the United States. The meeting was a great success for the Government candidate. At the close a vote of thanks was tendered to the chairman and the cheers were given for the Queen and Mr. Northrup.

The Crimean War.

There is probably no war in the history of British arms that is surrounded with more tragic incidents than the great war drama which had the Crimean peninsula for its theatre. The third act of Geo. A. Dame's new military drama, "Playmates," shows the capture of Balaklava and Sebastapol by the allied forces. The scene will be intensely dramatic, and will show all the pomp and panoply of this grim and lurid engagement.

Lecture at Albert College.

R. C. Clute, Esq., Q.C., gave an appropriate and practical address to the students of Albert College last evening in the college chapel, subject, "What to do and when to do it." It was greatly appreciated by the large number of students present. Prof. Shepard also took part in the evening's entertainment. Vocal choruses by the glee club and instrumental music by members of Prof Stanistreet's class in music completed a most excellent programme.

Royal Templars of Temperance.

A Sketch of this Important Organization.

The Grand Council of the Royal Templars of Temperance will commence its annual session in this city on Tuesday next. In view of this event, the following sketch of the organization will no doubt be read with interest:

Its principal aim is to produce the most thorough co-operation among temperance reformers, that the sentiment, influence, and effort of the reform may achieve the greatest and speediest success.

The platform of the society is simple and broad, but at the same time the systematic arrangement of departments develops and utilizes the most advanced and progressive material. It possesses every advantage for carrying on temperance education, agitation and reform, while its large adult membership and important benefit funds give it influence and stability not enjoyed by other organizations.

Although independent in legislation and finances in Canada, the Order is fraternally one with the great order of the same name in the United States, using the same ceremonies and peculiar work, with an open door and familiar welcome for a Royal Templar in every part of the globe.

In October, 1878, the first Council was instituted in Canada, but notwithstanding the conservative and thorough character of the organization, so strongly has it recommended itself to the advanced temperance people of the Dominion, that its membership now reaches over 16,000 in Ontario alone, with Grand Councils working in Manitoba, Quebec and maritime provinces, and a large membership in British Columbia, Northwest Territories and Newfoundland.

The Order is representative in its government. There are three principal grades of bodies, viz: The Select or local Council, the Grand Council and the Dominion Council.

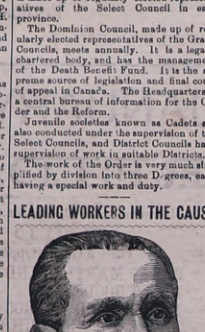

The Grand Councils meets annually, and is made up of regularly elected representatives of the Select Council in each province.

The Dominion Council, made up of regularly elected representatives of the Grand Councils, meets annually. It is a legally chartered body, and has the management of the Death Benefit Fund. It is the supreme source of legislation and final court of appeal in Canada. The Headquarters is a central bureau of information for the Order and the Reform.

Juvenile societies known as Cadets are also conducted under the supervision of the Select Councils, and District Councils have supervision of work in suitable Districts.

The work of the Order is very much simplified by division into three D grees, each having a special work and duty.

LEADING WORKERS IN THE CAUSE

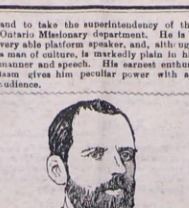

MR. J. H. FLAGG.

Mr. J. H. Flagg Royal Templars delight to style their "O d Flag" and their "Old Leader." He is a veteran in temperance work and is to-day presiding officer of the Grand Council of Ontario. He was born in the County of Dundas, Ont., something over sixty years ago, but he would readily pa s for 45, possessing, as he does, so much physical vigor and elasticity of step. He commenced his temperance career at 19 years of age, when he j oined the Sons of Temperance. Subsequently he became connected with the I.O.G.T., and rose to the highest position in the gift of the order in this country. Immediately upon the introduction of Royal Templarism he recognized its merit and united with the order, and from that day to this he has been present at every Grand Council meeting in Ontario and every meeting of the Dominion Council of Canada, recognized as one of the leaders and one of the solid men of the institution. In 1885 he was elected to the chair for the Grand Council of Ontario, and in 86 was re elected to the same office. He has been a member of the Dominion Board of Directors ever since its formation, and has occupied the vice chair of the Dominion Council. He is a prominent politician, identified with the Liberal party, but is now such an advanced prohibitionist that he is looked upon as an independent. He is an able debater, keen of perception, and clear in logic, but is not possessed of extraordinary oratorical ability. He is a fair stamp of an able business man and he makes a first-class presiding officer.

REV. J. W. BELL, B.D.

Rev. J. W. Bell, B.D., is the Superintendent of the Missionary Department of the Order in this Province. Mr. Bell is a Canadian born and bred, a native of the county of Peterborough and was educated in and graduated from Victoria College. He is a prominent minister of the Methodist Church and was one of the first pastors of Zion Methodist church, Winnipeg, and spent a number of years in the North-West. He was a prominent officer and a vigorous temperance speaker in the days of the old British Templars, and had a wide reputation both in Ontario and Quebec. He retained his connection with this organization until it amalgamated with the Royal Templars when the latter body was introduced into Manitoba. He succeeded W. W. Buchanan as Grand Councillor of the Manitoba Grand Council, and in 1889 was induced to give his whole time to the work and to take the superintendency of the Ontario Missionary department. He is a very able platform speaker, and, although a man of culture, is markedly plain in his manner and speech. His earnest enthusiasm gives him peculiar power with an audience.

MR. JOHN H. LAND.

Mr. J. H Land has been the Dominion Secretary of the Order since its institution in Canada, and hence his name is one of the best known amongst the leading officers of the Order. He is not an old-time temperance worker, but took his first step in this line of work when he united with the Royal Templars in the city of Hamilton. He is a son of an aristocratic U. E. Loyalist family, a son of Col. Land of Hamilton, and a grandson of an army officer who settled on the shores of Burlington Bay before Hamilton was dreamed of. A large portion of the city now covers the old Land homestead. In connection with the Order, Mr. Land has proved himself to be an excellent and efficient officer, and the fact that he has been retained in such an important position year after year, in itself speaks for his popularity.

POLITICAL POINTS

Mr. Clute spoke before the students of Albert College last night, taking for his subject "What to do, and where to do it." His advice should be practical, if he has profited from his experience as a candidate in West Hastings.

A leading Reformer remarked this morning, that had Mr. Blake written another letter to Dr. Wilson, the latter would have lost his deposit.

The Grits were not in it yesterday to any serious extent.—Brockville Recorder, Friday

Yes, they were, in the soup, over head and ears.

What is the use in winning bye elections anyway? Let's talk about something else. —Brockville Recorder.

What a ghastly attempt at wit, under depressing circumstances.

The Montreal Witness admits that "never since 1878 was the Conservative party so strong in the country as it is to day."

The writ for the bye-election for the Commons in Montcalm has been issued. Polling will take place on March 2.

Mr. Hughes' majority in North Victoria is now, as near as can possibly be learned, 240, while the majority of Mr. Fairbairn in South Victoria is 251.

A Grand Work Being Done in one of Montreal's Noble Institutions!

THE INMATES ARE JOYOUSLY EXCITED OVER RECENT EVENTS!

The Officers Give Testimony!

Montrealers are proud of some of their noble institutions, which are generously supported from year to year by the citizens generally. Many of the educational and charitable institutions are amply provided for; and the public hospitals are conducted in a manner that reflects credit on the metropolitan city.

It is not our intention at this time to write up, in a general way, these public institutions, but merely to call attention to one, which, in a quiet and unostentatious way, is doing a vast amount of good amongst the poor, friendless and aged Protestants of Montreal; we now refer to the Montreal Protestant House of Industry and Refuge, situated at Longue Pointe, just on the outskirts of the city. Owing to the hearty and united efforts of the Protestants of Montreal, they are now the possessors of a magnificent building, thoroughly equipped and furnished, and of such dimensions as to fully provide the very best accommodation and care for the poor and indigent protestants of all denominations. While the walls of this worthy institution, the deserving and needy are sheltered, fed and clothed; and the sick have the services of some of the best city physicians. The surroundings of the Refuge are all that can be desired; the building is beautifully situated on the banks of the noble St. Lawrence, and has a farm attached, which furnishes considerable produce for the institution.

In such an institution it is natural that we should find a certain amount of physical and mental suffering amongst the large number of inmates. Many are received in to the place suffering from various ailments and diseases, principally rheumatism, neuralgia, nervousness and weakness. In many cases the troubles are of long standing—having become chronic, and the sufferers have passed beyond the help of the physicians and all ordinary treatment. A short time ago the efficient and worthy superintendent, Mr. David McMillan, thought it wise to obtain a supply of Paine's Celery Compound brought into this institution, so that the afflicted ones might have a last chance of regaining health and strength.

The kind proprietors of Paine's Celery Compound were delighted beyond measure to have an opportunity of contributing to the comfort and well-being of the suffering people of such a worthy institution, and a contribution of their remedy, with the fullest confidence that pain would be banished, that joy and hope would take the place of agony and despair, and that the lives of a certain number of men and women would be lengthened out, and their latter days made brighter and happier.

Now it is our pleasant duty to give to the people of Canada the result of the trial—to show the good work accomplished by nature's true restorer and vitalizer. The truth is, the TRIAL, achieved by Paine's Celery Compound far exceeded the most sanguine expectations of sufferers and officials; all were overjoyed and delighted at the wondrous and marvellous curative and healing properties of the popular preparation.

We believe it is safe to assert that other well-governed and well-regulated institutions of this nature in the Dominion of Canada will now find it to the advantage of their sick, weak and rheumatic inmates to use the same precious agency that has been productive of so much good in Montreal. Through the kindness of the President and Secretary of the Montreal Protestant House of Industry and Refuge, we are enabled to give to the public of Canada an idea of the worth and value of Paine's Celery Compound, and its power over disease. The two following letters should be carefully read:

Montreal Protestant House of Industry and Refuge, Jan. 26, 1892.

Messrs. Wells & Richardson Co.,

SIRS,—As promised, I went down to the Home of Industry and Refuge to ask the old people their opinion of the Celery Compound you so kindly sent them. I have, therefore, much pleasure in telling you that the men and women suffering from rheumatism were highly in favor of the virtues of your excellent medicine. I therefore have pleasure in testifying as above. Yours respectfully, CHAS ALEXANDER, President.

Montreal Protestant House of Industry and Refuge, Jan. 28, 1892.

MESSRS. WELLS & RICHARDSON CO.,

DEAR SIRS,—It is with pleasure that we acknowledge the good that has been done through the use of Paine's Celery Compound in the Protestant House of Industry and Refuge. We have seen its good effects in several cases, and can therefore speak honestly of what we know; and several of our inmates have feelingly expressed their joy and satisfaction, and are delighted with the beneficial results. From what we know, we believe it to be an excellent remedy and worthy of recommendation. Yours truly, D. MCMILLAN, Sec'y.

No other remedy or medicine, now seeking a place in the homes of Canada, can boast of such letters of approval and recommendation. These letters, written by gentlemen of the highest integrity and standing, are given as an acknowledgement of worth and honesty, and carry more weight and confidence than any column that could be written on the subject. These two short declarations carry with them a gladsome and joyous message to every heart bowed down by pain, grief and despondency, and point the sufferer to that certain cure—that great agent that restores the afflicted to perfect health and strength, and that gives a promise of a long and happy life.

CROUP, colds, sore throat and many painful ailments are easily caught in this changeable climate. The never-failing remedy is promptly obtained in Hagyard's Yellow Oil, which is undoubtedly the best of all the many remedies offered for the cure of colds or pains.

Mr. Henry Graham, Wingham, writes us: "For fifteen years I have suffered with Indigestion, and during that time I got nothing to give me relief, although I tried a great many different kinds of medicine recommended for that complaint. I now feel like a new man, and this wonderful change has been accomplished by the use of four bottles of Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery. To me it has been a valuable medicine"

ACROSS THE ATLANTIC.

A RUSSIAN GENERAL KILLED BY NIHILISTS.

Mrs. Osborne Committed for Trial on a Charge of Perjury in Swearing That She Did Not Steal the Hargreave Jewels—General Cable News of a Night.

LONDON, Feb. 13.—The debate on the amendment to the Queen's address, moved by Mr. John E. Redmond, the Parnellites' leader, and suggesting amnesty for Irish prisoners convicted of connection with dynamite plots, was resumed yesterday in the House of Commons.

Timothy Harrington said that the prisoners had been convicted of an indictment charging them with a political offence and that it was a gross outrage to treat them like ordinary criminals. Why not extend to them the distinction which all civilized nations usually do with political and other offenders?

Justin McCarthy said that the Fenians were wild and possibly foolish revolutionists, but that dynamite outrages did not form any part of their program.

Home Secretary Matthews aroused cheers and laughter from the Conservative benches by remarking that the speaker, having twice once closely connected with Fenianism, ought to have given his valuable assurance as to the omission of outrages from the program to Sir William Vernon Harcourt when that eminent member of the Opposition was engaged upon the subject.

Harcourt Opposes an Amnesty.

Sir William Harcourt arose amid profound silence and was listened to with the gravest attention. He said that he had not shirked the debate. He had listened attentively to the remarks of the honorable members on both sides of the House, but had failed to find therein any reason for changing his previous views. He said that inquiries made with the greatest care since the imprisonment of the prisoners had confirmed the finding as to their guilt, and no reason to remit their punishment had been alleged. The statement that the convicts were Fenians and that the Fenians had compelled the Liberals to adopt the principle of Home Rule for Ireland was contrary to the fact. The truth of the case was that the Fenians had been the greatest obstacle to Home Rule.

Thomas Sexton said that the fact that the whole of Ireland had a passionate desire for amnesty ought to suffice as a motive for the House asking the Government to exercise its power of clemency.

Mr. John Dillon said that he would personally vouch for the fact that Daly, as a Fenian, abhorred the use of dynamite. He appealed to both parties to exercise clemency, which, he said, they would never regret.

The motion for an amnesty was rejected by a vote of 168 to 97.

The announcement of the figures was greeted with loud cheers by the minority. Thirty-one Liberal members including John Henry Maddon, who was recently elected to succeed Lord Hartington as member for the Rossendale division of Lancashire, supported the amendment. Sir William Vernon Harcourt and Mr. John Morley opposed it. The majority consisted mainly of Unionists.

MRS OSBORNE.

Her Husband's Sympathy Throughout—Mrs. Hargreaves' Forgiveness.

LONDON, Feb. 13.—Mrs. Florence Ethel Osborne was yesterday brought from the Holloway jail to the Bow-street Police Court, where she was arraigned before Magistrate Sir John Bridge to answer the charge of perjury made against her in connection with the libel suit she brought against Mrs. Hargreave, who had charged her with the theft of a quantity of valuable jewelry. The court room was packed with friends of the Osbornes and Hargreaves and others. Mrs. Osborne was attended by her husband. She was dressed in black, and when she was placed in the prisoners' dock she wept bitterly, bowing her head in her hands.

Capt. Osborne stood beside his wife outside the dock and held one of her hands in his own, and strived to infuse her with courage to face the ordeal before her. C. F. Gill appeared for the Treasury to prosecute the charge. He produced the formal evidence of perjury as shown by the records of the higher court and then called as a witness Mrs. Hargreave.

Mrs. Hargreaves repeated the evidence she had given in the trial of the libel suit. She stated that the jewelry had been restored to her and that all the costs incurred by her in defending the libel suit had been paid back to her.

The witness was then asked if she had seen Mrs. Osborne since the latter had returned to England and given herself up to the police. With every evidence of deep emotion Mrs. Hargreaves said she had visited her at the jail yesterday.

Mr. Spink, the jeweler, was called to give evidence regarding the purchase of the jewels. He identified Mrs. Osborne as the lady from whom he had bought the jewelry.

After further evidence had been taken the magistrate asked Mrs. Osborne if she had anything to say concerning the charges against her. She answered "no." The prisoner was then committed for trial.

Terrible Tales From Russia.

LONDON, Feb. 13.—A despatch from Pesth, capital of the government of that name, in the southwestern part of what is known as Great Russia, is published in The Chronicle yesterday. The despatch says the thermometer registered 58 degrees below zero, and that there is terrible suffering among the peasants. A number of sons have been frozen to death on the high roads, and so intensely cold is it that birds drop dead from the trees in which they have sought shelter. The peasants have a smallpox and diphtheria. Around Penza 200 peasants have died from these diseases.

Foreign Notes.

Arrests of Anarchists are being made in Berlin daily.

Lord Randolph Churchill has consented to stand again for member of Parliament for Paddington in the Conservative interest.

It is reported that the Russian general Von Halzard, who was said to have committed suicide in Paris, was really murdered by Nihilists.

The Russian police have discovered a Nihilist society at Poltava and have seized a quantity of Nihilist documents and a printing press. The leaders were arrested after a desperate struggle.

Gen. Booth of the Salvation Army returned to England to-day from his trip to Australia and India. He was met by a number of Salvationists from all parts of England.

The Canadian Cattle Trade.

OTTAWA, Feb. 13.—The Deputy Minister of Agriculture said to-day in reference to the threatened closing of British ports to Canadian live stock that he had no official information upon the subject, and only knew what he had seen in the newspapers. He did not know of any basis for a renewal of the English attacks upon Canadian cattle exports, for nothing had arisen of late on this side of the Atlantic to give rise to any such crusade. The department here had no knowledge of the existence of any disease among Canadian cattle either in British Columbia or in any other province. In fact the cattle of the Dominion were so far as the department was aware in unusually healthy condition. It might be that the English speculators opposed to the importation of live cattle had taken advantage of the recent scheduling of Danish cattle in consequence of an outbreak of pleuro-pneumonia in King Christian's country to revive the agitation of last year, but he could not believe that it would have any effect upon the Canadian trade. There is no doubt in official circles that if any immediate danger to the Canadian live stock trade were threatened the Government would have received some notification.

I AM A MAN

"I have been treated by doctors, who had long lists of so-called cured patients, but they could not reach my case, and hope had been murdered in me by false promises, but on first application of your magical appliance, hope and confidence flowing in stronger than the combined powers of the four winds. I knew then that you would cure me, and now that I am a man and well again, I cannot thank you sufficiently for the cure. So again I say, use my name as reference whenever you wish. You nor any one else cannot use words too strong to express my sentiments in favor of so wonderful a treatment as that given by you."

British Diplomacy Too Much for French Intrigue—General Booth Greeted with an Ovation—More Rioting at East bourne—General Foreign News.

PARIS, Feb. 15.—The secretary of the British Embassy in Constantinople had an audience with the Sultan yesterday, and it is semi-officially announced to-day that the firman of investiture of the present Khedive of Egypt has been prepared and that it is worded in the exact terms of the firman investing the late Khedive, Tewfik Pasha. This is regarded as a signal success for English diplomacy, as it defeats the attempts to induce the Sultan to insert in the firman instructions to the Khedive reflecting upon the English supremacy in Egypt.

A YOUNG GIRL'S MASQUERADE

A Frisky English Girl who Wanted to See the World.

LONDON, Feb. 15.—Miss Kate Evanson, the adventurous girl of Reading who disappeared on Wednesday last on her way to school at Bristol, has been found. It was left for her own brother to trace his wayward sister to Shrewsbury, where he discovered her at an inn in male attire. She was willing enough to accompany him home, and was restored to the arms of her parents. She left the train at Gloucester, went to a clothing store and bought the suit of man's clothes on the plea that she intended to give it to a poor person who had appealed to her for charity. She then went to a barber's and induced the man to cut off her hair on the pretence that she suffered from headaches. She later took the train to Mitchelstean, and while in the compartment of a train she took off her male costume, thoroughly cleansing the system of disease, and cured habitual constipation. They are sugar coated, tasteless, very small, easy to take, and purely vegetable. Call in and ask about them. Perfect digestion follows their use. They absolutely cure sick headache, and are recommended by leading physicians. For sale by leading druggists or sent by mail 25 cts. a vial. HONORING BOOTH.

A Mile-Long Procession of Salvation Army Soldiers Received by Him.

LONDON, Feb. 15.—The members of the Salvation Army in London and in all parts of the kingdom took occasion Saturday to show their appreciation of Gen. Booth, who has just arrived home in England after a long visit to Australia and India.

The procession which the General reviewed was a mile long, and in it were cars emblematic of his travels in foreign lands. As the procession passed the point where the General stood, the Salvation Army soldiers gave him a hearty welcome, cheering and shouting without restraint.

Disorders at Eastbourne.

LONDON, Feb. 15.—Eastbourne was again to-day the scene of disorder growing out of the hostility continually showing there to members of the Salvation Army. The disturbance, however, was not nearly so marked as that of two weeks ago. The Eastbourne police to-day dispersed the gathering members of the army and prevented their holding their customary Sunday services on the beach or playing on their instruments in the streets. But in spite of the efforts of the police there was much disorder and several fights occurred. These unruly manifestations were witnessed by thousands of persons, including the Duke of Portland and several of the members of the House of Commons.

The Costliest Sealskin Known.

LONDON, Feb. 15.—The Duchess of Portland has long been celebrated for the beauty of her sealskin cloak, which cost about 5000 guineas, but this has now been thrown completely into the shade by the magnificent cloak which was worn by Lady Allington. It is a gift from the newly made husband, and from the point of view of expense alone, completely overtops the garment which has hitherto been the cynosure of all feminine eyes, for the sable trimming alone cost as much as the cloak of the fair Duchess.

For Cardinal Manning's Position.

LONDON, Feb. 15.—According to reports prevalent in Roman Catholic circles, Doctor Gilbert, Very Rev. Henry Sebastian Bowden and Dr. J. C. Hedley are the three names selected by the Chapter of Westminster, on last Tuesday, for transmission to the Pope. Doctor Gilbert was Cardinal Manning's right-hand man, and Vicar-General. Father Bowden is Superior of the Brompton Oratory and a convert to Catholicism, an ex-officer of the Life Guard and a powerful preacher. Dr. Hedley is the Bishop of Newport and the oldest member of the English Benedictine Order.

Lively Times in the Reichstag.

BERLIN, Feb. 15.—There was a lively scene yesterday in the Reichstag, brought about by the discussion of the railway estimates.

Herr Sturm, Imperialist, supported the Government in dismissing Socialist agitators from state workshops.

Herr Kardoff demanded that more stringent laws controlling newspapers, clubs and public meetings should be enacted in order, he said, "to prevent the state from falling into the hands of the Socialists."

Herr Barth said it was clear that the members of the Government "to provoke a conflict possibly leading to civil war."

At this juncture the debate was adjourned.

The German Anarchists.

BERLIN, Feb. 15.—Enquiry into the status of the Berlin Anarchists shows that they are formed in 11 groups, numbering 254 persons in all, with connections through out Germany. They have met in secret in garret and cellars. Meetings with an attendance as large as 500 have often been held unknown to the police. Their finances are slender, only 90 marks monthly being received. It has been decided to employ counsel to defend the Anarchists recently arrested.

The Spanish Anarchists.

MADRID, Feb. 15.—The trial of Signor Ciprani and the other May Day rioters was marked yesterday by continued disorders. One of the lawyers for the prisoners declared a certain police witness was "a scandalous liar." The spectators in the court, nearly all of whom were friends of the prisoners, loudly applauded this remark. An uproar arose, the prisoners shouting wildly and menacing the witnesses. The noise and confusion became so great that the president of the court suspended the sitting. When the trial was resumed the scenes of disorder were repeated.

Dangerous Counterfeits.

Counterfeits are always dangerous, more so that they always closely IMITATE THE ORIGINAL IN APPEARANCE AND NAME. The remarkable success achieved by Nasal Balm as a positive cure for Catarrh and Cold in the head has induced unprincipled parties to imitate it. The public are cautioned not to be deceived by nostrums imitating Nasal Balm in name and appearance, bearing such names as Nasal Cream, Nasa Balsam, etc. Ask for Nasal Balm and do not take any imitation of values may be urged upon you. For sal , all druggists or sent post-paid on receipt of price (50c and $1,) by addressing Hor & co. Brockville, Ont.

KNIGHTS OF LABOR.

The Knights of Labor aim to protect their members against financial difficulties, etc., Hagyard's Yellow Oil protects all who use it from the effects of cold and exposure, such as rheumatism, neuralgia, lumbago, sore throat, and all inflammatory pains. Nothing compares with it as a handy pain cure for man and beast.

For coughs, colds, bronchitis and all lung and throat troubles, there is no preparation of medicine can compare with Bickle's Anti Consumptive Syrup. It nevertails to afford prompt and permanent relief. It routs all colds, and heals the diseased parts. It immediately soothes the m at troublesome cough, and by promoting expectoration, removes the mucus which stops up the air tubes which cause difficulty in breathing thereby gives relief to that depressing tightness experience in the chest. Public speakers and sing ers will find Bickle's Anti Consumptive Syrup of inestimable value, as it speedily and effectually allays all irritation, and bu kiness in the throat and bronchial tubes, and gives power to the vocal cords, rendering the voice clear and sonorous. If parents wish to save the lives of their children, and themselves much anxiety, trouble and expense let them procure a bottle of Bickle's Anti Consumptive Syrup, and whenever a child has taken cold, has a cough or hoarseness, give the syrup according to directions.

Our heaviest burdens are those we borrow.

Do you feel as though your friends had all deserted you, business calamities overwhelmed you, your body refusing to perform its duties, and even the sun it is taken from behind a cloud? Then use Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery, and hope will return and despondency disappear. Mr. H. Baker Ingersoll, writes: "I am completely cured of Dyspepsia that caused me great suffering for three years. Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery is the medicine that effected the cure after trying many other medicines."

Much doing is not so important as well doing.

Fever and Ague and bilious derangements are positively prevented by the use of Parmelee's Pills They not only c eanse the stomach and bowels, from all bilious matter, but they open the excretory vessels, causing them to pour copious effusions from the blood into the bowels, after which the corrupted mass is thrown out by the natural powers of the body. They are used as a general family medicine with the best results.

The man who doesn't believe in God Yes that way.

A. M. Hamilton, Warkworth, writes: "For weeks I was troubled with a swelled ankle, which caused me much pain and annoyance. Mr. Mayhee, of this place, recommended Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil for it. I tried it, and before one bottle was used I was cured. It is an article of great value."

Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator is pleasant to take, sure and effectual in destroying worms. Many have tried it with best results.

For Over Fifty Years

MRS WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP has been used for children teething. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, cures wind colic, and is the best remedy for Diarrhœa. Twenty-five cents a bottle. Sold by all druggists throughout the world.

It's easy enough

—the Ball corset. That's because it has coils of fine wire springs in the sides. They clasp the figure closely, but yield to every motion.

They "give", but they come back. So does your money—if you've worn a Ball corset two or three weeks, and find that you don't like it.

Sir William Gull Before the House of Lords

The celebrated Sir William Gull, late physician to the Queen, whose loss all temperance people mourn, gave the following evidence before the House of Lords: "Alcohol interferes with the conveying of the food into the system, and the public ought to know that of all the diluents or solvents for the nutritious parts of food there is nothing like water. It carries into the system the nutriment in its purest form; I hardly know of any more potent cause of disease than alcohol: it causes diseased liver, which disorders the blood, causing diseased kidneys, heart, and nervous system, besides being a frequent source of crime of all kinds. A very large number of persons are dying day by day, poisoned by stimulants without its being known. Great injury is done to health by the use alcohol in its various combinations (as wine, brandy, gin, rum, whisky, or beer), even in so called moderate quantities."

Temperance Legislation.

One of the latest movements to deal with the evils of strong drink has been put forth in Germany. The Emperor William regards himself as the father of his people, responsible for everything which concerns the ir welfare. He has attempted to deal with socialism and intemperance. Whether he's methods are always the best may be questioned. The Bill now before the German Reichstag, at the instigation of the Emperor, for the prevention of drunkenness is of a most sweeping character, and in all probability it will be carried. The most notable of its provisions is that which would give power to local authorities to confine all persons known to be habitual drunkards until such time as they should be certified to be cured. In every civilized country drunkenness is a social offence. The Emperor would make it a legal one.

A wonderful temperance demonstration took place recently at Eastnor Castle, the home of Lady Henry Somerset, president of the British W. T. A. It was projected and carried out by the Good Templars of the West Midland counties. Lady Henry Somerset, several months ago, kindly consented to the use of her beautiful grounds for the purpose; no one at that time imagined the demonstration would assume the proportions it did; yet the thousands were welcomed as gracefully and heartily as the expected hundreds would have been. Rev. A. Johnson and Mr. J. Poole presided at the meetings, while noted men and women occupied the platform and participated in the exercises. Many strong and eloquent speeches were made; none were more eloquent nor produced a stronger impression than that of the noble hostess. "I know no greater pleasure," she said, "than that the beauties of the home I have given me shall be shared to day by such a goodly company. I am still more glad to welcome you in the name of our grand cause, and to feel that this is a day when we clasp each other by the hand and bid each other take courage in this great battle against evil—a day when men's and women's hearts will be strengthened by the sense of union which such gatherings bring us. As I look out on this vast assembly, I feel that hope beats high in our hearts; this gathering speaks of better things that are yet to come to this England of ours; it tells that the tide has set in which shall, before long, carry before it with irresistible force the great barriers which have so long blocked the way of temperance reform."

There is a new wind instrument, the "pedal clarionet." It is an octave below the base clarionet, and produces the lowest notes obtained by any instrument except the organ. With a range of three octaves it has a much pleasanter tone than the double bassoon.

PARTY MADNESS.

Surely the Globe must be politically crazed, else would it not use its utmost endeavors to prejudice the Canadian case in the conference as to reciprocity which is now going on at Washington by publishing new "special" despatches from the U.S. capital the rubbish furnished to a Chicago paper by a correspondent whose rabid hostility to this country is part of his stock-in-trade. As a sample of the anti-Canadian spirit which crops out in every sentence of the correspondent's despatches, we copy the following from the Globe, under date of Washington, Feb. 11:

The commissioners choose to continue their course of deception here which was begun in Ottawa. The officials of the United States here are not particularly warm towards the representatives of Canada, although of course they are courteous. But Mr. Blake and President Harrison well remember the criticisms in which some of these very commissioners indulged because of the attitude of the United States last year. It is understood to be due to the objections of the United States that the Canadian Government substitute Hon. Mackenzie Bowell on the commission in place of Sir Charles Tupper. Sir Charles would probably have not been courteously received. In fact it is understood that he would not have been received at all, in view of his breach of faith last year, and of his assault personally upon the representatives of this Government. It is now ascertained that Mr. Foster, the Minister of Finance, was equally extreme in his strictures upon the Government of the United States. That fact has only recently been called to the attention of the Government here, and it is not likely to make things any more agreeable for the Canadians. The reception which has been given to the latter thus far is perfunctory, and gives no promise of a hopeful close of the negotiations.

Of course the foregoing rancorous rubbish, which is insulting to the American as well as to the Canadian commissioners, because it is absolutely false, cannot have any influence in the conference, but the motive of the man who wrote it and of the journal which published it is clear beyond question. It is the defeat of the negotiations, by any means—by stabbing Canada in the back, just as the traitor Farrer tried to do in his infamous pamphlet.

The electors will express their opinion of such villainous methods in the elections yet to be held, and those of East Hastings will be amongst the first to speak.

GRIT INSOLENCE.

So wise in their own conceit are the Grit organists—so intolerant of the opinions of others—that they usually declare, after the verdict of the people has been given against them, that the majority who have decided against them are either knaves who have been corrupted, or fools who are incapable of judging correctly. This peculiarity of the insensate partizans in question is nicely illustrated in the following extract from the St. Thomas Journal—a Grit newspaper—of the 6th inst.:

"The result of the voting yesterday in Prince Edward and Lennox simply proves that the farmers in those ridings have neither sufficient intelligence to realise that free trade means prosperity for them, nor sufficient self respect and love for honesty to govern faithful public servants. If it is to be hoped that the farmers of Elgin will prove more intelligent and more honest.

It had its answer on the 12th, when the farmers of Elgin sided largely in increasing the Conservative majority from 46 last year to 494.

The Globe, which at first spoke fairly on the subject, not to be outdone by its St. Thomas satellite, said in a later issue:

It is simply inconceivable that the farmers of a border county and a barley county like Prince Edward could be persuaded by no-noes which appeal to the intellect of men to change their politics and vote for a party whose policy is the antipode of their interests. The vote in Prince Edward was not the honest and unpurchased vote of the electors of that county; neither was the vote in the neighboring county of Lennox.

The verdict of the electors on the 11th inst., when East Bruce and North Victoria were wrested from the Grits, and East Middlesex and South Wentworth added largely to their Conservative majorities, filled the cup of the chief organ's wrath to overflowing, and caused the following splenetic and libelous outburst:

It is impossible to account for the result of yesterday's polling upon the supposition that the people really approve either of the policy or the record of the Government. But if we conclude that bribery of individual voters, and of whole constituencies by promises of public works, has been practised, we are only making the situation worse. There is some hope for a people who are honestly mistaken, but where is the hope for a country which contains in numbers large enough to decide elections, people who are willing to part with their rights and their best interests for a few dollars, or the promise of a Government building or a railway?

What think you of this, electors? Are you content to be stigmatized by the organs of the Grit party as having neither intelligence, self respect, nor honesty—as being purchased to vote against your honest convictions—as being bought by wholesale and hopelessly corrupt, because you have exercised your franchise as to you seems meet? Or will you resent such insolence at the polls whenever and wherever opportunity offers?

DOWN IN AN AMBER MINE

A PECULIAR ACCIDENT REPORTED FROM EAST PRUSSIA.

High Baltic Seas Sweep far Inland Past Their Usual Bounds and, Pouring Down the Mouth of the Mine, Drown the Occupants Like Rats in a Trap.

BERLIN, Feb. 15.—A despatch from Koenigsberg, East Prussia, reports a peculiar and fatal accident that has occurred near that place. The Government of Koenigsberg is bounded on the north by the Baltic and along the shores of this sea is obtained a large proportion of the World's supply of amber. This substance is there partly cast up by the sea, partly obtained in the form of nuts and partly dug out of a bed of bituminous wood. Last night an exceedingly heavy sea was running in the Baltic and the high waves swept far inland past their usual bounds, close to the shore. Near Palmnicken, a small fishing town, is an amber mine, in which a number of men were working. They had no knowledge of the fact that the rising tide was bringing heavy seas in dangerous proximity to the entrance to the mine; in fact such a danger was entirely out of their mind never dreamed of. Suddenly the water began to pour into the mine in a perfect torrent and began to fill the small workings. The men made a wild rush to escape, but six of them found it impossible to breast the storm in which they were engulfed and they were drowned.

M'GREEVY TALKS.

He Says He Was Not The Globe's Informant.

MONTREAL, Feb. 15.—Mr. Thomas McGreevy, who was in town yesterday, stated that it was untrue that he had met Mr. Farrer of The Globe at Quebec, or that he had given him the information contained in the article recently published by the Liberal organ.

"I do not know Mr. Farrer and I never met him in my life," said Mr. McGreevy said. "As to my being in Quebec on the 4th, I was in Montreal on that date and did not arrive in Quebec until the 6th. I not only did not see Mr. Farrer, but I gave him no information or receipts. Those scripts referred to had been out of my hands for some weeks, as during the Parliamentary investigation my counsel had possession of them."

Two Liberals Elected.

HALIFAX, Feb. 15.—The elections Saturday in Digby and King's resulted in the reelection of the two Liberal candidates. F. W. Borden (Liberal) defeated Mr. Jones by a majority of 50 in King's and E. C. Bowers (Liberal) defeated Bill in Digby by 52 majority.

The vacancy in Digby was caused by the unseating of E. C. Bowers, who defeated Herbert L. Jones in March by 73 votes. The election in King's was caused by the unseating of Dr. Borden (Liberal), whose majority in March was 161.

Blake's Duty.

ST. JOHN, N.B., Feb. 15.—The Telegraph editorially points to Edward Blake his path of duty. It says: "There is no question that the general feeling of the Liberal party is that Mr. Blake has spoken against the Liberal policy when he might have conscientiously remained silent, but there is a stronger conviction that he has remained silent when he ought to have spoken in tones of thunder against the corrupt and scandalous malversions of the Tory Government. If Mr. Blake possesses the secret of a policy other than that of the Liberal party we submit that it is his duty to speak out and to speak now; if he knows of no policy, if he has no inward light and leading which may help to save the country from the evil which he says have grown up under its present rulers and which he deplores, then he should not be a marplot within the ranks of the party of which he has been the leader."

Montcalm Election.

OTTAWA, Feb. 15.—Writs were issued yesterday for the holding of a bye-election to fill the vacancy in Montcalm, Que., caused by the unseating of Mr. Dugas, the Conservative member. At the general election in March last the constituency was contested by three Conservatives, and it is not thought likely the Liberals will put a man in the field this time either. Nominations in Montcalm take place on Wednesday, the 24th instant, and polling on Wednesday, the 2nd March.

Two More Petitions Dismissed.

ST. JOHN, N.B., Feb. 15.—Both the Gloucester and King's county petitions were dismissed by the Supreme Court and Mr. Burns and the Minister of Finance thereby retain their seats.

New Brunswick Legislature.

ST. JOHN, N.B., Feb. 15.—The New Brunswick Legislature has been called to meet on March 3. The past five sessions have all begun in March, with an average duration of 30 days.

Political Notes.

Hon. John Haggart is campaigning in South Ontario.

Hon. John Costigan is assisting Secretary of State Patterson in West Huron.

OTTAWA, Feb. 15.—An order-in-council has been passed appointing W. D. Jones of Brantford to be Deputy Judge of the County Court of Brant.

R. Abercrombie of Cornwall has been appointed Junior County Judge of Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry.

Frank Cole, Excise officer at London, Ont., has been appointed Accountant of the London Inland Revenue Office.

W. T. Graham of Toronto has been appointed third-class Excise officer at that port on probation.

An order-in-council has been passed appointing John Matthews of Simcoe, Ont., to be Collector of Customs at that port.

C. E. A. Webb of London, Ont., has been confirmed as a third-class Excise officer.

Almost Scalded To Death.

ST. THOMAS, Feb. 15.—Engineer James Jordan of the Michigan Central Railroad was almost scalded to death last night by the bursting of a pipe in the boiler of his engine in the yard here. He is now in the hospital. The flesh is taken off his legs and arms.

WINNIPEG, Feb. 15.—The fire brigade of Rat Portage has resigned in a body owing to lack of appreciation on the part of the town council and citizens.

To Examine Toronto's System.

WINNIPEG, Feb. 15.—Chief Code of the fire brigade here has left for Ontario and Quebec to examine systems for fire protection in big eastern cities.

A Call to Winnipeg.

WINNIPEG, Feb. 15.—Rev. W. G. Henderson of Perth, Ont., has formally accepted the vacant pulpit of Zion Church here.

How Mercier Writes His Speeches.

MONTREAL, Feb. 15.—It turns out that the speech delivered by Mercier at the Catholic Congress at Baltimore was written by Mr. F. A. Quinn, formerly of Montreal. The speech was delivered on time and was published in full by the press as a splendid oratorical effort by the Hon. Mr. Mercier. These were published in pamphlet form and distributed broadcast throughout the province (probably at the expense of the public) and made excellent campaign literature.

Too Many Wives.

HAMILTON, Feb. 15.—Alexander Simmons, a Hamilton carpenter, is in custody on a charge of bigamy. The warrant was sworn out by his first wife, who claims that she was married to Simmons seven years ago. A few years later he left her and went to Rochester, N.Y., where he was married on July 23, 1891, by Rev. J. M. Dobson to Jennie F. Fitzpatrick.

THE CLERGY TAKE A HAND

Important Utterances by Montreal Priests Regarding the Elections.

MONTREAL, Feb. 15.—The only development in the slate political during the past week took place yesterday, when in all the English and French Catholic churches throughout the city a mandement was read signed by all bishops of the province, denouncing political corruption and threatening excommunication against all who either gave or accepted bribes, whether in the shape of money or liquor. All persons are forbidden, under pain of anathema, from buying or selling liquor, not only on election day, but for three days before and after the contest. As the great majority of the liquor men in Montreal are Catholics, this means a practical closing of the saloons for a week.

The fulmination is looked upon on all sides as the heaviest blow Mercier has yet received, and, naturally a pure election, a strange thing in Quebec, and that means victory for the Conservatives. The Conservatives will begin active warfare tomorrow, when all their committee-rooms will be thrown open until midnight until the elections are over.

Mayor McShane is straining every nerve to win in Montreal Centre on the Mercier ticket. Alfred P. Kennedy, also a Roman Catholic, is his opponent and has the Irish priests with him.

TO AWE THE KHEDIVE.

England and Her Allies to Go France and Russia Several Better.

LONDON, Feb. 15.—There is something portentious in the simultaneous assembling in the Levant of the fleets of the great powers since it became known that the French and Russian squadrons in the Mediterranean are going to Alexandria. Orders have been sent to the Austrian Admiral Rohrschedit, now at Symrna, to sail with his fine warship for the Pirus, where his squadron will be joined by two Italian ironclads and a division of the German squadron. Within a fortnight the united squadrons of the Dreibund will be within operating distance of the English fleet at Alexandria. If France's design is to impress the Khedive by a naval demonstration, England and her allies are ready to make a more impressive demonstration.

PARIS GOURMANDS.

Fillet of Horse or Donkey Ten Pence Per Pound.

PARIS, Feb. 15.—The rise in the price of beef and mutton caused by the new tariff has led to an enormous demand for horse-flesh in Paris. According to a report of the police prefecture the horses, mules and asses now slaughtered represent over one-third of the whole quantity of meat consumed. Prices current (retail):

Fillet of horse or donkey, 10 pence per pound.

Steak, 7 pence per pound.

Inferior parts, 2 pence per pound.

Worn-out animals are rising in value and are being bought everywhere within a radius of 300 miles of Paris.

Davitt Makes a Speech.

LONDON, Feb. 15.—Michael Davitt in a speech at Middleton yesterday, said it was generally known that Irish properties were not mortgaged to English bankers and others to the extent of £60,000,000.

He announced that he would not run for Parliament again before the general elections.

Civil War in Khartoum.

LONDON, Feb. 15.—According to advices from Egypt, civil war is raging in Khartoum and vicinity.

Cherif, the claimant of the Whaliphat, is said to have been victorious in some battles against Abdallah, chief of the Baggara tribe.

Kassala is reported depopulated.

Robbery and Flight With a Woman.

PARIS, Feb. 15.—A sensation has been caused here by the disappearance of a prominent jeweler, who, it is alleged stole 575,000 francs from the safe of the firm of which his deceased father was a member, and decamped. It is said he had fled to England in company of a woman.

In the Nation of Traders.

LONDON, Feb. 15.—It is announced that two "drawing rooms" will be held in May, and two levees after Easter. The Times comments upon what it terms "the Queen's kindly sacrifice of private feelings for the sake of London tradesmen."

Settled by a Compromise.

LONDON, Feb. 15.—The coal porters strike is over. A compromise was arranged.

WILL SHORTLY BE BUILT.

That Electric Road From Queenston to Niagara Falls and Port Erie.

NIAGARA FALLS, Feb. 15.—Considerable interest has been manifested here regarding the proposed electric railway to be built along the Canadian bank of the Niagara River under the name of the Niagara Falls & River Railway Company, from Queenston through Victoria Park to Chippewa. The survey has been made, the line located and a large amount of rails, ties and material is already on the ground. Yesterday James Ross went over the entire proposed line. Mr. Ross was chief engineer of the Mountain division of the Canadian Pacific and made himself famous by his construction of that line through the Rocky Mountains in 1883 and 1884. Messrs. Kingsmill and Hammond of Toronto and Mr. Hendrie of Hamilton, together with Engineer Jennings, also went over the proposed electric line. The party departed via the New York Central and Grand Trunk for Toronto.

THE END IS NOT YET.

The Dominion Commissioners Still Conferring at Washington.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12.—The Canadian Reciprocity Commissioners, accompanied by Secretaries Blaine and Elkins and Sir Julian Pauncefote, called at the White House Saturday and were formally presented to the President. They met at Secretary Blaine's house at 11 o'clock, and their call lasted about half an hour. The visit was merely for the purpose of paying respects, and there was no discussion of the essential question under consideration.

At the close of yesterday's meeting at the State Department, it was decided to hold the next session on Monday, when the negotiations will be continued. There is no means of ascertaining at present how much longer the conference will be continued.

It is rumored that the adjournment until Monday was taken in order that the cables might be utilized towards securing from the Government at London some official expression giving the present negotiations the color of authority. At all events, it would appear from that adjournment that the proceedings are not quite closed as yet.

Another Gold Cure Victim.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Feb. 15.—The death of young Fair is attributed by his doctors directly to the bi-chloride of gold treatment. "Jimmy" Fair was among the first to try it. He declared it had effected a cure but his friends doubted his assertions. The doctors say strychnine, which enters largely into the bi-chloride treatment, affected his heart. Several similar cases have occurred here. The dead boy's father is the wealthiest man in San Francisco, being probably worth $20,000,000.

DEATH AT A CONVENTION

SENSATIONAL INCIDENT AT A TORONTO ASSEMBLY.

Canon Davidson of Colborne Leads the Exercises Up to Noon—An Hour Later He Dies in a Doctor's Office—A Son's Heroism—General Canadian News.

TORONTO, Feb. 15.—A painful event, the memory of which will linger long in many hearts, occurred during the convention of the St. Andrew's Brotherhood on Saturday. The session was opened with prayer conducted by Rev. Canon Davidson of Colborne. The rev. gentleman was present during the morning session, taking a keen interest in the proceedings throughout. In the course of the morning he complained of indigestion, and shortly after noon felt so ill that he determined to consult a doctor. He accordingly left the schoolhouse and was driven by a friend, Mr. Lamb, to the office of Dr. Cameron, in Sherbourne street. The doctor was, however, unable to relieve his sufferings and he expired about 1.30 in the doctor's office.

Rev. J. G. Davidson, rector of Peterborough, son of the deceased, was chairman of the convention in the afternoon, and Mr. N. Ferrar Davidson of Toronto, president of the brotherhood, was the opening speaker. While the Rev. Mr. Davidson was presiding and guiding the meeting with an energy and tact seldom seen, a note conveying the sad news was handed to him. Stricken as he was by the information yet he kept on with his duties, and when the conference was over gave his summary of the work done, and then in broken accents announced the sad news to his astonished hearers. He was upborne in his sorrow, he said, by the knowledge that it was but a passage from an earthly life to a heavenly one, an event tending not so much to sorrow as to inspiration, right in the midst of every act of service. Then Mr. Davidson hastily left the room, leaving the brotherhood struck equally with sorrow for the loss sustained and admiration for the heroism of the son.

The following are the council for next year: F. Dunstan, N. F. Davidson, R. E. Hicks, C. Heath, jr., R. Parker, S. Waugh, Toronto; S. Woodruff, Woodstock; T. A. D. Bine, Ottawa; Fred Bishop, Montreal; R. V. Rodgers, Kingston; W. F. Cockshutt, Brantford; E. Baynes Reed, Winnipeg; —Fenn, Halifax; H. B. Southwell, Hamilton; W. H. Baker, Stratford.

The officials for the ensuing year are: President, N. Ferrar Davidson, Toronto; 1st vice-president, R. V. Rodgers, Kingston; 2nd vice-president, R. B. Southwell, Hamilton; treasurer, C. Heath, Toronto.

MANITOBA LANDS.

Profitable Nature of the Sales of Public Land Recently Held.

OTTAWA, Feb. 15.—In all 15,028 acres were disposed of at auction during the recent series of sales of Government lands in Manitoba, realizing the sum of $421,486, or an average price of $28 per acre. This was, therefore, the most profitable sale of school lands ever held in the province, as in the sale of 1888, when 20,000 acres were disposed of, the average price obtained was a little under $7 per acre. In many instances this year's school lands brought as high as $10 per acre, while some were sold at less than the upset price of $5 per acre, which was fixed by the experts who valued the lands before they were advertised for sale. The highest average was $9.32 per acre, realized by the Glenboro sale. In all cases the lands were sold to actual settlers for purposes of cultivation.

GOVERNMENT TELEGRAPH.

A Motion to This End Will Be Introduced in Parliament.

OTTAWA, Feb. 15.—F. N. Gisborne, superintendent of Government telegraph lines, states that it is probable a motion will be made next session for the Government to acquire the telegraph lines and operate them in connection with the postal service as in England. He has prepared an elaborate report on the subject, which will be presented. He claims that a large amount of interest can be made on the first cost, and that the amount of matter telegraphed would be materially increased.

Farewell! Oh, Cigarette.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15.—The Ways and Means Committee of the House will be petitioned to prepare a bill invoking the paternal condemnation of the Government upon the cigaret habit. Representatives Cochrane, Cummings and Stapliucker of New York all have in their possession bills which they have been petitioned to introduce providing for the suppression of cigaret manufacture by imposing an internal revenue tax of $10 per 1000 on all imported or domestic cigarets sold in this county.

Accompanying the memorial is a statement which says, "clippings taken from papers throughout the United States show that during the past year there have been about 100 deaths of young men, mostly under 16 years of age, from the effects of smoking paper-wrapped cigarets. In some cases there has been an analysis of the stomach and in most instances has been found phosphorous and arsenic which is largely used in the manufacture of cigaret paper. About 100 men have also been consigned to insane asylums from the same cause.

Lost With Her Crew of 38 Men.

NEW YORK, Feb. 15.—The identity of the ship seen burning on Jan. 16 about 1200 miles southwest of Cape Clear, Ireland, on nearly in mid-ocean, has been established. She was the Nova Scotian clipper Loodiana, which left this port with a large cargo of refined petroleum in case Dec. 31. She was commanded by Capt. Boyd and carried a crew of 38 men. She is the only oil ship overdue at a European port and there is no doubt she was the vessel that the steamship Egyptian Monarch passed Jan. 16.

POLITICAL POINTS

The absence of Reformers at the nomination in East Hastings was notable. The wire pullers of Thurlow were in force in this city and held a caucus, presumably to start out the usual Oonamiconak Brigade.

Mr. Hyman, of London, says that he kept his pledge to the temperance people in spirit. This way of keeping a pledge must refer to a liberal distribution of price feet and beer.

Upon the eve of the last election Mr. Clute said that our farmers wanted a market for their starving families, and quoted Mr. Farley, Reeve of Sidney, as saying that one tenth of the farms in Sidney would be worked this year. Mr. Farley denies having made such a statement, and says that the farmers of this province are as successful as any on the continent. The hot jumping on the great and only Grit orator with both feet.

The Conservative majority in Halifax was 367.

Neither party gained by Saturday's elections.

An error was made in the announcement of the Montcalm election. The nomination takes place on 25th inst., poll'ng March 3d.

Mr. J. I. Davidson, Liberal, and Mr. W. Smith, Conservative, were nominated for the Commons in South Ontario on Saturday.

Mr. J. J. Curran, Q.C., M.P., will speak at Tweed on Wednesday night, in the interest of Mr. W. B. Northrop.

There is but one petition to be heard against a Conservative and nine against Grits.

Only 5 Conservative seats are vacant, but 17 Grit constituencies have yet to choose their representatives.

The Grits have long preached purity of election. Now let them begin to practise it, as a novelty.

John St. Church.

At John St. Presbyterian church on Sunday Rev. W. B. Floyd, Deseronto, preached to very complimentary audiences, considering the bad weather. He took his text from John xvi., 7, and spoke on the much neglected subject of the pre-eminence of the Holy Spirit. The apostles, at the last feast of the passover, were put on trial to see how much they had become Christ-like, and, yet, although taught by the Master with precept, example and miracle, they fall into a selfish quarrel on who should be first at the table. They showed their ignorance by the question of Philip, who said if Christ would show them the Father it would satisfy them. They showed their unfaithfulness by each one seeking "his own" safety when the crisis of danger came, all of which illustrated that without the Holy Spirit, although well versed in the word and well practiced in the precept of Christ, yet they were miserably incomplete." He then drew a vivid picture of the scene of Pentecost, fifty days later, referring to the fourth chapter of Ezekiel for an exhibition of the appearance of the Spirit of God. His application was three fold and most timely, engaging the attention especially of the christians in the audience. In the evening after a descriptive sermon on the healing of Jairus' daughter, Mr. Floyd led the Y.P.S.C.E. endeavor Society, at which there were many visitors from the Methodist and Baptist societies. The service was productive of much good and resulted in many requests for prayer on the part of the young people

Resolution of Condolence.

At the last regular meeting of Belleville Lodge No. 81 I.O.O.F., held in the Oddfellows' Hall, Front St., February 11th, 1892, the following resolution of condolence was passed:

That whereas it has pleased our Heavenly Father to remove from our midst our well beloved brother, Dr. B. S. Willson, for many years physician of this lodge, we desire to place on record our high esteem of our late brother and our appreciation of his many kindnesses to members of this lodge in sickness and distress. We would convey to the bereaved widow and family our fraternal sympathy in their great affliction. Our hope is that in the grand lodge above our brother may receive his due reward from Him who says "Inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these, My brethren, ye have done it unto Me."

SOCIAL & PERSONAL

Mr. J. T. Warrington, cheese exporter, leaves to-morrow upon his annual trip to the old country.

Mr. Hugh Smith, M.P.P., is now on a fair way to recovery.

Mr. E. Guss Porter is confined to his house by an attack of la grippe.

Ald. Graham has been confined to his room for two weeks with a severe attack of rheumatism.

Mr. E. L. Palen goes to Ottawa as the representative of Belleville Lodge No. 251, A.O.U.W. at the annual meeting of the Grand Lodge of that body.

At the Tabernacle.

Rev. J. W. Bell, formerly pastor of Grace church, Winnipeg, now General Missionary of the Royal Temperance Society, occupied the pulpit of the Tabernacle on Sabbath morning. He preached an excellent and effective sermon from the words "Whether therefore ye eat, or drink, or whatsoever ye do, do all to the glory of God"—I. Cor. 10, 31.

The Canadian Jubilee Singers were in attendance and gave one of their choice melodies, which was appreciated by all. The singers attended at the evening service also, and the large congregation expressed the interest taken in their singing was of such a character that they merit a full house at the concert this evening.

Business Success.

How many firms have been successful in business. It has been shown that not more than five per cent. of those starting make a success of it. A great many principles go to make a business a success. The main ones are these: "Sell goods cheap," "sell good goods," be honest with your customers, and do one price to all. At the Oak Hall we observe these principles, and whether we are successful, you may judge for yourselves. The opposition come and go, but we are still to be found at the old stand and doing the business, and sending away contented customers every day.

Manitoba's Advantages.

Mr. Waddell, of Dominion City, Manitoba, gave a lecture on "Manitoba and its Agricultural Resources" in the City Hall on Saturday evening. Mr. S. Burrows was elected chairman and opened up the subject before introducing the speaker. The speaker, Mr. Waddell, has had 17 years' experience in that province and gave a very glowing account of the general resources.

Commendable.

All claims not consistent with the high character of Syrup of Figs are purposely avoided by the Cal. Fig Syrup Company. It acts gently on the kidneys, liver and bowels, cleansing the system effectually, but it is not a cure all and makes no pretensions that every bottle will not substantiate.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

EAST HASTINGS

Messrs. W. B. Northrup and W R. Aylsworth Nominated.

THE POLITICAL QUESTIONS DISCUSSED

Able Addresses Delivered by Representative Men of Both Parties.

The nomination for a candidate to represent East Hastings in the House of Commons was held at the village of Roslin on Saturday last. Owing to the excessive cold weather and the roads being somewhat drifted, the attendance was not as large as it has been on similar occasions. Dr. Sherman, of Lacerote, the Returning Officer, was present in the hall from 12 to 2 o'clock to receive nominations. The only candidates nominated were Messrs. W. B. Northrup, Conservative, and W. R. Aylsworth, Reformer. Both of these gentlemen's papers were filled with the necessary deposit of $200. At the hour of 2 o'clock, nomination having closed, speaking was the order of the day. The agricultural hall was utilized for this purpose and a more unsuitable building could not have been secured. The seating capacity was limited, and the building is of such a character that the audience were almost frozen out.

Mr. P. R. Daly, President of the East Hastings Conservative Association, occupied the chair, and filled it with ability. In accepting the position he made a few remarks of a general character.

Mr. W. R. Aylsworth was the first speaker. In his opening remarks he stated that his manner of life was well known to them for the last 25 years, during which time he had been a member of the County Council. He was brought up on a farm, and what he possessed he had to work for. He had known what it was to endure hardships. He was at the present time a candidate for the suffrages. He had consented to be asked because he believed the majority of the electors of East Hastings wished him to be. He believed they wished to have a successor to the late S. B. Burdett, who was opposed to the Government. In his opinion, the N.P. had proved to be unsuccessful. It would enrich a few and not the masses. The latter were not better off under the N.P., but a great many had gone back instead of going forward. In his opinion, legislation might have been enacted which would have benefitted all classes. In the present contest he was not backed up by the capitalists, the C.P. R. or the Government, but he believed he had the farmers' support, and he would be elected. It was not necessary to be an orator to be a member of Parliament. He was no speaker, but he could work in their interest. He asked for their support, and if elected he would endeavor to be faithful to their interest.

Mr. J. B. Aylsworth, of Newburg, was the next speaker. The farmers, he contended, had to be protected by the Government which was at present in power. The farmers should forsake the policy pursued by the Government, and try and obtain something which was better, namely free trade with the United States. If we had free trade, he contended that the farmer could sell his horses, eggs, butter, and other articles, to greater advantage. It would also substitute friendliness and trade between the two countries than at present exist. He did not believe it would result in political union, as some contended. The Hon. Oliver Mowat, who in his opinion was a great statesman than Hon. E. Blake, was in favor of unrestricted reciprocity, and he was a loyal man. Commercial union was Wiman's scheme, and he (the speaker) was not in favor of it. Unrestricted reciprocity meant a treaty by which we would have our just say in the matter, and we could break it up if it was not to our advantage. If we had unrestricted reciprocity it would do away with the McKinley act. The present Government had sought to get better trade relations but had failed, and he wished it turned out of office, and another placed there who could get what was required. In conclusion, he appealed to the electors to support his uncle, Mr. W. R. Aylsworth.

Mr. W. B. Northrup was the next speaker, and upon coming forward was loudly applauded. He stated that the issues it the present contest were momentous. At present a Government was in power which had been there for 13 years, and their acts were before the people. The electors were called upon at the present time to exercise their franchise, which was one of the greatest privileges they enjoyed. His opponent should give good and substantial reasons why the present Government should be turned out of office, but he had not done so. The policy advocated by his opponent and his Reform friends was one that was difficult to understand. Wiman called it a commercial union, but the electors of East Northumberland at the first opportunity, where it was submitted, rejected it. The party then re-christened it and called it unrestricted reciprocity, but it still remained a commercial union, and it was called it was called free trade, and latterly it was called continental free trade. This policy was a little suspicious, as it was bobbing up under different names. This was enough to make intelligent electors suspect that something in its nature was wrong. It would mean that if unrestricted reciprocity prevailed there would be an assimilation of tariffs in the two countries; our tariff would be the same as theirs. It would mean that the small body would be controlled by the larger. The Hon. E. Blake, the ablest gentleman in the Reform party, was compelled to lay down his armour and resign his position because he could not support the policy of his party, and in his farewell letter to the electors of West Durham stated that it would produce political union, and as a loyal man resigned rather than take such a step. He (the speaker) was in favor of the N.P.—a policy which was in the interest of this country. Upon the statute book there is standing at present a clause in this policy which states that we desire to have free trade relations with the United States, and the Government has at present three of its ablest Ministers at Washington, who are endeavoring to do what they can for this country. The N.P. had made all classes better off than they were before its inception. From 1873 to 1878 there were established in various parts of this country soup kitchens, but they were now obliterated. They were then the only flourishing industries. In order to find out the true condition of the farmers of this country they should be compared with the farmers of the United States, and if this were done he was certain that it would be found out that our farmers were in as good a condition as were the Yankee farmers. Protection was a benefit to all classes. It had been found to be beneficial to the manufacturer, and why would it not be a benefit to the farmer? If the present Government could not get a fair treaty with the United States, he (the speaker) if sent to Ottawa as their representative would assist Mr. Corby in getting for the farmers more protection. (Loud cheers.) If a higher tariff were placed upon farmer's goods coming from the United States it would be a benefit to the Canadian farmer. The duty had been raised upon some of the farming produce coming into this country from the U. S. and it had been beneficial. The policy of the Reform party was to gain the American market at any cost; but if we had their tariff English goods would be kept out, and it would be a mistake to discriminate against the mother country. Unrestricted reciprocity would injure the manufacturing concerns, like the Rathbun Company, the woollen mills at Campbellford and others all over the country, and if such were the case the farmer would also be injured, as his produce would not be required. The Conservative party say we desire freer trade relations with the United States, but we will not get down on our knees to obtain them. We will go to them and tell them we wish to make a treaty which will be beneficial to both. This is reasonable. We will go them as free men, as their equals, and all we ask and endeavor to make a treaty which will not discriminate against the country which protects us. Members of the Reform party have said that they would have unrestricted reciprocity, even if it did discriminate against Great Britain. But we will never turn and rend the hand that has fed us. The mother land has protected us and is willing to do so again. She would give her last soldier, sink her last ship, spend her last cent in defence of this country. (Loud cheers.) In conclusion the speaker stated that if he had the honor to be elected, and he believed he would, he would do what he could in the interest of the electors of East Hastings. His vote would, however, always be recorded in favor of British connection. (Loud cheering.)

Mr. J. W. Johnson was the next speaker. Men, he said, should be judged by their records. Mr. Aylsworth's record was before them. He (the speaker) was in favor of unrestricted reciprocity, and had advocated it for some time. The farmer should have the opportunity of selling in the dearest market and buying in the cheapest. This was the case of the American market. It was a bold man who would advocate free trade in view of the bye elections which had recently taken place. The policy of the Reform party would, in his opinion, carry in the future, and he would continue to advocate it. He would like to have seen unrestricted reciprocity secured, but at present it could not. Canada should be made a great country, and he contended that free trade would do it. It was not disloyal to favor this policy, although their opponents charged them with being disloyal. English capitalists do not seek Canada to invest their capital in. We were 3000 miles away from that country, and the best market was that which was at our doors. The English market was already secured, and we should seek to secure the United States market. The Canadian farmers could compete with U. S. farmers, and so could other branches of trade. He urged those present to support Mr. Aylsworth.

Mr. H. Corby, M.P., in coming forward was received with loud cheers. He referred to the fact that the home market of to-day was $500,000,000, whereas the United States market to our farmers was but $13,000,000. Mr. Johnson asked us to throw over our market of a vast amount for the market of the United States, which would allow their farming produce to compete with ours. In the item of corn he referred to the fact that he brought in 7,000 bushels, and also brought in from the U.S. 1,400 tons of coal, on which articles he paid a duty of between $9,000 and $6,000. Reciprocity would be to his advantage. He would not, however, advocate free trade for his own interests, as against the interest of the country as a whole. He also showed the condition Canada was in during the year 1873 to 1878, when the Mackenzie Government was in power, and what progress had been made since the National Policy had been inaugurated. In 1873 the foreign trade of Canada was $218,000,000, but in 1878 9 it had fallen to $153,000,000 under Grit rule. It was now again, under Conservative rule, $218,000. In conclusion he appealed to all to assist in electing Mr. Northrup.

Mr. R. O. Clute replied and endeavored to prove to the farmers that free trade would be to their interest.

Mr. W. P. Hudson, M.P.P., was the last speaker and upon coming forward was received with cheers. In his opening remarks, he stated that the Reform speakers had not during their addresses told how a revenue would be raised if free trade should prevail. The Conservative party had attempted to make a fair treaty with the United States, and Hon. George Brown and others had tried in vain to get a fair trade policy. England, while a free trade country, was in some respects as highly protected as any on the face of the globe. She was protected by her great industries and vast wealth. In making the manufacturer rich the farmer was also benefitted. Sir John Macdonald had inaugurated the National Policy and in his (the speaker's) opinion, it was a great benefit to this country. It had built up our manufactures and in so doing had helped the farming community. In the carriage business, in which the speaker is interested, he stated that carriages could be manufactured and sold as cheap here as in the United States. The articles were also as good if not better. Our best market was not the United States but our home market. In farm produce the prices obtained here were as good as in the United States, with the exception of barley, which was a little cheaper. The statement which had been made in reference to Canadian cheese being worth more in the United States than in England, was in his opinion misleading. He with others would like to see freer trade relations with the U. States, but he would not be one who would get down upon his knees and beg from them. Hon. Mr. Mowat in his letter to Mr. Mackenzie, upheld Canada; he was a true to his country, and was determined to stand by its right. This is the motto of the Conservative party, and that party still make this country second to none on the face of the globe. We were as prosperous as we would be if we were annexed to the U. States, which he hoped we never would be. The farmers were also as well off financially. In conclusion, he urged those present to go forward and work until the evening of the 20th, and East Hastings would be redeemed.

A vote of thanks was then tendered the chairman, and cheers given for the Queen, the candidates, and also the speakers, after which the meeting broke up.

Charlatans and Quacks

Have long plied their vocations on the suffering pedals of the people. The knife has pared to the quick; caustic applications have tormented the victim of corns until the conviction shaped itself—there's no cure. Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor proves on what slender basis public opinion often rests. If you suffer from corns get Corn Extractor and you will be satisfied. Sold everywhere.

Ladies appreciate Anti-Dandruff from the fact, that it not only thoroughly removes Dandruff with three applications, but stops falling of the hair, restores fading hair to its original color, and makes it soft and pliable without leaving any indication of a dressing being used—clear as crystal, clean to use, it is a valuable toilet preparation.

High handed Officialism.

To the Editor of the Intelligencer.

SIR,—I always understood that an Englishman's house was his castle, but it would seem that there are Government officials clothed with brief authority who forget that fact. A few days since, a respectable gentleman and his wife living near Albert College, lost their only child—and kind tears and sobs they laid out the little one. The neighbors congregated, and they were about leaving the house of mourning for the cemetery, when the solemnity of the occasion was rudely broken upon by High Constable Johnson, who arrived upon the scene with two physicians, and demanded examination of the remains! The physicians were soon convinced of the cruelty of the proceeding, and remarking that it was too late for them, departed. Such cruel officiousness should be investigated.

The color of the Botocudos of Brazil is light yellowish brown. It has been said that they are capable of climbing occasionally, which would seem to be an accomplishment worth having, inasmuch as both sexes commonly go stark naked.

The Botocudos of Brazil are particularly fond of the flesh of monkeys, but they also subsist upon ant eaters, alligators and boa constrictors. Fish they usually shoot with small bows, which they use with great dexterity; but sometimes they use a poisonous root, which, put into the water, soon brings the fish to the surface.

If all the locomotives in the United States were coupled together they would make a train of solid iron and steel over 300 miles long. "The Canadian Mute."

This is the title of a semi-monthly journal issued from the printing office established recently in connection with the Ontario Institution for the Deaf and Dumb, and the first number of which is before us.

The objects of the periodical are thus stated in the salutatory: First.—That a number of our pupils may learn type setting, and from the knowledge obtained be able to earn a livelihood after they leave school. Second.—To furnish interesting matter for and encourage a habit of reading among our pupils and deaf mute subscribers. Third.—To be a medium of communication between the school and parents, and friends of pupils now in the institution, the hundreds who were formerly there at one time or other in the past, and all who are interested in the education and instruction of the deaf of our land.

Judging from the initial number of the Canadian Mute, it will completely fulfil the objects for which it has been established and form a valuable aid in forwarding the work of the institution. The literary contents are excellent, its typographical appearance in the highest degree creditable, and its price—50 cts. per school year—a mere bagatelle in comparison with its value. We congratulate Principal Mathison (who is and old and able newspaper man), and his assistants on their work and the mutes of Ontario on the acquisition of such a handsome and cleverly conducted organ.

THE BOYTH IS WANTED

RUSSELL SAGE, THE FINANCIER, INDICATES THE GENUS.

He Answers the Question, "How Can a Boy Succeed?"—Work, Neatness, Thrift, Good Health Make Up the Ideal Boy.

Fifty Years Experience Compressed.

MR. SAGE.

Russell Sage, the financier whose life was attempted by a bomb thrower in New York because he refused to give the latter $1,250,000 on demand, thus writes of "The Boy that is Wanted" in the current issue of the Ladies' Home Journal:

How can a boy succeed?—I am often asked. Is it true as many people contend, that all walks of life are overcrowded and there is no place for the younger generation? I think not. I have in mind the sort of a lady that can succeed, and I say to all boys now, there is fame and fortune for them if they are made of the right sort of stuff.

The boy who is wanted in the office of the shop, the store, the banking-house, in fact in any branch of mercantile and professional life, is the boy who is not afraid to work, who is educated, gentlemanly, polite, neat in dress, honest, trustful, and self-respecting. Such lads are in demand everywhere. They are sought for with eagerness, and, when found, employers delight in pushing them forward, in opening to them new fields of enterprise and usefulness, in making them their confidants, and finally taking them into partnership. Boys who are slovenly in attire, who are stupid, uncivil, and who cannot be trusted, are to be had, but they are not likely to keep a position for any length of time. Employers do not want them.

The boy who is wanted must be educated. If his parents cannot afford to give him a high-school or college education, he must learn to study without the aid of a teacher, in the early morning before business begins, and in the evenings after business hours. It can no longer be truthfully said that an education is out of any one's reach. Our splendid school system, where one can study by day or in the evening, has put the priceless treasure of an education within the reach of all. The main thing in the beginning, that I would impress upon boys is one of the great commandments, "Honor thy father and thy mother, that thy days may be long in the land which the Lord thy God giveth thee." The boy who respects his father and mother, who treats his sisters and brothers with loving-kindness, has laid a good foundation for a successful career. You will do as your parents tell you, and that certainly will be to study. Don't be in a hurry to get away from your school books. The cares and responsibilities of business life will come soon enough. Go to school as long as you can; and, remember, every hour spent in study in your youth will be worth money to you in after life. Read good books—the Bible, above all. Make yourself acquainted with history. Study the progress of nations and the careers of men who have made nations great. If you have no library of your own, join one of the numerous associations to be found in all cities, where good, healthful books may be obtained. Study religion, science, literature, craft, and history. Learn to read intelligently, so that you may turn to practical use in after life the readings of your youth. Be sure you begin right. Do not waste time in reading trashy books. If you do not know how to select books ask your father or mother, your minister, your public school teacher, or your employer, to do it for you. Drink deep from the well of knowledge. The boy that is wanted in business to-day must be well educated, and if he is not, and fails in business life, he can blame no one but himself. A good education is half the battle. It is within the reach of all.

Be honest. Honesty is the only road to success. Dishonesty, sharp practices, and tricks may succeed for a brief season, but, that is all. No permanent success has ever been built on dishonesty. The prisons are filled with men and boys who have tried it and failed. The men who are respected among men are those who can be relied upon, who are truthful, whose word, indeed, is as good as their bond. There never was a time or occasion when dishonesty was justifiable. If your employer, your business associates, and your friends know you to be honest, they will respect you, and they will gladly do business with you. If they know you to be dishonest, they will shun you. Dishonesty is the first downward step in many a boy's career. Never take anything that does not belong to you, no matter how insignificant.

Be polite. It is an evidence of good breeding, and reflects credit upon your father and mother. The gentlemanly boy is the lad who is not gruff or surly, one who does not use profane or indecent language, has a much better chance of obtaining employment, and keeping his place, than one who is rough, ill-mannered, profane and disrespectful. Be courteous under all circumstances, agreeable, manly, straightforward in your conversation. Cultivate a sunny disposition, and you will find your path in life materially made easy. Your society will be more sought after. Remember under all circumstances to respect age. No matter what the condition, you cannot afford to be disrespectful to your elders.

Don't be afraid to work. It is the only road to success. Work incessantly. Whatever you do, do as well as you know how. Don't be afraid of soiling your hands. Work is honorable, no matter how lowly. You cannot get on in the world unless you work. Try and give your employer one hundred cents' worth per cent. for every dollar you receive from him. Do not shirk anything. Do not be in a hurry to get away at the exact stroke of the hour. Be patient. To-morrow will be another day. If you are faithful, painstaking and watchful of your employer's interests, have no fear that he will not know of it. Boys who observe this rule are rare, and promotion will surely come to the boy who does it. Patience and work are the handmaidens of success.

Why not learn a trade? The master of a good trade is better equipped for the struggle of life than the young man who is born proud to soil his hands by handling tools. All boys should be made to learn trades. It was the custom of kings, once upon a time, to see to it that not only their sons but their daughters, also, were taught trades or some useful occupation. One of the necessities of the times is for better facilities for industrial education. By all means learn a trade, boys. It will be of service to you in after life. I could name any number of successful men to-day who were printers, engravers, telegraph operators or members of some other useful craft.

Be neat in your apparel. Men do not like boys who are slovenly in their attire. A good personal appearance is much in a boy's favor.

Be thrifty. Save some portion of each day's earnings. No matter how small your pay, save something. Begin early in life to save, and you will be surprised to see how the dollars will roll up as you grow older. Do not be extravagant with your money. Help some worthy brother along the rough road. Money is valuable for the good it may do. Let me advise you strongly to keep out of debt. Thousands of great commercial houses have been wrecked by getting into debt. Begin by putting some money in the bank early in life, and add to it whenever you can. When opportunity offers invest it securely. Do not borrow or lend. Both are vices to be shunned.

Keep good company. Avoid companions who may lead you into temptation. Set your standard of morality and fellowship high. You will find the world peopled with strange beings, and although you may know a great many persons you will not be able to make many friends—true, generous, helpful, faithful to the end.

A word about your health. If your body [illegible] sound, your mind will not be. Take plenty of exercise. Keep out in the open air and God's pure sunlight as much as you can. Then you will become vigorous in body, and by work and study you will become strong in mind.

Have I made clear to you the boy that is wanted? There is much more that could be said on the subject, but I shall leave that to others who are abler than I am.

My ideal is not an impossible one. I know some boys who fulfill all the qualifications I have named. They will be heard from in the future. They are the hope of the world, and I know many men who have built great fortunes and honored names upon just such a foundation. Why name them? To do so would fill a large book.

Let me ask you to try to realize the boy that I have tried to depict. What a future is open to such an one! There is no honor, no gift of station, that may not be his.

I have pressed into this crude recital fifty years of everyday experience among men. I believe it is the best way to get on. Follow these suggestions and you will not be likely to fail.

Leaped to His Death.

CINCINNATI, Feb. 15.—Meredith Stanley, the bridge jumper, made what in all probability will prove a fatal leap yesterday from the Cincinnati and Covington bridge, a distance of over 100 feet, into the Ohio River. Only a few weeks ago Stanley and his wife made a successful double leap from the Chesapeake and Ohio Railway bridge. Since then they have been on exhibition at a dime museum in this city.

Sisters Burned to Death.

CHARLOTTE, N. C., Feb. 15.—Mrs. Gregory, a widow, was making soap at Welford, S.C., yesterday when her clothing caught fire. Mrs. Gregory's sister went to her assistance and both women were burned to death.

ATTACKED BY AN ENEMY.

DEAR SIRS,—About a year ago I had a very bad attack of dyspepsia. For nearly four months I never ate a meal without suffering pain after. I had got so weak I could scarcely walk, when one day I saw an advertisement for B.B.B., and thought I would try a bottle. Four bottles cured me completely, and I am now strong and healthy.

A CLOSE VOTE IN THE HOUSE OF COMMONS.

On Mr Sexton's Amendment to the Address From the Throne—A Baronet's Son Killed—Anarchists in Berlin—General Cable News of a Night.

LONDON, Feb. 16.—Replying to a question put to the Government in the House of Commons yesterday regarding the oppression of the Stundists by the Russian Government,

James Lowther, Parliamentary Secretary of the Foreign Office, said the Government did not intend to remonstrate with Russia against her treatment of religious sects unless the people oppressed were British subjects.

In the debate this evening on the address in reply to the Speech from the Throne Thomas Sexton, member for West Belfast, moved an amendment declaring that a majority of the Irish people and their representatives in Parliament are convinced of the inability of the Imperial Parliament to govern Ireland in the manner required by the distinctive interests of that country and that this conviction has been intensified by the manifest failure of the land purchase act to afford a basis for an extension of the class of occupying owners.

Mr. Jackson, Chief Secretary for Ireland, replied that Mr. Sexton's criticism of the land act were premature. The act had been in operation only a few months. Special causes accounted for the small amounts of business yet done under the act. When tenants had time to appreciate the value of the land stock that stock would find a ready market.

Mr. Sexton's amendment was rejected by the close vote of 179 to 158. The announcement of the figures was received with prolonged opposition, and Irish cheers.

The address in reply to the speech from the throne was then formally adopted.

In the House of Commons whether the Local Government bill for Ireland would be introduced on Thursday Mr. Balfour nodded in affirmative.

ENDED BY MORPHINE.

The Inexpressibly Sad Romance of Two Young French People.

PARIS, Feb. 16.—Some 10 years ago there lived at Vernon, 50 miles from this city, on the left bank of the Seine, Michel W. Sabatier, a wealthy agriculturist, a cabinet maker, an industrious lad, who made love to Jeanne Quentin, the pretty daughter of the landlord of the Grand Cerf Hotel.

Jeanne's father turned him away in a rage and Michel started out for London to make a fortune. Years passed and an invention of a metal varnish secured the young man a competence.

He returned to Vernon a few days ago only to find that the hostelry of the Grand Cerf had ceased to exist, the host and hostess being dead, and Jeanne had gone to Paris, where she was reported to be living with an aunt.

Michel came to this city and found Mme. Moulinet, the girl's friend, who revealed that she conducted a questionable house and that Jeanne was an inmate. She consented to leave the den of vice and accompanied her lover. Taking the train last Wednesday morning they reached Vernon about noon, and walked across the road to the Chateau of Bizy, once the property of Louis Philippe, and a favorite walk in their happier days. Arrived at the chateau they partook of a light lunch and at some time during the afternoon must have swallowed the morphine they had purchased in Paris. They were never seen alive again, but their bodies were found in a sequestered nook early the next morning by a rural constable.

A LEVEE IN PRISON.

Mrs. Osborne in Prison the Lion of the Hour.

LONDON, Feb. 16.—Mrs. Osborne, in Holloway Jail, is the lioness of the hour. She probably knows, I think so. She doesn't know it. It's a fact, all the same.

Why, society women are simply frantic to see her. Mrs. Hargreaves' wife and Mrs. Osborne's tears in Bow-street Police Court have stirred up the West End to a woman.

How can the purloining and selling of a few pear-shaped pearls be a crime with such a person—even if they are "worth a king's ransom"?

The scene in front of the jail reminded one of the rush and excitement near St. George's, Hanover Square, when some particularly swell wedding is in progress.

Magnificent equipages, bearing aristocratic coats of arms and attended by coachmen, footmen and outriders, lined the street near the jail on both sides a distance of three blocks. Two policemen stood at the gate to regulate the traffic. As the carriages drove up the doors of the vehicles were opened by an obsequious flunkey in gray and red and gold, and the smiling and chatting occupants were politely escorted within the grim corridors, which as a rule would only produce a shudder in such gorgeously-dressed, high-toned visitors. It was like a vast swell reception.

Under the rules of the prison untried offenders may receive a limited number of visitors. There seemed no limit to-day. Mrs. Osborne and her gallant husband had been ushered into the chief warden's private apartments, where from 11 a.m. until 1 p.m. they received a perfect stream of callers.

Peeresses, novelists, nuns, Salvation Army Hallelujah lassies, psychologists and clergymen passed in, shook hands, had a few words of sympathy or of curiosity and then passed out again.

DESCENDED ON THE GANG.

Berlin Police Interrupt a Fiery Orator in a Heartless Manner.

BERLIN, Feb. 16.—Pursuant to a call secretly circulated during the week a well attended meeting of Anarchists was held yesterday. Despite the secrecy observed by the participants the police learned of the meeting and in strong force burst into the hall while one of the orators was firing the hearts of his hearers with fierce denunciations of the government and dire threats against its officials.

The appearance of the police severed the thread of oratory and caused a mad rush for the doors. Many managed to escape, but the police succeeded in capturing 50 followers of the red flag and marched them through the Charlottenstrasse to the police station amid the jeers and groans of the crowds which congregated on the sidewalks.

The Largest Opal Ever Found.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 16.—The largest opal ever found in the world is on exhibition here. It is 11 inches long, 5 wide and 1½ inches thick, and came from Guerrero, Mexico. It is the property of Juan Goldman of 1000 Van Ness avenue, who is interested in the mine from which it came. The value of the specimen, according to the owner, is $10,000.

Dangerous Counterfeits.
Counterfeits are always dangerous, more so that they always closely IMITATE THE ORIGINAL IN STYLE AND NAME. The remarkable success achieved by Nasal Balm as a positive cure for Catarrh and Cold in the head has induced unprincipled parties to imitate it. The public are cautioned not to be deceived by nostrums imitating Nasal Balm in name and appearance, bearing such names as Nasal Cream, Nasal Balsam, etc. Ask for Nasal Balm and do not take any imitation dealers may urge upon you. For sale by all druggists or sent post-paid on receipt of price (50c and $1.) by addressing Hor & Co. Brockville, Ont.

KNIGHTS OF LABOR.
The Knights of Labor aim to protect their members against financial difficulties, etc., Hagyard's Yellow Oil protects all who use it from the effects of cold and exposure, such as rheumatism, neuralgia, lumbago, sore throat, and all inflammatory pain. Nothing compares with it as a handy pain cure for man and beast.

For coughs, colds, bronchitis and all lung and throat troubles there is no preparation of medicine can compare with Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup. It never fails to give speedy and permanent relief. It removes all soreness, and heals the diseased parts. It immediately soothes the most troublesome cough, and by promoting expectoration, removes the mucus which stops up the air tubes which cause difficulty in breathing thereby giving relief to that depressing uneasiness experience in the chest. Public speakers and singers will find Bickle's Anti Consumptive Syrup of inestimable value, as it speedily and effectually allays all irritation, and luminess in the throat and bronchial tubes, and gives power to the vocal cords, rendering the voice clear and sonorous. If parents wish to save the lives of their children, and thereby save much anxiety trouble and expense let them procure a bottle of Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup, and whenever a child has a cough, has a cough or hoarseness, give the Syrup according to directions.

Our heaviest burdens are those we borrow.

Do p u feel as though your friends had all deserted you, business calamities overwhelmed you, your body refusing to perform its duties, and even the sun had taken refuge behind a cloud? Then use Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery, and bid your fears and despondency disappear. Mr. R. H. Baker, Ingoldsby, writes: "I am completely cured of Dyspepsia, and cannot find words to express for three years Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery is the medicine that effected the cure after trying other medicines."

Much doing is not so important as well doing.

Fever and Ague and bilious derangements are positively cured by the use of Parmelee's Pills. They not only cleanse the stomach and bowels, from all bilious matter, but they open the excretory vessels, causing them to pour copious effusions from the blood into the bowels, after which the morbid mass is thrown out by the natural passage of the body. They are used as a general family medicine with the best results.

The man who doesn't believe in God lives that way.

A. M. Hamilton, Warkworth, writes.—"For weeks I was troubled with a swelled ankle, which caused me much pain and annoyance. Mr. Mayoe, of this place, recommended Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil. I tried it, and before one bottle was used I was cured. It is an article of great value."

Daily Intelligencer.

BELLEVILLE, TUESDAY FEB. 16

MR. FARLEY EXPLAINS.

It is with pleasure we publish Mr. J. M. Farley's letter, which is a fair explanation of that gentleman's position, and hence we most cheerfully accept his avowal that he has not been an applicant for any Government position. In these days, when Grit politicians are croaking and shedding crocodile tears over the condition of the farming community, it is refreshing to hear Mr. Farley, who is a Grit farmer and Reeve of Sidney township, say "I have no reason to think that the farmers of this Province are not as successful as any on the continent." Still, it seems strange that with such views, he should by silence assent to Mr. Clute's utterances in the last election contest, when that gentleman said that the farmers were "asking for a market to feed their starving families." To the President of the INTELLIGENCER Co'y Mr. Farley has denied that he said "one-tenth of the farms in Sidney would not be worked" last year. It rests with Mr. Clute to explain away Mr. Farley's contradiction. It will be remembered that Mr. Clute held a meeting in the Opera House on the 26th Feby last, when Mr. Farley, as one of the faithful followers of the Grit candidate, must have been present, as it was an extremely enthusiastic meeting. The Ontario, in reporting the meeting next day, said that "the applause that ascended to Heaven was deafening." At that meeting, Mr. Clute is reported in the Ontario as using these words: "Mr. J. M. Farley, Reeve of Sidney, made the startling statement that at least one-tenth of the farms in Sidney would not be worked this year because they did not pay." The accusation is not ours; it was made by Mr. Clute; and, if we are to believe Mr. Farley, was not truthful but, made for political capital—and, knowing it to be untruthful, it was Mr. Farley's duty to have said so at the time.

Civil War.

The Laurier Wing Attacks the Ontario Section of the Liberals.

Laurier, Pacaud and L'Electeur have declared war against Cartwright and Farrer and the Globe, and Saturday's issue of the Quebec end of the harmonious Grit-Rouge family fires hot shot into the Ontario section of the organ of toryism. Speaking of the great Conservative victories, Pacaud's paper says:

"In Ontario the Liberals are losing step by step the ground they so laboriously gained on the 5 h of March last, and the responsibility of these defeats rests with the Globe alone. Where is the public opinion of which we hear so much in the greatest of English-speaking provinces? The answer is very easily found, as this public opinion has been poisoned by those whose duty it has been to direct it, and had the Globe been paid to do the work of the Conservative party its success could not have been greater. It was in fact a sad day when the liberals of Ontario placed at the head of their chief organ the notorious Edward Farrer in order to carry on the infamous work he had so well begun in the Mail. In order to satisfy the previous hate which this fanatic bore towards Mercier he went to work at once to destroy that harmony which had existed up to then under the wise leadership of Blake and Laurier. Thanks to Edward Farrer Allison has been beaten in Lennox, and the Tories have captured East Bruce and South Victoria. Thanks to the same man one of the most valiant members of our party, Mr. Barron, has lost his seat."

The above was written by Mr. Barthe, who is in constant communication with Mr. Laurier at Arthabaskaville, and Sir Richard and his man Friday can accept the article as being just as authoritative as if direct from the lips of their leader himself. The Globe will "speak now."

ONTARIO LEGISTATURE.

A DEBATE ON THE ANNEXATION MOVE.

Mr. Meredith Repudiates Sol. White of Essex, and the Latter Replies in His Defence, Claiming That it is Not a Political Question.

TORONTO, Feb. 10.—The debate on the address at the Legislature yesterday afternoon was about the tamest circus that has been in town since a corporation by-law points that relieved it from criminal dulness being the allusion by the mover of the address to Mr. Sol. White's annexation propaganda. Mr. Meredith's repudiation on behalf of himself and his followers of any share in Mr. White's sentiments and Mr. White's subsequent defence of his position.

The House got at the consideration of the address about 3.30.

Mr. W. H. Biggar, West Hastings, opened by saying that he was not disappointed at the meagreness of the measures outlined in the speech from the throne because it was a surprise to him that after 20 years' of the Hon. Mr. Oliver's administration there was anything that required improvements. The reference in the speech from the throne to the death of the Duke of Clarence drew from Mr. Biggar the remark that there appeared to be certain persons in the country who were dissatisfied with their lot and would like to change their allegiance. There were no representatives of this class on his (Mr. Biggar's) side of the House, but there were on the other. He gave Mr. Meredith credit for having sympathy with the sentiments of Mr. Sol. White, but they were of the same political stripe and it was only a confirmation of the old adage that misery makes strange bedfellows. Mr. Biggar comes from a county rich in iron, and it was therefore natural that he should have paid some attention to the mineral question.

The county of Hastings was rich in both gold and iron, but not much development had taken place, he said, because those working the mines were inclined to be extravagant. He expected a boom in the iron mining in view of the fact that recent discoveries had made it an easy task to eliminate the objectionable ingredients that were present in most Canadian irons. In connection with the Parliament buildings it caused Mr. Biggar a flush of pleasure that no bodding had ever taken place in connection with them.

To Mr. W. T. Lockhart fell the task of seconding the address. He thought the paragraph in the speech respecting a forest reservation and park in the Mattawa River meant the establishment of a provincial park similar to those in the various states in the American Union. He alluded to the rumors that were rife some time ago, that Mr. Meredith was to enter the Dominion Cabinet. There seemed to be some hitch in that program, however, and if the result would be to leave Mr. Meredith in his present post, he for one could not regret it. He freely admitted that gentleman's great ability, untiring industry and wholesome vigilance over the legislation of that House. Moreover, he was free from the taint of disloyalty that appertained to his political friend, Mr. White. Mr. Lockhart concluded with an expression of his satisfaction that the province was free from the boddling which had been disclosed in Ottawa and Quebec.

Mr. Meredith lost no time in preliminaries but at once challenged the good taste and propriety of the two gentlemen who had preceded him, but especially that of the mover, Mr. Biggar, in dragging in Dominion politics to that House. Mr. Biggar's halting admission that the Conservative party was probably loyal was not needed. The Conservative party in that House required no apology for its loyalty. He (Mr. Meredith) stated inhesitatingly that both parties in that House were loyal to the Crown. While stating as he felt that it scarcely lay in the mouth of a member of the party whose policy the foremost man of the Liberal party, Hon. Edward Blake, declared made for annexation to express his doubts of the loyalty of others.

Mr. Meredith went on to say that he regretted the stand taken by the member for North Essex (Mr. White), and on behalf of the Conservative party he utterly repudiated the sentiments which Mr. White had thought fit, from time to time, to express. Coming to Mr. Lockhart's allusion to corruption in Quebec, he wondered that he would have the harihood to mention that which had been condemned who was the author of the corruption. Did they forget that the compact of '87 was still unrepudiated? Mr. Lockhart's friends would hardly thank him for dragging in that unfortunate allusion and re-establishing their connection with the disgraced and dishonored Quebec politician. He regretted having to refer to these matters, but they had been forced on him by the remarks of the member for North Hastings.

With respect to farmers' institutes, which were mentioned in the speech from the throne, he could see a variety of useful work for them to perform if they were freed from the attempts that were being made to make them political clubs. In regard to the mineral policy of the Government he was anxious to ascertain what had been the effect of the policy adopted last session.

He was glad that the new Parliament Buildings were approaching completion, because at length they might possibly discover what they cost. He admitted freely that they promised to be a handsome pile of buildings, but they would remain chiefly as a monument to the astuteness of the Minister of Public Works, who had inveigled the representatives of the people into undertaking their construction in the belief that they would not cost more than half a million dollars. If they did not cost more than three times as much the province might consider itself fortunate.

Dealing with the reference in the Speech to the fire evil, Mr. Meredith expressed his fear that the Government's treatment of it would be very superficial. They would not touch the root of the evil. The system was full of scandals. In his own city of London the registry office had been without a head for three years, while they heard of officials enjoying incomes of thousands of dollars, and they did not spend an hour a day in their offices.

The Premier Was Prompt.

When the leader of the Opposition sat down Mr. Mowat leaped to his feet with remarkable briskness. He at once took up Mr. Meredith's complaint about the introduction of Dominion politics into that House. Who had been the first to introduce Dominion politics there? The Opposition, to be sure. He listened with pleasure to his hon. friend's remarks with respect to loyalty. He believed that the great mass of the people, with individual exceptions here and there, were unreservedly loyal. During the long time he had been a member of that House he had never heard a disloyal word uttered. Passing from that he touched lightly on other points in the Speech and on Mr. Meredith's criticism. The Parliament buildings, he said, would not cost more than $1,000,000 by a quarter. He defended the fee system of paying public officers. It was the most equitable. A man himself was the best for the work he did. The case cited by Mr. Meredith had no weight. The people were not suffering. One deputy registrar in London had done the work. It was not unusual for public offices to remain for a long time unfilled. The collectorship of Toronto had remained unfilled for two or three years. He concluded by hoping they would have an active session of useful work.

Sol Defends Himself.

There was a pause after Mr. Mowat sat down and it looked as if the address was going to go through without further criticism. Just when Mr. Speaker was thinking of rising Mr. Sol. White, on whom all eyes were centered, rose slowly and apparently quite unembarrassed. He would, he said, have offered any observations at this juncture had he not been attacked by the mover of the address. He had accepted an invitation to deliver a lecture at Woodstock on the destiny of the country. He went there as a man of friends with a right to discuss his future. He was born in this country. He was a British subject. He had always been loyal to Canada's interests, and in speaking those interests that he had engaged in for eighteen years was best for the future of the country. This, however, was not a political question and should not be discussed in the House.

Several members said "Oh, oh!" and reporting Sol. said: "If the real private opinions of those gentlemen who say 'oh, oh!' could be scrutinized it would perhaps be found that their views are not so unlike my own after all." Proceeding he said that Mr. Mowat stood just where annexation as a living question. He (Mowat) was a native of British connection; so was he. Mr. Mowat thinks that unrestricted reciprocity will avert political union. The speaker did not think it would. Mr. Mowat declares in favor of independence by and by, and profiling by this declaration of their representative the men who were formerly annexationists in South Oxford now described themselves as independence men. He had no doubt the gentlemen on both sides were loyal, but it was not disloyal to discuss the destiny of the country.

Mr. Mowat's program meant separation by independence rather than by political union. Mr. Laurier at Boston had stated that he was in favor of unrestricted reciprocity and the Monroe doctrine. Mr. Laurier was thus inviting the Americans to enforce the Monroe doctrine. Unrestricted reciprocity would lead inevitably to annexation. The speaker preferred to adopt a course with his eyes open rather than be led up to it blindly. Premier Mowat must not bear to the line on the question of British connection. He assents to discrimination against Britain and ultimately contemplates separation. We can get no trade treaty from the United States that does not mean annexation. He quoted against that his views should not concern the House. He was responsible to his constituents alone. They knew before the election what his views were. He had never repudiated them, yet he was elected by a large majority. It was not a subject germane to their duties as legislators and he would not pursue that line and never been mentioned.

Balfour's Indignation.

Mr. Balfour, probably feeling that the reputation of Essex county was involved in the question, proceeded to draw down his colleague for the other half in pretty strong style. He indignantly asked the House what it thought of a man who could tell them that this was not a political question. He declared that Mr. White had not always had the courage of his convictions. Before the last election he flippantly repudiated all his alleged convictions.

Mr. White: I deny that.

Mr. Balfour: I am glad to say that it was enough to make Colonel Prince, a good old Conservative representative of the riding, turn in his grave to have it represented by its present member. Mr. White had stated that he was an independent member at last election. Yes, he was an independent annexationist. The policy of his leader was so unpopular in his riding that it meant political extinction to him. This independent member was nominated by Secretary of State Patterson and seconded by the Dominion Minister Casgrain. Mr. White would have them believe that his constituency approved of his annexation sentiment. Why, the County Council had condemned it by unanimous voice. If Mr. Meredith would put before the House a resolution condemnatory of Mr. White and his sentiments it would be voted for by every man on the Reform side.

Mr. White: Is the advice free?

Mr. Balfour: The advice may be taken as freely as it is given. He ended by prophesying that when the electors of North Essex again got a chance of expressing an opinion of Mr. White they would snuff him out forever.

The motion for a reply to the address was then put and carried.

Mr. Laurier in Toronto.

The eighth annual banquet of the Young Men's Liberal Club, held last evening in the Walker House, was a great success. It was graced by the appearance of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, who spoke eloquent words of encouragement. Hon. David Mills was also present. Robert Jaffray declared himself in favor of open rebellion if such a course could rid the country of the present Government.

In the course of his address Mr. Laurier said he was on his way west to help his friend, M. G. Cameron, in West Huron.

The Liberal party, he admitted, had met with several reverses during the past week, but French as he was, he had still that characteristic possessed by all true Englishmen the faculty of never knowing when one is beaten.

He declared that the Conservative Government at Ottawa would have a majority of 50 in the next Parliament, but he did not care whether that number were doubled, yet would he be as buoyant and hopeful as when victory was attendant upon the Liberal banner; yet he said he and his colleagues vigilantly guard the interests and rights of Canada.

Death of Dr. Pirrette.

In the death of Rev. William Pirrite, D.D., which took place at the parsonage, Davenport, last night, the Methodist Church has lost the services of a man whose whole career has been one continuous vindication of the faith in which he sincerely believed.

Mr. Pirrite was born at Kingston, where his father was an officer in the 79th Highlanders, in July, 1828.

Dr. Pirrette was an eloquent and forceful preacher, and there will be sincere grief in many Methodist circles throughout Canada when the news of his death is known.

Driven Upon the Rocks.

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., Feb. 16.—The Prince Edward Island schooner Avenger was driven on the rocks 20 miles from St. John's Saturday in the blinding gale and storm. The lifeboat swamped and Murdock Gillies, a seaman, volunteered to swim ashore with a life line. After a terrible struggle with the waves, he managed to insert his hands in a hole in one of the precipitous rocks which line the shore. He drew himself up, and by catching points of rock he succeeded in climbing to a spot on which he could fasten a line. Then he drew ashore a large line and by means of it the crew and captain and crew all got safely to the shore.

HAVE LEFT WASHINGTON

THE RECIPROCITY COMMISSIONERS RETURN HOME.

The Associated Press Reports that No Treaty Has Been Concluded Owing to the Fact that the Commissioners Had No Power to Act.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16.—The Canadian reciprocity negotiations came to an end today. There was a session of about 2½ hours at the State Department, attended by Secretary Blaine and General Foster on the side of the United States and Sir Julian Pauncefote and the Canadian Commissioners on behalf of the applicants for reciprocal trade relations.

At the close of the meeting it was announced that negotiations were concluded and that the visitors would leave here for Canada to-night.

The State Department officials refuse to make known the result of the conference, but it is believed that the visitors were unsuccessful in their mission, principally because of their alleged failure to satisfy representatives of this Government that they were authorized to conclude a commercial treaty independent of the declaration of Great Britain.

The proposition of the Canadians, as it is understood, was that a treaty be concluded on the following terms:

1. A renewal of reciprocity treaty of 1854, with the modifications required by the altered circumstances of both countries.

2. A renewal of section of the treaty of 1888 with respect to the Atlantic fisheries, with the aim of securing free bait privileges to the United States markets of Canadian fishery products in return for facilities to be granted to Canadian fishermen to buy bait and supplies and to tranship their fares in bond, such privileges to be on a mutual.

3. The protection of mackerel and other fisheries on the Atlantic ocean and in the inland waters also.

4. The modification of the seaboard coasting laws of the two countries.

5. Canadian canals and inland waters dividing Canada from the United States.

6. Mutual salvage and saving of wrecked vessels.

7. Arrangements for settling the boundaries between Canada and Alaska.

BURNED THE CHURCH.

A Grecian Mob Maltreat Protestant Clergymen and Worshippers.

ATHENS, Feb. 16.—During the service at the Protestant Church at Piraeus yesterday a mob of men forced their way to the interior of the building and severely maltreated the ministers and the audience. They stole everything of value in the church and then set fire to it.

A detachment of troops was sent to the scene and they succeeded in extinguishing the flames, but not until the inside of the church had been burned beyond repair.

Many members of the mob were arrested.

It begins by stating that the attention of the Government has been repeatedly directed to the very unsatisfactory condition of the sugar industry, through the difficulty of obtaining suitable labor, and states the intention of the Government to resume the admission of Polynesians as plantation laborers for a period of 10 years.

SAULT STE. MARIE, Feb. 16.—William Coulter, the religious fanatic, who, after acquittal for murder of his aged father, confessed in a revival meeting that he had committed the crime and had prepared himself on the stand in the trial, was to-day sentenced to State's prison for 10 years for perjury, to which he pleaded guilty on Thursday.

When brought into the court room for sentence he fell upon his knees and cried loudly:

"Oh God, oh Saviour! I await thy coming," and similar phrases.

He was finally quieted down and remained silent until after sentence had been passed, when he exclaimed loudly:

"I care not for human punishment. God and I have balanced our accounts and I am all safe."

Frozen to Death.

HAMILTON, Feb. 16.—A man named Bush was found frozen to death on Saturday morning last on the mountain between Dundas and Southcott. It is supposed he was under the influence of liquor and fell out of his cutter and lay at the side of the road all night. The horse went on home, but was not missed by the family until the morning. A search was instituted, but too late. The body was frozen stiff when found.

Were Used by Confidence Men.

CHICAGO, Feb. 16.—Heath's Infallible Counterfeit Detector," a book ostensibly containing directions for detecting spurious money, has come to grief, the Secret Service officials having suppressed its sale.

The "Detector" was published by Laban Heath of Boston, who sold the book in enormous quantities. The books contained cuts of Treasury notes of any denomination from $1 to $500. Many complaints were received at the Treasury Department that the books were being used by "bunco" sleepers and confidence men. The sharpers, it was discovered, would cut the pictures of the Treasury notes out of the book and pass them on the unwary.

Cut Nail Men Meet.

ST. JOHN, N.B., Feb. 16.—A meeting of the cut nail manufacturers of Canada has been held in the parlors of the Royal Hotel the past three days. All the manufacturers in Canada were represented, with the exception of one firm, aggregating about $4,000,000. The cut nail business was fully discussed in all its different phases, and resulted in a union of the eastern and western associations and the adoption of a uniform card list of extras which now obtains all over the continent, with the exception that the base price is much higher than the American base price. A firm agreement has been made between all the makers for one year, and it is bound by a large deposit—which means a uniform price all over, and does away with the cutthroat cutting which has been so injurious the past two years. A slight advance over present prices was made.

To the Editor of the Intelligencer.

SIDNEY, Feb. 12th, '92.

DEAR SIR,—Will you accord me a portion of your valuable space to reply to your comments on some statements which I am reported to have made at Canifton. You state, "Mr. Farley is a farmer, but is a politician as well, and a fine sample of the Grit politician he would accept the License Inspectorship, Registrarship, or any other position vacant, and the party can rely upon his faithfulness to the cause until he is shelved." Allow me to inform you that I never have been an applicant for a "License Inspectorship, Registrarship, or any other position," either in the gift of the Ontario or any other government, or any party, neither would I have accepted the license if tendered it. It has been offered me, for private reasons.

You also state in the paragraph referred to that "the only policy of the party is depreciation of their own home and country." The inference is that I made some statements to that effect. I did not then, nor have I at any time, either publicly or privately, ever made such a statement or anything that can be construed to that effect, for I have no reason to think that the farmer of this province is not as successful as any on the continent, but that it caused not by the N P, or our present reciprocity relations, but on account of the farmers of Ontario being more economical and industrious than those of the neighboring republic, and also that our soil is more fertile and better suited, which is proven by the Government returns of the two countries. In all kinds of grain, with the exception of Indian corn, the returns show that the average per acre is several bushels greater in Ontario than any state in the Union, which, notwithstanding our prices are low, and the cost of labor, &c., makes farming as successful, if not more so, than in the States, as the difference between successful and unsuccessful farming may be wholly in the variation in yield of five or six bushels per acre.

Permit me to say that I have been able to live very comfortably on the farm, and have brought up a family now that I think you can rely upon his faithfulness to the cause until he is shelved."

In regard to your frequently quoted statement which I am reported to have stated that "one tenth of the farms in Sidney should not be worked this year," I would refer you to the President of THE INTELLIGENCER Co'y, as I gave him the facts some time since and do not think it necessary to refute them.

THE room in which a number of friends pass the evening smoking either cigars or inferior tobacco will have an unpleasant odor next morning. Let the same friends smoke only the "Myrtle Navy" and they will find quite a difference in the room next morning. If it is reasonably ventilated, as with a fire place for instance, no unpleasantness whatever will be found. The purity and fine quality of the leaf used is the reason of this.

Death of an Aged Lady.

Mrs. John Vandervoort died yesterday at her residence on Charles street. The deceased was an aged lady and was well known and greatly respected. For a great many years she had been a consistent member of the Methodist church. She leaves a husband and family.

Ladies appreciate Anti Dandruff from the fact, that it not only thoroughly removes Dandruff with three applications, but stops falling of the hair, restores fading hair to its original color, and makes it soft and pliable without leaving any indication of a dressing being used—clear as crystal, clean to use, it is a valuable toilet preparation.

TOWN TALK.

What a wide swath the scythe of death has been cutting of late. Many of our most prominent citizens have joined the great majority.

* * *

On the street one day—claimed by death the next—was the record in the case of ex-Mayor Dr. Willson. A worthy citizen gone to his long home; long to be remembered, particularly by the poor, who have lost in him a kind friend.

* * *

The death of Mr. John Bronton was like taking a page out of the history of Methodism. His life and death was a monument raised to the truth of christianity. It is no wonder that in preaching his funeral sermon the pastor should advise young men to live his life and die his death.

* * *

Mr. Burdett had risen from a plough boy to a position of wealth and independence, with a voice in the legislature of the land, when the tired hands dropped from the plough handles and the plough was left to the mirror, his life work to be taken up by another at the point that he left it.

* * *

Sunday last the remains of ex-Ald. Johnston were carried to the tomb. Many years since he learned the trade of harness maker in this city with the late Wm. B. Lauder, after which he accumulated a competency at farming and removed to this city, where he enjoyed the fruit of his labor and passed quietly away, respected by all who knew him.

* * *

"We all with our graves shall sleep,
A hundred y ars to come;
No living soul for us will weep
A hundred years to come;
And other men our lands will till,
And other men our streets will fill,
While other hi ds will sing as gay,
And bright the sun shine as to day,
A hundred years to come."

* * *

My attention has been directed to the cruelty exercised by some of the boys who drive dogs on our streets.

* * *

There can be no complaint against this form of amusement when not associated with cruelty to dumb animals. The society for the prevention of cruelty to animals should see that no barbarity is allowed.

* * *

Rev. Mr. Johnson, of Napanee, has been making himself notorious by his criticism on dancing.

* * *

I had hoped that the account first given of his sermon was over drawn, and regret to see that he has, in some degree, confirmed it.

* * *

There are low dances as well as there are at times ministers of the gospel who are wolves in sheep's clothing; and, as we don't judge the clergy as a whole by the few who disgrace the cloth, dances should not be judged by those attended only by the lewd and vicious.

* * *

I don't claim for the dance that it is a means of grace, but as an amusement it has no competitor in purity among the amusements indulged in by young people.

* * *

Such sermons do discredit to the pulpit, and certainly must be disgusting to those who attended the ball mentioned. Those who attended the ball in question exhibited a christian charity which the reverend gentleman would do well to emulate when they allowed such a vicious and unwarranted criticism to pass unheeded.

AMUSEMENTS

"Playmates" at the Queen's.

Next Monday and Tuesday evenings will witness the presentation of Mr. Damo'anew military drama. There will no doubt be large audiences present, as the performances will be well worthy of it. Some of the military climaxes are described as exciting, and the comedy element will be well supplied by some of our best known local actors. The plan of seats will open at Riggs' music store Thursday at 9 a.m. See the great cast of characters in another column.

The music loving public will learn with pleasure that the "Arion Club" of Toronto, a talented combination, purpose giving a grand concert in the Queen's Opera House, of this city, on 1st March next. The Toronto press speak most highly of the artists who are to appear. They will be supported by our local young contatrice, Miss E. Albertine Chevrier, and Miss Marguerite Dunn, elocutionist, of Boston.

A NEW SERIAL

In to-morrow's issue will be commenced a new serial story,

"THE STONE CUTTER OF LISBON,"

by Professor William Henry Peck, an American author. It depicts, in a striking and picturesque manner, the oppressions to which the poor people of Portugal were subjected in the days when their lordly oppressors looked upon them as no better than slaves or beasts of burden, and also the startling manner in which the oppressed masses sometimes avenged themselves upon their tyrants. The hero of the story —STONIO the STONE CUTTER—is a magnificent character; his romantic adventures at once captivate the imagination, and excite an interest so intense that it enchains the reader's attention to the end of the narrative.

Do You Need Pants?

At this season of the year when you are trying to make your suit do you through until spring, would it not be advisable to invest in a cheap pair of pants to help you out. All of us know that pants wear out first, and if yours are "out at the knees" they look bad. Just to think we at the Oak Hall are prepared to sell you for cash a good pair of all wool trousers for $1.50. Can you not afford a new pair?

Report of This Morning's Proceedings—A List of the Delegates.

A well attended and profitable prayer meeting from 9 to 10 a.m. opened the meeting. At 10 o'clock the regular session opened with Grand Councillor Bro. J. H. Flagg, of Hamilton, in the chair. Dominion Councillor Featherstone and Grand Councillor Pearley, of Quebec, being present, were invited to occupy seats on the platform. A large number of delegates were reported present by the Credential Committee, several of whom are in Grand Council for the first time. LEADING WORKERS IN THE CAUSE

C. V. EMORY, M. D.

C. V. Emory, M. D., of Hamilton, has completed his fourth year as secretary of Ontario Grand Council, and he has proved a palse-taking, prompt and thoroughly efficient officer. Like nearly every one of the Royal Templars he is Canadian born and bred, and has been a temperance man from his youth. He does not pose as a public speaker, but he is a good debater and does not show to any disadvantage on the platform. He is a master of detail and is appreciated as a very shrewd officer.

MR. W. W. BUCHANAN.

Mr. W. W. Buchanan is one of the best known temperance workers in the Dominion. He associated himself with the Royal Templars upon their introduction in this country, and was one of the leaders in establishing independent jurisdiction for Canada and in organizing the Dominion Council. He has been at the head of the extensive publishing interests of the Order ever since the organization of the Dominion Council, and also occupies the position of general manager of the Order.

MR. P. H. STEWART.

Mr. P. H. Stewart is the auditor for both the Grand Council of Ontario and the Dominion of Canada. It would not arouse the slightest suspicion of envy to write him down as one of the most popular and available men amongst the Royal Templar leaders. He is an Irishman by birth and comes honestly by his witty and smooth tongue. He is really a Canadian, however, for he landed in this country when a mere lad and was educated in the city of Toronto, where he learned the "Art Preservative" and was promoted to the editorial sanctum. He was one of the first printers of the Toronto Globe, and was associated with George Tye, of Brantford, and Mr. C. W. Bunting, the present manager of the Toronto Mail, in the production of the Globe in 1854. He was a Band of Hope boy and developed into a strong temperance man. He established one of the first temperance papers in Canada in 1860, known as the Weekly Sailor, which was followed by the Ontario Templar of which he was the editor and publisher. He retired from the publishing business some years ago on account of ill health and made the town of Barrie his home. He is an Alderman in the Barrie Council and is Deputy Treasurer of the County of Simcoe. He is one of the pioneer Royal Templars, uniting with the order at its inception and has held the office of chief auditor from the organization of the Dominion Council until the present time.

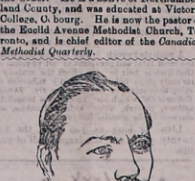

REV. T. R. McNAIR.

Rev. T. R. McNair preceded the present Grand Councillor as presiding officer for Ontario and served two years in that capacity. Under his leadership the Order made significant progress in this province. He is an eloquent and inspiring speaker, thoroughly imbued with the genius of Royal Templarism and is an earnest advocate of its principles and aims. He takes particular interest in the Cadet department of the Order and has great faith in the work with the young.

REV. A. M. PHILLIPS, B.D.

For twenty five years the name of Rev. A. M. Phillips has been in the front rank of Canadian temperance leaders. He is a profound and able public advocate of the cause, and his voice has been heard in nearly every province of the Dominion upon the question. He is one of the fathers of Royal Templarism, and at the institution of the Dominion Council was elected to the honorable position of Past Dominion Councillor. He has been a member of the Board of Directors of the organization continuously since its inception, and has taken a very deep and active interest in the extension of the Order. He is a native of Northumberland County, and was educated at Victoria College, Cobourg. He is now the pastor of the Euclid Avenue Methodist Church, Toronto, and is chief editor of the Canadian Methodist Quarterly.

MR. GEO. H. LEES.

Mr. Geo. H. Lees, who represents the District Council of Hamilton, is at the head of the well-known firm of manufacturing jewellers, Geo. H. Lees & Co. His district boasts of the banner council of the order, Seopire No. 187, with upwards of three hundred members, and up to this year Hamilton has claimed to be the banner district of Ontario, and claim a larger membership for the year just completed. It will be true, however, that comparatively Hamilton is the stronghold of Royal Templarism in Canada. Mr. Lee is a Canadian by birth and has been associated with organized temperance work from his boyhood up. He became a prominent Good Templar in his younger days, and when Royal Templarism was introduced he went into it with great enthusiasm and soon established a prominent position in its councils. He is chairman of the committee on gospel temperance work for his own city, and is second in command to the Knight's department of the order for Canada. He is preeminently a worker and a shrewd sagacious business man. Although a good debater in discussion of business affairs, he but seldom takes the platform in the way of public addresses.

City Council.

A Lengthy and Unimportant Session.

A regular meeting of the City Council was held last evening, Mayor Bogart in the chair.

Present—Ald. Luscombe, Slater, Starling, Anderson, Foster, Mikel, Skinner, Wallbridge, Ponton, Lingham, La Roche, Walmsley, Doyle, Shevlin, Taylor and Hay.

The minutes of the previous meeting were read and confirmed.

A communication was read from John Grotto, tendering for the lighting of the coal oil lamps in West Belleville.—Referred to the Water and Gas Committee.

REPORTS.

The Executive Committee recommended the payment of a number of accounts.

Council went into committee of the whole on reports, Ald. Wallbridge in the chair.

Considerable discussion took place as to the recommendation of the Executive Committee appointing a committee to consult with the License Commissioners as to the reduction of licenses.

Ald. Anderson thought it was useless to appoint a committee to meet the Commissioners, as they were appointed by the Ontario Government and would not wish to be dictated to by the City Council.

Ald. Walmsley thought no harm could be done by passing the resolution and Ald. Mikel, Ponton and Skinner were of the same opinion.

Ald. Starling and Slater thought that it was simply a subterfuge for a number of Aldermen who had pledged themselves to support the by-law.

Ald. Shevlin thought by waiting upon the Commissioners the Council could find out the feeling of that body as to whose licenses would be cut off, as the Council were voting in the dark and did not know who would be cut off.

The clause was passed.

The clause recommending that the Council borrow $40,000 from the Bank of Montreal was carried. Ald. Skinner said that the city's account had been transferred to the Bank of Montreal, as the rate of that institution was 5%, against 6% in the other banks.

Ald. Starling handed in his resignation from the Water and Gas, Court of Revision and By-law Committees.

Considerable warm talk took place between Ald. Starling and Ald. Skinner and Anderson. Ald. Starling finally moved that his resignation be accepted.

Ald. Skinner said he thought Ald. Starling should act on whatever committee he was appointed to. He said he would trade his seat on the Fire Committee for Ald. Starling's seat on the Court of Revision.

Ald. Ponton thought Ald. Starling was trying to carry things with a high haud.

Ald Starling's motion carried.

Committee rose and reported. Report received and adopted.

INQUIRIES.

Ald. Doyle inquired what had been done with a petition from a number of residents of St. James and Pinnacle Streets, as to fixing the pumps and wells on those streets.

Ald. Ponton asked who had been done as to disposing of one of the fire engines?

Ald. Slater said he had been in Tweed, and had made an offer, subject to the approval of the committee, to have the authorities of that village come to this city and thoroughly inspect the engine.

BY LAWS.

Ald. Skinner moved a by-law for the appointment of a Sanitary Inspector in place of the late John M. Hyde.

Ald. Anderson introduced a by law to amend by-law 509, that the Executive be composed of nine members instead of seven.

Council went into committee of the whole on by laws.

Ald. Skinner's by-law was passed through in several stages and numbered 721.

Ald. Anderson's by-law was passed and numbered 722.

Ald. Ponton moved the second reading of a by-law granting power to the Water Works Co. to issue an additional $50,000 on their plant.—Thrown out.

Committee rose and reported.—Report received and adopted.

Ald. Skinner moved, seconded by Ald. La Roche, that Ald. Hanley's resignation be not accepted.

Ald. Walmsley moved in amendment, seconded by Ald. Wallbridge, that Ald. Hanley's resignation be accepted.

Ald. Wallbridge said he understood that Ald. Hanley was willing to remain in the Council if his resignation was not accepted.

Ald. Mikel, Ponton, Starling and Walmsley were in favor of the resignation being accepted.

Ald. Starling moved in amendment that Ald. Hanley be given two weeks more in which to withdraw his resignation.

Ald. Skinner's motion carried.

Ald. Anderson moved, seconded by Ald. Skinner, that Ald. Walmsley's name be placed on the Executive Committee.—Carried.

Ald. Starling moved that the lamp on the corner of Pinnacle and Bridge streets be lighted.—Referred to Water and Gas Committee.

Ald. Anderson moved, seconded by Ald. Luscombe, that Ald. Mikel be appointed to the Court of Revision to fill the place made vacant by the resignation of Ald. Starling.—Carried.

Ald. Walmsley gave notice of motion re a memorial to the Local Legislature asking them to refund to the city certain bonuses paid to the Grand Junction railway.

Council adjourned.

I now feel like a new man, and this wonderful change has been accomplished by the use of four bottles of Northrup & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery. To me it has been a valuable medicine."

THE DEADLY PARESIS.

THREE EXPERTS ON BRAIN PARALYSIS DESCRIBE ITS SYMPTOMS.

Civilization's Strange Curse—Overworked Nervous Organizations Make the Just and Unjust Alike Liable to the Disease—How to Tell a Paretic.

"Do you remember the blanched faces, the furtive glances, the trembling limbs, and the strange mysterious horror which Thucydides describes in the Athenians when that highly civilized race first became aware that an incomprehensible and incurable malady had suddenly broken out among them?"

The speaker was Dr. Allan McLane Hamilton, perhaps the most famous American expert in diseases of the brain and nerves, the Government expert in the historic Guiteau case and the head of New York's professional specialists in neurology. He had answered a question by asking one. It was entirely natural that in any search for the secret of paresis, the strange new and deadly curse of contemporary civilization, I should go to the expert by whom such noteworthy parties as Robert Garrett, once president of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Company; John McCullough, Bartley Campbell, Tony Hart, and now poor Scanlan, have been treated.

"Professional 'cringe-ette,'" that barrier which tradition maintains between common ears and the medical practitioner, forbade Dr. Hamilton, of course, to speak of cases and others of his patients of whom the reading public might learn with profit. But for the sake of the good it might do, and the mysterious awe it might dispel from the minds of those to whom the fear of paresis blots the fairest prospects in the world, Dr. Hamilton did consent to make this statement:

NOT CONTAGIOUS.

"This plague of our newer civilization is not infectious like that wonderful malady which Thucydides describes. If it doesn't strike our foremost men down over night or cluth its victims in the market place. And as mysterious as it appears to the laity, its nature and symptoms are now thoroughly well understood by the expert.

"But there is unquestionably a fascination about it, from the psychological point of view, on account of its remarkable increase of recent years as well as by reason of the deadly persistence with which it drags its victim, no matter how high or how humble his station in life, how wild or how quiet his previous habits, down into the grave.

"General paralysis, or general paresis, familiarly spoken of simply as paresis, has been known to medical science about fifty years, but the fatal significance of the term and the individuality of the awful thing it stands for, seem only to have begun to dawn on the public vision very recently. You are probably right in surmising that ten or fifteen years ago the word 'paresis' was new to newspaper readers, and from the first its victims seem to have had their medical fate aggravated, if possible, by the vague suspicion, if not the open accusation, that in order to have been overtaken by this curse of our nerve-wearing, thrust-ing civilization, they must first have been guilty of some fearful excess, some indescribable indulgence, as a punishment for which, in ancient times, fire was sent even from Heaven.

"A great deal of melodramatic nonsense of that kind has been retailed about town by innendo and in stage whispers audible almost from one barroom to another.

"And it is all wrong; to have paresis a man needn't necessarily have been outbreakingly wicked. It is no reflection on a man's family for him to fall a victim. The chief cause, primarily, is dissipation of some sort it may be intellectual, it may be physical, but not necessarily disgraceful or hurtful. Yet a very large proportion of cases of paresis are due to a malady unmentionable, except in professional treatises."

Here was richness, to begin with. Repeated cases of "dread" in the morning might actually end in paresis!

Dr. Charles L. Dana, one of the psychological experts called in to see Banker E. M. Field, when his friends first began to make up their minds that Banker Field had lost his mind when he had lost their money, is a tall, dark man of sedate manner and a broad, calm brow behind which mental processes of moment would seem likely to proceed to unbiased and unerring conclusions. Most mental experts inflict upon to be the dark men of calm acuteness of demeanor. Dr. Hamilton combines the intuitive precision of a past-master with the courtly manners of a cavalier. No doubt the brain specialist of the next generation will be expected by hypnotize his patients to begin with in order to demonstrate mental strength enough to warrant their submission to his counsel. The personality of the physician has more indeed of more importance with every new advance of medical science.

DR. DANA'S VIEWS.

Dr. Dana agreed to speak of this subject now so powerfully focused in the public eye by the Scanlan, De Maupassant, and other cases.

"Great confusion exists in the public mind," said Dr. Dana, "about the meaning of paralysis or paresis. There may be a partial paralysis of the muscles of any part of the body or of the muscles of all parts of the body. So there may be a total paralysis of the muscles of a portion of the body, or a total paralysis of the muscles of all parts of the body. This last is often called 'stroke.'

"Now paresis, the popular name of which used to be 'softening of the brain,' is the term applied to a stage of the malady which results in this general paralysis. Indeed these synonyms are worth remembering:

"General paralysis of the insane,
"Progressive paralysis of the insane,
"General paresis and
"Paralytic dementia.

"The peculiarity of paresis is that it is complicated by insanity, and while I have spoken of 'softening of the brain' as being the term once popularly applied to it, the actual fact is that a paretic's brain becomes, if anything, hardened, as the surface of the brain tissues becomes inflamed and congested.

"I do not hold that paresis is an incurable disease. While the fact that a patient recovers may be thought by some to invalidate the diagnosis of paresis, it does not follow to my mind, for I believe cures have been effected.

"Paresis is comparatively a new medical term, and in popular parlance the word has not been in use much, if any, more than ten years, I believe.

"It is a disease of the brain tissues, you may say, of the mind tissues, those outer portions of the brain in which the most highly developed cerebral processes go on. The disease has fortunately marked physical symptoms. Fortunately also, it is not hereditary. That is one of its peculiarities.

"Although there may be a popular impression to that effect, I do not think doctors have fallen victims to paresis—the accent, strictly speaking, is on the first syllable—in greater numbers that members of other professions."

This is a noteworthy opinion in view of the roll of such names as Bartley Campbell, John McCullough, Tony Hart, Hawley Chapman, Charles E. Blanchette, and W. J. Scanlan.

"It may be that much an impression was not unnaturally derived from the publicity that seems to attach to the goings and doings of people on the stage. At all events, while paresis is not known to exist among savage races, it does develop itself even among negroes. Cases of this kind of paresis are observed rarely, but they do exist, in negroes who have suddenly changed their residence from the calm of the country to the bustle and excitement and novel dissipations of life in a large city."

DUE TO OVERWORKED NERVES.

"It is, indeed, a malady springing from an overworked nervous system, a deadly incident to the excitement of our modern civilization. Sober and godly and virtuous persons, who have a weak, nervous system, go in this way fall victims to paresis or a simple innocent indulgence in pleasures which do not operate to the prejudice of persons of ordinarily strong nerves.

"But I should say that the chief cause of paresis are the excessive indulgence of the passions, excessive use of alcohol, business excesses combined with worry, and those diseases which imply precedent immorality."

Dr. George De Forrest Smith has been called in as an alienist to see John McCullough, Tony Hart, Scanlan, and other of New York's mournfully prominent masterroll of paretics.

"It is a mistake," said Dr. Smith, "to infer, as so many seem thoughtlessly to have done, that the blight of paresis implies an antecedent moral blight necessarily. The very immoralities and indecencies which have given rise to this impression have in a majority of cases been the symptoms and not the cause of the disease, and this fact is thoroughly well recognized in the books and by the expert practitioner.

"It is a fearful incident to the contemplation of horrible malady, but one nevertheless to be considered, that men have incipient paresis long before their friends suspect it, and the gradual degradation of the man's moral nature and the growing depravity of his tastes—which long afterward, when the disease has passed into another stage, are unpardonably alluded to as the 'antics of 'poor So-and-So's fall'—were in reality only the symptoms that the frightful plague was already at work in his brain.

"The real causes? Difficult to particularize but very complex and well understood by the practitioner. Overtaxation of the nervous system is the chief, either by excessive mental work or excessive dissipation. Hard drinking, by weakening the blood vessels of the brain, may lead to paresis. So may, and indeed often does, the disease of the blood which has worked such havoc among mankind since medieval times.

"Symptoms! There are some curious facts to be observed in connection with incipient paresis. You have a friend or an acquaintance in whom you have noticed a morbid change of habit and taste; in business pursuits as well as in personal idiosyncrasies. Do not sit in judgment on him just for that. But has he developed immoral tastes? Kleptomania, perhaps, or indecencies which a year or two ago would have been unspeakably shocking to him? That is a bad sign.

"Do you observe a fixity of the eyeball or a nervous twitching or the corners of the mouth, a sudden spasmodic compression of the lips or distortion of the face muscles under the eyes?

"All these to the trained eye of the practitioner would be momentous. Is there a hesitancy of speech, a difficulty of enunciating labial sounds, all those which bring the tongue in contact with the teeth?—that is almost conclusive, with the others, as a symptom of incipient paresis.

"How does drinking, pure and simple, result in paresis? Simple enough. Excessive use of alcoholic stimulants produces repeated congestion of the brain and so weakens and diseases the blood vessels that they naturally develop paresis. It is the curse of our modern civilization the most fatal and mysterious of any now known to medical science.

"A paretic patient of mine said he owned all New York down to the City Hall. These 'delusions of grandeur,' overweening estimates of one's own importance, are almost inevitable indications of the progress of the disease."—New York Correspondence Philadelphia Press.

ATTACKED BY AN ENEMY.

DEAR SIRS,—About a year ago I had a very bad attack of dyspepsia. For nearly four months I never ate a meal without suffering pain after. I had got so weak I could scarcely walk, when one day I saw an advertisement for B. B. B., and thought I would try a bottle. Four bottles cured me completely, and I am now strong and healthy.

BAD, WORSE, WORST.

Cold, cough, consumption, to cure the first and second and prevent the third, use Hagyard's Pectoral balsam, the never-failing family medicine for all diseases of the throat, lungs and chest. A marvel of healing in pulmonary complaints.

Fogged Out.—None but those who have become fogged out know what a depressed, miserable feeling it is. All strength seems, and despondency has taken hold of the sufferers. They feel as though there is nothing to live for. There, however, is a cure—one box of Parmelee Vegetable Pills will do wonders in restoring health and strength.

A neglected cough brings on consumption—the most fatal and prevalent of all physical ills that flesh is heir to. To check the malady in its early stage before the deadly tubercles do relief to themselves in the lung, use Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, which also annihilates bronchitis, asthma, catarrh, piles, kidney troubles, and soreness of the muscles and joints.

TRAGIC SUICIDE OF A COUNTESS AT NICE.

M. De Lesseps, the Famous Engineer, Now Lying at the Point of Death—The Oxford Scandals Terminate in the Conviction of the Alleged Defrauder.

NICE, Feb. 17.—A most sensational suicide has taken place—that of the Countess of Meck, a fashionable young lady of 30, belonging to the Russian colony. Her husband is the owner of a railway and a very rich man. The Countess has been far from happy in her life of complete retirement in the Villa Montevello, which his condition rendered necessary.

On Wednesday morning she was found dead in her bed with a number of phials lying on a table near by, which were found to have contained poison. The greatest secrecy is maintained by the police and no information can be obtained. The medical men called in by the authorities have examined the intestines of the unfortunate young woman, but refuse to make any public report. An order has been given for the embalming of the remains for the purpose of transportation to Russia.

Gladstone's Son at Monte Carlo.

It has just leaked out that Mr and Mrs. Gladstone went last Wednesday to see their son Herbert, who is staying at Beaulieu with his friend, Sir Julius Kitson, the Gladstonian of Leeds.

The Grand Old Man and his devoted wife drove to the Hotel Des Anglais, at Beaulieu, and found to their consternation that Herbert had gone to Monte Carlo. The truant came back by the last train, after losing a hundred francs, and the "People's William" is not pleased with his youngest born.

NOBS BLACKMAILED.

A Tutor at Oxford Catches Some Undergraduates in His Net.

LONDON, Feb. 17.—At the Bow-street Police Court yesterday, M. F. Moreland, the private tutor of Oxford, who was arrested on Saturday, charged with blackmailing a number of wealthy undergraduates of the University, was brought up for preliminary examination, and remanded until Tuesday next.

The alleged blackmailing schemes of Mr. Moreland, it is said, were worked upon some of the most distinguished members of the nobility now studying at Oxford.

Mr. Moreland, who is 65 years of age, has been in the habit of luring the noble and wealthy students into correspondence with a mysterious widow, and, when he had sufficient documentary evidence in his possession, he would make a demand, accompanied by a threat of exposure, for a round sum in cash.

The victims in some cases paid the sum demanded, but in time the matter was exposed.

SERVIA EXPELS A CORRESPONDENT.

The Fall in Her Securities Attributed to His Telegrams to Berlin.

BERLIN, Feb. 17.—The Voss Gazette publishes a despatch from Semla announcing that its correspondent at Belgrave was compelled to leave Servia to-day by order of the Servian Minister of the Interior. The reason given for his expulsion is that his telegrams to Berlin had caused a fall in Servian securities:

The correspondent had transmitted the news that the Servian Government was about to contract a new loan. In answer to the declaration of the Servian Government that this was pure invention, the correspondent replies:

"The Skuptschina at a secret sitting authorized the Minister of War to order eight field batteries of 36 heavy guns and 150,000 rounds of ammunition, together with 125,000 rifles. Inasmuch as the loan of a million of francs, advanced by the Handelsgesellchaft, had been exhausted, more funds were required to pay for these armaments, but the Berlin financiers notified the Servian Government that they would only be prepared to make further advances on condition that the orders for new arms and ammunition were given to German manufactories.

"The united influence of Russia and France was exerted to secure order for a French firm, and French financial houses offered to take 10,000,000 francs in Servian bonds if the order was given to France. A contract to that effect was to have been signed on Monday, but a remonstrance against this step reached Belgrave from an influential quarter in Berlin. As further showing the serious consequences of such a decision the representatives in Belgrave of an important Berlin institution received the following telegram:

"'In consequence of the mischievous dealings of the Belgrave Government with French contractors the price of Servian rentes can no longer be kept up.'"

The Gazette says it is evident that the Servian Government is alone to blame for the fall in its securities, which it falsely attributes to the correspondent of the paper, who simply did his duty in sending the news complained of.

No Further Crofter Settlement.

LONDON, Feb. 17.—The Crofter Colonization Commission decided to make no further settlement in Canada this season from Scotland or Ireland. What work the commission does will be preparing for 1893.

HE HAD THE WHOLE CAR.

Passengers and Trainmen Fled Before a Madman With a Revolver.

INDIANAPOLIS, Feb. 17.—Several weeks ago the friends of William Royce, a well-attorney of this city, noticed that his mind was failing and he was sent to a private hospital at Oxford, O., for treatment. Last night he escaped and boarded a Cincinnati, Hamilton and Dayton train for home.

Just before the train reached Hamilton, Royse went into the sleeping car and flourishing a revolver drove the porter and passengers out. The conductor and trainmen made an effort to capture the maniac, but were deterred by his threats to kill the first person that advanced upon him.

The police of this city were notified of the state of affairs by wire and Royse was taken in charge at the depot. This afternoon he was adjudged insane and sent to the asylum.

FOUND DEAD IN THEIR CABIN.

A Kansas Family Supposed to Have Been Murdered By Robbers.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Feb. 14.—Henry Buller, a farmer, who lives south of Hope, Kan., his wife and his mother were found dead in their cabin yesterday. Their bodies were partially decomposed.

The house had been apparently ransacked, and it is believed that robbers murdered the inmates. The family lived isolated from their neighbors, and though nothing had been seen of them for a week little attention had been paid to the fact.

ITCHING AND SCALY

Skin Disease 9 Years. Doctors and Medicines Useless. Cured by Cuticura for $4.75.

I feel it is my duty to tell you my experience with your CUTICURA REMEDIES. I have been troubled for over nine years with a dreadful skin disease. When I first felt it, there appeared a few small red spots on my breast, and it kept on spreading slowly. It started the same on my back, between my shoulders. A few days after the spots turned gray, and began itching. Small scales would fall off, so it continued spreading all over my body. I tried all the patent medicines I could think of, or get hold of. I also consulted doctors. Yes, they would cure me in a short time, but they always failed. Then I gave it all up, thinking there was no cure for me. Some few months ago, I noticed your advertisement in the Tacoma Morning Globe; thought I would try the CUTICURA REMEDIES, not thinking it would do me much good, but to my surprise, three boxes of CUTICURA, one cake of CUTICURA SOAP, and three bottles of CUTICURA RESOLVENT cured me entirely. My skin is now as white and pure as that of a child. I send my photograph. I have many friends in Chicago, Ill., and St. Paul, Minn.

Dangerous Counterfeits.

Counterfeits are always dangerous, more so that they always closely IMITATE THE ORIGINAL IN APPEARANCE AND NAME. The remarkable success achieved by Nasal Balm as a positive cure for Catarrh and Cold in the head has induced unprincipled parties to imitate it. The public are cautioned not to be deceived by nostrums imitating Nasal Balm in name and appearance, bearing such names as Nasal Cream, Nasal Balsam, etc. Ask for Nasal Balm and do not take any imitation dealers may urge upon you. KNIGHTS OF LABOR.

The Knights of Labor aim to protect their members against financial difficulties, etc., Hagyard's Yellow Oil protects all who use it from the effects of cold and exposure, such as rheumatism, neuralgia, lumbago, sore throat, and all inflammatory pain. Nothing compares with it as a handy pain cure for man and beast.

For coughs, colds, bronchitis and all lung and throat troubles, there is no preparation of medicine can compare with Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup. It never fails to afford prompt and permanent relief. It removes all soreness, and heals the diseased parts. It immediately soothes the most troublesome cough, and by promoting expectoration, removes the mucus which stops up the air tubes which cause difficulty in breathing thereby gives relief to that depressing tightness experience in the chest. Public speakers and singers will find Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup of inestimable value, as it speedily and effectually allays all irritation, and huskiness in the throat and bronchial tubes, and gives power to the vocal cords, rendering the voice clear and sonorous. If parents wish to save the lives of their children, and themselves from much anxiety trouble and expense let them procure a bottle of Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup, and whenever a child has taken cold, has a cough or hoarseness, give the Syrup according to directions.

Our heaviest burdens are those we borrow.

Do you feel as though your friends had all deserted you, business calamities overwhelmed you, your body refusing to perform its duties, and even the sun had taken refuge behind a cloud? Then use Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery, and hope will return and despondency disappear. Mr. R. H. Baker, Ingoldsby, writes: "I am completely cured of Dyspepsia that caused me great suffering for three years. Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery is the medicine that effected the cure after trying many other medicines."

Much doing is not so important as well doing.

Fever and Ague and bilious derangements are positively cured by the use of Parmelee's Pills. They not only cleanse the stomach and bowels, from all bilious matter, but they open the excretory vessels, causing them to pour copious effusions from the blood into the bowels, after which the corrupted mass is thrown out by the natural passage of the body. They are used as a general family medicine with the best results.

The man who doesn't believe in God lives that way.

A. M. Hamilton, Warkworth, writes,—"For weeks I was troubled with a swelled ankle, which caused me much pain and annoyance. Mr. Maybee, of this place, recommended Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil for it. I tried it, and before one bottle was used I was cured. It is an article of great value."

The religion cannot be right where the morals are wrong.

KILLED BY WILD DOGS.

John Pratt and His Daughter the Victims of Ferocious Brutes.

WICHITA, Kas., Feb. 17.—John Pratt and his 7-year-old daughter, living near Leonard, Sherman county, were killed last night by wild dogs, which infest the extreme northwestern corner of the State.

Pratt and his child left Leonard late yesterday afternoon for home. This morning their mangled remains were found about a mile from home, and the carcasses of several dogs showed that a horrible battle had been waged before Pratt was overcome.

RETURNED TO BROCKVILLE.

Fitzsimmons' Body to Remain in New Orleans for a Year.

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 17.—Fitzsimmons' brother, who arrived here several days ago to claim the body of the murderer, left this evening for his home in Brockville, Ont., without the body. After telegraphic consultation with the family, it was decided to let the body remain where it is until a year had passed.

WAS SHE BURIED ALIVE.

It Appears Now That Mrs. Wilson Was Buried at Any Rate.

CARTHAGE, Ill., Feb. 14.—Many believe that Mrs. Jay Wilson, whose alleged resuscitation in her coffin, 12 miles south of Warsaw, on last Tuesday was buried alive after all. The report received here at the time said that she had recovered, but it is now learned that she was buried.

It was stated that while the watchers were placing the body in the coffin the woman threw up her arms and grasped the wrists of one of the attendants with a vise-like grip; that various well-known tests were applied, such as pinching the ears and holding a mirror over the mouth, and that she was finally resuscitated and became able to relate her frightful experiences. It appears now that she never regained consciousness, although signs of life were so manifest that a physician was sent for, but that the messenger could not find one.

The pinching and mirror tests were again tried, and it is said the woman's ear turned red and moisture was noticed on the mirror. Nevertheless it was decided that the woman was dead, and she was accordingly buried.

THE WEDDING PARTY IN THE CELLAR

Guests, Refreshments and Gifts Disappeared Through the Floor.

NEW LONDON, Conn., Feb. 17.—Rabbi Santos had just married Bernhard Greenberg and Rosalie King at the home of the bride's mother this afternoon and the guests were crowding around the happy couple tendering congratulations when the floor gave way with a sudden crash and the entire party were dumped in a heap into the cellar, a distance of six feet. After them came the table on which were the wedding refreshments and presents.

The exclamations of the men and screams of the women brought the neighbors to the spot and all were quickly extricated. With the exception of slight bruises and torn garments little damage was done and the wedding festivities were soon resumed in another room.

The Curate Is Missing.

TORONTO, Feb. 17.—Another leader in Israel has fallen, or rather fled. This time the flock that mourns the absence of its spiritual adviser belongs to the Anglican Church. It is that of Grace Church, Elm-street, whose rector, Rev. J. Pitt Lewis, is at present traveling in Egypt for the sake of his health.

Before Mr. Lewis left on his travels he gave his congregation in charge of his assistant, Rev. C. C. Kemp, and arranged that a Mr. Edwards, who represented himself as the nephew of Lord Kensingston, should assist Mr. Kemp in his duties.

Three months ago Mr. Edwards entered on his duties and his eloquence at the services and his energy in parish work soon made the congregation become very much attached to him.

A first he boarded at the Arlington, but afterwards went to live in University-avenue.

The young curate disappeared from the city on Sunday last.

BELLEVILLE, WEDNESDAY FEB. 17

AN ENORMOUS DISADVANTAGE.

Mr. Nathan Kennedy, of Montreal, the well known exporter of Canadian cattle, says that if Canada were scheduled, the loss to Canadian farmers would not be less than $3,300,000 a year.

Were the Grit policy adopted, Canada would be scheduled as the United States is.

AS TO DISCRIMINATION.

Grit stump speakers state that Britain would object to Canadian discrimination against her trade. Grit despatches from Washington say that the Marquis of Salisbury, Premier of Great Britain, refused to allow the Canadian representatives at Washington to discuss reciprocity which involved discrimination.

OUR BEST MARKET.

The general averages of Canadian food imports into England, compared to the total from all sources of supply are, of meats, from 0.01 to 1.77 per cent; of animals from 1.20 to 11.51 per cent; of butter and cheese 0.52 to 39.70 per cent; of wheat and flour 0.68 to 1.49 per cent.

All these figures demonstrate two things, remarks the Montreal Journal of Commerce —an independent commercial paper— the vastness of the English food market, and the utterly insignificant amount of our sales therein. From these two points we can draw this conclusion, that the United States is not in need of any food supplies from Canada, except for purposes of export to England, and such exports, we submit, could be made to yield our people more profit by going direct from our own ports to the buyers, than across a foreign soil and through a foreign intermediary.

RASCALITY RAMPANT.

Desperate in view of impending defeat, the Grit heelers in East Hastings are resorting to all sorts of rascality in order to defeat the will of the people. The Conservatives are they are travelling every concession, from end to end, scattering money and playing their most artful dodges.

One of the most notorious of them has been telling Conservative voters that the Tories have $10,000 to spend in this election, and urging them to stay at home on election day unless they get a share of the boodle.

It is hardly necessary to say that the statement is as false as it is villainous. The Conservatives have no money to spend in bribery, and if they had, they would not inform the Grit heelers of the fact.

We urge the electors to turn out in their full strength to the polls on Saturday, and cast such a majority for Mr. Northrup as to show that they can neither be bribed nor deceived in such a rascally manner.

COBOURG AND ALBERT COLLEGE.

The article in our Cobourg contemporary upon the removal of Albert College will indicate the desire on the part of that town to secure the college from this city to replace the loss they are about to sustain in the removal of Victoria. The decision of the courts in the case of Cobourg vs. Victoria College is that the money subscribed by the residents of the town should be paid back to them. This amounts to some fourteen ($14,000) thousand dollars, and, according to the Cobourg Post, these subscribers now propose to give this sum to the board of management of Albert College, in case this institution is removed to their town. It is claimed by the Cobourg people that unless this be done the valuable building now used by Victoria will be lost to the church, and that by such a removal this loss may be saved and the $14,000 made available for Albert College.

The Post, however, is premature in its article, as whatever may be the hope of the people of the town, such a plan as has assumed no definite form, and should a proposition be made with these changes in view, the large money interest Belleville now has and the loyal support our citizens have always extended Albert College, will prove effectual barriers against any such proposition. While the people of Cobourg are smarting under the claimed injustice in the removal of Victoria, is it not surprising that they would entertain any project to perpetrate the same wrong upon another?

THE BYE-ELECTIONS.

Bye-elections have now taken place in twenty three constituencies, involving twenty four representatives. These have resulted as follows:

Lanark, Ont., Conservative majority increased.

Richelieu, Quebec, won from the Conservatives.

Glengarry, Ont., Conservative majority increased.

Richmond, N.S., Conservative majority increased.

Victoria, N.S., Conservative majority increased.

Kingston, Ont., Conservative majority reduced.

Lincoln, Ont., Grit majority increased.

Halton, Ont., Conservative majority increased.

Cumberland, N.S., Conservative majority increased.

Laval, Quebec, Conservative by acclamation.

St. Hyacinthe, Quebec, won from the Grits.

Queens, N.S., Grit majority reduced.

Lennox, Ont., won from the Grits.

Prince Edward, Ont., Conservative majority increased.

North Victoria, Ont., won from the Grits.

South Victoria, Ont., Conservative majority increased.

East Bruce, Ont., won from the Grits.

East Middlesex, Ont., Conservative majority increased.

Peel, Ont., Grit majority increased.

Halifax, N.S., Conservative majority reduced.

East Elgin, Ont., Conservative majority increased.

Digby, N.S., Grit majority increased.

Kings, N.S., Grit majority decreased.

It will be seen by analysis of the above that the Conservatives have carried one seat by acclamation, nine by increased majorities, three by reduced majorities, and have lost one. The Grits have carried three seats by increased majorities, two with majority reduced and lost four. The courts have also given Mr. Baird the seat in Queens, N.B., the Grit member admitting the bribery of a sufficient number of electors to vacate his seat, and the Government is already nine stronger on a division than in the last parliament.

To the Editor of the Intelligencer.

DEAR SIR,—Some daft mortal aligning himself "Onlooker," has a groan re S. Bolyea's child. On the morning of the funeral I drove up with a couple of the neighbors to see if we could render them any assistance. We met one of Bolyea's boys going to my place; he said they wanted to telephone for a doctor; I said I would see about it. At the house Mrs. Bolyea said they must have a doctor, to know the cause of death. I said I would see one down town. The physician they wanted was not in. I left the following note: "Would you kindly drive up to Bolyea's, beyond our place? their child died suddenly, and they are anxious to know the cause before burying, at 2 p. m." The girl told me that Bolyea had been there the day before and left word, but the doctor did not think it necessary to go. On my way home I met Bolyea, who said he had been to my place to telephone a doctor, but could not get him. I said, "come back," which he did. I then called up the doctor, who said there was no use in coming. I said I saw no use either, but I feared the parties would be offended. The doctor then said he would come, and bring another with him. I drove up to Bolyea's, he met me at the door; I told him the doctors would soon be there, which they were. What was done was done, as many know, in contempt them. I had no reason to want a doctor, as I was quite satisfied the child died from natural causes; and any person who says I interfered in any way, further than by the request of the family, states what is untrue. Yours truly,

G. S. JOHNSON.

Connoisseurs in Perfumes.

The learned in scents claim that they can distinguish and name each element of any compound odor, and as the musician can discriminate the trace and sound of the various instruments that are rendering the crowded symphony. Doubtless these learned ones could distinguish, on coming into a lady's drawing-room, all the various breaths impressed in the pot-pourri jar—the rose leaves, the cassia buds, the orange flowers, the orris root, the vanilla, the benzoin and cinnamon and musk and alcohol, and all the innumerable rest. But to the ignorant in such fine points the pleasure is perhaps just as keen, let the learned deny it as they may. Yet many think themselves accomplished in this branch whose education is still very far from finished. We remember, at the time of a famous Oriental expedition in the country, when people were possessed with the delights of the attar of roses to be brought there, that the Oriental stock of attar ran out, and it was replenished from a Yankee dealer's stock of oil of geranium, and the sale continued just as before, entirely undiminished, and with warm adulation of the strange rich sweetness of the real Turkish and Persian attar of roses. And although the oil of geranium is undoubtedly a rich perfume, yet the crafty Orientals must have laughed in their loose sleeves at the way in which it took the place of the at once far richer, and more delicate, and four times more costly object of the bulbul's worship.—Harper's Bazar.

A Naples Donkey-Barrow Story.

A ridiculous incident is recorded by our correspondent at Naples. There is an asylum in that city for old people, in the service of which is used a small donkey-barrow on which is inscribed the words "Little Sisters of the Poor," and which is generally used for collecting odd gifts, from the sale of which the institute derives an income of about 20,000 francs a year. The other day one of the paupers fell and hurt his head, and was conveyed in the cart, accompanied by two nuns, to the Pellegrini Hospital. Just before reaching it the cart upset and the donkey ran away and took refuge in the office of the "Lotto." The spectators and inhabitants of the neighboring streets immediately crowded the "Lotto" office to play the numbers appropriate to the different persons and objects connected with the affair—33, 36, 41, 53—and next day the office itself placarded the following numbers at its door, with the heading: "Yesterday's Incident—11, 41, 71, 90." Next Saturday the people will find out whether their lotto lore gave them the fortunate number.—London News.

Browning's Courtesy.

Mrs. Andrew Crosse tells in the current number of Temple Bar an amusing anecdote about Browning:

"On one occasion Mr. Browning's son had hired a room in a house in which to exhibit his pictures. In the temporary absence of the artist, Mr. Browning was doing the honors. The room being half-filled with fashionable friends.

"Mr. Browning was standing near the door when a visitor, unannounced, made her appearance. He immediately shook hands with the stranger or tried to do so, when she exclaimed: 'Oh, I beg your pardon, but please, sir, I'm the cook.'

"'Mr. Barrett asked me to come and see his pictures.' 'And I am very glad to see you,' said Mr. Browning, with ready courtesy. 'Take my arm and I will show you round.'"

ONTARIO LEGISLATURE.

YESTERDAY WAS A DULL DAY IN THE HOUSE.

Mr. Harcourt's Budget Speech Due on Thursday—Papers Who Object to Contribute to Anatomical Studies—Physicians Who Have Been Driven Out of the Union.

TORONTO, Feb. 17.—The House had a very brief session yesterday. The chief features were the submission and adoption of the address of condolence with Her Majesty in the recent affliction that has befallen the Royal house. The document was in the usual terms and Messrs. Mowat and Meredith, the mover and seconder, performed their duty very briefly and in good taste.

A number of bills were introduced in blank and read a first time.

A great grist of petitions were presented, the general tenor of a great number of them, it is well to notice, being dissatisfaction with methods of assessment and taxation. Petitions squinting at single tax are common, and they are not all from urban socialists either, but a proportion have the earmarks of quiet country places. The supply of these protesting agitators is contrary to nature in the presence of unwelcome saloons in temperance polling sub-divisions has not yet run out. The Ontario system was also able to produce an able-bodied petition or two in its favor.

Waterloo, however, had the honor of the most ghastly prayer. The municipality has erected an industrial home, but it has been impossible to coax a few paupers to come in and give it a house warming. Their objection is that when they shuffle off the ghoulish inspector of anatomy will pounce on the remains.

Rattle his bones over the stones,
He is a pauper whom nobody owns.

Waterloo wants the Anatomy Act amended so that it may be allowed to keep its own skeletons.

An equally painful subject was contained in the plaint of a number of physicians who object to paying the annual fee imposed by the Council of the College of Physicians and Surgeons. The council is treating those who have refused to pay their fees as "rats" and won't let them practice their profession. They are proceeded against as if they had never studied or taken a diploma. They ask for relief.

Mr. Gibson presented a whole stock of reports and returns.

A message from the Lieut.-Governor, which, Mr. Mowat remarked with much satisfaction, was signed "by his own hand," was submitted asking for a number of interim appropriations. They were quite steep, but the House granted them without a wink.

From the Gallery.

Mr. Fraser's seat is filled by Mr. Hardy.

Mr. Balfour, who looks very pale, wears a rakish black sombrero. The custom of wearing hats in the House is more honored in the breach than in the observance.

A return brought down yesterday showed that the total receipts from fines imposed in this city last year were $70,957, of which the province got $11,378 and the city $59,256. The inspectors' salaries amounted to $7422.

Mr. Mowat announced that the public accounts would be laid on the table to-morrow and that Mr. Harcourt would deliver the budget on Thursday.

A London deputation with Mayor Spencer in its forefront descended on the Ontario Cabinet yesterday afternoon in Mr. Mowat's lair. Besides the mayor there were Hon. David Mills, John Cameron, Ald. Heaman, Shaw and Moule, Dr. Campbell, Messrs. Craig, Loye, Carson, Merchant, T. H. Purdom, Q.C., and Thomas Hobbs. The ministers present were Messrs. Mowat, Ross, Hardy, Harcourt and Gibson. The object of the visit of the Western Cockneys was to impress on the Government the desirability of establishing a third normal school, and, secondly, to draw the attention of the ministers to the fact that nature and geography had selected London as the site of such building. Messrs. Mills and Cameron dwelt on the geographical and statistical aspects of it. It was evident from their statement that London resembles in many respects Duluth, as portrayed by J. Proctor Knott. Messrs. Merchant and Carson took the opportunity of bruiting about the world the inefficacy of the present Normal School system, chiefly because of the brevity of the term of instruction. Mr. Mowat wound up the business in a few sentences, but he did not conclude with an intimation that he would give the subject his earnest consideration. There was a breathless pause, but he absolutely refused to say it and the deputation retired.

DOWN BELOW ZERO.

A Touch of Bitter Cold Weather in the Northwest.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Feb. 17.—Last night was the most trying one of the winter here. The mercury was 10 degrees below zero and there was a bitter northwest wind. All over the Northwest clear up to Medicine Hat and Qu'Appelle the cold is still intense and the sky clear. The remarkable borealic display of Saturday was followed last night by a phenomenal lunar halo, which disappeared after the moon had risen 30 degrees.

At 7 o'clock this morning the mercury was 18 below zero, at 9 o'clock 11 below and at noon at the zero point. In the suburbs the mercury went down to 25 below.

At Duluth the report of the weather station at 7 o'clock last evening placed the mercury at 6 below zero and growing rapidly colder. The lake is frozen over.

The thermometer at Minto, N.D., registered 28 degrees below zero at 6 a.m. yesterday.

BALTIMORE, Feb. 17.—Harry Randolph Daley, aged 9 years, died last night at the John Hopkins Hospital from the effects of a mosquito bite. He was bitten on the foot by a mosquito last summer while in Talbot county. The bite caused a slight swelling but no special inconvenience at the time.

About a week afterwards the boy complained of a pain in his foot. This was followed by a swelling, which extended up the leg. Soon the leg became affected and a swelling made its appearance, which grew slowly but surely.

Three weeks ago the boy's parents brought him to the hospital, and the surgeon in charge concluded that an operation was necessary. It was too late, however. The boy, weakened with pain, could not withstand the shock and died immediately afterwards. It is the first case of the kind ever reported here.

THE ROYAL TEMPLARS.

The Grand Council of the Order in Session.

Reports of Proceedings and Last Night's Meeting in Bridge Street Church.

TUESDAY, Feb. 16 h.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

The Tenth Annual Convention of the R.T. of T. of Ontario resumed its sessions at 2 p.m. Grand Councillor Flagg presiding.

An invitation was received from Superintendent Mathison of the Deaf and Dumb Institute, to the members of the convention to visit the Institute during their stay in the city.

The thanks of the convention were tendered to Superintendent Mathison for the invitation, and the members expressed their pleasure in accepting it.

The following committees were struck:

Cadet Work—Rev. T. R. McNair, Bros. Byam and Connell and sister Tobey.

Fraternal Courtesies.—Bros. Begg, Kinnedy and Kenning.

Sick Benefits.—Bros. Dr. Robertson, Wilkes, Lapp, Diack and Kenning.

The Committee on Temperance present ed their report, congratulating the Grand Council that at present date the establishment of the Weekly Templar may be regarded as practically an accomplished fact.

They further expressed the conviction that the carrying out of such an enterprise with the ability which our esteemed editor has at his command will mark a decided advance in aggressive temperance work.

The growth of sentiment during the past year present a pleasing feature, and London especially is to be congratulated on the large reduction of its licenses.

The committee regretted that the Royal Commission, which had to deal with a large quantity of useful information, has been characterized by so much official delay.

The only road to prohibition is clearly shown it to be by an organized temperance vote.

A request was received from the District Council of Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry to be allowed to unite with the Grand Council of Quebec.

After considerable discussion, in which it was clearly shown that the cause of Royal Templars in this section would be much helped by the change, the request was granted.

An invitation was read from the Young People's Society of Bridge St. Methodist Church to the members of the Grand Council to visit their free reading room. The convention expressed its hearty thanks, and its willingness to accept the invitation.

Grand Council adjourned for public meeting in the evening.

EVENING SESSION.

The spacious auditorium of the Bridge St. Methodist church was comfortably filled last evening, on the occasion of the mass meeting in connection with the Royal Templars' convention now in progress. Mr. W. W. Chown, District Councillor of Hastings, occupied the chair, and in a few words expressed the hearty welcome of the Royal Templars of Belleville to the delegates of the Convention. After an opening selection by the choir and opening prayer by the pastor of the church, Mayor Bogart was called upon to welcome the delegates on behalf of the city of Belleville. In a few well chosen words he welcomed the delegates to this attractive city, and assured them of his sympathy with their work. He extended the audience that the greatest good to be gained by all temperance efforts must be prohibition, and he was pleased to notice that temperance people are becoming more alive to this fact.

Rev. W. H. Barnes conveyed the greeting of the Ministerial Association to the delegates. The temperance cause is God's cause, and all ministers will be heartiest support of all the ministers of the gospel. He had good hopes of the speedy triumph of our good cause.

Grand Councillor Flagg replied to the addresses of welcome. He expressed his pleasure at hearing the sound temperance sentiments expressed by Mayor Bogart, and hoped the holding of our convention in the city would be the means of strengthening temperance sentiment, and increasing the membership of the Royal Templar Councils. He expressed the hearty thanks of the convention for the cordial welcomes accorded us.

Rev. J. W. Bell, Missionary Secretary of the order, delivered an address characterized by energy and impressiveness. He felt sure that there is plenty of energy among temperance workers in Canada to secure prohibition if it could only be set in motion. The work of our order is to develop this energy along the most effective lines of work. Our work is not simply to maintain a society; we have something higher to accomplish. We are reformatory in our work. Our order has increased its membership by over 1,000 in Ontario during the year just closed. Temperance people are recovering from their dejection over the defeat of the Scott Act and are becoming quite hopeful of securing prohibition in the not very distant future. Let all those who believe in temperance and prohibition band themselves together in organization, and that working under experienced and skilful leaders we may have the best results for our labor. Let us teach public men that the temperance vote is the one to be counted on.

Rev. Wm. Kettlewell made a very brief address expressing his pleasure at being present and his interest in the onward interest in the cause dear to all Royal Templars.

W. W. Buchanan, editor of the Royal Templar, spoke of the great advantage of the beneficiary feature of our order. It adds stability to our societies. It teaches a fundamental truth of the temperance reform. Total abstainers have far less sickness and live longer than those who use strong drink. The speaker substantiated this statement s by statistics and testimonials of prominent men. While other beneficiary societies in Canada have been paying heavy death claims during the present winter our order has been increasing its surplus. He urged all councils to keep the advantages of our benefits before the public.

Mr. F. S. Spence, Secretary of the Dominion Alliance, gave a brief but excellent address. He maintained that the temperance cause never had brighter prospects of success than at the present time. We have made blunders, but we are stronger to-day for the experience we have gained thereby. Temperance sentiment has been strengthened and public opinion educated by the working of the acts that have been provided us, defective though they have been. The speaker urged all temperance workers to put forth their best endeavor along the two lines of our reform, the moral and prohibitory. What we require for success is sound sentiment in the community, wise laws on the statute books and honest administrators to enforce these laws. The vendless license system is wrong. We can n.v more carry on a license system without using up boys than run an engine without using up fuel. Our convention is assembled here to assist in securing British law for the protection of our homes.

Suitable musical selections were rendered during the evening by the choir of the church and the "Crusaders" and Mr. Webb, Royal Templar revivalists.

WEDNESDAY MORNING SESSION.

This session opened at 10 a.m., with the following additional delegates present:

Rev. J. Cornell, Lancaster; Bro. J. Robinson, St. Brooks, W. McMillan, J. A. Bell, W. F. McSwayn, Toronto; C. W. Gayley, Poplar Hill; Dr. Robertson, Milton; W. F. Yeo, London; S. L. Nash, Belleville; F. M. Johnson, Cherry Valley; M. Lent, Cobourg; S. S. Potter, Mountain View; J. F. Burns, Port Hope; J. P. Smith, Hamilton.

The following motion was carried, and a deputation appointed to present it to the Ontario Government:

The Grand Council having learned that it is the intention of the Government of the province of Ontario to introduce legislation dealing with the standing and business of building and friendly societies, desires to express its conviction that preliminary to any such legislation a commission should be appointed to make a thorough investigation of the constitution, by laws, rules, ranges and financial condition of all such societies, carefully distinguishing between those that are fraternal in their methods and those that are of a purely pecuniary character, and, further, that all resulting legislation should be made in the interests of the members of such societies rather than in the interest of Life Insurance Companies.

The committee's report on Laws and Supervision was taken up, but not finished at time of adjournment. Mr. F. S. Spence was introduced and received as Secretary of the Dominion Alliance, and gave the Council a stirring address. He explained the attitude of the Dominion Alliance with regard to legislation and also explained and advocated the adoption of the local option law.

Council adjourned at 12:30, to meet at 2 p.m.

Deaf and Dumb Institute.

The annual report of the Inspector with reference to the Deaf and Dumb Institute at the Belleville says: "Although during the past year there has been a very severe epidemic of measles and mumps, together with a few cases of typhoid fever in the institution, I am happy to say that there have been only two deaths, and in both cases they were children of frail constitution. It is gratifying to know that the work done during the year affords good evidence of substantial and satisfactory progress in training and educating the pupils; and that the superintendent and staff of officers, with the knowledge acquired by experience, are attaining a more perfect system of communicating instruction to the pupils committed to their care. There is no doubt that this institution will continue to hold its place in the foremost rank of schools established for the education of the deaf and dumb. I made an inspection of this institution on the 9th March. There were 260 pupils in residence, namely 145 males and 115 females. The buildings and grounds were in good order and well kept."

New Law Firm.

We have received a card from Owen Sound announcing the formation of the new firm of Masson & Masson, barristers, &c. The senior member, James Masson, Q.C., M.P. for North Gray, will be remembered by many of our middle aged and other readers as a Belleville boy. Quite long enough ago between 1865 and 1871; but it is the next member of the firm, Mr. Stewart Masson, lately of the firm of Falkiner & Masson of this city, to whom we have particularly to refer. Six years ago Mr. Stewart Masson entered into partnership with Mr. N. B. Falkiner, of this city, and very soon worked himself to the front of the profession here as a counsel, taking not only all the counsel work of the firm—he was nominally the junior partner of it—but holding for other firms many briefs in important cases. We understand Mr. Masson's parliamentary duties will not take up so much of his time that his firm's business demanded the services of another first-class counsel. We congratulate him on securing the assistance of Mr. Stewart Masson, and feel sure their clients will never miss the head of the firm so long as his place is filled by his worthy brother and our esteemed friend.

Going From Home For News.

President Dyer was to day much amused at an article in the Cobourg Post, in reference to Albert College being removed to Cobourg, especially at this portion of it: "The fact is well known that for some time Albert College has been overcrowded with male students and the National Board of the Institution have been keeping their eyes open to more adequate quarters. Now that Victoria expects to mingle with the other colleges in the city shortly, the opening here became plainly visible to the ambitious Principal of Albert, and we believe negotiations have been or are about to be opened up with that end in view." What will Belleville say to this? Principal Dyer never heard the idea mooted, nor has it ever entered the head of any person but the writer in the Post. We think the town authorities are on the right track, and hope the Government will buy the property and locate one of the public institutions of the province there.—Port Hope Guide, Monday.

THE POLITICAL SLATE.

THE CONTEST IN LAWEST HURON WAXES WARM.

Nominations in a Number of Constituencies Yesterday—Speeches at Goderich by the Leader of the Opposition and Several Cabinet Ministers—General Political.

GODERICH, Feb. 17.—Hon. J. C. Patterson, Secretary of State, and M. C. Cameron were nominated for West Huron to-day.

After the nominations addresses were made by Hon. John Costigan, J. S. Larke of Oshawa and Mr. Patterson.

Hon. Wilfrid Laurier arrived to-day and was accorded an enthusiastic reception. A procession was formed and he was escorted to the opera house, where he was presented with an address. In the evening he addressed a mass meeting.

A lively contest is being waged in the riding, three or four meetings being held daily.

IN THE SURPEME COURT.

Twelve Election Appeals—Members Confirmed in Their Seats.

OTTAWA, Feb. 17.—The Supreme Court met to-day, all the judges being on the bench, except Judge Fournier, when some 12 election appeals were taken into consideration. Haldimand and North Waterloo were dismissed, having been settled out of court. The result of this is that Mr. Bowman and Dr. Montague are confirmed in their seats.

The Bellechasse election case—Amyot v. Labrique—was next taken up. The court held that the petitioners should have, according to the statute, proved that the petitioners were bona fide electors, and consequently the appeal with costs and dismissed the petition with costs. This confirmed Mr. Amyot in his seat.

The next case was the Ingersoll case. Dr. Christie, the sitting member, appealed from the judgment of the court below on a preliminary point. It happy that there have been only two deaths, and in both cases they were children of frail constitution. It is gratifying to know that the work done during the year affords good evidence of substantial and satisfactory progress in training and educating the pupils; and that the superintendent and staff of officers, with the knowledge acquired by experience, are attaining a more perfect system of communicating instruction to the pupils committed to their care. There is no doubt that this institution will continue to hold its place in the foremost rank of schools established for the education of the deaf and dumb. I made an inspection of this institution on the 9th March. There were 260 pupils in residence, namely 145 males and 115 females. The buildings and grounds were in good order and well kept."

New Law Firm.

We have received a card from Owen Sound announcing the formation of the new firm of Masson & Masson, barristers, &c. The senior member, James Masson, Q.C., M.P. for North Gray, will be remembered by many of our middle aged and other readers as a Belleville boy. Quite long enough ago between 1865 and 1871; but it is the next member of the firm, Mr. Stewart Masson, lately of the firm of Falkiner & Masson of this city, to whom we have particularly to refer. Six years ago Mr. Stewart Masson entered into partnership with Mr. N. B. Falkiner, of this city, and very soon worked himself to the front of the profession here as a counsel, taking not only all the counsel work of the firm—he was nominally the junior partner of it—but holding for other firms many briefs in important cases. We understand Mr. Masson's parliamentary duties will not take up so much of his time that his firm's business demanded the services of another first-class counsel. We congratulate him on securing the assistance of Mr. Stewart Masson, and feel sure their clients will never miss the head of the firm so long as his place is filled by his worthy brother and our esteemed friend.

MURDERED OR DROWNED.

All Hope Abandoned of Recovering the Bodies of Seventy Party of Miners.

PORT TOWNSEND, Wash., Feb. 17.—Advices from Alaska concerning the fate of Morris Orton and party of ten miners in search of Lost Lake have been murdered by Indians or lost in the sea trying to cross from Cross Sound to Yakitat. Searching parties have hunted six weeks for the missing miners without success, and the hope of recovering their bodies has been abandoned.

Norton's party left Litya Bay for Juneau in November, but were never heard from again. Orders of Sitka organized and besought Commander Maynard of the war ship Pinto to go to the rescue, it being thought that the men were lost in the woods and in danger of starvation. Maynard refused to go. He said that his ship was unseaworthy and that the trip would only endanger the lives of his crew of 50 men. He considered the missing men beyond human aid.

Searching parties were organized, however, and a sailing vessel was sent to search for the lost miners, but no traces were found. Recent hostile acts of the Indians in the neighborhood confirm the fears that the men were killed and robbed by Indians and their bodies thrown into the sea.

Address and Presentation.

There was a large gathering of the residents of Shannonville and vicinity at the A.O.U.W. Hall, on the evening of Thursday, Feby 11, for the purpose of honoring Dr. A. D. Walker, who has lately removed to Belleville from that village, as successor to the late Dr. Wilson. It was felt that as Dr. Walker had previously himself such a skilful physician, and had also won such zeal in his profession, the neighborhood could not allow him to leave them without giving in some way their great appreciation of his worth, and regret at his leaving. So all classes, irrespective of party or creed, united, and a musical and literary entertainment was gotten up, he being invited to be present. Mr. Wm. Mayell was called to the chair, and after explaining the object of the gathering, he invited Dr. Dyer on the platform, when the following address was read to him by Mr. W. D. Mayell:

To A. D. Walker, Esq., M. D.—

On behalf of the people of Shannonville and vicinity we have met here this evening to express our sympathy with you in the sorrow that you feel over the sad bereavement you have suffered in the loss of your wife, and to bid you farewell on your departure from our midst. We would not for a moment harbor anything but feelings of pleasure in such a project as had opened up before you.

As you and Mrs. Walker take your leave from among us, we shall miss you and mingle in our social circles, but in every household entertained in which you were so kindly received. We trust that in your new sphere of usefulness may be garnered and crowned more than in the past, and that you and Mrs. Walker may be spared to enjoy many happy years in your new home.

Although you have left our village, we hope often to meet you again in our society gather ings and we trust you will not forget to make your stay to our midst not end, but to be renewed in that eternal home where friendships never end.

Please accept of these robes and these address as a token of our esteem and as a memento of your short residence among us.

MRS. Walker, we present you with this coffee set, trusting that you will not forget your old home and friends in Shannonville.

Signed on behalf of the people of Shannonville and vicinity,

A. W. Mayell,
Secy of Committee.

At the proper time Mr. John Doreen handed the doctor a handsome pair of black bear skin robes and a beautiful gold-headed cane and as Mrs. Walker her coffee set for Mrs. Walker, who was absent through illness. The doctor was so completely taken by surprise that for some moments he was unable to find words to express his feelings. When he did, he responded on behalf of himself and Mrs. Walker, thanking the committee and audience for their kind words and useful and elegant gifts. Addresses were also delivered by Rev. Messrs. Adam and Geddes, and songs and music by Misses Boldrick, Lazier, Dean and Miss Doreen and brother.

The Liquor License Act.

A provision of the act that is not often involved came up for consideration yesterday before the Police Magistrate, when four Thurlow hotel keepers were fined with costs for delivering liquor to a farmer who has the habit of drinking to excess, while having in August last served upon the hotel keepers a notice in writing, a notice forbidding them to allow her husband to have liquor at their places of business. These men had been warned, had come before the Magistrate, and he instructed that on a second occasion the full penalty of $50 would be inflicted, in order to indicate the law to be that a wife, parent or child the right to protect themselves in this way by removing many of the temptations from the way of the man whose unrestrained appetite brings trouble upon those nearly connected with his family. Mr. W. N. Poston appeared for the prosecution. Mr. F. S. Wallbridge and Mr. G. A. Skinner for two of the defendants. The ex-Sheriff pays what the wife the right to sue for civil damages.

Miss Robinson also recited in her old-time manner, much to the delight of the audience. The proceeds of the evening amounted to $104, which sum will be devoted to repairing the church edifice.

Makes Flesh And Blood.

When the system is all run down and there seems to be no hope of obtaining nourishment for the body by the ordinary process of food supply and digestion, when the body is sinking fast, then is the time to use Miller's Emulsion of pure Norwegian Cod Liver Oil. It always works wonders, because it is a fresh blood maker, and contains all the constituents for nourishment found in wheat, in fact Miller's Emulsion is a perfect "staff of life" and has saved and restored thousands in big bottles, 50c. and $1, at Waters' drug store.

POLITICAL POINTS

No less than 4000 votes went unpolled in the Halifax election, a result of the blizzard.

Mr. Marchand, ex-Speaker of the Quebec Assembly, one of the oldest and most respected Liberals of the province, has repudiated Mercier.

In Montcalm, the contest for the Commons will be between Messrs. Dugas and Therien, two former members. Both are Conservatives.

Ald. Jeannotte, of Montreal, will be the Conservative standard bearer in L'Assomption for the vacancy caused by Mr. Joseph Gauthier, Liberal M.P., who was unseated for bribery by agents.

There are now twelve constituencies for which writs have not been issued, namely: West Northumberland, South Perth, Welland, Prescott, Brome, Bagot, Montmagny, Montmorency, Makinonge, Monck, Two Montiac, and Rouville. Of these the first four have already been inscribed for hearing on appeal to the Supreme court, and it is probable that a majority of the others will also be carried to the same tribunal.

Robert Jaffray, the Toronto grocer, who is the chief director of the Globe Printing Company, said at a party dinner in Toronto on Monday night, that he would take part in a rebellion to expel the present Government of the Dominion from office. Mr. Jaffray supplies groceries without contract for public institutions and colonization roads gangs in Ontario. He wants more of the same sort of business from the Dominion.

The Conservative majority in East Middlesex was 548.

The majority of Mr. Forbes, Liberal, in Queen's County, N.S., is officially announced as 70, a decrease of 93 from last year.

The Conservatives of London held a meeting last night, which was addressed by Hon. C. H. Tupper, Hon. Frank Smith and Dr. Montague, M.P. Hon. Mr. Girling will be elected.

Of all the contests yet to come in Ontario not one is a battle for a seat held by a Conservative last session. The Opposition is on the defensive in every case. The next elections are in East Hastings and South Ontario on Saturday. We shall see what we shall see.

Mr. Wood (Hastings) will move in the Legislature for a report showing estimated quantity of pine timber now standing upon the crown domain of the province and the value thereof, setting the same forth as far as practicable by a description by number or otherwise of the berths upon which the same is standing, and where the territory has been divided into timber berths showing the localities so as to enable them to be identified by description, and also showing the data upon which such estimates are based.

EASILY CAUGHT.

Croup, colds, sore throat and many painful ailments are easily caught in this changeable climate. The never-failing remedy is just as easily obtained in Hagyard's Yellow Oil, which is undoubtedly the best of all the many remedies offered for the cure of colds or pains.

Mr. Henry Graham, Wingham, writes us: "For fifteen years I have suffered with Indigestion, and during that time I got nothing to give me relief, although I tried a great many different kinds of medicine recommended for that complaint. I now feel like a new man, and this wonderful change has been accomplished by the use of four bottles of Northrup & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery. To me it has been a valuable medicine."

Love never has to be watched to see that it does a full day's work.

Why go limping and whining about your corns, when a 25cent bottle of Holloway's Corn Cure will remove them? Give it a trial, and you will not regret it.

The Stone-Cutter of Lisbon

A NOVEL BY

WM. HENRY PECK.

CHAPTER I.

THE MARBLE YARD.

The story opens in a marble yard of Lisbon, Portugal, in 1755, just as the great clock of the cathedral near it is about to chime the hour when the weary scan of toil may let fall their heavy tools and exclaim

"Thank God! his day's work is done!"

The minute hand of the dial is close upon the golden XII, and the hour hand is pointing at the VI, so that we shall scarcely have time to flash a glance over the busy yard before all this clamor of hammers, saws, mallets, and chisels shall have ceased, and the tired toilers be departing.

The yard is large, extending over four squares, unroofed, except the wall which guards the low stone buildings in which are the offices and tool houses of the place.

Over its surface are scattered masses of stone and marble, and fragments of rock, huge, massive blocks yet untouched by the artisan, with many half shaped, and others far advanced toward the finish designed for them.

More than three hundred men are at work, and the incessant tap tap of iron, wood, rock, and steel, and the hiss hiss of steadily vibrating saws, rending, tearing, cutting, grinding, make a mighty chant of labor, the chorus of which, in the hearts of the toilers to-day, is:

"The poor must work, work, work,
All the days of their life,
At the price of the rich, rich,
Or—starve!"

From early youth this has been the burden of the chant echoing like a dirge in the bosoms of these toilers, whose faces are like bronze and whose muscles are like steel. To-day there is a fierce and sullen glare of discontent in their eyes, as they toil and glance often toward the slow-moving hands of the dial.

There has been a 'strike;' that is, a writhing of poorly paid Labor under the grinding heel of arrogant Capital. The 'strike' has failed, and starved Labor, defeated but sullen, has come back to gnaw on rock, that Capital may go on adorning his palaces.

Therefore the eyes of these men glare moodily from their bronzed faces—faces masked with the dust of rock and the sweat of toil—as they bend and strike reluctant blows upon stone and marble, which to them is cold as hard and cold as the heart of the millionaire Count who proudly calls this great yard his.

You may see his carriage in the distance, as it turns suddenly from the fashionable boulevard, and rolls rapidly towards this yard. We shall have a nearer view of him presently, for he is in it, lolling carelessly in his pride of enormous wealth, upon rich soft cushions of satina and velvet, coming to see how all goes on since the 'strike' was starved back to slave for him again.

There, at one side of the yard, works Stonio, the Stonecutter. He is a tall, robust man, in the very prime of young manhood, who joined this force for the first time to-day, and who has given no name to Don Diego Alva, the superintendent, except this of which he seems proud—Stonio, the Stone cutter.

He is scarcely twenty five years old, erect as the mast of a ship, athletic, and full-bearded. When he was enrolled as a workman this morning, his hair and beard were jet black and glossy as ebon stain; but now the white marble dust cast up to his bold, manly face by his labor has whitened and grimed his hair where it appears from beneath his broad Spanish hat, and made his beard as gray and grizzly as that of old Santos, the aged sexton of the Cathedral.

He presented himself to the superintendent this morning to be enrolled, just as the latter had completed a list of the names of those who had returned to work, and said:

'I am a stone-cutter, and desire to work in this yard, sir.'

Diego Alva at the moment was gazing at his note book with a gleam of malignant triumph in his gang green cruel eyes, as he recognized among his list of names those of many whom he hated, and who had, when the unfortunate strike began, cursed him to his face, and made him tremble lest they might begin the strike by rending him to pieces. The owners of these names over which he now gloated had given them in most reluctantly, for they knew that Diego Alva hated them, would remember all they had said, and would be more of a tyrant than ever.

Stonio had stood aloof while the others were giving in their names and affixing them to the rules of the yard. Apparently he knew no one in the yard, and no one knew him. Alva, busy and jubilant in recognizing familiar names and faces, and in scattering with a biting, pointed tongue scoffs and sneers and taunts, had not bestowed more than a passing glance upon the tall stranger who leaned with folded arms against a great block of marble, carelessly awaiting his turn to be enrolled.

The superintendent was leaning over a great square stone, which had served him for a desk, and near him were his papers, ink, pens, and other writing material, when the stranger, last of all, and the others on their way to the foreman's office, advanced and said:

'I am a stone-cutter, and wish to work in this yard, sir.'

On hearing the deep, powerful voice of the speaker, Alva did not do as he had often done within the hour, raise his eyes with a scowl and say, with a sneer:

'Oh, it is you! Tired of playing fool already, eh? You have more sense than appears on your ugly face.'

But at the sound of the stranger's voice he started violently, closed his eyes, and grimed as if seized with a spasm of fierce agony; a deep pallor swept over his sallow, thin face, and he trembled. A guilty man suddenly addressed by the voice of someone whom he had fearfully wronged, might do the same.

The spasm, or whatever it was, ended instantly, and Alva, stiffening himself into a haughty attitude, Alva turned and flashed his cold, hard eyes into the face of the stranger.

A point of jet black, cold, bright eyes met his, beaming clearly and frankly from a firm, handsome, manly face, adorned with a noble expression of resolution, intelligence and mind strength.

'I do not know you,' said Alva, speaking truly, and yet fancying he had known some one, years before, not unlike the stranger in many peculiarities.

'You have never worked in this yard?'

'No, sir.'

'Nor in any other yard in Lisbon, for I am pretty well acquainted with all.'

'No; I am from Madrid. I have worked there.'

'Good. They have excellent workmen in Madrid. When did you come?'

'That does not matter. Have you place for me?'

'You are short in your replies. I may be as short in my questions,' said Alva, tartly. 'Your name?'

'Stonio.'

'Stonio! A name well-suited to a stone-cutter. What else?'

'None. My name is simply as I say—Stonio.'

'Come! men with but one name are either slaves or convicts. Are you ashamed or afraid to speak your full name?' asked Alva, with a cold sneer, for he had already received a bitter dislike toward the stranger, and resolved not to permit him to work in this yard.

There was to him something extremely distasteful in the air, voice and features of the applicant, and as Diego Alva cared nothing for justice or right when his spleen was excited, he determined to insult and drive him away humiliated.

'I am neither a slave nor a convict, Don Alva,' replied the stranger calmly, though the superintendent saw that his dark eyes flashed, 'I am an honest, hard-working artisan—by trade a stone-cutter. I have been a stone cutter from my boyhood; and perhaps I shall be a stone-cutter all my life. Why not?'

His rank the heartily, and even proudly, as one far from being ashamed of his calling, and one conscious that had accident of birth made him a king he could not have been more honest and noble in being the honest, hard working artisan he so proudly said he was.

(To be Continued.)

ATTACKED BY AN ENEMY.

DEAR SIRS,—About a year ago I had a very bad attack of dyspepsia. For nearly four months I never ate a meal without suffering pain after. I had got so weak I could scarcely walk, when one day I saw an advertisement for B.B.B., and thought I would try a bottle. Four bottles cured me completely, and I am now strong and healthy.

THE MINORITY REPORT.

JUDGE JETTE DEFENDS COUNT MERCIER.

The Ex-Premier Was Not Himself Guilty of Bowling but was the Victim of Pacaud, Armstrong and Others—An Interesting Document from the Chief of the Commission.

MONTREAL, Feb. 18.—The great Baie des Chaleur commission has completed its task, and the two reports, that by Judges Baby and Davidson, and the minority one by Chief Justice Jette, have both been submitted to the public. The majority report is one sweeping denunciation and condemnation of Mercier, Langelier, Pacaud, Robidoux and the other ministers, but in a lesser degree.

The document bears on it the impress of care and study.

The little of minority report on the other hand is diametrically opposed to the findings of the majority one, and exonerates not only Mercier, but his whole crowd, except Pacaud and Armstrong. The closing findings of the Jette reports are as follows: Summing up the facts concerning Mr. Mercier, I find as follows.

1. The note signed by Pacaud and endorsed by Mercier and other political friends for electoral purposes and contestations of elections were paid out of the $100,000 received by Pacaud from Armstrong, but the repayment was made in Mercier's absence without his consent and knowledge, and the respectability can in no way be attached to him. 2. The $5000 sent to Mercier on May 15 were not deposited to the credit proper with Pacaud at that date and were not taken, as far as Mr. Mercier was concerned, from the Baie des Chaleurs subscription. 3. The sum of $5000 sent to Mr. Mercier July 3 was advanced by Pacaud out of the fund arising from a source quite foreign to the Baie Des Chaleurs affair. As far as Mr. Mercier was concerned it ought to have been repaid by means of the signed blanks given to Pacaud by Senator Pelletier, and it was in fact subsequently covered by a note to that effect on this blank form when Mr. Pacaud judged proper to have it discounted. Messrs. Turgeon, Carrier, Pinault, Deschenes, Desaulniers, Tessier and Lemieux—the names of these gentlemen, who are all members of the Legislative Assembly, have been mentioned during the enquiry in connection with certain moneys received by them from Mr. Pacaud. It is only just to say that none of the facts concerning them can justify the slightest suspicion against them.

Taking the evidence on the whole I find the following facts to be established:

1. The Pacaud-Armstrong agreement is proved and even admitted, but it was solely between Mr. Armstrong and Pacaud, and neither Mr. Thom nor Mr. Cooper knew anything about it.

2. There is no proof that any of the ministers know of this agreement prior to revelations made before the committee of the Senate.

3. None of the Ministers except Mr. Charles Langelier benefited in any way from Mr. Armstrong's money.

4. Mr. Langelier does not seem to have known the source of the money that he received from Mr. Pacaud.

5. Strong the Other Way.

The Baby-Davidson report takes issue completely with the Jette findings and is just as pronounced in the opposite direction.

In carefully worded effort to-day The Star, while not exactly condemning Judge Jette for his findings, inclines to the opinion that his deductions are wrong in principal and fact. It says:

The most astonishing feature of Judge Jette's report is the admission that the suggestion of an interim report first came from him. Months ago Judges Baby and Davidson suggested the advisability of taking advantage of the illness of their colleague to make an interim report to the Lieutenant-Governor, and for months those two learned judges have been subjected to almost daily abuse for so doing. That Judge Jette could keep silent under such circumstances is to say the least, remarkable. That Judges Baby and Davidson have also kept silent speaks volumes for their patience and dignity. The feeling in political circles here, both Liberal and Conservative, is one of intense astonishment at the Jette report. While it was generally believed that it would be a little favorable to Mercier, yet it was not expected that it would give the coup de grâce as it did.

The Conservatives are feeling sure of carrying the province as things look at present and are conceding about 35 seats only to Mercier. There is no means certain that he will be able to carry his own county of Bonaventure.

THE SCOTCHED STAKE.

Frightful Injury to a Farmer Near Sault Ste. Marie.

SAULT STE MARIE, Ont., Feb. 18.—Pere Johnson, a farmer of Tarentorus township, 65 years of age, was drawing hay from a neighbor's loft. As soon as sufficient hay had been thrown down to fill the weighing Johnson slid down upon it and assisted in weighing it. The sleigh was fitted with an ordinary cordwood rack, the stakes being sharpened to a keen point to admit a free passage through the hay. In making his descent from the loft to the load Johnson slipped and fell on the sleigh. One of the stakes entering the inner part of his thigh passed up through his body and out again in front of the abdomen. McGill was paralyzed with horror and bereft of strength for a time, but, recovering his self-control, he lifted Johnson off the stake. Doctors think the man may recover.

Want the Duty Off Coal Oil, Etc.

OTTAWA, Feb. 17.—The Patrons of Industry have supplemented the notice of their intention to seek incorporation by a number of petitions to the House, one of which reached the Department of Agriculture yesterday. It demands the abolition of the disadvantage under which the agricultural classes live, and the removal of the duties on coal oil, binder twine and iron.

A New York Murder.

NEW YORK, Feb. 18.—Early yesterday morning John Reardon, 22 years old, a blacksmith living at 222 East One Hundredth street, was found dead at the foot of the stairs of his home. Michael Reardon, also a blacksmith, living at the same house, was charged with causing his death by striking him on the head with a hand and throwing him downstairs during a quarrel. Michael was locked up.

To Be Hanged for a Lottery Ticket.

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 18.—Samuel T. Wilson was to-day sentenced to be hanged March 18 for the murder of Clementine Manning, his mistress. Wilson learned that the woman had a lottery ticket which had won $5000, and tried to force her to give it to him. Failing he shot her, stole the ticket and fled, but was caught, tried and convicted.

A Cowardly Murder.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Feb. 18.—William Carter, client son of John T. Carter, a well-known farmer and blooded horse dealer, was shot and killed last evening by Edward B. Turpin. The killing is regarded as one of the most cowardly murders that ever took place in this county.

Struck by a Train.

NEW YORK, N. J., Feb. 18.—A surface car was struck by a train of the Morris and Essex line last night. John Galligan, the driver of the car, was mortally injured. Several passengers were slightly injured.

Dangerous Counterfeits.

Counterfeits are always dangerous, therefore that they always closely IMITATE THE ORIGINAL IN APPEARANCE AND NAME. The remarkable success achieved by Nasal Balm as a positive cure for Catarrh and Cold in the head has induced unprincipled parties to imitate it. The public are cautioned not to be deceived by nostrums imitating Nasal Balm in name and appearance, bearing such names as Nasal Cream, Nasa Balsam, etc. Ask for Nasal Balm and do not take any imitation dealers may urge upon you. For sale by all druggists or sent post-paid on receipt of price (50c and $1,) by addressing Dr. C. Brooks Wells, Ont.

KNIGHTS OF LABOR.

The Knights of Labor aim to protect their members against financial difficulties, etc., Hagyard's Yellow Oil protects all who use it from the effects of cold and exposure, such as rheumatism, neuralgia, lumbago, sore throat, and all inflammatory pain. Should you be without it as a handy pain cure for man and beast.

For coughs, colds, bronchitis and all lung and throat troubles, there is no preparation of medicine can compare with Hickle's Anti Consumptive Syrup. It never fails to afford prompt and permanent relief. It removes all soreness, and heals the diseased parts. It immediately soothes the most troublesome cough, and by promoting expectoration, removes the mucus which stops up the air tubes which cause difficulty in breathing thereby gives relief to that depressing tightness experience in the chest. Public speakers and singers will find Hickle's Anti Consumptive Syrup of inestimable value, as it speedily and effectually allays all irritation, and by its kindness in the throat and bronchial tubes, and gives power to the vocal cords, rendering the voice clear and sonorous. If parents wish to save the lives of their children, and themselves from much anxiety trouble and expense let them procure a bottle of Hickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup, and whenever a child has taken cold, has a cough or hoarseness, give the Syrup according to directions.

Our heaviest burdens are those we borrow.

Do you feel as though your friends had all deserted you, business calamities overwhelmed you, your body racked with pain, the duties and even the sun and taken refuge behind a cloud? Then use Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery, and hope will return and dependency disappear. Mr. R. H. Baker, Ingolds Mr. Mayfield, writes: "I am completely cured of Dyspepsia that caused me great suffering for three years. Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery is the medicine." Many of the cures after trying many other medicines."

Much doing is not so important as well doing.

Fever and Ague and bilious derangements are positively cured by the use of Parmelee's Pills. They act only cause the stomach and bowels, clean the blood, thus expel the poisons from the circulatory vessels, causing them to pour copious supplies of healthy fluids into the blood, after which the corrupted mass is thrown out by the natural passage of the body. They are used as a general family medicine with the best results.

The man who doesn't believe in God lives that way.

A. M. Hamilton, Warkworth, writes: "For years I was troubled with a swelled ankle, which caused me much pain and annoyance. Mr. Mayfield, of this place, recommended Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil for it. I tried it, and before one bottle was used I was cured. It is an article of great value."

The religion cannot be right where the morals are wrong.

Daily Intelligencer.

BELLEVILLE, THURSDAY FEB. 18

AN IMPORTANT LETTER.

"All is not gold that glitters." In another column we publish a letter from a correspondent at Ottumwa, Iowa, who makes an interesting comparison between the condition of farmers and workingmen in Ontario and the great State of Iowa, much to the disadvantage of the latter. Our correspondent, who is a carpenter and was for several years a resident of Belleville, is an intelligent man, and well qualified to form an opinion on the subject.

AN INSENSATE PARTIZAN.

The report of Judge Jette, the president of the commission appointed to investigate the Baie des Chaleurs railway steal, has been published. It is, in brief, an acquittal of everybody except Pacaud.

Judge Jette, who was a Grit before his appointment to the bench, has evidently been unable to divest himself of his political leanings.

Happily it does not need the verdict of Judge Jette to secure the condemnation of Mercier & Co. Were their theft of $100,000 from the Baie des Chaleurs railway subsidy purely mythical, subsequent exposures of the manner in which the provincial treasury of Quebec was robbed in order to purchase seats in Parliament for supporters of Mr. Laurier, would be quite sufficient to that end.

Judge Jette has simply written himself down an insensate partizan without benefit to the party of his choice, and thereby greatly impaired his usefulness in his judicial capacity.

AN EXPLANATION THAT WON'T WASH.

The Hamilton Herald, an independent journal, says: The favorite explanation offered by the Grit press of Conservative victories in the bye elections, is "bribery and corruption," "boodle," "red parlor," &c. Their credulous readers are led to believe that the wicked Tories have a golden key to the electoral conscience. But there is another trifling feature of recent political history which our clever contemporaries do not explain satisfactorily. How in the world is it that when the deeds of the virtuous Reformers and of the sinful Tories are investigated by the election courts, the former show themselves so much more adept in ways that are dark and tricks that are vain? No doubt they see and approve the better course, but they follow the worse. Is it not time to admit that Grit politicians are human, very human, rather than to pretend that they are not as other men are? These sanctimonious professions would be all very well if we did not know these gentlemen, and if long and sad experience had not shown their righteousness to be as the righteousness of the scribes and Pharisees, a mockery and a snare.

CLOSING THE CAMPAIGN.

The Parliamentary contest in East Hastings, which is now very near its close, gives promise of the redemption of the constituency from the Grits, who have held it since 1887, by a large majority.

The contest has been splendidly fought by our excellent young candidate, Mr. W. B. Northrup, whose fine oratory, moderation and candor of statement and unanswerable arguments have won golden opinions in all parts of the riding. Mr. Northrup has appealed to the reason, not to the passions or prejudices of the electors, and with, reports from reliable sources as sure us, an effect which will be exhibited in a most gratifying manner when the ballots are counted. In Mr. Henry Corby, M.P., and other gentlemen who have spoken and worked on his behalf, he has been most ably assisted, and it cannot be said that anything has been lacking in laying the policy of the Conservative party before the people who are to pronounce upon it.

The supporters of the Government have been earnest in the cause. We have only to counsel them to continue their labors until the close of the polls on Saturday next, when, we predict, they will be rewarded for their exertions by a glorious triumph for the principles which they hold dear.

MAYNOOTH

From our own Correspondent.

MAYNOOTH, Feb. 16th.

The snow is very deep and the thermometer has gone down to the cold side of zero several times. The heavy storms and the high winds of the last few weeks have so completely blocked some of the roads that to travel on them is almost impossible.

Mr. Wm. Mackintosh is at present visiting the schools in this vicinity. While not neglecting his professional duties, Mr. Mackintosh finds time to encourage Sunday school work, and it is chiefly through his influence, as president of the N. Hastings S.S. Association, that a large majority of the school teachers of N. Hastings are in some way connected with S.S. work.

It seems that the big logs are not all cut yet. Mr. Robt. Murdock recently drew one to the Madawaska, in Clyde township, 16 feet long and over 48 inches in diameter.

Doctors are busy and funerals are not uncommon. Although this locality shares, with other backwoods districts, the name of enjoying a climate conducive to sound health, we are having our share of sickness just now. The popular question seems to be, "Is this the grippe? If it isn't, what is it?"

If some man, wiser than we are, would tell us the cause of the brilliant northern lights now to be seen he would set at rest, at least on that point, the minds of our would be astronomers.

The Future Horse Market.

Thousands of Canadian farmers have been led to believe that if free trade with the States can only be secured, the demand for large horses for the great American cities is sure to be large and constant for years and years to come. It may as well be known that the demand for horses, so far as the great American cities are concerned, has already had its best day. These animals, to the extent of many thousands per year, have been needed to supply the street car service in the various American cities, but street car companies are now fast discarding horse power entirely.

The Railway Age, a leading American authority in such matters, has recently been giving valuable statistics to show how rapidly horse power is being superseded for street car purposes. Five years ago nearly every street car in the United States, as elsewhere, was drawn by horses. To day on more than half of the entire line either electricity or steam power has superseded them. According to the Railway Age, out of 11,120 miles of street cars now in active operation in the great American cities, only about one-half, or 5,443 miles, are operated by horse power. No less than 3,099 miles are already operated by electricity, and before the present year closes probably one-half as much more will be added. It is probable that in the near future horse power on street cars will be abandoned almost altogether. It is said that while 88,114 horses are yet reported in use, the number has been decreased by no less than 28,631 already by electrical applications. This falling off represents a falling off already of more than ten thousand per year, and already both the demand and the market prices have fallen off very largely in consequence. We are informed that already in the vicinity of several of the large cities of New York State, the prices for large horses are quite as low as here. It is known too, that in Toronto, Hamilton, Montreal and Kingston, electricity is likely to take the place of horse power on the street railways during the coming summer.

These facts have their particular significance to all those who are interested in horse raising. While a certain amount of demand will always exist for good draft horses, no one need expect any such demand, or any such prices, for the five years to come as have existed during the five years just past. Attention may as well be turned considerably into other lines of business. Even if all duties on horses were wiped off the former price and demand would not be in prospect.

According to the last published statistical abstract of the United States a falling off in the value of imported horses has largely set in, and doubtless for the reasons above mentioned. In 1888 the value of dutiable horses imported in the States was $2,685,195. In 1890 it had fallen to $2,185,976, considerably over half a million, and in 1891 was but $1,902,603, or scarcely two-thirds of the second year previous. We have not yet seen the figure of 1891, but they no doubt also indicate a still further decline. The Canadian farmer's hope is not so much in reduced duties on horses as in increased attention to commodities for which the English market always supplies a ready demand.—Kingston News.

WHERE IS REV. MARTIN?

A CHATHAM MINISTER MYSTERIOUSLY DISAPPEARS.

He Had Engaged Himself to Three Members of His Congregation and Monday Was Fixed Upon as the Wedding Day, But When the Day Arrived the Bridegroom Was Missing.

CHATHAM, Feb. 18.—"Good-bye, Mrs. Dobson, till I see you again." That was one solitary adieu spoken by Rev. N. H. Martin of Christ Church, Chatham, ere he left the midst of the town from his feet forever and fled from a community in which no man or woman who knew him but was his admirer and friend. It was spoken to the caretaker of the parsonage on Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock and was accompanied by a warm handshake and a $1 bill on account of balance of wages due her.

"All I have, Mrs. Dobson," he added as he passed over the money, "but I'll give you the rest in a few days."

Mr. Martin has left the community and fled the country. He was to have been married to Miss Delmage of North Chatham on Monday, the 15th inst. Papers to be signed to Miss Kitchen, and the marriage was fixed for Tuesday, the 16th.

Miss Sarah Bonet, a favorite daughter, also holds the following document written in Mr. Martin's handwriting, which speaks for itself:

CHATHAM, Ont., Feb. 10, 1892.—I do hereby promise to marry Sarah Bonet on Monday, Feb. 15, 1892, and I further give her full possession and ownership of all the furniture and other contents of my house. (Signed). N. H. MARTIN.

All preparations for the wedding were made at Miss Delmage's house; also by Miss Kitchen's friends for her marriage, but the reverend gentleman never turned up and has not since been seen in Chatham.

Rev. Mr. Martin had been rector of Christ Church for 15 years. He was a fluent speaker, a genial gentleman and a bachelor. His church soon became the most popular one of the place, and his reputation extended throughout Western Ontario. He is a prominent society man and one of the past grands of the I.O.O.F. His congregation was the most aristocratic one of the place, and when it was announced a few weeks ago that Mr. Martin was shortly to wed a prominent member of his flock there was but little surprise expressed.

But as soon as he departed Saturday the news of his engagement to the other young ladies became public. He had arranged with Miss Delmage that the marriage should be secret, as he did not wish it to become known.

THE COMMISSIONERS SPEAK.

A Different Account of the Result of the Mission to Ottawa.

OTTAWA, Feb. 18.—Sir John Thompson, Hon. George E. Foster and Hon. Mackenzie Bowell, the Canadian delegates to Washington, reached here this afternoon.

Sir John Thompson, being seen, declined to speak as to results, but said the accounts of their mission published in the United States papers were far from true.

Hon. George E. Foster said their trip had been delightful. As to the statements of press correspondents at Washington, they were in the main unreliable and seemed to have been written in a narrow and ungenerous spirit. He was glad to be able to add that they found none of that spirit in their interviews with the United States Ministers.

Secretary Blaine was most courteous, and both he and his assistant-general showed them every attention. They arrived on Tuesday and their first interview took place on Wednesday, the interviews being continued day by day until Monday, when they were concluded. The whole of the questions laid down in the order-in-council were thoroughly and frankly discussed. He could not give the results until Parliament meets, but could state that good progress was made. There had been no cross-cabling as to the authority of the Canadian delegates between the United States Government and the Home Government. They were received as gentlemen and representatives of a great country and in a spirit that left nothing to be desired.

Hon. Mackenzie Bowell said the delegates had had a reception which was all that could desire, but he could not say anything about results.

The Ministers called on Premier Abbott this afternoon.

What Wiman Thinks of it.

WOONSOCKET, R.I., Feb. 18.—Erastus Wiman of New York addressed the business men's association here this evening. He said in part that the complete collapse of the recent negotiations respecting Canadian reciprocity again enforced the lesson that so long as diplomacy was controlled by Great Britain on the one hand and dictated by Canadian manufacturers on the other there would be no free market towards the north for American goods. The Tory party in control in Canada, he said, owed its power to the manufacturers of that country, many of whom with the growth and progress of excessive protection failed to see the great advantages which an open market in the United States would afford. If diplomacy must continuously fail to obliterate the barrier that now divides the English-speaking people on this continent legislation, Mr. Wiman added, could easily accomplish their practical union. A resolution offering unrestricted trade with Canada by Congress and the appointment of a commission to treat with Parliamentary representatives for the obliteration of the custom line between the two countries could not be resisted by any Parliament in Canada without the certainty of its being repudiated by the people. Legislation originating in the needs and wants of the people of this continent was the one thing essential for a practical union as against diplomacy originated in Great Britain and shaped by men whose only desire was to stand well with the authorities in another world 3000 miles away.

A DECLARATION OF THE POPE.

He Says Many Pleasant Things About France.

PARIS, Feb. 18.—The Petit Journal publishes a declaration of the Pope. It is the substance of a statement made to M. Jadot, the exdeputy, as follows: "My desire and wish of the church is that France should be happy. She is a nation whose pious mind and generous character, though they may not always keep her fast in the straight path which is best suited to her interests, soon repair all faults and show her the clear truth. I pray (and in accordance with my prayer) that despite all resistence there may come an end to the dissensions and the sterile quarrels which weaken her. All her citizens should meet upon the ground of liberty. Each individual may cherish his own preferences. The republic is as legitimate a form of government as any other. I have just received a communication from the president of the committee of the Chicago World's Fair, asking the holy see to take part in that great American undertaking. And the United States, which constitutes a republic, grows greater each day, despite the drawbacks incidental to their boundless liberty. There too the Catholic church develops without clashing with the state. The two powers act in perfect harmony, as they should in all lands when neither infringes upon the right of the other. Liberty is the true base and foundation of religion. Between civil power and religious conscience the church aspires before all to liberty. May my voice, which speaks with authority, be heard and may my aims and attitude no longer be distorted by unfounded attacks. What suits the United States is still more suited to Republican France. To all Frenchmen who use not I speak the same language. I wish that language to be known by all. I regret that certain persons in high places should not dare to proclaim publicly, as they should, the efforts that I make for the peace and prosperity of your noble nation, which I regard ever as the eldest daughter of the church. The church should keep to its true mission. It should reform souls, including the spirit of self-sacrifice and devotion. The church should take an interest in the condition of the work. My assertion of the rights of workingmen should facilitate and hasten the restoration of internal peace and diminish the significant minority which strives to disturb the public mind and prevent union in your country—a union indispensable to the fulfilment of its highest dignity. Thanks to the strong constitution, France will rise to her old greatness in spite of her foes. I learn with joy that though she boasts such abundant military resources and such valiant sons France has not faltered in her prudence and patience. If she will but free herself from the directions that choke her development and paralyze her influence; if she will but abstain from vain harassing and prosecuting she will soon regain the conspicuous place and glorious rank in the world which by right belong to her."

This language of the Pope will make a great impression in France, where the adhesion of His Holiness to the republican cause will spread satisfaction.

MONTT'S LIFE IN DANGER.

The Chilian President Has a Close Call—Likewise Gen. Canto.

NEW YORK, Feb. 18.—The Herald's Valparaiso despatch says: Plots to kill President Montt and Gen. Canto have been discovered and thwarted. The attempt on President Montt's life took place on Sunday night. The miscreants engaged in it removed the rails three kilometres north of Mule Station. Their intention was to wreck the train which Montt was announced to take. Fortunately Montt stopped off at Chilioan. Moreover, the removal of the rails was discovered by the railroad officials before any damage was done. When the Santiago express for this city arrived at Llallis Monday evening, Canto, who was one of the passengers, left his seat in the Pullman car to take breakfast. Upon returning he found his seat saturated with kerosene. Burned matches were discovered near by. There was no clue to the perpetrators.

A Wasted Life.

HAMILTON, Feb. 17.—Thomas Easton died this morning at the city hospital. About a dozen years ago he came to Hamilton from England, an admirable specimen of an aristocratic young Englishman—highly educated, refined, good-looking, with plenty of money, but with no aim in life and without ability or desire to help himself. His business was sport. For some years he lived well; money came to him copiously from "home," and he spent it freely. Then the remittances suddenly stopped, and from that time poor Easton sank lower and lower in the social scale. Until lately he eked out a wretched existence by selling cards and paper boxes. His decline was partly owing to intemperance. St. George's Society will bury him.

Will Not Secede.

OTTAWA, Feb. 18.—The United Workmen this evening discussed at great length the proposal to secede from the Supreme Court of the United States. The feeling of the convention was opposed to any such severance and the proposition rejected by 20,685 votes against 2060. This settles the question for the next 10 years.

THE WANDERING JEW.

A RABBI SAYS THE PROPHET ELIJAH WAS THE ORIGINAL.

A Common Belief that Good and Great Men, the Heroes of the Nations, Live On—The Immortal Sleepers—He Fixes the Identity Thus.

Dr. Philipson, rabbi of the Mount street temple, Cincinnati, lectured on the "Wandering Jew" in the Scovil avenue temple last night. In part the lecture was as follows:

"All nations are loth to believe that their good and great men, their heroes, are not alive. In former ages they have willingly listened to any tradition which said that their illustrious predecessors were not dead. King Arthur was supposed by the English to live on, although he did not appear before them. The Germans imagined that Frederick Barbarossa lay in a trance until the time of great need should come in the nation, when he would again lead them to victory. Many nations have had similar traditions. Everywhere we find the stories of the immortal sleepers.

"It is to this class that the story of the 'Wandering Jew' probably belongs. Early in the thirteenth century a form of legend was given to the English-speaking people by an Armenian Bishop. It was not the legend of a wanderer, but of an immortal or waiting Jew, who must exist to the end of time. In the nineteenth century we hear of a version which had made the text of many a drama: the legend of a Jew doomed to wander up and down the earth to the end of time because of an insult offered the Christian Saviour. Let us look for the source of the story.

"The Jews, like other nations, had their legends of their immortal great men. Enoch was supposed to have been taken from his surroundings without dying a natural death. Elijah was taken to the skies in a chariot of fire. Tradition stated that Elijah was wandering in disguise among his people doing good wherever he went. There is no doubt that this was the first 'Wandering Jew,' the immortal Elijah. This is no doubt the source from which the Christian story took its rise. The first appearances of the legend were during the middle ages, at about the time of the most relentless persecution of the Jews.

"A Christian monk perhaps shaped the legend of Elijah to his purpose to represent the Jews as a cursed race. By the flimsy logic prevalent at that age a Scriptural quotation was fitted to the wretched legend, and the tale of the Wandering Jew augmented the bitterness of the persecution. But this legend once believed is now known to be but a legend. Still it is ignorantly thought and preached in too many places. That the Jew is not proved in his writings that the scattering of the Jews is not the result of a curse. Historically and dogmatically it is proved to be impossible. The Jews were present in every quarter of the known world before the crucifixion, allowing the story of the crucifixion to be true. This surely was not the result of the Saviour's curse. Dogmatically the only grounds for the supposed curse are found in the words attributed to Matthew to the rabble: 'His blood be upon us and our children.' These were the words of the judged and not of the judge, if the tale be true."—Cleveland Plain-Dealer.

Lawless Brothers.

The Tweed News says: "Charles and Mitchell Sova were up before the J. P. on Saturday to answer to two or three charges of breach of the peace, result, five months imprisonment in the county jail at Belleville. Three of the brothers are confined there now, George having been sent down a couple of months ago."

A Close Call.

The Hastings Star of this week says: "Conductor Stanton had a narrow escape from a serious, if not fatal, accident on Friday afternoon. He stepped from the rear end of the train, but slipped on the icy platform and fell on the track. The train was slowly moving backward at the time, and fortunately stopped with a few feet of him. It was a close call."

Charatans and Quacks

Have long plied their vocation on the suffering pedals of the people. The knife has pared to the quick ; caustic applications have tormented the victim of corns until the conviction shaped itself—there's no cure. Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor proves on what slender basis public opinion often rests. If you suffer from corns get the Extractor and you will be satisfied. Sold everywhere.

Curling.

The Local Rinks Victorious in Two Draws.

The two rinks of the local Curling club which went to Toronto yesterday to compete in the Ontario Tankard contest, have thus far proved to be victorious. In the morning they met two rinks from Prospect Park and defeated them by 18 shots—Belleville scoring 50, and their opponents 32. In the afternoon, they were drawn against two rinks from Guelph, and were again successful after a hard-fought battle, defeating Orillia by 2 shots—Belleville 41, Orillia 39.

IN THE FINAL.

Toronto Granite defeated Galt, and Belleville defeated Prospect Park, consequently Dandruff with three applications, but stops falling of the hair, restores fading hair to its original color, and makes it soft and pliable without leaving any indication of a dressing being used—clear as crystal, clean to use, it is a valuable toilet preparation.

Where There is no Revision

A CELEBRATED NERVE DOCTOR

He Speaks Words of Truth!

Choose the Path of Wisdom!

The celebrated German neurologist, Adolphe Selignueller, says that excessive, exhausting and too long continued work, and deprivation of the right amount of sleep, are some of the main causes for the increase of nerve troubles in our day. This well known writer also asserts that severe mental application should not be continued more than three or four hours at a time ; and that night work should be avoided altogether, as the excitement is apt to interfere with sleep. Sleep, he contends, is the principal agent of recuperation. He dwells on the fact that, sooner of later, insomnia wreaks its vengeance on all offenders ; and he forcibly asserts that nerve troubles first evolving into disease when joined with sleeplessness.

It cannot be denied that overwork of body and brain, with its seveverances and couplers, is causing widespread trouble and disaster in our land to day. The worker of the 19th century works beyond his strength—and in order to keep it up he resorts to stimulants, which produce a super-exitation of all the nerves, and to overcome this he resorts to narcotics—all deadly in effect.

The medical profession is aware well that they are too often called on to attend such serious cases, and they are cognizant of the fact that these terribly dangerous and fatal troubles are on the increase. The great majority of doctors would much prefer to treat the ordinary ailments of life, in which they are more successful. These whole nerve diseases are complicated and difficult to reach by the ordinary methods now employed, and but few sufferers are ever cured.

Science, ever mighty when properly cultivated, has given to true and honest searchers mighty agents for the benefit of mankind. Perhaps the most remarkable and wonderful of these discoveries of the nineteenth century has been Paine's Celery Compound, an agent that has accomplished more good in the field of nerve diseases than all the combined efforts of physicians.

The nervous, sleepless, broken-down, worn-out, dyspeptic and rheumatic, through the healing powers of Paine's Celery Compound, have found a new life, a fresh existence and new joys that no other earthly remedy or power could give them. Amongst the true and honest members of the medical profession Paine's Celery Compound is the favorite, accepted and acknowledged remedy for nerve disorders, and is prescribed every day.

The Campaign Progressing.

Enthusiastic Meetings Held at Lonsdale, Melrose and Tweed.

On Tuesday afternoon a meeting in the interest of Mr. W. B Northrup was held at Lonsdale and was largely attended. Addresses were delivered by Messrs. H. Corby, M.P., W. P. Hudson, M.P.P., and W. B. Northrup. Messrs. Jas. Meagher and C. McCauley spoke on behalf of Mr. Aylesworth.

In the evening another meeting was held at Melrose and the hall was filled with enthusiastic supporters of Mr. Northrup. Addresses were given by the same gentlemen who spoke at Lonsdale.

Last night the largest meeting which has held during the campaign was held in the village of Tweed. The new hall was filled to the door. Upon the platform were some 75 ladies. The chair was occupied by Mr. Geo. Easterbrook. Messrs. H. Corby, M. P., W. Hudson, M.P.P., W. B. Northrup, R. Gordon and J. J. Curran, Q.C., M.P., addressed the meeting. The latter spoke for some time and gave an eloquent address upon the policy of the Government. The enthusiasm was unbounded. The popular Government candidate is conducting a vigorous campaign and his friends are rallying to his support. They should work energetically until the close of the poll on Saturday and the result will be that Mr. Northrup will be the next representative from East Hastings.

The Lennox Recount.

In consequence of the narrow majority of 31 in Mr. Wilkins favor at the recent Lennox election a recount was at once demanded in behalf of Mr. Allison, some 8 pa being held out that possibly something might turn up in connection with it of advantage to the Reform candidate. The recount of ballots took place the other day before Judge Wilkison, who gave seven of the rejected ballots to Mr. Allison, thus reducing the majority to 25. It is a slim majority, though in Lennox it is often less, on one side or the other. It is said that a protest is now being talked of. Mr. Allison is a man of wealth and not niggardly in regard to his money in political contests, as many well know, and is no doubt urged on in this matter by some who have much more to gain than loss by additional litigation, but than any good will come to him out of any such efforts is not believed. Lennox has seldom had a fairer and purer election than that of the 4th inst., and even if it is possible to void it the chances are that the other would result in another Conservative victory. The verdict recently given was a deliberate verdict of an intelligent electorate.—Kingston News.

Makes Flesh And Blood.

When the system is all run down and there seems to be no hope but speedy nourishment for the body by the ordinary process of food supply and digestion, when the body is sinking fast, then is the time to use Miller's Emulsion of pure Norwegian Cod Liver Oil. It always works wonders, because it is a flesh and blood maker, and contains all the constituents for nourishment found in whey, in fact Miller's Emulsion is a perfect "staff of life" and has saved and cured thousands. Inducements.

These dull days are what we call inducement days. It is next to impossible for any clothier or merchant to make money in the month of February. People do not want winter goods or spring goods. Still we are loaded to the muzzle with winter goods are arriving, and we need all our room. Here are the facts : Supposing clothing bought last fall is offered you at very low rates. Is it economy for you to buy such stock. It is not, but the sizes are broken, and you can get bargains in men's, boys' and youths' clothing at the Oak Hall, during this month.

SHOCKING TRAGEDY IN AN ORILLIA BARROOM.

A Shooting Gallery Proprietor While on a Spree Lodges a Bullet in the Lung of a Companion During a Wrestling Bout —The Victim May Die.

ORILLIA, Ont., Feb. 18.—The barroom of the Queen's Hotel was the scene of a shooting tragedy, by which A. B. Tudhope nearly lost his life, and William Hood lies in the lockup under a charge that may yet be murder. Hood, who came to Orillia last spring, from Streetsville, and erected a shooting gallery near the lake, was a hard-drinker, and for three days prior to the shooting had not drawn a sober breath. He was in the Queen's bar about 7 o'clock, when Tudhope came in and began chaffing him, ultimately in play throwing Hood on the floor and sitting on him. Hood suddenly turned over, whisked a 32-calibre revolver from his hip pocket, and pointing it at Tudhope's heart sent the ball on its errand.

Tudhope was carried into the sitting-room and medical aid at once summoned. The ball entered the body immediately below the heart from the back, and it is presumed lodged in the lung. To-night the wounded man is resting fairly easily in a chair, though a slight one, for his life.

Hood was placed under arrest.

THE IMPERIAL COMMONS.

Mr. Sexton Promises the Government a Lively Time.

LONDON, Feb. 18.—In the House of Commons yesterday the bill introduced by Thos. J. Condon, M.P. for East Tipperary, extending the municipal franchise in Ireland so that municipal authorities in that country will have powers similar to the same class of officials in England, passed its second reading.

The Government did not oppose the measure.

Mr. Sexton expressed regret for the absence of W. L. Jackson, Chief Secretary for Ireland, during the discussion of the first Irish bill of the session, and said Mr. Balfour's Irish Local Government bill would not be received without contest when it is introduced. He promised the Government a lively night.

John P. Nolan (member for North Galway) moved the second reading of the bill to enlarge Irish laborers' allotments and to empower local authorities to purchase land for the erection of laborers' houses.

In making the motion Mr. Nolan said the bill would enable the laborers to improve their position as they had done in the colonies and the United States.

Mr. Balfour opposed the motion. He said the bill would take the money provided by his own (Balfour's) Irish Land Purchase Act for the creation of small holdings in order to purchase cottages a very little cheaper than they could otherwise be obtained.

Mr. Balfour denied that his land act was a failure and declared that it was yet too soon to judge of its operation.

Mr. Sexton said he did not see why a small portion of the land act funds should not be devoted to the present scheme.

Mr. John E. Redmond demanded the application of the cloture, but the Speaker refused to close the debate.

The First Lord of the Treasury Addresses the Constitutional Club.

LONDON, Feb. 18.—The Constitutional Club gave a banquet to-night in honor of Mr. Arthur J. Balfour, First Lord of the Treasury.

Mr. Balfour, in a speech, said that besides their inability to define their Irish policy the Gladstonians were in a dilemma.

They had made one set of promises to the English and another set to the Irish electors. The question was: Who would be elected? Who would be the dupes? He believed that the general election would show that the patience of the English electors had been exhausted. If the Home Rule bill was carried Irish members would be so many soldiers of fortune supporting any government willing to extend the already useless limits granted by the bill to an Irish Parliament. The Gladstonians brought no pressure upon the Government to dissolve Parliament. In fact they dreaded nothing more than a return to power with a majority dependent on the Irish party.

Kulmann was sentenced originally to 14 years' penal servitude, but his term had been several times increased as a punishment for his unruly conduct while in prison.

Europe's Horrible Weather.

HE MAY RETURN.

The Liabilities of the Ottawa Broker are Reported to be Very Small.

OTTAWA, Feb. 18.—Mr. R. Machray, stock broker, the closing of whose office in Sparks street recently was reported, was written to by his manager here, Mr. W. H. Cooper, and advised to return at once. The liabilities to depositors and all others do not reach $3000, and the assets exceed that sum, consisting chiefly of notes, most of which, however, are likely ever to pan out very well. No disposition has been shown on the part of any of the creditors to make trouble, and if Mr. Machray returns he will have no difficulty in effecting a settlement and going on again.

Since he was attacked with the grip he suffered a good deal with head trouble, and as brokerage business fell off in sympathy with the depression which has prevailed he became more and more unsettled, until at last he suddenly left for New York on Monday. His business was confined almost exclusively to wheat, and he operated chiefly through Chicago houses. He did very little comparatively with New York in stocks. Mr. Cooper says he suffered some rather heavy losses with customers who were unable to meet their margins, for which he was held responsible.

Canada and the States.

Our Own Country the Best—An Emigrant who will Return.

To the Editor of the Intelligencer.

OTTUMWA, Iowa, Feb. 15, 1892.

DEAR SIR.—I would like to say a few words through your columns to the people of Ontario and Canada in general, about this country in comparison to our fair Dominion. I have now been in Iowa—one of the best States in the Union, if not the very best—for two years. Well, I have just this to say: I have been through the country a great deal, and I have not yet seen any place that can compare with Ontario. The farmers seem to be all on a par. They live in little frame houses about 14:21, and there is not one farm out of twenty that has any outbuildings—probably a little barn, and shed that don't amount to anything, and the farms are all mortgaged heavily. Sir, I can assure you that the farmers of Canada are kings in comparison with the Iowa farmers. It is a common thing for oats to sell in Iowa at 12c. a bushel, and corn at 18c. to 20cts. Wages for skilled labor are no doubt better than in Ontario, but for common hands, as also city laborers, don't get any more than they do in Ontario, and taking working men as a whole, they have nothing like as good a home as the working man in Ontario. If I had stayed in Belleville, I would have been more than $500 probably $1,000—better off to-day; but now I am in this country, I will have to make the best of it for a time, until I can go back to my dear old native country. I do hope the country will prosper. The trouble is, Canadians think the U.S. are far ahead of Canada, and so run their own country down. The Yankees don't do this; they think their country is the best, and that every boy's home a country. So, good, I would say to all the Canadian boys, stick to your country. There is not a better country on this globe than Canada, and stick to the piety that will stand by the old flag.

I hope Mr. Northrup will be elected by a good big majority, and also that the Reformers will soon see the error of their ways and unite with the Conservatives in driving this craze of annexatior from the heart of every true Canadian. I am, Sir, one of your old subscribers,

A CANADIAN.

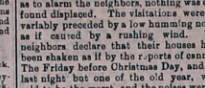

To the Editor of the Intelligencer.

DEAR SIR,—Mr. Ritchie has kindly sent from England the St. James Gazette of London, which contains an account of mysterious disturbances occurring, not in the dark ages of superstition, but in the keen light of the nineteenth century, namely so recently as last December. After a perusal it will be quite in order for any intelligent ci izen "to rise and explain" the origin and cause.

A "GHOST" AT PETERBOROUGH.

The people of Peterborough (says the Standard) are greatly disturbed by the proceedings of a "ghost." Some months ago a small house, No. 22, Mayor's walk, was taken by a railway man, named Rimes, whose family consisted of his wife, brother, wife's brother and three children. Ever since going into the house they have been subject to the most extraordinary and terrifying experiences, until they were driven from the place. A private detective, named Wright, was called in, but he, like the rest, saw him. He before the morning dawned. Whilst the inmates were in bed an invisible hand lifted the bed-clothes and threw them on the floor. The doors were shut, but with violence as to make the house tremble to the foundations. On one such occasion a door was partly broken, although Rimes was in the room and saw him. At one time a portion of the house had fallen in with a crash; another described it like a cartload of bricks being emptied in the house. The noises varied, and occasionally were like a table laden with crockery being overturned. The private detective said he heard what he imagined to be a sack of coals drawn along a landing, and then thrown down the stairs. Although the noises were so great as to alarm the neighbors, nothing was ever found displaced. The visitations were invariably preceded by a low humming noise, as if caused by a rushing wind. The neighbors declare that their houses have been shaken as if by the reports of cannon. The Friday before Christmas Day, and the last night but one of the old year, were said to be the worst. Mrs. Rimes were so hideous that several of the other houses in the vicinity were shaken, and the residents were awakened by the noise.

Polling takes place in East Simcoe for the by-election on February 25.

Although Sir Richard Cartwright was in South Victoria election for the Commons was 228. In North Victoria, Mr. Hughes' majority was 239.

The columns of the Ontario are devoted to abuse of Mr. Corby. It is refreshing to have the owner of two saloons abusing a distiller on account of his business.

Although Sir Richard Cartwright was in the city yesterday, and was to speak at Canifton, the Ontario never mentioned the circumstance. Was it ashamed of Sir Richard, or afraid that opposition would be present at the meeting which he was to address?

EASILY CAUGHT.

Croup, colds, sore throat and many painful ailments are easily caught in this changeable climate. The never-failing remedy is just as easily obtained in Hagyard's Yellow Oil, which is undoubtedly the best of all the many remedies offered for the cure of colds or pains.

Mr. Henry Graham, Wingham, writes us: "For fifteen years I have suffered with Indigestion, and during that time I got nothing to give me relief, although I tried a great many different kinds of medicine recommended for that complaint. I now feel like a new man, and this wonderful change has been accomplished by the use of four bottles of Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery. To me it has been a valuable medicine."

Love never has to be watched to see that it does a full day's work.

The Stone-Cutter of Lisbon

A NOVEL BY

WM. HENRY PECK.

CHAPTER I.

THE MARBLE YARD.

'Do you pretend,' sneered Alva, 'that a man like you has no ambition to be more than what you say you are—a stone cutter.'

'I am, I hope, ambitious to do my duty, Don Alva. The king has not more ambition to do his duty than I have to do mine. Mine is to do my duty as a stone-cutter. His should be to make his people happy as far as he can. It will all be the same in the end, Don Alva.'

'In what?'

'In death, Don Alva; and the best we all can do is our duty, whether we are stone cutters or—shall I say kings, or superintendents of marble yards, Don Alva?'

'I shall do my duty, Stonio. Nobody, or Nobody Stonio,' snapped Alva, as he winced under the thrust. 'You may depart, for if you loiter about this yard two minutes longer, I will set Fosca at your throat.'

Alva pointed at the enormous bloodhound that crouched at his feet—a fierce beast that it was, the terror of all Lisbon, though none dared molest the dog of Count Pedro D Ulloa—and added:

'So, take yourself off, my man with no name, and go to the devil with your philosophy.'

He turned on his heel as he spoke, cocking his plumed hat fiercely, and letting his hand fall upon the hilt of his rapier; for being a gentleman and officer of Count D Ulloa's household, he had the privilege of wearing sword and plume.

But Stonio arrested his steps by saying:

'I have a letter for Don Diego Alva. He may do better than not to read it.'

'A letter for me, fellow!' asked the superintendent, halting and turning again.

'Yes, from your master,' replied Stonio, with a slight curl of his lip, as he drew from the pocket of his blouse a letter addressed to 'Don Diego Alva, superintendent of the marble yards D Ulloa.'

'There was a large, pompous-looking seal upon it, which Alva instantly recognized as that of Pedro Riaz, Count D Ulloa, owner of the yard.

'Why did you not give this to me when you first spoke to me?' he asked, as he glanced at the superscription, touching his hat in respect to the absent writer.

'I hoped it would not be necessary,' replied Stonio.

'You are an unmannerly dog,' remarked Alva, as he broke the seal, 'and it is plain that you have all your life associated with beggars, or you would have bared your head in presenting the Count's letter to me. It is the same as if the noble Count were now honoring us with his presence.

'I believe it is the custom of beggars to touch their hats when they beg,' replied Stonio, coldly, though his mustache stirred as if a smile of contempt lurked beneath it. 'I am not here to beg.'

'Oh, we are an Emperor,' sneered Alva. 'What is asking for work but begging?'

'There are men who think as you do. I am sorry.'

'As unmannerly a knave as ever I saw. A perfect boor! But what says the noble Count?' mused Alva, opening the letter and glancing at its contents.

It needed but a glance to master them, for there were but seven words:

'Employ this man, Stonio, in the yards.

Diego Alva turned the letter to the right and to the left, as if he imagined more might have been written elsewhere, but he found nothing.

'Very odd. He can be nothing but a stone cutter,' he mused, again bestowing a sharp scrutiny upon the stranger. 'True he stands as erect as a soldier, and has the air of being a noble; but I have seen nobler looking men in a workman's garb than I have seen at court. I suppose I must enroll him;' and with an affectation of infinite contempt, he added.

'Well, it is the pleasure of the Count that I shall bestow upon you the honor of working in this yard. Your name?'

'Stonio.'

'Ay—so you have told me already, and I have been thinking that a suitable name for a miserable, unmannerly cur of mine at home. Henceforth that vile dog shall be called Stonio—the name will express my opinion of him. Your name being Stonio, tell me Stonio what, or what Stonio?'

'I have no other name to give. You may enroll me Stonio, the stone-cutter,' replied the stranger, calmly.

'Had I not better put you down as Stonio the Ass, or the Ass Stonio? Or shall I not put you down in gilt letters as Stonio the Emperor, or the Emperor! Bah! to have no name for so vast a personage as you evidently think yourself to be, except Stonio, is absurd.'

'You may put me down as Stonio the Devil before we part, Don Alva,' replied the stranger boldly—so boldly, and with such a flash of the eyes, that the superintendent bristled all over with rage, as he said:

'It is well for you that you are protected by the order of the Count. I may change all this when I see him. Here, if you can write, sign your name! there—your name! Ho! Ho! You have no name but Stonio—a name for a slave, or a convict, or a dog! Why, Judas Iscariot had two, and Barabbas the third; had but one.'

While Alva jeered and scoffed, the stranger calmly signed his name to the rules of the yard, in a free, bold hand, simply—'Stonio, the Stone cutter.'

Alva glanced at the name and said:

'It is plain that if you are as good a stone cutter as you are a penman, your yard is blessed. Now, sir, having signed these rules, you are under my command, and if I do not make your place too hot for you, I am a fool. Go to the left, to the hardest work in the yard. You shall load and unload the carts; you shall—you shall—'

'I shall do no more than my duty, Don Alva,' interrupted the stranger. 'I know not why you have conceived to dislike me, and a resolution not to give me the right of every man—the right to labor. Your master, D Ulloa, conceived the same strange antipathy to me.'

'Did he?' exclaimed the superintendent, plainly delighted beyond measure; for if the count also disliked the penniless man stranger, he, Alva, could go any length in venting his spleen upon him.

'But if so, why did he give you this order? Answer, fellow, or like you, and so much of an emperor—God save all such emperors—could not have stooped to beg—of course not.'

'No; I gave him a letter, an order from his master, as I gave you one from yours,' replied Stonio.

'His master! The Count's master! You are a fool. The Count has no master except the king,' sneered Alva, but pausing as Stonio drew from the same pocket that had contained the Count's letter another letter, with the royal arms of Portugal still recognizable upon the broken seal, and addressed to Don Pedro, Conde D'Ulloa.'

'The seal of King Jose!' said Alva, talking his hat entirely off his head, and bowing as lowly as if the Portuguese monarch was there present to smile upon his slavish obeisance.

'But why do you not bare your head, young man! A letter from the king. Unfortunate simpleton! you should bare your head when a letter of His Most Catholic Majesty is near you.'

'I should have caught cold, then, for the letter has been in my pocket for some time,' laughed Stonio.

'Young man,' said Diego Alva, 'where were you born?'

'Where we do not intend to have a king, unless he is more careful of the rights of the people, Don Alva,' promptly replied Stonio.

'And where is that?'

'In the Colonies.'

'The Colonies! What! are they connecting themselves in the Four Aqueos colonies?'

'I spoke of the English colonies. Some day, and I hope before I die, they will be a republic. But read the king's letter and let me go to my work.'

'Was there ever such a fellow as this!' mused Diego Alva. 'He carries in the pocket of his coarse blouse letters of kings and counts as if they were fit only to be made into lamp-lighters.'

(To be Continued.)

DEAR SIRS,—About a year ago I had a very bad attack of dyspepsia. For nearly four months I never ate a meal without suffering pain after. I had got so weak I could scarcely walk, when one day I saw an advertisement for B.B.B.; and thought I would try a bottle. Four bottles cured me completely, and I am now strong and healthy.

IMPERIAL PARLIAMENT.

THE IRISH LOCAL GOVERNMENT BILL INTRODUCED.

The French Cabinet Resign in a Body—A Husband Avenges His Honor by Deliberately Shooting Down His Wife's Betrayer—General Cable News.

LONDON, Feb. 19.—The Irish Local Government Bill was introduced in the House of Commons yesterday by Mr. Balfour amid the cheers of the Government supporters.

Mr. Balfour said ever since the formation of the present Government and even before the extension of local government to every part of the United Kingdom had been a cardinal point of the Conservative policy. That intention had been constantly adhered to and reiterated since by the Government. They had introduced local government bills for England and Scotland. If they had not done the same for Ireland it must have been because great specific and obvious dangers attended such a course.

The present bill was not merely a county councils bill, but it was what in England would be described as a district and counties' bill.

Baronial Councils.

By its provisions administrative duties will be given to Baronial Councils, leaving wholly untouched the judicial duties now entrusted to the grand jury. The members of the County and Baronial Councils will be elected every three years.

The Government proposed following the Scotch rather than English measure in the matter of electors. There undoubtedly existed a large body of people in Ireland who dreaded a measure of this kind. It was only due to those persons to examine the fear they entertained. They feared the new system would result in extravagance and possible corruption. They were afraid they would be plundered and oppressed by the new bodies. Mr. Balfour did not think there was any weight in these arguments but which would not stand the brunt of hostile criticism.

In the first county councils there would be four ex-officio members—the lieutenant, the tenant of the county, the sheriff, a nominee of the grand jury and a nominee of the presentment session.

The qualifications of voters for county councilmen and baronial councilmen would be identical. The persons entitled to vote for both sets of officers would be the same as those having the right to vote for members of Parliament, except that the former would include also women and peers. [Laughter.]

Illiterate persons and persons who did not pay county taxes would have no vote.

Regeneration Not Guaranteed.

Mr. Balfour spoke for one hour and 40 minutes. He said in conclusion that he did not pretend the bill would regenerate Ireland, but he sincerely thought the Irish ratepayer had a right to claim the same measure as was granted to the ratepayer in England and Scotland. He therefore recommended the bill to the favorable attention of the House.

John Morley (Liberal) strongly objected to the bill and asked the Government to defer to the country on the measure.

The Chronicle, in an article on Balfour's speech at the Constitutional Club's banquet last night, appeals to Gladstone to make a definite declaration as to whether he intends to sustain Irish representation at Westminster as part of his Irish policy. If he does so this portion of the Irish program, in the opinion of The Chronicle, although it may result in a temporary revolt on the part of the Irish members of Parliament, will practically unite his party, and take the sting out of the attacks of the Unionists.

Only a Rotten Reed.

John Morley characterized the bill as "the rottenest reed the Irish minority had ever leant on for the retention of privileges." He declared that the measure was framed in absolute distrust of the Irish people. In fact on the assumption that they were "debased helots."

The whole opposition broke forth into cheers when Mr. Morley called on the Government to go before the country on the measure.

Justin McCarthy in the course of his remarks advised the Government to burn the bill declaring that the Nationalists would reject it as an "unclean thing."

Mr. Healy said he never knew of a more contemptible bill. It was an absolute failure, he said, and died in the mouth of its proposer.

Harcourt Calls it an Insult.

Sir William Vernon Harcourt said that a bill mer insulting to the Irish he could not conceive of. It bore the stamp of Mr. Chamberlain, who was the "mother" of the bill. Sir William ridiculed the idea of a county council of tried judges. Mr. Balfour denied that the bill was insulting to Ireland. The Opposition speeches, he said, showed the insincerity of the cry for local government for Ireland. If, owing to obstruction the present bill should not be passed, local government for Ireland would be indefinitely postponed. The only reason why the Irish parties should obstruct the bill was that it contained measures to stop corruption and oppression. The only inference was that they desired to make something out of the concession.

At this the whole Opposition joined in crying "Shame, shame!" while the Conservatives cheered.

Mr. Joseph Chamberlain denied that he had assisted in the work of framing the bill. He said that he approved of the manner in which the Government had redeemed its pledges. The safeguards introduced in the bill in regard to corruption were those that the Americans, the most democratic people in the world, had introduced into their constitution.

The bill passed the first reading and Mr. Balfour fixed the second reading for March 3.

Dangerous Counterfeits.

Counterfeits are always dangerous, more so that they always closely IMITATE THE ORIGINAL IN APPEARANCE AND NAME. The remarkable success achieved by Nasal Balm as a positive cure for Catarrh and Cold in the head has induced unprincipled parties to imitate it. The public are cautioned not to be deceived by nostrums imitating Nasal Balm in name and appearance, bearing such names as Nasal Cream, Nasal Balsam, etc. Ask for Nasal Balm and do not take any imitation dealers may urge upon you. KNIGHTS of LABOR.

The Knights of Labor aim to protect their members against financial difficulties, etc., Hayyard's Yellow Oil aims to allay all pain from the effects of cold and exposure, such as rheumatism, neuralgia, lumbago, sore throat, and all inflammatory pain. Nothing compares with it as a handy pain cure for man and beast.

For coughs, colds, bronchitis and all lung and throat troubles, there is no preparation of medicine can compare with Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup. It never fails, but affords prompt and permanent relief. It removes all soreness, and heals the diseased parts. It immediately soothes the most irritable cough, and by promoting expectoration, removes the mucus which stops up the air tubes which causes difficulty in breathing. It gives relief to that oppressive tightness experience in the chest. Public speakers and singers will find Bickle's Anti Consumptive Syrup of inestimable value, as it speedily and effectually allays all irritation, and hoarseness in the throat and bronchial tubes, and gives power to the vocal cords, rendering the voice clear and sonorous. If parents wish to save the lives of their children, and thereby prevent much anxiety, trouble and expense let them procure a bottle of Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup, and whenever a child has taken cold, has a cough or hoarseness, give the Syrup according to directions.

Our heaviest burdens are those we borrow.

Do you feel as though your friends had all deserted you, business calamities overwhelmed you, your body refusing to perform its duties, and even the sun had taken refuge behind a cloud? Then use Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery, and hope will return and despondency disappear. Mr. R. H. Baker, Ingoldsby, writes: "I am completely cured of Dyspepsia that caused me great suffering for three years. Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery is the medicine that effected the cure after trying many other medicines."

Much doing is not so important as well doing.

Fever and Ague and bilious derangements are positively cured by the use of Parmelee's Pills. They not only cause the stomach and bowels, and all blood impurities to be thrown out, but excretory vessels, causing them to pour copious effusions from the blood into the bowels, after which the system is left in a healthy and natural passage of the body. They are used as a general family medicine with the best results.

The man who doesn't believe in God lives that way.

A. M. Hamilton, Warkworth, writes.—"For weeks I was troubled with a swelled ankle, which caused me much pain and annoyance. Mr. Mayhee, of this place, recommended Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil. I tried it, and before one bottle was used I was cured. It is an article of great value."

The religion cannot be right where the morals are wrong.

Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator is pleasant to take, sure and effectual in destroying worms. Many have tried it with best results.

For Over Fifty Years

MRS WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP has been used for children teething. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, cures wind colic, and is the best remedy for Diarrhœa. Twenty-five cents a bottle. Sold by all druggists throughout the world.

BOB FORD SHOT.

The Murderer of Jesse James Killed in a Colorado Mining Town.

PUEBLO, Feb. 19.—Bob Ford was shot dead in a saloon at the new mining town of Creede, Col.

Bob and Charley Ford, under the direction of Gov. Crittenden of Missouri, shot and killed Jesse James on April 10, 1882. They had been implicated in a train robbery and fled to Nashville, where they lived with Jesse James for several months.

The Fords appeared in a dime museum for several months after the tragedy, and eventually drifted West, where Charley Ford two years ago died of consumption. Bob went to the mining town of Creede, Col., where he to-day met his death.

Geographical Don'ts.

Don't say or write Austro-Hungary. The best writers prefer Austria-Hungary.

Don't call the Chinese "Mongolians." It is better to reserve that latter name for the people who live north of China proper.

Don't speak of a native of China as a Chinaman. You would not say that you had an Ireland man digging in your garden. It is better to call John a Chinese.

Don't, please don't, say that New York City is located on Manhattan Island. Such a misuse of the verb "to locate" is trying to the nerves of the true Geographers. Say New York City is situated on Manhattan Island.

Don't speak of China as our Antipodes. Our Antipodes is the point on the other side of the world, reached by a straight line passing through the place on which we stand and the centre of the earth. Our Antipodes is in the ocean southwest of Australia.

Don't forget that Oriental names ending in "an" have the accent almost invariably on the last syllable, as Teheran, Beloochistan.

Don't make the mistake some people do of thinking the word "alluvium" to be synonymous with "soil." Only those soils which are the result of the deposition of sediment by running water can be properly called alluvial soils.

Don't, for mercy's sake, say "The Smithsonian Institute." The name is the Smithsonian Institution.—Geographical Magazine.

Her Heart on the Wrong Side.

OTTAWA, Feb. 19.—The Grand Lodge of the A.O.U.W. elected the following officers yesterday morning: F. G. Inwood, Toronto, Grand Master; D. F. MacWatt, Grand Foreman; J. W. Unitt, Toronto, Grand Overseer; J. M. Carder, St. Thomas, Grand Recorder; S. Godwin, Ottawa, Grand Guard. The delegates waited on Lord Stanley this afternoon.

European Famines.

In 1016 an awful famine raged throughout all Europe, and again from 1193 to 1195, when complete crop failures caused terrible suffering. In England and France the people ate the flesh of dogs and cats, and many cases of cannibalism were recorded. During the latter three years thousands upon thousands perished from starvation.

BELLEVILLE, FRIDAY, FEB. 19

TURN OUT TO-MORROW.

It is the duty of every supporter of the present Government who possesses the franchise in East Hastings to go to the polls to-morrow, and cast his ballot for W. B. Northrup.

There can be no doubt of Mr. Northrup's election if all his supporters poll their votes, but carelessness born of over confidence has caused many surprising results. Let it not be said in the future that East Hastings was lost in such a way. Therefore we urge Mr. Northrup's friends to do their whole duty, and give him the largest majority possible.

AN ELOQUENT SILENCE.

Mr. Laurier, the titular leader of the Grit party, having recovered from his recent indisposition, has ventured into Ontario, and is now addressing public meetings in the interest of certain of his supporters who are fighting a desperate battle for the recovery of the seats in Parliament of which they were deprived by the election courts, because of bribery and corruption practiced in behalf of "the party of purity." Mr. Laurier having failed to dissociate himself from Mr. Mercier and his gang of boodlers, although such eminent Liberals as ex-Speaker Marchand, G. W. Stephens, P. B. Casgrain, Dr. Cameron, M.P.P., and hundreds of others have done so, the Globe finds it necessary to whitewash the head of its party. The following is the best that it can offer in his defence:

The Empire charges that $124,000 was used by Mr. Mercier to aid the Liberals in the Federal elections. While that is no evidence that any such sum was expended, the fact that Pacaud did supply funds for the election of Liberals in Quebec is not open to denial; nor is the fact that a large portion of the money which Pacaud used was filched from the treasury of Quebec; but the attempt to connect Mr. Laurier with these infamous transactions is bound to fail, as it deserves to fail. It is not only that there is not a tittle of evidence that Mr. Laurier knew that money had been wrongly obtained from the public treasury used in the elections, but the character and conduct of the man give the lie to such an accusation. Let his enemies make the charge explicitly and have it inquired into. We are convinced that the more searching is the ordeal through which Mr. Laurier has to pass the higher he will stand in the estimation of the Canadian people.

That the election of Liberals in Quebec was purchased with money stolen by Mercier and Pacaud from the treasury of the province is candidly confessed by our contemporary; but its plea in defence of Mr. Laurier is a mere assertion of his lack of knowledge of the corruption which was practiced on his behalf. If so, he was an incompetent and unfit to be charged with the conduct of public affairs. What is this defence worth in face of the organ's condemnation of Sir Hector Langevin as incompetent because public money was stolen from his department by cunning thieves? Is incompetence to be excused in Mr. Laurier and condemned in Sir Hector?

The Globe's excuse does not cover the ground. "He who does a thing by the agency of another, does it himself."

After the interim report of two of the commissioners in the Baie des Chaleurs inquiry had been presented, Mr. Laurier made a speech at Quebec, in the course of which he said:

"The duty of the people at present was, therefore, in his opinion, to vindicate their constitutional privileges by choosing, and sustaining in every constituency candidates opposed to Mr. Angers, and when the constitution has been vindicated then would the accused of to-day be weighed in the balance and if found wanting set aside, and the Liberal party in the province reconstituted. He was loth, however, to believe all that was said against Mr. Mercier and his friends."

This was Mr. Laurier's last utterance on the subject. The subsequent exposures, which directly implicated Mercier in the theft of the public funds, of which he was the custodian, have not drawn one word from him. While Messrs. Marchand, Casgrain and other leading Liberals, shocked by these revelations, have publicly denounced their former leader; while the Globe, the Montreal Witness and the Grit press of Ontario, with few exceptions, have been condemning the boodlers, Mr. Laurier has maintained an eloquent silence.

Are the honest Reformers satisfied with the silence of the leader of their party under such circumstances? If so, we have no reason, from a party point of view, to complain.

Note the Difference.

One difference between the Grit party and the Tory party is seen in this annexation business. When a Tory becomes an annexationist—as, for instance, Sol White—the Tory party promptly repudiates him. He cannot be a Tory and an annexationist. When a Grit becomes an annexationist—as, for instance, Ed. Farrer—the Grit party does not repudiate him. He can be a good Grit and an annexationist at the same time.—Hamilton Spectator.

WIT AND HUMOR

Where to Find His Father.

He Was the Bearded Lady in a New York Museum.

In a certain New York public school there was a particularly bad youngster, who, for convenience purposes may be known as Smith, says the Youth's Companion. A peculiarity attached to Smith was, that he seemed to have no home, and although the other boys frequently trailed him in the most approved detective fashion, they could never succeed in locating the Smithonian domicile.

The same cloud of mystery which enveloped Smith's house enshrouded his family. He never spoke of them, and as far as appearances went was a lonesome boy without kith or kin, so the belief soon became general that there was a terrible secret hidden away somewhere in Smith's past.

One day during the morning session the mysterious youth in a spirit of unwonted sportiveness caused his desk-mate acute personal discomfort through the medium of a pin bent in the traditional manner. He was taken red-handed and hauled before the principal. "Smith," remarked the august personage, "you will have to take a letter from me to your father at once, informing him of your bad behavior. Where can he be found?"

He of the bent pin answered with a wail of despair:

"One second to tell me or——" and the principal pointed to the nice new tablet.

"I can't tell you out loud," howled Smith, "an' I won't; I don't care if you do lick me."

"Then you may whisper it."

The principal inclined his ear and Smith gasped therein the single line:

"Pa's a bearded lady in a dime museum."

The skeleton had escaped from the closet.

Didn't Know the Size.

Among the many interesting incidents connected with closing of the saloons in Kittanning, Pa., says an exchange, a leading merchant tells the following:

A woman came into his store timidly. She was evidently unaccustomed to trading.

"What can I do for you?" inquired the merchant.

"I want a pair of shoes for a little girl," she answered.

"What number?"

"She is twelve years old."

"But what number does she wear?"

"I don't know."

"But what number did you buy when you bought the last pair for her?"

"She never had a pair in her life. You see, sir, her father used to drink when we had saloons, but now that they are closed he don't drink any more, and this morning he said to me:

"'Mother, I want you to go down town to day and get Sissy a pair of shoes, for she never had a pair in her life. I thought, sir, if I told you how old she was you would know what size to give me.'

HIS CROSS.

Irate Father—Get out of my sight; you lazy good-for nothing idiot!

Son—A-w—what's a-well for you to talk that—aw—vulgah way to me—me whom you have disgwaced in fashionable society all my life.

Father (indignantly)—Disgraced you, you fool, how?

Son (sobbing)—By—by—a c-m pal log me to be supported by—a-w—man—who has had to—a-w—work for his money.

AN EXPLANATION.

Col. Yerger—I believe I am getting the dropsy.

Judge Peterby—Why, what put that idea in your head?

"I got weighed to-day, and I weighed three hundred pounds."

"Great St. George! Where did you get weighed?"

"Around at a coal-yard."

"Calm yourself. Your weight is exactly one hundred and fifty pounds."

DISPROOF.

She—Do you believe man becomes what he eats?

He—No. I've known many a man to eat Welsh rare-bits who never became quite the cheese.

A PROMISE.

"I shall go right home to my mother, Hudson Hicks. I saw you kissing Mrs. Habberton-Browne in the conservatory."

"It was only a sisterly kiss, my dear."

"She is not your sister."

"Yes, she is—that is, she promised to be one to me, years ago."

THE COLORADO WAY.

So poor Bill Stubbs is dead! said a man on the train the other day.

Yes, I understand so. Where did it occur? in Colorado.

Did you learn any of the particulars?

Nothing, except that he died a natural death.

Is that so? Why, I was told that he was knocked down on the street and had the life beaten out of him.

Well, that's what they call a natural death in Colorado now.

THE AMERICAN INFANT.

"Pa, tell me a nice story."

"Shall I tell you a ghost story, Jimmie?"

"No, pa, I don't want to hear any ghost story. I haven't believed in ghosts since I was a child. Tell me all about the latest scandal in high life, and all that sort of thing."

A COLUMN OF POLITICS.

THE ELECTION CASES BEFORE THE SUPREME COURT.

Judgment Reserved in the Grand Trunk Ticket Affair—Mr. German Has the Man Who Had Him Disqualified Arrested for Perjury—Mercier Holds a Monster Meeting.

MONTREAL, Feb. 19.—Mercier held a monster rally in Bonsecours Hall last night, fully 1000 people being present. Mercier devoted himself in great part to an attack on Ontario. He charged that his present position was owing to the malevolence of the Toronto Orangemen and bigots, who were seeking to destroy the champion of Quebec nationalism.

"But," he said, "I am a child of the people, a child of the soil, and never while there is blood in me will I fail to shed it in defence of my country and my race."

Several times he was asked about the Baie des Chaleur scandal and the letters of credit, but only deigned an answer to one question, replying that the whole series of charges was a fabrication of servants of Ontario and Orange tools.

It is expected that the case will Sunday at least on the following Sunday the bishops will issue another fulmination more directly condemnatory of Mercier than they have hitherto done.

Mercier Interviewed.

In an interview with a reporter yesterday Mercier expressed the utmost jubilation at the findings of the Jette minority reports. Among other things he said: "There is no doubt but that if the report of Judge Jette had been given with the interim report of his two colleagues, Mr. Angers would not have dared to dismiss me and, therefore, if Mr. Angers had waited, as it was his duty, for the report we would have avoided the actual crisis, the actual election and the imminent exposure that they are going to bring on the province. The three commissioners were imposed upon me by Mr. Angers. There was no choice, and he would not listen to any objection that I made at the time against Mr. Davidson. He himself (Mr. Angers) appointed the president, Mr. Jette, thinking justly, I believe, that he was the proper party to preside over the tribunal, though Judge Baby of the Queen's Bench, and therefore of a superior court to that of Mr. Jette, was in the commission. These facts, coupled with the general respect and consideration enjoyed by Mr. Jette, and the fact that he has been out of politics for nearly 15 years, and that when in politics he was considered a very moderate and impartial politician, must give to his report great weight and settle forever, in a manner satisfactory to my friends and myself, this pretended scandal of the Baie des Chaleurs Railway invented by my opponents in the Senate to kill politically my party and myself.

Wants British Fair Play.

"I hope that my friends will be more encouraged than ever to favor further the triumph of our cause, and that my opponents, who are not my personal enemies but only political opponents, will admit that I am the victim of an unfair and unjust conspiracy, and that on the whole I have not received that British fair play to which I was entitled and that I never refused to any of my opponents."

The general unbiased opinion about the Jette report here is one of unfeigned regret that so good a man could have been dragged into the mire which surrounds Mercier.

Richelieu Protested.

SOREL, Que., Feb. 19.—Mr. E. A. D. Morgan has contested the return of A. A. Bruneau, recently elected in Richelieu. The papers and deposit were filed yesterday.

OTTAWA, Feb. 19.—In the Supreme Court this morning W. R. Riddell, Cobourg, who appeared on behalf of Mr. Hargraft, Liberal M.P. for West Northumberland, made a motion to have the appeal of Mr. Hargraft restored to the list. It will be remembered that on Tuesday last this appeal, which is made by Mr. Hargraft against the lower court unseating him, was dismissed by the Supreme Court owing to the counsel for Mr. Hargraft not being present in the court when the appeal was called.

Mr. Osler objected to reinstating the case.

Chief Justice Ritchie: As far as I am concerned, and I speak for myself only, I refuse to reinstate the case on the list. "You had a right (addressing counsel) to be here to attend to your case. I have propounded from my seat here that it is a great contempt to the court for counsel to be absent when their cases are called, and the other day I positively refused, notwithstanding that we had frequently done so in the past, to restore a case similarly treated as this one has been."

The other justices agreed with the chief justice, and therefore the judgment dismissing the appeal with costs, already given, was allowed to stand.

This unseats Mr. Hargraft and declares West Northumberland vacant, as provided by the judgment of the lower court.

Mr. Garrow, Q.C., concluded his argument in behalf of Mr. Grieve, M.P., North Perth.

Mr. Osler, Q.C., replied for Mr. Campbell, who appeals against the judgment of the court below, giving the seat to Grieve.

Judgment reserved.

The appeal of William German, ex-M.P. for Welland, against his disqualification was next proceeded with. Mr. Cassels, Q.C., appeared for Mr. German and Mr. Blackstock for M. Rothrey, the respondent.

The argument was concluded and judgment reserved.

The case of Peers v. Elliott, the first case on the Maritime Province list, was afterwards argued.

WELLAND, Feb. 19.—Joe B. Woods of Niagara Falls was yesterday arrested on a charge of perjury and brought here this afternoon.

The charge is laid in connection with evidence given by Woods at the late election protest trial here, it being mainly on his evidence that Mr. German was disqualified.

Up to a late hour no bail had been secured and Woods will probably be committed to jail.

A DOMESTIC'S REVENGE.

Young Girl Sent to the Mercer for Burning Her Employer's Barn.

WHITBY, Feb. 19.—Before Judge Dartnell a girl of 14 years named Eliza Ann Berry was charged with incendiarism. This girl was taken from an industrial home in Toronto by a farmer near Greenwood, Brock, named Obed E. Bagshaw. She was to remain an inmate of his house during her minority. A few days ago Mrs. Bagshaw scolded the girl for some misconduct and shortly afterwards the latter slipped out with some matches and set Mr. Bagshaw's barn on fire. In the conflagration which ensued about $6000 worth of property was lost, including among other things 56 head of cattle. The girl admitted having committed the crime and appeared to be quite hardened. The judge sentenced her to two years in the Mercer Reformatory.

AVENGED HIS FAMILY HONOR.

A Husband Shoots His Wife's Betrayer Dead.

CANNES, Feb. 19.—Edward Parker Deacon, a native of the United States and a prominent member of the American colony, last night shot and killed a Frenchman named Abeille, and thus avenged to the death the disgrace and infamy brought upon him and his children by his wife and her lover.

Mr. Deacon and his wife have been sojourning for some little time past at Hotel Splendide, one of the fashionable hostelries of the place. With them were their four children.

A Wife's Dishonor.

Deacon suspected that his wife was unduly familiar with Mr. Abeille, who was connected with the French diplomatic service, and he kept a close though unobserved watch upon both.

At midnight last night Deacon, who was in his room, heard a peculiar noise in his wife's room, which was immediately beneath his own. His suspicions were at once awakened and he descended the stairs and listened at the door of his wife's room. He heard her talking and then he heard the voice of a man replying to her. In a moment suspicion became a certainty, and Mr. Deacon realized that his wife had betrayed and disgraced him.

He dashed up the stairs to his room and procured a loaded revolver. Then, with a feeling of pathetic misery, he bent over the bed wherein were sleeping his innocent little children and impressed upon their foreheads the last kiss of his happy days. The sight of them steeled him in his determination to avenge the wrong that their mother had placed upon them.

The Act of Vengeance.

Leaving his children asleep, Deacon aroused the secretary of the hotel and the two proceeded to Mrs. Deacon's room and rapped at the door. Mrs. Deacon was alone and appeared surprised at the visit.

Entering an adjoining room Deacon discovered Abeille crouched behind an armchair, attempting to hide.

Deacon levelled his revolver at the shrinking and thoroughly frightened man and taking deliberate aim fired three shots at him.

Two of the bullets struck Abeille, one taking effect in his arm and the other in his chest.

The noise of the shots alarmed the people in the house and for a time the greatest excitement prevailed. The wounded man was carried to his own room and doctors were summoned. They, however, could do nothing for him except to alleviate his pain, and at 11 o'clock this morning he died.

Mr. Deacon was at once placed under arrest, but it is the general opinion among the American residents here that he did "just the right thing."

Belonged to Boston.

BOSTON, Feb. 1.—But little is known here of Edward Parker Deacon, who shot his wife's paramour in Cannes, France, today. His father, Edward Deacon, was many years ago a wealthy citizen of Boston, and his grandfather was Commodore Deacon of the U.S. Navy.

FRENCH MINISTRY RESIGN.

President Carnot Has the Resignations of All His Confreres.

PARIS, Feb. 19.—All the members of the French Ministry have handed their resignations to President Carnot.

The cause of the resignation of the ministry was the action of the Chamber of Deputies in connection with the bill dealing with associations. This afternoon M. Hubbard demanded urgency for the bill as a reply to the attitude of the French bishops. M. De Cassagnac described the bill as an iniquitous measure.

Premier De Freycinet denied that the measure was intended as an act of persecution of the church or that it need be regarded as a precursor of the separation of church and state. He warmly commended the conciliatory spirit of the Pope, who, he said, often gave evidence of sympathetic sentiments toward France. He continued, "We will doubtless be called upon some day to treat with the Vatican on the religious question. A portion of the clergy may possibly refuse to enter upon the path pointed out to them, but universal suffrage will judge between the two policies."

In conclusion M. DeFreycinet gave his assent to the demand for urgency, though he said that he would not give the measure the significance that M. Hubbard desired.

An excited discussion ensued on M. Hubbard's motion. Finally M. De Freycinet again arose and demanded that an order of the day be moved indicating the views of the chamber on the subject.

In accordance with Premier's demand M. Boisserin moved that the Government be required to continue its republican policy.

M. De Freycinet accepted the motion and intimated that he considered it a Cabinet question.

The vote of the chamber being taken, M. Boisserin's motion was rejected by 304 to 202.

The ministers recognizing their defeat immediately left the House in a body.

The chamber then rejected the urgency motion by a vote of 286 to 246.

The crisis which was completely unforseen when the Chamber met was brought about by a coalition of Radicals and members of the Right. The division revealed a Radical strength of 191 votes, which will not suffice to constitute a government majority. Hence it is agreed on all sides that the formation of a new ministry will be a most difficult task.

He Took Laudanum.

TORONTO, Feb. 19.—About 6 o'clock last evening P. C. Bell saw a man acting in a rather peculiar manner in the Esplanade and in order to remove him from harm's way had him conveyed to Headquarters. Here he gave his name as John Henderson. On his person was found a ticket from Parkdale to Belleville and a bottle of laudanum, a small portion of which had been consumed. He was taken to the hospital and may recover.

Death of Inspector Grimo.

TORONTO, Feb. 19.—Mr. Gilbert Elliott Griffin died yesterday in the Seaside from an attack of typhoid fever. The deceased, who was in his 72nd year, was postoffice inspector of the London district for over 40 years. He was afterward removed to Kingston in a similar capacity. He was highly esteemed, by all who knew him. The interment will take place at Kingston

Well-Known Captain Dead.

ORILLIA, Feb. 19.—Captain Archie Kerr died to-day of pneumonia. For 40 years he sailed on the lakes and was well known in every port from Kingston to Midland.

RECIPROCITY CONFERENCE.

The Washington Negotiations Made the Subject of an Enquiry in the British House of Commons.

LONDON, Feb. 19.—Mr. Jennings, member for Stockport, asked in the House of Commons yesterday if the Government had any information concerning a conference at Washington between Mr. Blaine and the Canadian commissioners to arrange a basis for a reciprocity agreement whether they had arrived at an agreement, and if it was true that Sir Julian Pauncefote, the British Minister at Washington, had assured the commissioners that Lord Salisbury would favorably consider any reasonable request of the commissioners.

Mr. Lowther, Parliamentary Secretary of the Foreign Office, in reply said that such a meeting had occurred. Mr. Blaine had previously stipulated that the meeting should be informal. Mr. Lowther had no reason to suppose that Sir Julian Pauncefote had given the commissioners the assurance Mr. Jennings had referred to.

In conclusion, Mr. Lowther said he did not know whether or not an agreement had been arrived at.

A LETTER FROM A LEADING PICTON LAWYER.

C. B. SCANTLEBURY, Esq., Belleville.

DEAR SIR,—We have used the combination you suggested and are much pleased with the effect.

You will have received this morning some of the paper you sent on approval. We could not send it back earlier, as we thought we might have to use part of it.

We are much obliged for the trouble taken and for your promptness throughout. It seems extremely likely that our order will be followed up by some of our friends in the spring, if not now, as the rooms have been much admired and the papers are much prettier than can be bought here for the same price.

By the way one of the samples has been retained at the request of a friend who contemplates papering. You may or may not hear from this. In the meantime if you should want the sample it can be returned at any time.

Yours truly,

etc.

NOTE.—The above letter is one of the results of our Mail Order system. The papers used were our own suggestions.

No matter where you live, whether between here and Vancouver to the west, or Halifax to the east, we can paper your rooms as well as if you were here in our warerooms and made a personal selection.

THE room in which a number of friends pass the evening smoking either cigars or Imperial Tobacco will have an unpleasant odor next morning. Let the same friends smoke only the "Myrtle Navy" and they will find quite a difference in the room next morning. If it is reasonably ventilated, as with a fire place for instance, no unpleasantness whatever will be found. The purity and fine quality of the leaf used is the reason of this.

Council Meeting.

A special meeting of the City Council was held last evening, presided over by Mayor Bogart. The object of the meeting was to pass a by-law, transferring the city's bank account from the Bank of Commerce to the Bank of Montreal, and also to borrow $40,000 until the taxes are collected. This was the only business transacted.

A Small Fire.

Shortly after midnight last night Officer Stoneberg discovered a fire in a shed in rear of the Gibson House. He succeeded in extinguishing the blaze before much damage was done and without calling out the brigade. It was caused by ashes being placed in a barrel. His vigilance was no doubt the cause of much valuable property being saved.

A Serious Charge.

Robert Slavin was charged before the Police Magistrate this morning with a serious offence, namely seduction. The complainants are friends of Emma Bashaw, a young woman under twenty-one years of age and an imbecile. The case is still in progress as we go to press. The prosecution was conducted by Messrs. L. H. Henderson and J. F. Wills, whilst the accused was defended by Mr. W. J. Diamond.

Last night's average at the gallery was "way up." Only eight men shot in the match, but of those but one scored below 60, which means that each of these competitors' every shot averaged less than one inch from the centre of the bulls eye. Mr. S. W. Vermilyea beat the record of successive tens with four of them in succession. The scores were as follows:

The game in the afternoon between the Toronto Granites and the Peterborough club was an interesting one, finally resulting in a victory for the latter by 6 shots, they thus securing the tankard. The local curlers returned home last night.

A Pious Cuss.

Mr. Van Horne's Colored Man Apologizes to the Hon. Edward Blake.

(Winnipeg Free Press)

W. C. Van. Horne, president of the C.P.R., has had experiences which supply him with a stock of high grade stories. This is one of his favorites. He has in the colored porter who goes wherever Mr. Van Horne goes. He always travels in the president's car, and from ocean to ocean is known to railway men as "Van Horne's nigger." His one weakness is that he is prone to profanity under provocation. Knowing this, Mr. Van Horne took him aside when Hon. Edward Blake first went out as the C.P.R. counsel in the president's car.

"Look here, Pete," said Mr. Van Horne, "Mr. Blake is a deeply religious man, and if you swear in his presence you will smell trouble."

"I'll remember, sah," said the porter, and the interview ended.

And he did remember. The brother in black was unusually select in his choice of words until Winnipeg was reached. At that point he was working beside an open window while the car was being washed. The man outside handled the nozzle on the hose carelessly and a stream of water shot through the window and hit the porter right in the centre of his intellectual countenance.

How he did swear. He had exhausted his entire stock of strong language before he remembered the President's injunction. He looked around, hoping to find that Mr. Blake was not within hearing distance. Mr. Blake was there, so was Mr. Van Horne. Both of them were lying down screaming with laughter over the luckless porter. A sight of their mirth encouraged the porter to believe that all remembrance of his bad language was laughed off. As soon as Mr. Van Horne was able to speak a serious face he told the porter he would have to apologize to Mr. Blake. The porter promised, but forgot, and the next day the president went to him again.

"Apologised yet, Peter?"

"No, sah, but I'se gwine——"

"This thing has gone far enough. You have got to apologize and do it now, or there will be trouble."

The rest of the story is told by Mr. Van Horne as Mr. Blake told it to him. "The porter," said the great lawyer, "shuffled in and said he, 'Mistah Blake I used some very bad language yesterday in your hearin' the other day, I'se very sorry for it. I might a' known better, I might a' known better for Mistah Van Horne tole me on the run in that you was a pious cuss."

THE MISSING CURATE.

REV. MR. MARTIN WAS INDEED A GAY DECEIVER.

The Secret of the Departure of the Curate of Christ Church, Chatham, Beginning to Crop Out—Why He Failed to Marry the Young Ladies to Whom He Was Engaged.

CHATHAM, Feb. 19.—The developments in the case of Rev. N. H. Martin, curate of Christ Church, who so mysteriously disappeared on Monday morning last, serve to show that the charitable construction placed upon his departure was misplaced, and that as long ago as six or seven years he had taken advantage of one of the three women to whom he was engaged to be married and that it was to avoid the exposure of his sin that he so suddenly decamped.

It will be recollected that one of the women to whom he was engaged was Miss Sarah Bonet, and it was to this young lady he gave the extraordinary note published yesterday agreeing to marry her on Feb. 15 and giving her full possession and ownership of all the furniture and contents of his house.

How the Singular Deed Was Made.

A sister of Miss Bonet, Mrs. George Rudling, who resides in Princess street, let the cat out of the bag. When interviewed she explained that Rev. Mr. Martin had repeatedly promised to marry her sister. The wedding was fixed upon originally for Feb. 8, and the supper was prepared and everything in shape for the wedding but Martin failed to show up. In a day or two he was hunted up, and in the presence of the girl, her sister and latter's husband said he was sorry he had been obliged to disappoint Sarah Monday, but would marry her for sure on the 15th.

Mrs. Rudling continued: "Give us a writing about the stuff in the house if it belongs to Sarah," said she, "and I'll be satisfied." And Mr. Martin said, "Certainly, and also that I'll marry Sarah." He then sat down and wrote the paper you talk of. No, there is no truth that she ever got a writ for damages for seduction against him. I will admit that she had a baby seven or eight years ago, but who is of course I don't know. But I know for a good while she has been true to Mr. Martin, feeling he would marry her.

Other Matrimonial Engagements.

The other young ladies to whom the curate engaged himself were Miss E. Kitchen and Miss Delmage, and in the houses of the parents of both these estimable young ladies every preparation had been made for the wedding, the date agreed upon with Miss Kitchen being Feb. 16 and with Miss Delmage Feb. 15.

What the Pastor Left.

Christ Church Rev. N. H. Martin a salary of $1600 a year. His parsonage rent he paid himself. Mr. Martin came to Christ Church some 13 years ago from Walkerville. He has been a devoted and hardworking pastor. Archdeacon Sandys is the rector of Christ Church, although Mr. Martin has undertaken to largely discharge the duties of the principal office. He was liked by his people and was carrying on his pastoral work energetically and successfully.

Horrible Story from Montreal

MONTREAL, Feb. 19.—A horrible story of a private crematory comes to light in St. Cunegonde, a suburb of Montreal. A spiritualist named Adolphe Lawse recently lost three children and burned their bodies in a cooking stove to save funeral expenses. The magistrates have been supplied to, but they hold that he acted within his rights.

Rev. Father Seguin was notified and he called upon the man. Lawse said he had lived both in France and cities in the United States. In both places he had heard of dead people being burned in big ovens. Such being the case, he thought he was justified in burning his own young child after its death in his own cooking stove. He also held the opinion that he had a perfect right to bury his children in his back yard or in his cellar, which he also appears to have done. He contended that he had known such things to have been done by people whom he was personally acquainted with in Paris.

WHERE WHALES ARE FOUND.

They Frequent a Long Inlet Stretching Far North from Hudson's Bay.

From the northern port of Hudson's Bay, already arctic in character, stretches far toward the pole a deep inlet, which some early navigator of these desolate polar shores has termed Roe's Welcome—as if anything within that ice-bound and lonely coast could be welcome to a person just from civilization! The name was no doubt given in memory of some escape from the drifting ice-packs, when the inlet furnished refuge from one of the fierce storms of that polar region.

Roe's Welcome is a famed hunting place for the great polar whale, or "bowhead," as the whalers call it, writes Lieutenant Schwatka in St. Nicholas. This huge whale, which is, indeed, immense in size, often makes his home among the great ice packs and ice fields of the polar seas and a goodly quantity of these it finds in Roe's Welcome. But these ice packs, swinging to and fro with the tides currents and winds in such a long, narrow inlet as this, render navigation dangerous even for the staunch whaling ships, and they generally make their fishing grounds off the lower mouth of the great inlet, where the cruising is much safer, if not always so profitable. Occasionally, when some exceptionally good ice master is in charge of a whaler he dashes into the better fishing ground for a short cruise; another less skilled, lured by the brighter prospects or discouraged by a poor catch outside, enters the inlet and either reaps a rich harvest of oil and bone or wrecks his vessel. He may even escape after an imprisonment in the grip of the merciless ice-fetters for a year or two longer than he had intended to stay.

Such was the fate of the good ship "Gladiator," from the whaling port in southeastern Massachusetts. She sailed to the northernmost end of the "Welcome," as the sailors call it, and after a most profitable catch of "bowheads," had the ill-fortune to remain firmly bound in the ice for two years. During this long time, much longer than that for which the vessel had been provisioned, the crew were dependent on the stray Eskimos who clustered around the ship. The natives supplied them with ample quantities of reindeer, musk-ox, seal, and walrus meat in return for small quantities of molasses and coffee. Their companionship, too, rude as it was, did much to while away the dreary, lonely hours of the two years' imprisonment.

The Stars as a Clock.

Time May be Told by the Position of the "Dipper."

Most people on a clear day can, without a watch or other time piece, form a closely approximate idea of the time of the day by the position of the sun—but few, perhaps, have guessed at any similar method of comparing the time during the night, without any other means than the "starry skies."

Notwithstanding, a fairly reliable time-indicator can be found in the Northern skies on every cloudless night, says the Medicinal News. As is generally known, the group of fixed stars called the Great Dipper makes an apparent revolution towards the North Star in every twenty four hours, with the two stars forming the outer elevation of the bowl of the Dipper, pointing nearly directly to the Polar Star continuously.

If the position of the "pointers" is taken at any given hour, say 6 o'clock in the evening in winter time, and as soon as it is dark in the summer, the hour can thereafter be be pretty accurately measured by the eye during the night.

Frequent observations of positions will have to be made at the given hour, as, owing to the constant changing of the earth's position in space, the position of the "pointers" in relation to our point of observation taken during a previous night passed in the mind will make a very good time indicator of that part of celestial space.

Trade With the West Indies.

The growth of our trade with the British West Indies is well illustrated by the shipments during the last six months from St. John and Halifax by the Canadian vessels of the Pickford & Black line. In that time there have been sent from Canada 9,879 barrels of flour, 1,900 barrels of split peas, 3,705 bags of oats, and 637 packages of such miscellaneous goods as clothing, machinery, dry goods, boots and shoes, printed matter, woodenware, stamped ware, etc. To get an idea of the importance of this of this trade it is necessary to note that according to the trade returns of 1891—for twelve, not six months only—Canada only sent 309 barrels of flour to the British West Indies. Her export to Newfoundland, about which so much has been said, was but 99,000 barrels. Certainly the West Indian trade is looking up finely.—Empire.

POLITICAL POINTS

There will be two elections to the Commons to-morrow, namely in East Hastings and South Ontario.

The majority of Mr. Bowers, Liberal, in Digby, N.S., is officially stated at 276.

Fire at Eldorado.

On Saturday morning last the new dwelling house of Mr. Wm. Parnell, of Eldorado, was totally destroyed by fire, together with part of the contents, including a quantity of pork, provisions, clothing, &c. The origin of the fire is a mystery, breaking out about daylight, and the family had only time to save a portion of their furniture. The house was a comparatively new one, and the loss will foot up to the neighborhood of ten or eleven hundred dollars, on which there is an insurance of six hundred.

Dr. G. C. OSGOOD,
Lowell, Mass.

"Castoria is the best remedy for children of which I am acquainted. I hope the day is not far distant when mothers will consider the real interest of their children, and use Castoria instead of the various quack nostrums which are destroying their loved ones, by forcing opium, morphine, soothing syrup and other hurtful agents down their throats, thereby sending them to premature graves."

The Stone-Cutter of Lisbon

A NOVEL BY
WM. HENRY PECK.

'He has the air of an emperor, and he talks of republics. He speaks like a Spaniard born in Madrid, and he has something about his face that reminds me of the English. He is a mystery to me, and all I know is that I hate him as I do the devil.'

If Alva had shaped his thoughts more truly, they would have run thus: 'I hate and fear him as I should hate and fear the devil,' for he was rather an ardent lover of that individual otherwise.

Opening the letter with a great show of respect, reverence, awe, as, of course, royal letters should always be opened by lovers of kings, he read these words:

"Employ Stonio the Stone cutter. JOSE."

'And you are no more than a stone cutter?' gasped Alva, staring at the stranger.

'No, nothing more.'

'Then—then—why did the noble Count let the letter remain in your hands, to be carried about as if it was mud?'

'Because I gave him a second order from his master.'

'Oh—the devil!' cried Diego Alva. 'I suppose you are heavy with royal letters to counts, and letters of counts to—to—other great men. But why did the king give you any letter at all?'

'You are meddling with what does not concern you. But I gave King Jose a letter from King Fernando VI. of Spain.'

Alva stared and whistled his amazement and then said:

'I should not doubt your word if I saw that letter from the King of Spain.'

The stranger produced a second royal letter, bearing the arms of Spain, and presented it to the superintendent, who read:

"Will our royal brother of Portugal further the wishes of Stonio the Stone-cutter?
FERNANDO."

'Now, young man,' said Alva, becoming mad with curiosity, 'why, in the name of all the saints, did the King of Spain give you a letter to the King of Portugal?'

'You are very inquisitive as regards the affairs of a stone-cutter,' replied the stranger. 'Yet it was simply because George, King of England, gave me a letter to Fernando VI. of Spain. Now sir, as my affairs cannot concern Don Diego Alva, will you permit me to go to work?'

'Go to the foreman, and then to the devil! Both can give you work,' roared the bewildered superintendent, and hating the stranger more than ever.

CHAPTER II.

THE RESCUE OF THE COUNT.

The reader has now learned how Stonio the Stone cutter enrolled himself as a workman in the marbleyard of Don Pedro Riaz, Conde D'Ulloa, one of the greatest and most wealthy grandees of the Portuguese court.

All day he has been steady and untiringly at his work. The pale green eyes of Diego Alva have been strained all day in vain desire and attempt to find a fault in the labor of the mysterious stranger. Alva has hovered near and round him, hid for a time, and then bounced out suddenly, hoping to catch Stonio in fault. Alva has stood off at a distance, leaned his thin face on his hands, his sharp elbows on a mass of rock, and studied the movements of the stranger sharply, eager to detect some clue that may explain the cause of his deep and sudden hate for him, and why he came to that yard, and who his parents were—for this suspicious and stealthy superintendent does not believe that a man who carries in the pocket of his course blouse letters of kings and nobles, is a simple stone cutter; he wishes Stonio was out of that yard, out of Lisbon, out of Portugal, out of the world—for Diego Alva is a man whose hate is as insatiate as flame.

Apparently totally careless of the spying malevolence of the superintendent, Stonio has toiled all day, and by this time it is seen that he is the most expert artisan in the yard. The heaviest tolls in his hands seem as light as straw, and rock appears to lose weight and hardness when he touches it.

The rules of the yard allow no conversation among the workmen, and Stonio has not uttered a word to any one. Yet his eyes, never neglecting his work, have observed much which the superintendent has disregarded.

There is a storm brewing among the workmen. The presence of the stranger has irritated Diego Alva, and he has been all day venting his spleen upon some one. Bitter, harsh and cruel at all times, he has been intensely tyrannical to-day.

The men were sullen and angry this morning when they resumed work. They came back from their defeated 'strike,' driven to work for low wages by the gaunt and famished faces in their homes. Man for man, there is scarcely one here who would not rather have died than come back to the ill-paid slavery of the yard D'Ulloa. But poverty, famine, sickness, wailing women and starving children bade them crush pride, self respect, and independence, and they came back. Angry and sullen they returned, and all day they have been scoffed at and taunted by Diego Alva and his sycophants; and now, as this first day of their return to slavery draws to its tardy close, their eyes flash and glare with anger which has increased to rage, and rage fast becoming ferocity.

'No words have been exchanged among them; eye has answered eye. The taunts hurled by Alva against one have rankled in the hearts of all. They have not said a word to each other, nor retorted the stinging sneers of the superintendent. Each man has nursed his own anger, his sense of injury, his craving yearning for vengeance.

Diego Alva is conscious that they hate him, and rejoices in the fact. He is one who loves to be hated.

The cathedral clock begins to strike, and as its first clanging peal rings out from the tall steeple every man lets fall his tools, or rather hurls them to the ground, with a fierce oath, and all these maledictions sweep through the great yard like the roar of a coming storm or the deep growls of angry lions.

Alva starts and darts his eyes about him, for he does not like this sound. It is too much as if the strike is to be renewed. It is very much like a sudden declaration of war—of intended assault upon him—especially as he sees six hundred flaming eyes are glaring at him, and six hundred clenched fists are thrust out towards him.

He glances toward Stonio, expecting to see him with a threatening face turned upon him, for it flashes into his suspicious brain that this mysterious stranger has kindled this sudden flame.

But Stonio alone, of the hundreds in that yard, is still at work, as calmly as if he had heard neither the clanging of the clock nor the sudden, smothered roar of men maddened to ferocity.

The clock is still strriking its slow and ponderous strokes, and that roar is still in the air when a sharp cry directs the attention of all in that quarter toward which it rises. There is seen a boy, one of the sons of a workman, standing upon a block of marble, and pointing up the street at something coming.

This something is the carriage of the Count D'Ulloa, approaching with furious speed, for the four horses attached to it, and suddenly affrighted, are beyond the control of the driver, dashing madly toward the uninclosed yard.

As the level of the yard is several feet below that of the street, and as that part toward which the horses are rushing so blindly in their terror was once a quarry, unless they soon be checked or turned aside, they, with the carriage and its occupants, will be plunged over the edge of the quarry, and dashed to pieces.

Those in the yard comprehend the danger in a single glance, and there is a sudden swaying forward of three hundred men, moved by the thought that if all rush from the yard it will be possible to halt the horses many paces from the edge of the quarry.

But as suddenly as this bending forward to the rescue was made, it is checked, and every man remains as motionless as a stone.

(To be Continued.)

ATTACKED BY AN ENEMY.

DEAR SIRS,—About a year ago I had a very bad attack of dyspepsia. For nearly four months I never ate a meal without suffering pain after. I had got so weak I could scarcely walk, when one day I saw an advertisement for B.B.B., and thought I would try a bottle. Four bottles cured me completely, and I am now strong and healthy.

Cold, cough, consumption, to cure the first and second and prevent the third, use Hagyard's Pectoral balsam, the never failing family medicine for all diseases of the throat, lungs and chest. A marvel of healing in pulmonary complaints.

Fagged Out.—None but those who have become fagged out know what a depressed, miserable feeling it is. All strength is gone, and despondency has taken hold of the sufferers. They feel as though there is nothing to live for. There, however, is a cure—one box of Parmelees Vegetable Pills will do wonders in restoring health and strength.

A neglected cough brings on consumption—the most fatal and prevalent of all physical ills that flesh is heir to. Dangerous Counterfeits.

Counterfeits are always dangerous, more so that they always closely IMITATE THE ORIGINAL IN APPEARANCE AND NAME. The remarkable success achieved by Nasal Balm as a positive cure for Catarrh and Cold in the head has induced unprincipled parties to imitate it. The public are cautioned not to be deceived by nostrums imitating Nasal Balm in name and appearance, bearing such names as Nasal Cream, Nasal Balsam, etc. Ask for Nasal Balm and do not take any imitation dealers may urge upon you. For sale by all druggists or sent post-paid on receipt of price (50c and $1,) by addressing Fulford & Co. Brockville, Ont.

Inflammation of the Eyes Cured.

Mr Jacob D. Miller, Newbury, writes,—"I was troubled with inflammation of the eyes, so that during nearly the whole of the summer of 1882 I could not work; I took several bottles of Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery, and it gives me great pleasure to inform you that it cured me of my affliction. It is an excellent medicine for Costiveness."

He who chases two hares will catch neither.

Mr Thomas Ballard, Syracuse, N.Y., writes,—"I have been afflicted for nearly a year with that most to-be dreaded disease Dyspepsia, and at times worn out with pain and want of sleep, and after trying almost everything recommended I tried one box of Parmelee's Pills. I am now nearly well, and believe they will cure me. I would not be without them for any money."

It won't do a bit of good to whitewash the well curb so long as there is poison in the water.

S. Chadwick, of Arcadia, Wayne Co., writes,—"I have had severe attacks of Asthma for several years I commenced taking Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil. The first dose relieved me in one hour. I continued taking it in teaspoonful doses for a few days, and have not had an attack since, now nearly one year."

TALMAGE'S BELIEF.

THE CREED OF THE BROOKLYN TABERNACLE PREACHER.

Christ the Great Bond of Sympathy Between Man and the Heavenly Father, and an Elder Brother Who is Always Easily Reached.

BROOKLYN, N.Y., February 14, 1892.—At the Tabernacle service this morning, after the usual reading of the Scriptures, the congregation sang,

Jesus shall reign where'er the sun,
Doth his successive journeys run.

The sermon which followed was apparently suggested by the storm of theological controversy now raging in the churches. In these times, when it is quite uncertain what many of the clergy really do believe, this sermon makes it very plain what the pastor of the Brooklyn Tabernacle believes. His text was taken from Luke 6:17, "And He came down with them and stood in the plain."

Christ on the mountains is a frequent study. We have seen Him on the Mount of Olives, Mount of Beatitudes, Mount Moriah, Mount Calvary, Mount of Ascension, and it is glorious to study Him on these grand natural elevations. But, how is it that never before we have noticed Him on the plain? Amid the rocks, high up on the mountain, Christ had passed the night; but now, at early dawn, He is coming down with some especial friends, stepping from shelving to shelving, here and there a loosened stone rolling down the steep sides ahead of Him, until He gets in a level place, so that He can be approached without climbing from all sides. He is on the level. My text says: "He came down with them and stood in the plain."

Now, that is what the world wants today more than anything else—a Christ on the level, easy to get at, no ascending, no descending, approachable from all sides—Christ on the plain. The question among all consecrated people to day is what is the matter with the ministers? Many of them are engaged in picking holes in the Bible and apologizing for this and apologizing for that. In an age when the whole tendency is to pay too little reverence to the Bible, they are fighting against Bibliolatry, or too much reverence to the Bible. They are building a fence on the wrong side of the road; not on the side where the precipice is and off which multitudes are falling, but, on the upper side of the road, so the people will not fall up-hill, of which there is no danger. There is no more danger of Bibliolatry, or too much reverence for the Scriptures, than there is that astrology will take the place of astronomy, or alchemy the place of chemistry, or the canal boat the place of the limited express rail-train. What a theological farce it is; ministers fighting against too much reverence for the Scriptures; ministers making apology for the Scriptures; ministers pretending to be friends of the Bible, yet doing the Book more damage than all the blatant infidels on all the earth. The trouble is our theologians are up in the mountain in a fight above the clouds about things which they do not understand. Come down to the plain and stand beside Christ, who never preached a technicality or a didacticism. What do you, O Wise-Headed Ecclesiastic, know about the Decrees of God? Who cares a fig about your sublapsarianism or your supralapsarianism?

What a spectacle we have in our denomination to-day; committees trying to patch up an old creed made two or three hundred years ago, so that it will fit on the Nineteenth Century. Why do not our military establishments take out of the garrets the coal scuttle bonnets which your great grandmothers wore and try to fit them on the head of the modern maiden? You cannot fix up a three hundred year old creed so as to fit our time. Princeton will sew on a little piece, and Union Seminary will sew on a little piece, and Alleghany Seminary and Danville Seminary will sew on other pieces, and by the time the creed is done it will be as variegated as Joseph's coat of many colors. Think of having to change an old creed to make it clear that all infants dying go to Heaven! I am so glad that the committees are going to let the babies in. Thank you! So many of them are already in that all the hills of Heaven look like a Sunday school anniversary. Now, what is the use of fixing up a creed which left any doubt on that subject. No man ever doubted that all infants dying go to Heaven unless he be a Herod or a Charles Giteau. I was opposed to overhauling the old creed at all, but, now that it has been lifted up and its imperfections set up in the sight of the world, I say: Overboard with it and make a new creed. There are to-day in our denomination five hundred men who could make a better one. I could make a better one myself. As we are now in process of changing our creed, and no one knows what we are expected to believe, or will two or three years hence be expected to believe, I could not wait, and so I have made a creed of my own, which I intend to observe the rest of my life. I wrote it down in my memorandum book some six months ago, and it reads as follows: "My creed—The glorious Lord. To trust Him, love Him, and obey Him is all that is required. To that creed I invite all mankind.—T. DeWitt Talmage."

The reason Christianity has not made more rapid advance is because the people are asking to believe too many things. There are, I believe, to-day millions of good Christians who have never joined the church and are not counted among the Lord's friends, because they cannot believe all the things that they are required to believe. One-half the things a man is expected to believe in order to enter the church and reach Heaven have no more to do with His salvation than the question, How many volcanoes are there in the moon? or, how far apart from each other are the rings of Saturn? or how many teeth there are in the Jaw-bone with which Sampson smote the Philistines. I believe ten thousand things, but none of them have anything to do with my salvation, except these two. I am a sinner and Christ came to save me. Musicians tell us that the octave consists of five tones and two semi-tones, and all the Handels and Haydens and Mozarts and Wagners and Schumanns of all ages must do their work within the range of those five tones and two semi-tones. So I have to tell you that all the theology that will be of practical use in our world is made out of the two facts of human sinfulness and Divine atonement. Within that octave swing "The Song of Moses and the Lamb," the Christmas chant above Bethlehem, and the Alleluiah of all the choirs standing on seas of glass.

Is there not some mode of getting out of the way these non-essentials, these superfluities, these divergencies, from the main issue? Is there not some way of bringing the Church down out of the mountain of controversy and conventionalism and to put it on the plain where Christ stands? The present attitude of things is like this: In a famine-struck district, a table has been provided and it is loaded with food enough for all. The odors of the meats fill the air. Everything is ready. The platters are full. The chalices are full. The baskets of fruit are full. Why not let the people in? The door is open. Yes, but there is a cluster of wise men blocking up the door, discussing the contents of the castor standing mid-table. They are shaking their fists at each other. One says there is too much vinegar in that castor, and one says there is too much sweet oil, and another says there is not the proper proportion of red pepper, I say,—"Get out of the way and let the hungry people come in." Now, our blessed Lord has provided a great supper and the oxen and the fatlings have been killed, and fruits from all the vineyards and orchards of heaven crown the table. The world has been invited to come, and they look in, and they are hungry, and people would pour in by the millions to this world-wide table, but the door is blocked up by controversies and men with whole libraries on their backs are disputing as to what proportion of sweet oil and cayenne pepper should make up the creed. I cry: "Get out of the way and let the hungry world come in."

The Christian Church will have to change its tack, or it will run on the rocks of demolition. The world's population annually increases fifteen millions. No one pretends that half that number of people are converted to God. There are more than twice as many Buddhists as Protestants; more than twice as many Buddhists as Roman Catholics. Protestants, 135,000,000; Catholics, 195,000,000; Buddhists, 400,000,000. There are 175,000,000 Mohammedans and 220,000,000 Brahmins. Meanwhile, many of the churches are only religious club-houses, where a few people go on Sunday morning, averaging one person to a pew, or one person to a half-dozen pews, and leaving the minister at night to sweat through a sermon with here and there a lone traveller, unless by a Sunday evening sacred concert he can get out an audience of respectable size. The vast majority of the church membership round the world put forth no direct effort for the salvation of men. Did I say there would have to be a change? If there be fifteen million persons added every year to the world's population, then, there will be thirty million added to the Church and forty million and fifty million and sixty million. How will it be done? It will be done when the Church will meet Christ on the plain. Come down out of the mountain of exclusiveness. Come down out of the mountain of formalism. Come down out of the mountain of freezing indifference. Old Dr. Stephen H. Tyng, great on earth and in Heaven, once said to me: "I am in favor of a change. I do not know what is the best way of doing things in the churches, but I know the way we are doing now is not the best way, or the world would be nearer its salvation than it seems to be." So I feel; so we all feel, that there needs to be a change. The point at which we all come short is not presenting Christ on the plain, Christ on the level with all the world's woes and wants and necessities.

The full change will have to come from the rising ministry. We now in the field are too set in our ways. We are lumbered up with technicalities. We have too many concordances and dictionaries and encyclopedias and systems of theology on our head to get down on the plain. Our vocabulary is too frosted. We are too much under the domination of customs regnant for many centuries.

Christ on the plain. I care not from what side you approach Him, you can touch him and get His help. Is it mental depression you suffer? Remember Him who said: "My God, my God, why hast thou forsaken me?" Is it a struggle for bread? Remember Him who fed the five thousand with two minnows and five biscuits, neither of the biscuits larger than your fist. Is it chronic ailments? Remember the woman who for eighteen years was bent almost double, and He lifted her face until she could look into the blue sky. Are you a sailor and spent your life battling with the tempests? Remember Him who flung the tempest of Genesareth flat on the crystal pavement of a quiet sea.

That Christ is in sympathy with all who have trouble with their eyes, and that is becoming an almost universal trouble through much reading in rail cars, and the over-pressure of study in the schools where the children are expected to be philosophers at ten, and boys and girls at fourteen with spectacles. I say with all such trouble Christ is in sympathy. Witness blind Bartimeus. Witness the two blind men in the house. Witness the two blind men near Jericho. Witness the man born blind. Did He not turn their perpetual midnight into midnoon, till they ran up and down clapping their hands and saying "I see! I see!" That Christ is in sympathy with those who stammer, or have silenced ears, notice how promptly He came to that man with impediment of speech and gave him command of the tongue so that he could speak with ease, and, putting His fingers into the ears, retuned the tympanum. Is there a lack of circulation in your arm, think of Him who cured the defective circulation and the inactive muscles of a patient who had lost the use of hand and arm, by saying, "Stretch forth thy hand!" and the veins and nerves and muscles resumed their offices, and though in doing so the joints may have cracked from long disuse, and there may have been a strange sensation from elbow to finger-tip, he stretched it forth. And nothing is the matter with you, but you may appeal to a sympathetic Christ. And if you feel yourself to be a great sinner, hear what He said to that repenting Magdalen, while with a scalding sarcasm he dashed her hypocritical pursuers.

And see how He made an immortal liturgy out of the publican's cry, "God be merciful to me a sinner," a prayer so short that the most overwhelmed offender can utter it, and yet long enough to win celestial dominions. It was well put by a man who had been converted, and who remembered that in his dissolute days he found it hard to get occupation, because he could not present a certificate for good character. In commending Christ to the people he said, "Bless God, I have found out that Jesus will take a man without a character!" Christ on a level with suffering humanity. My text says: "He came down with them and stood in the plain." No climbing up through attributes you cannot understand. No ascending of the heights of a beautiful rhetoric of prayer. No straining after elevations you cannot reach. No hunting for a God that you cannot find. But going right straight to Him and looking into His face and taking His hand and asking for His pardon, His comfort, His grace, His heaven.

She Ate Candles.

MELSTON, Feb. 20.—Elizabeth Rowe, widow, was fined £10 to-day for brutally ill-treating her step-daughter. She had compelled the child to eat candles and to drink brine and soapy water. She had also tied the child by the arms and legs to a bed and left her there for the whole night. In addition to this torture the child was frightfully bruised by beating.

McGreevy Is Out of It.

QUEBEC, Feb. 20.—John Hearn and Arthur H. Murphy were nominated for Quebec West, the former in the interests of the Government, and the latter as Liberal candidate. Thomas McGreevy retired from the contest.

It is said that McGreevy retired at the request of Hon. Edward Blake, who arrived here yesterday.

ITCHING AND SCALY

Skin Disease 9 Years. Doctors and Medicines Useless. Cured by Cuticura for $4.75.

I feel it is my duty to tell you my experience with your CUTICURA REMEDIES. I have been troubled for over nine years with a dreadful skin disease. When I first felt it, there appeared a few small red spots on my breast, and it kept on spreading slowly. It started the same on my back, between my shoulders. A few days after the spots turned gray, and began itching. Small scales would fall off, so it continued spreading all over my body. I tried all the patent medicines I could think of, or get hold of. I also consulted doctors. Yes, they would cure me in a short time, but they always failed. Then I gave it all up, thinking there was no cure for me. Some few months ago, I noticed your advertisement in the Tacoma Morning Globe; thought I would try the CUTICURA REMEDIES, not thinking it would do me much good, but to my surprise, three boxes of CUTICURA, one cake of CUTICURA SOAP, and three bottles of CUTICURA RESOLVENT cured me entirely. My skin is now as white and pure as that of a child. I send my photograph. I have many friends in Chicago, Ill., and St. Paul, Minn.

MANY CHILDREN INJURED SOME FATALLY

The Upsetting of a Lamp Sets the Place on Fire and a Scene of Indescribable Confusion Follows—Children Trampled Upon.

LONDON, Feb. 20.—During a magic lantern performance for children last evening in a building located on Gray's Inn Road, W.C., a lamp used in the entertainment was accidentally upset and broken. The oil ignited at once and in an instant the place caught on fire. A panic ensued among the large number of children present and a mad rush was made for the door. The greatest excitement prevailed and 20 children were injured.

Bad for Mrs. Montagu.

BELFAST, Feb. 20.—Mrs. Anna Margaret Montagu of Coleraine, Ireland, who was charged with having caused the death of her 3-year-old daughter, Mary Helen, by tying a stocking round her neck, the result of which was asphyxiation, has been admitted to bail in the sum of $2000 and will be tried at the Londonderry Assizes.

Mr. Montagu, Dr. Creery and Miss Dosell, the child's governess, testified as to the cruel manner in which the little one had been treated, after which the jury returned a verdict to the effect that the child's mother had feloniously killed her by tying her with a stocking in a dark room.

The husband of Mrs. Montague is a grandson of the Duke of Manchester and a former officer in the navy.

Mrs. Montague, who is of Scotch extraction, is the daughter of a wealthy London tea merchant. She is noted for her daring horsemanship in Ireland. Cromore, her residence, is one of the finest mansions in the district. Mrs. Montague has hitherto moved in the best society.

When an Associated Press representative called at the residence to-day he found Mrs. Montague engaged with the parish priest, but she consented to an interview being asked how it was that such severe punishment was administered to a 3-year-old child, Mr. Montague said: "My wife has strong opinions on the training and correction of children.

VIENNA, Feb. 20.—The wives of Karaveloff, Oroszakoff and Jeorgoff, who have been confined in their houses since November last, will be put on trial on Monday at Sofia, charged with high treason.

They are accused of having signed and handed to the Belgian Consul a memorandum to the representatives of the European powers, in which Bulgarian public functionaries are accused of torturing several prisoners supposed to have been privy to the murder of Beltcheff. These prisoners included the husbands or other relatives of the signers. An act like this constitutes, according to an old Turkish law still in force in Bulgaria, the crime of high treason.

The object of the Government in instituting this trial is, first, to prove that no prisoners have been tortured; second, to elicit from the wives what could not be obtained from the husbands—some further information about the murderer.

"The Daffodil King."

LONDON, Feb. 20.—Mr. Barr, better known as "The Daffodil King," will set out to-day on his annual hunt for a new species of that flower.

Spain, Portugal and the Pyrenees are Mr. Barr's hunting grounds for a new daffodil, and he hopes to find a few specimens at the Escurial, the burial place of the Spanish kings. This flower has been brought to England before, but did not survive removal.

France and the Vatican.

PARIS, Feb. 20.—In order to remove the friction between France and the Vatican due to the refusal of Cardinal Richard, Archbishop of Paris, to communicate to the French bishops the letter written to him by the Pope, in which the latter enjoins upon the French prelates to give their adhesion to the republic, Cardinal Rampolla, Papal Secretary of State, has advised the French Government that the Papal Nuncio at Paris has been intrusted to distribute copies of the Pope's letter to the bishops. Cardinal Richard in replying to this letter declared that he was unable to communicate its contents to the bishops, for he did not believe the time opportune to do so. It was charged at the Vatican that the Cardinal's action in refusing the Pope's request to make the letter public was due to the influence of the Royalists.

Earthquakes, Wrecks, Explosions, Fires and Smallpox.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Feb. 20.—Advices from China and Japan state that 60 houses have been destroyed by earthquake shocks at Nanetsuj, Japan.

The Scotch Oriental steamer Someditch, Phra Nang (Capt. Jones), is missing. She carried a crew of 40.

The total loss of life by the wreck of the steamer Nanchow of Hong Kong was 424.

Five men were killed and 11 wounded by the explosion of gas in the Heronia Coal Mine in Japan a few weeks ago.

A fire which originated by the dripping of a lamp into a quantity of paraffine in the house of a merchant at Sendai, Japan, caused the death of the merchant, his wife and three children, the injury of 11 employes and 8 firemen and the destruction of 33 houses.

Smallpox is still raging at Yokohama and Tokyo.

DIRECT TAXATION.

It is forcibly remarked by a contemporary that the Mowat Government is at last beginning to reach the end of its tether in the way of living on the capital resources of our woods and forests, which cannot much longer stand the strain of heavy annual sales to make it appear that the province is living within its income. For some time therefore the Grit Government has been looking around for other sources of revenue. First the Provincial Liquor Licenses fees were increased at the expense of the municipalities, then an attempt was made to secure an annual revenue from minerals, but only with the effect of frightening away capital from investment in our mines. Now the Government seeks to imitate the taxation of the Imperial Government, which to carry out its free trade policy, derives a very large portion of its revenues from stamps and direct taxes.

In the speech from the throne delivered on Thursday at the opening of the Provincial Legislature, we find an intimation of the tax-collector's entering wedge in this system of direct taxation. The administrator is made to say:

"Amongst other bills which are in preparation is a bill for the assessment of collateral or remote inheritances in certain cases."

It would frighten the legislators too much to propose taxation of direct inheritances (i.e. legacies and gifts to children) as in England, so at first we are only to have taxation of collateral (brothers, cousins, &c.) or remote inheritances; but after the people get accustomed to the idea, and when more money is wanted, instead of practising economy we shall have direct inheritances taxed also. In England this tax is an old source of revenue, but in 1891 the rate was raised very materially, one half of one per cent. being added to direct inheritances and one and a half per cent. to all others, making an increase in the revenue from this source of fifteen million dollars over the previous year. The English rate, which is probably much higher than Mr. Mowat will at first venture on, but to which we will in time come, is now as follows:

On legacies to children or their descendants or to parents and direct ancestors, $1.50 on each $100.

On legacies to brothers or sisters or their descendants, $4 50 on each $100.

On legacies to uncles or aunts or their descendants, $6 50 on each $100.

On legacies to grand-uncles and aunts and their descendants, $7.50 on each $100.

And on legacies to more remote relatives or to strangers, $11.50 on each $100.

As we have said, Mr. Mowat does not at present propose to assess gifts to children but only collateral or remote inheritances, but it is only a question of time when both the list and the rate also will be enlarged.

In Britain in 1891, the revenue derived by the Government from "Death Duties" amounted to £9,856,957, or nearly fifty million dollars, made up as follows, the amount being paid in stamps:

Probate and account	£4,827,336
Legacy	2,626,016
Succession	1,209,227
Estate duty, personalty	1,125,620
" " Realty	68,758
	£9,856,957

One advantage of this mode of taxation in the eyes of good Grits is that in time it will involve an army of inspectors and Collectors, through at present some other official may do the work. In England any person paying or receiving a legacy without payment of the stamp duty is liable to a penalty of ten per cent. of the amount in addition to the duty; and there is a penalty of one per cent. a month up to ten per cent. for failure to notify the proper officer. We have known cases where the succession duty to Real Estate was collected in England thirty-five years after it fell due, and where the parties interested knew nothing about the claim until on a sale of the property it was found that the succession duty had not been paid. Some people might be under the impression that it would be better for the Government to practise economy instead of imposing fresh taxes, but that is not the Grit idea.

ONTARIO LEGISLATURE.

THE BUDGET SPEECH DELIVERED YESTERDAY.

Mr. Harcourt Makes a Very Creditable Showing From His Point of View, While Mr. Clancy Criticises the Figures—The Debate Still in Progress.

TORONTO, Feb. 20.—The presentation of the state of the provincial finances by Treasurer Harcourt yesterday afternoon was done in a very interesting manner. The Treasurer not only succeeded in exhibiting a very roseate view of the provincial finances, but managed to clothe the dry skeleton of the figures with a garment of rhetorical ornament in such that did credit to his skill in that direction. Mr. Clancy appeared in the role of the Opposition critic and performed his task in such a fairly satisfactory manner. The following are the important passages in Mr. Harcourt's speech:

I will first speak very briefly of our receipts. We estimated to receive during the year from ordinary sources $3,398,822. We actually received $3,327,570, so that we have an excess of receipts over our estimate to the amount of $28,748.

The subsidy, of course, remains the same. It represents 80 cents per head of our population according to the census of 1881. According to our present population it represents only 57 cents per head. If we were to receive 80 cents, based on the last census, our subsidy would be increased by about $575,000 a year. An increase of population adds to the expenditure quite as much as to the revenue, while on the contrary it brings, because of the increased consumption of dutiable goods, additional revenue to the Federal Treasury. Our receipts from Crown lands exceed our estimate by the considerable sum of $59,082.

Since 1872, the year when our honored leader became Premier, the gross receipts from the Crown Lands Department have amounted to $17,285,250, or an average for the 20 years, including 1891, of $862,662 per year.

Let us now notice to what uses this large sum has been devoted. During the same period, that is from 1872 to 1891, we have spent on

Public buildings	$ 5,606,993
Railways	4,333,478
Public works	2,334,811
And on colonization roads	2,146,792
Making in all	$15,228,074

We have therefore invested during the period of 20 years in public buildings, railways, public works and colonization roads $5,056,381 more than the amount we have received from the Crown Lands Department from sales of lands and timber.

A word of explanation will be permitted as to the item of receipts, appearing under the head of "Annuities." Last year, having several very large, exceptional expenditures to provide for, in order to meet the railway certificates falling due we issued annuities to the amount of $14,000 per annum.

The amount realized by their sale, as appears by the schedule of receipts, was $269,000, that is to say, we received $1,921.45 for every $100 of annuity. The purchaser realizes on his investment interest at the rate of a little less than 4½ per cent. per annum.

We have, I am delighted to say, arrived at the time when our policy of all expenditure will rapidly become noticeably less. This year our payment will be $141,218 as against the payment for the year of $252,176, or a saving of more than $110,000 in a single year. At the end of five years the payment will be again reduced by a large amount, while for the next five years there will be annual reductions most welcome to our ratepayers.

Last year we made payments in aid to 20 railways; the number will be reduced to 14. In 1898 there will be only eight, while in 1906, only 12 years hence, the solitary survivor of this long and honored list of provincial pensions will be the Port Arthur, Duluth & Western Railway and the Parry Sound Colonization Railway.

Further, these early obligations are, be it remembered, as far as we are concerned, the post obits of the first Parliament of Ontario, handed down by it for its successors to discharge.

The last item of our receipts to which I will refer, namely $600,000, received from the Dominion Government calls for some special remark. Our expenditure for the year included, as I have said, some very large items, special and exceptional in their character. We paid, for example, $100,000 to Toronto University, being part of the $160,000 unanimously voted to it by the House to assist in restoring the building which was partially destroyed by fire. We also paid $47,115 to the municipalities on account of the land improvement fund and $32,750 to country houses of refuge. We loaned $65,000 to different municipalities on drainage debentures.

Our receipts for the year from liquor license fees amounted to $298,184. Our estimate was $300,000. The number of licenses issued during the last license year was 22 less than that issued during the previous year, and in all probability there will be a somewhat greater reduction during the current year. The province took to itself control of liquor licenses in 1876. Since that date it has received as net revenue from licenses $2,630,515, or $164,407 per year. It has paid to the municipalities during the same period $3,885,922, or $242,870 per year. The municipalities have therefore during the last 16 years received on an average $78,463 more per year than the province from this source.

Mr. Clancy: But you took more from the municipalities.

Hon. Mr. Harcourt: I am speaking of the fact as it is found—of the record as I find it. The temperance people, I would say to my friend, have time and again expressed their belief that it would be better for all which we will in time come, is now as follows:

On legacies to children or their descendants or to parents and direct ancestors, $1.50 on each $100.

On legacies to brothers or sisters or their descendants, $4 50 on each $100.

On legacies to uncles or aunts or their descendants, $6 50 on each $100.

On legacies to grand-uncles and aunts and their descendants, $7.50 on each $100.

And on legacies to more remote relatives or to strangers, $11.50 on each $100.

As we have said, Mr. Mowat does not at present propose to assess gifts to children but only collateral or remote inheritances, but it is only a question of time when both the list and the rate also will be enlarged.

In Britain in 1891, the revenue derived by the Government from "Death Duties" amounted to £9,856,957, or nearly fifty million dollars, made up as follows, the amount being paid in stamps:

Probate and account	£4,827,336
Legacy	2,626,016
Succession	1,209,227
Estate duty, personalty	1,125,620
" " Realty	68,758
	£9,856,957

One advantage of this mode of taxation in the eyes of good Grits is that in time it will involve an army of inspectors and Collectors, through at present some other official may do the work. Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

ing large sums in the erection of cottages specially designed and in every way suitable for asylum needs.

The increasing number of the insane compels us to make immediate provision for still further accommodation.

We have provided in the new cottages at Orillia and Mimico beds for 900.

In leaving this branch of my subject I will remind the House that these increased grants to education, hospitals and asylums, public institutions and agriculture are substantially grants to the municipalities in relief of their local taxation.

At the commencement of the year we had at our credit in the banks $44,792. We received from all sources during the year $4,140,080, our total expenditure was $4,165,005, and at the end of the year we had on hand in the banks $19,815. When it is remembered that we expended $620,591 in public buildings alone, thus adding that large sum to our permanent capital investments, that we gave $180,000 to the university, that we spent $98,312 on colonization roads, that we loaned $62,887 to some municipalities for purposes of drainage, and advanced $47,111 to other municipalities on account of Land Improvement Fund, that $311,000 went for railway aid, that our receipts exceeded our estimate and that we expended less than the House authorized us to expend, it will be admitted that the general result is exceedingly satisfactory.

A word as to the assets of the province. These are so well known and have been the subject of such frequent debate that they require but little explanation. We still have the Dominion 5 per cent. bonds to the amount of $2,000,000. These mature in May, 1893. We have added during the year nearly $7000 to our drainage investments, which now aggregate $524,755. The trust funds, the nature and origin of which have been often explained, remain unchanged in amount and the Common School Fund, the particulars of which we are all familiar with, is slightly increased because of the fact that it is this year divided on the basis of the recent census. The amount of the balance of unpaid subsidy and other credits, as appears in the schedule in our hands, viz., $1,500,319, remains as it was last year. All told these assets amount to $5,383,077. From this sum we deduct certain small balances due to the municipalities on account of the Land Improvement Fund, as also Quebec's share of our collections on account of common school lands for two years past, in all $17,960. We had in hand bank balances to the amount of $19,818, so that our surplus at the end of the year, after deducting all liabilities now payable, amounted to $5,383,935.

The reality of this surplus can be no longer seriously questioned. It was at one time contended that, while we could expect to receive interest from these trust funds, we could never get possession of them or control them.

They have always yielded a rich return by way of interest, and there was no good reason why we should ask to have them handed over to us. And yet the suggestion came from the Finance Minister at Ottawa a few years ago that the requisite legislation should be had in order that the Dominion might hand them, or an important part of them, over to us, so that this contention can no longer be maintained.

A few weeks ago, acting for once, at least, on his suggestion, we asked for and promptly received a check for $500,000 of it.

If we look about us at once at the finances of the sister provinces will give us additional cause for thankfulness that we have persistently adhered to a policy of rigid economy. The Treasurer of more than one of these provinces each year submits his inability to see a way of escape from the "gloomy grove of annual deficits." The large and constantly-increasing debt of Quebec is, from an Ontario point of view, alarming, and all parties there seem to be at one in stating that recourse or later the Federal Government must come to the rescue. Prince Edward Island has drawn upon capital account to the tune of $253,176, Nova Scotia and New Brunswick have incurred large debts, and they are once more agitating for better terms. Nova Scotia urgently asks the Dominion to relieve her of liabilities to the amount of a million and a half of dollars. New Brunswick, with a population of only 321,294, had at the close of last year a bonded debt of $2,342,000. And I have, sir, my way well ask is this to end? With an aggregate population of only 880,000, or twelfth that of Ontario alone, maintain separate Legislatures, each of them having a second chamber, and that because of this the administrative work is trebled and the expenditures on education, administration of justice and public works is very much larger than would otherwise be necessary. At the same time, we may well, pay we must insist, that any settlement of these difficulties, as concerns the future, I do not speak of existing obligations, whether by means of increased annual grants to each of the provinces, having strict regard to population, or otherwise should be a comprehensive settlement arrived at after a careful study of the whole situation, altered as it is in so many regards since Confederation, that it should be an absolutely final settlement, made so by Imperial enactment, that not another dollar of the Federal Treasury should thereafter be spent in "special grants" or "better terms," and that it should be in all regards fair, we ask no more, to our own provinces. If we cannot get an exact measure of justice, we must accept that settlement which will most nearly approach to it.

Every province save our own has profited by this departure from safe and sound principles, and each occasion of profit to them means corresponding loss to us.

What is wanted now is to get back to first principles, and firmly to take the position to which when Confederation was brought about all parties were pledged. Those who guided public opinion at that time stated confidently that in their scheme they had provided the necessary safeguards. Has time fulfilled their promises? The difficulties then predicted, as well as others unforeseen, have confronted us, and the promised safeguards have proved shadowy and unreal.

Had the wise policy outlined at Confederation been rigidly adhered to the finances of the provinces and of the Dominion as well would now be in a far more satisfactory condition.

Our estimate for the year's expenditure is $3,472,237, a decrease as compared with last year's estimated expenditure of about $30,000. It will be found to be a very liberal estimate.

The most noticeable feature in the estimated expenditure is that connected with the proposed addition to our asylum accommodation. We intend to ask the House to grant an appropriation for the erection of an asylum at or near Brockville. The Provincial Secretary will at an early day fully justify our proposed action in this direction.

Hon. Mr. Harcourt concluded with an eloquent peroration, in which he paid a high tribute to Mr. Mowat.

Mr. Clancy is Critic.

When the Treasurer took his seat Mr. Clancy, from the front row of the Opposition benches, rose. He began by expressing his regret that the indisposition of Mr. R. E. Clarke, one of the members for Toronto, on whom the duty of criticising the budget speech usually fell, would prevent his doing so on that occasion. Mr Clancy opened his observations by a picture of the state of the province when the Reform Administration came to power. The province had a cash surplus of $4,000,000 and not a cent of debt. It had now held power for 20 years, and what a change had come! Instead of a surplus of $4,000,000 the treasury was empty. Instead of being able to meet the annual obligations we were compelled to go to the money markets of the world. Then the various municipalities received a large part of the revenues which were their due, revenues which were now seized by the province. The license fund in those days was an important part of the municipal revenue, now on the shallow pretence that it was working in the interest of temperance the Province had set a gang of officials over the municipalities and seized the lion's share of the revenues. Even as late as 1881 the provincial share of the receipts of liquor licenses was a small fraction, now it amounted to more than one-half. Not that alone but of that class of expenses which intemperance was said to be largely instrumental in creating, such as gaols, lockups, police courts, and police force, the municipalities bore the whole burden.

He thought it would be rather difficult to demonstrate that it was in the interest of temperance that the provinces should seize the lion's share of these returns from the license fund, which they had no power to control. If there was any virtue in increasing the license fee, therefore, it would be some time before its virtues would be put to the test under the present system. The normal revenues of the province were every year exceeded by hundreds of thousands of dollars, and the deficit was drawn from the capital of the province. The public accounts for last year showed that the utmost result of the optimist had been drawn on to the extent of $1,146,036 and the Provincial capital to the extent of $500,000 to meet the extravagant expenditures of the Government. The art of administering the finances under the system pursued by the gentlemen opposite was very easy. The Treasurer did not require to make any fine estimates, because at a pinch he could always fall upon his friend, the Minister of Crown Lands, to come to his aid with another slice of timber limits.

They could not afford to express mock sympathy with their sister provinces, as our own province, it was very evident, could not meet its obligations without having recourse to the federal treasury box. Mr. Clancy went on to point out that the redemption of the railway certificates was not met out of the consolidated fund. The success of the Dominion was wrapped up in the success of the provinces. It was not an encouraging sign, therefore, to see a demand being made on the Dominion Government by Mercier, in whose breaks the Attorney-General was a full private. He (Mr. Clancy) however hoped and believed that the hon. gentleman had reached a stage when he was ashamed of the part he had taken in that project and of the blackmailer role he had played in every conceivable shape, while the cars are a total wreck. The trainmen escaped injury by jumping.

BUSINESS PROSPECTS.

Bradstreet's Report as to Trade in the Dominion—The Spring Outlook.

NEW YORK, Feb. 20.—Special telegrams to Bradstreet's report no material change in conditions affecting the general business situation. Trade thus far on the whole is disappointing, though a deal of confidence is expressed as to what the spring may bring forth.

In the Canadian Dominion general trade is only moderately active, raw wool and staple drygoods being most in request. Orders from the Maritime Provinces and a portion of Quebec are unsatisfactory. Canada reports 43 failures, a material reduction from last week.

Bank clearings at four cities in the Dominion show a reduction of 17 per cent. this week as compared with last.

POISON.

Ends the Ailments of James Griffin of London.

LONDON, Ont., Feb. 20.—James Griffin was found dead yesterday. From what could be learned from his wife he had been suffering for some time past from grip and bronchitis. This morning between 7 and 8 o'clock he left the house in Wellington-street, near Clark's bridge, and it is said obtained a bottle of strychnine. Returning to his house he died in a few minutes. The bottle was afterwards found under his pillow by his wife. For 34 years he had kept a seed store in this city.

"Playmates."

A Synopsis of Mr. George A. Dame's New Drama.

The first act opens at Meadowhurst, Eng. Jack Redman, a mill hand in Tom Meadow's mill, and Harry Carleton, his superior in education, &c., love Crystal, old Tom's daughter. Two years before the play opens Harry has emigrated to America and has secured a splendid position in a bank. He has returned on a visit to his old home and has renewed his attentions to Crystal, who returns his love. Jack Redman proposes and is told by Crystal of her attachment for Harry. At the close of the first act Harry is arrested for the murder of his employer in America, and, as time is limited, he is not allowed by the detective to return to the village to tell Crystal of his misfortune. Jack Redman, his friend, appealing, Harry binds him by an oath to tell Crystal the circumstances of the case.

Act II. opens upon Jack and Crystal's married life, three years after. Jack has not told Crystal of Harry's arrest and, she, thinking him dead, has married Jack. The act closes upon Harry's return and Jack's departure for the Crimea. This is one of the prettiest scenes in the play.

Act three opens in Lord Raglan's headquarters at the front. Jack Redman has been sent with despatches and has been taken prisoner by the Russians. Harry Carleton, who, despairing of his disappointments, has also enlisted, is sent with duplicate despatches, arrives just in time to release Jack and Patsy Duck, but it costs him his life; he dies in Jack's arms.

Act four brings the audience back again to old England, where Jack and Patsy Duck have been mourned as dead. They, however, return, and all is happiness.

Incidental to the story there are several strong comedy characters, which relieve the more sombre passages. The military adjuncts are calculated to stir the blood and awaken the senses of the most prosaic auditor, especially in the 3rd act, where to the inspirating strains of the "British Grenadiers," the British soldiers rush on the stage and release the prisoners, and amid the rattle of musketry, the boom of cannon, and the cheers of the victorious, the curtain falls upon a magnificent picture of fight, color and animation.

A New Establishment.

The commodious store on Front street, just north of the footbridge and formerly occupied by Messrs Reid & Co., has been leased to Mr. Gough, the wonderful cheap clothing king, who will open out on Thursday next, 25th inst., with an immense stock of ready-made clothing, hats, caps and gents' furnishings. The stock will be replete and one of the largest to select from in any establishment between Toronto and Montreal. Branch houses are situated in Toronto, Peterborough, Brantford and Orillia. The great success which has attended the efforts of Mr. Gough is owing to the fact that his goods are marked in plain figures and but one price is asked. If the purchaser finds the goods are not as represented his money is refunded as cheerfully as taken. Those who are in need of goods which this house supplies should wait until Thursday next before purchasing.

Emerald Duet.

The large audience at Trinity M. E. church were greatly pleased with the address of Rev. J. P. Smith. His style is strong and forcible, and his word pictures effective. He takes the ground that the Murphy stand point in such a manner as to convince the most stubborn and unwilling slaves of the drink habit.

Messrs. Smith and Webb, Smith and Harris E. Webb is remarkable. They sing to create sentiment, reach the heart, and convert to a better life.—Evening Vindicator, Youngstown, Ohio, Feb. 8th, '92.

You May Depend on Us.

Never in our business experience have we ever advertised anything that we were not able to carry out. A great many houses will tell you of wonderful bargains in certain lines, but when you go in and ask to see them, they don't inform you that they have all been sold, and will ask you to show you something else. Men's all wool suits at the Oak Hall for only $5.

The Duty of a Minister.

For the Intelligencer.

I wish to enquire if it is the duty of a minister to prolong the services by a long discourse, making the whole service 1½ to 1¾ hours and sometimes longer, to the annoyance of his hearers?

Is it his duty to be found on Wednesday night—prayer meeting—sitting in a neighbor's house and no meeting held for want of a leader?

Is it right to allow the young people's Friday night prayer and class meeting to be broken up and give place to an Epworth League or a debating society?

Should a Minister visit the sick and dying or should he go unless specially sent for, or should he visit the families of his members and also of the congregation? If so, and he don't, or only partially so, have they any right to complain?

Again, is it right for a Minister to live over 40 miles from his circuit, while there is a grand parsonage at command? How can he attend to the duties required when so far away the most of the week? If it is stormy, the charge must be left to take care of itself. They may have a local preacher or may not, but whose duty is it to attend to the spiritual wants of the people, if not the Minister's,—who, no doubt, will complain if his salary is not paid. It seems as though the good old days of Methodist Ministers had departed; in some, there appears to be none of the spirit of the departed Ryerson, Evans, Jones, Carroll, Beatty, and a host of others long since passed away.

I feel it my duty to make these remarks, and trust the Conference at its next session will apply the remedy. Yours, &c.,
BILLA FLINT.
Bridgewater, 18th Feb., 1892.

To the Editor of the Intelligencer.

BELLEVILLE, Feb. 19th, 1892.

DEAR SIR,—I had hoped that Mr. Flint's ghosts had been "laid," but it seems they have gone over to England, and are doing their mysterious work there. Now I think it a pity that we could not get something of the same sort nearer home, so that we may investigate it more closely, and if then might and like the famous "Slade spirit-rapping," which our citizens will remember was exposed in Belleville a few years ago. One thing has struck me in reading Mr. Flint's ghost stories, and it is this—how is it he has neglected the poor little fairies in his writings? Why, in England there used to be fairy stories just as prevalent as ghost stories. I think it a shame to neglect those dear little creatures, as they are ghosts No. 2 of a rather inferior kind. Perhaps a paper called the Review of Reviews may help him a little in this matter; if not, I think I may be able to furnish him with some fairy stories that I used to hear a long time ago. But for the time being we must stick to ghosts No. 1. Now if Mr. Flint is anxious to have this matter explained, let me direct his attention to Dr. Dick on Superstition, and I think the incidents mentioned in that work will show more extraordinary ghost stories than those contained in the St. James' Gazette of London, England. The incidents mentioned by Dr. Dick show trickery on the part of an expert, and I have no doubt but the haunted house in Peterborough, Eng., will turn out to be the same as the matter above referred to.

My object in writing is to save our children from what the children in England and Ireland have had to suffer, namely, a superstitious dread and a continual expectancy of seeing something supernatural. When Mr. Flint takes his pen in hand to give us a description of his travels or of some grand play we hail it with delight, and his brilliant writings so arouse our admiration, that we think of Cicero or a Demosthenes. But it does seem like dropping from the sublime to the ridiculous to write ghost stories.

Yours truly, JOHN HARRIS.

Teachers' Outing.

With his usual desire to improve the schools, secure instruction of thought and to allow teachers the privilege of seeing the methods of others, Mr. Johnston, I.P.S., arranged for a visit of the city teachers to to S.S. No. 1, taught by Mr. P. W. Fairman, and S.S. No. 2, taught by Mr. O. S. Hicks. After a pleasant drive they reached Mr. Fairman's school about 9:30, where they were heartily welcomed by the teacher, and also by a large number of the parents, who had assembled at the school house to meet them. Mr. Fairman gave a practical illustration of his methods of teaching the various subjects, and fully sustained the high reputation he has already won for himself as a thorough, earnest and energetic teacher, and the high position this school has taken among the schools of this municipality. At the close short complimentary addresses were given by the Inspector, Messrs Armistead, Dafoe, McKeown, Miss Urquhart, S. A. Gardiner and by Mr. Kerr and Mr. Spafford, trustees, and others, after which the teachers were driven to the homes of those present and most hospitably entertained. In the afternoon they were driven over to Mr. Hicks' school, where they were again heartily welcomed by the teacher, trustees and a number of the parents, and the rest of the afternoon was spent in the same profitable manner. Mr. Hicks fully demonstrating how thoroughly the pupils under his care are taught. Short addresses were also given here, after which they started for home about 4:30, well pleased with their visit and feeling that the day had been very profitably spent.

On arriving in Belleville they were driven to Mr. Johnston's, where an oyster supper had been prepared for them and a very enjoyable evening was spent. At the close a hearty vote of thanks was tendered Mr. and Mrs. Johnston for the kindly manner in which they had been entertained. Mr. Johnston gave a suitable reply, after which the party dispersed to their homes.

A RED LETTER DAY IN BELLEVILLE!

'Beware the IDES OF MARCH," said the grave soothsayer to Julius Cæsar, as he passed in triumphant procession to the SACRED SUPERCALIA; and within a month Julius lay dead at the base of Pompey's Pillar, but we do fear the Ides of March and all lovers of GOOD CLOTHING in Belleville may well hail the month of March, 1892, for it will witness such REVELATION IN THE CLOTHING TRADE as the county of Hastings has never seen before.

TRENTON, Feb. 12th.

The Lakeport Preserving Co. having located their canning factory, have commenced purchasing fruit for the ensuing season.

Sarah Lord Bailey, in her renowned recitals, will occupy the opera house March 10th.

It is rumored that a small champagne supper took place at the Grand Central Hotel on Tuesday evening last. Some of the elite of Belleville were present.

We are glad to learn that J. Nulty, who is in Denver for his health, is steadily improving.

Dr. Will Ireland, who has been practising in the west, has returned home.

D. Gilmour and family left yesterday for Ottawa.

Mrs. Geo. White has returned from an extended trip to Toronto.

Our contemporary the Advocate says our correspondent is culling their news, but such is not the case, as the INTELLIGENCER is out long before theirs see daylight.

STIRLING.

(From our own Correspondent.)

STIRLING, Feb. 19th.

A change in the assistant, which has been recently made in our High school, has proved to be a very beneficial one. The pupils are delighted with the change and are working much more industriously.

We are, I believe, to have horse races on the ice here next Tuesday and Wednesday. Much local interest is being manifested in the Shetland pony race, between Miss Boldrick's little mare, Jennie, and Miss White's grey pony. They are both excellent trotters—good betting is expected. They are ten hands high.

Mr. C. J. Boldrick has gone out to Crow Lake this morning with some men to build an ice-house at their cottage and fill it with ice.

Lots of fish houses on the Trent river, down from White's landing. It is said they are meeting with fair success.

Mr. George Ferguson, son of our worthy townsman, is home now on his holidays. He has a good situation as traveller for a large shoe house in Rochester, N.Y. George is a graduate of one of your Belleville commercial colleges, and is very popular here.

Mr. W. Montgomery and his wife have been very ill with la grippe. They are both convalescent now, I believe. They are attended by Dr. Frank Lovick, who appears to have been very successful in such cases.

The Stirling House has changed proprietors, Mr. Tice having sold out to gentleman named Sweet, from Hastings.

He Doth Protest Too Much.

Wilfrid Laurier's eloquent but parrot-like repetitions of the old truth that he is a Canadian, ever and always, are a little fatiguing.

For the sake of argument, the Liberal leader invents a conflict between Britain and Canada. This purely imaginary idea is introduced in order that Laurier may declare himself the champion of Canada.

Canada does not need his championship against Great Britain. In his self respect and its future are endangered by the fondness of his organs and its leaders for doing the crawfish act to the United States.

Britain's friends are not Canada's enemies, Mr. Laurier. You love Canada, but the Dominion is not dearer to you than to thousands who give Britain first place after Canada. And you do not respect the Dominion half as much.—Toronto Telegram.

Fire in Stirling.

Early this morning, fire was discovered in the frame building on the north side of Mill Street, owned by F. B. Parker, and occupied by T. Eggleton as a photograph gallery and Mr. Parker as a Division court office. This building, with nearly all the contents, was destroyed, as well as the adjoining brick building, owned and occupied by Chas. F. Silckie as a general store. Mr. Silckie's stock was removed, but sustained considerable damage. Ralph & Reynolds, who occupied the next building west, also removed a portion of their stock, but fortunately, the building being a substantial one, the fire was stayed in its progress.

If Stirling had possessed a good steamer, Silckies' building could have been saved with very slight damage, and enough in value saved to pay for a good engine.

The insurance companies interested are: Caledonian—Stickies' building $1800, stock $2000, Ralph & Reynolds, stock $900; Mercantile—Ralph & Reynolds, stock $500.

Death of an Aged Citizen.

One of the oldest, if not the oldest, resident in the city, died this morning, in the person of Mr. Edward Britton. The deceased was in his 87th year, and has resided here for over 60 years. During the rebellious times of 1837, he was at the front to assist in defending his adopted country, and for years was an active member of the military organization. On the 18th June last, he paraded with other veterans in celebrating the 25th anniversary of the return home of the volunteers of '66. For a great many years Mr. Britton carried on business as a butcher, and was noted for his many sterling qualities as a business man and also as a private citizen. His demise will be regretted by a host of friends, not only in the city but in the surrounding country. The funeral will take place on Monday afternoon at 2:30, to the R. C. cemetery.

GENTLEMEN,—For twenty years I suffered from chronic catarrh, dyspepsia, poor appetite, etc., and received no benefits from the many medicines I tried, but after taking five bottles of B.B.B. Harassing headaches make many lives miserable, needlessly so, when a prompt cure like Burdock Blood Bitters is obtainable.

MR H. B. McKinnon, painter, Mount Albert, says,—Last summer my system became impregnated with the lead and turpentine used in painting; my body was covered with scarlet spots as large as a 25-cent piece, and I was in such a state that I could scarcely walk. I got a bottle of Northrop and Lyman's Vegetable Discovery, and at once commenced taking it in large doses and before one half the bottle was used there was not a spot to be seen, and I never felt better in my life.

The Stone-Cutter of Lisbon

A NOVEL BY

WM. HENRY PECK.

All have recognized the carriage of the Count, the man who employs hated Diego Alva. More than this, they have recognized the fact that the Count is in the carriage, for, as the vehicle is an open one, he can plainly be seen standing erect, and gesticulating imperingly toward them.

His life is in danger, and he seems to have become suddenly aware that his arms in the marble yard can do more than gnaw and stone for a little bread—that they can save his life.

Yes; it is very plain that these worms who bore and saw at stone can, if they desire, save the precious life of Pedro Riaz, Conde D'Ulloa, Treasurer of Portugal.

But it is also very plain that these worms being born with the souls of men, have not the slightest desire to save this illustrious Count. Only Diego Alva and his sycophants have a desire to do that, and they lack two essentials in all deeds of daring—they have not the power nor the courage to do anything. Yes; they brandish their arms, shout, and give wild oclaims, and once very nervous fellow fell on his knees, and makes an abortive move to do something in honor of the occasion, if that saint will only save the life of the Count.

All this does nothing toward stopping the maddened horses—the powerful, spirited animals, to whose enormous strength the heavy carriage is as a feather's weight—and it is coming on with fearful speed, bearing its five occupants to certain destruction.

Besides the driver, the footman, and the Count, there are two others in the carriage—a gentleman and a lady—the gentleman young, and of noble birth; the lady a maiden of rank and dazzling beauty.

There is an air of cold, pale, attempt upon despair upon the features of this haughty young noble, and he has folded his arms across his breast, awaiting death or rescue with a scornful smile.

The beautiful face of the lady is ghastly pale and full of terror, and as the horses plunge and dash along, she lets forward, clutches the side of the carriage, and is plainly trying to gather courage to leap out—the blind courage of despair, for to leap from that hurling vehicle will only to be killed to be crushed upon the stony pavement of the street.

The footman's fright has made him, for the time, an idiot, and with a senseless grin upon his chalky face, he awaits the vacancy. The driver can do nothing; the reins have slipped from his trembling hands and he has raised them in his terror, and there they remain, stretched out toward heaven.

Very tall and portly is the Count, and were he not the great noble he is, we might call him an obese monster, with glutton written all over him, from the gouty toes of his feet to the tip of his red and pimpled nose; but as he is of the 'azure blood' of Portugal, we term him portly. Portly in one sense he is, for he drinks gallons of Oporto every day.

His broad, heavy face has lost all its ripe strawberry redness, and there is really a lively expression upon his stolid features—a lively expression of terror mingled with horror. As he clings with one hand to the front of the carriage, he gesticulates wildly and shouts for aid.

The men in the marble yard will not move to his rescue. They do not say this to each other, but for one instant they turn their eyes from their Count, and flash a glance into each other's faces. Every face is hard and stern, and dark as bronze, only guardedly glowing with a sullen kind of pleasure. Then all eyes flash back again toward the rushing carriage, for every man has read in the face of his fellow this bitter, vengeful thought:

"It is D'Ulloa! It is our tyrant! God is about to kill him. Let him die! and there'll be an end to the tyranny of Diego Alva. Let him die."

But that which three hundred men would not do, and which they might fail to do, is done by one man, by Sconlo, the Stone-cutter.

When the shrill cry of the boy was heard he raised his eyes from his work, and glancing quickly over the scene comprehended all in an instant. Still grasping his tools—in one hand a heavy chisel tipped with steel, and in the other a massive mallet bound with bands of iron—he springs from the yard and bounds rapidly along the street, as if intending to place himself between the horses and the brink of the quarry.

The men in the yard see him, and shrug their shoulders, for they think him a fool or a madman. No one but a fool or a madman, they think, would dare interpose his single strength, even were he a Goliath, tween that quarry, and the blind terror of four horses. Even should he succeed in his supposed purpose, in grasping the bits of either or both of the two leaders, their strength and speed will carry him over the edge of the quarry in a moment. Then there are a thousand chances to one that he will not be in time even to snatch at the horses' heads as they dash by; and if he succeeds in seizing a hold, it is impossible that he can do no except on the very brink of the quarry.

Did any probability that this stranger may rescue the Count appear to the muteness workmen, they would curse him in their hearts, and shape for the same end to him as they wish for the Count. So intense is their hatred of their tyrant, that were any one of their number even a brother, to try to save D'Ulloa, they would curse him at that moment, and desire him to be dead.

"This man Sconlo is a stranger," they think, 'or he would not move a finger to save Pedro Riaz. As it is it does not matter, for the accursed tyrant is now a doomed man.'

There seemed, indeed, scarcely a possibility that Sconlo, fleet though he is as a leopard, can even arrive at the edge of the steep, deep quarry before the horses, carriage, and its occupants. And now it is plain that he will not. He is fully thirty yards from the brink towards which the horses are plunging, and they are not half that distance, bounding on while he halts—halts abruptly—and the men, with their gleaming, eager eyes full of savage joy, think:

'Ah, he sees he can do nothing. Now, to the devil with you, D'Ulloa.'

But even as Sconlo halts he hurls his heavy mallet with all his strength and with unerring aim at the horses, and it crushes into the skull of the nearest leader.

The strong animal is down in an instant, dying and struggling, but even his weight cannot prevent the onward rush of the three powerful survivors, and but a few feet are between them and the brink of the quarry, when Sconlo hurls another missile, this time his chisel, which sobs and hums as it flies through the air, and then its point is buried inches deep in the brain of the other leader, whose fall drags down or throws down both of the rear horses.

Count Pedro is saved; but there rolls up from the great yard a deep half-smothered groan, and then a mighty hiss—the hissing of three hundred angry, scornful men. The groan is for the Count; the hiss is for Sconlo. In a moment he has made three hundred enemies.

He understands that, and turning his bold, frank face toward the army of sullen faces and flaming eyes, smile, waves his hat and shouts back:

"I did it for the lady! And there are others!"

His clear, powerful voice rings like a trumpet from one end of the great yard to the other, and then there is a wild shout of hearty applause in reply. The three hundred enemies have become three hundred friends. They are poor, unlettered workmen, rude and unpolished in the spacious teachings of rank and wealth, but they know what is right and noble and just as well as the highest, and regard these things more sacred than do those who look down upon them.

In their just hate against the Count they had for a moment forgot that if he perished others must perish with him. Indeed they had gazed only at the Count, heedless of the driver, the footman, and the two others.

They remember them now, and they shout and toss up their hats in honor of Sconlo, and in a moment a great unanimous cry goes up, after a hoarse voice shouted—

"Long live Lady Hilda, the friend of the poor!"

(To be Continued.)

HIDDEN FOES.

Among the many foes to human health and happiness, dyspepsia and constipation are, twin enemies greatly to be feared. With B.B.B. to crush them out of the system, however, no danger need be anticipated, as every dose brings the sufferer a step nearer further on the road to perfect health and strength, and a permanent cure always results.

THE MOST PERFECT LIFE.

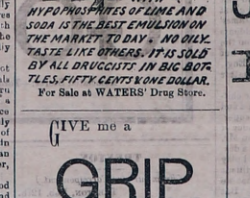

Good health without pure blood is simply impossible, and to secure pure blood a therefore absolutely necessary, especially in spring, when bad blood is very prevalent, Burdock Blood Bitters is the remedy, without an equal in the world of medicine. It drives out all poisonous humours of the blood from a common pimple to the worst scrofulous sore.

In order to quiet a back or cough, take a dose of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil three times a day, or oftener if the cough spells rend it it nice easy. This widely esteemed family also cures crick in the back, rheumatic complaints, kidney ailments pains, etc. It is used inwardly and outwardly.

There is nothing so beautiful outside of Heaven as an embellished Christian character.

STORMS IN ENGLAND.

THE TIGHT LITTLE ISLAND IN A FLEECY MANTLE.

A Large Spanish Vessel Sunk off the Cornwall Coast With All On Board—New Cabinet in France—A British Garrison in Upper Burmah Besieged.

SIGNAFORE, Feb. 22.—Fort Sadon in Upper Burmah, which is garrisoned by a force of British troops, is surrounded by 500 Katchyens. The latter have made repeated attacks on the stronghold, but so far have been repulsed. Nineteen men of the British force have been either killed or wounded. The garrison is closely besieged by the enemy, who have completely blocked the road leading to the fort. Two Sepoys have been massacred while on their way thither.

LONDON, Feb. 22.—Advices have been received from Upper Burmah to the effect that the Sadon post which is being besieged by Katchyens is garrisoned by 100 natives and seven British infantry under the command of Lieutenant Harrison. The Katchyen attack was instigated by Chinamen who have been disputing the frontier line and who have been encroaching on frontier posts within the Central line.

Major Yale chief in command of the district is away with 500 men dispersing Katchyens and is thought expected to return to Sadon until the 25th. Details of the reverse are still wanting.

BURIED IN WHITE.

Great Britain Encounters Another Heavy Snow Storm.

LONDON, Feb. 22.—Snow storms prevailed Saturday night throughout the United Kingdom.

In London two inches of snow fell.

In North Wales ten thousand quarrymen have been thrown out of work by the snow that has fallen to great depths in that part of the country.

All outdoor work in the shipyards at Harlepool has been stopped, rendering idle 7000 men.

The snow storm continues in Westmoreland and traffic on the various railway lines is seriously impeded.

Further dispatches from Ireland are to the effect that the snow is still falling heavily in that country, and that in Cork and adjoining places the roads are covered to a depth of four feet, and in consequence traffic has been almost entirely suspended. The despatches say that the roads in Listowell district, Kerry County, are also badly blocked by huge drifts.

MANY SHIPS WRECKED.

A Spanish Vessel Goes Down With All on Board.

LONDON, Feb. 22.—What is likely to prove the gravest maritime disaster which has occurred since the tempestuous weather of the past week set in is reported from the Cornish coast.

A large vessel, whose name is unknown, but which is supposed to be a Spanish steamer, has been wrecked off Penzance and all on board all hands who were aboard of her are lost.

Already brief despatches telling of tragic and horrifying scenes which attended the disaster have been received.

It is learned that a boat containing six men which had set out from the vessel for shore was capsized almost immediately in the blinding gale. The boat was next seen keel upward, but none of her crew could be seen except two men.

The first of these was clinging to the boat in desperation. He was seen to be twice washed off, the second was swimming in an effort to reach safety. Efforts made by the coast guard to help the two men proved too late and both were drowned.

Two boats from the wreck and a quantity of wreckage have come ashore.

A Cork packet boat towed a Norwegian schooner to Queenstown to-day. The master of the schooner was drowned. The schooner Petrel has also been towed to Queenstown. She was found abandoned.

The steamer Corea, from Cardiff for Genoa, has been sunk near St. Vincent.

Famous Forger Released.

LONDON, Feb. 22.—Austin Bidwell, the famous American forger, who was sentenced to life imprisonment for forgery on the Bank of England, has been released from prison.

The Germs came in Rawhides.

LONDON, Feb. 22.—The official report of the Danish veterinarian on the recent outbreak in London of foot and mouth disease among the cattle said to be from Denmark concludes with the statement that it is not possible that the contagion was contracted in Denmark or aboard ship, and that it is probable that the cattle became infected in the Islington market. The report confirms the view of the veterinarian attached to American Consulate in London that the germs of the disease were imported in rawhides from Germany and that in accordance with the fact that animals have been attacked in England which never came in contact with Danish beasts.

Ulster Supports the Bill.

LONDON, Feb. 22.—The Ulster members have imparted to Mr. Balfour their approval of the Irish Local Government Bill, together with the opinion that it is advisable to withdraw the clause investing the judges with supervisory power over the council, and the transfer of power to assess damages for malicious injury or murder from the grand committees to the county court judges.

M. Constans Had Apologized.

PARIS, Feb. 22.—In the Chamber of Deputies Saturday M. Loherisse, a Boulangist, interpellated the Government as to why M. Constans, Minister of the Interior, had not been prosecuted for assaulting M. Laur (Boulangist) on the floor of the Chamber at the session on January 16.

M. Floquet, the President of the Chamber, replied that the prosecution had been abstained from owing to the fact that M. Constans had made an apology for his action on the occasion referred to, and his apology had been accepted by the Deputy.

The chamber stopped further discussion of the interpellation by adopting the order of the day.

Lady Russell to Pay Costs.

LONDON, Feb. 22.—An echo was heard Saturday of the famous Russell divorce suit, when the court refused to grant Lady Russell's petition. She was ordered to pay the costs to-day. Lady Russell applied to the court to compel her husband to pay her solicitor's charges and the costs of the court, amounting to £350. The application was made on the claim that she was without means. The court refused to grant the application.

Embezzled Government Money.

CALGARY, Feb. 22.—Mr. Campbell, postmaster at Banff, pleaded guilty at Calgary yesterday of embezzling $300 Government money. Sentence was reserved.

GREATLY BENEFITED.

DEAR SIRS,—I have been using B.B.B. for cancer of the breast during the last two years and four months, both externally and internally, and take pleasure in stating that I am entirely cured from this terrible disease. Have had cancer over seven years, and no medicine ever did me as much good as B.B.B. I also state that sufferers from cancer can obtain relief or even cure from B.B.B., and will be pleased to answer any questions as to the use and benefit received from this remedy.

MRS. A. ELLIOT, Waterdown, Ont.

Dangerous Counterfeits.

Counterfeits are always dangerous, more so that they always closely IMITATE THE ORIGINAL IN APPEARANCE AND NAME. The remarkable success achieved by Nasal Balm as a positive cure for Catarrh and Cold in the head has induced unprincipled parties to imitate it. The public are cautioned not to be deceived by nostrums imitating Nasal Balm in name and appearance, bearing such names as Nasal Cream, Nasal Balsam, etc. Ask for Nasal Balm and do not take any imitation dealers may urge upon you. For sale by all druggists or sent post-paid on receipt of price (50c and $1.) by addressing Lyon & Co. Brockville, Ont.

A CRYING EVIL.

Every crying evil should be promptly removed. Sick headache is a crying evil affecting thousands of Canadians, which can easily be removed by the use of Burdock Blood Bitters, the best known stomach, liver and bowel regulator and cure for sick headache from whatever cause arising.

Inflammation of the Eyes Cured.

Mr. Jacob D. Miller, Newbury, writes,—"I was troubled with inflammation of the eyes, so that during nearly the whole of the summer of 1892 I could not work. I took several bottles of Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery, and it gives me great pleasure to inform you that it cured me of my affliction. It is an excellent medicine for Dyspepsia."

He who chases two hares will catch neither.

Mr. Thomas Ballard, Syracuse, N.Y., writes,—"I have been afflicted for nearly a year with that most terrible dreaded disease Dyspepsia, and I have worn out with pain and want of sleep, and after trying almost everything recommended I tried one box of Parmelee's Pills. I am now nearly well, and believe they will cure me. I would not be without them for any money."

It won't do a bit of good to white wash the well curb so long as there is poison in the water.

S. Chadwick, of Arcadia, Wayne Co., writes,—"I have had a very attacks of Asthma for several years. I commenced taking Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil. The first dose relieved me in one hour. I continued taking it, as recommended for a few days, and have not had an attack since, now nearly one year."

An able man shows his spirit by gentle words and resolute actions. He is neither hot nor cold.

Use the safe, pleasant and effectual worm killer—Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator; nothing equals it. Procure a bottle and take it home.

We should all be great men if we could be measured by the great things we intend to do to-morrow.

For Over Fifty Years

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup has been used for children teething. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, cures wind colic, and is the best remedy for Diarrhœa. Twenty-five cents a bottle. Sold by all druggists throughout the world.

It's easy enough

—the Ball corset. That's because it has coils of fine wire springs in the sides. They clasp the figure closely, but yield to every motion.

They "give", but they come back. So does your money—if you've worn a Ball corset two or three weeks, and find that you don't like it.

The Hereditary Influence of Alcohol.

While the scientific student may not be dogmatic or positive as to the fact of hereditity and their influence, he is unprepared to deny any statements of heredity that are based on the history of cases, unless they are opposed by well-known facts.

Thus a brandy drinker had two children, who seemed to inherit the habit of spirits in moderation, but always became intoxicated when they drank brandy. No other form of alcoholic drink caused intoxication, but a small quantity of brandy seemed to poison them at once. A daughter of a wine drinker could never taste wine without becoming intoxicated.

A clergyman of alcoholic parentage, who was an abstainer, was given champagne as a medicine, and became greatly intoxicated. The taste of this wine roused an intense craving and insane thirst, gratified only by stupor. Some instances of little children who, when given certain kinds of spirits, have become practically delirious, but were not so affected by other spirits, are illustrations of this fact.

It seems clear that in quite a number of cases, there is inherited, either from the parents or grandparents, a diseased impulse for certain forms of spirits which may be dormant until this form of spirits are used.

Cheering News From Abroad.

Of the new mayors in England thirty-seven are total abstainers. In Scotland abstainers have been chosen as provosts in twenty towns.

There are 10,000 Teetotalers in the railway service of Great Britain, and 12,000 among the sailors in the naval service.

At a temperance meeting in Blenheim Hall, London, all the waiters were policemen, who were unanimous in asserting that they could perform their duties better without strong drink. It was stated that there are now between 2,000 and 3,000 total abstainers in the police force.

In the Hawaiian Islands there are about fifty native temperance societies with a membership of over two thousand. Their pledge includes opium and awa as well as alcohol. Awa is an intoxicant manufactured by the natives, and said to be more destructive in its effects on the human system than even the imported liquors.

Thirteen million children are being taught scientific temperance instruction in the schools of forty-four states of the Union at present.

"You must admit," said a vagabond to a temperance lecturer—"you must admit that alcohol is good for one thing at least, and that is to clean silver." "Yes," retorted the lecturer, "and it is evident that alcohol has 'cleaned' all the silver out of your pockets."

The Flag That Waves Over East Hastings

THE OLD FLAG,
THE OLD POLICY.
THE NEW LEADER!

A GLORIOUS DAY'S WORK.

EAST HASTINGS AND SOUTH ONTARIO REDEEMED BY THE CONSERVATIVES.

"The N.P. is a failure!" is the parrot-cry of the Grits; but mark the results of the appeal to the people in the issue between unrestricted reciprocity and the National Policy.

Six seats have been won by the old policy, with the old flag as an added issue, whilst but one gain has been made by the Opposition, and that only as the effect of local causes.

On Saturday East Hastings threw off the shackles of Gritism, in which it had been fettered for five years, by giving to Mr. W. B. Northrup, the able and eloquent young standard-bearer of Conservatism, the largest majority recorded in the constituency since 1867.

The credit of this grand achievement is largely due to Mr. Henry Corby, M.P., who was simply indefatigable in the good cause; but on the Conservative side none were lacking in their duty, and the N.P. town of Deseronto evidenced, by the largest majority that it ever recorded in a political election, the strength of the Government policy. True, the Grit candidate was the old and esteemed Reeve of the town, but principle was the issue, not personal regard.

East Hastings is a barley country, but in the rural districts the blandishments of the Grit orators were received with a large increase in the Conservative vote. Hungerford—a tie last year—gave 91 majority for the N. P.; Tyendinaga changed its majority of 78 (Reform) to a Conservative majority of 46; and the 83 which Thurlow recorded last year for the fad, was cut down to 26.

We heartily congratulate the member-elect, the party and the constituency, on this glorious victory for the Conservative cause, which was fairly won over the ablest and most respected candidate whom the Grits could place in the field—a gentleman who was the unanimous choice of his party.

OTTAWA, Feb 20.

Harry Corby, M.P.
Heartiest congratulations are yours in Hastings. JOHN S D. THOMPSON, JOHN HAGGART,
CHARLES H. TUPPER,
M. BOWELL.
DESERONTO, Feb. 20.

H. Corby, M.P.
Thank you very much. The verdict is plain and unmistakable, and, I believe, honestly given by the people. E. W. RATHBUN.

South Ontario—another barley county—also spoke on Saturday in thunder tones against the Grit fad. Mr. Smith, the Conservative candidate, who was defeated in March last, was on Saturday elected against Mr. Davidson, his former successful opponent, by the handsome majority of 157.

It is unrestricted reciprocity, not the National Policy, that is dead.

Bakes Flesh And Blood.

When the system is all run down and there seems to be no hope of obtaining nourishment for the body by the ordinary process of food supply and digestion, when the body is sinking fast, then is the time to use Miller's Emulsion of pure Norwegian Cod Liver Oil. It almost works wonders, because it is a flesh and blood maker, and contains all the constituents for nourishment found in wheat; in fact Miller's Emulsion is a perfect "staff of life" and has saved and cured thousands. East Northumberland Farmers' Institute.

Heavy Discussion—Great Interest Manifested.

WOOLER, Feb. 16th.

The annual meeting of the East Northumberland Farmers' Institute held here on Tuesday, Feb. 16th, was a decided success. The meeting was addressed by the secretary, Mr. J. J. Ewing, for a short time. The first paper read was by Mr. Stanley Rightmyer on bee keeping. He gave preparation for winter and showed very clearly how to keep them throughout the different seasons. Mr. E. H. Bate's papers on sheep were very much appreciated by all. He explained the modes of feeding and preparation. He impressed on his hearers that the wintering of them was very important, and they should always have access to the salt barrel. He being a student of Guelph Agricultural College, handled his subject well, and the way he led discussions speaks well for that institution.

Mr. G. B. Boyce then gave papers on the horse and horse stables, which were full of scientific and practical sensible instructions, concerning care in feeding and preparation of food for horses, choice of breeding stock for sale and home use, care and good order for sick horses, caution of driving, abolition of check reins, and construction of stables, floors, &c. The question next discussed was, if manure would be put on the soil in fall or spring, some upholding the former, and some the latter. Mr. Mark Sprague's paper "on care of pigs" was very carefully arranged, and a few important points touched on by him were—manner of keeping a litter in good sound condition until separation from the sow, the building adapted for them, the feed and preparation of same, &c.

Mr. E. A. Bally, milk inspector for territory lying between Toronto and Belleville, next discussed the dairy can question. He said he had found the best results from the Jersey cow, although he did not condemn the other breeds. In order to have a good dairy cow, you must have "the breed with the feed," that is, care should be taken in choosing the right sires and dams. He explained that there was no better place for dairying than in Ontario, experience being handy, etc.; he said our American cousins were much interested in this occupation, and that if we Canadians were not alive to our interests, they would go ahead of us in this subscription. In conclusion, he gave a synopsis of the testing of milk, and also as to the proper care in winter, and what feed should be given the dairy cow. The entire subject was delivered and discussed with much profit to the members present.

Mr. Dempsey then gave an address on apple culture, consisting of advice, which should be practiced by all. A few important points were: The price of apples here compared with that of the English market, care and how trees should be planted and what important varieties for foreign markets, also home use.

EVENING SESSION.

The hall was crowded in the evening and the concert given was very instructive and quite amusing. The Edison phonograph, conducted by Mr. W. H. Holmes, was in attendance. Music throughout the evening was furnished by the Wooler string band. The first speaker was Mr. Mark Sprague, Butter Instructor for Ontario, who gave a very interesting address on value of milk to supply cheese factories, according to quality instead of quantity. He set forth the subject in hand to the satisfaction of all. Mr. G. B. Boyce showed by illustration how to detect an unsound horse. Mr. H. E. Bailey then gave another address on cheese factories. The meeting was then brought to a close by the band giving "God Save the Queen." REPORTER.

SIX THOUSAND FOR A LIFE.

A Widow's Suit Against Her Husband's Murderer.

VINCENNES, Ind., Feb. 22.—The suit of Mrs. Alice A. Holmes, administratrix of the estate of Elsie W. Leech v. John W. Graeler and O'Connell Fairhurst, guardian, for damages occupied the attention of the Knox Circuit Court in this city since Saturday.

The plaintiff is the mother of Elsie W. Leech, a Pullman conductor on the Illinois Mountain Railroad, who was shot and killed last February at Bald Knob, Mo., by the defendant, a passenger, who had suddenly become insane. Graeler lives in Vincennes and is very wealthy. Since the killing he has been in a private asylum for the insane at Cincinnati, until recently when he was released, having regained his sanity. Fairhurst was appointed his guardian.

The case was bitterly fought and a great array of legal talent appeared on both sides.

The jury after deliberating all night, brought in a verdict for the plaintiff awarding her $6000.

Kissed the Corpse and Fell Dead.

NEW YORK, Feb. 22.—Mrs. Kate Hartsey, a sister of Undertaker Edward Hope, died at her home, in Third-street, Jersey City, Monday. Mrs. Isaac Kaylor, widow of Isaac Kaylor, a prominent Democratic politician, was at the house Monday night. She had been a life-long friend of Mrs. Hartsey. At midnight Mrs. Kaylor told the relatives that she was going home.

"I will take a last look at my dear friend," she said, and she bowed over the casket and kissed the lips of the corpse. The next moment Mrs. Kaylor gasped and fell to the floor, dead.

A physician said death resulted from heart disease.

A FATHER'S MISTAKE.

Gave His Babe Strychnine Instead of Teething Powder.

WIARTON, Ont., Feb. 22.—The 2-year-old child of John Lemcke complained of being unwell and feverish. The mother, thinking that the teeth was the cause, requested her husband to go to the cupboard and mix up one of the Steedman's teething powders. Not seeing the powder where he expected to find it, looked around and discovered another powder in a dish which he supposed was the powder desired, mixed it up and gave it. Ten minutes later the child was dead. The drug was strychnine, which had been purchased in Wiarton a few days previous to kill mice and had been in the dish.

POISION LURKED IN THE SODA.

Mrs. Jarrett Didn't Know It and Gave it to Her Neighbors.

BANGOR, Me., Feb. 22.—Last summer an old hunter named Jarrett, living near Green Lake, died suddenly. His wife and child-ren could not account for the strange malady, but no investigation was made. Soon afterwards the family moved away and settled in Mountain Chase.

Among their goods was a quantity of cooking soda, which was in a tin box. It was undisturbed until a few days ago, when in consequence of snow blockades soda in the neighborhood became scarce, and Mrs. Jarrett thought of the contents of the box and supplied all the families in the vicinity with soda.

The next day no less than 28 persons, all who partook of the bread made with the soda, became seriously ill.

An old man named Rider died last night and several of the older patients have since been dangerously ill.

The secret is admitted to have been the cause of the trouble. It is surmised that the box containing the soda had been previously used for some deadly poison employed by Jarrett in killing game or curing furs.

ALL BUT THE DRIVER.

A Train on the B & O. With 100 Passengers on Board Narrowly Escapes Going Over an Embankment.

PITTSBURG, Feb. 22.—The Wheeling express on the Wheeling division of the Baltimore and Ohio Railway with 100 passengers on board had a narrow escape from an awful accident near Whitehall, 12 miles south of this city, last night.

Near Whitehall and just around a steep curve is a temporary trestle 300 feet long, 40 feet high. The train was running at the rate of 35 miles an hour when it rounded the curve. The engine struck huge rocks which loosened by frost had rolled from the high embankment to the railroad.

An awful crash followed, the engine broke from the tender and left the track, the tender partly broke from the train and the separated parts rushed in a mad race for the trestle. When the engine reached the trestle proper it seemed to stop suddenly and plunge down the embankment. The train swept by in safety, being stopped by the air brakes at the other end of the trestle, as the engine toppled over. Engineer Mahan was thrown 40 feet in the air and killed. The fireman was also seriously hurt.

JESSE JAMES OUTDONE.

THE STAR OF THE WESTERN BANDIT PALES

Before the Daring Nerve of His Eastern Rival, Who Robs an Express Car, Shoots the Messenger, Stands at Engine Point of a Revolver and Keeps Up a Running Fire from the Cab of the Locomotive at His Pursuers—Finally Captured.

ROCHESTER, Feb. 22.—The shooting of an express messenger on a Central Hudson train, the rifling of a valuable safe, the flight of the robber on the engine of another train, from which he drove the crew at the point of a revolver; a running fight from the engine cab for miles, chased by another engine filled with railway men and final capture of the desperado by a sheriff's posse in a swamp after a wild pursuit across the country—these are some of the sensational features of the most desperate attempt at train robbery in the history of the Central Hudson Railway. The exploit ranks in the annals as an exhibition of coolness and nerve the famous exploits of the Jesse James band or other outlaws of Western fame.

Train No. 3 on the Central Hudson is known as the American Express Company's special. It runs every day in the year between New York and Buffalo and carries only goods and property shipped by that company.

The train leaves New York at 9 o'clock each evening and is due in this city at 7.05 o'clock in the morning. Usually all the cars are run through to Chicago and contain the most valuable express matter.

The Famous "Money Car."

One car is known as the "money" car and in it is sent the specie from the United States Treasury for Western banks, as well as money in process of exchange between banks of New York and the West. The load of wealth sent out from New York on this train is usually greater on Saturday evening than on other days and often amounts to more than a million dollars, in addition to bonds and other valuables. One of the most trusted messengers of the company and sometimes several are placed in charge of the car. One of these messengers observed in regard to this car and its contents that often the crew of the train do not know in which car the money is carried.

The Robber's Appearance.

Daniel T. McInerney of this city was in charge of the money car on the trip Saturday night. The train was made up of eight express cars and one day coach for the accommodation of the regular train crew. Only one messenger was assigned to the money car, as the work of billing was light. The other cars had two messengers.

The train left Syracuse at 5 o'clock this morning in charge of Conductor Emil Loass of this city. The train was drawn by engine 692, with Caleb Cherry, Engineer. The coach was in the rear of the train and the money car just ahead.

When the train was near Weedsport the conductor, who was in the coach with his two trainmen, thought he heard the air whistles sound very faintly. It was enough to arouse him to the belief that something was wrong in the express car.

Going out on the platform of the coach he climbed on the rail, and looking through the hole where the bell cord comes through he saw the upper part of a man whose face below the eyes was concealed by a red flannel mask. The messenger he could not see.

Bullets Commence Whistling.

He went back, set the air brakes and called his two trainmen. The three stood leaning out from the platform looking forward along the sides of the express car. Suddenly a man's form appeared at side door of the express car. Revolver bullets whistled past their ears and a voice was heard commanding them to signal the engineer to go ahead or take the consequences.

The trainmen were unarmed. The conductor told one of his men to jump off, run back to Jordan and telegraph along the line to Rochester that they had a train robber on board. This was done and the conductor signalled the engineer to go ahead full speed, thinking that the robber would not dare to jump and would be captured at the next stop.

Stained with Blood.

The train went to Pt. Byron. Here the brakes were set again and the conductor and the trainmen went to the express car. The car showed signs of a desperate struggle. Money packages and jewelry were lying scattered about. Everything in the car seemed stained with blood, and Messenger McInerney was lying bleeding from several wounds and almost unconscious. The robber was nowhere to be seen and was supposed to have jumped and made good his escape.

McInerney wanted to be brought on to Rochester. A telegram for an ambulance was sent to Rochester and train went on to Lyons, the next stop. The news had spread all along the line by this time and the station at Lyons was alive. Among others in the crowd was a well-dressed young man wearing gold eyeglasses and carrying a satchel, slung by a strap over his shoulder.

He Was the Robber.

Now, it so happened that the trainman had noticed this same young man at the station at Syracuse before the train pulled out and they had not seen him since, and the question of who he was doing at Lyons and how he got there at once suggested itself.

An attempt was made to seize him, but he pulled out two revolvers, held the crowd back and backed across the yard until he reached a coal train. The engine had steam up ready to pull out for the west he pulled the pin holding the tender to the first car, climbed over the coal into the cab, drove the engineer and fireman out with his revolvers and started the engine up.

Conductor Loass and one of the switchmen procured a shotgun, freed the engine of the express and with the firemen and engineer started in pursuit of the fugitive.

It will be remembered that the Central Hudson is a four-tracked road and the two engines, though both going west, were not on the same track.

A Duel at 30 Miles an Hour.

The express engine soon overtook the robber, who suddenly reversed his engine and let his pursuers pass him, pouring a perfect hail of pistol bullets into the cab as his pursuers went by. Then the pursuer stopped and the pursued went ahead.

Another artillery duel ensued, the shotgun taking part this time. No one was hurt in either battle.

About two miles beyond, the robber found his engine's steam was going out, so he jumped off at a cross road and started across the country, going south. He made a desperate effort to terrorize a farmer into letting him have a horse and rode on about two miles further south. Here he procured a horse and cutter, persuading the owner, a German farmer, to entrust him with them by firing on him.

Running the Bandit Down.

The party on the express engine had returned to Lyons, where the Sheriff of Wayne county had organized a posse, which, under command of Deputy-Sheriff Collins, started in pursuit.

Meantime the farmer along the robbers' line of retreat had also turned out fully armed, in pursuit. The runaway was sighted about five miles south of Newark. The roads are very bad and he had made poor speed. He abandoned his rig and ran to Benton's swamp, but this swamp proved too full of water to be penetrated and the fugitive took up his position behind a stone wall and faced his pursuers. After some parley he surrendered to Deputy Sheriff Collins.

He was taken to Lyons and lodged in jail. He gave the name of William Cross, said he was from New Mexico and had been boarding in Syracuse for some time.

He admitted that he was the man who had attempted the train robbery.

Cross is believed to be the much-wanted Oliver Curtis Perry, who robbed Express Messenger Moore near Utica last fall.

Perry, the Lyons train robber, was formerly a cowboy and later worked as a brakeman.

But it is believed Cross boarded the train when it pulled out of Syracuse, and climbed on top of the express car. He was provided with a hooked rope. Fastening the hook in the slight cornice of the roof on one side of the car, he let himself down on the other, and resting his toes on the ledge that runs around the car he looked in the glass of the side door and saw the express messenger in front of one of the safes, which was open, making up his books. He smashed the glass with his revolver, covered the messenger and shouted to him to hold up his hands.

The Shooting of the Messenger.

Instead of doing this McInerney reached for the signal cord with one hand for his revolver with the other. A bullet smashed the hand on the cord, but not before it had given the signal that aroused the conductor.

Then McInerney fired on the robber and put a bullet through his coat.

Cross climbed into the car and a desperate struggle took place, which did not end until the train was stopped for the first time near Weedsport.

It is evident the robber had climbed out on top of the express car and thence through the stop at Pt. Byron until the train reached Lyons.

A GREAT VICTORY

Mr. Northrup Elected by a Large Majority

EAST HASTINGS FALLS INTO LINE

The Member Elect Received With Great Enthusiasm—Addresses on the Market Square.

Great interest was manifested in the city on Saturday in the election in progress in East Hastings. A large number of our citizens have votes in the riding and both parties worked energetically in order to get the vote out. The excitement in various parts of the riding was great, it being thought by many that the contest would be close. At five o'clock a large number gather d at the Conservative headquarters on Front street and anxiously awaited the returns. The first to arrive was from the village of Sinshnonville, in the township of Tyendinaga, showing a majority of 47 for Mr. Northrup, being an increase of 12 over last year. This was hailed with delight and upon being announced was received with cheers. The returns from the town of Deseronto were shortly after received, and when it was announced that that town, the municipal constituency of the Reform candidate—had rolled up the handsome majority of 294, the enthusiasm of the Conservatives knew no bounds, and cheer after cheer rent the air. The Reform party were on the other hand despondent, as they realized that they were hopelessly beaten. At first the news was discredited, but a subsequent message confirmed the report. This was an increase of 187 majority over that of 1891. Returns from various parts of the riding came in quick succession. With but two or three exceptions, the majorities recorded for the popular Government candidate were in excess of those obtained by him last year. It was soon apparent that Mr. Northrup had been elected and that by a large majority. When returns from the good old township of Hungerford had all been received, it was found that it had rolled up a handsome majority for the Conservative standard-bearer. The township of Thurlow also did itself credit, giving but 26 majority for Mr. Aylsworth, a reduction of 97 from the previous contest. In Tyendinaga, however, a greater change has taken place, and a majority for the Liberal candidate in 1891 of 78 has been turned into a majority of 46 for the Conservative candidate. Shortly before 9 o'clock all the polls in the riding, with but one exception, had been heard from, and when the announcement was made that Mr. Northrup's majority was in the vicinity of 400 the crowd which had assembled in the committee rooms and upon the street gave cheer upon cheer. At this stage of the proceedings a telegram was read which stated that Mr. Smith, the Conservative candidate in South Ontario, had wrested the seat from the former Liberal member, Mr. Davidson, by 150 majority. This news was hailed with delight. In the meantime enquiries were being made about the member elect for East Hastings, and it was learned that he was in Deseronto and that he would arrive in the city upon the mixed train, which was due here at 10 o'clock. It was then decided by his friends and supporters that they would give him a royal welcome home. Accordingly the I.O.O.F. band was engaged and a large number of sleighs were pressed into service and headed the march to the station. In some cases upon a number of new brooms were to be seen, an appropriate reminder that a clean sweep had been made. The party had but a short wait to make at the station when the train drove in sight. When it stopped the crowd surged forward to obtain a glance at the conquering hero. As Mr. Northrup stepped upon the platform a mighty cheer rent the air, and he was picked up and carried to a sleigh which was in waiting for him. The triumphal procession then started off towards Front street amid cheers, the blowing of horns, and the playing of the band. Fireworks were discharged and the scene was a lively one. Upon Front street a dense crowd had assembled and rejoicing was rampant. A halt was made at the market square, where short addresses were delivered by the member elect and Mr. H. Corby, M.P. When Mr. Northrup arose to speak three rousing cheers were given him. He thanked his friends in the riding and in the city who had stood by him in the contest and worked so energetically in his behalf. Their labors had not been in vain. The returns showed that he had been elected by over 500 majority. (Loud cheers.) Whilst all had done their duty, he felt proud of the town of Deseronto, which had rolled up such a handsome majority. In conclusion he stated that he would do all that he could for the riding.

Mr. H. Corby, M.P., was the next speaker and was received with loud cheers. He was proud of the glorious victory which had been attained. He had worked for Mr. Northrup and he was pleased that he had been elected, and he was confident that in him East Hastings would find a worthy representative. He repudiated the statement which had been made in the Ontario during the contest in reference to him (the speaker). They were falsehoods, but now that the contest was ended the public had secured how would forgive them. He thanked his East Hastings and also West Hastings friends and also those of Prince Edward for the manner in which they had stood by Mr. Northrup in the fight.

The procession was again reformed and marched up Front street to the residence of Mr. Northrup. Before leaving three cheers were given for the member elect.

AT DESERONTO.

On Saturday evening after the Deseronto votes had been counted, no Grits could be found ; evidently they had crawled into the holes they were preparing for Conservatives. The enthusiasm shown when the announcement was made of a majority of 294 for Mr. Northrup, was never equalled here. The M.P. was called on at the Deseronto House and addressed the great crowd gathered. Later, when his election was assured, Mr. Northrup addressed a crowd of fully 2,000, thanking them for the work they had done in not only electing him, but in supporting the Government at Ottawa, and also supporting the firm at the back of the town, who were alive not only to the interests of Deseronto but of Canada. In the returns it will be seen that Mr. Northrup has a majority of 111 outside of Deseronto, and that therefore the votes of the "white slaves" were not necessary, and that it was equally unnecessary for the "sneaking foreman" to work so hard. But those to whom the above appellations were applied the night before election, and on election day, knew what they were about, and voted not only in the interests of the Rathbun Co., but their own interests. Some of these "white slaves" own more than one-half of a building lot, simply for voting upon ; they have neat and pleasant homes, and have some interests in the town that they care to protect, and have said so by their votes.

The Grits had not the courage of former years to openly buy votes. On Friday evening a number of lawyers and local leaders of Napanee were noticed in town, and a "vigilance committee" was at once appointed by the Conservative Association and patroled the streets all night. A number of attempts were made to go into houses, but just at the moment a Grit was seen to go towards a door some one "not interested" was walking by the house, and, of course, the Grit heeler dare not go in. Thus bribery was checked here in town.

The great party of "purity and reform," as the Grits style themselves, in this town have got a set task that will do them for some time to come, and perhaps they will learn that the "country is going to the dogs" and the kind of dogs that will stay in Ottawa to protect the interests of Canada.

One of the most contemptable things on the programme of the Grits on election day was to swear the Indians as they voted.

Some of the imported Napanee scrutineers conducted themselves in a most outrageous manner at the polls, while those who were gentlemanly did things that may land them in a place the county runs for those who violate the laws.

Election day was very quiet all day, only the earnestness of each party in getting out the voters was worthy of note.

We have been unable to obtain the figures as all the polls. The majorities, however, are as follows :

POLITICAL POINTS

When the announcement was made in the Reform rooms that the vote in Deseronto had struck high water mark at 294 for Mr. Northrup, the faces of those present fell as if baby was dead.

* * *

The only support from a distance that the Conservative party had at their meeting in East Hastings was Mr. Curran, M. P. for Montreal Centre, who spoke twice.

* * *

Sir Richard spoke for the Reformers in Tweed and the Conservative mercury rose to 83 in the village and 46 in the township —a gain of 91 since last election.

* * *

He spoke twice in Thurlow and the Reform mercury dropped 57 degrees.

* * *

Light-bread Tait spoke in Tyendinaga, and the Reform mercury dropped to 46 degrees below zero. The local Reform stumpers did not count in the contest.

* * *

Our friends from Prince Edward, and particularly from Ameliasburg, came over in force and worked manfully until the last vote was polled ; for which, gentlemen, many thanks.

* * *

Whilst we are talking of the magnificent majority in Deseronto, let us not forget that Tweed's high water mark is 83, almost, if not quite, as large in proportion as Deseronto. Nobly done, Tweed ! We are proud of you.

* * *

We could not particularize the various polls, as our friends worked nobly at them all, and in some hardest, where the result is not apparent as in some wards, as we contended against great odds.

* * *

The only single poll that we will mention is the front of Thurlow, where we have to thanks Mr. Quinlan and friends for lifting the majority from 8 to 60. Hurley and Leavens thought they owned the poll, but lost their grip.

* * *

Whilst the Ontario will doubtless work itself into a frenzy over the oft-repeated charges of bribery and corruption, let us here remind it that two Ontario Government supporters purchased a barrel of whiskey the day before election to send to Tyendinaga.

* * *

If the Ontario dares deny it we will give the names of the purchasers, but we scarcely think that it will go so far. If the Grits have anything they will acknowledge that they are fairly whipped, and we will take it for granted that they are sorry for it.

* * *

West Hastings is the hub of the barley growing district in Ontario, and is also the hub of a grand political Conservative wheel, surrounding it is the Lennox, Prince Edward, North Hastings, East Northumberland and Prince Edward.

* * *

The Reformers of Thurlow are boasting that their majority was not entirely swept out of existence, but few fully appreciate the odds that the Conservative party have to fight against in Thurlow.

* * *

Eleazar has been made a License Commissioner, and worked it for all it was worth in Foxboro, with the result of an increased majority for the Reformers at that poll.

* * *

To show the advantage that the Reformers have in the list, it is only necessary to state that 201 votes were cast from Albert College for the Grit candidate.

* * *

Most of those votes are cast by students who have come here principally to pursue their studies, and not to learn political trickery from such teachers as the deposed Reeve of Thurlow, Vermilyea and associates.

* * *

Albert College receives its support from the public, irrespective of politics, and should be conducted on a strictly non-political basis.

A RED LETTER DAY IN BELLEVILLE!

"Beware the IDES OF MARCH," said the grave soothsayer to Julius Cæsar, as he passed in triumphant procession to the SACRED SUPERCALIA ; and within a month Julius lay dead at the base of Pompey's Pillar, but we do not fear the Ides of March and all lovers of GOOD CLOTHING in Belleville may well hail the month of March, 1892, for it will witness such REVELATION IN THE CLOTHING TRADE as the county of Hastings has never seen before.

If the management is satisfied to allow the teachers to conduct it on a political basis, well and good ; but the Conservatives should know it, so that they can govern themselves accordingly in giving.

* * *

When Mr. Laurier was here a body of students, headed by one of the teachers, paraded the streets singing "we'll hang Sir John to a sour apple tree," which, for the sake of the college, we refrained from mentioning at the time.

* * *

But when they have gone so far as to place such of these students as will vote the Reform ticket on the list, patience ceases to be a virtue.

Mr. Ingram's majority in East Elgin is officially stated as 493.

In South Perth and Monck nomination will take place March 3, polling March 10 ; in Montmorency, Que., March 4 and 11 are the dates.

Daniel J. Riordon, a Grit J.P. of Annapolis, N.S., has been committed for trial for forging the name of a man named Mills in his anxiety to get the name on the voters' list.

East Hastings.

How does the election in East Hastings suit you ? It was a great victory. Any strong things that have been said in this last week or two ought to be taken back now, and everybody settle down to business. The Oak Hall clothing house, however, have been advertising men's solid tweed suits for $5 00 and they are not going to take that statement back. You men who have been working so hard in the election that you have not had time to come and secure one of those bargains, we give you another opportunity. Remember they will not last long. Good solid wove tweed suits at the Oak Hall for only $5.00.

Collapse of a Roof.

At 1 o'clock this morning the roof upon the large stable of Mr. John Lake, Ivierman, collapsed, owing to the large quantity of snow upon it. At the time there were some 40 horses in the stable, but fortunately all were secured without injury. Some damage was sustained to vehicles which were stored in the building. The escape of the animals from injury was miraculous, as the collapse was complete, and some of the horses appeared to be buried in the ruins.

AMUSEMENTS

"PLAYMATES" TO-NIGHT.

The dress rehearsal Saturday night went off smoothly, and as the plan is well filled up, there is every indication of a large audience to-night. The performance will be repeated to-morrow night.

Oh, What a Cough,

Will you heed the warning. The signal perhaps of the sure approach of that more terrible disease Consumption. Ask yourselves if you can afford for the sake of saving 50c., to run the risk and do nothing for it. We know from experience that Shiloh's Cure will cure your cough. It never fails.

Death Roll.

MRS. DR. HIGINBOTHAM DEAD.

A large circle of friends will unite with us in expressions of regret at the death of an estimable lady, Mrs. Higinbotham, relict of the late Dr. A. Higinbotham. The death of Mrs. Higinbotham does not come unexpectedly, as she has been an invalid for a number of years ; her death, however, was hastened by the prevailing epidemic of influenza. She died at 8 o'clock last night, retaining her consciousness to the last, and died in peace, trusting to that One who has been her support through life. The deceased lady was born in Cootehill, Co. Cavan, Ireland, 24th June, 1822 ; she was married to the late Dr. And'w Higinbotham in 1842, and with him came to Canada in that year. They came to reside in Belleville in 1876. Of six children, four are still living—Dr. Higinbotham, of Brantford, Mr. Andrew Higinbotham, druggist, Lindsay, and Miss Jennie and Miss Minnie, of this city. Mrs. Higinbotham died on the 22nd inst., the anniversary of the death of Dr. Higinbotham, and on the same day of the week.

Mr. Andrew Higinbotham arrived in the city on Saturday night, and Dr. Higinbotham last night. The funeral takes place tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

MRS. JAS. FALCONER.

Another highly respected resident passed to the great majority in the death of Mrs. James Falconer, which occurred this morning after only a week's sickness. The deceased leaves a husband and seven children to mourn the loss of a good wife and mother.

MR. JAS. ARNOTT.

Mr. Jas. Arnott, an aged resident of this city, died suddenly yesterday afternoon. He ate a hearty dinner and appeared to be in his usual health, but shortly after dropped dead, the cause being heart disease. He was a member of the Orange order and will be buried under their auspices tomorrow.

Commendable.

All claims not consistent with the high character of Syrup of Figs are purposely avoided by the Cal. Fig Syrup Company. It acts gently on the kidneys, liver and bowels, cleansing the system effectually, but it is not a cure all and makes no pretensions that every bottle will not substantiate.

File! Piles! Itching Piles.

SYMPTOMS.—Moisture ; intense itching and stinging ; worse by scratching ; if allowed to continue tumors form, which often bleed and ulcerate, becoming very sore. SWAYNE'S OINTMENT stops the itching and bleeding, heals ulceration, and in most cases removes the tumors. At druggists, or by mail, at 50 cents. Dr. Swayne & Son, Philadelphia. Lyman, Sons & Co., Montreal, Wholesale Agents.

A Guard Gone.

The iron guard placed on the eave of the south side of John St. Presbyterian church a few years ago to prevent snow slides gave way this morning under the pressure of an accumulation of ice and snow. Under the supervision of Mr. Jas. Smith the guard is now being repaired.

For several years I was persistently annoyed with an excessive accumulation of Dandruff and although using various preparations recommended and shampooing regularly once a week, no material relief was realized until my attention was called to Anti-Dandruff, which has produced unlooked-for results in my case, four applications removing every particle of Dandruff, and as a specific for this trouble it certainly has no equal.

A disease of the scalp that causes falling of the hair, fading of the hair, in fact, death of the hair. It irritates the scalp and causes scales and excessive eruptions—produces baldness. Bear in mind that Anti Dandruff removes Dandruff with 3 applications—stops falling and restores fading hair to its original color. Sold by druggists at 75 cents per bottle.

The Stone-Cutter of Lisbon

A NOVEL BY

WM. HENRY PECK.

CHAPTER III.

THE SUDDEN OUTBREAK OF THE WORKMEN.

Having changed his three hundred enemies to three hundred friends, and thereby unconsciously increased the hatred of Diego Alva, Stonio hastened toward the carriage, not to receive the well merited thank of those who lives he had saved, but to recover his tools—his mallet and chisel.

"Here my man," cried the Count, in a voice will tremulous from fright, "open this door so that I may leave the carriage."

The vehicle was still violently swaying about from the fierce struggles of the two prostrate living horses in their attempts to regain their feet, and there was still great danger that it might be dragged around, should they succeed, and be toppled into the quarry.

The driver and footman were hurriedly scrambling from their seats, and the whole scene was one of confusion—the pole of the carriage shattered, the horses struggling, the footman and driver cursing and howling, the Count fumbling and fuming at the lock of the door, and the young lady evidently as alarmed as ever.

The young noble still leaned back in his seat, with folded arms, and his dark, haughty face pale yet, but frowning, turned toward the marble yard.

"Come, come!" cried the Count, as the carriage, already within a few feet of the quarry's edge, was suddenly twisted a few inches nearer; "make haste, make haste to let me out."

"Holady first," said Stonio, as with a light bound, little to be expected in one of his calling and powerful frame, he sprang upon the hub of one of the carriage wheels and, leaning over the edge of the vehicle, extended his arms toward the lady.

Not until that instant did the haughty features of the young noble lose the marble like immobility which was their prominent peculiarity. A scornful and e curled about his thin, delicate lips, and a flame, red and glowing, seemed to flash a sombre brightness over his face as he saw this man in the garb of a stone-cutter, apparently about to grasp the form of Lady Hilda, and rising in the carriage he said, haughtily:

"Back, fellow! Would you put your dirty hands upon a lady?"

"Yes, or upon an angel, when a devil is near!" boldly replied the stone-cutter, returning the haughty stare of the noble with a piercing, defiant glance; and lifting Lady Hilda from the carriage as if she were a child, he placed her upon her feet in the street, bowed, and and said:

"Pardon my touch, lady, for there is still danger where you were."

He was back to the carriage in an instant, and with a single exertion of his right hand tore open the door at which the Count was struggling. The lock had become jammed by the twisting and wrenching of the carriage when it was checked by the collision with the prostrate horses, so that when Stonio pulled the door he tore it badly from hinges and lock fastening, exhibiting in that single act a power of arm which caused the young noble to think twice before striking him with his cane, as he had a desire to do.

"Now, Don Pedro, you may descend," said Stonio, as with a rapid movement he lowered the steps of the carriage. "Haste, sir, for these mad brutes seem determined to have the carriage over the brink."

The Count, heavy and slow, floundered to the ground just as the horses, having regained their feet, reared and plunged forward; the harness of the two dead brutes was snapped asunder, the driver and footman beaten down, and then, with a mad leap, one of the horses went over the brink dragging his fellow after him.

The carriage would certainly have gone over also, had not Stonio snatched from the driver's hand the knife the man had not dared to use, and cut the traces. And had the carriage gone over, certainly the haughty young noble would have gone with it, and been dashed to pieces on the sharp pointed rocks fifty feet below, for he still remained in the vehicle, cold, calm, and contemptuous.

The killing of the horses, the words of Stonio to the men in the yard, and all that happened afterward, up to the moment when the surviving horses disappeared over the brink of the quarry, happened in far less time than we have used in narrating what took place.

"Santa Maria!" sputtered the Count—and these were the first words he had found breath to utter since the rescue from the carriage—"Santa Maria!" he repeated, starting, and he stared at the undisturbed face of the young noble. "Santa Maria! and he the stone-cutter, and now with a groan, "four magnificent horses killed outright."

"And five human lives saved!" exclaimed Lady Hilda, offering both of her fair hands to the stone-cutter, as she added: "And not the less grateful to God and you, sir," to Hilda, Countess of Valveda. Nay, give me no bow, sir, give me your hands, that all may see, all offer you mine, freely and heartily, that I may grasp them as my heart grasps your noble courage and admirable address."

She thought him a man far past middle age, for, as we have intimated, his hair and beard were grimed and white with marble-dust, and so indeed were his eyebrows and his face. Whether he was handsome or not, old or young, would have made no difference with warm and noble hearted Hilda Montredores. She believed him to be as he appeared in that coarse garb, and with the dust of honest labor upon him, a stone-cutter, and no more: and had he been a stately young duke, radiant in gleaming diamonds and glittering velvet, her heart could not have gone towards him more cordially than it did, as she clasped his horny, hard and calloused palms in her white, soft hands, and said:

"You have saved me from a dreadful death, sir, and all my life I shall pray for your happiness, and if there is anything you may need, all that I can do or give shall be at your disposal."

He had not lifted his hat from his head yet; true, he had touched it gracefully and with an ease that had caught the quick observation of the haughty young noble sitting in the shattered carriage; but Stonio was not one to bare his head before titled personages because they and not he were titled. He would have bared it to the lady, had that cold, proud hidalgo in the carriage been so near; but to lift his hat when the supercilious noble was there at his elbow would have seemed a salutation half meant for him.

But when Lady Hilda released his hands he took off his hat, and so revealed to her surprised eyes his raven-black and glossy hair and the smooth, unwrinkled whiteness of a broad, lofty forehead, till then hidden by his hat.

"Ah, you are a young man," she said, blushing deeply, and letting fall till quickly over her face, but raising it again she added: "Young or old, you have acquired the right to see the face of the one whose life you have saved."

"Ha! hum! here, my man!" said Count Pedro, advancing, after a cautious peep over the edge of the quarry, "Are you sure, now, positively sure, that the horses would have kept straight on—ahem—and dragged us over."

"Of course," replied Stonio, surprised at the question.

"They might have turned, you know, just here, say, and gone on down or up this street until stopped as they soon would have been," said the Count. "Don't you think so, now?" all over."

Stonio, who had replaced his hat the instant the Count addressed him, merely shook his head in reply.

"And now that it is all over, my man," continued the Count, pointedly, "are you sure there was no way by which you could have checked or turned aside those splendid animals, except by—by slaughtering them?"

"If I had not killed as I did, and when I did, sir, the world, and especially the stone cutters of Lisbon, would now be weeping over your shattered body," replied Stonio, with a quiet irony lost upon Count Pedro, but detected by the observant young noble in the carriage.

"Perhaps so, perhaps so," said the Count. "Is that your opinion, Prince Enrique?" he added, addressing the young noble in the carriage.

(To be Continued.)

HIDDEN FOES.

Among the many foes to human health and happiness, dyspepsia and constipation are twin enemies greatly to be feared. With B.B.B. to drive them out of the system, however, no danger need be anticipated, as every dose brings the sufferer a long step step further on the road to perfect health and strength, and a permanent cure always results.

THE BLOOD IS THE LIFE.

Cold health without pure blood is simply impossible, and to secure pure blood is therefore absolutely necessary, especially in spring, when bad blood is very prevalent. Burdock Blood Bitters is the remedy, without an equal in the world of medicine. It drives out all poisonous humors of the blood from a common pimple to the worst scrofulous sore.

In order to quiet a hacking cough, take a dose of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil thrice a day, or oftener if the cough spells render it nec ssary. This widely esteemed remedy also cures croup in the back, rheumatic complaints, kidney ailments, pains, etc. It is used inwardly and outwardly.

Have you tried Holloway's Corn Cure? It has no equal for removing these troublesome excrescences, as many have testified who have tried it.

We must use or lose. The servant who buried his talent was the only one who lost it.

A WONDERFUL CHANGE.

GENTLEMEN,—For twenty years I suffered from rheumatism, dyspepsia, poor appetite, etc., and received no benefits from the many medicines I tried, but after taking five bottles of B.B.B. I can eat heartily of fish, pork, food, am strong and smart. It is a grand medicine and has made a wonderful change in my health.

MRS. W. H. LEE, Harley, Ont.

Mr H. B. McKinnon, painter, Mount Albert, says,—"Last summer my system became impregnated with the lead I used in painting; my body was covered with scarlet spots as large as a 25-cent piece, and I was in such a state that I could scarcely walk. I got a bottle of Northrop and Lyman's Vegetable Discovery, and at once commenced taking it in large doses and before one bottle had been used there was not a spot to be seen, and I never felt better in my life."

The man who does right only because he has to, isn't much of a Christian.

The Best Pills—Mr. Wm. Vandervoort, Sidney Crossing, Ont., writes—"We have been using Parmelee's Pills, and find them by far the best pills we ever used." For Delicate and Debilitated Constitutions these Pills act like a charm. Taken in small doses, this fact is both a tonic and a stimulant, mildly exciting the secretions of the body, giving tone and vigor.

The greatest blood purifier is the one whose mistakes never teach him anything.

TRAGIC FATE OF A NEGRO

HE WAS BURNED TO DEATH AT THE STAKE.

Thousands of the Best People at Texarkana, Ark., See Ed. Coy Roasted to Death—He Criminally Assaulted a Farmer's Daughter.

TEXARKANA, Ark., Feb. 23.—Ed Coy is no more. Last Saturday he criminally assaulted Mrs. Henry Jewell, the young wife of a respectable farmer two miles south of this town, since which time he has succeeded in eluding the officers, until this morning, when he was discovered at the home of Ed Gains, negro, four miles north of here. He had a mistress at the home of Gains, and it was she who gave him away, for the safety, perhaps, of herself and family acting as an intuitive. The posse in search of Coy suspected that he was being harbored by Gains and two or three times this week put a rope around the latter's neck and assured him that death would certainly be his portion should he fail to notify the posse upon the first appearance of Coy. This morning early the mistress of Coy went to the house of a white neighbor, A. B. Scott, living near by, and told him that Coy was at the house of Gains. Scott at once sent a messenger with the news post haste to town and a posse immediately went out to arrest the negro. Meantime, however, Coy and both Gains' house, but was apprehended and taken in charge by Mr. Scott and two sons, who held him until the arrival of the men from town.

The latter immediately brought their prisoner in, and placing him in a carriage conveyed him to the Jewell farm, where Mrs. Jewell, without hesitation, identified him beyond all doubt as the man who outraged her. The trembling wretch was then returned to town, placed in a room with a number of guards and a heavy guard also placed outside the building. It being resolved that he should not be disposed of until all the posses that were still out should be called in, in order that they might take part in the proceedings.

All the posse were in by 2 o'clock, and the leaders, after a consultation, decided to hang him to a telegraph pole on Broad-street at the State line, the most public place in the city. Coy was accordingly marched to this point with a view to carry out the program, but when the crowd saw the rope and divined that a hanging had been decided upon there were thunders of protest.

"Away with the rope; hanging is too good for him, burn him, burn him." were the shouts that went up from 5000 throats. The leaders soon saw the futility of opposing the mob's wishes, but stated that the crowd would take place out of town, and to this the crowd agreed. Half trotting, and half running, the crowd hauled the doomed wretch along with them, out on Clinton-street, then south on College Hill-street until the Iron Mountain railroad had been crossed. Here a beautiful grass plot of ten or three acres, a mass of trees or shrubbery, save one tree 18 inches in diameter and broken off at the top. To this tree Coy was hurried, and one man who still favored hanging, began climbing the tree. In a flash a score of Winchesters were leveled at his head and he was glad to descend. The announcement was then made that the next man who should attempt to climb the tree would be hung on it, and that the negro was going to be burned, and that was all there was to it.

Coy was strapped to the body of the tree with iron fastenings, and coal oil was poured over his entire person in liberal quantities. There was a moment's silence and then the torch went up. It was, "Let Mrs. Jewell apply the match; let Mrs. Jewell set him off." Walking slowly and very pale, but collected, the woman emerged from the crowd. Her appearance among them set the mob fairly wild, and such a cheer went up as shook the very ground on which they were standing. The crowd fell back at her approach, making a pathway for her, who, leaning upon the arm of a brother relative on either side, walked unhesitatingly forward to where the negro stood pinioned, struck a parlor match with her own hand and with perfect deliberation fired the negro's clothes in two places. In a second the poor wretch was one mass of consuming flames, but even in death his wonderful nerve, exhibited ever since his arrest, never forsook him, and while suffering the tortures of fire he actually called to the men of the assembly and in a clear voice requested of them, "Move back so the ladies can see." He referred to the negro woman, a large number of whom witnessed the execution.

Coy made but little noise pending his horrible death, except to groan and grunt, and died in about 20 minutes after the application of the torch. A few minutes before he was taken out to meet his horrible death he was seen by a reporter. He did not seem at all nervous, and protested his innocency, saying at the same time that he felt sure he was about to be put to death. He reiterated his denial of guilt while the mob was struggling with him on the streets, and died with the lie on his lips, as there is not a shadow of doubt as to his guilt.

Quite a number of persons favored hanging, but they were in a hopeless minority and were easily ridden down by those who desired to strike terror to the hearts of the negroes by making Coy an awful example, and these thought fire the only proper instrument of death.

Up to midnight everything is comparatively quiet and no troublesome results are feared. The negro generally favored the hanging, but have little fault to find that fire was resorted to.

THE ROBBER IDENTIFIED.

The Savvy Central Hudson Express Robber at Last Undergoes His Identity.

ROCHESTER, Feb. 23.—The American Express car robber has been fully identified as Oliver Curtis Perry of Syracuse, suspected of the Utica train robbery of last October, and has confessed that he is the man wanted for that attempt. He was not arraigned to-day, but spent the day in jail at Lyons receiving visitors, among whom was his father. He will be examined to-morrow morning.

THE POODLE'S BITE FATAL.

Terrible Convulsions of a Man Scarcely Scratched by a Tooth.

SOUTH BETHLEHEM, Pa., Feb. 23.—Bitten, or scarcely more than scratched on the leg by a poodle that ran up behind him 10 days ago, Frank Hippenstiel of Centre Valley is now dying of hydrophobia. Five men were unable to strap him down to a bed, so violent were his convulsions when the malady seized him yesterday. Three doctors are having a tough time with the sufferer.

Robbed the Peddler.

WINNIPEG, Feb. 23.—A jewelry peddler named Golden, hailing from Montreal, who had been selling watches in the lumber camp in the vicinity of Rat Portage, had his valise stolen yesterday. It contained 150 watches valued at $3000. There is no clue to the thief.

Have had cancer over seven years, and no medicine ever did me as much good as B.B.B. I feel sure that sufferers from cancer can obtain relief or even cure from B.B.B., and will be pleased to answer any questions as to the use and benefit received from this remedy.

Dangerous Counterfeits.

Counterfeits are always dangerous, more so that they always closely IMITATE THE ORIGINAL IN APPEARANCE AND NAME. The remarkable success achieved by Nasal Balm as a positive cure for Catarrh and Cold in the head has induced unprincipled parties to imitate it. The public are cautioned not to be deceived by spurious imitating Nasal Balm in name and appearance, bearing such names as Nasal Cream, Nasal Balsam, etc. Ask for Nasal Balm and do not take any imitation dealers may try to palm upon you. For sale by all druggists or sent post-paid on receipt of price (50c. and $1.) by addressing Hagyard & Co. Brockville, Ont.

A CRYING EVIL.

Every crying evil should be promptly removed. Sick headache is a crying evil affecting thousands of Canadians, which can easily be removed by the use of Burdock Blood Bitters, the best known stomach, liver and bowel regulator and cure for sick headache from whatever cause arising.

Inflammation of the Eyes Cured.

Mr. Jacob D. Miller, Newbury, writes,—"I was troubled with inflammation of the eyes, so that during nearly the whole of the summer of 1882 I could not work; I took several bottles of Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery, and it gives me great pleasure to inform you that it cured me of my affliction. It is an excellent medicine for Costiveness."

He who chases two hares will catch neither.

Mr. Thomas Ballard, Syracuse, N.Y., writes,—"I have been afflicted for nearly a year with that most terrible dreaded disease Dyspepsia, and at times was unable to eat and want of sleep, and after trying almost everything recommended I tried one box of Parmelee's Pills. I am now nearly well, and believe they will cure me. I would not be without them for any money."

It won't do a bit of good to whitewash the evil curb so long as there is poison in the water.

S. Chadwick, of Arcadia, Wayne Co., writes,—"I have had severe attacks of Asthma for several years and commenced taking Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil. The first dose relieved me in one hour. I continued taking it in teaspoonful doses for a few days, and have not had an attack since, now nearly one year."

An able man shows his spirit by gentle words and resolute actions. He is neither hot nor timid.

Use the safe, pleasant and effectual worm killer Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator; it hits equals it. Procure a bottle and take it home.

We should all be great men if we could be measured by the great things we intend to do to-morrow.

For Over Fifty Years

MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP has been used for children teething. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, cures wind colic, and is the best remedy for Diarrhœa. Twenty-five cents a bottle. Sold by all druggists throughout the world.

TRACKED TO THE MOUNTAINS.

A Prince of the House of Bonaparte Stole a Turkish Minister's Wife.

PANAMA, Feb. 23.—A newspaper of Orizo, Bolivia, has the following: "Princess Bonaparte Wyse Sare, mother of M. Jose Paul Fure, is here en route to Santa Cruz in quest of her son, who, while an attache of the French Legation at Constantinople last October, made love to and fled with the wife of a high official in the Sultan's service, and has since been living quietly with his fair Circassian innocents way up in the Santa Cruz Mountains, whence he had turned a deaf ear to the appeals of his family and friends in France. His mother thinks, however, that she can prevail upon him to return with her to Paris, hence her visit to this republic and present trip to Santa Cruz.

But madam, the mother, will probably have her pains for nothing, for another newspaper says:

"M. Pexon, attache of the French Legation at La Paz, spent several days in this city on his return from Santa Cruz, where he went recently in quest of information as to one M. Fure, a prince of the house of Bonaparte, who suddenly disappeared from Paris several months past, and went to Constantinople, and was afterwards reported to be living incognito in this republic.

"He found the Prince living quietly on an immense hacienda—in the vicinity of Chiquitos with a beautiful Circassian girl, said to be the wife of one of the Sultan's favorite Ministers of State, who eloped from the Turkish capital by night with the gay young French Prince.

"M. Fure told M. Pexon that nothing could induce him to abandon his present life and return to the bosom of his friends and family in the Old World."

CAST UP BY THE SEA.

Further Details of the Loss by the Recent Storms in Europe.

LONDON, Feb. 23.—Later information from Penzance shows that the steamer lost off that port was the Violante (Br.), 556 tons, bound from Rotterdam for Liverpool. The body of a man has been thrown ashore by the sea at Penzance. It is supposed he belonged on the lost steamer.

Terrible weather prevailed in St. George's Channel last night. The French steamer Trigsac foundered off the Scilly Islands and three of her crew were drowned.

A despatch from Gibraltar states that during the storm—the Italian bark, Nina Schrafino, went ashore at Cape Spartel and was wrecked. Seven of her crew were drowned.

A large steamer bound from Glasgow for South Africa is stranded at Merry's Castle, county Wexford.

The yacht Surprise has been wrecked at Donaghadee, county Down.

The schooner Jane and Alice foundered off Dungarvan, county Wexford.

The list of casualties due to the fierce gales which have just swept over the coast of Great Britain increases. Among the wrecks is the Norwegian timber ship Dronning Sophie, which went ashore at Galley Head, a promontory of Ireland in county Cork. Her crew of 11 men were saved.

Vaubourg, the Paris Assassin of Boutry, Sentenced.

PARIS, Feb. 23.—Charles Vaubourg, the porter of the house No. 27 Rue de Charonne, in the cellar of which the mutilated body of a fellow-porter named Boutry was found on Nov. 4 last, was to-day convicted of being Boutry's murderer, and was sentenced to penal servitude for life.

The Boutry murder was one of the most sensational affairs in the recent criminal annals of Paris. What was known as "the mystery of the headless corpse" baffled the skill of the police for several months.

Finally a web of circumstantial evidence was ingeniously woven around Vaubourg, and during a private examination by M. Athalin, the magistrate whose acuteness had much to do with the unravelling of the Eyraud-Gouffe mystery, Vaubourg broke down and confessed the crime.

Vaubourg stated that he had invited his friend Boutry to sleep with him; that during the night they had quarrelled, and that he had seized Boutry by the throat and choked him.

To conceal the crime Vaubourg hid the body in the cellar, but cut off the head and threw it down a sewer, so that the body could not be identified when found.

BELLEVILLE, TUESDAY, FEB. 23

THE VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

It was only the expected which happened. They might have known any time during the last quarter of a century that reciprocity in natural products was not obtainable at Washington. Had they taken the advice of the Liberals and gone with a proposition which could be entertained, the result would no doubt have been very different and the great producing classes of Canada might have been cheered with the prospect of better days. Now there is nothing for it but to fight the battle over again in the Canadian constituencies, and send to Ottawa men who will support a policy of free trade with our neighbors. The farmers and working classes of South Ontario, West Huron, East Hastings and all other constituencies in which elections are soon to be held can go far in settling the matter even yet in this Parliament. Let them roll up such majorities for the Liberal candidates as will show by a voice not to be mistaken how vital to their interests is the success of a policy of free trade with the Continent. —Globe.

Well, the people have given their verdict on "free trade with the continent." What does the Globe think of their decision?

After the bye-elections have been held there will be but four members in the border counties between Lake Erie and Montreal in favor of the Grit policy, namely Lincoln, East York, West Durham and Addington. The Conservative seats in the same district are: Wentworth S., Haldimand, Halton, Hamilton (2), Toronto (3), West York, South Ontario, East Durham, East Northumberland, Prince Edward, West Hastings, East Hastings, Lennox, Frontenac, Algoma, South Leeds, Brockville, Dundas, Stormont, Glengarry, Soulanges, Beauharnois, Laprairie, Jacques Cartier and Montreal. Welland, Monck and West Northumberland, which have still to elect, will probably choose Conservatives.

EDITORIAL BREVITIES.

The Globe couldn't understand the barley counties uniting for Tory candidates. What does it think of them now? And what will it think after West Northumberland has spoken?

The roll call of the redeemed:

LENNOX,
EAST BRUCE,
NORTH VICTORIA,
SOULANGES,
SOUTH ONTARIO,
EAST HASTINGS.

And still there are more to follow.

Mr. Aylsworth has not lost any respect through his defeat. He was betrayed by pretended friends after he had refused to be bled.

Mr. Northrup will be an ornament to the Commons, but he will be useful as well as ornamental.

The Grits don't know what hit them. It was the N. P.

Wiman, Hitt, Butterworth, and the other Yankees who wish to conquer Canada by making our fair Dominion a commercial vassal of the United States, have their answer in the bye-elections.

The old flag and the old policy have triumphed under the new leader.

It really looks like a majority of 50 for the Government in the coming session.

The Mail's comments on East Hastings are very amusing. The editor of that journal had better get some elementary instruction in Canadian political history before he again ventures to discuss matters of detail.

It may surprise him to learn that the late Mr. Robertson represented West, not East, Hastings; that he died in 1888, not 1887; and that the late Mr. Burdett was elected in 1867, not after Mr. Robertson's death. Yet such are the facts.

The Liberals at Ottawa, undaunted by these temporary reverses, will continue to work cheerfully, harmoniously and unselfishly under leaders of whom they have every reason to be proud. —Globe.

The people are certainly content to leave them in opposition.

Hastings is once more a unit, in its parliamentary representation, in support of the Government.

POLITICAL POINTS!

The Ontario says that in East Hastings the Liberals sustained a "glorious defeat." So say we all.

Mr. Laurier told the Two Mountains electors on Saturday that he found the Ontario farmers better educated on the question of unrestricted reciprocity than those of Quebec. That was the afternoon. In the evening he received proof of his assertions. The Ontario farmers defeated two unrestricted reciprocity candidates.

While the Masters were in Washington Goldwin Smith was there also, boxing no favorable opinions of them. Their party and their mission, not the minds of the American politicians. Can anything exceed the fanaticism and bad taste of this mischievous busybody? Bacon-field describes him well as a social parasite; we have him to maintain the character in politics as well as in society.

A letter received from Mr. Chapleau states that he will return to Canada on March 10 h.

Mr. John Dobson, the acknowledged leader of the Conservative party in Victoria county, has been called to the Senate.

The Wedding Consummated.

BRANTFORD, Feb. 23.—Mr. W. A. Davis, the young man who was arrested here some time ago on a charge of burglary at Cookville, a station on the C. P. R., arrived in the city on Saturday.

DAVIS was the night operator at the Cookeville station. H. G. Reid was the station master. Thirty dollars was stolen and Reid accused Davis. In the court at Brampton it was shown that on the night in question the money had not been in the safe in the station, but in Reid's residence, and was taken out of a book in which he placed it. The residence adjoins the station. The Judge after hearing both sides of the case acquitted the accused.

This afternoon the marriage of Davis which was so unceremoniously postponed on a previous occasion, on account of his arrest for larceny, took place. The bride was Miss Nellie Dowling, daughter of Mr. Thomas Dowling, Marlborough street. The Rev. T. S. Johnston, pastor of the First Baptist Church, performed the ceremony.

Doctors were summoned, but death had occurred prior to their arrival. Upon examination it was found that the ribs were crushed in over the heart, caused by the kick of a horse. Huntzberger had been working the horses during the day and was alone engaged fixing them in the stable for the night when the accident occurred.

DRIVEN BY FIRE TO DEATH IN THE SEA.

Locked In Each Other's Arms Captain Boyd and His Wife Fell With the Blazing Rowspirt of the Doomed Loudiana—Eighteen Men Were Aboard the Loudiana, But No Trace of Them Could Be Found Ten Miles Around.

NEW YORK, Feb. 23.—The sailing vessel Loodiana of Nova Scotia left the port of New York with a cargo of petroleum for London two months ago. She was owned in Windsor, Nova Scotia, and was of 1874 tons register. After her departure from this port Dec. 21 nothing was heard of the ship until three weeks ago.

The arrival of the steamship Egyptian Monarch at London in the latter part of January confirmed the rumor of the disappearance of Loodiana, but added to the disaster by the report that she had been sighted on fire. Capt. Irvin stated that he had seen the Loodiana blazing fiercely in mid-ocean. Two persons were on board, but before they could be rescued the flames forced them off the vessel and they were drowned within sight of their would-be rescuers.

The Egyptian Monarch arrived at Quarantine early yesterday morning and reached her dock at Wilson's Stores, Brooklyn, in the afternoon. Second Officer Jordan, who was on the bridge on the night of Jan. 16, tells this story of the burning of the Loodiana:

"I was on the lookout. The wind was blowing furiously and the waves seemed mountains high above us. Suddenly away off on the port bow I saw a glare in the heavy sky. At first I thought it was only a sailing vessel showing a flare light to scare off passing vessels. Then I saw a sudden flash and what seemed to be an explosion lighting up the horizon for miles around and nothing but a glare left so that a sailing ship was on fire. I sent for Capt. Irvin, who came on deck immediately. He gave orders to take in all sail, and the Egyptian Monarch was headed in the direction of the light.

"At 1.30 a.m. we rounded to near the burning vessel. It was the Loodiana, and she was ablaze almost from stem to stern. The flames had nearly reached the bows. In the bright glare I saw two figures sitting astride the jibboom. The glass showed them to be a man and woman, whom we afterwards learned were the captain of the Loodiana and his wife.

"There was no hope of saving the vessel, even if any one had thought of doing so. The flames had run up the masts and rigging, and had obtained such a hold that nothing could stop them until the ship was burned to the water's edge. Big patches of burning oil floated around and about us. We were almost afraid that some of the blazing oil would be tossed aboard our own ship, for the storm had not abated. The waves, pounding with the golden reflection from the flames, drove the helpless vessel away from us. The ridges of the mountainous billows were tinged with a lurid glow. As we cut through them we seemed to be sailing in a sea of fire, which leaped up angrily around us.

"We got as near to the Loodiana as possible. The two survivors saw us. That agonizing cry for help which escaped them at that moment chilled the blood in my veins. The man astride the boom was thick and strong. He clung to a rope with one hand, clasping with the other the waist of a frail-looking woman. Man and wife, as was afterwards learned, they stayed together until death.

"We shouted to the couple to be of good cheer. Their answer was a piteous cry for help where no help could come, as it proved. The burning ship was lying with its head to the wind. The flames were creeping slowly towards the boom. Occasionally the ship's stern was tossed high in the air on the wave, the flames were blown along the bows until it seemed as if the clothes of the couple were scorched by the intense heat.

"The stays supporting the jibboom had been burned away. A few minutes afterwards the ship swung around. The flames leaped towards the keel of the bowsprit. An awful cry of agony went up from those poor tortured ones. Down they fell into the fire-lit waves. We saw them for one short moment. The man was holding on to the stump of a spar and the woman was clinging to him. A heavy wave lifted them up and dashed them against the side of the burning vessel. We never saw them again.

"We steamed around the blazing hulk in the hope of seeing a boat containing the crew. Then we steamed to leeward for 12 miles, but no sign of boat or raft could be discovered. We laid around as long as possible, but no boat could live in such a sea as was running at that time.

"When we reached Gravesend the scratch crew was immediately discharged. Capt. Irvin went to the London agents of the owners of the Loodiana, which, was then reported to be missing. The burning vessel was of American build and the description of our captain seemed to leave no doubt that it was the Loodiana which we had seen. He learned that the captain had his wife on board. We saw the vessel in lat. 48, lon. 42, about 1200 miles west southwest of Queenstown."

The Loodiana was built in Nova Scotia and had carried cargoes of petroleum for some years. She was insured at Windsor, N.S., for $40,000. Captain Boyd was in command.

MISS MATHER'S MARRIAGE.

The Actress Said to Have Begun Suit Against Haberkorn at Chicago.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Feb. 23.—It is said on good authority that Margaret Mather, the actress, has begun suit in Chicago for a divorce from her husband, Emil Haberkorn. Haberkorn was a young orchestra leader in Buffalo when he met Miss Mather. They loved at first sight, and apparently lived happily together for a year. Then they separated. Haberkorn came to Pittsburg. Neither has ever explained the cause of their estrangement.

New York's Daily Tragedy.

NEW YORK, Feb. 23.—Mrs. Annie Stevens, aged 25, was shot in the shoulder and in the neck at her home to-night by her husband, Henry Stevens. Stevens also shot and seriously injured Nellie Smith, aged 26 years, who was in his wife's company at the time. The would-be murderer, finding he had slain the two women, then turned the pistol on himself with fatal effect.

EXECUTIONER OF PARIS

AFTER BEHEADING 208 MURDERERS HE RESIGNS HIS POSITION.

The Guillotine Always in Public in Paris —M. Deibler, the Man Who Operates the Guillotine Knife in Paris, and Has Exulted, His Gruesome Duties.

PARIS, Feb. 21.—Once again has the rumor been set afloat that M. Deibler, the carrier out of the "dames sanives," as he is always called in the Paris press—in other words, the public executioner—is about to retire. A few days ago certain Boulevard journals even went so far as to announce that his retirement was already an accomplished fact, and it is still stated that he is now only waiting till he can arrange with the authorities as to the amount of his pension to withdraw from a calling of which he has been the ornament for the last 33 years and more.

It can be authoritatively stated that this rumor is false, but it is a fact, however, that when Mr. Deibler does retire there will be no end of applicants for the vacant post.

M. Deibler is perhaps better known than his subordinates ever be. He is a character conspicuous before the whole French nation, and though of rather a retiring nature himself does not forget that he embodies famous traditions. His attire and manner show that he feels that he has a position to keep up. Closely buttoned up in his suit of sombre black, with a stovepipe hat on his head, he is a man of few words and goes about his duties like one who feels he has a responsibility on his shoulders, but intends to carry out the affairs intrusted to him without mishap of any kind.

Death's Swift Agent.

In September next he will have accomplished the 33rd year of his term of service of the state, during the last 14 of which he has occupied the proud position of head executioner. Two hundred and eight persons have been launched by him into eternity, including many notorious criminals. His execution of that thorough paced rascal, Pranzini, earned him, it is said, some slight censure. The whole affair took rather too long. This could not be said of the way he carried out the sentence on the two precocious criminals who came under his hands a short time ago for the murder of the old lady at Courbevoie.

The two boys, for they were but little more, one being 18 and the other 19, were both got ready in their prison at the same hour, and only three and a half minutes elapsed from the time when their "toilettes" were completed to the instant when the knife fell for the second time. Shortly before dawn the pair of youthful murderers were awakened and informed that their hour of doom had arrived. Each in his respective condemned cell was sleeping soundly, and within 60 minutes of the time they were awakened their bodies were laid in their graves.

The Drama of the Guillotine.

The hideous scenes around the guillotine have too frequently been described to need more than passing mention here. Any sensational criminal who is to be executed will attract a crowd numbered by thousands to witness his death. The spectators, mostly of the lowest class in Paris, come to enjoy themselves, and they hold ghastly revel in the broad square and the approaches. Men and women, boys and girls, thieves, broken down cocottes, the haunters of low wine shops of every description, all gather together and form a mob which, as the old saying has it, simply "beggars description."

On the one side of the square stands the forbidding looking building known as the "Grande Roquette," from whose portals the criminals are shortly to issue. Over the way is the other prison or rather penitentiary, called the "Petite Roquette," an edifice scarcely more inviting in its aspect, which is used for the reception of juvenile criminals and incorrigibles whose parents or the authorities obtain an order of detention for their "putting away" until such time as they arrive at years of discretion.

Through the square runs the road leading up to the cemetery of Pere la Chaise, bordered by trees, in the branches of which several adventurous gamins pass the cold and weary hours of the night, sustained by the possession of a point of vantage from which the scene can be viewed. Even when the military have cleared a wide space around the guillotine, strange to say, the soldiers never attempt to dislodge the temporary lodgers in the trees.

No Bitterness in Death.

I was a spectator the morning that Eyraud paid the penalty for the murder of the huissier Gouffe under the guillotine knife. How slow the moments sped in the cold gray dawn; it seemed as though the great door of the prison would never open to lead out the murderer to his awaiting doom. In the meantime a mob of 20,000 people awaited him, passing the time in shouting in chorus a parody on the latest popular tune of the day:

C'est la tete d'Eyraud qu'il nous faut.
Oh, oh, oh, oh, oh!

There was no delay when he did come out, and almost quicker than it takes to describe it the cart, escorted by mounted police, was starting off at full gallop for the cemetery with the decapitated corpse.

Songs at executions have always been part of the entertainment in Paris. Some of them are written specially for the occasion; others are merely parodies which have come into the head of someone in the crowd during the hours of waiting. It never seems to strike the French authorities that the scenes which take place are scandalous, and that the working of the guillotine in public, so far from acting as a deterrent to crime, really encourages murderous villainy by its brutalizing influence.

Mr. Deibler insists that the majority of the "subjects" who have passed through his hands have died full of the proud consciousness of being the leading actors at a great popular demonstration. "There is no bitterness of death with the ladies and gentlemen who are my clients," he is reported to have said to a Government inspector who accused him of being too leisurely with his work. "Ma foi (my faith), would you have me grudge them a moment's realization of the difference between comedy and tragedy?"

TWO MAY DIE

Quarreling Hungarians Use Their Knives with Terrible Effect.

LETHBRIDGE, N.W.T., Feb. 23.—On Saturday evening a number of Hungarian miners were imbibing pretty freely in the bar of the McKenzie House, when an altercation arose between two young men, Adam Varge and Frank Tykoll. The quarrel had scarcely begun when the latter whipped out a clasp knife and, before any one could interfere, stabbed Varge twice, once in the face near the ear and again in the back. The assailant was arrested.

Later in the evening, between 12 and 1 o'clock, a party of Hungarians were passing the boarding house in the railway yard near the track. Joe Tojan, a Slav, was chopping wood at the door, and Paul Onwick, one of the party, called him an insulting name. A few words ensued and Onwick rushed upon Tojan brandishing an ugly knife in his left hand. There was a groan and Tojan fell to the ground insensible, while the blood coming from a terrible wound in his right breast. The knife had been sunk deeply in the man's breast and given a twist, making a ghastly cut and severing a large artery. It is doubtful if he will recover. Onwick was arrested.

New Brunswick's New Schemes.

OTTAWA, Feb. 23.—Solicitor-General Pugsley of New Brunswick, who is here attending the Supreme Court, informed a correspondent to-day that there will be a deficit of about $70,000 in the province for the year ending December 31st last. It is proposed to make up this deficit by issuing liquor licenses the same as is now done in Ontario. So far these licenses have been under the control of the municipalities. It is also understood that a provincial tax will be placed on telephone and telegraph companies, banks, insurance and railway companies.

A LETTER FROM A LEADING PICTON LAWYER.

DEAR SIR,—We have used the combination you suggested and are much pleased with the effect.

You will have received this morning some of the paper you sent on approval. We could not send it back earlier as we thought we might have to use part of it.

We are much obliged for the trouble taken and for your promptness throughout. It seems extremely likely that our order will be followed up by some of our friends in the spring, if not now, as the rooms have been much admired and the papers are much prettier than can be bought here for the same price.

By the way one of the samples has been retained at the request of a friend who contemplates papering. You may or may not hear from this. In the meantime if you should want the sample it can be returned at any time.

Yours truly,

NOTE.—The above letter is one of the results of our Mail Order system. The papers used were our own suggestions.

No matter where you live, whether between here and Vancouver to the west, or Halifax to the east, we can paper your rooms as well as if you were here in our warerooms and made a personal selection.

If you cannot come and inspect our stock, send us a description of your rooms, give us an idea of the price you wish to pay and we will send you at once some samples of combinations in Wall Paper effects, carefully selected by our own decorator.

We make a specialty of mail orders for Wall Paper and everything else in our line.

"The Queen's" New Palace.

It has been customary with all successful newspapers and publications to secure a home for themselves by erecting a building and naming it after the publication, as soon as the success of the enterprise would permit, and it is only another indication of the success The Queen has met with to learn that it has reached that point where larger and better quarters are required for its extensive and growing business, and that the publishers have decided to erect one of the handsomest and most complete newspaper buildings in the Dominion. A large lot has been purchased on Mellish St., and the architects are now at work on the plans of the building, which is to be in brown stone and pressed brick, with a large statue of the Queen at the top of the building. The lot secured being right in the heart of the business portion of Toronto is a valuable location, and The Canadian Queen building will add one more to the substantial structures which have been erected for business purposes by enterprising corporations and business concerns during the past few years.—From (Toronto, Ont.,) Empire, Friday, Feb. 12th, 1892.

Correspondence.

Whilst correspondents will be accorded space for the expression of their ideas on topics of public interest, it must be in all cases understood that the views so expressed are simply those of the correspondents themselves.

To the Editor of the Intelligencer.

DEAR SIR,—In closing my letters anent the "ghost" question, permit me to say that I had two objects to accomplish in calling the attention of the public to phenomena of the above character,—first, to stimulate investigation; secondly, to glean from our citizens statements of incidents experienced by themselves. Both objects have been fully achieved. The very large number of persons who are now exhibiting interest in these singular occurrences and endeavoring to discover why they happen, is amazing. Scarcely a day passes that I am not informed of some mysterious incident which happened to the narrator.

There are now a number of large Societies, viz., the English Psychical Society, the American branch of that Society, and the American Psychical Society; the French and German Societies, which number among their members some of the most distinguished ecclesiastical dignitaries and men of science of the several nations. The object of these Societies is to investigate all kinds of phenomena, including ghosts, haunted houses, &c.; they have published volumes of statements that have been made, and they ask that all persons who have encountered anything of an occult or mysterious character should give them their experiences. My object, as I have said, was to gather these stories for one of these societies. The society then attempts to verify the statements as closely and accurately as possible. I could not get these narratives without arousing the public mind. I know many who have been in bondage to all sorts of superstitions, including "fairy stories," that a friend alluded to, all their lives. It is a terrible thing to feel in constant dread of spiritual friends or foes that may manifest themselves at unlooked for times. I desire to get rid of these superstitions by bringing the keen light of science to bear upon them. So long as they are permitted to rest in men's minds, be related by nursery maids to wide eyed, open-mouthed babes; so long as they are left to be cherished by the ignorant, so long will this disgraceful state of bondage continue. Let the light of day stream upon these things; let the powerful lenses of scientific thought be focussed upon them, and surely we shall discover that either they are formed by our own brains or that they come from other sources, controlled and guarded by fixed laws. Whatever the result may be, let us all pray that the truth may be discovered, and soon.

It was investigation that emancipated men from their belief in witchcraft, which reddened the soil of New England with innocent blood. To-day hecatombs of men, women and children are slaughtered at the command of witch doctors in the heart of Africa. Twenty millions believe in Spiritualism. Let the search light pour its rays upon this mysterious religion, and let it fade away under the intense light and be relegated to the moles and the bats, or let its truths be triumphantly proclaimed. Without investigation that mal-formed monster Slade, who was able to perform many feats in consequence of his deformity, would not have been exposed. Fraud and imposture abound. Investigation tears away the hideous mask and reveals the truth. I suppose Mr. Stead will be admitted to be one of the greatest moral reformers of our day; yet Mr. Stead has published a large volume of ghost stories. My earnest hope is that the noble men who are pursuing investigations with but one motive, will continue their arduous labors until from the great mass of error, the pure crystal of truth may be extracted. Scorn, laughter, sneers, cries of fraud and humbug, have never lessened hydra headed ignorance and superstition, but they perish beneath the beams of the calm, clear light of science. Prejudices vanish under experiment, which is a better weapon. For myself, I neither believe in ghosts nor disbelieve—I don't call them phenomena. I cannot understand fraud, unless it is proved to be so, but observe all I can, and wait for results of able investigators. Thanking Mr. Harris for his too flattering notice of me, I am,

Yours,
J. J. B. FLINT.

"Playmates."

The First Production of Geo. A. Dame's New Military Drama.

It is seldom we see a more select or better pleased audience than that which greeted the initial performance of "Playmates" at the Queen's Opera House last evening. The cast was purely local and could not, we think, be improved in the city. As for the drama itself, we heartily congratulate Mr. Dame on his work, for never before has a local dramatist been more deserving of eulogism. The plot has already been published in these columns. There is a striking originality in the situations, dialogue mechanical effects.

As to the cast—Mr. Dame's histrionic ability is so well known here that it would be useless to revert to his former successes, but as Jack Redman he reached the heart of the audience in a manner that will not soon be forgotten by those present. In Mr. J. B. Doyle Mr. Dame has an excellent support, though at times, perhaps, his acting was a little too impassioned, yet, on the whole, "Joe" did well. Mrs. Dame, as Crystal Meadows, was, as usual, heartily received, and, though her role was difficult of portrayal, she more than sustained her former reputation and was greeted with applause at each appearance. Miss Lottie Edwards, although not unknown as a pleasing elocutionist, made her debut in dramatic lines last night, and in the role of Miss Jane Meadows, the coy spinster, she made a splendid hit and all were loud in their praise of her impersonation. Lyretta Doyle, a little girl not more than ten years old, in the part of Little Crystal, was irresistible and her singing in the fourth act was loudly applauded. Mr. Geo. Fax, as Major Bobster, was irrepressible as usual and in make-up he looked the character to a nicety. Mr. John Mackie, in the character of Patsy Duck, ably sustained his reputation of a rollicking Irishman, and it was with pleasure the audience greeted his quaint speeches. Mr. E. McHugh would not have been recognized by his most intimate friend in the character of old man Meadows, and his acting was capital. J. Nelson will be remembered by the character of Old Joe that he assumed in "Country Lock," and although he had not ample scope to show his ability, yet as Orderly and Job Scott he showed to good advantage. Mr. W. C. Mikel, as Lord Raglan, Mr. W. J. Thompson, as Detective Perkins, Mr. W. H. Poulton, as Capt. Ipsnuff, Mr. J. Copeland, the British Boys, and W. K. Y. MacCauley, as Col. Bolton, left nothing to be desired in their respective roles.

Lieut Col. Lazier and officers of the 15th Batt. A. L. I. were present, and their scarlet and gold uniforms lent a brilliancy to the scene that was pleasing to the audience.

We bespeak a good house for Mr. Dame to night, and all who go are sure to come away thoroughly satisfied.

A DETROIT MIRACLE.

A Great Triumph For Canadian Medical Science.

Particulars of One of the Most Remarkable Cures on Record Done by the Dr. Bell News a Story Worth a Careful Perusal.

DETROIT, Mich., Jan. 29th, 1892.—A case has just come to light here, the particulars of which are published in the Evening News, which will be read with considerable interest by all Canadians, as it records the remarkable achievement of a Canadian medical discovery, which has already, in its own country, won great and enduring fame. At this added triumph there is no doubt the fellow countrymen of the proprietors will rejoice, as it sheds lustre on Canadian science. The story is told by the News as follows:—

The following paragraph, which appeared in the News a short time ago, furnished the basis of this information—a case that was so wonderfully remarkable that its demanded further explanation. It is of sufficient importance to the News' readers to report it to them fully. It was so important then that it attracted considerable attention at the time. The following is the paragraph in question:—

"C. B. Northrop, for 28 years one of the best known merchants on Woodward avenue, who was supposed to be dying last spring of locomotor ataxia, or creeping paralysis, has secured a new lease of life and returned to work at his store. The disease has always been supposed to be incurable, but Mr. Northrop's condition is greatly improved, and it looks now as if the grave would be cheated of its prey."

Since that time Mr. Northrop has steadily improved, not only in looks, but in condition, till he has regained his old time strength.

It has been hinted to the writer of this article, who was acquainted with Mr. Northrop, that this miraculous change had been wrought by a very simple remedy called Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. When asked about it Mr. Northrop fully verified the statement, and not only so, but he had taken pains to inform any one suffering in a similar manner when he heard of any such case. Mr. Northrop was enthusiastic at the result in his own case of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. It was a remedy that he had heard of after he had tried everything he could hope to give him relief. He had been in the care of the best physicians, who did all they could to alleviate this terrible malady, but without any avail. He had given up hope, when a friend in Lockport, N.Y., wrote him of the case of a person there who had been cured in similar circumstances by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. The person cured at Lockport had obtained his information respecting Dr. Williams' Pink Pills from an article published in the Hamilton, Ont., Times. The case was called "The Hamilton Miracle" and told the story of a man in that city who, after almost incredible suffering, was pronounced by the most eminent physicians to be incurable and permanently disabled. He had spent hundreds of dollars in all sorts of treatment and appliances only to be told in the end that there was no hope for him, and that cure was impossible. The person alluded to (Mr. John Marshall, of 25 Little William St., Hamilton, Ont.,) was a member of the Royal Templars of Temperance, and after having been pronounced permanently disabled and incurable by the physicians, was paid the $1,000 disability insurance provided by the order for its members in such cases. For years Mr. Marshall had been utterly helpless, and was barely able to drag himself around the house with the aid of crutches. His agonies were almost unbearable and life was a burden to him, when at last relief came. Seven months after he had been paid the disability claim he heard of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and was induced to try them. The result was miraculous; almost from the outset an improvement was noticed, and in a few months the man whom medical experts had said was incurable, was going about the city healthier and stronger than before. Mr. Marshall was so well known in Hamilton that all the city newspapers wrote up his wonderful recovery in detail, and it was thus as before stated, that Mr. Northrop came into possession of the information that led to his equally marvellous recovery. One could scarcely conceive a case more hopeless than that of Mr. Northrop. His injury came about in this way: One day nearly four years ago, he stumbled and fell the complete length of a steep flight of stairs which were at the rear of his store. His head and spine were severely injured. He was picked up and carried to his home. Creeping paralysis very soon developed itself, and in spite of the most strenuous efforts of friends and physicians the terrible affliction fastened itself upon him. For nearly two years he was perfectly helpless. He could do nothing to support his strength in the least effort. He had to be wheeled about in an invalid's chair. He was weak, pale and fast sinking when this timely information came, that veritably snatched the life from the jaws of death. Those who at that time saw the feeble old man wheeled into his store on an invalid's chair, would not recognize the man now, so great is the change that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have wrought. When Mr. Northrop learned of the remedy that had cured Mr. Marshall in Hamilton, and the person in Lockport, he procured a supply of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills through Messrs. Bassett & Hommedieu, 95 Woodward Avenue, and from the outset found an improvement. He faithfully adhered to the use of the remedy, until now he is completely restored. Mr. Northrop believes that there can be no doubt as to Pink Pills being the cause of his restoration to health, as all other remedies and medical treatment left him in a condition rapidly going from bad to worse, until at last it was declared there was no hope for him, and he was pronounced incurable. He was in this terrible condition when he began to use Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and they have restored him to health.

Mr. Northrop was asked what was claimed for this wonderful remedy, and replied that he understood the proprietors claim it to be a blood builder and nerve restorer; supplying in a condensed form all the elements necessary to enrich the blood, restore shattered nerves and drive out disease. It is claimed by the proprietors that Pink Pills will cure paralysis, rheumatism, neuralgia, palpitation of the heart, headache, and all diseases peculiar to females, loss of appetite, dizziness, sleeplessness, loss of memory, and all diseases arising from overwork, mental worry, loss of vital force, etc.

"I want to say," said Mr. Northrop, "that I don't have much faith in patent medicines, but I cannot say too much in praise of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. The proprietors, however, claim that they are not a patent medicine in the sense in which that term is used, but a highly scientific preparation, the result of years of careful study and experiment on the part of the proprietors, and the pills were successfully used in private practice for years before being placed for general sale. Mr. Northrop declares that he is a living example that there is nothing to equal these pills as a cure for nerve disease. On inquiry the writer found that these pills were manufactured by Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont., and Morristown, N.Y., and the pills are sold in boxes, (never in bulk by the hundred) at 50 cents a box, and may be had of all druggists or direct by mail from Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., from either above addresses. The price at which these pills are sold makes a course of treatment with them comparatively inexpensive as compared with other remedies, or medical treatment. This case is one of the most remarkable on record, and as it is one right here in Detroit and not a thousand miles away, it can be easily verified. Mr. Northrop is very well known to the people of Detroit, and he says he is only too glad to testify to the marvellous good wrought in his case. He says he considers it his duty to help all who are similarly afflicted by any word he can say in behalf of the wonderful efficacy of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. If any of the News readers want any further information, we feel sure Mr. Northrop would willingly oblige them, as he has the writer in relating these facts to him.

The City Mission.

This Christian Institution Celebrates its Eleventh Anniversary.

The eleventh anniversary of the founding of the City Mission was observed at the Mission last evening. The parents and children turned out in full force, besides a very few friends, and spent a profitable hour and a half together. Spirited addresses were given by the chairman (Mr. A. G. Northrup), Rev'ds Hodson and George, and Mr. McClatchie. The report for the year was read by Mr. Albert Weasley, and is summarized as follows:—

The year just closed has been one of blessing. Whilst many trials have been endured the work has progressed favorably. In connection with the Mission there are services on Sunday morning from 10 to 11; Sunday School at 2:30, cottage praise meeting, and also meetings at evening. During the week meetings are held. Of the Sunday School, it can be said to be in a very prosperous condition, with the following officers and teachers: Mr. W. E. Holton, Mr. O. Clapp, Miss Bessie Stinson, Miss Louie Holden, Miss Addie Reid, Miss Foster, Miss Storey, Miss Ritchie, Mrs. Holden, Miss Lingham, Miss Clara Craig, Miss Dora Clapp, Miss Dix, and Mrs. W. H. Graham.

The Band of Hope in connection with the Mission is progressing; fully 100 children have signed the pledge.

The sewing school has prospered, having been re-organized by the ladies of the Baptist Christian Endeavor Society. The attendance at the school on Thursday afternoon was good.

This Mission is supported by voluntary contributions. The first year the cash contributed to the support of the Mission was $130, the 2nd $194.95, the 3rd $220, the 4th $360.75, the 5th $260.62, the 6th $452.07, the 7th $206, the 8th $439.90, the 9th $422.99, the 10th $425, the 11th $390.58.

During the past year the health of Mrs. Schuster has been such that she could not attend to the out-door work personally. She is, however, improving, and the conclusion the report refers to the future as being unknown, but looks forward with confidence and hope, praying that the work be blessed as it has been in the past.

The Best to the World.

The oil of the Norwegian Cod Liver is nature's grand restorative, and is only found in its entirety and purity in Miller's Emulsion. It is the most palatable and wholesome preparation of Cod Liver Oil in the world, and is now being taken by invalids, particularly those afflicted with consumption, with the most astonishing success. It gives strength to blood and flesh maker in existence, and is a life saver to consumptives. In big bottles, 50c. and $1, at Waters' drug store.

For several years I was persistently annoyed with an excessive accumulation of Dandruff and although using various preparations recommended and shampooing regularly once a week, no material relief was realized until my attention was called to Anti-Dandruff, which has produced unlooked-for results in my case, four applications removing every particle of Dandruff, and as a specific for this trouble it certainly has no equal.

I got a bottle of Northrop and Lyman's Vegetable Discovery, and at once commenced taking it in large doses and before one half the bottle was used there was not a spot to be seen, and I never felt better in my life."

The Stone-Cutter of Lisbon

A NOVEL BY

WM. HENRY PECK.

"But for the presence of this mechanic, replied the noble, contemptuous emphasis upon the word mechanic, and a supercilious glance toward Stonio, we would now be laying dead or mangled in the quarry there. But whether your stone cutters would be laughing or weeping over the body of your executioner, is another affair. Stone-cutter, I owe you my life, and here is my purse, in which you will find a few doubloons—'

He did not finish his speech, not considering it worth his breath, but tossed a purse not overlined, from the carriage to Stonio.

The latter carelessly placed his heel upon the purse, as it lay upon the ground, and gazing steadily at the proud young noble, said coldly:

'Perhaps Prince Enrique rightly values his life to be worth no more than the few doubloons in this purse; but I should be better rewarded for saving that life, had you given me your hand and a hearty 'God bless you, my friend,' than had you buried me as deep in gold as I now grind your purse into the dust;' and suiting the action to the word, the speaker crushed the silken purse and its glittering contents deep into the soil.

'Bah! ruffian!' said the noble, shrugging his shoulders and smiling scornfully, as if the whole affair was beneath his notice; yet his swarthy cheek grew ashy pale, and his dark eyes glittered with rage.

'Ah,' whispered Lady Hilda, hastily to Stonio, 'you do rashly to offend him. It is Prince Enrique, Duke Del Sorno. You are doubtless a stranger in Lisbon, or you would hesitate to make him your enemy. His hate is deadly, his malice merciless, his power great, his influence at court immense—'

She would have said more had not the Prince Enrique, who was secretly enraged by her condescension to the stone cutter, called out from the carriage—

'Lady Hilda, you will spoil that fellow, who is too proud already. Since he scorns gold, do not waste your thanks upon him.'

Stonio was about to retort, when Lady Hilda placed her hand upon his sleeve and whispered:

'Take care. He is only endeavoring to irritate you, to have an excuse to set his bravos upon you. They are coming both black and white. I pray you go away at once, and take this ring with you as a token of my gratitude.'

She covertly slipped a jeweled ring from her hand, and placed it in Stonio's palm with a rapid movement she sought to conceal with her silken scarf; adding hurriedly—

'I wish to see you again, and—'

But here, again, her speech was checked by the approach of Prince Enrique, who had by this time leaped lightly from the shattered carriage and advanced, saying: 'Lady Hilda, let me lead you from this place instantly. There is a riot at hand!'

Even as he spoke the hoarse, fierce roar of hundreds of angry men, that same wild roar of rage, which had swept through the great yard as the workmen hurled their tools to the ground when the cathedral bell began to strike, again filled the air. But now with the roar were mingled shrieks of terrified men and sharp cries of pain.

Stonio had the gift of Lady Hilda still in his hand, having no time to accept or decline, and as this roar of angry and terrified voices fell upon his ear, he turned his eyes instantly toward the yard.

A riot had already begun. It had been smouldering in fierce hearts all day. But a breath was needed to kindle it into furious flame, and that breath was the act of one man.

CHAPTER IV.

THE BURSTING OF THE STORM

Don Alva had been terrified by the threatening clamor which had arisen as the clock began to strike. His blood had turned to ice as the eyes of three hundred of his oppressed workmen glared hate and menace at him as from the eyes of one man. His had trembled in extreme terror, his limbs had given way under him, and but for a great unbrawn block of stone near him he would have then sunk to the ground, overcome with cowardly despair.

But the accident to Count Pedro's carriage happening just then, diverted for the moment the attention of the workmen, and their rage, so suddenly bursting forth, seemed to have died out in their loud welcome of the presence and safety of Lady Hilda.

Don Alva, reassured by the vicinity of the Count and Prince Enrique, whom he knew well, and especially by the sight in the distance of the rapidly approaching fortunes of the two nobles, felt his blood restaunch changed from the ice of extreme horror to the flame of a rage which might have immediate vent.

The rage of a coward suddenly recovered from great terror to supreme power is like the rage of a madman. It is all blind haste and brutal cruelty.

He saw then in the distance, but rapidly approaching, the two mounted guards, the strong, armed retinues of the two powerful nobles—retinues composed of daring and disciplined men; for the Count, as treasurer of the kingdom, was ever attended by a company of the royal guards, on foot or mounted; and the Prince, a natural son of the king, affected great state, as if of legitimate royal blood, and his body guard, numerous and gaudily garbed, was made up of some of the most desperate characters of Portugal, both white and black, and of the latter there were hundreds then in the city.

The runaway horses of Count Pedro had for a time left these guards far in the rear, but they were now advancing at full speed, their burnished arms and trappings glittering in the last rays of the setting sun, and a cloud of dust rolling up around and behind them.

Had Don Alva held his tongue, the storm pent up all day, but coming to a head for months, would not have burst on that day. But infuriated because of his late terror, which was still cold and damp around the roots of his hair, the superintendent, pencil in hand, pushed amid the workmen, taking down the name of this one and that one, to be reported to the Count for especial rebuke or discharge, or to be arrested as intending to create a riot.

The reply for a time made no reply to his insulting sneers and reproaches, though they knew that to be arrested for an attempt at riot, upon the accusation of Don Alva, was to be imprisoned for weeks, days or weeks, or more, in horrible cells. But one at length made an angry, sullen reply, and his name was written down by an assistant of Don Alva, and the assistant, who was as great a tyrant as his superior, dealt the man a blow with his foot.

Had the blow been with the hand, it might have been received with a growl of surly rage, and no more, or been avenged at some other time with a secret thrust of the stiletto; but to be kicked—that was unpardonable, insufferable to Portuguese blood! Only dogs and slaves were kicked in Lisbon; and as the man suffered this insult, he uttered a hoarse cry of rage, snatched up a great jagged fragment of marble, and hurled it with all a madman's strength into the face of the assistant.

The aim was sure, the force immense, the intent murderous, and the result horrible. The assistant's entire face, from forehead to chin, from temple to temple, was crushed in like a pasch under a hammer. He toppled headlong backward, dead before his death agony could leap from his lips—his face a dreadful, sickening mass of shattered bone and mangled flesh.

Don Alva was so near that a great, hot splash of blood was shot into his beard and bosom.

Terrified, he uttered a sharp shriek of horror, and his only thought was of flight. Then arose the roar of angry men, made doubly savage by the sight of blood shed by one of their number, and again hundreds of eyes glowing with hate were flashed upon the superintendent and his sycophantic minions.

All knew that the deed would be visited indiscriminately upon all, and that Alva and his assistants would be both accusers and witnesses.

'Kill him! kill Alva!' cried a voice; and as a spark fires a magazine, this cry, shrill and fierce, fired the workmen to brutal deeds.

A rush of hundreds was made toward Don Alva and his six or eight assistants.

(To be Continued.)

HIDDEN FOES.

Among the many foes to human health and happiness, dyspepsia and constipation are twin enemies greatly to be feared. With B.B.B to drive them out of the system, however, no danger need be anticipated, as every dose brings the sufferer a long step step further on the road to perfect health and strength, and a permanent cure always results.

THE BLOOD IS THE LIFE.

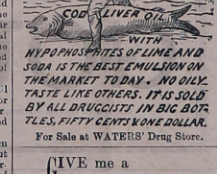

Good health without pure blood is simply impossible, and to secure pure blood is therefore absolutely necessary, especially in spring, when bad blood is very prevalent. Burdock Blood Bitters is the remedy, without an equal in the world of medicine. It drives out all poisonous humors of the blood from a common pimple to the worst scrofulous sore.

In order to quiet a hacking cough, take a dose of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil three a day, or oftener if the cough spells render it necessary. This widely esteemed remedy also cures sore in the back, rheumatic complaints, kidney ailments, pains, etc. It is used inwardly and outwardly.

Have you tried Holloway's Corn Cure? It has no equal for removing these troublesome excrescences, as many have testified who have tried it.

We must use or lose. The servant who buried his talent was the only one who lost it.

"I have been treated by doctors, who had long lists of so-called cured patients, but they could not reach my case, and hope had been murdered in me by fair promises, but on first application of your magical appliance, hope and confidence came flocking in stronger than the combined powers of fifty doctors' winds. I knew then that you would cure me, and now that I am a man and well again, I cannot thank you sufficiently for the cure. So again I say, use my name as reference whenever you wish. You nor any one else cannot use words too strong to express my sentiments in favor of so wonderful a treatment as that given by you."

HOW AN OXFORD TUTOR BLACKMAILED NOBLEMEN.

An Ingenious Scheme Which Landed Its Perpetrator in Prison — The Proposed Gladstonian Home Rule Bill—Baron Roberts of Candahar — Mrs. Montagu and the Murder Charge.

LONDON, Feb. 2.—In the Bow-street Police Court yesterday the case of Maitland Morland, who is described as an Oxford tutor who is charged with an attempt to blackmail Lord Hothfield, was resumed.

The evidence developed the fact that the prisoner had engaged in systematic attempts to blackmail noblemen by writing letters purporting to have been written by a woman.

Lord Chesterfield, Lord Ormathwaite and others testified that they had received letters similar to those received by Lord Hothfield.

The solicitor representing Earl Russell, whose wife recently unsuccessfully sued for a divorce, produced a letter signed "Ruth Morland," which was received just before the Earl married Miss Scott. It read:

"You are to be married next week. What would Miss Scott think of you if she could read your letters that are in my possession? It is altogether impossible that she may see them before Thursday, and that hundred you owe me, of which you have not paid a penny, may so anger me that I will put the letters in my husband's hands, and confess my adultery with you and cause myself to figure in the Divorce Court. Send an answer by return post or I will know what to do legally."

COST $50,000 A SHOCK.

And There Were 2388 Shocks All Told, 79 of Them Very Severe.

YOKOHAMA, Feb. 24.—The prefectures of Gifu and Aichia are still visited by earthquake shocks, only two days having been entirely free from oscillations since Oct. 28, the date of the great one, when 55,006 houses were destroyed and 4957 persons killed.

Two thousand three hundred and eighty-eight shocks were felt in Japan during the past three months, says The Japan Mail of Feb. 6, 79 of which were quite severe. Money for the relief of sufferers by them was subscribed at the rate of 73,367 yens ($51,000) per shock.

An orphan home for children orphaned by the October earthquake was opened in Yokohama Feb. 5.

It is proposed to reform the mode of house building in Japan to give better protection in case of earthquake. It is also proposed to build fortifications in Japan by reducing the standing army by one-third and applying the money thus saved to the work of construction.

Discovery of a Plot to Blow Up the Spanish Embassy.

PARIS, Feb. 24.—The French police claim to be on the track of a gang of dynamite conspirators preparing for Mayday. The police connect this conspiracy with a recent robbery of 75 pounds of dynamite from the Seine stone quarries. Early this morning under a magisterial order domiciliary visits were made to all suspected houses.

Altogether 360 houses were searched. Only a few of the missing cartridges were obtained, most of which were found in the lodgings of a man named Borgier, who was known to be an Anarchist. When questioned Borgier declared that he knew nothing whatever about the cartridges.

The Journal des Debats says that the Prefecture of Police has information that the cartridges were designed to blow up the Spanish embassy in Paris in order to avenge the recent execution of four Anarchists in Xeres.

A French Girl's Suicide.

PARIS, Feb. 24.—At Nancy on Saturday, the beautiful daughter of Gen. Tallien of the French Army, a girl barely 16 years of age, committed suicide. She had become engaged to a young lieutenant, Filot by name, without the knowledge of her parents. The young people laid the matter before the general on Saturday, whereupon he flew into a rage, and kicked the lieutenant out of the house. This preyed so upon the girl's mind that she procured a heavy cord, went to her bedroom and tied the cord to the iron balcony, slipped her neck into a noose on the other end, leaped and there hung for the rest of the night. At 8 o'clock on Sunday morning people in the streets discovered the body dangling from the third story balcony.

A Present For the Pope.

ROME, Feb. 24.—Some time ago a committee of Roman Catholics were formed with the object of collecting 1,000,000 francs ($200,000), to be presented to the Pope on the occasion of the jubilee anniversary of his entering the episcopate, Jan. 17, 1843. The subscription list already shows a total of 23,499 francs, and the outlook for future donations is most encouraging.

Baron Roberts of Candahar.

LONDON, Feb. 24.—General Frederick Sleigh Roberts, R.A., G.C.B., G.C.I.E., LL.D., V.C., Commander in Chief of the forces in India, whose elevation to the peerage was announced in December last, has been gazetted as Baron Roberts of Candahar and the City of Waterford.

General Roberts led the Candahar relief army of 9000 picked men in the Afghan war, 1879-80.

British Arms Successful.

LONDON, Feb. 24.—A despatch from Upper Burmah says that Captain Davies' column after sharp fighting expelled the Kachyens from their stockade positions and relieved Sadone. The British loss was four natives killed and 26 wounded, including Lieut. Munn. Capt. Davies will attack the principal stockade to-day to enable him to join the Yule column.

The Queen at Windsor.

LONDON, Feb. 24.—The Queen arrived at Windsor Castle from Osborne. This is her first visit to the mainland since before the death of the Duke of Clarence. Her Majesty did not appear to be enjoying her usual good health. She had some difficulty in walking. She was accompanied by Princess Beatrice and Princess Louise.

The New French Cabinet.

PARIS, Feb. 24.—M. De Freycinet having refused to form a new Cabinet, President Carnot has entrusted the task to M. Rouvier, who is trying to include most of the present Ministers in it.

Their Wages 5 Cents Per Day.

MUNICH, Feb. 24.—At a libel trial held yesterday the fact was revealed that an embroidery manufacturer had in his employ women, who, under the "sweating" system, received only 5 cents per day.

Federation in New South Wales.

SYDNEY, N.S.W., Feb. 24.—The Premier of New South Wales announced in the Assembly to-day that a federation bill will be introduced at the next session.

TERRIBLE ITCHING

Used Everything Five Months. In Three Weeks not a Scar or Pimple. Cured by Cuticura.

When my baby was three months old his cheeks and forehead began to break out with white pimples on red surface. In a few days itching commenced, which was terrible. After he would rub it, matter would ooze from the points. In a short time it spread over the top of his head, then scabs soon formed on head and face. We used everything we could hear of for nearly five months. It grew worse all the time. I saw your advertisement of the CUTICURA REMEDIES in the "Chicago Weekly." We purchased CUTICURA REMEDIES and commenced their use. In three weeks' time there was not a sore or pimple, not even a scar, on head or face. He is nineteen months old now, and has no signs of the disease. His scalp is healthy and he has a beautiful head of hair. (See portrait herewith.)

MRS. OSCAR JAMES, Woodston, Kan.

My infant, eighteen months old, was afflicted with skin eruptions on his hips. Bad sores came on other parts. All remedies failed until I procured CUTICURA. Cured a year and no return of disease.
MRS. A. M. WALKER, Carsonville, Ga.

GREATLY BENEFITED.

DEAR SIRS,—I have been using B.B.B. for cancer of the breast during the last two years and four months, both externally and internally, and have been greatly benefited. Have had cancer over seven years, and no medicine ever did me as much good as B B.B. I feel sure that sufferers from cancer can obtain relief or even cure from B.B.B., and will be pleased to answer any questions as to the use and benefit received from this remedy.
MRS. A. ELLIOT, Waterdown, Ont.

Dangerous Counterfeits.

Counterfeits are always dangerous, more so that they always closely IMITATE THE ORIGINAL IN APPEARANCE AND NAME. The remarkable success achieved by Nasal Balm as a positive cure for Catarrh and Cold in the head has induced unprincipled parties to imitate it. The public are cautioned not to be deceived by nostrums imitating Nasal Balm in name and appearance, bearing such names as Nasal Cream, Nasal Balsam, etc. Ask for Nasal Balm and do not take any imitation dealers may urge upon you. For sale by all druggists or sent post-paid on receipt of price (50c and $1.) by addressing Fulford & Co. Brockville. Ont.

A CRYING EVIL.

Every crying evil should be promptly removed. Sick headache is a crying evil affecting thousands of Canadians, which can easily be removed by the use of Burdock Blood Bitters, the best known stomach, liver and bowel regulator and cure for sick headache from whatever cause arising.

Inflammation of the Eyes Cured.

Mr. Jacob D. Miller, Newbury, writes,—"I was troubled with inflammation of the eyes, so that during nearly the whole of the summer of 1882 I could not work; I took several bottles of Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery, and it gives me great pleasure to inform you that it cured me of my affliction. It is an excellent medicine for Costiveness."

He who chases two hares will catch neither.

Mr. Thomas Ballard, Syracuse, N.Y., writes,—"I have been afflicted for nearly a year with that most to-be-dreaded disease Dyspepsia, and at times worn out with pain and want of sleep, and after trying almost everything recommended I tried one box of Parmelee's Pills. I am now nearly well, and believe they will cure me. I would not be without them for any money."

It won't do a bit of good to whitewash the well curb so long as there is poison in the water.

S. Chadwick, of Arcadia, Wayne Co., writes,—"I have had severe attacks of Asthma for several years. I commenced taking Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil. The first dose relieved me in one hour. I continued taking it in teaspoonful doses for a few days, and have not had an attack since, now nearly one year."

SERVANT GIRLS MURDERED.

A Crime Resembling in All Its Details That Committed by the Schneiders of Vienna.

MAGDEBURG, Feb. 24.—A man named Fritz Erbe and his fiancee, Dorothy Bunstock, have been arrested here charged with murdering servant girls for the purpose of robbery.

These murders resembled in most of their horrible details the Schneider murders in Vienna recently, the victims being inveigled to their fate by means of bogus advertisements.

The police have already discovered the names of two of the victims and are at work on the other cases.

When the police descended upon the culprits the clothing of the murdered girls was found in their possession and will be used as evidence against the prisoners when they are brought to trial.

Dorothy Bunstock has broken down in the face of the charges made against her and has made a confession, in which she described the manner in which the murders were committed. She admits leading the girls to a wood, where Fritz was waiting to spring upon them and where after his bloody work was finished the victims were stripped of all their clothing and any money or valuables in their possession and their bodies hidden in a spot where it was not likely they would be discovered.

THE GROCERS' WARFARE.

The Wholesale Grocers' Guild and the Price of Sugar.

MONTREAL, Feb. 24.—The sugar refiners have now had their meeting and the Grocers' Guild have had theirs. The result is not as had been anticipated by some grocers, the destruction of the guild. It appears that by general consent the members resolved to suspend Rule No. 2 of the association, which governs the sale of sugar, thus permitting everyone to sell present stock at such rates as they think proper and profitable for their own interests. When all these stocks are sold, however, the members of the guild alone will be able to go to the refiners and ask them for more sugar. There will then have to be a new shuffle ordered before the outside men can enter the guild, which they will have to do in order to be able to purchase sugar at all.

There are four large wholesale houses outside the Dominion Guild, two in Montreal, one in Kingston and one in Toronto. The recent defection of a wholesale house here appears to have led to the present action on the part of the members of the Wholesalers' Association. It is said that before this house withdrew from the guild it had purchased some $300,000 worth of sugar from the refineries, so that it is amply supplied with stock to carry on the war for some time to come. The other houses outside the Guild are also understood to have good supplies of Scotch and Dutch sugars. Fierce cutting is now the order of the day and it is merely a question of the survival of the fittest.

A DARK OUTLOOK.

The following information which was received yesterday, will dispel the idea, industriously propagated by the Grits for political effect, that workingmen can more readily find employment in the United States than in Canada:

WARNING TO THOSE LOOKING FOR WORK.

Brick-layers.....	500	labor census
Masons and bricklayers	3,500	last week.

Chicago, Feb. 20, 1892. CARL OTTSON.

A REMARKABLE TRIUMPH.

When Ananias Cameron was returning from Florida to fight another political battle, with the Hon. J. C. Patterson, Secretary of State, as his opponent, he boastfully exclaimed that he would sweep the riding with 800 majority. The prediction, however, has proven as false as many of Ananias' statements in Parliament. The vote of last year of 379 which was recorded as his favor last year has been swept away and Mr. Patterson has been elected by a majority of 20.

The attempt of Mr. Patterson, an outsider, to overcome a majority of 379 and wrest the constituency from so strong a local man as Cameron, must to many have appeared Quixotic; but so strong and deep is the current of popular opinion flowing in favor of the Government that it sweeps all obstacles away. The talented Secretary of State gauged its force accurately, thus evidencing his sagacity as a political leader and an observer of the signs of the times.

The battle was a desperate one, Laurier, Cartwright and a host of leading Grits and many prominent Conservatives taking part; therefore the result is all the more significant.

West Huron adds one to the overwhelming array of frontier counties that have repudiated the Grit annexation project.

Every Conservative and many loyal Reformers will unite with us in congratulating the Hon. J. C. Patterson on his magnificent achievement and on his return to the House of Commons, of which he was one of the most prominent members.

College Students and Political Parties.

To the Editor of the Intelligencer.

DEAR SIR,—I noticed in yesterday's issue of the INTELLIGENCER the following references to Albert College:

To show the advantage that the Reformers have in the list, it is only necessary to state that 21 votes were cast from Albert College for the Grit candidate.

* * *

Most of these votes are cast by students who came here presumably to pursue their studies, and not to learn political trickery from such teachers as the deposed Reeve of Thurlow, Vermilyea, and associates.

* * *

Albert College receives its support from the public, irrespective of politics, and should be conducted on a strictly non-political basis.

* * *

If the management is satisfied to allow the teachers to conduct it on a political basis, well and good; but the Conservatives should know it, so that they can govern themselves accordingly in giving.

* * *

When Mr. Laurier was here a body of students, headed by one of the teachers, paraded the streets singing "we'll hang Sir John to a sour apple tree," which, for the sake of the college, we refrained from mentioning at the time.

* * *

But when they have gone so far as to place such influence students as will vote the Reform ticket on the list, patience ceases to be a virtue.

These references, so far as the management is concerned, are utterly misleading. So far as I am able to judge so far as I am concerned, Albert College has been conducted on a strictly non-political basis. I have now been Principal of Albert College for seven years and have been intimately connected with the management of that institution for 15 years, and in no single instance has the management or the responsible authorities of the college taken an active part in political matters. It is true when Mr. Laurier was here a body of students, accompanied by one of the teachers, marched to the opera house and on the way and in the house sang college songs. The INTELLIGENCER at the time stated that they had sang "we'll hang Sir John to a sour apple tree." So far as the Principal of the college is concerned, what are the facts? I was never spoken to about the matter by any person whatever, and did not know that it was the purpose of the students to do as they did that occasion. The teacher referred to was an intimate friend of the late Mr. Burdett, who was then chairman of the Executive Committee of the college, and the demonstration was a compliment to Mr. Burdett more than anyone else. Many of the students taking part were Conservatives and it was entirely devoid of political complexion. On a different occasion they would just as readily sing "we'll hang Wilfred Laurier to a sour apple tree." They were after the song and not the sentiment.

It is a common thing for students of Toronto, Victoria and Queen's University to make noisy demonstrations of this character, and it is looked upon as a boyish freak.

It is true that some dozen or more of the students voted at the election on Saturday. Now, I took no part in the matter whatever; I actually did not know that these students were on the voters' list. I did not suggest that their names should be put on, and was not spoken to about it by whatever persons acting for the Reform party, and entirely without my concurrence or knowledge.

There are a large number of students in attendance at Albert College over 21 years of age and entitled to vote. I think the number of Reform and Conservative students is about the same; at least, I judge so from the noise made by the respective parties about the college. So that if our Conservative friends looked after the students, as our Reform friends have done, neither party would gain thereby.

I would very much prefer that the students were left alone in this matter, but I surely could not interfere to prevent their voting if they so desire. You will see, Mr. Editor, that your displeasure is without cause. Mr. Northrup is to be congratulated on his sweeping victory; and I am sure so am I, for I am convinced that "Albert College is conducted on a strictly non-political basis."

W. P. DYER.

EDITOR'S NOTE

We accept Principal Dyer's disclaimer without reserve. Now that he has been made aware of the practice of the Grit manipulators in placing the names of students on the voters' list, we would offer the suggestion that he counsel his staff and the employes of the College from assisting in such work on behalf of either of the political parties.

REDNERSVILLE

From our own Correspondent.

Three cheers for Miller! Hip, Hip, Hurrah!

Everything around here is blooming. On Thursday evening a lead of merry people went from here to attend the "At Home" given at Canoe church. On Friday night the "festival of the season" came off. The Ladies' Missionary Society gave a social in the church. The Gee Club, from Albert College, supplied the music. Besides these the audience were favored by having recitations from Miss Lambly, who won the prize last year at Albert, Mr. Sanderson, Mr. Bishop, Miss Ostrom and Mr. Anglis, also two vocal solos from "our village boy," Mr. Sanderson. Although there was quite a storm, a goodly number came to the entertainment, and were highly pleased with the programme. We wish the ladies all success in their good work, and hope they will soon give us another entertainment that will benefit us as socially, intellectually and spiritually as this one has done.

A Farmers Verdict.

The revolution in East Hastings, by which an adverse majority of 54 is converted into a majority for the Government candidate of 405, can mean nothing less than that the farmers of that rural constituency, like those of Prince Edward and Lennox, have reached the conclusion that their interests are safer in the hands of the Conservative party of the Dominion of Canada than of the Cartwright Farrer school of political traitors and financial quacks. With the exception of Deseronto and Tweed, East Hastings contains no towns of sufficient size to cast a considerable urban vote. The three townships of which the riding is composed—Thurlow, Tyendinaga and Hungerford—are almost purely agricultural. The very remarkable turn-over of Saturday, therefore, was essentially a farmers' verdict.—Kingston News.

ONTARIO LEGISLATURE.

THE DEBATE ON THE TREASURER'S STATEMENT.

Speeches by Messrs. Balfour, A. F. Wood W. B. Wood and Others—The Government Members Claim That the Province is in an Eminently Satisfactory Condition.

TORONTO, Feb. 24.—The debate on the financial standing of the Province was resumed at the Legislature yesterday afternoon.

Mr. Balfour, in replying to Mr. Clancy's speech of Friday last, challenged the statement that there was no debt when the present Administration came to power. What did he make of the million and a half dollars which the province stood committed to for railways? If this was a debt it should be deducted from the four million dollars which Mr. Clancy said was the cash surplus at this time. In regard to the timber wealth of the province the Government had not only preserved the timber resources, but by their fight for provincial rights they had added to those resources. What reckless expenditure had the Government been guilty of? Could the hon. gentleman point out any? They heard a great deal of grumbling, but they had never heard a specific instance of extravagance. The honorable gentleman would not take one dollar from the sums now devoted to education, to charities, to agriculture and for the erection and maintenance of public institutions. If he would not reduce the grants to these objects how did he propose to reduce the expenditure? He argued that the Government did not take a dollar more from the municipalities now than it did in 1891. Moreover the Government did assist in the administration of the license law; although honorable gentleman stated that the government did not contribute one dollar towards support of jails, etc. The Government obtained great returns from the licenses because it had raised the license fees. The municipalities had the same power but did not exercise it. The Government paid last year for the administration of criminal justice $142,000 and a proportion of that was paid towards the support of prisoners in the jails. He said that the municipalities shirked the responsibility of exercising their full powers of imposing license.

The honorable gentleman held up the bogey of direct taxation. Well, as they had a snug sum in the hands of the Dominion Government which they could draw on for the next twenty years at least, there need be no great excitement at present. They were using the products of their timber resources to meet the cost of necessary provincial buildings. They were merely taking capital in one shape and putting it in another in public buildings, etc. Speaking of the Quebec agreement, which had been attacked, the speaker said that that agreement been adopted the Dominion Government would be paying to the provinces $265,000 annually more than it was doing now, and of that sum Ontario would be receiving more than one-half, namely $135,000. There was therefore no reason to abandon responsibility for the Quebec agreement.

Mr. A. F. Wood (North Hastings) said that the question before them was: What were our resources, how have they been used and what were the prospects for the future? The resources were the Crown Lands, which were our capital. Our sources of revenue were the provincial subsidy, interest on trust funds, revenue from licenses, etc., amounting in all to $2,162,575. This being our income how were they to meet their ass penditure, which exceeded this sum by more than a million dollars? There were three ways of meeting it. They could draw from capital or they could borrow. Speaking of the income from the licenses he claimed that it was money unfairly taken from the municipalities. The Government had taken their present course in the issue of licenses presumably in the interest of temperance. It was quite evident now that it was revenue they were after. It was difficult to follow the treasurer in his alternative allusions to surplus and capital. At one time a certain sum was termed surplus, at another he treated it as capital. He flouted the claim that the leader of the Government or any other man or set of men had made this country prosperous. This province was prosperous by reason of the intelligence and enterprise of its people.

Mr. W. B. Wood (North Brant) said he had not heard of any municipality complaining that the Government was collecting money from licenses that should go to the municipalities. The Opposition failed, however, to tell their constituents that the grants to the agricultural societies and to education had been increased by reason of the increase of receipts from licenses and such other sources. The Opposition were simply unreasonable when they expected that the Parliament buildings and the grant for rebuilding the university could be paid out of the ordinary current revenue. He called upon them to point out where the expenditure could be decreased and to tell the House and the country what their financial policy was and what retrenchments they propose to make.

Mr. Whitney twitted the Government on its alleged surplus and its capital, its assets and its liabilities. He found now that the Government and its friends had shifted ground. They were calculating public buildings and colonization roads as assets. Were there no assets at the time the administration came to power? Yet they had never been so accounted until now.

E. J. Davis (North York) dealt at some length with the timber limit question. He thought he had answered the contention that the administration of licenses has not been equitable.

The debate was continued by H. E. Clarke and J. Waters successively and was adjourned at 11 o'clock on motion of A. S. Hardy.

A deputation, introduced by R. Tooley, consisting of Messrs. I. Gilmour and Calvert, waa received by Mr. Mowat. They wish the Government to allow the council to appoint police magistrates and to prohibit justices of the peace from exercising their present powers. The Attorney-General replied that the matter would be left optional with the various counties.

A deputation composed of Messrs. W. F. Allen and D. B. Simpson, mayor and solicitor respectively of Bowmanville, waited upon the Government. The objectwas that that town should be permitted to consolidate its debt by an exchange of bonds, falling due in 1908 to 1910, for bonds running for a longer period, and that the town be permitted to introduce a bill to that effect waiving to a certain extent the customary notices. A direct reply was not given, but from remarks passed it was inferred that the request would be refused.

The municipal council of the united counties of Northumberland and Durham, owing to the fact that no means is provided whereby a justices of the peace can collect fees for their services in connection with criminal cases tried before them, with provisions made so that these gentlemen may be paid for their services in all cases suggested their attention.

Dr. Baxter presented a petition from the Canada Southern Railway Co., asking that the bill entitled, "An Act to Incorporate the Village of Victoria," be not passed. The ground of objection is that the only effect would be to increase the assessment and taxation of the land proposed to be taken within the boundaries of the village mentioned without any corresponding advantages.

The Government have decided to meet a deputation of mining men on March 8 at 3 o'clock. The matter to be discussed is proposed amendments to the Mining Act.

The various committees met during the morning and elected their chairmen as follows: Railways, Mr. Hardy; Municipal, Mr. Hardy; Private Bills, Mr. Gibson, Hamilton; Privileges and Elections, Mr. Harcourt; Standing Orders, Mr. O'Connor, and Printing, Mr. Balfour. The Public Accounts Committee has not yet been organized.

OTTAWA GOSSIP.

The Minister of Justice to Sit in the Late Premier's Seat.

OTTAWA, Feb. 24.—The city is donning its sessional appearance, and each train as it arrives in the city brings small contingents whose objective point is Ottawa during the sitting of Parliament.

Those from a distance generally arrive first and as a consequence we have senators from British Columbia and Prince Edward Island. One or two members of the Commons have also arrived from the Maritime Provinces.

The hotels are beginning to present a lively appearance, all is bustle and activity in and around the House of Commons, the officials being engaged in giving the last finishing touches to the work of renovation, which has been going on for the past few weeks.

Sir Hector Langevin has taken his seat on the opposite side of the House between Mr. Mulock and Mr. Desjardins.

Mr. James Johnson, Commissioner of Customs, has been superannuated, Mr. Pacheler, the assistant commissioner, succeeding him. Mr. T. J. Watters, accountant, becomes assistant commissioner, and it is likely that Mr. George W. Jessop, appraiser, will succeed Mr. Watters.

There has been considerable grumbling for years past on the Commons side of the House as to the manner of conducting the restaurant. This was one of the questions on which both Grits and Tories agreed. An attempt is being made to introduce something like the club system by the new caterer, F. B. Coleman. The latter will be done away with and those entitled to the privileges of the restaurant will be served in rooms on what is known as the European plan. The staff, comprising a couple of cooks from New York, will number in all 20 hands, nearly double that formerly employed. The Senate restaurant will be carried on by the old carterer on the old principles.

There will be no state ball next week as usual. The Court mourning is one reason, but the strongest given is that Lent commences next Wednesday and no ball will be given till after Easter.

The Quebec Commission.

QUEBEC, Feb. 24.—At 10.25 this morning His Honor Justice Pagnuelo and Messrs. McMaster and Masson, Royal Commissioners, assembled in the Court House. The secretary read the indictment which is based on the issue of certain letters of credit, promises to pay certain sums, &c., by the members of the late Mercier Government to Messrs. Langelier, Valliere and others, also several sums and subsidies to the Baie des Chaleurs Railway, the Drummond Railway and the Montreal & Sorel Railway.

H. E. Mackie, assistant provincial treasurer, was called in the witness box and sworn. He recollected having issued a check to the order of C. J. Langelier in November, 1890, for the Baie des Chaleurs Railway. The warrant of the Lieut.-Governor in Council is acquitted by Hon. Mr. Mercier. The check was endorsed by Langelier and Mercier.

Ambushed and Massacred.

SAN SALVADOR, Feb. 24.—General Enriquez was killed Tuesday by a body of Guatamalan soldiers, together with a number of companions, near the city of Zacapia, Guatemala.

General Enriquez had been unanimously proclaimed dictator of the Constitutional party of Guatemala and had in consequence incurred the active hostility of President Barillos.

General Enriquez was proceeding toward Zacapia accompanied by his two brothers and a party of friends. A company numbering 100 soldiers, lying in ambush on one of the roads out of the city, fired upon Enriquez and others of his party, killing all of them. The attack and killing of the party is attributed to orders issued from the capital and the deed is imputed to the Guatemalan Government.

Holstein Breeders.

GUELPH, Feb. 24.—The annual meeting of the Holstein Friesian Association was held yesterday. These officers were elected: William Stone, Stoneycroft, president; H. Bollert, Cassel, 1st vice-president; R. Howe Crumpp, Masonville, 2nd vice-president; F. W. Charlton, St. George, 3rd vice-president; D. E. Smith, Brampton, secretary-treasurer; William Sahring, Sebringville, and A. C. Hallman, New Dundee, directors.

DALY AND EGAN.

Member of Parliament Redmond Visits Them in Portland Jail.

LONDON, Feb. 24.—Mr. John E. Redmond, Member of Parliament for Waterford and present leader of the Parnellites, has visited the imprisoned dynamiters in Portland jail.

His first interview was with Daly, with whom he conversed for over two hours. Daly was eager to obtain information regarding Mr. Parnell's death and expressed gratitude to those Englishmen who had voted to support Mr. Redmond's appeal for mercy.

On being seen, Egan declared that he would rather serve out the entire period of his sentence than compromise the fate of his fellow prisoners.

DUBLIN, Feb. 23.—At the regular meeting of the National League held here to day Mr. Edmond Leamy, member of the House of Commons for South Sligo, said that the Nationalists were now sure that Mr. Gladstone knew that the Irish people rule was necessary for Ireland. Although some of the Irish members of Parliament had declared their readiness to take whatever the Liberals gave, none dared to say they would ultimately take less than provided for in Mr. Parnell's programme.

Though the Parnellites were in the minority against the McCarthyites it was Parnell's voice that the British Liberals listened to. Any Gladstonian measure had no chance of acceptance unless it was laid down on the line shown by Parnell.

The Duke Successful.

LONDON, Feb. 24.—Application was recently made to the court by the Marchioness of Blandford to compel her former husband, the Duke of Marlborough, to increase the sum paid by him for the support of the Marquis of Blandford, their son and heir-at-law to the Duke, and to make the provision for him. The court after hearing argument to-day refused the petition of the asked for. The Marquis of Blandford will not be of age until November of the present year. He now receives £300 per annum from the Duke.

Close Vote on Disestablishment.

LONDON, Feb. 24.—In the House of Commons to-day Samuel Smith, member for Flintshire, moved the disestablishment of the church in Wales. The motion was rejected by a vote of 267 to 220.

Be Cobain to Be Expelled.

LONDON, Feb. 24.—In the House of Commons Mr. Balfour gave notice that on Friday next he would move that Mr. De Cobain, having fled to escape justice, be expelled from the House of Commons.

C. B. SCANTLEBURY, Esq., Belleville.

DEAR SIR,—We have much the combination you suggested and are much pleased with the effect.

You will have received this morning some of the paper you sent on approval. We could not send it back earlier as we thought we might have to use part of it.

We would also like to thank you for your very prompt attention throughout. It seems extremely likely that our order will be followed up by some of our friends in the spring, if not now, as the rooms have been much admired and the papers are much prettier than can be bought here for the same price.

By the way one of the samples has been retained at the request of a friend who contemplates papering. I can say or may not hear from this. In the meantime if you should want the sample it can be returned at any time.

Yours truly,

A LETTER FROM A LEADING PICTON LAWYER.

NOTE.—The above letter is one of the results of our Mail Order system. The papers used were our own suggestions.

No matter where you live, whether between here and Vancouver to the west, or Halifax to the east, we can paper your rooms as well as if you were here in our warerooms and made a personal selection.

If you cannot come and inspect our stock, send us a description of your rooms, give us an idea of the price you wish to pay and we will send you at once some samples of combinations in Wall Paper effects, carefully selected by our own decorator.

We make a specialty of mail orders for Wall Paper and everything else in our line.

DAY after day the evidence accumulates that the "Myrtle Navy" is the people's favorite tobacco. The demand keeps increasing, and from every new circle of consumers who have been induced to try it the evidence is emphatic in its favor. Its genuine quality always holds the friends they have once made. These qualities will be kept up to their full standard by the manufacturers of it. It is to these qualities and the reasonableness of the price that they attribute their market success. To the quality they will adhere at all cost, and also to the price if that be possible.

All claims not consistent with the high character of Syrup of Figs are purposely avoided by the Cal. Fig Syrup Company. Its acts gently on the kidneys, liver and bowels, cleansing the system effectually, but it is not a cure-all and makes no pretensions that every bottle will not substantiate.

What is Dandruff?

A disease of the scalp that causes falling of the hair, fading of the hair, in fact, death of the hair. It irritates the scalp and causes scales and eczematic eruptions—produces baldness. Bear in mind that Anti-Dandruff removes Dandruff with 3 applications—stops falling and restores fading hair to its original color. Sold by druggists at 75 cents per bottle.

A Serious Charge.

A Young Girl Accuses two Men of a Detestable Crime.

A highly respectable yeoman residing in the township of Murray, some four miles west of Sidney township, was in the city yesterday in company with his sixteen year-old daughter and laid information against a person, who, if convicted of the alleged offence, should be severely dealt with.

The story told by the girl is as follows: For some time she was engaged in learning dressmaking with a lady in the village of Frankford. On Wednesday last a young man, who lives in Murray, called at the residence of the girl's father and told her that the lady for whom she had been working wished to see her on business. She, thinking such was the case, accompanied him, but instead of taking her to Frankford he drove her to Trenton and there introduced her to a friend of his. The latter asked the girl to go with him, and although she repeatedly refused, she at last consented and was taken to Consecon. Protesting against this, her companion stated that he would take her to Belleville, but instead took her to some place, the name of which she does not know. They went to a hotel and the man took her to a room, and after fastening the door made indecent proposals to her, which she resented. He, however, succeeded in accomplishing his purpose, and afterwards gave her $2, with which she succeeded in reaching her home and told what had occurred. The father, after obtaining legal advice, came to Mr. Flint and related the case, the outcome of which was that a warrant was issued for the girl's assailant's arrest, charging him with indecent assault. This was placed in the hands of constable Garratt, who left this morning for the purpose of finding the accused and bringing him before the proper authorities.

Names are suppressed until the case comes up for investigation.

To the Editor of the Intelligencer.

MY DEAR SIR,—The interpolation of one word "them" confused the sense of the last sentence in my letter of yesterday. It should read "I don't call phenomena fraud unless proved to be so." I am, very truly yours, J. J. B. FLINT.

Saturday's Triumph.

Opinions of Leading Journals on the Conservative Victories.

Of the Conservative victories on Saturday the Empire says: "One thing these contests make clear—The Opposition trade policy has literally no hold on the popular mind, and meets nothing but defeat wherever its merits are thoroughly threshed out on the platform, and its real purpose disclosed by discussion and analysis. The Government has now won five seats in Ontario from the Opposition, a difference of ten in a parliamentary division, so that the normal, ministerial majority next session will be at least 45, if it does not exceed that figure. In other words the Opposition is beaten, and may as well acknowledge the corn."

The Mail (Grit) says: "The constituencies are not distinctly Liberal or Conservative in their antecedents. Both are border constituencies, and they might fairly have been expected to take a deep interest in the reciprocity question. Their voice has been clearly given against the unrestricted proposition. The result is a heavy blow to the Liberals, who are now thirteen votes off on a division than they were when Parliament prorogued."

The Montreal Witness (Grit) says: "The Conservatives have won two more great victories in Ontario. South Ontario and East Hastings, both of which elected Liberal candidates at the general elections by fair majorities, on Saturday returned the Conservative candidates by very large majorities. Everywhere throughout the province of Ontario, East, West, North, South and Midland, the story is the same; all show the same inclination to support the Conservative majority."

The Montreal Gazette says: "The success achieved by the Conservative candidates in East Hastings and South Ontario on Saturday is truly remarkable, and leaves no possible room to doubt that in the great province of Ontario the heart of the people is with the party consistently enforced by the Dominion Government since 1878. No ordinary explanations such as are commonly resorted to by partizans to account for defeat can minimize the significance of these victories, the majorities being large beyond the power of purchase, and the voters' list being of recent revision, and therefore fairly indicative of public sentiment. Young Canadians have a well merited contempt for the unpatriotic and weak spirited course of the Liberal leaders on the trade question, holding firmly to the doctrine that this country can progress and prosper independently of the hostile legislation of the United States, and understanding thoroughly that the Government of the day is prepared to proceed in overtures for freer commercial intercourse only as far as is consistent with not merely Canadian dignity, but Canadian fiscal independence."

The Hamilton Times (Grit) says: "The Tories have won South Ontario and East Hastings, and the hope of knocking Premier Abbott out by means of the bye-elections grows small and beautifully less."

Reciprocity (unrestricted) is all right, so far as it goes, but it has the weakness of being mixed with the idea of annexation, and the protectionists have used the loyalty cry for all it was worth."

The Hamilton Spectator says: "Both the constituencies won on Saturday are, as has been said, those in which commercial union sentiment was supposed to be strong. Both are barley-growing counties, and both are opposite the principal barley ports of the United States. Yet both declare by their votes that they have neither part nor lot in the traitorous schemes of the annexationists."

The Ottawa Citizen says: "The people of Canada have quickly recognised the spirit and ability of the administration, and are according it an unexpectedly generous support. The tide of Conservative feeling now runs high, and is sweeping the country from end to end. The campaign of scandal and mud throwing which culminated in the Tarte McGreevy investigations has recoiled upon those who thought by this unsavory means to force their way into office. The government will meet parliament with a majority which now promises to approach more nearly to fifty than to forty. The unrestricted trade fad is dead. Where abuses exist in the public service they will be remedied by Conservative statesmen; and the country will go on in the even tenor of its way, wisely governed, and not to be seduced, by the cheap or glittering but fallacious schemes, into the path of dangerous experiment."

La Minerve says: "Let people judge of the change! Is not the stroke of the broom vigorous enough? Our opponents have tried to deliver us bound, hand and feet, to the Yankees, but they have reckoned without the patriotism of our population, which desires that Canada should be for Canadians."

For the Intelligencer.

O come, now raise your standard high,
And join in one long shout,
For Conservatives have won the day,
And Aylsworth now is out.

The loyal sons of Hastings East
Nobly the call obeyed,
By marching to the polling place
And there their marks were made.

You've surely won enormous
For self and party too,
And held up the "Old Policy"
Which John A. left to you.

I know he would with you rejoice
If he were here some more,
But through life's troubled seas he's sailed,
And landed on yon shore.

So you must ever onward press
In your late leader's name;
Guard o'er the fair Dominion,
And bring her not to shame.

No longer will you hear the cry,
"O, we must have free trade!"
Their founts of eloquence are closed,
And now they seek the shade.

But where are your opponents?
Some are men of stamin,
And some, like great Achilles,
Are sulking in the camp.

They surely thought that they would win,
And yet, they had their doubts;
'Gainst the Government they must contend,
And their "bowie fund" was out.

Then give three cheers for Northrup,
Your representative now,
And when he goes to Parliament
May wisdom crown his brow.

Yes, hoist the flag of England,
Your mother-land so true;
May all her colors defend
The red, the white and blue.

ANNA M. HUDSON.

Rosiin, Feb. 23.

An Unusual Occurrence.

Yesterday afternoon, when the funeral cortege of the late Mrs. Highnbotham arrived at Bridge street, the funeral procession of the late Mr. James Arnott was passing along Bridge street. The first procession waited until that of Mr. Arnott had passed and followed immediately behind it, and thus proceeded to the cemetery. The singular spectacle of two funerals almost merged into one was the subject of much comment.

Piles! Piles! Itching Piles.

SYMPTOMS.—Moisture; intense itching and stinging; most at night; worse by scratching; it allowed to continue tumors form, which often bleed and ulcerate, becoming very sore. SWAYNE'S OINTMENT stops the itching and bleeding, heals ulceration, and in most cases removes the tumors. At druggists, or by mail, at 50 cents. Dr. Swayne & Son, Philadelphia. Montreal Cattle Market.

There is nothing of importance to note in the live stock market, which continues very quiet and uninteresting. We quote the following as being fair values:—Cattle, butchers' good, 3½c@4c; do. medium, 3c@3½c; do. culls, 2½c@2½c; sheep, 3½c@4c; hogs, $4.90@$5; calves, $3@$8.

The Late Mrs. D. Williams.

The funeral of the late Mrs. Dorcas Williams took place at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. Yerex, on Benjamin street to-day. Deceased was of U.E. Loyalist stock, and was connected with the families of some of the earliest settlers of Prince Edward County. She was born in the Township of Athol, July 3rd, 1811. Her father was the late Daniel Young, commonly known among his contemporaries as "Major Young." Her father and her grandfather —Captain Henry Young—were officers in the British army during the war of the Revolution, and at the close of the war were connected with the garrison of Fort William Henry at Kingston. In the fall of 1783 Captain Henry Young and his son Daniel, in company with a young officer named Quinte, (who gave his name to the bay) left Kingston in a small boat and made their way up the bay to where the town of Picton now stands, from which point they explored a large part of Prince Edward County, being probably the first white men who ever passed through it. The Youngs, father and son, selected a block of land on the peninsula between the East Lake and the West Lake and commenced to make themselves a home. They were the first settlers in the county—the advance guard, as it were, of the great body of U. E. Loyalists who arrived the following year, 1784. Major Young hewed out a fine home on the north side of East Lake where he spent the remainder of his days, and raised a large family of whom the subject of this sketch was the youngest. His descendants are closely related to many of the leading families of Prince Edward. Mrs. Williams was married in 1827 to the late James Williams, but her married life extended over a period of only twelve years, her husband dying in 1839. Since then she has lived a widow. Being very modest and retired in her disposition she lived a very retired life with her children. Her end was peace.

A sister of the deceased, Mrs. Rachel Stinson, widow of the late D. B. Stinson, Esq., is still living in the township of Hallowell at the ripe age of 94, still possessing considerable vigor of mind and body. She is the mother of L. B. Stinson, Esq., of Picton, and grandmother of Mrs. R. Cooper of this city.

Mrs. Highnbotham's Funeral.

The esteem in which the late Mrs. Highnbotham was held, was evinced by the representative character of her funeral yesterday afternoon. At the late house services were held, conducted by her pastor, Rev'd J. M. Hodson, and Rev'd G. J. Dingman. The pall bearers were the two sons, Dr. Highnbotham of Brantford, and A. Highnbotham, Esq. of Lindsay, E. Harrison, Esq., of this city, and John J. Harrison, Esq., of Ottawa. The bearers were, Messrs. Robb, Richardson, John Lewis, W. J. Diamond, Allan McFee, J. A. Conger, W.W. Chown.

For several years I was persistently annoyed with an excessive accumulation of Dandruff and although using various preparations recommended as shampooing regularly once a week, no material relief was realized until my attention was called to Anti-Dandruff, which has produced unlooked-for results in so few cases, four applications removing every particle of Dandruff, and as a specific for this trouble it certainly has no equal.

INTENSE SUFFERING!

Mr. William Buchanan, 24 years engineer in the Cunard Steamship Company's service, 8 St. John's Road, Kirkdale, Liverpool, Eng., writes: "I suffered two years of agony from an affection in the head which six physicians pronounced incurable. They were divided in opinion as to whether it was acute neuralgia of the head or rheumatic affection of the brain, but all agreed that I could never recover. In my paroxysms of pain it needed two and sometimes three men to hold me down in bed. When at death's door, was applied to my head. It acted like magic. It saved my life, I am well and hearty, and have had no return of the trouble."

ST. JACOBS OIL

"ALL RIGHT! ST. JACOBS OIL DID IT."

A WONDERFUL CHANGE.

GENTLEMEN,—For twenty years I suffered from rheumatism, dyspepsia, poor appetite, etc., and received no benefits from the many medicines I tried, but after taking five bottles of B. B. B. I can eat heartily of any food, and am strong and smart. It is a grand medicine and has made a wonderful change in my health.

MRS. W. H. LEE, Harley, Ont.

MR H. B. McKinnon, painter, Mount Albert, says,—"Last summer my system became impregnated with the lead and turpentine used in painting; my body was covered with scaly spots as large as a 25-cent piece, and I was in such a state that I could scarcely walk. I got a bottle of Northrop and Lyman's Vegetable Discovery, and at once commenced taking it in large doses and before one half the bottle was used there was not a spot to be seen, and I never felt better in my life."

The man who does right only because he has to, isn't much of a Christian.

The Best Pills—Mr. Wm. Vandervoort, Sidney Crossing, Ont., writes—"We ha e been using Burdock Liver Pills, and find them by far the best pills we ever used." For Delicate and Debilitated Constitutions these Pills act like a charm. Taken in small doses, the effect is that a tonic and a stimulant, mildly exciting the secretions of the body, giving tone and vigor.

The Stone-Cutter of Lisbon

A NOVEL BY

WM. HENRY PECK.

There were a few old steady and gray haired artisans who strove to prevent murder outright. Even they were eager that their tyrants should be beaten and hushed about as a merited punishment, but they were opposed to inflicting death.

Their opposition enabled Don Alva to escape from the centre of the surging, roaring mob and to direct his course toward the group at the brink of the quarry, toward which the retinues of the two nobles were also hastening.

It was at this moment that Stonio glanced toward the yards, for all that has been related as passing there transpired in a few instants.

Three of Don Alva's assistants were in the grasp of a hundred angry hands, and their shrill screams of terror and anguish rose keenly above the hoarse shouts and murderous execrations of those who were putting them to death. The number of those who strove to deal fatal blows impeded a quick ending of the miseries of those three wretches, upon whom rained a storm of blows, half parried by random thrusts, strokes, and grasps.

Three other assistants closely followed Don Alva, as he bounded through the yard and scrambled up the steep though not very deep sides to the paved street above.

Scores of infuriated men were in fierce pursuit, hurling stones, mallets, chisels and other tools, with sharp fragments of rock, after the fugitives.

Don Alva had once been renowned for his fleetness of foot, but years of ease and pampering indulgence had shortened his wind so that, though at first he left his pursuers rapidly more and more in the rear he sank down exhausted as he reached the street, and sprawled out breathless in the dust.

Glancing back into the yard he had left, he saw the three assistants who had follow ed him so closely, beaten down, rushed up on, and disappear amid the great wave of maddened men, as it roared over their mangled bodies, and swept on swiftly towards where he lay gasping.

Turning his eyes in another direction, he saw the fate of his three other assistants was already sealed, and that their bodies, hacked and torn limb from limb, were being tossed or brandished in the air in gory fragments, and that now the entire force of the rabble, including a gang of galley slaves just liberated from their shackles by the workmen, was plunging and shouting towards him, roaring as with one voice—

"Death to Diego Alva!"

His powers seemed paralyzed. He tried in vain to rise to his feet. Twice he near ly succeeded, and twice his knees sank under him, carrying his mouth to the dust. Half raised upon one elbow, he turned his terrified face, all besmeared with dust, sw at, and blood, toward the carriage of Count Pedro, to see the powerful form of Stonio bounding toward him.

Remembering his fear of this mysterious man, and the many covert insults he had thrust at him during the day, Don Alva could only groan—

"He hastens to be the first to kill me!"

Then gazing beyond the dreaded stonecutter, he saw that the retinues of the two nobles could not possibly reach him in time to save him from the rage and fury of the mob, even were Stonio to spare him.

But the guards of the nobles were coming up rapidly, and he could barely make out that Count Pedro and Prince Enrique were urging them on to greater speed.

"Too late! too late!" groaned the miserable man, as his glance swept the situation.

"It is death from Stonio, or death from the mob—one or the other." And with a wild, shrill howl of cowardly despair, like that of a bayed and mortally wounded wolf, he closed his eyes just as the tremendous leaps of Stonio carried the stone cutter to his side, and near enough to brain or stab him, if Stonio wished.

Don Alva uttered another wild, shrill howl as Stonio raised him by the waist, and swung him high in the air, as if about to hurl him bodily back into the yard, up whose side the infuriated mob was now sweeping, a living mass of rage and hate, not five paces from him.

"Mercy!" cried Don Alva, as he was swung up by those powerful arms. "Mercy!"

"Death to Diego Alva," pealed from hundreds of throats.

"But shall I defend this man? I demand the life of Diego Alva!" shouted Stonio, as the foremost of the pursuers rushed blindly toward him.

"Death to Diego Alva," again roared the workmen, now almost surrounding Stonio, whose left arm encircled the form of the half dead superintendent, as he held him aloft upon his shoulder.

"Then whoever harms Diego Alva, must first attack me," shouted Stonio, as he confronted the mob, and raised his heavy mallet to defend or assail.

"Ah!" gasped Don Alva, opening his eyes. "This man intends to save my life."

But as he glazed about him, and saw the circle of flaming eyes and enraged faces, outstretched arms, and brandished weapons and heard the yell of scorn with which Stonio's words were greeted, he howled again for mercy, and strove to catch a glimpse of the guards of his master.

They were coming, coming like a tempest, spears and spikes leveled, swords drawn, muskets ready. But in all probability, before they could reach that spot, he and Stonio would be torn into shreds by the mad mob.

CHAPTER V.

THE ROUT OF THE GUARDS.

Stonio had sprung from the presence of Lady Hilda the instant he saw that the riot in the yard had begun. As we have endeavored to show, the riot began suddenly, was, in fact, an explosion—yet not one wholly unexpected by the young stone cutter. His observant eyes and ears and his knowledge of men had told him that it was coming, was near at hand, though days might pass before it took place.

A glance showed him all; and thrusting Lady Hilda's ring into a pocket in the bosom of his blouse, he had bounded away towards the yard with but one purpose, and that purpose was to save the life of Diego Alva.

He had neither love, reverence, friendship, nor respect for the man, but the life of Diego Alva was something very important to him. He could not have averted the outbreak if he would. That had been the slow and sure growth of months. His sympathies were wholly with the workmen for he hated tyranny, and knew they had been mercilessly oppressed. Yet Diego Alva, bad and utterly base as he was, was to be saved from a richly merited death if possible—at least for the time—and therefore Stonio used his utmost speed and vigor to meet the superintendent as he saw him flying from his enemies.

"Santa Maria!" cried Count Pedro, growing as lividly pale as he was when in the endangered carriage. "A riot. Why—what! a riot in my yards! fearful! scandalous! The rascals shall suffer for it. A strike, and then a riot!"

"Undoubtedly," said Prince Enrique. "Come, Lady Hilda, we shall be between the mob and our retainers, who are already very near. Let us withdraw to yonder balcony; there may be some rare sport."

"Do you call a scene like that sport, Don Enrique?" asked Lady Hilda, shuddering, for the rear of the workmen was indeed appalling.

She and the Prince, followed by the Count, were now hastening toward a small stone two story house, the shop and dwelling of a confectioner, from the windows of the second story of which was a small balcony.

The proprietor of the shop, a small, thin man, with a very large head and fat face, was at his door, and hurried to obey as the Prince called out—

"Haste, fellow! Lead us to the balcony above on the instant." So that just as Don Alva sealed the aides of the yard and fell sprawling upon the street, they emerged from the single window opening upon the balcony.

A fair view of all was there visible, and the nobles were also able, from so prominent and commanding a position, to direct the movements of their guards, who at that moment arrived within hearing.

(To be Continued.)

HIDDEN FOES.

Among the many foes to human health and happiness, dyspepsia and constipation are twin enemies greatly to be feared. With B.B.B to drive them out of the system, however, no danger need be anticipated, as every dose brings the sufferer a long step step further on the road to perfect health and strength, and a permanent cure always results.

THE BLOOD IS THE LIFE.

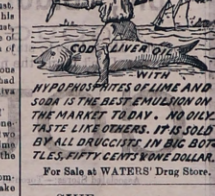

Good health without pure blood is simply impossible, and to secure pure blood is therefore absolutely necessary, especially in spring, when bad blood is very prevalent. Burdock Blood Bitters is the remedy, without an equal in the world of medicine. It drives out all poisonous humors of the blood from a common pimple to the worst scrofulous sore.

In order to quiet a hacking cough, take a dose of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil three s day, or oftener if the cough spells rend r it nec ssary. The widely termed remedy also cures cric k in the back, rheumatic comp aints, kidney si rents pains, etc It is used inwardly and outwardly.

Have you tried Holloway's Corn Cure? It has no equal for removing these troublesome excrescences, as many have testified who have tried it.

We must use or lose. The servant who buried his talent was the only one who lost it.

A YORKSHIRE CALAMITY

A SCORE OF FEMALE OPERATIVES KILLED.

A Massive Chimney Sixty Yards High Crashes Upon a Roof of a Factory Killing and Wounding the Employes—Fire Adds Its Horrors to the Affair—Many Bodies Recovered.

LEEDS, Feb. 25.—The manufacturing town of Cleckheaton, in the West riding of Yorkshire, eight miles from Leeds, was yesterday the scene of a frightful accident, resulting in the death of a number of lives.

A massive chimney 60 yards high at Marsh Mills' machinery and flannel factory in that place collapsed and fell on the roof of the factory just as a number of young women operatives were leaving work.

The fall of the chimney converted the wing of the factory on which it crashed into a heap of debris made up of fragments of masonry and the shattered remnants of machinery.

Fire Adds Its Horrors.

The piteous cries of those caught in the ruins could be heard, and the horror of the scene was soon augmented by the breaking out of fire, in which numbers of the imprisoned victims were more or less burned.

A force of workmen and the fire brigade of the town speedily got to work to move the tons of debris.

The number already extricated includes eight killed, all women, and many injured by having limbs crushed.

Twelve of those who were in the building at the time of the disaster are still missing.

"Steeple Jacks," who have been occupied for a week past in repairing the chimney, found it was collapsing and made their escape.

The factory manager states that an expert examined the foundation of the chimney at 3 p.m. and declared it to be in a safe condition.

It is reported that the cause of the disaster was the removal of a number of defective bricks for the purpose of making repairs, which caused the structure to thus become unduly weakened.

A girl who was rescued from the garret was found with her head jammed between two beams. She gives a horrifying account of the spectacle presented by the ruins beneath her.

Five women are still missing.

The Death List Growing.

LEEDS, Feb. 25.—At 3 o'clock yesterday 12 bodies have been extricated from the ruins. Two of the wounded persons have succumbed to their injuries and another is in a dying condition.

Fifteen Men Entombed.

LISBON, Feb. 25.—An explosion occurred in a quarry pit near the royal palace of Ajuda.

Fifteen men are known to be entombed in the pit and all may have been killed.

The Cannes Sensation.

CANNES, Feb. 25.—As the inquiry in the Deacon shooting case, M. Baumann, the secretary of the Hotel Splendide, who lives with M. Mr. Deacon when he burst in the locked door of Mrs. Deacon's room, testified that when he and Deacon entered the room Mrs. Deacon was undressed.

Mrs. Deacon's maid was also examined. She corroborated the testimony of M. Baumann, that Mrs. Deacon was undressed while Abeille was in her room.

Woman's Work Sometimes Done.

LONDON, Feb. 25.—In the House of Commons yesterday the bill amending the shop hours regulation bill, so as to include women, passed its second reading by a vote of 172 to 152.

A workshop as defined in the bill includes saloon, restaurants and drapershops and limits women's work to 74 hours weekly, including meal times. At present there is no law regulating the hours women shall be employed in shops.

Absconder Franck's Accomplice Sentenced.

BERLIN, Feb. 25.—Herr Schwieger, a stock broker of this city, who was convicted of being an accomplice of Herr Franck, the absconding bookkeeper of the Deutsche Bank, who is accused of having defrauded that institution out of 3,000,000 marks, was to-day sentenced to four years' imprisonment.

Her Case in the Commons.

LONDON, Feb. 25.—In the House of Commons Mr. Patrick O'Brien asked why Mrs. Robert Montagu had not been arrested until a week after the charge had been made against her. The Home Secretary replied that the arrest was perfectly regular. He declared that it was untrue that Mrs. Robert Montagu, in order to avoid trial, had attempted to leave the country.

One Deaf Mute Kills Another.

LIVERPOOL, Feb. 25.—Two deaf mutes named R. G. Bennett and R. I. Thompson, employed as firemen aboard the steamship City of New York, now in the Birkenhead dock, became involved in a quarrel which in the course of which Bennett inflicted mortal wounds on the head of Thompson.

Begged Not to Fire Upon the People.

BRUSSELS, Feb. 25.—The drawing of the numbers for service in the army began yesterday. Many of the patriotic bills were posted all over the town, calling upon the conscripts to desert, or, if they remained in the army, to fire in the air when they were ordered to attack the people.

Lady Evelyn Has a Mishap.

LONDON, Feb. 25.—Lady Evelyn Gordon-Lennox, while hunting with the Goodwood foxhounds yesterday, had her collar-bone broken and was severely bruised.

George Meredith, LL.D.

LONDON, Feb. 25.—The honorary degree of Doctor of Laws has just been bestowed by the University of St. Andrew's upon George Meredith, the novelist.

Miss Karaveloff Acquitted.

SOFIA, Feb. 25.—Mme. Karaveloff and her two alleged accomplices were yesterday acquitted of the charge of treason.

The Loss of the Pearl.

LONDON, Feb. 25.—The ship Pearl, bound for Iceland, has been lost near Peterhead. Twelve of those on board were saved and arrived home.

Dealy and The Freeman's Journal.

DUBLIN, Feb. 25.—It is understood that Timothy Healy has purchased all the shares in The Freeman's Journal, formerly owned by the mother of the original proprietor, Mr. Gray.

Stumbled Upon $1,000,000.

CHATHAM, Ont., Feb. 25.—Brandt, a poor prospector, while going over Batchelor Mountain found a vaulted cavern whose sides were rich with silver ore worth $1000 a ton. Several were offered $100,000 each for it in claim, but it is thought to be worth $1,000,000.

GREATLY BENEFITED.

DEAR SIRS,—I have been using B.B.B. for cancer of the breast during the last two years and four months, both externally and internally, and have been greatly benefited. Have had cancer over seven years, and no medicine ever did me as much good as B.B.B. I feel sure that sufferers from cancer can obtain relief or even cure from B.B.B., and will be pleased to answer any questions as to the use and benefit received from this remedy.

Dangerous Counterfeits.

Counterfeits are always dangerous, more so that they always closely imitate the ORIGINAL IN APPEARANCE AND NAME. The remarkable success achieved by Nasal Balm as a positive cure for Catarrh and Cold in the head has induced unprincipled parties to imitate it. The public are cautioned not to be deceived by nostrums imitating Nasal Balm in name and appearance, bearing such names as Nasal Cream, Nasal Balsam, etc. Ask for Nasal Balm and do not take any imitation dealers may urge upon you. For sale at all druggists or sent post-paid on receipt of prices (50c and $1.) by addressing Hoff & Co., Brockville, Ont.

Inflammation of the Eyes Cured.

Mr. Jacob D. Miller, Newbury, writes,—"I was troubled with inflammation of the eyes, so that during nearly the whole of the summer of 1892 I could not work. I took several bottles of Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery, and it gives me great pleasure to inform you that it cured me of my affliction. It is an excellent medicine for Costiveness."

He who chases two hares will catch neither.

Mr. Thomas Ballard, Syracuse, N.Y., writes,—"I have been afflicted for nearly a year with that most dreaded disease Dyspepsia, and at times worn out with pain and want of sleep, and after trying almost everything recommended I tried one box of Parmelee's Pills. I am now nearly well, and believe they will cure me. I would not be without them for any money."

It isn't safe to a bit of good to whitewash the well curb so long as there is poison in the water.

S. Chadwick, of Arcadia, Wayne Co., writes, —"I have had a very severe attacks of Asthma for several years. I commenced taking Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil. The first dose relieved me in one hour. I continued taking it in teaspoonful doses for a few days, and have not had an attack since, now nearly one year."

My wife says your Soap is and does everything you claim for it; that she never had clothes so clean and sweet; that the washing can be done with one-half the labor and that the hands are not chapped in doing it.

The above is no "taffy," but genuine admiration of your soap. Yours faithfully,

RECIPROCITY WITH CANADA.

NEW YORK, Feb. 25.—At the annual dinner of the New York Board of Trade and Transportation at Delmonico's last evening, Gen. J. W. Foster, the gentleman who, with Secretary Blaine, met the Canadian Reciprocity Commissioners at Washington recently and who has negotiated the reciprocity treaties with various nations under the McKinley Act, delivered an address.

Mr. Foster said Reciprocity is inseparably united to protection. It is impossible under the system of free trade. It is only when a country maintains a protective tariff that it is in a position to offer to other countries valuable concessions for specific products in return for exceptional favors for its own products. The country which breaks down the protective system and opens up its markets freely and without price to all nations is in no condition to receive exceptional favors from other countries.

The commercial reciprocity treaties recently negotiated between Germany, Austria, Italy, Switzerland and Belgium are based upon a recognition of this principle, and they effectually dispose of the question of free trade on the continent of Europe for the next 12 years at least—the period of duration of those treaties.

We have entered upon a similar policy in this country and if consistently steadily adhered to and not broken down by our own partisan action it bids fair to give to this nation a predominating commercial influence on this hemisphere, which will redound greatly to our prosperity and our national pride.

But, it may be asked, if this be true why not extend it to our Canadian neighbors on the north?

The first answer is that with our tropical neighbors, whose products are so dissimilar to ours, reciprocity is a very simple matter, but when we come to deal with a country having thousands of miles of temperate territory and with like products and industries the question becomes more complex.

But this is not the insuperable difficulty. The fact that Canada does not possess the right of negotiating her own treaties, but must have them negotiated for her by a distant power, which is controlled by economic principles entirely different from those of both United States and Canada, constitutes the chief barrier to any arrangement. So long as other interests than those of Canada are to control negotiations for commercial relations with such of our neighbors as recognize American (in its broadest sense) as paramount to European influence on this hemisphere, to all such countries we should open the doors of trade as wide and as freely as the interests of our own established industries will permit. Beyond that the spirit of genuine American ism does not require nor permit us to go."

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25.—In the Senate to-day Mr. Sherman asked that the Committee on Foreign Relations, if not incompatible with public interest, inform the Senate of the proceedings recently had with the representatives of the Dominion of Canada and the British Government as to arrangements for reciprocal trade with Canada. Agreed to.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25.—The State Department to-day issued a warrant for the Canadian Government for the extradition of Thomas Williamson wanted for forgery.

A Woman's Terrible Revenge.

LAREDO, Tex., Feb. 25.—Across the Mexican frontier, 40 miles from here, the neighborhood has been startled by the revenge of an old woman, Marguerite Pinson. Several years ago six of her male descendants were slain in a family feud by the Morelos clan. Old Mrs. Pinson decided upon revenge and a few days ago managed to get a decoction of the deadly loco weed in their food and turned four of the Morelos into raving madmen.

The Earth Rocked Like a Cradle.

HAMILTON, Mont., Feb. 25.—Great excitement has been caused here by the fall of a monster meteor, which drove itself 200 feet in the earth, but 100 feet of it is in the air, and is still sputtering and sizzling furiously, emitting sulphurous gases that impregnate the air for miles around.

The startling heavenly visitor arrived early in the morning, leaving a lurid trail that lighted up the sky and stirred the dozing fowl untimely from the restful perch. But the horrid monster wrought death and worked havoc as it struck the earth on the ranch of Henry Chambers. It struck Chambers' cattle shed in which some 40 head of cows and two Chinamen were corralled, and so great was the circumference of the meteor that not an animal was left on earth, but, with the two Celestials all are buried beneath that awful monument of heated meteoric stone.

The earth rocked like a cradle for miles. Buildings were shaken from their foundations. The contents of pantries were demolished and sleeping inhabitants were thrown from their beds.

Great excitement exists all through the Bitter Root Valley, and hundreds of people are flocking to the scene, which is one of terrifying aspect and makes stout hearts quail.

Great globules of molten metal roll from the sides of the hissing, sputtering monster, and anon come appalling crashing sounds as its limits contract from the effects of exposure to the cold air. Fitful bolts of flame shoot high in the air from the summit and a great stream of liquid lava has plowed its way from the base down the hillside and loses itself in the basin of the extinct lake, in which was recently found a petrified sea serpent 60 feet in length and only a few miles distant from the great cave in the mountains in which were found the band of hibernating Indians, the last of the cliff dwellers.

WIDELY AT VARIANCE.

OLIVER MOWAT. EDWARD BLAKE.

It is a fallacy to assert, it is a false thing to assert, that Unrestricted Reciprocity will have any injurious effect upon British connection.

The tendency in Canada of unrestricted free trade with the States, high duties being maintained against the United Kingdom, will be towards political union (with the United States).

THE SESSION.

The second session of the seventh Parliament of Canada was opened to-day with the usual ceremonies. A good deal of important legislation is foreshadowed, brief mention of which is made in the speech from the throne.

The session will probably be of average length, and the Opposition will likely pursue the factious course which Sir Richard Cartwright has inspired, and which has ruined his party. The Government, however, having great and constantly increasing strength in the House, will not be prevented from securing legislation in the interest of the country.

THE PROVINCIAL FINANCES.

We publish to-day a full report of Mr. A. F. Wood's able criticism of the management of our provincial finances, and ask for it a careful perusal. The Empire says of it: "Mr. Wood, of Hastings, got right down to the pith of the discussion when he pointed out that aside from verbiage the question was, what are our resources and what have we done with them? He then went on to show that our resources this year furnished us $2,166,572. We have to pay during the year $3,402,237. How were we to make up the deficiency of $1,325,666? Take another back at our capital, sell more timber, sell more annuities, draw on the fund in the hands of the Dominion Government! Mr. Wood made one of the ablest speeches yet delivered this session and was deservedly congratulated at its close."

TOO GOOD TO LOOSE.

Mr. Cameron is beaten by a majority of twenty. He falls, but he falls with honor. He is a wealthy man, and if he had chosen to fight his enemies with their own weapon of boodle he could have been elected. But he declared that come what might not a dollar should be corruptly spent on his behalf, and that policy was rigidly carried out.—Globe.

But, can this paragon of virtue be the same Malcolm Colin Cameron, M.P. for South Huron, who in 1874 was unseated for corruption after having spent many thousands of dollars in bribery! The person of the same name who presented garbled extracts from official reports in Parliament some five years ago! The same M. C. Cameron, who resigned his seat as M.P. for West Huron a few weeks ago, rather than have the misdeeds which secured his election brought into the light of day in court.

If the Globe will say that the man whom it lauds is not the corruptionist above named, we will endeavor to establish to its satisfaction the fact that the M. C. Cameron who debauched South Huron in 1874, and West Huron in 1891 and tried to deceive Parliament is the same M. C. Cameron whom it now eulogizes.

The Fools not all Dead Yet.

Even a blind man can see that more clearly than daylight, or else why should so many continue to use ill smelling, oily, and often useless preparations for the relief of pain, when a preparation just as cheap, elegant, more powerful, and penetrating as Nervilline is can be purchased from any dealer in medicine? Nervilline cures instantly aches and pains. Nervilline is the most efficacious remedy for internal pains. Nervilline applied externally subdues the most intense pain almost at once.

DUNN IS DEAD.

He Had a Remarkable Career as a Criminal and Missionary.

NEW YORK, Feb. 23.—Manuel Dunn, 69 years old, the ex-convict, ex-jail bird, ex-lady of industry, who he founded, at Hoyt and Livingston streets, Brooklyn.

Dunn, who had served a criminal life for 33 years, was converted in Jerry McAuley's mission several years ago. Since then he had devoted himself to reforming criminals.

He founded the Home of Industry for the reformation and employment of ex-convicts in Brooklyn a few months ago.

Dunn was born on Sept. 15, 1820, of "unlawfully parents," as he himself phrased it, in Manchester, Eng.

He was taught to steal, and before he was 12 years old he had received five terms in prison. He was imprisoned after that in Van Diemen's Land, the British penal colony, in the 60s; Bailey, London; in Manchester, in Western Australia, in Gibraltar, in Philadelphia, in Montreal, Boston and in Sing Sing. He had been a sailor, a counterfeiter, a garroter and a seaman in the navy. He once escaped from Blackwell's Island by swimming to the Long Island shore.

It was upon being released from Sing Sing that he became converted. He established a Home of Industry for convicts in Water-street and traveled all over the United States as a convict.

PERRY PLANS AN ESCAPE.

IT IS NIPPED IN THE BUD BY A DETECTIVE.

His Father Communicated With Him by Means of a Rise Through the Iliers of His Cell, and Yesterday He Gave His Father a Sketch of a Key and a Note, Which Were Confiscated.

LYONS, N.Y., Feb. 25.—Oliver Curtis Perry, the noted American express train robber, was arraigned before Justice of the Peace Theodore Fries yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock and held for the grand jury.

When Perry and the deputy were about to leave the court room for the county jail Perry's father, Oliver H. Perry, came hurrying in from the railroad station from his home in Syracuse. The prisoner seemed much affected. Stepping up to him he said, "Hello, father," and kissed him. The father showed much emotion, and the prisoner seeing it said, "Don't cry, father, it will be all right."

Express Messenger McInerney is reported to be doing as well as could be expected after the wounds he received in his desperate encounter with Perry on Sunday morning. He rested quietly yesterday, and all his symptoms are favorable to recovery.

It is reported that Perry has a wife at Batavia, a daughter of James Lathe, whom he deserted.

Part of the Plunder Found.

Yesterday afternoon, when the man who represents himself as the father of Oliver Curtis Perry visited him at the county jail, the prisoner seemed very anxious regarding a hand satchel which he had left in some place in Syracuse and which his father promised to secure.

When Perry, arrested, left for Syracuse last night he was followed by a detective, who traced him to the place where the satchel had been left. When he left the house the detective took it from him and brought it to Lyons this morning. When it was examined, among the contents was found the ear of a human being, which was preserved in alcohol and enclosed in a glass bottle, and a handful of gold watches from some of the jewelry stolen in the express robbery near Utica last September.

The sheriff showed the ear to Perry and asked him where he got it. He stated that he cut it from a colored man's head and intended to use it as an ornament on his mantel at home. Still he was very much excited over the affair and seems to think that he is playing in hard luck.

An Affectionate Father.

Another suspicious occurrence took place at the same corridor door this evening after the prisoner returned from the Police Court. He was accompanied to the jail by his father, who was admitted.

The deputy-sheriff detected the prisoner pass a scrap of paper through the iron bars in his father's hand. After the conversation had been finished Collins requested the elder Perry to step into the office, proceeded to search him and was rewarded by finding the scrap of paper, and on it was drawn an exact outline of the key which unlocks the corridor door.

Jerry Collins is of the opinion that the prisoner expected to have a key made by his father with which to unlock the lock and after opening the corridor door, to file the heavy steel bar which is on the outside and to which is attached a padlock out of reach from the inside. During the visit his father gave him some canned fruit and oranges. They were taken from him after his father's departure and will be examined for the purpose of ascertaining whether anything is concealed inside of them.

Persons connected with the jail seem to entertain the opinion that the man who represents himself as his father and who was so affectionately kissed by Perry after the hearing in Police Justice Carver's office today is not his father at all but an accomplice.

The more Perry's astounding crime, that unparalleled locomotive duel and the cross-country chase are discussed the greater becomes the wonder at Perry's astonishing nerve. The crime stands absolutely alone in the history of highway robbery in America. All the wild and savage attacks on railway trains in the west there is nothing that compares with it for desperation on the part of the robber or for exciting incident in the robber's pursuit and capture.

Never before, probably, in the world was there such a duel fought as that between the two flying locomotives, the one manned by the desperate criminal and the other by the two railway employes, who were pursuing him. It was in a way like a running fight between two modern ironclads. The two engines backed and filled and passed and repassed each other and every time they passed each poured a volley into the other at such close range that the combatants could almost have climbed aboard with their weapons. The glass windows in the cabs of both engines were smashed in and the frame work around them was riddled with shots.

Oliver Curtis Perry is described as 26 years old, 5 feet 6 to 7 inches tall, of slight build, weighing about 130 pounds, with dark brown hair, brown eyes, high white forehead, with wrinkles between the eyes, giving his face a troubled, thoughtful expression; thin lips, rather long nose, slim white hands, with enlarged knuckles caused by hard work. He has a scar about three inches long upon the upper part of his forehead, which can be plainly seen when his hat is off. He also has a scar on his left arm and another on his right breast. At times he wears a small sandy mustache.

He is as unlike the desperado of yellow-covered literature as could be imagined. There is nothing ruffianly about his appearance or demeanor. He is gentlemanly and polite, and even a little effeminate. A nervous uneasy carriage is a noticeable characteristic.

Another thing, totally different from the ordinary desperado, remarkable in Perry is his voice. He speaks in tones that are almost girlish.

In dress he is neat and always tasteful. He is usually attired in dark clothes of fashionable cut and invariably wears gloves.

He was born in this state and began his criminal career, so far as the records show, when 14 years old. At that age he was arrested for burglary in Jamestown, N.Y., and sent to the reformatory and afterwards to Rochester. After his release he went to Minnesota and signalized his advent there by robbing his uncle's store. For this offence he was sentenced to three years in the prison at Stillwater. While there he learned the trade of shoemaking, but as far as can be learned he never put that knowledge to any good use. Since then he traveled all over the country. While out west he tried his hand at the cowboy business. In Miles City, Mont., he received a pistol shot wound in the breast and was sent to the almshouse for treatment. He refuses to say how he was shot.

Notwithstanding his mild manners and feminine voice, Perry has a temper, and a hot one too. He demonstrated that fact when in the Monteauer House by throwing a metal spittoon at another inmate and brushing the latter's skull. The man died two days later. Perry was tried and acquitted.

In addition to his accomplishments in the train-robbing line Perry has already become fame as a pseudo revivalist. He professes religion and ingratiates himself with ministers and church people generally. It is said that he has on several occasions shone as an exhorter. He has served as a freight and passenger brakeman on railroads, and it was while engaged thus that he acquired his knowledge of trains and learned how to handle a locomotive. During his railroad career he attended services at the church missions and frequented the free libraries for railroad men.

He has been variously known, while sneak thief, burglar, cow boy, brakeman and evangelist, as Oliver Curtis Perry, Haswell, Van Allen, Havens, Hamlin, Allen, Gavens, James, James Curtis, James Perry, James Curtis Perry and Oliver Moore.

READY FOR MAY-DAY.

THE PARIS ANARCHISTS STEAL SOME DYNAMITE.

Whereswith to Convince People That They Are Right—The Police Recover a Lot of Explosives—An Anarchist Conspiracy That May Make Trouble on May-Day.

PARIS, Feb. 23.—The theft of dynamite from the state factory has had the effect of waking the police up to the fact that Anarchists are making early preparations for May Day.

The domiciliary visits which begun yesterday in virtue of an order issued by a magistrate were continued to-day.

The police place some confidence in the report that the Anarchists intended to attempt to blow up the Spanish embassy in Paris, and they have consequently placed a close guard about that building.

ROUVIER'S CABINET.

The Former Minister to Become Premier of France.

PARIS, Feb. 23.—The selection of M. Rouvier by President Carnot to form a ministry has afforded great satisfaction to the party of the right, because when he held the office of Premier in 1887 he advocated an entente with that party and opposed the Radicals' support of Boulanger.

Before accepting the task entrusted to him by the President, M. Rouvier stipulated that he should be permitted to dissolve the chambers and have a fresh election if he deemed it desirable.

The Probable Cabinet.

M. BURDEAU, Minister of Public Instruction and the Fine Arts.

M. RAYNAL, Minister of Marine.

FELIX FAURE, Minister of Public Works.

M. LOUBET, Minister of Justice.

M. CONSTANS, Minister of Interior.

M. DE FREYCINET, Minister of War.

M. ROCHEFORT, Minister of Finance.

M. RIBOT, Minister of Foreign Affairs.

JULES ROCHE, Minister of Commerce.

M. DE VILLE, Minister of Agriculture.

The rejection by M. Rouvier of M. Bourgeois, Minister of Public Instruction in the last Cabinet, is significant as showing that the Premier does not intend to count upon the support of the Radicals.

ONTARIO LEGISLATURE.

A Lull in the Storm of Legislative Discussion.

TORONTO, Feb. 25.—Yesterday afternoon's session of the Local House was short and uninteresting.

Mr. Barr moved for returns showing the number of persons confined in the different jails of the province as indigent persons, unable to support themselves, and the length of time each person has been confined. He also wishes to ascertain at the same time the number of insane persons confined in the jails of the province, the length of time each person has been confined and the reason for being so confined. In support of the above a short speech was made, in which he characterized the principle of committing respectable persons to jails owing to enfeblement of mind, or inability to support themselves properly, as manifestly unfair and tainted by a spirit of mediævalism. Responding Mr. Barr remarked that everything possible had been done for the ample protection of the aged and infirm in the various communities, but owing to the large numbers accommodated in some instances run short. He had, however, no objection to making the returns asked for

CUT HIS THROAT.

A Despondent Young Man Suicides in Toronto.

TORONTO, Feb. 25.—Charles Hebden, boarding at No. 42 Dundas-street, suicided early yesterday morning by cutting his throat. He had been despondent for several days. The young man retired to his room about 10 o'clock. Shortly after Lyons commate heard a heavy fall. On investigating he was horrified to find Hipton lying on the floor with blood flowing profusely from a terrible gash in his throat, that had been evidently inflicted by Hipton with a razor that was picked up near the body. Hipton died in a few minutes. Coroner Lynd was notified and an inquest will be held to-inquire into the circumstances.

HAS TWO WIVES.

Married the Second One at the Point of a Pistol.

ROCHESTER, Feb. 25.—The case of John Bishop, charged with bigamy, who was to have been examined in the Police Court yesterday, was further adjourned till to-morrow morning. It is probable that he will waive examination, as he does not deny having a wife living in Canada at the time he married his present wife in Rochester, but says he was compelled at the point of a revolver to marry the latter. Bishop is about 30 years of age. It is stated his first wife will come to Rochester to testify against him.

Ate a Babe's Flesh.

ATLANTA, Feb. 25.—News of a horrible murder and cannibalism near Ray's Mill has been received. Lucy President, a degraded and idiotic negro woman, left her home and 8-months-old infant in charge of her two older children, Mark and Linda, aged respectively 9 and 11 years.

Securing an ax, Mark deliberately knocked the babe in the head and mangled its body in different places. WALL PAPER!

Can It Be Possible!!!

after all the advertising we have done, that there is a single individual in the county, who is able to read who does not know that Scantlebury handles and sells Wall Paper the year round.

Of course, there are seasons with us that are busier than others as in all lines of trade, but a house handling Wall Paper as we do and employing an expert as we do the year round, must of necessity sell goods every business day of the year.

Now, our Wall Paper trade is as separate from our other business as if it were three blocks away instead of under the one roof. We have a man devoting his time entirely to the management of this department, constantly studying new effects in colorings and designs, always ready with suggestions to help those who have had but a limited experience in Wall Paper buying.

Our spring trade is heavier than at any other season of the year, but you never hear us grumbling at the summer, fall or even winter Wall Paper sales. We could not do so reasonably. If we did we would be ungrateful.

The people come to our warerooms and are surprised at the look of paper in sight, and when we tell them that we have by actual count 729 pigeon holes, each containing 50 rolls of paper and no two kinds alike, by a little figuring you will find 36 450 rolls of paper, exclusive of our reserv, which will run up to a total of a thousand of nearly 50,000 Rolls of Wall Paper.

We have also 624 smaller pigeon holes for borders, containing each an average of at least 5 rolls, making a total of 3 123, and with our reserve, nearly 3,500 Rolls of Border.

We make bold to say we believe there is no house in Toronto with the same prejudice as we have, that carries a like stock to choose from and as a matter of fact the wholesale trade all use us.

In summing up the benefits accruing to our patrons in the Wall Paper line we present the following:

1—New goods—every maker's make.
2—The latest accessories known to the trade for drawing Wall Paper.
3—Obliging and expert salesman—practical decorator.
4—Fast rates for delivering goods promptly.
5—Close and communication with New York and other Wall Paper centres.
6—800 different kinds of paper to choose from.
7—Illustrated and descriptive articles upon room decorations by leading artists to show you.
8—A firm devoted to their business.
9—The best-appointed Wall Paper room in Ontario outside of Toronto.
10—A desire to please everybody, a continual interest in the selections you have made long after we have sold them to you, a willingness to do anything within reason to hold the good will of our customers.

Does this interest you?

C. B. Scantlebury,
Art Wall Papers.

NOTE—Owing to the growth of our Wall Paper trade we are unable to handle satisfactorily the window shade branch of our business and have dropped the line entirely.

The first consignment of Wall Paper to reach Belleville this year arrived per G. T. R. on Friday, February 19th.

This lot, containing about 3,500 Rolls, was a very small part of what is on the road for us.

3,500

We buy only from the largest Manufacturers, who sell to no others in the city.

Our object in buying such immense quantities this year is to sell cheap and control, if possible, the Wall Paper Trade in the future

The demand keeps increasing, and from every new circle of consumers who have been induced to try it the evidence is emphatic in its favor. Its genuine quality always holds the friends they have once made. These qualities will be kept up to their full standard by the manufacturers of it. It is to these qualities and the reasonableness of the price that they attribute their market success. To the quality they will adhere at all cost, and also to the price if that be possible.

For several years I was persistently annoyed with an excessive accumulation of Dandruff and although using various preparations recommended and shampooing regularly once a week, no material relief was realized until my attention was called to Anti-Dandruff, which has produced unlooked-for results in my case, four applications removing every particle of Dandruff, and as a specific for this trouble it certainly has no equal.

DOMINION PARLIAMENT.

Second Session of the Seventh Parliament Opened.

The Speech Foreshadows Important Business.

(By Telegraph.)

OTTAWA, 25 th February, 1892.

This day at 3 o'clock p.m., His Excellency, the Governor General proceeded in state to the Chamber of the Senate, in the Parliament Buildings, and took his seat upon the throne. The members of the Senate being assembled, His Excellency was pleased to command the attendance of the House of Commons, and that House being present, His Excellency was pleased to open the second session of the seventh Parliament of the Dominion of Canada, with the following Speech :

Honorable Gentlemen of the Senate, Gentlemen of the House of Commons :

It affords me much gratification to meet you at the commencement of the parliamentary session, and to be able to congratulate the general prosperity of the Dominion, and upon the abundant harvest with which Providence has blessed all parts of the country.

The lamented and untimely death of His Royal Highness the Duke of Clarence and Avondale has aroused a feeling of profound sorrow. The sympathy with Her Majesty and Their Royal Highnesses the Prince and Princess of Wales, in their bereavement, which has prevailed in the Dominion on this melancholy occasion, has found expression in respectful messages of condolence from my Ministers, from the Provincial Governments, and from many other representative bodies.

The negotiations with respect to seal fishing in Behring Sea have been continued, with a view to the adjustment by arbitration, of the difficulties which have arisen between Her Majesty's Government and that of the United States on that subject. Commissioners have been appointed by both Governments to investigate the seal life in Behring Sea ; to report thereon ; and to suggest the measures, if any, which they may deem necessary for its proper protection and preservation. The Commissioners are proceeding with their deliberations in Washington and the results will shortly be communicated to Her Majesty's Government. I trust that their investigations, and the determination of the Arbitrators who are to be appointed, may lead to a just and equitable settlement of this long pending difficulty.

The meeting which had been arranged with the United States Government for a day in October last, for an informal discussion on the extension of trade between the two countries, and on other international matters requiring adjustment, was postponed at their request. But, in compliance with a more recent intimation from that Government, three of my Ministers proceeded to Washington, and conferred with representatives of the Administration of the United States on those subjects. An amicable understanding was arrived at respecting the steps to be taken for the establishment of the boundary of Alaska ; and for reciprocity of services in cases of wreck and salvage. Arrangements were also reached for the appointment of an International Commission to report on the regulations which may be adopted by the United States and Canada for the prevention of destructive methods of fishing and the pollution of streams, and for establishing uniformity of close season, and other means for the preservation and increase of fish. A valuable and friendly interchange of views respecting other important matters also took place.

In accordance with the promise given at the close of the last session, a Commission has been issued to investigate the working of the Civil Service Act, and other matters connected with the Civil Service generally. The report of this commission will be laid before you during the present session.

The conclusions of the Commission on the manufacture of beet-root sugar will also be laid before you.

It is desirable that the fishery regulations in British Columbia should be examined and revised so as to adapt them better to the requirements of the fisheries in that Province. A Commission has been issued with that object.

An important measure respecting the Criminal Law, which was laid before you last session, has been revised and improved, as a result of the expression of views elicited by its presentation to Parliament, and will be submitted to you. Your attention will also be directed to measures for the re-distribution of seats consequent upon the census returns ; the establishment of the boundaries of the Territories ; and the amalgamation of the Departments of Marine and Fisheries. Bills will also be presented to you for the amendment of the Civil Service Acts, the Acts relating to real property in the Territories, and of those respecting the fisheries.

Gentlemen of the House of Commons :

The accounts of the past year will be laid before you, as well as the Estimates for the ensuing year. These Estimates have been prepared with due regard to economy and the requirements of the public service.

Honorable Gentlemen of the Senate :

Gentlemen of the House of Commons :

I commend these important subjects, and all matters affecting the public interests which may be brought before you, to your best consideration, and I feel assured that you will address yourselves to them with earnestness and assiduity.

AMUSEMENTS

Master and Man

Power, who is now owner of the Queen's opera house, has secured the great London and New York success, "Master and Man," which will be produced in the above theatre at the Queen's opera house on Wednesday evening, March 2nd. TORONTO, Feb. 23. }

Mr. Wood (Hastings) in rising to address the House on the Treasurer's statement, was applauded on all sides. He said that he did not think it necessary to dwell at any great length upon the Treasurer's statement as a whole. His hon. friend from Kent (Mr. Clancy) had dealt with it so fully and probed its fallacies so effectively, there was not much to be added. Possibly it would not be out of place to accentuate some of the points made, and call attention to some of the Treasurer's statements that his hon. friend had not time to dwell upon. The Treasurer had excelled himself in the art of word painting and rounded periods, periods carefully thought out and placed on paper that the rhythm and rounding might not jar on the most sensitive ear. It was generally considered that figures were a dry subject, that there was a good deal of the practical and not much of poetry about them. The speaker said he had had much to do with them as a business man, and he had found that no amount of eloquence could make a year's business balance where the expenses had been greater than the receipts, unless you drew upon some outside source. The Treasurer had found just this difficulty, and no eloquent tribute to the absent Commissioner of Public Works, or dragging in 10 long years or 10 short years, as he had been pleased to term them, would meet the case. Deficiencies had to be met, and doing so was as practical as paying taxes, whether you call it license receipts or sums paid by municipalities. There was too much stress laid upon the wording and phrasing of a financial statement of the affairs of the province. Terse, nicely turned sentences sounded pretty ; but what had that to do with the fact that every year we are drawing on capital account, and every year starting off our debts by issuing annuities, in order that we may call capital a surplus and repeat the old story—that no business man believes—that promises to pay, in the form of notes, a year or two hence are not debts, because "not at present payable." (Cheers.) I think that this is the orthodox phrase. How do our finances stand ? There is no serious mystery about the facts. We have a very respectable capital, which was handed over at confederation. The first and most important are our crown lands and forests. The actual value is difficult to reach ; yet, for the present, treated as though it would never be exhausted. Next, direct investment, composed of Dominion bonds, drainage and the debentures. Then comes capital held and debts due by the Dominion to Ontario. Then the common school fund and certain lands and buildings in Toronto. What are our sources of revenue, as estimated for 1892, without interfering with capital ? They are as follows : Dominion subsidy, interest on capital held by Dominion, interest on investments, from public institutions, education department, law stamps, Algoma taxes, drainage assessment, insurance assessments, removal patents, liquor licenses and casual revenue. These added together make the sum of $2,166,572. What have we to pay during this year of 1892 ? The treasurer says no less a sum than $3,472,237. How are we to make up this deficiency of $1,305,665 ? There are three sources : First, borrow ; second, draw from capital ; third, direct taxation. We have already done something of the last by taking from the municipalities their license money—last year $298,000, this year, $300,000. We are also borrowing now to meet the payment of annuities to the tune of $269,000 falling due, and the Treasurer, his only chance, falls back on the old plan, and with remarkable (?) ability takes it from capital account. (Cheers.) Last year we took from capital the sum of $1,659,681. This year it will be $1,305,665. The only relief given is the calling the receipts from our land and timber revenue, when, as a matter of fact, it is a depletion of our capital. Then come, as my hon. friend from Kent has pointed out, the additional sums not named in the estimates, of railway certificates and annuities amounting to $207,418 that must come from capital, or for which we must borrow. The Treasurer has stated our surplus at over $5,000,000. My hon. friend from Kent has shown our debt to be $3,701,912, and that every dollar of the so called surplus is made up of funds handed to this province at confederation as part of our capital. A word here about our new Parliament buildings. The Treasurer says they are to cost within $1,250,000, and takes great credit to the Government, and particularly to the Commissioner of Public Works, for this fact. What sublime ability ! They were to cost at one time $500,000, then $750,000, $850,000, $1,000,000, and now $1,250,000, and for that reason they are to be kept within this sum—so says the Treasurer—he is applauded to the echo by his friends on that side of the House. Why, if the commissioner had asked for one and a half or two millions he would have got it, and met with the same applause. (Hear, hear.) As to the construction of these buildings. The Treasurer has passed a flaming panegyric on the Commissioner. Now, Mr. Speaker, no one in this House regrets the reason for his absence more than I do. Of his ability there can be no question. So far as I know I have no reason to question his management of the erection of this public building. But when the Treasurer states that it was only transcendent ability could have accomplished what has been done, and the country owes him a debt of gratitude, I fail to see it. He had skilled assistants, an architect to watch every move of the contractors, and while I am not the man to be the last to detract from any praise he deserves, yet there are plenty of average business men who could have accomplished the same results, if not more. (Applause.) One point is dwelt on. There are to be no extras. Is there in this the evidence of a great genius ? Any man may be prudent in his contracts for the fulfilment of a contract, but I venture to say that no man ever erected an edifice where comfort and convenience were to be consulted, but who came to the conclusion before its completion that changes were desirable. He may adhere stubbornly to "the contract," but that is no evidence of infallible wisdom. I am quite prepared to go as far as any in doing the Commissioner justice, and recognise, as all must, his more than ordinary ability—but there has nothing out of the ordinary been demonstrated in the erection of the Parliament buildings. And now with reference to the license receipts. This is, no doubt, a fruitful source of revenue, but let us look at it in its true light. When the Government took, many years ago, a part of the license receipts of the various municipalities in the province, it was done under the plea of forwarding the temperance movement. At that time it was not denied that these license receipts belonged to the municipalities in which they were raised, but the percentage taken was to reimburse the Government for inspection and other necessary expenses. It was quite well understood then that this was taken from the municipalities, but it was only a small per-centage. But the Government, pushed for revenue, saw a chance to gather something from this source, and so from year to year, under one pretext or another, the receipts increased until in 1861 2 over one-third of the revenue was taken, which at that time amounted to about $390,000, giving the Government about $110,000, which can be shown by a local example. The County of Hastings raised in 1881 2 $12,038, of this sum the municipalities got $7,812, the Government $4,226. From this it rose during the next six years to a much larger sum, amounting in the total to something over half a million, of which the Government got a net sum of nearly $300,000, and the municipalities got the balance, less cost of inspectors, commissioners, etc., which would reach in the neighborhood of $50,000 — or about two-fifths, as again illustrated by a local example as follows : In 1889 90 the County of Hastings raised the sum of $19,239 by way of licenses, being 50 per cent. more than in 1881-2, and received from the fund $7,942 Now, from whom is this fund taken ? From the municipalities. To what purposes were the receipts applied when they controlled the entire fund ? To a reduction of the taxes ; and whatever sum is taken, represents exactly the amount of taxes that the municipalities have to raise more than they would if they had been permitted to have the entire control of the license fund. (Loud cheers.) Call this fund what you please, it represents the direct taxes paid by the municipalities to the revenue of Ontario. The speaker said he did not propose to discuss at this time the merits or demerits of this mode of raising a revenue, nor did he propose to discuss the machinery by which it was collected, but it should be so stated that every ratepayer would fully understand it. My hon. friend, the Treasurer, closed his statement with some eloquent words on the status of our province and its future. I fully agree with him as to the position the province occupies in the Dominion and on this continent. But I do not agree with his inference that it is due to this Government and its leader. They have played their part, it is true, in many things well, but in others in a manner, I believe, not in the best interests of the province. The intelligence and well directed energies of its people have made Ontario great, and no man, or set of men, can arrogate to themselves what has been accomplished by the ability of a great people, and I would especially like to add to the pathetic benediction pronounced upon the head of the Government : That while the province of Ontario is prosperous and its people progressive, yet the statement of surplus made out of capital is misleading and not in accordance with business-like statements ; that there is a debt contracted of nearly $4,000,000, and that the people of Ontario are paying taxes in the shape of license funds taken from the municipalities. Then will the people have the real state of the case before them, and then will they have an opportunity to judge the true state of the case. And with a full knowledge of the facts, I have not a doubt of what their judgment will be. (Loud applause.)

W. J. Turley Accused of an Indecent Assault.

W. J. Turley was arrested yesterday on a warrant which charged him with an indecent assault upon Emma Demill, of Murray Townshp. The accused was subsequently released on bail. This morning the case was tried before Police Magistrate Flint. Mr. J. Williams conducted the prosecution and Mr. C. Mcauley defended the accused. The girl was the only witness and testified that she was in her 17th year and resided in Murray. She related her story of how Huyck induced her to leave her home on the 17th inst., and drove her to Trenton, where she was introduced to Turley, who directed her to Brighton, and to Brighton and to some place which he told her was Belleville. At the latter place the alleged assault was committed. She stated that Turley locked her in a shut room, and although she asked him to take her home, he would not, but told her that she would have to stop all night. He then undressed and went to bed ; shortly after he got up, and, although she protested, he accomplished his design. They remained at the place until morning, when Turley took her to Brighton station and gave her some money, with which she went to Trenton and thence home, when she told her mother what had occurred.

In cross examination she repeated the same story.

After argument by the counsel engaged in the case, it was reduced to a common assault and judgment reserved until to-morrow morning.

Things Have Changed.

There have been a great many changes in twenty years, but in no thing will it be noticed more particularly than in the clothing trade in Belleville. Twenty years ago if you wanted a new suit or pair of pants it was necessary to order it at a merchant tailor's and pay a large price. Such is the difference ! The Oak Hall came to the front and captured the clothing trade. They have always been able to give a perfect fit, and they never could do the trade they are doing if their prices were not right. Oak Hall is now a household word throughout the Bay of Quinte district, and the reputation they have won has been won by selling good, honest, ready made clothing at good honest prices.

Barrett—Graham.—On Tuesday morning, February 25th, at St. Michael's church, a very pleasing event took place, it being the marriage of Mr. James Barrett, of this city, the energetic and popular son of Mr. James Barrett, of New York city, to Miss Eda Graham, one of Belleville's most accomplished and popular young ladies, daughter of Ald. Graham. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Father O'Brien immediately after 8 o'clock mass before a large assembly of friends. The bride looked the pink of perfection in her neat travelling suit. Mr. Henry Johnston and Miss Margaret Graham, cousin of the bride, did the honors of groomsman and bridesmaid. After the ceremony the newly married couple, accompanied by a few friends, drove to the residence of the bride's parents, where a sumptuous breakfast was prepared and partaken of. The presents of the bride were many and some quite costly, while Mr. Barrett was honored by the gift of a very valuable gold watch and chain. At noon Mr. and Mrs. Barrett took the train for their future home in New York, followed by the well wishes of numerous friends in this their native city. COM.

A WONDERFUL CHANGE.

GENTLEMEN,—For twenty years I suffered from rheumatism, dyspepsia, poor appetite, etc., and received no benefits from the many medicines I tried, but after taking five bottles of B.B.B. I can eat heartily of any food, and am strong and smart. It is a grand medicine and has made a wonderful change in my health.

Mr H. B. McKinnon, painter, Mount Albert, says,—"Last summer my system became impregnated with the lead and turpentine used in painting; my body was covered with scarlet spots as large as a 25-cent piece, and I was in such a state that I could scarcely walk. I got a bottle of Northrop and Lyman's Vegetable Discovery, and at once commenced taking it in large doses and before one half the bottle was used there was not a spot to be seen, and I never felt better in my life."

The man who does right only because he has to, isn't much of a Christian.

The Best Pills.—Mr. Wm. Vandervoort, Sidney Crossing, Ont., writes.—"We have been using Parmelee's Pills, and find them by far the best pills we ever used." For Delicate and Debilitated Constitutions these Pills act like a charm. Taken in small doses, the effect is both a tonic and a stimulant, mildly exciting the secretions of the body, giving tone and vigor.

The Stone-Cutter of Lisbon

A NOVEL BY

WM. HENRY PECK.

'Charge, Alvarez! Prick the rascals severely,' cried Prince Enrique to the captain of his guards, as the officer lifted his plumed hat and raised his eyes to the balcony.

'At the dogs, Valdo! Drive them out of my yards,' roared Count Pedro to the chief of the royal musketeers. 'No quarter for them, Berezs,' he added, to the captain of his own body guard. 'Save Don Alva at all hazards. Charge!'

The united force of these guards—the retinue of Prince Enrique and that of Count Pedro, with the customary escort of the latter as Treasurer of the kingdom—numbered fully a hundred men, well armed, well disciplined, and composed of several nationalities.

Lady Hilda, gazing fearfully from the balcony as these men came up, recognized Spanish, Portuguese, French, and Italian faces, fierce, dark, and savage, with here and there a German, and there a Moorish countenance; while half a score of the retinue of Prince Enrique were native Africans, of great stature and fierce visages, from which their savage eyes gleamed ferociously. It was then the fashion in Lisbon for the great and wealthy to make much display of their black slaves in their retinues, and Prince Enrique's body guard boasted of these ten African giants, who, in half-barbaric garb, were utterly barbarian in their character and habits, their military discipline excepted.

The guards swept on at a rapid, bounding pace, and as Prince Enrique gazed after them he said:

'It is all over with Don Alva, for the stone cutter who slew your horses, Count Pedro, will reach your luckless superintendent first, and doubtless slay him also.'

Count Pedro, being engaged in shouting himself hoarse, to increase, if possible, the speed of the guards, did not hear this remark; but Lady Hilda replied:

'So brave a man cannot be so base, Prince Enrique.'

'Indeed! You appear to have conceived a strange fancy for that dusky mechanic,' remarked the Prince, with a scarcely perceptible sneer. 'But see, he is upon Don Alva—he seizes him—he swings him aloft to hurl him to those wolves.'

'No, no!' exclaimed Lady Hilda. 'He means to defend him, to save him, as he saved us! Noble heart, to dare the rage of those madmen?'

'Noble fool?' said Prince Enrique, contemptuously. 'Do you hear those cries? Death to Pedro Riaz! Death to Diego Alva!'

'Eh, do they threaten me with death?' exclaimed Count Pedro.

'You hear them,' replied the Prince, as the various cries of the mob swelled upward.

Those around Stonio had not yet closed in his rear, and taking advantage of the momentary pause caused by his unexpected protection of Don Alva, he bounded across the street, hurled the superintendent into an open window, and turned again to confront the mob, which, however, with the exception of a few, now saw that the approaching guards intended more than merely to disperse them.

During the rush of Stonio toward the open window, a random shot from one of the guards had sped a ball to the heart of a workman much esteemed by the stone cutters, and as he fell he cried:

'Death to Pedro Riaz!'

The dying cry of this man, one of the most popular leaders of the late 'strike,' and the fact that he was slain, was known by all in an instant, as if by magic, and the cry was at once added to that of 'Death to Diego Alva!'—the act of Stonio not being known to all.

The shot was accidental, but this was not known to the workmen, who had already resolved to give way before the guards without a struggle, to complete their vengeance upon Don Alva; but the effect of the shot was to turn their rage to sudden madness, and instead of flying in every direction, they rushed up the street to close with an armed and disciplined force, nearly one third of their own number.

In one great essential for a successful struggle, the workmen had an immense advantage, and this advantage was breath. The guards had been running for a long time at full speed before they were near enough to receive the orders of the two nobles, and Lady Hilda had remarked how they panted for breath as they swept under the balcony—all except the ten gigantic Africans of Prince Enrique's body-guard, whose limbs, wind, and sinews had been taught never to flag under a day's march at full trot.

Among the workman of the D'Ulloa yard there were many who had served in camp and field, and the thirty-five liberated galley slaves were as used to act in concert as the best disciplined soldiers of Portugal.

These desperate men were among those who charged to meet the coming charge, armed with heavy links of chain, iron bars, and several with axes, caught up from the workshops of the yards.

The twenty royal musketeers of the Count halted, as the swarm of workmen advanced, and discharged their guns at them.

A man dropped here and there among the galley slaves, dead or badly wounded, but their comrades bounded on unappalled. The people of Southern Europe are the most fiery in the world in a first charge, plunging into battle with recklessness like madness, and dying or slaying with the fury of demons, and so, with wild yells and cries, the galley slaves, to whom life was a perpetual slavery, and often torture, and the foremost of the infuriated workmen, sprang on over the dead and wounded.

'It seems as if they mean to attack the guards!' gasped the Count. 'What madness!'

Prince Enrique made no reply, but smiled contemptuously. He had full confidence in the power of law and discipline.

The scene to him was a pleasant excitement, nothing more; but something better and rarer than the bull fights, of which he was a great patron.

'Santa Maria,' cried the Count. 'They actually leap upon the pikes of the guards.'

This was true. The full breathed men of the yards closed with the almost breathless guards, and in an instant were within their ranks, wrenching their pikes from their hands, dealing fearful blows with iron, wood, rock, and steel. Several of their number were pierced by the sharp points of the lances, pikes, and bayonets, but their fall was instantly avenged.

'Why—why—Santa Maria!' spluttered the Count. 'It seems as if the guards are about to be routed.'

'My Africs have not begun yet,' said Prince Enrique, calmly.

'Oh, they are at it now,' cried the Count, as his eyes caught the flash of bright scimitars rising and falling.

'Ah, I can no longer gaze upon this dreadful scene,' exclaimed Lady Hilda, recoiling towards the window of the balcony.

'I wonder if our friend, the bold stonecutter, is there,' remarked Prince Enrique, carelessly.

'Your Africs are getting the worst of it,' said the Count. 'Santa Maria, they are broken up and scattered.'

Prince Enrique uttered a fierce cry of rage. His supposed invincible Africs met more than their match in the fierce galley slaves, desperate and powerful men, who had been detailed a few days before to exchange the slavery of the oar for the labor of the marble-yards.

Missiles of every kind, too, were hurled against those ten giants of the Afric soil; and when half their number had fallen, the compact front they had represented was broken, and the rest scattered, each with half a score of men aiming at his life.

'Death to Pedro Riaz! Death to Enrique Del Sorno!' cried the mob, as the guards, or such as remained of them, were being compelled to fall back toward the confectioner's house.

'Ah! they dare clamor for my death also?' exclaimed the Prince, as his swarthy face became darker, and as his hand grasped at his sword hilt. 'This is more than a riot; this is an insurrection!'

The surviving guards, less than fifty in number, acting now altogether on the defensive, were falling back on the confectioner's rapidly, when Stonio suddenly appeared at the window opening upon the balcony: and at the same moment several of the galley slaves were seen running toward the confectioner's shop, followed by many of the workmen.

HIDDEN FOES.

Among the many foes to human health and happiness, dyspepsia and constipation are twin enemies greatly to be feared. With B.B.B. to drive them out of the system, however, no danger need be anticipated, as every dose brings the sufferer a long step step further on the road to perfect health and strength, and a permanent cure always results.

THE BLOOD IS THE LIFE.

Good health without pure blood is simply impossible, and to secure pure blood is therefore absolutely necessary, especially in spring, when bad blood is very prevalent. Burdock Blood Bitters is the remedy, without an equal in the world of medicine. It drives out all poisonous humors of the blood from a common pimple to the worst scrofulous sore.

In order to quiet a hacking cough, take a dose of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil thrice a day, or oftener if the cough spells render it necessary. This widely esteemed remedy also cures crick in the back, rheumatic complaints, kidney ailments, pains, etc. It is used inwardly and outwardly.

Have you tried Holloway's Corn Cure? It has no equal for removing these troublesome excrescences, as many have testified who have tried it.

We must use or lose. The servant who buried his talent was the only one who lost it.

DEPRESSION IN BRITISH AGRICULTURE FOR TEN YEARS.

Emperor Bill is Fighting Mad and His Domain is all Torn up With Internal Dissensions—Blackmail Kills a Noted Historian.

BERLIN, Feb. 26.—In a speech at Brandenburg, Emperor William said among other things:

Unfortunately it has now become the fashion to criticize the step at every step taken by the Government. As a result of this nagging persecution, many persons have been imbued with the idea that our country is the most unhappy and worst governed in the world, and that life in such a country is not worth the pledge. That this is not the case we, of course, are well aware, but would it not be better if discontented persons were to shake the dust of Germany from off their feet, retiring as soon as possible to some country where such a miserable, wretched state of affairs does not exist? They will thus reap advantage to themselves and at the same time do us a great favor.

Germany is gradually emerging from infancy. She is now about to enter upon the period of youth. It would be well, therefore, if we lifted ourselves from infant malarics.

A firm confidence in the sympathies accorded your work and mine inspires me continually with fresh strength to continue my task and advance in the path Heaven has pointed out to me. I also am impressed with the feeling that what has occurred in the past is due to the hand of our supreme Lord on High. I am firmly convinced that He who was our ally at Rossbach and Donnewatz will not now leave me in the lurch. He has so constantly aided the cause of Brandenburg and my house that we cannot believe He has done all this for no purpose. On the contrary, we still have a great destiny before us, and I am leading you to glorious days.

In concluding, the Emperor urged his hearers not to allow gloomy views of the future to be darkened by grumblers and the speeches of discontented parties.

A brilliant ball was given in the opera house last evening. The Emperor led the first dance with Princess Leopold.

Alsace-Lorraine.

ST. PETERSBURG, Feb. 26.—At a banquet given last night by Prince Von Hohenlohe Schlingfurst, Governor of Alsace-Lorraine, to the members of the Provincial Parliament, the Prince made an address in which he referred to the hope expressed last year that the province would shortly return to its normal condition, and said it had been possible to fulfil wishes of the people. Continuing the Prince said, "Thanks to the Emperor's benevolent interest in the province we will be able in the future to secure and sanctify our homes and to protect our frontiers without stringent passport regulations. Parliament can proceed with its labors calmly and with good courage."

During the afternoon 3000 unemployed men met in a public square and passed a series of inflammatory resolutions denouncing their employers and the system of government.

KILLED BY BLACKMAIL

Europe's Brilliant Historian Crushed by a Slander.

LONDON, Feb. 26.—Charles Alan Fyffe, the vigorous author of "A History of Modern Europe," died the other day, a victim of blackmail. About a year ago, at the opening of a brilliant career, his life was wrecked by a charge, afterwards proved false, that he had indecently assaulted a lad. On the scandal becoming public, April 27, the sensitive historian cut his throat, but was rescued from death. The odious charge had ruined his life, however, and he has passed away of a broken heart.

Not Guilty, But Don't Do It Again.

MALTA, Feb. 26.—The naval court martial court-martial try the Hon. Maurice Bourke, captain of the Victoria, the flagship of the British Mediterranean squadron, which was stranded near Platea, Greece, in January last, finds that the charge against Captain Bourke is partly proved as he took his ship in dangerous proximity to an island reef. The court severely reprimands Captain Bourke and admonishes him to be more careful in future.

For "David Grieve," $100,000.

LONDON, Feb. 26.—The money paid to Mrs. Humphry Ward for her latest novel, "The History of David Grieve," is probably the largest amount ever paid for a single book. For the English issue alone the authoress received a sum so much in excess of the £10,000 paid for Lord Beaconsfield's "Endymion" that the surplus would be regarded by most writers as a handsome payment in itself. Besides there were further sums for American and continental rights, which, added to the original amount, brings the total to nearly £20,000.

German Railway Wreck.

BERLIN, Feb. 26.—Near Molbrowa on the railway between Kiel and Sassowitz a passenger train ran into the rear of a train conveying a number of soldiers, and a number of the carriages were smashed to pieces. Three soldiers' bodies have been taken from the wreck and 10 others were injured.

ONTARIO LEGISLATURE.

A Lengthy Debate on the Proposed Incorporation of Land Surveyors.

TORONTO, Feb. 26.—Quite an animated debate took place yesterday in the Local Legislature on Mr. Hardy's moving the second reading of a bill to incorporate the Association of Ontario Land Surveyors and to amend the act respecting the surveying and registering of lands. In support of the resolution the presenter made a short speech, during the progress of which he explained minutely the provisions of the legislation submitted.

The bill finally passed its second reading. Mr. Hardy presented a bill to consolidate the acts respecting municipal institutions. Discussion was deferred until Tuesday next.

The House went into Committee of Supply and passed estimates in connection with several of the departments. The proposed salary of the new Provincial Inspector of Licenses was a great bone of contention. The salary of the preceding incumbent of the office was $1400, while the new man is to get $1700.

Dangerous Counterfeits.

Counterfeits are always dangerous, more so that they always closely IMITATE THE ORIGINAL IN APPEARANCE AND NAME. The remarkable success achieved by Nasal Balm as a positive cure for Catarrh and Cold in the head has induced unprincipled parties to imitate it. The public are cautioned against being deceived by nostrums imitating Nasal Balm in name and appearance, bearing such names as Nasal Cream, Nasal Balsam, etc. Ask for Nasal Balm and do not take any imitation. Dealers may urge upon you. For sale by all druggists or sent post-paid on receipt of price (50c and $1.) by addressing Lyon & Co. Brockville, Ont.

Inflammation of the Eyes Cured.

Mr. Jacob D. Miller, Newbury, writes,—"I was troubled with inflammation of the eyes, so that during nearly the whole of the summer of 1882 I could not work; I took several bottles of Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery, and after we use great pleasure to inform you that it cured me of my affliction. It is an excellent medicine for Costiveness."

He who chases two hares will catch neither.

Mr. Thomas Ballard, Syracuse, N.Y., writes, "I have been afflicted for nearly a year with what most people dreaded disease Dyspepsia, and at times worn out with pain and want of sleep, and after trying almost everything recommended I tried one box of Parmelee's Pills. I am now nearly well, and believe they will cure me. I would not be without them for any money."

It won't do a bit of good to whitewash the well curb so long as there is poison in the water.

C. Chadwick, of Arcadia, Wayne Co., writes, "I have had severe attacks of Asthma for several years. I commenced taking Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil. The first dose relieved me in one hour. I continued taking it in teaspoonful doses for a few days, and have not had an attack since, nearly one year."

SPRINGHILL, Nov. 12th, 1887.

My wife says your Soap is and does everything you claim for it; that she never had clothes so clean and sweet; that the washing can be done with one-half the labor and that the hands are not changed in the least.
The above is no "fad," but genuine admiration of your soap. Yours faithfully,
W. H. GRAFTON, Customs Dept., Ottawa.

RECIPROCITY.

An Interesting Discussion in the United States Senate.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.—In the Senate yesterday, in discussing reciprocity matters, Senator G. G. Vest of Missouri referred to the address of General Foster, Secretary of State Department at a banquet in New York Wednesday night and claimed that the only increase in American exports for the year as a result of reciprocity with Brazil had been in articles in which there had been no import duty at all levied by Brazil, and contended that reciprocity could not have brought about that fact.

It had been also stated by Mr. Foster, continued the Missouri senator, that reciprocal intercourse with Canada was a very different thing from reciprocal intercourse with South America and the principal reason given was that Great Britain controlled the tariff treaties of Canada and that Great Britain was under the system of free trade, which was entirely antagonistic to the system adopted by the people of the United States.

Mr. Foster seemed, Mr. Vest said, to be entirely ignorant of the fact that Canada was permitted to impose its own tariff duties and that the British people had never undertaken to interfere with the import duties of her provinces, and to be ignorant also of the fact that English imports paid as high duties in Canada as American imports paid.

He declared his conviction that so long as New England dominated there never would be reciprocal relations with Canada. On this point he quoted Senator Hale of Maine as saying:

Reciprocity with Canada is an animal of a very different breed from reciprocity with South America.

In other words, said Mr. Vest, reciprocity which brought free hides and free rubber to the manufacturers of New England was very different from reciprocity which brought free Canadian products to the consumers of the whole country.

ANOTHER TRIUMPH.

The Conservative tidal wave rolled over East Simcoe yesterday and overwhelmed Dr. Spohn, the Grit who was returned last year by 207, and was unseated for corruption.

Soulanges,
Victoria N.,
Bruce E.,
Lennox,
Hastings E.,
Ontario S.,
Huron W.,
Simcoe E.

Eight seats won by the votes of the people, in addition to which Queen's, N. B., was won in the election courts through the confession of corruption by the "party of purity."

We anticipate the redemption of London by the Hon. John Carling as the result of to-day's contest in that city.

HOW IT WORKS IN BRITAIN.

In a recent issue the Toronto Globe said:

> An account of a year's working of General Booth's plan for helping the English poor is given by a writer in The Forum. The £100,000 which the General asked for was speedily raised. Factories have been established in which the rescued are set to work—at match making, book binding, knitting, laundry, etc. At the shelters and food depots, night lodging and board are furnished for the merest trifle. Parts of the farm are used for dairy, parts for market gardens, and parts for poultry. Brickyards are soon to be put in operation. Shops for carpentry, painting, brush making, mattress making, etc., have commenced work, all the work being done by men and women, boys and girls, who had previously been degraded denizens of the slums and gutters of the great city. More than 3,000,000 meals have been supplied by the cheap food depots. Nearly 100,000 breakfasts, at a farthing each, have been served to poor children. Half-penny meals have been sold to the number of perhaps 1,200,000, and meals at one penny or more, up to four pence, have regurgitated nearly a million and a half. About 4,000 persons can be sheltered every night. The factories employ about 4,000 men and women. Employment has been found for 5,000 men by the labor bureau. Two hundred ex-convicts have been received in the first of the prisoners' homes, with a view to protecting them and giving them work till permanent places are found for them.

Upon which the Canadian Manufacturer bases the following telling comments:

> The Globe is constantly advising Canada to abandon its policy of protection to home industries and adopt the free trade policy of Great Britain, a staple argument being that by doing so the cost of production would be lowered at home, and that we would have the full advantage of the cheaper production of other countries. Britain represents the acme of the free trade idea—let us see how it operates there.
>
> "The English poor" spoken of by the Globe, who were rescued by General Booth and set to work at various occupations were not paupers because they desired to be such, but because they couldn't help it. They were able to work and willing too, else they would not have been put at the employment appointed to them by General Booth. The occupations at which General Booth employed these people were neither new nor novel. They exist in all directions in Britain, and thousands of people there find their employment in them. In fact they were over-crowded with employes, else these paupers would not have been paupers—they would not have been employees in these establishments, obtaining some small remuneration for their services. General Booth's plan may be a good one—for the paupers—but those employed are not a good one for the poor people who are not paupers. His proteges were put at work in a great variety of occupations, but it is not recorded that they received any money remuneration for their services. "At the shelter and food depots night lodgings and board were furnished for the merest trifle," and nearly 3,000,000 meals were supplied by the cheap food depots. Think of the meals which were supplied at one cent and two cents each. Of course the products of this pauper labor—this labor employed at making matches, bookbinding, knitting, laundry work, brush making, etc., must be sold, and that, too, in the open market in competition with the products of the other poor people who are not yet paupers. Consider what this means. Depriving honest, self supporting labor of its means of livelihood to the end that General Booth's army of paupers might be given employment. Of course this competition meant decreased production in the regular trades, and a still greater depression of wages. It also means that the paupers supplanted the other labor, and that their labor became an abundant source of supply of paupers for General Booth's army of paupers. But not only the "degraded denizens of the slums and gutters of the great city" were brought into active competition with honest labor, but hundreds of discharged convicts from the gaols and workhouses also.
>
> This is a sad, mournful picture of life among the lowly in Britain, but, according to General Booth, ten per cent. of the population there are in this deplorable condition. Hundreds of thousands of acres of the best farming lands in the Kingdom are being abandoned every year simply because farming products can be produced much cheaper elsewhere than there. The poor people thus driven from the country seek occupation and refuge in the manufacturing towns and cities, and, as we have shown, soon became recruits of General Booth's army of paupers. If it is not this, it is emigration, and hundreds of thousands of the best British yeomanry are forced to expatriation every year. The free traders, however, declare that this evil is less than what it would be under a change of policy. It is better that British farms be abandoned and the people become paupers than to interfere in any manner with British manufacture and trade. The poor people may starve and die, but British ships must traverse the ocean, bringing in the cheaper food products of foreign lands.
>
> The picture is fraught with much interest to Canada. Under protection we have no such situation confronting us—it would be impossible. Canada wants no situation where Canadians would become paupers and go to swarms and thousands to beg for meals costing a cent and giving a day's labor to obtain enough to fill the stomach and a shelter for the night among ex convicts.
>
> But this is what the Globe proposes for Canada.

POLITICAL POINTS.

The Ottawa Free Press (Grit), commenting on recent elections to the Legislature, makes the following candid confession:

> "North Renfrew voted for colonization road money, and Kingston voted for a school of science and the prospect of getting a representative in the Ontario Cabinet. Such are the plain facts, disguise them as we may."

The number of votes gained by the Conservatives in the by-elections in Ontario up to date is 2,436. Grit gains 543. Net Conservative gains 1,893.

The organ of the Bishop of Three Rivers has pronounced strongly against Mercier.

A few years ago the Grits cry was "French domination." Now they have a French leader in the Commons and Mercier's cry is "English domination."

A NICE MOTHER THIS.

A FIEND GUISED IN THE GARB OF WOMAN.

Lord Montagu's Daughter-in-Law Was Anxious For the Souls of Her Children so She Scarred Their Little Bodies.

Tale of Cruelty.

BELFAST, Feb. 26.—Mrs. Annie Margaret Montagu, wife of Robert Montagu of Coleraine, County Londonderry, and daughter-in-law of Lord Montagu, was again arraigned yesterday.

The first witness called was Miss Dosell, the governess. She repeated the evidence she had given before the coroner's jury to the effect that the little girl had committed some misbehavior for which she, the governess, had placed her in a bare, dark room. She afterwards informed Mrs. Montagu of what she had done, whereupon the latter, who was evidently much incensed at her daughter's action, went to the room and tied the little girl's arms behind her back with a stocking. She then tied her up with a cord to a ring in the wall and left her. At the expiration of four hours, when Mrs. Montagu went to the room, she found that the child had died in a most unaccountable manner, had slipped up around the child's neck and she had been strangled to death.

Further evidence was submitted to prove that Mrs. Montagu was guilty of the first count—manslaughter. She was held in £700 bail to await trial on that charge.

The She Devil's Victims.

The hearing on the second count, charging her with cruelty to children, was then proceeded with.

Miss Wallace, formerly in the employ of Mrs. Montagu as a governess for her children, testified that Lady Walter Montagu, the 4-year-old son of the defendant, was upon one occasion tied to a tree in the morning and allowed to remain till late in the afternoon. His dinner was taken from the house and put on the grass before him.

On another occasion Miss Wallace missed the boy from his usual place in the house and she saw nothing of him for night days. When she saw him again the backs of his hands were puffed up and looked as though the blood had stagnated. He had bruises on his face and neck. She had also heard Mrs. Montagu beating the child badly in the dark room.

Mrs. James, formerly a nurse in the Montagu household, testified that she had seen Gilbert Montagu, five-year old, with marks of cord around his arms, elbows and with pieces of flesh cut out of his toes. Austin Montagu, another son of the accused, had also been locked in a dark room. Mrs. Montagu had said to her that this was her way of punishing her children. She did it to save their souls; she did not mind their bodies.

Dragged Feet First Along the Floor.

The nurse, Mrs. James, deposed that she once saw the accused dragging her son Austin along the corridor by his feet, his head trailing along the ground. This testimony caused a sensation.

A thousand mental Campbell deposed that she saw Gilbert Montagu stripped naked and beaten with a scourge until his whole body was lacerated, that he was then thrust into a dark closet, where he lay moaning all night, and that she was unable to sleep on account of the moaning and pleaded with the accused to let Gilbert out of the closet.

Mrs. Montagu was committed for trial on the second charge.

Mrs. Montagu was attired in deep mourning and a heavy veil concealed her face. Her husband and brother sat beside her through the whole proceedings.

Lord Robert Montagu married first in 1852 Lilian Mary, only daughter of John Cromie, Esq., of Downpatrick, County Antrim. By his marriage he had a son, Robert Acheson Cromie Montagu, who was born in 1854, formerly a lieutenant in the Royal Navy, who in 1880 married Annie Margaret, daughter of Gilbert McMicking, Esq., of Milton, Wigtownshire. Mrs. Robert Montagu, nee McMicking, the woman mentioned in the foregoing despatch, is thus the daughter-in-law of Lord Robert Montagu, and Helen Mary, her victim, is the youngest of her seven children.

THE PRINCE AND HIS VICTIM.

A Canadian Farmer's Infatuation for the "Flying Roll" and His Whiskers.

DETROIT, Feb. 26.—Mrs. G. N. Avery, wife of the long-haired latter-day Israelite who was arrested last week on a charge of burglary, says her husband was all right until he met "Prince Michael," the leader of the Israelites, two years ago. Since then he has neglected his farm at New Durham, Ont., and has spent most of his time reading the "Flying Roll" and letting his hair and whiskers grow. Two weeks ago he left his home to join the colony and is now entirely bereft of his senses.

MRS. HESLOP DEAD.

A Most Important Witness in the Ancaster Murder Case Gone.

HAMILTON, Feb. 26.—Mrs. Heslop, widow of the late well-to-do farmer of Ancaster, died at her home, near Ancaster village, yesterday. The venerable lady had been very ill for a week, suffering from congestion of the lungs, brought on by an attack of the grip. Her daughter had been her sole companion since the murder of her husband about a year ago.

The death of Mrs. Heslop will embarrass the case in the approaching trial of the supposed murderers. She would have been a very important witness.

Mrs. Heslop was a daughter of the late John Aikman, who lived in Ancaster for many years. She married Mr. Heslop 50 years ago. She was about 70 years old.

THE CONTEST IN LONDON.

Mighty Efforts Being Put Forth by the Politicians—The Tariff Branch.

LONDON, Feb. 26.—To-day will decide one of the keenest political battles ever fought in this city. From the moment that Mr. Hyman (Liberal) was unseated the friends of both candidates have been straining every nerve to insure a victory for their respective sides and both are equally positive of success. The city has been thoroughly parcelled by both parties day and night this week and considering the large number engaged in this branch of the fight and the high feeling which has prevailed but few collisions have occurred and these, as a rule, did not amount to much.

Lost from a Sealing Schooner.

VICTORIA, B.C., Feb. 26.—News has been received of the wreck of the sealer Oscar Hattie off Vaguna, Oregon, and the loss of Capt. Galt, three sealers named McDonald, Whittingham and Lowe and a sailor named Locke.

Captain Alexander Galt commanded the Oscar Hattie last year during a most successful cruise and the preceding season was master of the sealing schooner Black Diamond.

Another row occurred last night near the Brandenburg gate, Berlin. About 200 men out of employment assembled with the intention of holding a demonstration, but they quarrelled among themselves instead and a free fight ensued. They were finally dispersed by police. Many shops were looted during the row.

The distribution of food by the editor of The Vienna Volkspress to the starving men, women and children has been stopped by the police, who give as their reason for so doing that the assembling of thousands of the poor constitutes a public danger. The editor of The Volkspress, assisted by Herr Frey, a socialist, made it his business to visit the many bakeries of the city and appealed to the proprietors to give him bread to help the starving. This, too, failed to meet the approval of the authorities and both the editor and Herr Frey have been arrested.

DOMINION PARLIAMENT.

Graphic Account of Scenes at the Opening.

Cheers for the Conservative Victors in the Bye Elections.

OTTAWA, Feb. 26.—Yes, said Col. Tyrwhitt to Dr. Landerkin as the western contingent drove up from the Pullman car to the Russell in the early morning, "it is a beautiful day. Mr. Abbott chose a very good day." Whereat everybody laughed.

The weather of the morning, "frosty yet kindly," continued through the day and the consequence was there was a grand turning out of the legets to see His Excellency open Parliament.

Ottawa people seem never to weary of the annual pageant. They look forward to it with all the eagerness of a girl for her first proposal, and when the occasion at length comes it finds her flushed, trembling, but radiant.

This is a day when the Senate after months of neglect comes to the front with a rush in the people's affections. The plebeian Commons was treated with contempt to-day, while the doors of the Senate were besieged by a wriggling, pushing, squeezing multitude, all armed with tickets of admission to the various galleries. And when they got there they had presented to their gaze a sort of daylight nocturne, if the paradox may be permitted—a study in lady's loveliness.

The atmosphere of the chamber was decidedly hot, but the whispering, flittering crowd in the gallery endured the temperature with unfaltering fortitude until His Excellency arrived, his coming foreshadowed for 15 minutes previously by the booming of cannon from Nepean Point.

Then began the mystic work of that wonderful personage, the Usher of the Black Rod (not the Rusher of the Black Rod, as some irreverent western heathen called him).

After a series of bows and genuflexions timed by heart beats, the Usher and bald little gentleman departed for the other chamber to inform the Commoners that His Exc-llency desired to see them.

Mr. Speaker not returning with the Usher of the Black Rod to the Bar of the House, but to the throne, and, after bowing three times, retired.

About the throne Cabinet Ministers were conspicuous by their absence. The Premier, Mr. Abbott, was attired in the gorgeous Windsor uniform and beside Frank Smith in the subdivision of a Cabinet Minister. War Minister Bowell, Sir John Thompson and Mr. Tupper spent their time in the Commons in business suits, shaking hands and exchanging greetings with the members, not alone of their own party but of those of the opposite party.

The great scene of the day, however, was that enacted in front of Sir Hector Langevin's desk, which is now on the front row of the Opposition. Sir Hector came in pretty early and in a moment the desk of the heroine from Three Rivers was surrounded with gentlemen of all political hue eager to shake hands with the fallen chief of the Bleus. Sir John Thompson was the first to give the old campaigner a hearty hand-wring, and in this he was followed by the most miscellaneous assortment of politicians. Sir Hector does not look well, but the remarkably warm reception he received touched the old gentleman very distinctly. The scene in front of his pew was decidedly the most successful tableau of the day.

One of the interesting tete-a-tetes witnessed while the House was waiting for Mr. Kimber was that between the Minister of Militia and Col. Amyot. Mr. Bowell and the famous Colonel of the 65th swapped yarns for some minutes.

The introductions of new members gave both sides a chance to exercise their lungs. Those introduced were Messrs. Guimet, Fairbairn, Henderson, Hughes, Metcalfe, Miller, Dain, Wilson, Rosamond, Gibson, Gillies, Featherstone, Bruneau and Northrop. The cheering was loudest in the case of those members who had upset the decisions of the general election, and as the Conservatives had enjoyed the great number of these wins the cheering was most frequent and hearty from that side. The only good chance the Liberals had was in the case of Bruneau, who had removed Richard Scott.

Hon. Mr. Foster is ill, and to-night his illness is described as somewhat serious.

Mr. Charlton, though not present to-day, has forwarded two notices of introduction of bills, one to secure better conveyance of the letter mail by sea, and the other to suppress the publication and dissemination of obscene literature. There is good authority for stating that this latter is not aimed as alleged at the circulation of literature.

Mr. Edgar is in search of information with regard to what the Imperial Government is likely to do in respect of the favored nation clauses in Imperial treaties.

The various notices of motion announced will probably be announced in a day or two.

The Western contingent which came down on the C.P.R. last night was on the whole a very jolly one. There was any amount of good-humored chaffing interchanged between the members of the two parties. At Peterboro' Sam Hughes and Mr. Fairbairn came aboard, and there was great cheering on the part of the Conservative faction. The campaign, with its joys and sorrows, was fought all over again until a late hour in the morning.

MAY PROVE FATAL.

Young Men Who Didn't Know an Empty Dynamite Keg Were Exploded.

AMHERSTBURG, Feb. 26.—Several young men at Grosse Isle found an empty nitroglycerine keg frozen in the ice last night and proceeded to make a fire to thaw it.

After it had burned a few minutes Oliver Reaume, 19 years old, advanced and gave it a kick. There was a terrific explosion and next instant Reaume was minus his right hand and his left leg was so shattered that amputation will be necessary, even if he does not die. Reaume was blown into the air fully ten feet and all the others present were knocked down and stunned.

The keg undoubtedly floated from the lime kiln crossing, where nitro-glycerine and dynamite are used in blasting, and was probably thrown out as empty, although a little of the explosive remained within.

How a J.P. Secured a Wife.

VICTORIA, B.C., Feb. 26.—About 10 days ago Mr. Robert Pinkerton, J.P., of Alberni, arrived in Victoria seeking a wife. Being a comparative stranger here he was at loss how to go about inducing one of the fair sex to enter into a life partnership with him. He is, however, a practical man and inserted an advertisement in a local journal with the result that last evening, at 333 Johnson street, Rev. Mr. Dobbs united in the holy bonds of matrimony Robert Pinkerton of Alberni and Mrs. N.M. Lincoln of this city.

Death Follows Liberty.

KAMLOOPS, B.C., Feb. 26.—A half-breed Indian named William Boyd, just released from confinement, was drowned on the following day. Jailer Sinclair investigated the circumstances and found that he was on his way home with two companions, from whom he separated, taking a course that led across the ice on the river. They heard him shout for help, but before they could reach him it was too late for his rescue.

The Earl of Aberdeen's Ranch.

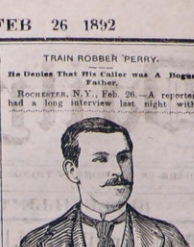

DUNMAIR, B.C., Feb. 26.—Over 16,000 small fruit plants, shrubs and canes will be set out between the fruit trees on the Earl of Aberdeen's estate at the Mission, B.C., in the spring. The plans for the new and cunning factory are being prepared by an English architect. The factory will probably be located at Vernon, as a large quantity of fruit is certain to be cultivated in the Spallumcheen Valley.

TRAIN ROBBER PERRY.

He Denies That His Caller was A Bogus Father.

ROCHESTER, N.Y., Feb. 26.—A reporter had a long interview last night with Oscar Curtis Perry, the Train Robber.

Oliver Curtis Perry, the express robber, in the jail at Lyons. The prisoner told the story of both robberies.

He indignantly denied that the man who called to see him and attempted to aid him in his escape was not his father.

His story with respect to entering the car and shooting the messenger and the events which followed differ little from what is now ancient history.

Castoria.

"Castoria is an excellent medicine for children. Mothers have repeatedly told me of its good effect upon their children."

DR. G. C. OSGOOD,
Lowell, Mass.

"Castoria is the best remedy for children of which I am acquainted. I hope the day is not far distant when mothers will consider the real interest of their children, and use Castoria instead of the various quack nostrums which are destroying their loved ones, by forcing opium, morphine, soothing syrup and other hurtful agents down their throats, thereby sending them to premature graves."

DR. J. F. KINCHELOE,
Conway, Ar.

WALL PAPER!

Can It Be Possible!!!

after all the advertising we have done, that there is a single individual in this county, who is able to read we do not know that Scantlebury handles and sells Wall Paper the year round.

Of course, there are seasons with us that are busier than others, as in all lines of trade, but a home handling Wall Paper as we do and employing an expert as we do the year roun t, must of necessity sell goods every business day of the year.

Now, our Wall Paper trade is as separate from our other business as if it were three blocks away instead of under the one roof. We have a man devoting his time entirely to the management of this department, constantly studying new effects in colorings and designs, always ready with suggestions to help those who have had but a limited experience in Wall Paper buying.

Our spring trade is heavier than at any other season of the year, so much so that we begin grumbling at the summer, fall or even winter Wall Paper sales. We could not do so reasonably. If we did we would be ungrateful.

The people come to our wareroom and are surprised at the stock of paper in sight, and when we tell them that we have by actual count 720 pigeon holes, each containing 50 rolls of paper and no two kinds alike, by a little figuring you will find 36 450 rolls of paper, exclusive of our reserve, which will foot up to a total for this season of nearly 50,000 Rolls of Wall Paper.

We have also 624 smaller pigeon holes for borders, containing each an average of at least 5 rolls, making a total of 3,120, and with our reserve, nearly 3,500 Rolls of Border.

We make bold to say we believe there is no house in Toronto with the same proportion as we have, that carries a like stock to choose from and as a matter of fact the wholesalers tell us so.

In summing up the benefits accruing to our patrons in the Wall Paper line we present the following:

1—New goods—every maker's make.
2—The latest accessories known to the trade for showing Wall Paper.
3—Obliging and expert salesman—practical decorator.
4—Fair fines for delivering goods promptly.
5—Constant communication with New York and other leading art centres.
6—2000 different kinds of paper to choose from.
7—Illustrated and descriptive articles upon room decorations by leading artists to show you.
8—A firm devoted to their business.
9—The best-appointed Wall Paper room in Ontario outside of Toronto.
10—A desire to please and, above all, a continual interest in the selections you have made long after we have sold them to you, a willingness to do all in our power to retain to hold the good will of our customers.

Does this interest you?

C. B. Scantlebury,
Art Wall Papers.

NOTE—Owing to the growth of our Wall Paper trade we are unable to handle satisfactorily the window shade branch of our business and have dropped the line entirely.

3,500

The first consignment of Wall Paper to reach Belleville this year arrived per G. T. R. on Friday, February 19th.

This lot, containing about 3,500 Rolls, was a very small part of what is on the road for us.

We buy only from the largest Manufacturers, who sell to no others in the city.

3,500

Our object in buying such immense quantities this year is to sell cheap and control, if possible, the Wall Paper trade in the future

TALK OF THE TOWN

THE ice on the bay is unsafe, and the bridge is being largely used.

DAY after day the evidence accumulates that the "Myrtle Navy" is the people's favorite tobacco. The demand keeps increasing, and from every new circle of consumers who have been induced to try it the evidence is emphatic in its favor. Its genuine quality always holds the friends it have once made. These qualities will be kept up to their full standard by the manufacturers of it. It is to these qualities and the reasonableness of the price that they attribute their market success. To the quality they will adhere at all cost, and also to the price if that be possible.

For several years I was persistently annoyed with an excessive accumulation of Dandruff and although using various preparations recommended and shampooing regularly once a week, no material relief was realized until my attention was called to Ana-Dandruff, which has produced unlooked-for results in my case, four applications removing every particle of Dandruff, and as a specific for this trouble it certainly has no equal.

The Missing Link.

East Hastings Joins the Procession.

In a contest almost unparalleled for keenness, with an adverse vote of less than a year ago and against an exceptionally strong man, Mr. W. B. Northrup has carried the Conservative banner in East Hastings to victory by a majority of 422 ! This completes the programme so earnestly wished for—that every riding bordering on Prince Edward County, viz. : East Northumberland, West Hastings, East Hastings, and Lennox, should send to the Dominion Parliament a supporter of the Government. The barley and hop-growers have thus declared against the Unrestricted Reciprocity fad in a most pronounced manner and in such a way as to make it impossible for even the blue ruin Knight to misunderstand the verdict. The farmers may be "ignorant fools" from Sir. Richard's stand point ; but they have demonstrated quite clearly that they intend to act independently at least. East Hastings has demonstrated, what we see all along the line, that the platform of the Liberal party is distasteful to very many of their old-time supporters. We heartily congratulate Mr. Northrup upon the signal victory he has just achieved. He will be a valuable acquisition to the house.—Picton Gazette.

AMUSEMENTS

OPERA HOUSE.

Next attraction at the "Queen's" Opera House, there will be a complete change of style of entertainment, as arrangements have been effected with the management of Sims & Pettit's successful melodrama "Master and Man" to produce it here, with its full carload of special scenery, mechanical effects, and a New York cast. A realistic and sensational scene in this play is the interior of an iron works, with the huge furnaces in full blast. This great play will hold forth on Wednesday, March 2nd. The advance sale will be opened Saturday morning at Prof. Riggs' music store.

MISS SARA LORD BAILEY

Is the spoken of upon her first appearance in Toronto :

At Association Hall last evening, Mrs. Sara Lord Bailey, one of the first lady readers of the United States, appeared for the first time and more than sustained the great reputation that has preceded her. Her readings were good, particularly her rendering of "The Chariot Race," which has probably never been equalled in Toronto. This brilliant reader is already becoming quite popular with the Canadian people.—Toronto Globe.

She reads for the Y.P.C.A. Friday, March 4, in the Bridge St. church.

On Tuesday evening next at the Queen's Opera House, the celebrated "Arion Club" will give a grand concert. They will be assisted by Miss Chevrier, Belleville's talented vocalist. The plan for seats is now open at Riggs' music store.

The Young People's Association of John St. Presbyterian church will hold a Social in the lecture room of the church this evening. An excellent programme will be presented, and a pleasant evening may be expected.

The Member For East Hastings.

William B. Northrup, the member-elect for East Hasting, will prove a great acquisition to the debating strength of the Conservatives in the House of Commons. He is a young man of brilliant parts, an accomplished scholar, a successful lawyer, and a singularly eloquent and persuasive speaker. Mr. Northrup is the only son of the Crown Clerk of Hastings, and was born in Belleville about thirty five years ago. From boyhood he had been distinguished among his fellows for intellectual power and independence of character. At Upper Canada College his name is emblazoned on the walls as head boy of his graduating year, and his scholastic career at Toronto University was one of no brilliancy. As a law student his success was not less marked, for in all his examinations he was at the head of the list of successful candidates.—Hamilton Spectator.

Special Department.

So many of our lady customers have remarked to us what a nice cozy place we had for our children's clothing. These customers will be greatly more pleased when they see the extensive alterations which have been made in this department—new floor, new ceiling, new walls, new windows, new paper, new pants. You would not recognize it as the same place. Added to all this the most beautiful stock of little boys' clothing that money can buy, and the best of light to show them by. All of this has been done with a view of a still greater increase in the sale of boys' clothing and we fully expect it.—OAK HALL.

Geary Again in Limbo.

The young man arrested in Detroit is no doubt Thos. Geary, who is wanted here for a number of larcenies, and escaped from the constables. Chief Hinds, of Trenton, has received a photograph from the Detroit police, which leaves no doubt as to his identification. Mr. G. F. Henderson, Q. C., County Attorney, has advised the Attorney General of the facts of the case and an effort will be made to extradite the culprit. Five charges of burglary are recorded against him here.

SOCIAL & PERSONAL

Mr. Thos. Ritchie returned home yesterday from his business trip to the old country. He came out by the steamer Majestic, which made a great run, making the trip in 6 days, 18 hours and 8 minutes.

Committee Work.

The Water and Gas Committee met last evening. They recommended that a pump be placed in the well on Pinnacle street, just north of Hotel street, and also a pump in the well on Great St. James street. They also recommended that two wells in Coleman Ward be cleaned out.

The Market and City Property Committee recommended the payment of a few accounts.

A Runaway.

A horse attached to a cutter ran away on Front street yesterday afternoon. It ran along the sidewalk from Campbell to Hotel street, and although a number of persons were out, fortunately all escaped. It was captured before doing any harm. The horse was the property of Mr. Richard Cook of Tyendinaga.

Loss by Fire.

Mr. J. E. Halliwell, of this city, was among the sufferers by the fire on Saturday morning last, at Stirling, his law office having been over Mr. Sickle's store. He lost some of his effects, though the most valuable portions were saved.

To the Editor of the Intelligencer.

The Grit Feeling.

TWEED, Feb. 22, 1892.

SIR,—It was believed by the Conservatives, before this grand victory, that the Grits felt sure of defeat. The only reason which can be given for this is that they were aware that it had become known that they used every means of rascality which their corrupt minds could devise in the previous contest, and that the masses of so magnificent and enterprising a district as East Hastings had become so disgusted with the results of the last election, that they would no longer disgrace themselves by again choosing for their representative one who had for his policy the overthrow of British rule in Canada. Sending such a person to the Parliament of one of the foremost and most loyal countries in the world, would not only be counted a disgrace but would be laughed at by the haughty Yankee, although he had as a chief element of his policy annexation.

Predicting this defeat, they (the Grits) sought relief in having Sir Richard Cartwright address their meetings, but as to the result of this were sadly mistaken, as he delivered one of the most corrupt speeches ever listened to by a political party, and by so doing was kind enough to aid the Conservatives by giving to them an additional majority of at least 100, for which we render him our thanks. When listening to the blue speech of Mr. Cartwright, you could almost see the Grits sicking through their seats—a point which was quickly noticed by the loyal Conservatives. Seeing what they had done they sought to harm the cause of Mr. Northrup by circulating through the riding a report to the effect that Mr. Corby had attended a meeting on Wednesday evening before the election and promised to give the Roman Catholics the neat little sum of six hundred dollars to aid in building the R.C. church in the neighborhood of Melrose ; a report which was proved a falsehood by Mr. Corby being present at the meeting in favor of Mr. Northrup in Tweed on that evening.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, for so much space in your valuable columns, I remain true to the N.P. S. W. R.

The School Population.

The report of the Minister of Education for the year 1891, with the statistics of 1890, is a voluminous report, containing nearly 400 pages.

The school population of the province, as ascertained through the assessor, was, in 1890 : Boys, 259,519, girls, 237,046, or a total of 496,565. The average attendance of rural pupils was 47 per cent of the registered attendance, while in towns it was 80 per cent. and in cities 62 per cent. The county of Haldimand furnishes the highest average. The other extremes are Haliburton, Dufferin, Glengarry, Gore Bay, North Toronto, Penetanguishene, Sandwich, London, Belleville and Brantford.

Female still continue to gain on male teachers, being 69 per cent. of the entire number employed. The number of teachers taking advantage of the normal schools is 1,776 better than in 1877, and is 35 per cent. of the total number of persons engaged in teaching the public schools. Waterloo pays the highest average salary, $447 to male teachers. Essex leads for female teachers with $334 ; Frontenac the lowest, $290 for male, and Haliburton $204 for female teachers.

There are now 5,768 school houses in the province, and as a rule they are opened and closed with prayer. The number of "separate schools has advanced from 175 to 259 in fourteen years, the expenditure increasing $174,897, and the number of teachers 235 during the same period, while there has been a corresponding and gratifying improvement in the numbers in the different branches of instruction.

The high schools of the province now number 120, and collegiate institutes 31. The most gratifying feature in connection with the high school system, is the large increase in the attendance—the numbers having more than doubled in fourteen years. The highest salary of a headmaster was $2,500 (Toronto, Jarvis St.) ; the average salary of headmasters for the province was $1,138 ; of assistant masters, $804 ; of all masters, $892. Of the masters, 183 were graduates of Toronto University, 53 of Victoria, 37 of Queen's, 11 of Trinity, 2 of McGill, and 4 of British universities.

The total number of pupils attending the several classes of schools in 1890 (excluding colleges and private schools) amounts to 517,319, and the total sum expended for all educational purposes in 1850 reaches the high figure of $5,394,980. This result is most encouraging and speaks well for the educational prosperity of the province.

The following general directions to truant officers have been issued by the department : Each officer shall endeavor to procure the attendance at school of all children in the district assigned him, between 8 and 14 years, visiting them at their homes or places of employment, or loafing after them in the streets for this purpose, and he shall, by persuasion and argument, both with the children and their parents or guardians, and by other means than legal compulsion, strive to secure their attendance. The officers shall not be employed to enquire into the occasional absence of pupils. When a truant officer shall be unable, in a district assigned to him, to procure the attendance at school of any child who is an habitual truant, or who is required by the provisions to attend school, it shall be the duty of such officer, after notice as required by the Act, to procure a warrant and arrest such child, who shall be brought for trial before a magistrate having jurisdiction in the case.

Not One of the Kind You Read Of.

Our reporter stepped into the office of the Gas Inspector this morning and found him testing meters. He drew our attention to one brought to him to be examined yesterday, which had been taken out of an establishment on Front street. The Inspector attached it to the testing machine and showed us that it would pass through sixty feet of gas in an hour and not register any of it. The meter was for ten lights and had been in use for seven years.

(Montreal Witness, Feb. 24.)

The second Royal Commission, under the direction of its new president, Judge Pagnuelo, is making rapid progress. Yesterday evidence was taken before it which goes to prove that out of a payment of twenty-eight thousand dollars, subsidy to the Hereford Railway, all of which passed through Mr. Mercier's hands, $17,500 went to Mr. J. C. Langelier, apparently for subsidy purposes, while the remaining eleven thousand was paid to all and sundry, much of it, apparently, for Mr. Mercier's private uses. Another payment of twenty thousand for the same railway passed, apparently, through Pacaud's hands ; six thousand, it would seem, to Messrs. Mercier and Chas. Langelier. Mr. J. J. Macdonald testified that in order to secure paymen's amounting to $239,210 due on the Temiscouata Railway, he had to pay about $32,000 to Mr. Pacaud. Certain payments upon Mr. Mercier's property, known as Tourouvre, seem to have been made out of this boodle. No defence is apparently being made, Mr. Mercier's hope being in the return of a majority of supporters to the Legislature as a result of the elections, which will entitle him to, at least, have his case judged by a more friendly court. It ought to be possible to bring these cases before the regular criminal courts.

A Popular Man.

Mr. E. W. Dowling, clerk at the Windsor Hotel, Montreal, is the name of the gentleman whose picture is given above, and which is doubtless familiar to almost every Canadian who travels and stops at Canada's leading hotel. Mr. Dowling has been receiving congratulations on all sides recently on account of his being the fortunate winner of The Canadian Queen's prize piano in their prize competition which closed Feb. 10th, he being the first to send the correct answer in that contest. Mr. Dowling says there is nothing like the Mason & Risch piano, which is the make presented him, and that The Canadian Queen is truly royal in her ways and should reign forever. The Queen's new Prize Problem will appear in all the leading daily newspapers to morrow.

The Best in the World.

The oil of the Norwegian Cod Liver is nature's grand restorative, and is only found in its entirety and purity in Miller's Emulsion. It is the most palatable and wholesome preparation of Cod Liver Oil in the world, and is now being taken by invalids, particularly those afflicted with consumption, with the most astonishing success. It is the greatest blood and flesh maker in existence, and is a life saver to consumptives. In big bottles, 50c. and $1, at Waters' drug store.

Waste glass is now mixed with alkies and talc and fired. It then becomes an effective building material.

A Mystery Solved.

The Owen Sound correspondent of the Empire writes : "In the latter part of the summer of 1889, George T. Falkiner, a student in the law firm of Masson & Masson, of this town, mysteriously disappeared on the eve of his second intermediate examination, leaving his boarding house with the statement that he intended to visit Mr. McKissock, the father of a fellow student, and not appearing again. Young Falkiner was a nephew of Mr. T. S. Falkiner, barrister, of Belleville, and the son of parents residing in Dublin, Ireland. These made every effort to solve the mystery of the young man's disappearance, but without avail. Recently Mr. James Mason received a letter from Falkiner's parents in Dublin, enclosing the copy of a letter sent to them from Chicago by the missing young man, under date January 25. Falkiner does not reveal his address, as he says his conduct has not been such such as to merit a reply from his parents. He says that since leaving Owen Sound he has not been able to find work for any situation for six months at a time. He assigns no reason for his strange action. Thus in a measure is a remarkable case of mysterious disappearance cleared up, though in a very unsatisfactory and annoying way."

The March Magazines.

William Dean Howell's new novel, "The World of Chance," begins in Harper's Magazine for March. Judging from the opening chapters alone, this story promises to outrival in interest anything hitherto written by that distinguished author. This number of the Magazine is also especially strong in American subjects.

The Rev. M. J. Savage, who has long occupied a foremost position among the Unitarian ministers of this generation, contributes an interesting paper upon "Psychical Research" to the March Arena, in which he cites many marvellous, yet seemingly well authenticated psychical phenomena. The contents of the Arena are rich and varied. It always contains many striking and thought stirring papers from able and fearless thinkers.

Decreasing the Death Rate.

The mortality among consumptives has has been materially decreased of late years by the use of Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil with Hypophosphites of Lime and Soda. Phthisic, Bronchitis, Abscess of the Lungs, Pneumonia, and throat affections are completely subjugated by a timely use of this excellent pulmonic. Palatable as milk. Sold by all druggists at 50c. and $1.00.

A WONDERFUL CHANGE.

GENTLEMEN,—For twenty years I suffered from rheumatism, dyspepsia, poor appetite, etc., and received no benefits from the many medicines I tried, but after taking five bottles of B.B.B. Harassing headaches make many lives miserable, needlessly so, when a prompt cure like Burdock Blood Bitters is obtainable.

Mr H. B. McKinnon, painter, Mount Albert, says,—"Last summer my system became impregnated with the lead and turpentine used in painting; my body was covered with scarlet spots as large as a 25-cent piece, and I was in such a state that I could scarcely walk. I got a bottle of Northrop and Lyman's Vegetable Discovery, and at once commenced taking it in large doses and before one half the bottle was used there was not a spot to be seen, and I never felt better in my life."

The Stone-Cutter of Lisbon

A NOVEL BY

WM. HENRY PECK.

To explain the appearance of the stone-cutter at the window, it is necessary only to state that after the pursuit of the crowd had been turned from Don Alva by the pursuit of the guards, Stonio had leaped through that open window to the room into which he had tossed the superintendent, and again snatching him up, carried Lim into a room adjacent, greatly to the amazement of the owner of the house and his family.

Now use what strength you have, Don Alva,' whispered Stonio, as he placed him upon his feet. 'Escape from the rear, if you can. I know nothing of the locality, and must return to the street.'

Don Alva and the owner of the house, who knew him well, immediately left the room by the rear, while Stonio hurried back to the window on the street.

He did not, however, take any part in the fierce conflict which he found raging, but after a time turned to one of the occupants of the house and said:

'Is there any way by which I can make a rear approach to the confectioner's shop on the other square? I mean that on the balcony of which a lady and two gentlemen are standing.'

'That near the quarry!' asked a servant of the house. 'Oh, yes, if you are acquainted with the locality about here.'

'But I am not. Will you guide me?'

'You are one of the rioters—'

'No, I am not.'

'You are one of the stone cutters?'

'Oh, of course.'

'And they are all crying, 'Death to Pedro Riaz!'

'True, and I wish to save him. You may see that the guards are already getting the worst of the fight—'

'Oh, if you wish to save the Count that is another matter,' said the man. 'The Count is a creditor of my master, and—But how do I know that you wish to save the Count?'

'Did you not see me save Don Alva?'

'True. But the Count is prudent. He will leave that balcony when he sees that the guards are routed.'

'I see. You do not wish to leave the scene.'

'True. It is far better than a bull-fight, replied the man, grinning.

'Here is a piece of gold. It is yours. Now show me the speediest way to the rear of that confectionary,' said Stonio, slipping a golden coin into the man's hand.

'Good. Come,' replied the men, darting away, and followed by Stonio.

Guided by this man, Stonio was soon running through rear yards, scrambling over walls, leaping over fences, dashing through narrow alleys, until at last, when he had begun to suspect his guide was playing some trick upon him, the man halted, and pointing at an open door in the rear of a small, two-story house, said:

'If any of the rioters suspect that I have done anything to save the life of Count Pedro, my head would not be worth a rotten apple. So I dare go no farther with you. There is the confectioner's—we have made a great circuit—'

But Stonio paused no longer than to hear the words, 'There is the confectioner's,' and sped away as if his life, and not that of Count Pedro, depended upon his speed.

He had no more love, indeed, no more esteem for Count Pedro than he had for Don Alva, and yet he was more eager to save the life of the Count than he had been to save that of the superintendent. It was the life of Don Alva, for the time, was important to the success of his presence in Lisbon, that of the Count was still more so. Therefore, with leaps like the bounds of a leopard, he sprang across the distance between his late guide and the confectioner's, and darting into the house, immediately made his way to the window which opened upon the balcony.

'Prince,' he said to the young noble rapidly, 'lead the lady from this house instantly. Count Pedro, your life will be lost if you remain but a minute longer. Ah, I fear it is already too late,' he added, as he glanced into the street.

As we have stated, several of the liberated galley slaves, followed by many of the stone cutters, had left the final destruction of the nearly beaten guards to their comrades, and having detached themselves from the still fierce struggle, had rushed toward the confectioner's.

The eyes of the workmen were fixed upon the two nobles, and they were shouting—

'Death to Pedro Riaz! Death to the false Prince!'

The eyes of the galley slaves were fixed upon Lady Hilda, and their lips shouted nothing, while their gaze took in both of the precious gems with which she was adorned.

With her two companions she had that day been at the royal court, and her dress and adornments were such as high born ladies were wont to wear in the presence of the king.

The shleves and robbers among the liberated galley slaves had learned this, and they knew that even the necklace of pearls Lady Hilda wore was worth a thousand golden doubloons.

'Fly, said Lady Hilda to her companions. 'The artisans of Lisbon will not harm me, for I have ever been a friend of the poor. Fly, Count Pedro and Prince Enrique, for I could but embarrass your speed.'

'Your enemies are approaching from every direction except the rear,' urged Stonio to the Count, who seemed paralyzed with terror, 'and in a moment your retreat will be completely cut off. Lady Hilda, fly at once.'

'The workmen of Lisbon will not harm me,' replied the lady, calmly.

'Very true; but those wretches, the galley slaves, will. It is your jewels they want. In God's name, lady, away. The workmen will think only of vengeance upon the Count and Prince, whose retainers have shed so much blood among them' and when this room and balcony are full of infuriated men, foul hands will be laid upon you, Lady Hilda. Away all of you, by the rear.'

'And you?' asked Lady Hilda, who had grown achy pale, for the galley slaves were now so near that the terrible expression of their savage and swarthy faces could be plainly read.

'I will see you into the yard: after that the Prince or the Count must guide you to safety, for I am a stranger in Lisbon.'

They hurried from the balcony, the nearing mob hailing their disappearance with a storm of yells and hoots, the eight galley slaves in front saying nothing, but trying to increase their speed.

Lady Hilda, retaining the arm of the Prince, and accompanied by him and the Count, descended the stairs which led from the balconied room to the hall below, and then passed out into the yard.

She had scarcely done so when she heard the door shut violently, and turning, saw that Stonio was no longer with them.

'Noble heart,' she thought, 'she has remained to face those tigers, and defend our retreat. Ah, Prince,' she said aloud, 'that noble young man will be torn to pieces if the rioters discover what he has done.'

'That does not concern us,' replied the cold-blooded noble, shrugging his shoulders. 'Such fellows should be happy in perishing, to save people of our rank.

'True, very true! Santa Maria!' gasped the portly Count, as he made longer and faster steps than he had made for many a year. 'But, saints deliver us! have we to climb that wall? Must a man of my rank be forced to flounder through the muck of a confectioner's yard, and climb walls like a thief!'

'Here is a gate,' said the Prince, 'and fortunately it is not locked. It opens into an alley—'

'Push on, push on!' cried the Count. 'Turn to the right. Santa Cruz! that a man of my rank should be crawling through alleys like a gutter rat. What's that crash!

It was in the house of the confectioner,' replied the Prince, as they hastened on.

'Here is another gate—and open.'

'It gives entrance to one of my houses,' said the Count. 'Don Alva often occupied it. It was lately leased to a Greek astronomer or astrologist, or some such person, named Dietro Demetrius—'

'Dietro the magician!' asked the Prince. 'I believe so. What matters it? Push on. Santa Maria! we may be caught yet,' said the terrified Count.

HIDDEN FOES.

Among the many foes to human health and happiness, dyspepsia and constipation are twin enemies greatly to be feared. With B.B.B to drive them out of the system, however, no danger need be anticipated, as every dose brings the sufferer a long step further on the road to perfect health and strength, and a permanent cure always results.

THE BLOOD IS THE LIFE.

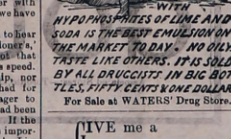

Good health without pure blood is simply impossible, and to secure pure blood is therefore absolutely necessary, especially in spring, when bad blood is very prevalent. Burdock Blood Bitters is the remedy, without an equal in the world of medicine. It drives out all poisonous humors of the blood from a common pimple to the worst scrofulous sore.

In order to quiet a hacking cough, take a dose of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil three a day, or oftener if the cough spells render it necessary. The widely-esteemed remedy also cures croup in the back, rheumatic complaints, kidney ailments, pains, etc. It is used inwardly and outwardly.

There is nothing so beautiful outside of Heaven as an embellished Christian character.

Have you tried Holloway's Corn Cure? It has no equal for removing these troublesome corn scenes, as many have testified who have tried it.

We must use or lose. The servant who buried his talent was the only one who lost it.

Dangerous Counterfeits.

Counterfeits are always dangerous, more so that they always closely IMITATE THE ORIGINAL IN APPEARANCE AND NAME. The remarkable success achieved by Nasal Balm as a positive cure for Catarrh and Cold in the head has induced unprincipled parties to imitate it. The public are cautioned not to be deceived by nostrums imitating Nasal Balm in name and appearance, bearing such names as Nasal Cream, Nasal Balsam, etc. Ask for Nasal Balm and do not take any imitation dealers may urge upon you. Inflammation of the Eyes Cured.

Mr. Jacob D. Miller, Newbury, writes,—"I was troubled with inflammation of the eyes, so that during nearly the whole of the summer of 1882 I could not work; I took several bottles of Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery, and it gives me great pleasure to inform you that it cured me of my affliction. It is an excellent medicine for Costiveness."

He who chases two hares will catch neither.

Mr. Thomas Ballard, Syracuse, N.Y., writes,—"I have been afflicted for nearly a year with that most to be dreaded disease Dyspepsia, and at times worn out with pain and want of sleep, and after trying almost everything recommended I tried one box of Parmelee's Pills. I am now nearly well, and believe they will cure me. I would not be without them for any money."

It won't do a bit of good to whitewash the well curb so long as there is poison in the water.

S. Chadwick, of Arcadia, Wayne Co., writes,—"I have had severe attacks of Asthma for several years. I commenced taking Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil. The first dose relieved me in one hour. I continued taking it in teaspoonful doses for a few days, and have not had an attack since, now nearly one year."

CONGRATULATIONS.

JOY IN HEAVEN OVER ONE SINNER THAT REPENTETH.

Rev. Dr. Talmage Preaches on the Lost Sheep and the Ninety and Nine Just Persons—A Powerful Presentation of the Glad Tidings.

OSKALOOSA, Iowa, February 21, 1892.—Dr. Talmage preached here to-day to an enormous audience. He expects to be absent from home about ten days, during which period he speaks in as many cities. The subject of his sermon was "Heavenly Congratulations." His evident intention was to make worlds that seem a great way off from each other appear very near. His text was taken from Luke 15:7: "Likewise joy shall be in heaven over one sinner that repenteth, more than over ninety and nine just persons that need no repentance."

A lost sheep! Nothing can be more thoroughly lost. I look through the window of a shepherd's house at night. The candles are lighted. The shepherd has just placed his staff against the mantel. He has taken off his coat, shaken out of it the dust and hung it up. I see by the candle light that there are neighbors who have come in. The shepherd, fagged out with the long tramp, sits down on a bench, and the wife and children and the neighbors say to him: 'Come now, tell us how you found the poor thing." "Well," he says, "this morning I went out to the yard to look at the flock. No sooner had I looked over the fence than I saw something wrong. The fact was they did not count right. Ninety-five, ninety-six, ninety-seven, ninety-eight, ninety-nine — only ninety-nine. M'Donald, you know we had a hundred. And I wondered which one was gone, and I began again, and I counted ninety five, ninety-six, ninety-seven, ninety-eight, ninety-nine. Well, I whistled up the dog, and I started on the fields and across the bridges, and I tracked the moors, and I leaped the gullies, but no bleating of the poor thing did I hear, I said to myself; "The lamb must have fallen into a ditch, or a pack of wolves from the mountains must have torn it to pieces and sucked its life out." But I could not give it up. You see it was a pet lamb. It was that one with the black spot on the right shoulder that used to come and lick my hand as I crossed the field, and somehow I could not give it up. So I went on and on and on until after a while I heard the dog bark, and I said: 'What's that?' Then I hastened to the top of the hill, and I looked down, and there I saw the poor lamb. It had fallen into the ditch, and as I came where it was and bent over the ditch, and stooped down to lift the poor thing out, I wish you could have seen the loving, and imploring, and tender way it looked at me. I lifted it out, and it was all covered with the slush and the mud. It was an awful thing to do, but I lifted it out, and it was so lame and so weak it could not walk along, so I threw it over my shoulders, and I started homeward; and the condition of that lamb you may judge of from the coat which I have just hung up. But I tramped on and on until it is safe in the yard, poor thing! Thank God, thank God!" Then the shepherd's wife spread the table and brought out the best fare that the cabin could afford, and they sat up very late that night, and they talked, and they laughed, and they sang, and they ate, and they drank, and they danced, and told over and over and over again the story of the lost sheep that was found.

With such tenderness and rusticity of illustration does Christ represent the soul's going off and the soul's coming back, when he says: "Likewise there is joy in Heaven among the angels of God over the sinner that repenteth more than over ninety and nine just persons that need no repentance." To repent is to feel that you are bad, and to be sorry about it, and to turn over a new leaf, and to pray for forgiveness and help. Just as soon as a man does that, they hear right away of it in Heaven. There are no gossips in glory going around to chatter and laugh when a man falls; but there are many souls in glory who are glad to run about and tell it when a man is saved. The news goes very quickly from gate to gate, and from north wall to south wall, and from east wall to west wall, and in three minutes every citizen of Heaven has heard of it; for "there is joy in Heaven among the angels of God over one sinner that repenteth." I can very easily understand how there should be joy in Heaven over a Pentecost with three thousand souls saved in one day—no mystery about that; I can understand how there should be joy in Heaven over the Parish of Schotts, when four hundred souls were saved under one sermon of Mr. Livingston; I can understand how there should be joy in heaven over the great awakening in the time of Harland Page, when in one year four hundred and seventy-three thousand souls were brought to God in the United States; I can understand very easily how there should be joy in heaven over five hundred thousand souls converted in 1857, in this country; but mark you, my text announces there is joy in heaven among the angels of God over one, just one sinner that repenteth.

Some cathedrals have one tower; some cathedrals have two, three, four towers. Did you ever hear them all ring at once? I am told that the bell in the cathedral of St. Paul rings only on rare occasions, for instance, at the death or the birth of a king. Have you seen a cathedral with four towers? and have you heard them all strike into one great chime of gladness? Here is a man who is moral. He is an example to a great many professors of religion in some things; he never did a mean thing in his life; he pays all his debts, and is a citizen and a good neighbor, but he says he is not a Christian. Some day the Holy Spirit comes into his heart and he sees that he cannot depend upon his morality for salvation. He says: "O Lord God, I have been depending upon my good works; I find I am a sinner, and I want Thy salvation. Lord, for Jesus' sake, have mercy on me." And God pardons him, and immediately one of the towers of Heaven strikes a silvery chime, for there are four towers to the heavenly temple. Here is a man who is bad; he knows he is bad; and everybody else knows he is bad; but he is not an outcast, far from being an outcast. He moves in respectable circles. But one day, by the power of the Holy Ghost, he rouses up to see his sinfulness, and he says: "O Lord, have mercy; I am a wanderer, and without Thee I perish. Have mercy." God hears him, and immediately two of the towers of heaven strike a silvery chime. But here is an outcast. He was picked up last night out of the gutter and carried to the police station. He has been in the penitentiary three times. He is covered and soaked with loathsomeness and abomination. Arousing from his debauch, he cries out: "O God, have mercy on me. Thou who didst pardon the penitent thief, hear me cry for mercy." And the Lord listens and pardons, and no sooner is the poor wretch pardoned than three of the great towers of heaven strike up a silvery chime. But here is a waif of the street. She passes under the gas-light, and your soul shudders with a great horror. No pity for her. No commiseration for her. As she passes down the street, she hears a song in a midnight mission, and as she listens to that song she hears:

> All may come, whoever will,
> This Man receives poor sinners still.

She puts into that harbor, she kneels by the rough bench near the door, she says, "O, Lord! Thou who didst have mercy on Mary Magdalen, take my blistered feet off the red hot pavement of hell." God says, "My daughter, thy sins are forgiven thee! go in peace." Now, all the four towers of heaven strike a silvery chime, and they who pass through the celestial streets say, "What's that? why, the worst sinner must have been saved. Hear all the four towers ring, and ring, and ring." "And there is joy in heaven among the angels of God over one sinner that repenteth."

My subject impresses you, I think, with the thought that it is possible for us to augment the happiness of heaven. People think that souls before the throne are as happy as they can be. I deny it. Look at that mother before the throne of God. When she died she left her son in this world a vagabond. That son repented of his iniquities and came to God. The report of that salvation has reached heaven. Do you tell me that mother, before the throne of God has not her joy richly augmented? There is many a man in this house to-day who could go out with a torch and kindle a new bonfire of victory on the hills of heaven. If you would this day repent and come to God, the news of your salvation would reach them, and then, hark to the shout of the ransomed. Your little child went away from you into the good land. While she was here you brought her all kinds of beautiful presents. Sometimes you came home at nightfall with your pockets full of gifts for her, and no sooner did you put your night-key into the latch than she began at you saying, "Father what have you brought me?" She is now before the throne of God. Can you bring her a gift to-day? You may. Coming to Christ and repenting of sin, the tidings will go up to the throne of God, and your child will hear of it. O, what a gift for her soul to-day! She will skip with new gladness on the everlasting hills when she hears it.

My subject also impresses me with the idea that heaven and earth are in close sympathy. People talk of heaven as though it were a great way off. They say it is hundreds of thousands of miles before you reach the first star, and then you go hundreds of thousands of miles before you get to the second star, and then it is millions of miles before you reach heaven. They say heaven is the centre of the universe. That is not the idea of my text. I think the heart of heaven beats very close to our world. We measure distances by the time taken to traverse these distances. It used to be a long distance to San Francisco. Many weeks and months were passed before you could reach that city. Now it is six or seven days. It used to be six weeks before you could voyage from here to Liverpool. Now you can go that distance in six or seven days. And so I measure the distance between earth and heaven, and I find it is only a flash. It is one instant here, and another instant there. It is very near to-day. Do you not feel the breath of heaven on your face? Christ says in one place it is not twenty-four hours' distance, when he says to the penitent thief, "This day—this day—shalt thou be with Me in Paradise." It is not a day, it is not an hour, it is not a minute, it is not a second. O! how near heaven is to earth. By oceanic cable you send a message. As it is expensive to send a message, you compress a great deal of meaning in a few words. Sometimes in two words you can put vast meaning. And it seems to me that angels of God who carry news from earth to Heaven, need to take up this hour, in regard to your soul, only two words in order to kindle with gladness all the redeemed before the throne, only two words: "Father saved," "mother saved," "son saved," "daughter saved." And "there is joy in Heaven among the angels of God over one sinner that repenteth."

My subject also impresses me with the fact that the salvation of the soul is of vast importance. If you should make $200,000 this year, do you suppose that news would be carried to heaven? It would not be of enough importance or significance to be carried heavenward. If at the next quadrennial election you are made President of the United States, do you suppose that news should be carried to heaven? Do you suppose that the news of a revolution in France or Spain would be carried to heaven? These things are not of enough importance, but there is one item that is sure to be carried. It is the salvation of your soul, it is your repentance before God.

Having found in my own experience that this religion is a comfort and a joy, I stand here to commend it to all men. In the days of my infancy I was carried by Christian parents to the house of God and consecrated in baptism to the Father, and the Son, and the Holy Ghost; but that did not save me. In after time I was taught to kneel at the Christian family altar with father and mother and brothers and sisters, the most of them now in glory; but that did not save me. But one day the voice of Christ came into my heart saying, "Repent, repent; believe, believe," and I accepted the offer of mercy, and though no doubt there was more joy in heaven over the conversion of other souls because of their far-reaching influence, I verily believe when I gave my heart to God there were some spirits in heaven the gladder for the deed. "There is joy in heaven among the angels of God over one sinner that repenteth." Turn this day to the Lord who bought you. Let this whole audience surrender themselves to Jesus Christ. If for ten, twenty, fifty years you have not prayed, begin now to pray. "O!" you say, "I can't pray." Can you not say, "God be merciful to me a sinner?"

MOB VENGEANCE.

A Terrible Crime Reported from An Austrian Village.

VIENNA, Feb. 27.—The details of a horrible story were received here yesterday telling of a fiendish act committed, it is alleged, to avenge another terrible crime. A band of masked men at the small village of Minin went to the house of a handsome young widow named Marie Loppers during the night, forced their way into the bedroom occupied by the woman and bound her securely with cords. They then poured a large quantity of petroleum over her, thoroughly saturating her clothes with the fluid. A match was then applied to the oil-soaked garments and in an instant the unfortunate woman was enveloped in flames. The poor victim's shrieks and cries were blood-curdling, but the terrible agony suffered by the woman as she was roasted to death had little effect in arousing pity from her assailants who watched the woman's cremation. The band stood gazing on this horrible spectacle until the woman's convulsive struggles had ceased and her anguished moans had died away and not one of them stirred from the spot until nothing remained of the woman's body but a blackened and distorted mass. The murderers then left the place. The affair has caused much excitement. The motive assigned for the outrage is that the woman was suspected of having murdered her husband, and it is thought that those who took part in the burning of the woman were friends of the dead man.

ONTARIO LEGISLATURE.

Various Deputations Wait Upon the Government—Business of the House.

TORONTO, Feb. 27.—When the House met yesterday afternoon Mr. Barr asked if the Minister of Agriculture, or any person authorized by him had promised to supply each member of the Farmers' Institute with all bulletins and reports of the Agricultural College and Model Farm.

Mr. Dryden replying remarked that he had purposed sending to the members of the various farmers' institutes copies of every bulletin issued during the year 1891. His wish was that they should have received at the same time, other information of value published. These bulletins, he said, had since been sent to every member of the farmers institutes.

Crown Lands.

Mr. Snider moved for a return showing: 1. The number of parcels of real estate owned by the province, not including unpatented crown lands unless provincial buildings have been erected on any such lands. 2. Acreage of each parcel and where located. 3. For what purpose used. 4. Estimated cash value of each parcel, not including buildings. 5. Cost of improvement made on each to date. 6. Present estimated value of improvements on each parcel. The motion was carried.

Notices of Motion.

Mr. Walters—Bill to impose a license on dogs and for the protection of sheep.

The Attorney-General—Bill to further amend the law respecting mortgages and sales of personal property.

Mr. Willoughby—Resolution, That in the opinion of this House, it is expedient that the Government should make some suitable recognition to the volunteers of 1837-38, for the valuable services then rendered in defence of their country at that time.

Mr. Stratton—Bill to make obligatory voting at elections to the Legislative Assembly.

Mr. Stratton—Bill relating to the appointment of provincial auditors.

Wanted a Provincial Inventory.

Mr. Miscampbell moved for a return, showing: 1. An inventory of the chattels at each of the public institutions in the province. 2. The prices paid for each article of the same. 3. The present value of each article of the same, to Dec. 31, 1891.

Mr. Gibson presumed that the object the hon. gentleman had in view was a very proper one, but he was afraid that he had not taken into consideration the amount of labor involved in preparing an answer to such an order of the House. During the past year, he said, inventory of the property to the minutest details had been made in connection with most of the public institutions. The work was still being prosecuted in the remaining cases. In a very short time he hoped to have a complete inventory of every article that could be produced, no matter how limited its value. An inventory, such as those asked for, was now in existence for, he thought, all the asylums but one. Under the circumstances he would ask the hon. gentleman either to withdraw his motion, taking his assurance as to what had been done and was being done, or at all events so to modify his resolution that it would not involve an unreasonable amount of work.

Mr. Miscampbell said that in view of the facts presented by the hon. Provincial Secretary he would withdraw the motion. This was accordingly done.

Deputations from the Alliance.

A deputation of the Dominion Alliance met the Ministry. Among those present were: Revs. Dr. Thomas, A. Dowsley, J. V. Smith, J. Hughes, W. M. McMillan, G. S. Youle, D. F. Milne, Dr. Emery, W. G. Storm, W. P. Page, E. H. Hilbourn, Malcolm Gibbs, A. Coxhead, F. S. Spence, J. J. Maclaren, James Dobson, S. James, Oronhyatekha and Mesdames Forster, Vance, Hilborn, R. G. Dixon, R. Galley and G. Walker. J. J. Maclaren and F. S. Spence complained that the fines imposed for breaches of the liquor act were too small, and wished them raised. The local option ... quashed for very petty reasons. Mr. Mowat said that he would consider the matter.

Pray Don't Increase License Fees.

A deputation from the Hotelkeepers' Association of the province waited upon Messrs. Mowat, Bronson, Harcourt, Gibson and Hardy. It was composed of Messrs. Edward Sullivan, John Beers, John Devaney, J. J. Coulter, Robert Irvine, H. W. Powers, John Mortimer, John Magee and about 30 others. These gentlemen do not wish the Government to increase the license fees. Mr. Mowat promised to consider the matter.

The Single Tax Men.

A deputation from the Single Tax Association waited upon the Ministry and presented the resolution passed at a meeting recently held in St. Andrew's Hall. They wished the Government to pass an act giving all municipalities the option of collecting all their taxes on land values if they so desire. This matter, Mr. Mowat remarked, would be seriously considered.

Dinner With The Speaker.

The Speaker gave the second in his series of dinners last evening. The repast, as usual, was of a very recherche description. Those present were: Dr. Daniel Clark, Mr. James Massie, Rev. William Jones, Mr. W. A. Wilson, Mr. A. H. Sydere, Mr. George McMurrich, Mr. M. H. Ludwig, Mr. A. W. Ballantyne and the following members of the Legislature: Mr. J. T. TERRIBLE ITCHING

Used Everything Five Months. In Three Weeks not a Scar or Pimple. Cured by Cuticura.

When my baby was three months old his cheeks and forehead began to break out with white pimples on red surface. In a few days itching commenced, which was terrible. After he would rub it, matter would ooze from the points. In a short time it spread over the top of his head, then scabs soon formed on head and face. We used everything we could hear of for nearly five months. It grew worse all the time. I saw your advertisement of the CUTICURA REMEDIES in the "Chicago Weekly." We purchased CUTICURA REMEDIES and commenced their use. In three weeks' time there was not a sore or pimple, not even a scar, on head or face. He is nineteen months old now, and has no signs of the disease. His scalp is healthy and he has a beautiful head of hair. (See portrait herewith.)

MRS. OSCAR JAMES, Woodston, Kan.

My infant, eighteen months old, was afflicted with skin eruptions on his hips. Bad sores came on other parts. All remedies failed until I procured CUTICURA. Cured a year and no return of disease.

TWO MORE TRIUMPHS.

The expected has happened. The Hon. John Carling, who was last year defeated by 183 majority, yesterday won back his old constituency by 107. It was a battle of giants. The gallant old chief of the Department of Agriculture, who is one of the most able administrators in the Government, will be warmly congratulated by the party all over the Dominion. The reign of the hypocrites who, with the cries of "temperance" and "purity" on their lips, flooded the city with beer (not unaccompanied by pigs' feet) and bribed the voters extensively, has been short. They paid too dear for their whistle.

Quebec West overwhelmed the Grit candidate with an adverse majority of 380. Hon. John Hearn, a man of fine reputation, will be a welcome addition to the House.

WHAT THEY SAY IN ENGLAND.

Foreseeing the failure of his policy in the bye-elections, Sir Richard Cartwright made a bold bid for sympathy amongst the free-traders of the mother land. With this object Sir Richard, on January 25th, addressed a long letter to the London Economist, in which, after vilifying our country in his usual style, abusing the manufacturers as legalized robbers, and denouncing the Government as a gang of corruptionists, he artfully angled for the sympathy of the great journal which he addressed by declaring that "the Liberal party have resolved "to introduce a system of perfect conti-"nental free trade or unrestricted reciprocity with the United States."

Sir Richard sought to conceal the true nature of his policy under the sounding appellation "free trade," but he got his answer from the free trade organ in these significant words:

"That it is a wise policy we cannot, however, admit. We will not stop to consider what Canada owes to the Mother Country, or what the interests would or not be prejudicially affected were commercial advantages over us accorded by Canada to the United States. Let us look at the matter from the purely Canadian point of view, and thus regarded, what we fail to see is why, if the Liberal party are sincere in their preference for complete free trade over mere unrestricted reciprocity with the United States, they should speak if the one as being less attainable than the other. Neither can be obtained until they have succeeded in winning over to their side a majority of the electorate; but, given that majority, why should it not be used for the one purpose as well as for the other? And, apart from this, nothing is more evident than that a policy such as Sir Richard Cartwright recommends would, instead of lightening, increase the burdens which now press upon the Canadian taxpayer. It involves a sacrifice of something like $1,100,000 of revenue, and were there an all-around reduction of customs duties to that amount, Canadian consumers would realize a double gain. They would have the gain resulting from the low prices of the imported goods, and the further gain that would ensue from the lowering of the price of the home products with which these imports compete. Neither of these advantages however, can they hope to realize under Sir Richard Cartwright's plan. What benefit may accrue will go not to them, but to the American manufacturers, who, being protected in the Canadian markets against the only effective competition they have to fear, viz., that of this country, would be under no temptation to lower their prices, and would consequently pocket the million and a half or so which the revenue would lose by the abolition of the duties upon their goods, while new taxes would have to be imposed to make good the deficiency in the revenue. Thus, as we have said, the Canadian would be taxed twice over—taxed for the benefit of United States manufacturers and taxed for the purposes of their own Government. And had although the existing state of things may be from the economic point of view, that which Sir Richard Cartwright is anxious to establish would, it seems to us, be even worse. Nor do we see where, from the moral point of view, any advantage is to be reaped. If it be the case that the policy of protection to Canadian manufacturers has been so utterly subversive of political morality as—not, we fear, without cause—Sir Richard represents it to have been, will the political atmosphere be cleared by merely extending similar protection in Canadian markets to the manufacturers of the United States?"

Repudiated by the electors of Canada, condemned by the free traders of Great Britain, Sir Richard's policy is dead.

What is to become of him and of his nominal leader, whose attempts to win their way to power have proved so disastrous? "Fairplay Bedient" says in a communication to the Mail: and many Reformers who have been misled will agree with him:

Untruthful statements deterring British capitalists from investing her; continuously proving that he (Cartwright) is a political Jonah on board the good ship Reform, and also that he is thoroughly unfit to occupy a leading position in his party.

* * * * * * *

Casual an Reformers need honest, intelligent, and strong-minded leaders; and until they get such there is no hope of their success. At the present time the Reform leader is a gentleman who, to snatch office, led a French contingent into a ditch in company with a parliamentary foe in hope in the vain endeavor to censure the Conservative Government for doing its duty in bringing to justice Riel, the murderer and traitor to Canada, a man who, after having let his dupes to the brink of violence, offered this rival for a few thousand dollars. Such Liberal generalship brings to mind the old lines—

The King of France with forty thousand men,
March'd up the hill and then march'd down again.

So bad was the case that about one-third of the Reform re-leading Sir Richard himself, voted on that occasion against the then Liberal leader, and the Reform party has never recovered all the votes alienated by such conduct.

Until such leaders, and also those who for party purposes vilify Canada and the Canadian, are repudiated by Reformers, they do not deserve to succeed, nor are they likely to do so.

A RAILROAD SEIZED.

A Toronto Creditor Takes Possession of Ottawa and Gatineau Valley Road.

OTTAWA, Feb. 27.—Deputy-Sheriff McLaughlin seized the Ottawa and Gatineau Valley Railway yesterday, or at least seized the available rolling stock.

The railway is a young one and its rolling stock is somewhat small, so that when the deputy-sheriff took possession of "three or four cars the company was crippled. The regular train which leaves Hull at 5 o'clock did not go out.

The execution was made at the instance of James A. Patterson of Toronto, who has a claim of $1700 against the company.

STATE OF TRADE.

Several Toronto Syndicates Make Extensive Purchases of Property.

MONTREAL, Feb. 27.—The Herald passed to-day into the hands of a syndicate of Liberals, who will endeavor to put it in shape.

Toronto investors in Montreal real estate are quite active here. McCuaig & Mainwaring are making extensive investments for their Toronto clients. Another company of Toronto capitalists was formed here to-day. It is called the Montreal Freehold and Robert Jaffray is to be the president. The other directors are: F. J. Stewart, C. S. R. Dimick, Edward Galley, John Burns, Samuel Blake, all of Toronto, and R. Archer of Montreal. They have bought the Bagg estate alongside of the property bought by The Consolidated Land Co., another Toronto concern, and they have already started to cut it up and put it on the market. Mr. Cook of Armstrong & Cook and Mr. Stinson were also at the meeting of the new company here to-day.

HANGED IN HER HIGH CHAIR.

Little Mary Clark Slides After Her Dolly and Dies.

NEW YORK, Feb. 27.—A tray fastened to the front of the high chair in which sat baby Mary Clark, at No. 8 Hamilton street, Brooklyn, hanged the child until she was dead yesterday.

Mrs. Clark had gone out of the room and left the baby fastened in the chair with a doll and rattle to amuse the child. Little Mary dropped her doll. Trying to reach it, she slipped down until the tray caught her chin. There she hung until her mother returned and was horrified to find her dead.

Muskets and Money.

A most extraordinary guard takes up its quarters inside the Bank of England every evening at 7 o'clock all the year round, remaining there until 7 o'clock the next morning. It is an officer's guard, and consists of a drummer, two sergeants and thirty men, all well armed. Each man receives a shilling from the bank authorities immediately upon his arrival, a sergeant a share being two shillings. The officer is allowed a supper and two or three bottles of wine, and is permitted to invite a friend if he sees fit to do so.—St. Louis Republic.

Crossing the Feet.

The way people cross their feet is often indicative of character. Neat people usually put their right foot over the left, while disorderly people generally put the left foot over the right. Everybody knows how much character is expressed in the wearing of the hair and why shouldn't it be thought surprising if a man should tell what he is by the way he places his feet?

Killed a Bear in Amaranth.

SHELBURNE, Feb. 27.—A bear was seen near Mr. W. H. Ferguson's place on the sixth line of Amaranth. Mr. Ferguson took after bruin and was joined in the chase by several others, armed with axes, a blow from Mr. William Hooker's ax finally putting an end to the animal.

The Fools not all Dead Yet.

Even a blind man can see that more clearly than daylight, or else why should so many continue to use ill smelling, oily, and often useless preparations for the relief of pain, when a preparation just as cheap, elegant, more powerful, and penetrating as Nerviline can be purchased from any dealer in medicine? Nerviline cures instantly where all others fail. Nerviline is the most efficacious remedy for internal pains. Nerviline applied externally subdues the most intense pain almost at once.

DOMINION PARLIAMENT.

ONLY A THIRTY-MINUTE SESSION YESTERDAY.

The Debate on the Address Adjourned Owing to Mr. Laurier's Illness—New Scandals Promised—A Batch of Petitions From the Friend of Labor

OTTAWA, Feb. 27.—The spectators who assembled in the galleries this afternoon to listen to the maiden addresses of Messrs. Northrup of East Hastings, and Bain of Soulanges were deprived of their promised treat. Mr. Laurier is ill and consequently not in his place. That being the case it was decided not to go on with the debate on the address until Monday, when it is hoped the leader of the Opposition will be in his place.

The only business was the introduction of three Conservative members and the presentation of a few petitions. The members introduced were Major Rory MacLennan of Glengarry, A. R. Dickey, Cumberland, N.S.

Hon. Mr. Laurier, who is quartered at the Russell House, was not able to be down to the dining room to-day. His health is not at all in a satisfactory state. He expects nevertheless to be in his place on Monday. Hon. Mr. Foster was recovered sufficiently to be in his place in the House to-day.

Mr. M. Costaworth presented the petition of the corporation of Toronto to-day praying for the passage of a bill, which will be subsequently presented, authorizing the execution of the tripartite agreement between the city and the two railway companies in regard to the Esplanade and the Don improvement.

The Deputy Sergeant-at-Arms.

Speaker White and Sergeant-at-Arms Smith have arrived at a deadlock. It is understood to be the privilege of the Sergeant-at-Arms to name his deputy, but the appointment must be confirmed by the Speaker. Col. Smith has nominated Mr. Walter Todd, one of the committee clerks of the House, but Speaker White has refused to confirm the nomination. The Speaker's candidate is Mr. Douglas W. Cameron of Toronto. It is very likely that Mr. Cameron will get the post.

Mr. Ives will make a motion on Monday providing for a reimposition of the export duties on logs.

The Quebec Commissioners.

Mr. Delisle will interrogate the Government as to whether it has been informed that in the Provincial Quebec Judges Baby, Davidson, Jette, Mathieu and Paguuelo have set aside their judicial duties in order to undertake political inquiries, and if so what course the Government intend to take in the matter.

Labor Petitions.

Mr. Devlin of Ottawa County had the honor of introducing a great batch of petitions from labor bodies to-day. These dealt with nine separate subjects: (1) That railway aid be granted only when the Government control; (2) that a Dominion board of arbitration and mediation in disputes between capital and labor should be appointed; (3) that the present contract system of performing public works should be abandoned; (4) that the right of appeal from convictions, which is denied under the Seaman's Act, should be restored; (5) that the Chinese should be excluded from the Dominion; (6) that contracts for the performance of public works shall contain a clause providing that a contractor shall pay the recognized scale of wages paid in the locality in which the work is done; (7) that steamship companies which decoy immigrants to this country by misleading statements shall have their subsidy withdrawn; (8) that the hours of labor shall be decreased by statute within three years to eight hours a day; and (9) that the Government issue legal tender, redeemable in 30 or 50 years, for the construction of needed Government and municipal public works.

The Macdonald Club will give J. C. Patterson and John Carling a great reception on their arrival in the Capital.

A Horrible Crime.

VIENNA, Feb. 27.—A band of masked men at Minin went to the house of a widow named Marie Lopper, bound her to her bed with cords, and saturating her clothing with oil burned her to death, despite her awful cries. The woman was suspected of having murdered her husband.

YESTERDAY'S ELECTIONS.

BOTH PARTIES CLAIM A VICTORY IN LONDON.

Conservatives Claim 16 for Carling, Exclusive of Appeal Votes, and Liberals Claim 16 for Hyman. Hon. John Hearn Elected in Quebec West.

LONDON, Feb. 27.—Both parties worked all day long like Trojans for their respective sides and the result yesterday is in doubt. The Liberals claim that Mr. Hyman is re-elected by 16 majority and the Conservatives that Hon. John Carling by 15. The first announcement gave the victory to the Conservatives by a majority of 107, but the "appealed voters" have proved a disturbing element and the result apparently depends altogether on the Supreme Court decision in the appeals. These votes have all been numbered and can be identified, but it is impossible to-night to get reliable figures in this connection, and both parties claim the election by the majorities given.

The scene in the city to-night has been of the wildest description. Thousands of people thronged the street and the cheers for both candidates intermingled.

The Conservatives formed a large procession, which was temporarily stopped opposite The Advertiser office, but on the arrival of reinforcements headed by a detachment of police a passage was cleared at the expense of a few sore heads.

At the corner of York and Richmond-streets the procession was compelled to turn down York-street, but withal the disposition of both sides was towards good-naturedness, and beyond a few individual fights no serious trouble occurred at any time.

The excellent manner in which the police force was handled undoubtedly prevented a collision, several times during the evening.

The Advertiser (Liberal) gives it as 130, inclusive of the appealed votes.

The Free Press Conservative announced Mr. Carling's majority at 15, exclusive of the appealed votes. The Free Press says:

"Mr. Carling's majority of 107 on the votes cast is 128, leaving on the list are 230 votes, the legality of which has yet to be decided by the Supreme Court. Of these votes 132 were polled for Carling, of which Carling got 123 and Hyman 9, leaving a net disputed vote for Carling of 114. That figure subtracted from Carling's majority—129—puts the minister's majority at 14, so that he is elected even if the courts decide that the disputed vote is invalid."

STATE OF TRADE.

QUEBEC, Feb. 27.—The bye-election in Quebec West rendered necessary caused by the expulsion of Hon. Thomas McGreevy took place to-day. Hon. John Hearn (Conservative) being elected by a majority of 380 over Arthur H. Murphy (Liberal).

The Liberals allowed the constituency to go almost by default, none of the party managers taking any part in the contest, having taken offence at Mr. Laurier's lukewarmness. The Mercierite end of the Liberal party is not known to believe in fighting for anything less substantial than a collection of tolls, consequently it was only a question of how large Hon. John Hearn's majority would be.

Bennett's Majority New 47.

ORILLIA, Feb. 27.—Three of the five divisions in Medora and Wood township have been heard from and Bennett's majority is now 47. The two divisions to hear from went Reform by 12 and Conservative by five at the general election.

PERRY, THE BANDIT.

Trophies Found In the Prisoner's Valise—A Bible, Religious Cards and a Bloody Butcher Knife Among His Treasures.

LYONS, N.Y., Feb. 27.—"Curt" Perry, as the daring young desperado and train robber, Oliver Curtis Perry, is familiarly known about his old Syracuse home, is decidedly less obliger than he was before the heavy shackles were put on his feet, as the result of his little plan to get out of jail with a wooden key to be made by his father, Oliver H. Perry, the Syracuse carpenter. Vanity has no small part in the youthful criminal's make-up, and it has been evident ever since his capture that he is very proud of his dare-devil exploit, and particularly of his skill with the revolver.

Perry a Bible Student.

Some insight into the curious character of this now historical criminal is gained by a study of the contents of the valise which the detectives captured at Syracuse. At some time or other this singular being seems really to have been filled with religious fervor. A beautifully bound Bible and Testament were among his effects, and in both scores of verses had been marked, sometimes in red ink, and underscored and double underscored and marked around the margin. One of these passages was in Corinthians x., ii.:

For the weapons of our warfare are not carnal, but mighty through God even to the pulling down of strongholds.

Probably the suggestion of seven-shooters and pals in the "weapons" and "strongholds" of the passage is what caught the professional attention of Mr. Perry in this instance. Side by side with the scriptures was an indecent book in Spanish.

Wrapped in a red railroad flag, such as is used for danger signals and which Perry doubtless expected to use in some train-robbing exploit, were a couple of envelopes stuffed full of printed psalms and hymns and extracts from religious papers, breathing the most fervid spirit of piety. Then there was that horribly ghastly article which Perry afterwards explained that he kept because he wished for a mantel ornament—to wit, the severed ear of a negro with hideous chunks of flesh hanging to it and which Perry said he cut off himself.

Pictures of the Gentler Sex.

Besides this disgusting trophy were the pictures of three women; two of them in a beautiful Russia leather pocketbook made for the purpose, and one in a frame with a back support so it could be placed upon a table. One of the pictures in the pocketbook was a tin-type of a sorry slip of a girl not far along in her teens, and the other was a colored photograph of a coarse-faced woman, and as had been taken in Wilmington, Del. Twined about the tin-type of the young girl was a long and slender braid of jet-black silky hair.

The picture in the frame was of a pleasant-faced, kindly-looking woman in spectacles, probably the dead-and-buried teacher in Troy who is supposed to have had some influence over the bandit. Beneath it is written in Perry's hand, "My Mother, Dec. 21, 1891," so it is pretty evident that "my mother" knew where this precious souvenir was when the detectives were ransacking the country in search of him.

Other Strange Trophies.

A long-bladed butcher knife in a leather case, and with the blade splintered near to the hilt with spots of blood rust, was in a bundle with two religious cards, one in the shape of an artist's palette and bearing the inscription in silver lettering, "The Lord Hath Risen"; the other in the form of a bell and inscribed in the same lettering, "Christ Hath Made Us Free."

Then came a couple of boxes of cartridges tied up with a number of implements for cleaning and caring for revolvers; the smoked glass spectacles used for disguise; a mouth organ, a buckskin bag filled with Mexican coins and two bits of gold wire, apparently made from beating broken up jewelry together, and a pill box with the phial where it was bought carefully scratched off.

Indeed everything that could in any way serve as a trail was carefully erased from Perry's effects. The big Bible had evidently been a present to him and had had all traces of the name and address on the cover. Perry had carefully dug this out with a knife, leaving only the date, 1891.

WALL PAPER!

Can It Be Possible!!!

After all the advertising we have done, that there is a single individual in this county, who is able to read who does not know that Beaudry Saunders and sells Wall Paper the year round.

Of course, there are seasons with us that are busier than others, as in all lines of trade, but a house handling Wall Paper as we do and employing as expert as we do the year round, must of necessity sell goods every business day of the year.

Now, our Wall Paper trade is so separate from our other business as if it were three blocks away instead of under the one roof. We have a man devoting his time entirely to the management of this department, constantly studying new effects in colorings and designs, always ready with suggestions to help those who have had but a limited experience in Wall Paper buying.

Our spring trade is heavier than at any other season of the year, but you never hear us grumbling at the summer, fall or even winter Wall Paper sales. We would not do so reasonably. If we did we would be angr-teful.

The people come to our wareroom and are surprised at the stock of paper in sight, and when we tell them that we have by actual count 729 pigeon holes, each containing 50 rolls of paper and no two kinds alike, we little fear but you will find 36 450 rolls of paper, exclusive of our reserve, which will run 50,000 rolls, or the business of nearly 50,000 Rolls of Wall Paper.

We have a 60 x 64 smaller pigeon holes for borders, containing each an average of at least 5 rolls, making a total of 3,125, and with our reserve, nearly 3,500 Rolls of Border.

We make bold to say we believe there is no house in Toronto with the same pretensions as we have, that carries a like stock to choose from and as a matter of fact the wholesale trade of our patrons in the Wall Paper line we present the following:

In summing up the benefits accruing to our patrons in the Wall Paper line we present the following:

1—Now go-de—every make's make.
2—The latest novelties known to the trade for showing Wall Paper.
3—Obliging and expert salesman—practical decorator.
4—Fact rites for delivering goods promptly.
5—Our extensive connection with New York and other leading art centres.
6—800 different kinds of paper to choose from.
7—Illustrated and descriptive articles upon room decorations by leading artists to show you.
8—A firm devoted to their business.
9—The best-appointed Wall Paper room in Ontario outside of Toronto.
10—A desire to please everybody, a continued interest in the selection you have made long after we have sold them to you, a willingness to do anything within reason to hold the good will of our customers.

Does this interest you?

C. B. Scantlebury,
Art Wall Papers.

NOTE—Owing to the growth of our Wall Paper trade we are unable to handle to satisfactorily the window shade branch of our business and have dropped the line entirely.

TALK OF THE TOWN

DAY after day the evidence accumulates that the "Myrtle Navy" is the people's favorite tobacco. The demand keeps increasing, and from every new circle of consumers who have been induced to try it the evidence is emphatic in its favor. Its genuine quality always holds the friends they have once made. These qualities will be kept up to their full standard by the manufacturers of it. It is to these qualities and the reasonableness of the price that they attribute their market success. To the quality they will adhere at all cost, and also to the price if that be possible.

AMUSEMENTS

QUEEN'S OPERA HOUSE.

At the Queen's opera house for next Wednesday evening, March 2nd, is announced a dramatic event of unusual interest, the production of Sims & Pettit's play "Master and Man." It contains many sensational situations, and a furnace scene in the third act is a most realistic and stirring scene. It has a well constructed plot, with carefully worked-up and powerful climaxes, and holds the attention of the audience throughout. Some specialties are introduced by the Workingmen's Quartette and the Twin City Trio in the great Fair scene. No doubt the opera house will be patronized largely. Seats are now on sale at Riggs' music store and should be secured, as the demand is already great.

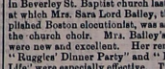

A BRILLIANT ELOCUTIONIST.

A literary and musical recital was given in Beverley St. Baptist church last evening, at which Mrs. Sara Lord Balley, the accomplished Boston elocutionist, was assisted by the church choir. Mrs. Balley's readings were new and excellent. Her rendering of "Ruggles' Dinner Party" and "Life for a Life" were especially effective. The Beverley St. people say they have seldom if ever, had the privilege of listening to such a brilliant elocutionist, and are certainly to be commended on their choice of such a reader for their annual concert.—Toronto Mail.

ARION CLUB.

THE Arion club concert to to take place at Queen's opera house Tuesday evening, March 1st, promises to be the musical event of the season. A programme of rare excellence has been arranged, for, as may be seen in another column, every performer is an artist. Plan filling fast at Riggs'.

POLITICAL POINTS

Mr. Carling's majority in London is 128. It is rumored that Hon. W. Laurier has tendered his resignation as leader of the Opposition.

Mr. P. Y. Savard, Grit M.P. for Chicoutimi, has been unseated.

Messrs. Therien and Dugas, both Conservatives, were nominated in Montcalm County yesterday for the Commons.

The gains now stand:

Lennox,
Bruce E.,
Soulanges,
Victoria N.,
Huron E.,
Queen's, N.B.,

Next!

If the De Boucherville Government is sustained at the coming Quebec elections, it is reported that one of its first acts will be the arrest of Mr. Mercier and some of his supporters, on charges to be sustained out of the evidence given before the Baie des Chaleurs Commission.

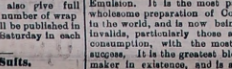

Mr. Robert Sellar, the well known editor of the Huntingdon Gleaner, has addressed an open letter to Mr. Mercier, in which he castigates him for having brought such disgrace upon the Liberal party that it staggers under the load which he has heaped upon it.

Fainted in the Montreal Post Office.

His Friends Alarmed.

A few days ago one of Montreal's estimable business men dropped apparently dead in the post office. Friends quickly gathered round the well known merchant, and he was soon restored to consciousness and conveyed without delay to his home. The family physician was summoned; he pronounced the merchant's condition to be serious, and ordered a period of quiet and rest. A run-down constitution, nervousness and weakness rendered the well-known business man unfit for his regular duties and work.

This is no uncommon occurrence in the great business towns and cities of Canada. In nine cases out of ten, the trouble arises from overwork, close application and bust ness excitement. The common laws of nature are disregarded; necessary exercise and rest is not taken; the brain becomes heavy and clouded; digestion is imperfect, and the whole nervous system suffers terribly. We usually find such men in the ranks of the sleepless, nervous, dyspeptic and despondent; and, at times, such characters have thought of self destruction.

Would to heaven that such sufferers fully realized the worth and value of that grand restorer, builder and vitalizer, Paine's Celery Compound—a remedy prepared specially for the great work of nerve strengthening and flesh building.

The merchant and business man cannot, even with wealth at his command, open up a surer avenue of escape from his sufferings and troubles, than by a regular and daily treatment with Paine's Celery Compound. The best people of our time—professional men, bankers, merchants and others—have had occasion to test the wonderful powers of this preparation; they have found a new life, and have not thought it derogatory to their social standing to testify strongly in its favor. Physicians, without hesitation, acknowledge its superiority over all other known remedies for bringing back to health and vigor the weak, nervous, overworked and broken-down.

The proprietors of this great and popular remedy are always ready to give sound and practical medical advice to all who desire it. Their Consulting Physician is a gentleman of the highest standing in the community; he has made the great nervous system a special study, and will, at all times, give correspondents the full benefit of his great experience. Communications should be addressed "CONSULTING PHYSICIAN'S DEPARTMENT, Wells & Richardson Co., Montreal, P.Q."

The Country's Trade.

A Gratifying Statement for the Month of January.

OTTAWA, Feb. 25.—The trade returns for the past month and the seven months of the current fiscal year, are well calculated to depress those whose Grit instincts imbue them with the idea that the country is fast going to ruin. The exports for the seven months tell a grand story. In every item, except that of forest products, there is a large increase, the total being ten millions and a quarter. The following comparative figures tell the tale:

	1890 91.	1891 92.
Mine	$3,781,069	$4,163,888
Fisheries	6,658,683	7 042,695
Forest	16,661,599	13,904,689
Animals	20,066,380	21,707,630
Agriculture	9,156,943	15 899,792
Manufactures	3,492,876	3,781,798
Miscellaneous	143 996	196,293
Totals	$59,911,749	$66,106,915
Net produce	7,224 420	11,274,996
Totals	$67,136,169	$77 381 211

As is well known the lumber industry has been greatly depressed for some months past, which accounts for the falling off under that head. The exports for the month of January alone helped to swell the previous total, the figures being $5,643,162, as against $4,294 999 in January last year. The imports for the seven months are as follows: 1890 91, $65,793,800; 1891 92, $63,899,655. Decrease, $1,894,145.

The duty collected during the same period was 1890 91, $13,439,408; 1891 92, $10,896,771. Decrease, $2,542,637.

The figures for last month totalled $8,317,877, and for January, 1891, $7,266,337; while the duty collected last month was $2,191,450, as against $1,392,600 in January, 1891. With regard to the decrease in the amount of duty collected, it should be borne in mind that the amount obtained in the first seven months of last year in sugar alone amounted to $2,300,000, as against nothing this year, thereby accounting in a large measure for the aggregate reduction in duty collected from customs entries.

How Defeat Was Earned.

Liberals need blame nobody for disaster but their wooden-headed Toronto leaders. A little group of political strategists, so-called, in this town really make the policy for the party.

They made it with a vengeance when Liberalism started on a journey that had to end either at the dead wall of impossibility or terminate in annexation.

Unrestricted reciprocity, originally a farce, is now beginning to look sadly like a tragedy for the Opposition. Its leaders could not have estranged the sympathies of their country from their party more effectually if they had tried to do it.—Toronto Telegram.

The Best in the World.

The oil of the Norwegian Cod Liver is nature's grand restorative, and is only found in its entirety and purity in Miller's Emulsion. It is the most palatable and wholesome preparation of Cod Liver Oil to the world, and is now being taken by the people particularly those afflicted with consumption, with the most astonishing success. It is the greatest blood and flesh maker in existence, and is a life saver to consumptives. In big bottles, 50c. and $1, at Waters' drug store.

The Military Camp.

The Hastings Star of this week has the following item: "It is pretty well understood among military men in this district that the annual brigade camp will be held in Belleville, especially as the new Minister of Militia hails from that city, and the location last year was found so good in every respect."

Mark Twain Says:

You cannot tell by the size of a frog how far he will jump.

Neither can you tell by the appearance of the Rigby cloth that it is waterproof.

But oh! what a difference in a rain storm, if you happen to have your spring or fall overcoat Rigby-proofed.

For several years I was persistently annoyed with an excessive accumulation of Dandruff and although using various preparations recommended and scrupulously regularly once a week, no material relief was realized until my attention was called to Ant Dandruff, which has produced unlooked-for results in my case, four applications removing every particle of Dandruff, and as a specific for this trouble it certainly has no equal.

THE THREE POPULAR BLACKS.

Have you seen the three Black faces,
Trio of a family great?
Have you heard of all their graces,
As on ladies fair they wait?

They are Black, but O how charming
Is their conduct day by day!
Working hard but n'er a'arming
Timid people on the way.

They are honest, truthful, gracious
To the young as well as old;
In the cot and mansion spacious,
Wondrous powers they unfold.

The blackest Ethiopian prince,
With his keen and piercing eye,
Was never half as black as these
Three Blacks of Diamond Dyes.

Their names are, Black for Silk and Wool,
And Fast Black for Cotton too;
The fame is really wonderful
Of this gallant, little crew.

Let all with earnestness and zeal,
In their strength and might arise,
And buy these Blacks which are the best—
Three Blacks of Diamond Dyes.

The Queen's" Prize Problem.

Mr. A. and Mr. B. have to cut down a mighty tree. The time 'twill take for Mr. A. this mighty tree alone to slay, is sixty minutes—standard time. Beneath B's blow, the bulk sublime goes to the ground in half that time. The question now we ask of thee is, how long 'twill take to cut this tree if both begin—one on each side—and thus their labor do divide?

The Queen will give an elegant Mason & Black Fine Toned Upright Piano to the first person answering the above problem correctly; an elegant Gold Watch for the second correct answer; a China Dinner Set for the third correct answer; an elegant Silk Dress Pattern for the fourth correct answer; and many other valuable prizes, all of which are announced in the February issue of the Queen. Valuable special prizes will be given for the first correct answers from each Province. Each person answering must enclose ten three cent stamps for "THE CANADIAN QUEEN GALOP," the latest and most popular piece of fifty cent copyrighted music issued during the past year, just out, together with sample copy of The Queen. The only object of offering these prizes is to increase the circulation of The Queen, which already is the largest of any publication in Canada. Every prize winner is expected to add to our yearly subscription list. By sending to day you may secure a valuable prize. Address The Canadian Queen, "X," Toronto, Can.

If They do not Wipe it out It Will Wipe Them out.

Unrestricted reciprocity can be wiped off the slate. West Huron ought to convince even political bigots that outside the Niagara peninsula their trade policy has no carrying capacity in agricultural constituencies.

The fad has been good only to open graves for the Liberals' every chance of office. Its weakness has put the Opposition on the defensive when it should have been free to assail the Government. The party leaders have grovelled to the United States when they should have been standing up for Canada's best interests, not only against the Tories, but against the world.

Sir John was not far out when, touching unrestricted reciprocity, he said, "Britain does not want it, Canada will not have it, and the United States will not give it."—Toronto Telegram.

A WONDERFUL CHANGE.

GENTLEMEN:—For twenty years I suffered from rheumatism, dyspepsia, poor appetite, etc., and received no benefits from the many medicines I tried, but after taking five bottles of B.B.B. I can eat heartily of any food, and am strong and smart. It is a grand medicine and has made a wonderful change in my health.

MRS. W. H. LEE, Harley, Ont.

Mr. H. B. McKinnon, painter, Mount Albert, says,—"Last summer my system became impregnated with the lead and turpentine used in painting; my body was covered with scarlet spots as large as a 25-cent piece, and I was in such a state that I could scarcely walk. I got a box tin of Nor'throp and Lyman's Vegetable Discovery, and at once commenced taking it in large doses and before one half the bottle was used the spots was not a spot to be seen, and I never felt better in my life."

The man who does right only because he has to, isn't much of a Christian.

The Best Pills—Mr. Wm. Vandervoort, Sidney Crossing, Ont., writes:—"We have been using Parmelee's Pills, and find them by far the best pills we ever used." For Intricate and Debilitated Constitutions these Pills act like a charm. Taken in small doses, the effect is both tonic and a stimulant, mildly exciting the secretions of the body giving tone and vigor.

BERLIN MASSES RISE.

ANGRY WORKMEN MARCH TO THE EMPEROR'S PALACE.

A Forcible Reply to the Kaiser's Recent Utterances—Melees Between the Police and the People—Many Wounded and Taken Prisoners—Broadhops Gutted—Several Instances of Desperate Fighting.

BERLIN, Feb. 27.—Many persons were wounded last night, including several policemen. Many clothiers', jewelers', grocers' and other shops were broken into and ransacked. A mob thronged the streets shouting, "Give us something to eat." The usual police holidays have been suspended for a fortnight, a renewal of yesterday's disorder being feared. It is reported the Emperor witnessed the Unter den Linden affair from the castle windows. The majority of the persons arrested will probably be liberated, but the leaders will be punished severely. No unusual distress prevails in Berlin except such as results from a lack of work in the building trade, which is inevitable in the winter season, though the distress has been somewhat intensified by the recent strikes.

Emperor William's speech, made at Brandenburg, intensely excites political circles, it being held by some that a dangerous crisis is inevitable.

Inflamed by their efforts yesterday and last night, the riotous crowds, many of the members of which had passed the whole night on the street, began to renew their disturbances this morning. The first charge of the police upon them had no effect whatever and the police were compelled to withdraw, some of them having been quite severely hurt by the sticks and stones of the mob. The police then drew their swords and again charged the mob, slashing right and left.

In Weissenburg strasse during the night small bodies of workingmen took possession of that thoroughfare. Many of them carried red flags, the emblem of the social democracy, and they rushed hither and thither, with no idea of anything save to defy the authorities. Finally they broke into a beer saloon and looted it of its contents. Then they amused themselves by breaking windows. A body of 200 men took possession of Landsberg strasse, and forming an irregular procession marched to Gruenenwig, shouting, yelling and smashing the windows of stores and dwellings on their route.

The Emperor accompanied by a single aid, and preceded only by two mounted police, left the palace this afternoon on horseback, passed at a leisurely pace through Unter den Linden and rode to and around the Thiergarten, returning to the palace as he had come. He was loudly cheered all along the route by the people, who gathered in large numbers when the word had got around that he had appeared.

During the afternoon the crowds thinned out and everything was quiet at night. The authorities attach no significance to the rioting, attributing it to roughs.

WITH ALL ON BOARD.

Appalling Steamship Collision off Coast of Yorkshire.

LEEDS, Yorkshire, Feb. 27.—News of a terrible disaster in the North Sea by which a steamer went to the bottom carrying with her every soul on board with only one exception was received in this city at a late hour to-night. The steamers Lough Neagh, Forest Queen and Forest Queen came into collision off Flamborough, a village of York County, east riding, on the North Sea.

A Terrible Crash.

The vessels crashed together with great force and the Forest Queen was torn apart by the force of the blow.

The damages sustained by the Forest Queen were so extensive that the sea began to flow through the breeches made in her hull in a great volume.

The water poured in so rapidly that she at once began to settle, and in a very short space of time after the collision she had sunk plunged to the bottom.

So quickly did the Forest Queen founder that her crew had no chance to save their lives and all hands with the single exception of the captain went down with her to a watery grave.

STRONG, YET WEAK.

"Strong Man" Sampson and His Prosecutrix Cause a Scene in Court.

LONDON, Feb. 26.—Carl August Sampson, the "Strong Man" who was arrested in New York on a requisition issued by the British authorities on the charge of stealing a quantity of diamonds from Mrs. Margaret Bernstein, arrived in London today.

The prisoner was taken to the Westminster Police Court and charged with the theft and remanded for trial, bail in the sum of £400 being demanded.

When the magistrate announced his decision the prisoner fell fainting in the dock, and when he was lifted to his feet he appeared to be dazed.

Mrs. Bernstein was taken with a fit of hysterics. It was necessary to remove her from the courtroom.

Imperial Parliament.

LONDON, Feb. 27.—In the House of Commons, Friday Mr. Lowther, Under Foreign Secretary, replying to a question referring to the reciprocity treaties, between the United States on the one hand and Brazil and Spain and Germany on the other, admitted that British goods entering those countries were placed at a disadvantage by the treaties as compared with goods from the United States.

Trenby Croft's Heir Married.

LONDON, Feb. 27.—The marriage took place in St. Peter's Church of Ashley Wilson, jr., of Trenby Croft and Miss Alice Filmer, daughter of Lady Filmer. There was a large and fashionable attendance. After the ceremony a reception was held at the residence of Baron de Worms.

Death From "Common Disease."

LONDON, Feb. 27.—The condition of the German colonists in the Valley of the Volga is said to be desirable. The doctors here received a significant official intimation that there is no starvation in Russia, and as a consequence in many reports death is always attributed to some common disease.

Steps to Relieve a Scapegrace Relative.

LONDON, Feb. 27.—It is now stated that the reason Mrs. Osborne stole the pearls belonging to Mrs. Hargreaves and sold them was for the purpose of relieving the pressing necessity of a scapegrace relative who was in trouble.

Mrs. Osborne's case will come before the Grand Jury on the 2nd prox.

Mellick Ready for His Accusers.

DETROIT, Feb. 27.—F. A. Mellick, financial secretary of Carpenters' Union, whose books have been under inspection last few weeks under suspicions something was wrong, is in town. As soon as he heard there was a doubt about his accounts he left his business in Toronto and came to Detroit to meet his accusers and explain anything that was not clear.

Australian Boodlers Sentenced.

SYDNEY, N.S.W., Feb. 27.—Messrs. Fingayson and Smith, directors, and Mr. Miller, manager of the Australian Loan Company, have each been sentenced to seven years' imprisonment at hard labor for frauds in connection with that institution.

Will Be Guillotined.

PARIS, Feb. 27.—Louis Anastey, who murdered Baroness Dellard, was condemned to death.

MONTREAL REAL ESTATE.

Business Fairly Active in Ontario With Improvement in Sales.

NEW YORK, Feb. 27.—There has been some improvement in the number of orders received for spring goods by Western and Northwestern jobbers and in the volume of goods shipped by them to interior merchants, as indicated in special telegrams to Bradstreet's.

In the Provinces of Ontario general trade has been fairly active, with prospects for demand at millinery openings next week quite favorable. Hardware sales are also more active.

In Quebec dulness continues to prevail. Demand from the Maritime Provinces is unsatisfactory as heretofore.

Bank clearings at four Canadian cities are about 15 per cent. less than a week ago.

Business failures in Canada aggregate 48 this week, against 43 a week ago.

(To be Continued.)

HIDDEN FOES

Among the many foes to human health and happiness, dyspepsia and constipation are twin enemies greatly to be feared. With B.B.B. to drive them out of the system, however, no danger need be anticipated, as every dose brings the sufferer a long step further on the road to perfect health and strength, and a permanent cure always results.

THE BLOOD IS THE LIFE.

Good health without pure blood is simply impossible, and to secure pure blood is therefore absolutely necessary, especially in spring, when bad blood is very prevalent. Burdock Blood Bitters is the remedy, without an equal in the world of medicine. It drives out all poisonous humors of the blood from a common pimple to the worst scrofulous sore.

In order to quiet a backing cough, take a dose of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil three times a day, or rather if the cough spells ready it is no use. The widely esteemed remedy also cures sick in the back, rheumatic complaints, kidney affects, pains, etc. It is used inwardly and outwardly.

Have you tried Holloway's Corn Cure? It has no equal for removing these troublesome excrescences, as many have testified who have used it.

We must not be lost. The servant who buried his talent was the only one who lost it.

ROYAL ARMORY RAIDED AND WEAPONS STOLEN.

A Hangman Drops Dead While Sizing up His Victim—Imperial Parliament—The Queen Views the Casket of Prince Albert Victor—General Foreign News.

PARIS, Feb. 29.—Lieutenant Anastay, who murdered the Baroness Deliard in the Rue du Temps, was Saturday found guilty and condemned to death.

In reply to questions put to him by the judge he said that he had spent 200 francs more than his pay justified on a ballet girl at the Bellecour Theatre. He said he imagined he would find 20,000 francs in the house of the murdered woman. He knew the money was represented by scrip and bonds, and he had arranged for their sale by means of the financial journal, L'Impartiale.

He entered the bedroom of the Baroness and chatted with her a while before striking the fatal blow. Continuing, he said:

"You do not know what it is to have struck your fellow creature with a knife. That woman's face is always before my eyes. I have committed a crime, not only a fault as an officer, but a crime against society. I demand to expiate that crime. I accept the responsibility and I wish to mount the scaffold."

This speech caused a profound sensation in court, and the judge watched the remaining incidents of the crime, to all the details of which the prisoner assented. He had found his victim alone, and as she went before him into her son's room he rushed upon her from behind, cut her throat, and then, after searching her pockets for her keys, he rummaged the wardrobes and drawers to find money, but the servant, Delphine Houbre, suddenly entered the room. Anastay rushed upon her and began sawing at her neck, but her long hair protected it, and, thinking that she was dead, he went quietly away.

The judge noted the cold-blooded manner in which Anastay left the house after the murder, and his impassibility when arrested and asked him what had induced him to confess his crime. His answer was: "My conscience. It was impossible for me to live any longer with that secret on my mind. I almost regret having made a confession, because it may be looked upon as an extenuating circumstance, but do not forget that you have not only a prisoner before you but an officer."

The death sentence was then read to the prisoner, who listened quite unmoved.

A Hangman Drops Dead.

VIENNA, Feb. 29.—Franz Schneider and his wife Rosalie, who were recently convicted of murdering a large number of servant girls in the suburbs of this city, whom Schneider also criminally assaulted, and sentenced to be executed by being hanged, notwithstanding the diabolical atrocity of their crimes, as the Emperor has refused to sign the death warrants. No woman has been executed in Austria since 1808.

The lower orders in Austria believe that Schneider possesses magic powers. The official hangman, Rudolph Seidfried, visited the condemned man's cell, in order to secure exact details of his weight, for the purpose of calculating the extent of drop necessary. Three hours afterwards he dropped dead.

Since the trial it has been developed that for three weeks, while the police were searching high and low for Schneider, he was concealed in the mansion of the Baroness Faulke, a leader of the nobility, and in which his wife was employed as a servant. He shared his wife's bed at night and hid under it during the day.

Imperial Parliament.

LONDON, Feb. 29.—During the debate in the House of Commons last night Mr. Balfour said he despised the principle of a proposal to allow schools to be used for the holding of political meetings. He invited the Government to introduce a bill dealing with the subject, on the grounds that the Government was overworked already. Later, in response to pressure, he agreed to add such a clause to another bill.

The Times comments with pity on the fact that the Government displayed indecision in the matter. "It is not an edifying spectacle," the paper says "to see ministers slowly making up their minds in public under pressure from a House which they are there to lead."

Mrs. Osborne's Case.

LONDON, Feb. 29.—Sir Charles Russell, after Mrs. Osborne pleads guilty on her trial on March 7, will appear in court to deal with the case under the First Offenders Act, which will enable the judges to release the accused under bond to reappear and undergo sentence. There is a question whether the act applies to this case. Legal opinion is that, although the charge against Mrs. Osborne is not included in the act, the judges have power to apply the principle.

Indignation in Bulgaria.

SOFIA, Feb. 29.—The death of Dr. Vulkovich, the Bulgarian agent at Constantinople, who was stabbed by an unknown assassin Wednesday night in that city, has caused a great sensation here and throughout Bulgaria. Prince Ferdinand has given orders that the court fetes be cancelled. Great indignation everywhere because of the assassination.

No Statue to Newman.

LONDON, Feb. 29.—The Duke of Norfolk, the chief Roman Catholic nobleman of England, has written a letter to the committee having the memorial of Cardinal Newman in charge, saying that in his opinion it would not be respectful to the memory of the cardinal to proceed with the erection of the proposed statue at Oxford University in view of the violent opposition raised against it. The project will therefore be abandoned.

The Queen Views Victor's Coffin.

LONDON, Feb. 29.—The Queen and Princess Beatrice drove at noon to-day from Windsor Castle to the Albert Memorial Chapel, where the remains of the Duke of Clarence and Avondale are interred, and spent a quarter of an hour viewing the coffin in which the body rests.

The Victims Number 14.

LONDON, Feb. 29.—Fourteen persons lost their lives by the sinking of the steamer Forest Queen, which was run down by the steamer Leighthorn off Flamborough yesterday.

Many Fishermen Drowned.

ORONTO, Feb. 29.—A terrific gale is raging in this vicinity. Many boats have been wrecked and it is feared that a large number of fishermen have been drowned, the number being placed as high as 200.

An Armory Raided.

DUBLIN, Feb. 29.—A raid was made on the Galway armory last night and all the naval reserves rifles and cutlasses in the building were stolen.

Dangerous Counterfeits.

Counterfeits are always dangerous, more so that they always closely IMITATE THE ORIGINAL IN APPEARANCE AND NAME. The remarkable success achieved by Nasal Balm as a positive cure for Catarrh and Cold in the head has induced unprincipled parties to imitate it. The public are cautioned not to be deceived by nostrums imitating Nasal Balm in name and appearance, bearing such names as Nasal Cream, Nasal Balsam, etc. Ask for Nasal Balm and do not take any imitation advertised or thrust upon you. Inflammation of the Eyes Cured.

Mr. Jacob D. Miller, Newbury, writes,—"I was troubled with inflammation of the eyes, so that during nearly the whole of the summer of 1892 I could not work. I took several bottles of Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery, and it gives me great pleasure to inform you that it cured me of my affliction. It is an excellent medicine for Costiveness."

He who chases two hares will catch neither.

Mr. Thomas Ballard, Syracuse, N.Y., writes,—"I have been afflicted for only a year with that most dreaded disease Dyspepsia, and at times worn out with pain and want of sleep, and after trying almost everything recommended I tried one box of Parmelee's Pills. I am now nearly well, and believe they will cure me in one hour. I continued taking it in teaspoonful doses for a few days, and have not had an attack since, now nearly one year."

Thought it a Murder.

Impressive Scene in an R. C. Church, New York.

Not long since in the body of Mrs. Susan Harrington, of No. 107 First street, Hoboken, was found in the house of her son, and he was arrested on suspicion of having had some knowledge of how she was killed. He swore that he was in bed at the time and drunk that night, and was ignorant of how she came to die. The police ascertained that the woman had been under the influence of drink and had fallen down-stairs. When Rev. Father Corrigan, of the Church of Our Lady Grace, first heard that Mrs. Harrington had died while drunk he refused her a Christian burial, but after he had thoroughly sifted the matter he decided that she was not drunk, but only somewhat under the influence when she fell. The Rev. Father Corrigan then allowed her Christian burial, though he refused solemn mass, or even a public low mass in connection with the funeral.

FUNERAL SERVICE.

During the services in the church over the body yesterday the father said: "You well know that Christian interment is ever refused to those who are known to die in moral sin, and if I was convinced that Mrs. Harrington died while drunk, I could not admit her body into the house of God. Much scandal, however, has been given by the dead and the living, mother and son, and I wish some atonement to be made to the memory of the dead in refusing the solemn rites of burial. I wish also some atonement to be made to the church and to our city for the great scandal caused by her son."

IN A DISHONORED COFFIN.

Here the priest paused for a few moments, and, directing his eyes towards the sun, who all the time knelt with his wife and children close to the bier, cried out in a loud voice: "Young man! there lies your mother in a dishonored coffin through drink, and your drunkenness has added to the dishonor of her memory. You are her only child, you alone are left to redeem your mother's name. Are you man enough to stand up here before her body and promise God that the cursed glass shall never again defile your lips! Stand up!"

HOW HE TOOK THE PLEDGE.

The whole congregation seemed for a moment spellbound, sobbing and crying, then loud cries from men as well as women of "That's right! that's right! Be a brave man, McCoy! God bless you!" greeted him as he stood up and advanced towards the altar railing and repeated the solemn words of the pledge for life. There was not a dry eye in the whole church, and even Father Corrigan's own voice betrayed his emotion as he repeated the words for McCoy: "I promise to abstain from intoxicating drink during the remainder of my life." After the services the body of Mrs. Susan Harrington was taken to the Hudson county Catholic cemetery and buried.

Alexander McDougall, the vice chairman of the Manchester Board of Guardians, estimates that the suppression of the drink traffic in the United Kingdom would end the waste which now keeps 2,750,000 people to wretchedness and poverty.

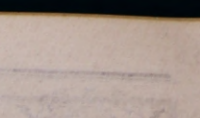

The Legislature of Tennessee has passed, by large majorities, a bill to submit the Prohibition question to the people of the State. The opinion of the people may be argued from the division in the State Senate of 31 to 2. Most of the State is already under Prohibition through the working of a law prohibiting the selling of liquor within four miles of a school.

BELLEVILLE, MONDAY, FEB 29

AT LAST.

There is in this country a very strong British sentiment that shrinks from discrimination against Great Britain.—Globe.

Yes, indeed! Strong enough to bury the candidates of Lount, Cartwright, Farrer & Co. The reflection is a just one, founded on bitter experience. Discrimination has proved, as we warned its advocates five years ago, a coin it was first launched as the Grit policy, a dead failure.

THE CAUSE.

The Winnipeg Free Press is a truly good Grit paper—an advocate of the Grit (ate unlamented) policy of unrestricted reciprocity and an ardent opponent of the Government. Commenting on the result of the elections in East Hastings and South Ontario, this very Gritty journal remarks:

We do not forget that at the general elections a year ago the trade question was made the issue, and that both these constituencies and others since lost to that party were carried by the Liberals. It may be replied, therefore, that this cannot be the cause of the present defeats. A year ago still less was understood of unrestricted reciprocity than now; the people were taking it entirely on trust from their leaders, who seemed to be united in support of it and who professed to see a way of carrying it out that would not, in any of its aspects or consequences, prove inconsistent with our relations with the Empire. Since that time, however, the people have seen that the leaders themselves were not united on the question, that the greatest of them, indeed, feeling that he could not go with the majority, felt it his duty to protest against the acceptance of such a policy and to retire from public life. This came as a shock to the Liberal masses of the country, and men have ever since been endeavoring to understand for themselves what unrestricted reciprocity really means. The great body of the party are willing to follow the leaders who still advocate it; but thousands of them, alarmed at their own misgivings as well as by the attitude taken by Mr. Blake, who is in doubt oppose it. No one need pretend that the farmers of South Ontario, Prince Edward, East Hastings and Lennox are satisfied with things as they are; they are not. But they prefer the devil they know to the devil they don't know. If this unrestricted reciprocity is a mere matter of trade with the United States they will support it. There is a suspicion, however, that there is more political as well as mercial considerations involved in it. Heavy discrimination against the mother country is one of its most conspicuous features, and that is painful to begin with. But they do not see—and their leaders are careful not to explain—how it is possible to have a solute free trade with the United States without assuming our tariff with their s, and thus formally subjecting our fiscal policy to the control of Washington. That is the great stumbling block, and until explained away th se thousands of Liberal voters who intend to remain British who ever comes will refuse to support unrestricted reciprocity. Let the party managers and organs seek as they may, here is the true explanation of these Liberal reverses.

The Free Press is wrong, to this extent, in gauging public opinion on the subject: The chief objections to the late policy of the Grits are—in addition to that stated by our contemporary—that it involves

1. Discrimination against Great Britain.
2. Separation from the Empire, with annexation as its outcome.
3. An annual loss of revenue to the amount of $18,000,000, which involves
4. Direct taxation.
5. Destruction of our manufactures, involving loss of the home market for the farmers.

BYE-ELECTION IN TWO MOUNTAINS SATURDAY.

Mr. Laurier Consistently Improves in Health—The Governor-general's Reception in the Senate Chamber—The Royal Commission Developments.

OTTAWA, Feb. 29.—Hon. J. A. Chapleau is expected to return from Florida on March 14.

The Governor-General's reception in the Senate Chamber last night was attended by over 400 people. The scene was quite brilliant. Lady Stanley stood at His Excellency's left hand while about him stood seven or eight Privy Councillors in their official dress. The band of the Governor-General's Foot Guards supplied music. Col. Gowski, A.D.C. to Her Majesty, stood at Lord Stanley's right. It was a matter of general remark that the reception was the most largely attended that has been held in many years.

Mr. Laurier is reported to be better today, but there is still some doubt as to whether he will be in his place to-morrow. It is likely, however, in any event, the consideration of the Speech from the Throne will go on.

Hon. David Mills has arrived in the city. He is the only Liberal leader with the exception of Laurier and William Patterson who has turned up. Mr. Davies of Prince Edward is detained at his home through illness.

It is understood that Hon. Mr. Landry takes the late Mr. Baillarge's place as senator for the Stadacona division. Hon. John Dobson fills the position formerly held by the late Mr. Turner.

The Insurance Bill, which Mr. R. S. White, M.P., has given notice of, is of considerable importance to those in the business. The object of the bill is to abolish all rebates on premiums of insurers and to require agents to take out licenses from the Government before transacting any business. Penalties are also provided for any infringement of the conditions upon which the licenses are obtained. The measure has been submitted to the different life insurance companies in Canada and has their cordial support.

A change has been made by order-in-council in the regulations adopted under the Naturalization Act by which it is provided that in the case of the statutory alien who obtains a certificate of re-admission to British nationality within Canada, such certificate, with the oath of allegiance required to be taken by such statutory alien or a certified copy thereof, shall be deposited and registered in the office of the Secretary of State for Canada. It is understood that the Imperial authorities urged the adoption of this regulation.

Mayor McShane Might Have Received Money from Contractors for Election Purposes—"Nothing Unusual in That."

MONTREAL, Feb. 29.—The Royal Commission resumed its labors in Montreal Saturday morning. The witnesses were called there to-day were Hon. Mr. J. A. Mercier and P. Valliéres, who had been subpœnaed, were not present, and Mr. Belleau said that they proposed to ask for an order to compel their attendance.

Mr. E. A. Macdonald of the Intercolonial Railway was the first witness put in the box. Witness had personal knowledge of payments made by J. J. Macdonald to Pacaud to the sum of $18,000. Afterwards the two became intimate and did their business direct. However, he knew indirectly that other payments were made.

Jimmy Baxter Testifies.

Mr. James Baxter was next sworn. He did not pay $3000 either to Mr. McShane or Mr. Mercier in 1887 at the request of Mr. J. P. Whelan. At the time of the Ottawa county election, in the autumn of 1887, he received a message from J. A. Mercier, after banking hours, asking if he had $3000. He did not have it, but went to the Government office, where he met with either Hon. Mr. Mercier or J. A. Mercier, and he promised to try to get the money, which was wanted for the election. He succeeded in getting the money and was afterwards repaid by a draft on Quebec. He was given a voucher in the shape of a check, the signer of which was either Hon. Mr. Mercier or Hon. Mr. McShane.

Nothing Unusual in That.

Mayor McShane testified that at the time of the Ottawa election Mr. Whelan frequently offered money. He was not present when Mr. Baxter made the advance of $3000. He never made any requests for money to Mr. Whelan, but the latter frequently offered money. He was very generous and gave money to both parties. He published a letter in the papers saying that he had never received any money from Mr. Whelan and he did not receive any for himself. He had knowledge of the payment of $2000 or $2500 by Messrs. Ford and Whelan for the Lapraire election. He also understood that Mr. Whelan gave $500 to help to pay a dinner on St. Patrick's Day given by him. Mr. Whelan was always spending money on everybody. He gave $100 towards the election of Mr. Fouriet in Montreal. He might have received money from contractors for election purposes; there was nothing unusual about that. He himself had subscribed money to the Conservative fund in 1890. He might give the names. He did not receive money from Charlebois in 1887.

In answer to Mr. Macmaster, witness said that he never had any relation on money matters with Hon. J. A. Mercier. He never had anything to do with Beaupré. He had always kept clear of all irregular transactions, and he intended continuing on the same path for the rest of his life.

Mercier's Private Account.

Mr. Demers, of the Jacques Cartier Bank next produced Mr. Mercier's account at his bank in February, 1891, which showed that in the week of Feb. 16 to 24 $40,000 were placed to his credit, among which were the $25,000 from the Langlais transaction. After these $25,000 had been transferred to Mr. Mercier, Mr. Mercier had a balance in the bank of $10,700.

Mr. Pendergast of the Hochelaga Bank was again called and produced a statement that the product of Breton's letter of credit was paid to Ald. Joseph Brunet upon his signing the discount slip.

The Commission then adjourned to Monday, at 10 o'clock, in this city.

CAN SUCH THINGS BE?

A Shocking Case Reported From the County of Glengarry.

CORNWALL, Feb. 28.—The result of the coroner's inquest at St. Raphael led to the arrest of the man Flaro and his daughter Josephine and their subsequent commitment for trial at the spring assizes in Cornwall. The girl, Josephine Flaro, who is but 16 years of age, lives about two miles west of St. Raphael's church and has been attending school at the above place. Last week she complained to the teacher of feeling unwell and retired from her studies. About 20 minutes later she returned and took her place in the class and remained till school was dismissed, when she walked home, a distance of about two miles. It afterwards transpired that a little infant body was found in the outhouse adjoining the girl's home. A coroner's inquest was immediately held by Hon. Senator McMillan and it was proven that the child had been born alive. Suspicion pointed very strongly to Josephine Flaro and her arrest followed. Subsequently she confessed to the whole affair and stated on oath that the father was the father of the child. The father strongly denies his guilt.

Did They Go Over Niagara?

NIAGARA FALLS, Feb. 29.—All sorts of wild rumors were floating about town yesterday that two men in a boat had been seen to pass down the rapids and over the falls, but Benjamin Bigelow, a hack driver, who was driving a party of strangers around Goat Island, made the statement that while thus engaged he met a man and his wife, who told him in an excited manner that they had seen two men in a boat shoot down the river beyond the Three Sister Islands.

Another sightseer also claimed to have seen the boat and the men in it going toward the Horseshoe Falls. The park police have been unable to find any trace of a boat below the cataract. The whirlpool will be watched to-day.

To Build a Big Paper Mill.

NIAGARA FALLS, Feb. 29.—The largest paper and pulp-making plant in the world is to be built on the Niagara River by the Niagara Falls Paper Company will be the style of the owners. This company was formerly known as the Soo Paper Company. The company has signed a lease for 3000 horse-power to be furnished this fall. The lease extends to the year 1950. As the tunnel will be completed by July, the power will be ready for them then. The plant will consist of 20 large buildings and will occupy 14 acres of ground. The cost will be about $5,000,000. This company has in contemplation the use of underground chambers for grinding purposes. The wheel pit will be 140 feet deep and 14x40 feet wide. It will be connected with the big tunnel by a tunnel 500 feet long, 10 feet high and 12 feet wide.

Wiles of the Lottery Men.

CHICAGO, Feb. 29.—"The Lottery Company's move in obtaining a charter or concession from the Government of Nicaragua is simply a preparation for possible defeat at the next Louisiana election," said J. B. Planche, of New Orleans to-day. "If the next Legislature should wipe out the Louisiana concern the lottery officials would run the Central American institution. It is not intended to do business at all except in Nicaragua. The United States and Canada are the lottery's friends. It will merely use Nicaragua as a fulcrum on which to rest the lever with which it will continue to raise the money out of the pockets of its American victims. If the Louisiana Legislature can be 'handled' as usual, business will be continued at the old stand, New Orleans, where the Central American scheme will be utilized to pull in more cash by the sale of stock, just as the alleged Mexican Lottery was used some months ago, when shares were advanced from $40 to $400 in two months."

Alles Samee White Man.

OTTAWA, Feb. 29.—The equalities of British law were well illustrated in the Ex chequer Court yesterday. Seven suits for damages against the crown for expropriation of lands for the C.P.R. in British Columbia were entered for hearing, when Judge Burbidge goes west this summer. Among them was one taken by a Chinese quatity, entitled compensation for the loss of his land and sod dwelling. The other plaintiffs were all Canadians, yet they had no advantage over the Mongolian.

Could Not Tell Her Sex.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Feb. 29.—A strange creature was discovered by Geo. Buchman Saturday on application of 15 physicians, who declared their inability to determine what sex the creature is and that there is no suitable place to confine him or her. The convict's name is Hannah Box, age 19, and by all appearances, as far as face, hands and feet go, she is a woman. Hannah was dressed as a man, but objected to being placed with either men convicts.

CRUELTIES IN THE ARMY.

FRIGHTFUL TALES OF CRUELTIES TO SOLDIERS

A Report by Prince George Results in the Commitment of Numerous Officers to Prison—Many of the Privates Sent to Hospital as a Result of Ill-Treatment.

DRESDEN, Feb. 29.—Since the organization of the German army after the Imperial coronation in Versailles no military announcement has created such a sensation as the order of Prince George of Saxony, heir to his uncle's crown, regarding the cruelties in the army. Coming as it does from a royal prince and the commanding general of the Saxon army corps the effect of the exposure is all the more startling. The report discloses a state of things in the army which takes credibility and almost persuades the reader that he is perusing an account of the horrors of barbarous and atrocities.

The reports show that recruits, many of them old men, have suffered chastisement regularly for months, every week and even every day. They have received, "as a means of discipline," as many as 50 blows; they have been forced to bend their knees, present arms or hold out the "schemel" (a heavy three-legged chair or stool) at arms' length so long that they have fainted from exhaustion. Such instances have occurred with especial frequency in the Regiment No. 12, Fest Artillery, and Infantry Regiment No. 1050. The following instances will give an idea of the extent of the cruelty and lack of human feeling:

"Sub-Sergeant Hoffman (of the First Company of the same regiment) ordered the weak Huebers, in company with Sandley, almost daily to receive as many as 150 blows with a boot or the hilt of a sword, and to exercise until they were unable to move when he had gone through the manual of arms 1889 times, counting about each time. Dobert Schlegel received similar and had to be taken to the hospital for treatment.

A Shirt Tale Parade.

"Sergeant Zehme of the First Company of the same regiment, in January, 1890, forced his men to be put up in the public place on their helmets and side-arms, and otherwise clad only in their shirts, practice the double quick step for half an hour. The same sergeant gave his men lighted cigars, and then ordered them to continue the double-quick step while he counted fifty, requiring that the cigars be entirely smoked up at the end of that time. Once again, during the same day his supper, he ordered his men to bend their knees 1800 times, at the same time requiring them to hold the schemel in their outstretched hands.

"Sub-Sergeant Liebing, while still in bed one morning, commanded the recruit Bischof to practice with the schemel, holding it at arm's length and then drawing it towards the body before him. He forced his men when he went too slowly. After the practice had been continued for almost an hour and Bischof was almost exhausted, Liebing poured a pitcher of cold water over him, struck him on the head with a leather belt, causing bloody wounds and then continued his chastisement with a whip until it was broken and Bischof's legs were swollen and covered with sores. In consequence of this treatment, Bischof lost his senses and was taken to the hospital.

Clubbed With a Gun.

"Sub-Sergeant Lobel of the Fourth Company of the 105th Infantry Regiment, becoming angry because the recruit Seifert failed to hold his gun properly, struck him with the gun so hard on the shoulders that his collar bone was fractured. The bones in his arm became so swollen that he could not use it for a long time. Lobel prevented for several days the announcement of Neubert's injury, and in order to forego the impending punishment attempted to kill himself. Despite the wound inflicted upon himself he struck the hospital servant Ritter, who discovered the cause of Neubert's sufferings, a number of times in the face.

Boxing the Ears of the Awkward Squads.

"Sergeant Pflug of the Seventh Company of the 104th Regiment is in the list of under-officers who have specially distinguished themselves by misusing their soldiers. His troops, during almost the whole time that they belonged to the 'awkward squads,' had their ears boxed either by himself or at his orders. Often he obliged them to spring upon their trunks or chests and then practise the bending of the knees. They received blows in case they did not get up rapidly enough. Once when inspecting the clothes of the troops he found that they had to be believed were too greasy. He had the faces of the owners rubbed with the shoes. At another time he forced them to place their dirty stockings in their mouths and chew upon them for four or five minutes."

After recounting a number of other astounding instances of outrage and cruelty, the Prince's report declares that the subofficers who have been punished have been dealt with mildly. Sergeant Weise, he adds, had been degraded from his rank and sentenced to only two years in prison; Hoffman had been sentenced to two years and three months' imprisonment; Zehme to three years and disgrading; Geilsdorf to four and one-half years, and Pflug to five years. The Prince declares their actions "contrary to every human and military law"—in the highest terms, and declares that they have broken the spirit of obedience and devotion in the army and cause discontent.

In ending his remarkable paper, Prince George calls upon all men to aid him in bringing about the reforms which he has undertaken, and to raise the standard of the army to a high standard. Further in regard of the army rules and inhuman treatment by officers of whatever rank will be punished by the severest punishment allowed by the law.

A Street Railway Strike and Its Effects.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Feb. 29.—No less than a dozen riots have occurred here since Saturday at 6 o'clock. Mayor Weise, he adds, had been degraded from his rank and sentenced to only two years in prison; Hoffman had been sentenced to two years and three months' imprisonment; Zehme to three years and disgrading; Geilsdorf to four and one-half years, and Pflug to five years. The Prince declares their actions "contrary to every human and military law"—in the highest terms, and declares that they have broken the spirit of obedience and devotion in the army and cause discontent.

A Street Railway Strike and Its Effects.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Feb. 29.—No less than a dozen riots have occurred here since Saturday at 6 o'clock. Mayor Sullivan ordered out the police to assist in the running of the cars. The strikers fought every car that passed, and at 7 o'clock three cars had been overturned in the gutters. By 8 o'clock the mobs on the different lines numbered 10,000 men, and business generally was stopped. The police force is composed only of 100 men. So far clubs have been the only weapons used, but the fever of the mob is increasing.

A New Immigration Scheme.

OTTAWA, Feb. 29.—Mr. Richard Seeman and Mr. F. H. Brydges, secretary of the Manitoba and Northwestern Railway Company, had an interview yesterday with the Deputy-Minister of the Interior Department in reference to the settlement of a large number of Germans from North Russia in Germany along the line of the railway. Mr. Seeman has had great experience in locating immigrants under an agreement with the Brazilian Government, and claims to have transported nearly 50,000 persons from various European countries to Brazil in five years.

A Terrible Death.

CHATHAM, N.B., Feb. 29.—A terrible tragedy occurred at the pulp mill Friday morning. Gustav Anderson was sent into the blow off tank of one of the digesters (boilers in which pulp is cooked in a chemical solution) and Stephen McDonald, who was sent to turn steam into another digester, blunderingly opened the blow-off valve of the one connected with the tank in which Anderson was working. The boiling pulp and acid burst in on him under a pressure of 70 pounds of steam and at a temperature of 280 degrees, choking and cooking the life out of him instantly.

WALL PAPER!

Can It Be Possible!!!

after all the advertising we have done, that there is a single individual in this county, who is able to read who does not know that Scantlebury handles and sells Wall Paper the year round.

Of course, there are seasons with us that are busier than others, as in all lines of trade, but a house handling Wall Paper as we do and employing as expert as we do the year round, must of necessity sell goods every business day of the year.

Now, our Wall Paper trade is as separate from our other business as if it were three blocks away instead of under the one roof. We have a man devoting his time entirely to the management of th s department, constantly studying new effects in colorings and designs, always ready with suggestions to help those who have had but a limited experience in Wall Paper buying.

Our spring trade is heavier than at any other season of the year, but you never hear us grumbling at the summer, fall or even winter Wall Paper sales. We could not do so reasonably. If we did we would be ungrateful.

The people come to our warerooms and are surprised at the stock of paper in sight, and when we tell them that we have by actual count 720 pigeon holes, each containing 50 rolls of paper and no two kinds alike, by a little figuring you will find 36 450 rolls of paper, exclusive of our reserve, which will foot up to a total for thiseason of nearly 50,000 Rolls of Wall Paper.

We have a 6x6 4 smaller pigeon holes for borders, containing each an average of at least 5 rolls, making a total of 3,120, and with our reserve, nearly 3,500 Rolls of Border.

We make bold to say we believe there is no house in Toronto with the same pretensions as we have, that carries a like stock to choose from and as a matter of fact the whole country at.

In summing up the benefits accruing to our patrons in the Wall Paper line we present the following:

1—New goods—every maker's make.
2—The latest economies known to the trade for showing Wall Paper.
3—Obliging and expert salesmanship—practical decorators.
4—Facilities for delivering goods promptly.
5—Constant communication with New York and other leading art centres.
6—800 different kinds of paper to choose from.
7—Illustrated and descriptive articles upon room decorations by leading artists to show you.
8—A firm devoted to their business.
9—The best-appointed Wall Paper room in Ontario outside of Toronto.
10—A desire to please everybody, a continual interest in the success you have made long after we have sold them to you, a willingness to do anything within reason to hold the good will of our customers.

Does this in'erest you?

C. B. Scantlebury,

Art Wall Papers.

NOTE—Owing to the growth of our Wall Paper trade we are unable to handle satisfactorily the window shade branch of our business and have dropped the line entirely.

THE bachelors of the city will hold an assembly to night in the Oddfellows' Hall.

The only variation in quality which will ever be found in "Myrtle Navy" tobacco is in the degree of moisture which it contains. Tobacco is a very ready absorbent of moistures, and in unusual states of the weather it may become a little too moist or a little too dry to suit the taste of some. This is a minor matter, however, as the essential quality of the tobacco is not changed. Its combustion is a little slower or a little faster according to the degree of moisture, that is all. The darker the plug the greater the moisture, and many prefer the dark. In each caddy, however, the preference for either can be met.

AMUSEMENTS

"MASTER AND MAN."

There is no race of people fonder of athletic sports of all kinds than the English, and in the centre of England—in the great manufacturing districts—where the working class can find relaxation in sports of all kind and festival days, at fairs, or any of the numerous holidays. Leaping, jumping, sprinting, sparring, acrobatic feats, all are devotees among the sturdy British workmen. The scene of the melodrama, "Master and Man," by the great dramatists, Simms & Pettitt, is laid in Lancaster, England, a section more noted than any other portion for the manly vigor of its inhabitants, and in the fair scene of the play special athletic sports are constantly introduced, without interfering with the action of the piece. Among other exciting games is the exhibition of the manly art of self defence in a friendly assault-at-arms by the celebrated athletes, Lacelles Bros. They are also the cleverest of acrobats and tumblers and have no rivals or equals in their line of business. This play will be at the Queen's Opera House Wednesday evening, March 2nd. Secure your seats at Prof. Riggs' music store and avoid the rush at the door.

LET BRIDGE ST. BE CROWDED TO THE DOORS.

The Y.P.C.A. have given to this city a first-class free reading room, library and parlor without any city aid. Give them a full house Friday, 4th inst. Read what the Toronto Globe has to say : "Bond street Congregational Church was crowded to the doors last night to hear Mrs. Sara Lord Bailey, the Boston elocutionist. Mrs. Bailey's elocutionary efforts were exceedingly fine. She has seldom, if ever, been excelled in Toronto. Bond street people were more than delighted, and showed it by their frequent encores."

ARION CLUB CONCERT.

Lovers of good music should not lose the opportunity of hearing the concert to morrow evening. The programme will be one of the best ever presented to a Belleville audience. The Toronto press speaks in highest terms of the Arion Club. Mr. Francis T. Chambers is one of the nicest baritone singers in Canada. Miss Marguerite Dunn, the clever young elocutionist, will give "The Gipsy Flower Girl" and "When the Folks are Gone," two charming recitations. Mr. I. Park, the popular comic singer, also furnishing two songs in costume. Secure seats at Riggs'.

To the Editor of the Intelligencer.

BELLEVILLE, Feb. 29, 1892.

DEAR SIR,—Kindly allow me a small space in your paper to contradict a statement made in the Chicago Horse man of January 28th, to the effect that there was only one Nutwood colt in Ontario, that being "Diplomat," owned by Scott Bros., of Caledonia, Ont. As evidence that I am justified in such contradiction, I annex the following affidavit, received by me a few days ago. Yours resp'y,

JAMES MCGUIRE.

LEXINGTON, Ky., Feb. 23, 1892.

To all whom it may concern:

This is to certify that on March 30th, 1889, I sold to James McGuire, of Ontario, Canada, the stallion "Nutgrove" (3040), by "Nutwood."

J. E. MADDEN

Personally appeared before me J. E. Maddea of Lexington, Ky., and the affiant states that the above statement is true.

"At Home."

On Friday evening last a happy company gathered at the hospitable residence of Mr. Thos. Stewart, the occasion being an "At Home" given by the Young People's Missionary Society of St. Andrew's Church, of which Mrs. Thos. Stewart is president ; the members of the Society provided a varied programme of singing, recitations, dialogue, &c. An excellent paper on India, prepared by one of the girls, was read. The Treasurer's report showed that the handsome sum of $80 had been given to missions during the past eighteen months, by the efforts of the members. Refreshments were served to all the guests. A substantial addition was made to the funds of the Society. Altogether, the first "At Home" of the Y.P. M.S. was most successful and enjoyable in every respect. The organization is composed entirely of the junior members of the Sunday School.

A Close Inspection.

A close inspection will show that we subject every stitch of boys' clothes to the most thorough handling before offering them for sale. Our prices, however low, do not necessarily cheapen the finish, for, bear in mind that all our children's, boys' and youths' suits are made by the celebrated firm of W. E. Sanford, of Hamilton, so we hold the exclusive right in Belleville to handle this firm's goods. We received and placed in stock to-day 500 suits more of this make of goods and you may depend they are nice.—OAK HALL.

A Suspicious Case.

On Saturday afternoon a young man giving his name as A. Wiggins hired a horse and cutter from Mr. H. Curry, liverman, stating that his grandmother was dead in the 3rd con. of Thurlow and he wished to drive out to the place. He has not yet returned and the owner is anxious about his property. The horse was a dark bay, with legs clipped up to the body and slightly affected with stringhalt. The cutter was a Portland design, silver railing behind. A grey and white robe was also in the vehicle.

A Genial Traveller.

The weekly Review, of Portage La Prairie, in its issue of the 24th inst. says : Mr. D. C. Roblin, traveller for H. Corby, M.P. for West Hastings, Ont., was in town over Sunday. He was returning from a business trip to the coast and left on Monday by the C.P.R. No. 2 express. On reaching home the young gentleman expects to go on an eastern trip as far as Halifax. Whether east or west he travels he is sure to make friends.

A Daring Burglar.

Thos. Geary, the notorious young burglar who operated extensively in this section of the country and finally succeeded in escaping from two constables, is in custody at Detroit. He, with a companion who gives his name as Scott, are charged with highway robbery, it being alleged that they stopped a man on a road and robbed him of his money. After the U.S. authorities are through with him he will be brought here to answer several charges.

FRANCE'S CABINET.

M. Loubet Gets Together a Ministry Which Includes Five Who Resigned.

PARIS, Feb. 29.—M. Loubet succeeded in forming a complete cabinet Saturday, M. Cavaignac accepting the Ministry of Marine and M. Ricard that of Justice. The new ministers were presented to President Carnot at the Elysee to-night. There is but little public confidence in the stability of the Cabinet, which is not considered truly representative of any combination of factions capable of commanding a majority in the chambers.

The Cabinet is as follows: M. Loubet, President of the Council and Minister of the Interior; M. DeFreycinet, Minister of War; M. Ribot, Minister of Foreign Affairs; M. Bourgeoise, Minister of Public Instruction and the Fine Arts; M. Rouvier, Minister of Finance; M. DeVelle, Minister of Agriculture; M. Roche, Minister of Commerce; M. Ricard, Minister of Justice and Public Works; M. Cavaignac, Minister of Marine.

MM. DeFreycinet, Ribot, Bourgeoise, Rouvier, DeVelle and Roche were members of the former Cabinet, in which they held the same portfolios which they will hold in the new ministry. The new Prime Minister is a staunch moderate Republican.

"PULL YOUR DAMNED ROPE."

Dick Cullen's Last Sentence Before Being Launched into Eternity.

MARSHFIELD, Mo., Feb. 29.—"Pull your damned rope." That was the sentenced with which Dick Cullen requested a party of hunters to accomplish the deed for which they had taken him out of jail last night. He was at once strung up to the limb of a tree, and in a few minutes was dead.

Four years ago a baby a few days old was found at Cullen's stepfather's door. Young Cullen thought it was intended to make the child an heir by adoption. Last Monday night he tied a car link to the neck of the child and threw it into an unused well. His mother was arrested as an accomplice on account of her indifference and evasive answers.

Personal.

Ex-Ald. J. G. Vandusen, who broke his leg recently is progressing as favorably as can be expected.

Bishop Lewis, of the diocese of Ontario, now in Egypt, is much improved in health. He will return to Canada shortly.

For several years I was persistently annoyed with an excessive accumulation of Dandruff and although using various preparations recommended and shampooing regularly once a week, no material relief was realized until my attention was called to Anti Dandruff, which has produced unlooked-for results in my case, four applications removing every particle of Dandruff, and as a specific for this trouble it certainly has no equal.

Mr. Renwick, M.D., M.R.C.S.E., Victoria, B.C., writes : I have used Miller's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil in cases of indigent patients with the most gratifying results. It does not upset the stomach, is easily assimilated and possesses undoubted power in rebuilding weakened constitutions, where the ordinary way of administering Cod Liver Oil is not admissable. For the future, whenever I have occasion to prescribe any preparation of Cod Liver Oil, I will give Miller's Emulsion the preference, being perfectly satisfied with its therapeutic efficacy. The Stone-Cutter of Lisbon

WM. HENRY PECK

"I would it were the house of some other man," muttered Prince Enrique, frowning darkly, but moving on. "I have no love for the man, nor his lofty airs. There is that in his smile which makes me long to put my dagger in his throat."

A few rapid steps carried them to the rear door of the house in question, and as the door was locked, Count Pedro, fired to desperate action by the not very distant cries of the rioters, surged against it with all his great weight, snapped the bolt of the lock, and went in headlong.

CHAPTER VI.

THE HOUSE OF THE GREEK.

The house in which Count Pedro so violently sought refuge from the rage of the rioters, was almost vacated at that moment. Its inmates, that is, the few servitors of Distro Demetrius, had been attracted to the streets and around to the vicinity of the D'Ulloa marble yards by the noise of the great conflict, and thus Distro Demetrius was the sole occupant of the building when the corpulent and terror-smitten Count dashed in the rear door and stumbled into a dark and unlighted hall, with a crash that resounded even to the upper chambers.

But before the Count was well upon his feet again, the front door of the hall, the door at its other extremity, which led to the street, was also opened, and then violently shut.

The momentary opening of the door, however, had enabled the Count and his two companions to see that a man and some four-footed animal had bounded in.

The sun by this time had gone down, so that the long, unlighted hall received but a very obscure light from a small window above the front hall door, and as Count Pedro had closed the rear door immediately after his companions had entered, it was impossible to distinguish the form and features of the man who had evidently fled from the street into that house for refuge from close pursuit.

Count Pedro and his companions remained motionless, and almost breathless. They could only surmise that the person who had entered had sunk down upon the floor, either from exhaustion or to be silent, lest if he moved, his footsteps might be heard without.

But, after an instant of profound silence a deep, ferocious growl was heard from the animal which had entered with the unknown person.

It was then plain that this animal, whatever it was, had also crouched down near the front door, and had just detected the presence of the Count and his companions at the other end of the hall.

Hist!" said a voice, in a very guarded tone, and yet with angry emphasis, "in which no little terror. "Hist, accursed brute! already, perhaps you have destroyed me."

It was now very evident that the master of the brute had not detected the presence of others in the hall, or he would not have spoken again so guardedly as he did, but have held his tongue or called out loudly.

The animal addressed responded with a growl more ferocious than before, and the man crouching near the front door dealt him a severe blow, if one might judge from the sound, saying—

"Devil take thee, Fosca! Silence, until they pass."

"Oh, thought the Count, whose blood had been turned to ice all this time, 'it is Diego Alva and his bloodhound Fosca! Ha, he said, guardedly, aloud, 'Are you there, Don Alva?"

"Silence!" hissed the superintendent of the marble-yards, for it was he, and recognizing the voice of Count Pedro even in a whisper, "the rioters are swarming with the rioters. Hark!"

As he spoke, all could hear the rapid tramp of heavy feet in the street without, and the roar of many fierce voices shouting—

"Death to Diego Alva! Death to tyrants! He went down this street! No quarter!"

The dog Fosca would have set up his hoarse bay of defiance had the hand of his master not been upon his throat, and but for Alva's hissing warning—

"Devil! Silence! Sh! Curses upon thee, hound! Have you escaped only to prevent my escape?"

In another moment it was evident that those who had so closely pursued Don Alva had spied on, ignorant that their desired prey was hidden so near them.

Don Alva, somewhat reassured, now drew nearer the Count, who, with his companions, also moved toward him. As they met groping ly in the darkness of the hall, Don Alva whispered :

"I was escaping with Senor Salvor, to whom that fellow Stonio confided me, when I was seen by several of the rioters. Had I not been forced to halt for breath, and so lost several valuable minutes, they would not have been able to make the circuit they must have made before I could have reached a safe part of the city. But they saw me; and, in fact, but for this accursed dog they would not even have seen me. Fosca has been tied up all day, but probably broke loose when the riot began and sought for me. At any rate, while the rioters who had taken upon themselves the task to make an end of me, were at fault, this evil dog—may the devil burn him!—darted by, and they yelled, 'There is his dog! follow his dog!' and they did. Senor Salvor had just left me, with my word of honor, I was on my way to the military station in street Delia Torre, when here comes this rascally brute with a score of the rioters after him. Fortunately, I had time to reach and enter this house before my pursuers could turn the corner near; and now —may the fiend seize them—they have passed on."

"Shall we remain, or go forth to continue our flight in the streets?" whispered the Count.

"If we remain," replied the Prince, 'we may be traced and put to death here like rats in a corner. Oh, for a word to the colonel commanding the royal guards."

"If we go out into the street," said Alva, 'we may at once meet struggling bands of the rioters. Senor Salvor told me, as we fled, that he feared the outbreak of other trades—the carpenters, weavers, masons; and, in fact, all other trades being in a feverish and revolutionary state. Unfortunately, there are not two thousand of the regular troops in the city, and great damage may be done before more can be called in. But is this not one of the houses of your Excellency?"

"Yes; you told me my real estate agent had leased it to a greek nobleman."

"I do not know that he is a nobleman," replied Don Alva. 'Your agent said he judged him to be one, from his lofty air, and command of gold—"

"Bah!" interrupted the Prince, scornfully. 'He is a charlatan, a quack, an impostor. I have twice been in his company, though he is quite a recent arrival in Lisbon. This house seems vacant."

"Oh, no doubt the excitement in the streets has drawn all who live here to see what is going on," said Don Alva.

But he had scarcely spoken when a door was opened at the head of the stairs which led from the hall to the story above, and a flood of light streamed down upon them.

All looked up, but found their eyes dazzled by a flaming globe of glass or crystal, which threw its rays directly upon them, without revealing who held it or was near it.

"Ascend," said a deep, measured voice from the top of the stairs. "Ascend, Prince Enrique, Count Pedro, and Don Alva; and you, too, lady Hilda."

It appears that we are all well known by somebody," said Count Pedro.

It is Distro the magician," whispered the Prince, with difficulty repressing a shudder, for, cold blooded as he was, he was very superstitious, especially as regarded Distro Demetrius, the mysterious Greek physician, astronomer, astrologist, magician, who had but very recently appeared in the Portuguese capital.

The Count, who had never seen Distro Demetrius, labored heavily up the stairs, aided by Don Alva, while Prince Enrique, whose arm Lady Hilda still refused, followed.

HIDDEN FOES.

Among the many foes to human health and happiness, dyspepsia and constipation are twin enemies greatly to be feared. With B.B.B. to drive them out of the system, however, no danger need be anticipated, as every dose brings the sufferer a long step step further on the road to perfect health and strength, and a permanent cure always results.

THE BLOOD IS THE LIFE.

Good health without pure blood is simply impossible, and to secure pure blood is therefore absolutely necessary, especially in spring, when bad blood is very prevalent. Burdock Blood Bitters is the remedy, without an equal in the world of medicine. It drives out all poisonous humors of the blood from a common pimple to the worst scrofulous sore.

In order to quiet a hacking cough, take a dose of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil thrice a day, or oftener if the cough spells render it necessary. This widely esteemed remedy also cures crick in the back, rheumatic complaints, kidney ailments, pains, etc. It is used inwardly and outwardly.

Have you tried Holloway,s Corn Cure? It has no equal for removing these troublesome excrescences, as many have testified who have tried it.

We must use or lose. The servant who buried his talent was the only one who lost it.

A WONDERFUL CHANGE.

GENTLEMEN,—For twenty years I suffered from rheumatism, dyspepsia, poor appetite, etc., and received no benefits from the many medicines I tried, but after taking five bottles of B.B.B. can eat heartily of any food, and am strong and smart. It is a grand medicine and has made a wonderful change in my health.

MRS. W. H. LEE, Harley, Ont.

Mr. H. B. McKinnon, painter, Mount Albert, says,—'Last summer my system became impregnated with the lead and turpentine used in painting; my body was covered with scarlet spots as large as a 25-cent piece, and I was in such a state that I could scarcely walk. I got a bottle of Northrop and Lyman's Vegetable Discovery, and at once commenced taking it in large doses and before one half the bottle was used there was not a spot to be seen, and I never felt better in my life."

The man who does right only because he has to, isn't much of a Christian.

The Best Pills—Mr. Wm. Vandervoort, Sidney Crossing, Ont., writes — 'We ha e been using Parmelee's Pills, and find them by far the best pills we ever used." For Delicate and Debilitated Constitutions these Pills act like a charm. Taken in small doses, the effect is both a tonic and a stimulant, mildly exciting the secretions of the body, giving tone and vigor.

The greatest blockhead is the one whose mistakes never teach him anything.
